Written Ministerial Statements

Tuesday 5 May 2009

TREASURY

Buying Solutions

The Exchequer Secretary to the Treasury (Angela Eagle): Buying Solutions has been set four performance targets for 2009-10. These are as follows:

to facilitate at least £850 million value for money improvements (£680 million cashable) for the public sector in 2009-10; to achieve an overall customer satisfaction level of above 90 per cent; to make a return on capital employed of 6.5 per cent over a five year period (April 2009 to March 2014); and to reduce by 5 per cent the ratio of internal costs over value for money improvements with the out-turn for the same ratio in 2008-09 proportionate to cashable savings.

ECOFIN

The Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Alistair Darling): The Economic and Financial Affairs Council will be held in Brussels on 5 May 2009. The following items are on the agenda:

Economic and financial situation

The European Commission forecasts to be published on 4 May will form the basis of an exchange of views between Ministers about the economic situation. The UK believes there is a continued need for member states to work together in ensuring a co-ordinated response to the crisis.

Proposal for a Regulation amending Regulation (EC) No 332/2002

Following on from the conclusions of the 19-20 March 2009 spring European Council, ECOFIN is expected to reach agreement on the Commission's proposal to amend the regulation establishing a facility providing medium-term financial assistance for member states' balances of payments, including a new lending ceiling of €50 billion for the EU balance of payments facility. The Government strongly support the principle of increased financial assistance from the EU for member states facing balance of payments difficulties.

Quality and sustainability of public finances

ECOFIN will be asked to adopt conclusions on the implementation of structural reforms to enhance the sustainability and quality of public finances, and endorse a report on age-related economic and budgetary projections for EU member states. The Government believe in the importance of sustainability and quality of public finances, particularly in the current juncture.

Five years after EU enlargement

Following on from discussions at the informal ECOFIN in April, Ministers will adopt a set of conclusions on the economic impacts of the 2004 wave of enlargement. The UK can support the conclusions, which set out the achievements and benefits of the 2004 enlargement, the importance of structural reforms and the need for resisting protectionist policies.

Dialogue with third countries

The Commission will update the Council on recent progress made on regulatory dialogues with third countries, in particular the United States, China, Japan and Russia. It will focus on reform of the regulation and supervision of the financial system, within the context of the G20.

Taxation

a) Tobacco Directive

The Council will be asked to reach a political agreement on the tobacco directive, which will set out the structure and rates of excise duties applied on manufactured tobacco products.

b) Communication on promoting good governance in tax matters

Following on from the agreements at the G20 London summit on tax havens and OECD standards, the Commission will present a communication setting out aims for improving governance of taxation issues in the EU. The communication also highlights the EU's work on improving tax transparency standards with third countries. The UK believes it is important to ensure that any new suggestions from the Commission complement the existing G20 work.

General budget of the European Union - preliminary draft budget 2010

The Commission will present the proposed EC Budget for 2010. This marks the beginning of the 2010 Annual Budget negotiations that will run until December. The UK supports a realistic budget which promotes sound financial management.

AOB

The presidency will give an update on the state of play on four financial services dossiers heading for first reading deals with the European Parliament: Solvency II, the e-money directive, the cross-border payments regulation and the regulation on credit rating agencies.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Planning Casework Performance

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Sadiq Khan): The Planning and Compulsory Purchase Act 2004 requires the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government to set and meet a timetable for the majority of planning cases which are to be decided by her (as opposed to being decided by a planning inspector) and to make a report to Parliament each year on performance. This is intended both to ensure that such cases are dealt with expeditiously and to enable the parties to any particular case to know when they can expect to receive a decision.

The Secretary of State has accordingly today laid before Parliament an Act Paper reporting on performance on all decisions made between 1 April 2008 and 31 March 2009 to which statutory timetables apply. Such timetables apply to decisions on called-in planning applications; planning appeals recovered for the Secretary of State's decision; other cases "linked" to such decisions (including listed building consent and conservation area consent); and appeals against refusals of consent for works to trees covered by tree preservation orders. They do not apply to cases decided by inspectors (which includes all tree preservation order appeals lodged on or after 1 April 2008) or to cases decided by the Secretary of State jointly with a Minister of another Department.

During the period from 1 April 2008 to 31 March 2009, 73 (95 per cent.) of the 77 cases decided by the Secretary of State other than tree preservation order appeals were made within their statutory timetables, as were 415 out of 416 decisions (99.75 per cent.) of tree preservation order appeals.

Planning

The Minister for Housing (Margaret Beckett): I am today publishing a consultation on proposals for a new Planning Policy Statement 4: "Planning for Prosperous Economies" (PPS4). Copies of the consultation are being placed in the Library of the House.

The planning system is a key lever the Government have to contribute towards improving economic performance. The current uncertain economic times have highlighted the need for planning policies at the national, regional and local level to be flexible and responsive so that they support the economic aspirations of our communities, whether in cities, market towns or rural villages.

In light of this and in keeping with our commitment in our 2007 Planning White Paper and the recommendations of the Killian Pretty review, this comprehensive new draft statement brings together in one place all of the Government's key planning policies relating to the economy and streamlines and simplifies policy to focus on what is important to allow the economy to grow in a sustainable manner.

The new PPS will, in its final form, replace Planning Policy Guidance Note 4: "Industrial, commercial development and small firms" (PPG4, 1992), Planning Policy Guidance Note 5: "Simplified Planning Zones" (PPG5, 1992), Planning Policy Statement 6: "Planning for town centres" (PPS6, 2005), Planning Policy Statement 7: "Sustainable development in rural areas" (PPS7) (in so far as it relates to economic development) and paragraphs 53, 54 and Annex D of Planning Policy Guidance Note 13: "Transport".

At the heart of our policy is the requirement that development plans need to have clear, proactive, proportionate and flexible policies aimed at supporting the start up and growth of businesses, attracting inward investment and increasing employment, particularly in deprived areas. It emphasises that we need also to protect existing investment in our cities and towns by safeguarding the town centres which are the bedrock of our economic future. Our urban centres are not only the engine of the country's economy—and through their urban renaissance policy this Government have strengthened the future of many such centres after years of decline—but are also the hub of community life, helping to stitch together communities through cultural, leisure, social and educational facilities.

The policy statement continues to put town centres first by ensuring that development continues to take place in town centres and promotes their vitality, viability and character. As previously consulted on in draft PPS6, we have removed the "need test" for proposals outside town centres but retained the "sequential test" which requires developers to justify why they cannot build in the centre before they seek to build out of town and strengthened the "impact test" to focus on the potential economic, social and environmental effects of development.

The revised policy also implements a number of recommendations arising from the review by the hon. Member for Truro and St.Austell (Matthew Taylor) of rural housing and economic development. The Government agree with his key finding that we need a more subtle appreciation of what makes rural communities sustainable, and that rural communities, as much as urban areas, need to plan for change in the face of new economic, environmental and demographic pressures. In bringing together our policies on economic development in town and country into one policy statement we are emphasising in the rural context what is taken for granted in urban contexts: that economic sustainability is a prerequisite for social and environmental sustainability.

Similarly, we are responding to the thrust of the recommendations made in the advice provided to the Prime Minister by Stuart Burgess, the Rural Advocate. We see both the Rural Advocate's report and the Taylor review as important elements of a growing consensus which recognises the economic opportunities offered by rural areas and the contribution they make to the economy at large.

The draft statement does not include any specific proposals for a 'competition test' that was recommended by the Competition Commission. In June 2008, Tesco PLC challenged the Commission's recommendation in the Competition Appeal Tribunal. In March 2009, the application by Tesco was allowed and the recommendation quashed. The Tribunal unanimously concluded that the Commission, in its report, had failed properly to consider certain matters which were relevant to its recommendation that the competition test be imposed as part of a package of remedies to address the adverse effect on competition identified by the Commission. The Government will await the Competition Commission's reconsideration of the issue before deciding how to proceed.

The proposed changes I am setting out today will play a part in facilitating sustainable economic growth in urban and rural areas and ensuring our town centres thrive for years to come. The consultation closes on 28 July 2009.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

General Affairs and External Relations Council

The Minister for Europe (Caroline Flint): My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary represented the UK at the General Affairs and External Relations Council in Luxembourg.

The agenda items covered were as follows:

GENERAL AFFAIRS

http://www.consilium.europa.eu/uedocs/cms data/docs/pressdata/en/gena/107418.pdf

Croatia-Enlargement

The Council took stock of the progress of accession negotiations with Croatia, focusing on the bilateral territorial dispute between Croatia and Slovenia, with the latter blocking the nine chapters ready for opening or closing. Commissioner Rehn briefed on his efforts to find a solution and set out a compromise proposal, which received widespread support.

The presidency called on both sides in the border dispute to show political will and a constructive approach in finding a compromise. They stressed the urgency of the issue and hoped that both sides would be able to respond to the Commission's latest proposal by early May. The Government endorse the presidency's approach and support the efforts of Commissioner Rehn to facilitate a mutually acceptable solution to the territorial dispute so that accession negotiations can move forward.

Employment and Energy Summits

The presidency briefed on the preparations for the 7 May Employment summit and the Southern Corridor summit on 8 May. The aim of the former summit, which the Government support, is to equip the EU's labour markets for future economic recovery.

The Southern Corridor summit will follow up the spring European Council's call for diversification of sources and routes of energy supplies demonstrating the EU's strong political support for the development of the Southern Corridor through concrete actions. It will give a strong message that the EU and Southern Corridor partner countries are prepared to enhance their relations, particularly in the energy and transport fields. The Government strongly welcome the summit and the draft joint declaration.

EXTERNAL RELATIONS

The full text of Council conclusions (including A points) can be accessed at: http://www.consilium.europa.eu/uedocs/cmsdata/docs/pressdata/en/gena/107419.pdf

Eastern Partnership Summit

The presidency requested high-level representation at the summit, arguing that recent political difficulties in Moldova, Ukraine and elsewhere showed that these countries needed greater EU attention.

European Neighbourhood Policy

Commissioner Ferrero-Waldner presented the 23 April Commission Communication on the implementation of ENP in 2008, and the accompanying set of ENP country progress reports. There was no discussion.

Burma

The presidency announced the adoption of the EU's common position renewing restrictive measures for a further 12 months, which the Government strongly support.

EU Foreign Ministers also adopted conclusions, which the Government also welcome, expressing concern about the human rights situation; underlining the EU's commitment to promoting political, social and economic reform in Burma-Myanmar; and urging the Government of Burma-Myanmar to engage meaningfully with the UN Secretary General's good offices mission.

Sri Lanka

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary thanked Commissioner Ferrero-Waldner for her positive and active engagement. He announced that he would visit Sri Lanka on 29 April to call for urgent action by the Government of Sri Lanka (GoSL) and the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) to avoid further civilian casualties and avert a humanitarian disaster; inside the conflict zone, civilians remained trapped by the fighting; the reported intimidation and killings by the LTTE were completely unacceptable; outside, internally displaced persons desperately needed full access to humanitarian assistance.

The Council adopted conclusions based on a UK text, which: noted the LTTE's announcement of a unilateral cease-fire; called for an immediate humanitarian cease-fire to allow safe evacuation of civilians trapped in the conflict zone; welcomed the reported announcement by GoSL of an end to heavy military operations; welcomed the visit of Sir John Holmes, UN Commissioner for Humanitarian Affairs; and repeated calls on GoSL to proceed urgently towards an inclusive and peaceful political process.

Middle East Peace Process (MEPP)

Discussion focussed on the EU's key messages to the parties. Ministers agreed on the importance of supporting a two-state solution and the integration of the Arab peace initiative, encouraging adherence to road map commitments, in particular on settlements, and urging Israel to open the crossings into Gaza.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary stressed the importance of pursuing our existing policy with more vigour and clarity; our focus should be on action not words.

The presidency concluded that there was a consensus behind the EU's overriding message of support for a two-state solution. There were no conclusions.

Migration in the Mediterranean

This item was added to the agenda at the request of Malta and Italy, following a dispute between the two member states concerning the fate of 140 migrants rescued in nearby waters on 16 April. They expressed concerns about the issue of illegal migration across the Mediterranean, pointing out that it was a problem for the EU as a whole.

The UK is equally concerned about the increasing flows of illegal migrants through the Mediterranean region, many of whom transit through Libya before reaching Europe. In the last 12 months there have been approximately 34,000 illegal migrants entering Europe by sea on this route. We are working closely with our European partners, in particular Italy and Malta, to develop an effective framework for co-operation on border control with Libya.

Somalia-Piracy

This was added at Belgium's request following an attack upon a Belgian-flagged merchant vessel by pirates off the Somali coast on 18 April. Ministers discussed the recent surge in pirate activity off the coast of Somalia, and welcomed the positive action being taken by the EU counter-piracy operation ATALANTA in response.

EU-US summit follow-up

Ministers discussed the main issues arising from the recent EU-US summit, in particular Iran and Afghanistan-Pakistan.

High Representative Solana updated on his contacts with the Iranians following the E3+3's invitation to meet them. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary underlined the need for the EU to adopt a robust approach in support of the US Administration's decision to engage with Iran. Solana agreed that the EU should be ready to act.

Ministers also adopted conclusions on Iran, which the Government welcome, supporting the new direction of US policy; and calling upon Iran to engage seriously with the international community in order to find a negotiated solution to the nuclear issue which will address its national interests, while noting that the evolution of the EU's relations with Iran will also depend on it.

On Afghanistan-Pakistan, High Representative Solana said there was a need for the EU to be more creative on Pakistan. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary underlined the importance of a successful EU-Pakistan Summit in June. The Commission noted its contribution of €40 million (£36 million) to the Afghanistan elections.

Ukraine

The presidency introduced a discussion of the unstable political situation. There were no conclusions.

Moldova

High Representative Solana reported on his visit to Chisinau in the previous week. He said it was important the EU kept engaging with Moldova, through the Eastern Partnership and by negotiating a "New Agreement". Ministers welcomed the efforts of the High Representative, presidency and EU Special Representative in bringing about agreement that the Moldovan Government would enter into a political dialogue with the Opposition, and conduct an inquiry into the human rights abuses that followed the post-election protests. There were no conclusions.

AOB

Durban Review Conference

Some member states expressed concerns about the lack of a co-ordinated EU approach to the Durban review conference. My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary encouraged EU engagement in similar fora along with the Africans and others who had supported some of our positions in the negotiations.

Human Rights and Public Diplomacy

The Swedish Foreign Minister put forward proposals for publicising the EU's work on human rights. The presidency agreed to refer the issue to officials for further work.

Swine Influenza

The Commission debriefed Ministers on actions taken in response to the outbreak of swine influenza in Mexico. An extraordinary meeting of Health Ministers would be held on 30 April in Luxembourg.

JUSTICE

Service Personnel (Inquests)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Justice (Bridget Prentice): My right hon. Friend the Minister for the Armed Forces and I wish to make the following statement to the House about the inquests of service personnel who have died overseas. Our sincere condolences go to the families of the 13 service personnel who have lost their lives in service of their country since the last statement, and our thoughts and prayers remain with all the families whose loved ones have died on operations.

Today, we are announcing the progress that has been made since the Written Ministerial Statement on 2 February 2009, Official Report, column 37WS, with information about the conduct of inquests by the Wiltshire and Swindon and other coroners. This statement gives the position at 27 April.

The tables which accompany this statement again include information about those cases which involve a board of inquiry or a service inquiry.

PROGRESS WITH INQUESTS

At the time of the last statement, we reported that 220 inquests had been held since June 2006: 206 into the overseas deaths of service personnel and 14 into the deaths of civilians in Iraq whose bodies were repatriated via RAF Brize Norton or RAF Lyneham.

Since 27 January a further 10 inquests have been held into the deaths of service personnel who died in operations in Iraq or Afghanistan. This makes a total of 230 inquests held since June 2006.

Since operations commenced in 2001 there have been a total of 254 inquests into the deaths of service personnel who lost their lives in Iraq and Afghanistan, including four service personnel who died in the UK of their injuries. In two further cases, no formal inquest was held, but the deaths were taken into consideration during inquest proceedings for those who died in the same incident.

We remain very grateful for the efforts of all the coroners involved in conducting these inquests and unswerving in our support of the independent coronial system.

Our Departments continue to work closely together, and with the coroners, to review the way in which the system is working and to look for opportunities, prior to the implementation of the coroners' legislation which is currently before Parliament in the Coroners and Justice Bill, to make improvements for the benefit of the bereaved families.

On 17 March the Government tabled amendments to the Coroners and Justice Bill, which will have the effect of enabling fatal accident inquiries to take place in Scotland into the deaths of service personnel killed on operations overseas. This reflects our commitment to support bereaved service families and will mean that families in Scotland will no longer, in most cases, have to travel to England for inquests.

OPEN INQUESTS

i. Pre-31 March 2007 Fatalities

The statement in February reported that there was one remaining inquest to be held into a death where the body was repatriated via RAF Brize Norton prior to 31 March 2007—that into the death of Marine Wigley. That remains the position and the inquest will be heard for five days starting on 11 May.

ii. Post-1 April 2007 Fatalities

Since October 2007, additional resources have been provided by the Government to ensure that a backlog of inquests will not build up in the Wiltshire and Swindon jurisdiction (since 1 April 2007 fatalities are repatriated via RAF Lyneham). The coroner transfers inquests for service personnel to a coroner closer to the bereaved family, where possible. David Masters retired as the Wiltshire and Swindon coroner on 31 March but his successor, David Ridley, has appointed him as an assistant deputy coroner to ensure that his experience and expertise is retained.

There are 71 inquests to be concluded into the deaths of service personnel who died in Iraq and Afghanistan whose bodies were repatriated after 1 April 2007 (33 involving deaths in the last six months). Of these, Mr Ridley has retained 38 inquests, while 33 inquests are being conducted by coroners closer to the next-of-kin. Inquest hearing dates have been set in 11 of these cases.

iii. Inquests into the deaths of service personnel who returned home injured

There remain three inquests to be held of service personnel who returned home injured and subsequently died of their injuries.

We shall continue to keep the House informed about progress with the remaining inquests. I have placed tables in the Library of the House which outline the status of all cases and date of death of each case. Copies are also available in the Vote Office and the Printed Paper Office.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Equal Treatment Directive (Consultation)

The Minister for Women and Equality (Ms Harriet Harman): We are today beginning a UK consultation on the European Commission proposal for an equal treatment directive. The consultation will end on 28 July 2009. The consultation document seeks views to inform the UK Government's further consideration of a proposed European Commission (EC) directive to prohibit discrimination on the grounds of religion or belief, disability, age and sexual orientation outside the areas of employment and vocational training.

The UK Government wish to consult in particular on the impact of the draft directive in those areas where their proposals are, or might be, at variance with the current and proposed law, and on the impact of the proposals on individuals, business and others.

The written consultation is being supplemented by a range of discussions with key stakeholders bilaterally and members of the public through public consultation events.

The consultation document is being sent to around 300 organisations and will be available on the website of the Government Equalities Office at: www.equalities.gov.uk/international/eu_directive.aspx

I am also placing copies in the Vote Office and in the Libraries of the House.

Written Ministerial Statements

Wednesday 6 May 2009

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Tipping and the National Minimum Wage

The Minister for Employment Relations and Postal Affairs (Mr. Pat McFadden): Today we have announced our response to our consultation regarding the change of regulation relating to the use of service charges, gratuities, tips and cover charges in use in payment of the national minimum wage.

Since the National Minimum Wage Act came into force in 1999, it has created a level playing field for employers in the payment of wages and an essential safety net for vulnerable low-paid workers. Through this we have seen a better rewarded and more committed workforce who have been a force in driving up standards.

Under the 1999 Act, the use of service charges, gratuities, tips and cover charges may count towards payment of the national minimum wage in certain circumstances. Some 10 years on, we believe that the time is right to review this practice to ensure equity for workers in receipt of the national minimum wage and a level playing field in the payment wages among employers.

In July 2008 we announced that we would be amending national minimum wage regulation to prevent the use of tips towards the payment of the national minimum wage. Alongside this we recognised a need for greater transparency for consumers about what is happening to the tips they leave.

We have now consulted on these issues, and we thank all those who responded for their input. The majority of the respondents to our consultation supported the change. Taking this into account and evidence gathered as part of our impact assessment, we believe that now is the right time to make this change. It is our intention that from 1 October 2009 that use of service charges, gratuities, tips and cover charges will be no longer be permitted in payment of the national minimum wage. We will also continue to work with interested parties in developing a way of making information available to consumers. This will include a code of best practice for sectors affected by the change.

I have arranged for copies of the Government's response to the consultation to be placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Automotive Assistance

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (Ian Pearson): The Government have today agreed to make available a one-off £5 million bridging loan facility to prevent LDV going into administration, and to facilitate the purchase of the company by Weststar of Malaysia.

Weststar's proposed purchase of LDV offers the only credible chance of keeping this manufacturing plant in the UK, sustaining UK jobs and a platform for future model development.

EDUCATION AND SKILLS

Safeguarding Arrangements (Independent Schools, Non-maintained Special Schools and Boarding Schools)

The Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (Ed Balls): On 24 March I welcomed "Keeping our School Safe", Sir Roger Singleton's review of safeguarding arrangements in independent schools, non-maintained special schools and boarding schools in England. His careful and thorough report showed that the current framework generally works well, but that there are elements that need to be reviewed and updated. Since the initial response was published we have considered each recommendation in more detail and consulted schools, Ofsted and the other independent school inspectorates about implementation arrangements. We are grateful for the assistance and support we have received from those organisations that represent schools covered by the review.

We have already accepted all the recommendations in the review, and our initial response set out the immediate steps we were taking to implement those things that could be done straight away. Our more detailed response published today sets out specific time scales and steps that we will take to ensure that, over time, every recommendation is considered carefully and implemented in a way that realises safeguarding benefits without imposing undue complexity, cost and bureaucracy. We will continue to work closely with key stakeholders in implementing the plan, to ensure that the strengthened arrangements set out in the report are realised collaboratively and in a way that recognises the diversity of the independent school, non-maintained special school and boarding school sectors.

Copies of our detailed response have been laid in the Library of the House.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Laming Report

The Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (Ed Balls): Today the Government are publishing a comprehensive action plan in response to Lord Laming's report, "The Protection of Children in England: A Progress Report".

Ministers announced to Parliament on 12 November that we had asked Lord Laming to prepare an independent report of progress being made in the delivery of arrangements to protect children, and to identify any barriers to effective, consistent implementation and how these might be overcome. On 12 March, Lord Laming published his report which the Government welcomed and to which we responded immediately, accepting all his recommendations and taking swift, decisive action to begin to take them forward.

Lord Laming's report confirmed that robust legislative, structural and policy foundations are in place and that there is a widespread consensus that our "Every Child Matters" reforms set the right direction. He underlined the progress that has been made and the positive difference that people working with children, particularly those most at risk, are making every day. But he was also clear that there needs to be "a step change in the arrangements to protect children from harm". He challenged us all—central Government, local government, national and local partners, and the public—to do more.

Lord Laming's report set out a comprehensive set of recommendations to ensure best practice is universally applied in every area of the country, to strengthen national and local leadership and accountability, and to provide more support to local leaders and for the front-line work force. The Government began immediately to act on his recommendations:

We appointed Sir Roger Singleton, from 1 April, as the first ever Chief Adviser on the Safety of Children to advise Government on strategic priorities and the effective implementation of safeguarding policy.

We committed to establishing a new National Safeguarding Delivery Unit to drive continuous improvement in front-line practice across all services, and provide support and challenge to every local authority and every Children's Trust as they fulfil their safeguarding responsibilities.

We confirmed that we would revise the statutory guidance, "Working Together to Safeguard Children", to reflect Lord Laming's recommendations to strengthen policy and practice, including in relation to serious case reviews.

We announced that we would strengthen the challenge role of Local Safeguarding Children Boards (LSCBs), clarify the relationship between Children's Trusts and LSCBs, and that LSCBs should in future be independently chaired.

We committed to opening up the child protection system to greater public scrutiny by requiring every LSCB in the country to appoint two members of the general public to its board.

We announced immediate measures to improve support for front-line social workers, address recruitment and retention, and to begin to raise the morale of the profession.

We appointed Francis Plowden to lead an independent review into court fees in public law cases brought under the Children Act 1989 to establish whether they are a barrier to social workers taking legal action to ensure the safety of a child.

We confirmed that we would be reviewing the range of safeguarding targets and publish a new framework for safeguarding targets in autumn 2009.

Today's action plan sets out the Government's detailed response to Lord Laming's report, addressing every one of his 58 recommendations, to deliver the step change which he has called for. Sir Roger Singleton has advised us on the development of this action plan and has written to me welcoming our response to Lord Laming and setting out his future role and priorities as Chief Adviser. Sir Roger will submit his first annual report to Parliament, reporting on progress nationally including the delivery of the actions we are setting out today, in April 2010. I am establishing a new ministerial sub-group of the Cabinet Sub-Committee on Children, Young People and Families which will meet quarterly, with Sir Roger, to keep progress under review.

Sir Roger has announced an expert group to support him in his role as Chief Adviser and he will work with us to establish the new cross-Government national safeguarding delivery unit which will be operational by July 2009. We will also be establishing a partnership network to work with the unit and the Chief Adviser to pursue specific issues impacting on effective front-line safeguarding practice.

Earlier this year, we established the Social Work Task Force to carry out a nuts and bolts review to boost the confidence and capacity of the social work profession. The Task Force is today publishing its initial advice. It covers how we should implement Lord Laming's recommendations on social work, how we should reform the Integrated Children's System, and the key challenges which the Task Force sees in reforming and renewing the social work profession over the coming months.

I strongly welcome the Task Force's advice. We are already investing £73 million in social work reform and I am announcing today a new £58 million 'Social Work Transformation Fund' to provide an immediate boost for social work training and support as well as recruitment and retention, with a particular focus on those new to the profession by:

Sponsoring 200 university places from September so that the brightest and highest achieving graduates, from any discipline, can sign up to conversion courses to become part of the social work profession.

A new recruitment campaign specifically targeting potential returnees to give the current work force a boost from qualified social workers who may have left the profession. The campaign will start this month with former social workers able to access information online, and from July, through a new helpline to help social workers link up to LAs with vacant posts. Our aim is that there should be 500 social workers back in the workplace as early as this autumn, supported by refresher training where they need it.

Rolling out the successful newly qualified social workers (NQSW) pilots so that all new social workers joining statutory and voluntary services this September, and all overseas children's qualified social workers who need it, can receive high quality supervision and protected time for training to support them in becoming confident and competent in their first year of practice.

Funding a new practice-based masters in social work to start in early 2011 so that social workers can continue to further knowledge, skills and expertise.

A new advanced social work professional status programme to create senior practice-focused roles to keep excellent and experienced social workers in children's services. LAs working with the CWDC will begin assessing candidates in October so that they can be in post and start making a difference on the frontline by early next year.

Keeping children and young people safe is our top priority and it must be the responsibility of us all. Today's action plan confirms this Government's commitment to implementing Lord Laming's recommendations and our determination to do everything possible to make the arrangements in this country for protecting children the best in the world.

Copies of the Action Plan, advice from the Social Work Task Force and Sir Roger Singleton's letter to me are being placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

South East Plan (RSS)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Sadiq Khan): My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government is publishing today the "South East Plan", the revised Regional Spatial Strategy (RSS) for the South East of England.

The South East Plan forms part of the statutory development plan for every local authority in the region and sets the framework for the production of local development frameworks and local transport plans. It is the spatial plan for the development of the region, and provides the policy framework for employment, housing, transport and the environment. The South East Plan is crucial to delivering the Government's sustainable communities and growth agenda in the region.

The Regional Spatial Strategy replaces Regional Planning Guidance for the South East (RPG9) which was issued in 2001. It also replaces a number of partial reviews to RPG9 that were carried out since 2001. The single exception is that the Part A Statement of the Milton Keynes and South Midlands Sub-Regional Strategy issued in March 2005 continues to apply. In the event of any conflict, the more recent document will take precedence.

A draft revision of the Regional Spatial Strategy was submitted to Government in March 2006 by the South East England regional assembly. This was tested by an independent panel at an examination in public (EiP) that was held between November 2006 and March 2007. The EiP panel's report was published in August 2007. Based on the panel's recommendations, the Government Office for the south-east issued the Secretary of State's proposed changes to the draft RSS in July 2008 and the public consultation closed in October 2008. During the consultation 13,654 comments were made by 5,672 people and organisations. In addition, a 1,700-name petition was submitted.

We have considered all of these representations. We have decided that no further major policy changes are required, although amendments and clarifications have been made to various parts of the plan. The result in terms of housing provision is that 32,700 dwellings are to be planned for annually compared with 33,125 dwellings in the proposed changes document and 28,900 in the draft plan.

The plan therefore represents a step towards addressing housing need in the south- east though falls short of what is likely to be required in the longer term to meet the Government's Housing Green Paper target. I am pleased that the South East England Partnership Board are committed to carrying out a further review of the plan to consider housing growth, including taking account of latest evidence and eco-towns.

Copies of the South East Plan are available in the Library of the House and have been provided for all the region's MPs and MEPs. Copies will be sent today to all local authorities and the South East England Partnership Board. Hundreds of other stakeholders will be informed of how to obtain a copy.

FiReControl

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Sadiq Khan): I wish to inform the House about the latest development on the FiReControl project, which will establish a resilient network of nine regional fire control centres across England.

I have today published the consolidated FiReControl Business Case which sets out the detailed, evidence-based rationale for investing public money in the FiReControl project. It is particularly important in the current economic climate that we are confident that any investment is justified and will bring about real beneficial change. Copies will be placed in the Library of the House.

The business case considers the strategic, economic, financial, commercial and project management cases for this investment in resilience and confirms value for money. It also sets out key information at the regional level, with nine regional annexes, each covering one of the English regions.

This business case has been subject to considerable consultation with a range of interested stakeholders. We received responses from all English regions and we have considered, in detail, these formal consultation responses. This feedback identified a number of areas that required further development, which we have addressed through further professional analysis and direct engagement with the fire and rescue service community, the Chief Fire Officers Association and the Local Government Association.

The headline messages from this analysis demonstrates that: the total project costs, which will be met by central Government, have stabilised at £380 million; the project will deliver greatly enhanced capability to the fire and rescue service at no additional cost to fire and rescue authorities; and national Government will support the fire and rescue service directly through annual FiReControl payments totalling £8.2 million once the network is up-and-running, which will be subject to a three-year review.

Taken together with the other elements of the Fire and Resilience Programme—the Firelink radio communications system and the New Dimension equipment—we believe that this provides a powerful platform for the modernisation of the fire and rescue service. We are committed to supporting the fire and rescue service to meet the challenges they face, now and in the future, to enable them to continue providing a world-class service.

DEFENCE

Maritime Change Programme

The Minister for the Armed Forces (Mr. Bob Ainsworth): The Government announced their decision in 2007 to retain but optimise all three of Her Majesty's Naval Bases (Clyde, Devonport and Portsmouth) signalling the Government's intention to drive forward a programme of change to shape the maritime industrial and operational landscape into the next decade; this work is known as the Maritime Change Programme. I am now in a position to provide an update to the House.

As we have already announced, it is our intention that HM Naval Base Portsmouth will be the home port for the new Type 45 Destroyers and the Queen Elizabeth Class Aircraft Carriers. Subject to main investment decisions to be made early in the next decade, the most complex war fighting variant of the next generation of Royal Naval frigates—the Future Surface Combatant—will be base-ported in Portsmouth to maximise the benefits of the common systems and equipment also fitted to the Type 45s and Carriers. The strategic decisions being taken as part of the Maritime Change Programme pave the way for Portsmouth to become, in the longer-term, the main operating base for our most complex warships. In addition to providing Fleet Time Engineering Support for these vessels and the eight Hunt Class Mine Counter Measure Vessels, Portsmouth will undertake sufficient Deep Maintenance activity on an occasional basis to sustain the capability of key skills.

I can confirm that HM Naval Base Devonport will be the main operating base for Amphibious Shipping, Survey and Hydrographic vessels, for the Type 22 frigates and, for at least the next five years, for seven of the Type 23 frigates. Work will be undertaken to look carefully at the nature of the less complex Future Surface Combatant variants and to consider the optimal base-porting arrangements for these vessels, taking account of similarities with existing classes. This work will help determine whether there is any case to change the base-porting of the Type 23 frigates. Devonport will also continue to provide world class sea training through Flag Officer Sea Training and will undertake Fleet Time Engineering support for base-ported ships and for visiting sea training vessels. Devonport will also retain and, subject to commercial negotiations, enhance its position as the centre of excellence for Surface Ship and Submarine Deep maintenance activity. Finally, subject to ongoing approvals, we will develop Devonport as the centre of specialisation for Amphibious Operations by moving 1 Assault Group Royal Marines, including the Landing Craft of 10 training Squadron and 539 Assault Squadron currently at Poole and Turnchapel, to Devonport.

Following on from that, HM Naval Base Clyde will become the main operating base for all classes of submarines, including the future classes of submarines, such as the replacement for the Vanguard Class, and eight Sandown Class Mine Counter Measure Vessels. Fleet Time Engineering support for these vessels will also be undertaken at Clyde. To reduce duplication of facilities and to provide future stability for submarine personnel, we intend to accelerate the move towards a single submarine operating base some six years earlier than originally planned, although there will be no base-porting changes for around five years. This decision will see three of the Trafalgar Class submarines transfer their base port to HM Naval Base Clyde upon completion of their respective mid-commission major maintenance periods. This is currently expected to be by 2017, while four will remain at HM Naval Base Devonport until their planned decommissioning dates (currently 2010 to 2017). We will ensure that the necessary infrastructure to support this move will be put in place.

The ISOLUS Project, which is the work under way to develop the solution for the dismantling and recycling of our nuclear submarines, continues to make good progress. We remain committed to complying with legislation and Government policy and will be conducting further research, assessments and consultation before any final recommendations are made. We are on track to undertake a Strategic Environmental Assessment later this year, including a period of public consultation. After the Strategic Environmental Assessment it is also our intention to establish a demonstrator programme to optimise the process to dismantle and recycle as much material as feasibly possible from our submarines after they have left Royal Navy service, and to examine issues such as how to reuse the reclaimed material in the future. It has been decided, after consultation with stakeholder groups, that the project will be renamed the Submarine Dismantling Project to reflect more accurately the scope and future direction of our work in this important area. I expect the next announcement, outlining the proposed dismantling and storage solution, to be made in 2010.

In summary, this suite of decisions seeks to provide clarity and remove uncertainty as far as is possible for many of our stakeholders, including our people and their families, industrial partners and those communities local to the naval bases.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Veterinary Products Committee

The Minister of State, Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Jane Kennedy): I have received the annual report of the Veterinary Products Committee and its sub-Committees for 2008, which has been published today.

Copies of the report have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

I am pleased to acknowledge the valuable work done by the distinguished members of the Veterinary Products Committee and its sub-Committees and thank them for the time and effort dedicated in the public interest to this important work.

HOME DEPARTMENT

National Identity Service

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department (Mr. Shahid Malik): The sixth Cost Report of the National Identity Service is being laid before Parliament today. It sets out an estimate of the public expenditure likely to be incurred on the service over the next 10 years, in accordance with section 37 of the Identity Cards Act 2006. It reports on developments over the past six months, since the fifth Cost Report was published on 6 November 2008. Copies of the report will be available in the Vote Office.

In addition the House will wish to know that we are also publishing today the following three statements: "The National Identity Service: Delivery Update:2009"; Identity Cards Act Secondary Legislation: a Response to the Consultation"; and " Identity Cards Act Secondary Legislation: an Impact Assessment". Copies of these documents will be placed in the Vote Office and the Libraries of both Houses.

JUSTICE

Prison Service Pay Review Body

The Minister of State, Ministry of Justice (Mr. David Hanson): I am pleased to announce that my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Justice and Lord Chancellor has re-appointed Dr. Henrietta Campbell for two years, and Richard Childs and Joseph Magee for three years as members of the Prison Service Pay Review Body, commencing April 2009. The re-appointments have been conducted in accordance with the Office of the Commissioner for Public Appointments' guidance on appointments to public bodies.

Archival Services

The Minister of State, Ministry of Justice (Mr. Michael Wills): I am today publishing a consultation document, "Archives for the 21st Century", asking for views on the Government's proposed new policy for archival services.

Archive services contribute greatly to a modern democratic society: they are the custodians of the nation's collective memory and an integral part of a healthy democracy. A high proportion of our archival heritage is held by nearly 300 publicly funded archive services within local authorities and universities. Their core mission is to acquire and preserve records from a wide range of sources relating to a particular local or specialist topic and to make these as accessible as possible for public use.

The consultation document sets out the Government's vision for a vibrant archival sector, one that works closely with and supports the communities served and that maximises opportunities to make archives accessible to an even wider range of people. It also seeks to build the foundations for a more sustainable future for the sector, responding to the challenges of the digital information age.

The Government are seeking views on the main proposals to help meet these challenges. They are:

working towards increased sustainability within the sector through the integration and collaboration of services; strengthened leadership and a more responsive, skilled workforce;

a co-ordinated response to the growing challenge of managing digital information so that it is accessible now and remains discoverable in the future;

comprehensive online access for archive discovery through catalogues and to digitised archive content by citizens at a time and place that suits them; and active participation in cultural and learning partnerships promoting a sense of identity and place within the community.

This consultation, which closes on 12 August 2009, is accompanied by impact and equality assessments. Copies have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses. It can also be accessed via the National Archives website at:

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

All-party Parliamentary Beer Group Community Pub Inquiry

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (Mr. Gerry Sutcliffe): I have written today to the chair of the all-party parliamentary beer group to respond to the community pub inquiry and have placed copies of the response in the Library of the House.

The response has involved careful consideration by nine Government Departments and other bodies such as the Local Better Regulations Office (LBRO) and the Government are pleased to have been able to accept in full, in part or in intent, 23 of the 31 recommendations for Government. The Government believe that the response is a good start in responding to the concerns highlighted by the inquiry, the wider campaign and the public support for the Community Pub. The Government will continue to work with the industry, local communities and their representatives on the full range of issues and hopes that the APPBG will continue to press the case for community pubs inside Parliament.

Hard copies of the report are available in the Vote and Printed Paper Offices and will be available on the DCMS website at: http://www.culture.gov.uk/reference_library/publications/6137.aspx

DEFENCE

Programme Belvedere

The Minister for the Armed Forces (Mr. Bob Ainsworth): I wish to inform the House today of the decision to close Programme Belvedere—the study into possible rationalisation of the Joint Helicopter Command's Battlefield Helicopter Estate.

During this complex study, the main bases under consideration were Royal Air Force Odiham, RAF Benson, Royal Naval Air Station Yeovilton, Wattisham Station and Dishforth Airfield. Some other airfields were also considered including RAF Lyneham, in the light of the previously announced decisions to relocate C130 aircraft from there to RAF Brize Norton.

Programme Belvedere has been a complex and lengthy study taking into account a large number of factors including:

operating issues including aircraft numbers, command and control and flying hours; environmental issues including noise;

availability and standard of domestic and technical accommodation;

accessibility for aircraft and vehicle types;

aircraft capacity of the airfield;

opportunities for efficiencies and rationalisation;

airfield location—low flying areas, training areas and local communities;

future requirements; and, affordability and value for money.

It is now apparent that efficiencies that could be achieved from a major rationalisation programme would not produce the necessary return on the significant investment that would be required to implement change. We have therefore decided that to continue Programme Belvedere does not represent best value for money for the Department and the programme is to close with immediate effect.

This means that there is no change at this stage to the current arrangements whereby Chinook helicopters are based at RAF Odiham; Puma and Merlin helicopters are based at RAF Benson; Apache helicopters are based at Wattisham; the Joint Helicopter Command operates the Lynx helicopter from Dishforth; and its Commando Helicopter Force, comprising Sea King and Lynx helicopters, operates from RNAS Yeovilton.

This decision also means that RAF Lyneham is no longer under consideration as a basing option for the Joint Helicopter Command. The then Minister for the Armed Forces, my right hon. Friend, the Member for East Kilbride, Strathaven and Lesmahagow (Mr. Ingram) announced on 4 July 2003, Official Report, column 38WS, that following movement of the C130 fleet to RAF Brize Norton, "if no further defence use is identified for Royal Air Force Lyneham, the station will be closed and disposed of". On current plans the C130K and C130J fleets will move from RAF Lyneham to RAF Brize Norton in summer 2011. The transfer is planned to complete to enable the Royal Air Force to vacate RAF Lyneham by the end of 2012. It now seems unlikely that a further use will be identified for the site.

It is too early to say exactly what the impact will be for civilian staff at the station but the trade unions have been kept informed and my officials will engage with them and the local authorities around RAF Lyneham to ensure we do everything possible to support our people and to manage the draw-down sensitively. Meanwhile, RAF Lyneham continues to play a key role in supporting current operations through the provision of strategic and tactical airlift, and I am deeply grateful to staff at the station for their service, and to the local population for their support.

Further work is being undertaken to determine the optimum basing arrangements for the Future Lynx helicopter, and I shall keep the House informed about progress.

HEALTH

Employment, Social Policy, Health and Consumer Affairs Council

The Minister of State, Department of Health (Dawn Primarolo): The Employment, Social Policy, Health and Consumer Affairs Council met on 30 April to discuss the influenza A/H1N1 infection. I represented the United Kingdom.

At the meeting Ministers received reports on the situation from the Director of the European Centre for Disease Control and the World Health Organisation (WHO). The EU Health Commissioner, Androulla Vassiliou, stressed the importance of continued co-operation at the EU and international level.

The Council unanimously adopted conclusions welcoming the effective response to the outbreak so far and reaffirming member states commitment to continue their co-operative work through existing EU structures. The member states agreed to continue to act together to respond to the threat, under the guidance of the WHO, including taking appropriate measures to protect public health.

The conclusions noted the Council's willingness, with the Commission, to engage with, and assist, non-EU countries most affected by the virus.

Thanks to the leadership of the WHO and due to our established emergency preparedness structures at EU level, we are well prepared to act in response to this outbreak.

HOME DEPARTMENT

DNA Database Consultation

The Secretary of State for the Home Department (Jacqui Smith): On 16 December 2008, I announced that I would bring forward proposals to implement the judgment of the European Court of Human Rights in the case of S and Marper.

I am pleased to announce today the commencement of the public consultation exercise to keep the right people on the DNA database through the retention, use and governance of DNA and fingerprints. Copies of the consultation paper will be placed in the Vote Office and the Libraries of both Houses.

The European Court found that the "blanket and indiscriminate" retention policy for DNA and fingerprints breached Article 8. We, of course, accept the judgment of the Court. But we also accept the Court's recognition of the importance of using DNA and fingerprints to tackle and prevent crime, terrorism and ensure public protection. Public protection has been our key priority in developing these proposals. The proposals focus on achieving a proportionate balance between allowing the police to effectively detect, investigate and deal with offenders while ensuring that appropriate safeguards and protections are available to the individual. To achieve that balance, I am proposing changes in five key areas.

First I am proposing that all samples are destroyed. This involves both existing samples held by the police and, in future, a requirement that samples must be destroyed no later than six months from the date on which they were taken.

Second, profiles for persons arrested but not convicted may only be retained for a maximum period of six years. Thereafter they must be automatically removed. The profile of a person arrested for an offence in relation to violent, sexual or terrorist offences would be retained for 12 years and thereafter automatically removed. Any offending or further arrest within that timeline will result in a new period of six or 12 years as appropriate being applied. These time scales are based on groundbreaking research by the Jill Dando Institute.

Third, young people aged under 18 years old may be involved in crime during their developing years, but for many it is an isolated incident. That is why I am setting out proposals which would allow the DNA of a person arrested and convicted of minor offences to be removed from the database on reaching 18 years old. For those arrested and not convicted of any further offences, the profiles will be deleted after six years or on their eighteenth birthday, whichever is sooner. I have already requested those under 10 to be removed from the database. That has been done.

Fourth, in terms of openness and transparency, I am proposing that the criteria for destruction of profiles and fingerprints before expiry of the six year or 12 year period should be set out in regulations, and not just police guidance as at present. This would enable people to know whether or not they would qualify to make such an application to their local chief constable. People would also be able to judicially review the decision of the chief constable if they disagreed with his/her decision. I am also proposing that an independent advisory panel is established to monitor implementation of the regulations.

Lastly, I indicated in December 2008 that we need to make sure that those who should be on the database, are on the database. That is why I have included proposals extending police powers to take samples and fingerprints following conviction. The proposals also outline powers to change the law to include those serious violent and sexual offenders who are now back in the community and so that UK citizens or residents who commit offences overseas involving violence or sexual matters have their DNA taken upon return to the UK.

The approach I am putting forward for consideration is about implementing the judgment and applying the scope provided for in the judgment to ensure public protection and enhance individual safeguards.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Independent Monitoring Commission

The Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (Mr. Shaun Woodward): I have received the 21st Report of the Independent Monitoring Commission (IMC). This report has been made under Articles 4 and 7 of the International Agreement that established the Commission and it reports on levels of paramilitary activity in Northern Ireland. I have considered the content of the report and I am today bringing it before Parliament. I have placed copies in the Library of the House.

Although falling outside their reporting period, the IMC comment on the murders of Constable Stephen Carroll, Sappers Mark Quinsey and Patrick Azimkar, and the wounding of others at the beginning of March. They note the involvement of dissident republicans in these murders and attribute the current ongoing violence to an attempt to destroy the peace process. They will comment on these cases in their next report, due in October 2009.

Dissident republicans pose a serious challenge. They are small but dangerous criminal factions who are determined to drag Northern Ireland back to the past. Their actions have no significant support in the community. There is an overwhelming common purpose against them. The political process continues to work for the benefit of Northern Ireland through the Assembly and Executive. Dissidents will not be able to derail the progress made. The completion of devolution will do more than anything to undermine the dissidents and will provide a firm foundation for Northern Ireland to move forward.

The IMC report also comments on Loyalist organisations. They report that there are some signs that the UDA are now facing the challenge of the decommissioning of weapons, and that some of the leadership of the UVF increasingly recognise that the organisation must tackle decommissioning.

I made clear in February this year that I have asked the Independent International Commission on Decommissioning for a further report on progress towards decommissioning in August this year. If there has not been substantial progress I will return to Parliament and bring an end to the decommissioning amnesty period earlier than the current February 2010 deadline.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Temporary Agency Workers Directive

The Minister for Employment Relations and Postal Affairs (Mr. Pat McFadden): Following my statement of 22 May 2008, Official Report, column 32WS, I am today launching a consultation on the implementation of the Directive on conditions for temporary (agency) workers—Directive 2008/104/EC—the "Agency Workers Directive", which was published in the Official Journal of the European Union on 5 December 2008. Copies of the consultation paper, which includes a copy of the Directive, are being placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

The Government intend if possible to introduce the necessary legislation (regulations under section 2(2) of the European Communities Act 1972) in this current parliamentary session.

The aim of the Directive is to ensure the protection of temporary agency workers by applying the principle of equal treatment, as set out in article 5—that the basic working and employment conditions (duration of working time, overtime, breaks, rest periods, night work, holidays and public holidays and pay) of temporary agency workers shall be, for the duration of their assignment at a hirer at least those that would apply if they had been recruited directly by that undertaking to occupy the same job. There are also other entitlements that aim to improve the situation for agency workers in other areas, for example, in terms of improved access to permanent employment and training. In order to liberalise the agency worker sector across the EU, the Directive also seeks to address restrictions and prohibitions on agency work which exist in many member states to see if they are justified.

Importantly, the Government secured text in the Directive allowing for a qualifying period before equal treatment is applicable, if this is provided for via an agreement between "social partners at national level". This allows implementation on the basis of the agreement reached between the CBI and the TUC on 20 May 2008, under which agency workers will have an entitlement to equal treatment in relation to the basic working and employment conditions after 12 weeks in a given job. The consultation document makes clear the Government's intention to follow this approach on this key point, and also sets out proposals or invites views on a range of other matters on which decisions are required to inform UK implementation Agency work is a valued route into employment and there are currently around 1.3 million agency workers on temporary assignments across the UK in a range of public and private sector roles, playing a vital role in enabling employers to respond flexibly to changing business needs. In line with the Government's twin objective of ensuring appropriate protections for agency workers while maintaining a flexible labour market, we support the principle in the Directive of ensuring fairer treatment for agency workers along with maintaining the combination of flexibility for workers and employers provided by the agency sector.

This consultation will run for 12 weeks, until 31 July 2009, after which we will publish the Government's response. In line with normal practice for a change of this kind, we then intend to conduct a further consultation on the draft regulations, and to invite views on what practical advice users would welcome in the accompanying guidance.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Local Government

The Minister for Local Government (John Healey): I am today announcing a programme of action to help the people of Stoke-on-Trent restore to the city the good city governance necessary to respond successfully to the challenges Stoke faces today and to promote the city's future prosperity.

As the Independent Governance Commission found last year, Stoke-on-Trent is a city with a damaged political system and deep-seated malaise in its politics.

The Governance Commission recognised that Parliament had legislated to abolish the mayor and council manager governance model that the city had adopted. It made 14 recommendations to be taken forward alongside this fundamental change to Stoke's governance arrangements. The cornerstone of these recommendations is for Stoke-on-Trent to have a fresh start and clearer, more stable political leadership with whole council elections.

In early June, the old governance arrangements in Stoke will end and—as a result of a local referendum—new arrangements with the council electing a leader from among its members will replace the mayoral leadership. Despite accepting the Commission's recommendations, the council have failed to progress the Commission's key recommendations including the recommendation for whole council elections.

Government action and support are therefore now needed to help put Stoke-on-Trent's governance on a sound basis for the future and rebuild the public's confidence.

Accordingly, we are minded to intervene to make an order under section 86 of the Local Government Act 2000 specifying a scheme of whole council elections for Stoke-on-Trent city council from 2011. Before taking a final decision on the order we are allowing a short "soundings" period until the 18 June to provide an opportunity for interested parties to make representations to us.

We are adopting this approach having regard to the evidence presented by the Governance Commission, who judge that a move to whole council elections will materially strengthen the operation of local democracy in Stoke-on-Trent. This is reinforced by the Electoral Commission's report on "The Cycle of Local Government Elections in England" which presents a compelling case for simplifying electoral cycles, concluding that the balance of evidence suggests that whole council elections are more likely to provide clarity to electors and stability to the council.

It will be important for this new start that the Governance Commission's recommendation on reducing the size of the council is in place before 2011, together with new electoral arrangements necessary for facilitating effective and convenient local government. I am today therefore asking the Electoral Commission to respond to the Governance Commission's recommendations and direct the Boundary Committee to undertake now an electoral review in Stoke-on-Trent, the results of which would be implemented in the 2011 elections.

The aim is that by the 2011 elections there is a realistic prospect of a revitalised political system and strengthened civic life in Stoke-on-Trent. To enable the focus of all to be on this 2011 new start and while this electoral review is being conducted, we are also minded to include in the order provision to cancel the 2010 elections for the city council. Those members of the council whose term of office is due to end in May 2010 would have their term extended by a year to 2011.

Subject to consideration of any representations we receive, our intention is to make the order as soon as practicable after 18 June.

To reinforce this new start, the Leadership Centre for Local Government have agreed to work with the council, supporting the recruitment of talented, dynamic, and diverse candidates to seek election to the council, thereby helping to revitalise and strengthen the politics of Stoke-on-Trent.

We are also providing support to strengthen civic life in Stoke-on-Trent. The council will receive funding to become a Take Part pathfinder, and participate in the expanded LINks programme that will support the development of civic engagement.

In addition to these steps that the Government can take, it remains important for the council itself to implement the other recommendations of the Governance Commission including the recommendation for reviewing councillors pay and cutting the number of councillors receiving special responsibility allowances (SRAs). The independent city council remuneration panel has now recommended that the number of SRAs be reduced from 42 currently to 23. The council needs to implement such a reduction as a matter of urgency, if the people of Stoke are to regain confidence in their elected representatives.

Rebuilding the politics of Stoke is essential if the significant service improvements achieved by the officers of Stoke, supported by the Stoke excellence board are to be safeguarded and continued. Accordingly, we will expand the external officer support group to help support the council's senior officers in the transitional period during which the politics of Stoke are being rebuilt.

In addition, I am strengthening the transition board to support both the good governance of the city of Stoke-on-Trent and the continued improvement in the council's delivery of local services. This will act as the governance and performance transition board. It will continue to be chaired by Professor Michael Clarke and to reinforce it with sector support I am also appointing Councillor Ken Taylor (Coventry), Councillor Stephen Houghton (Barnsley), Paul Sheehan (chair of West Midlands Regional Improvement And Efficiency Partnership) and Trudi Elliott regional director of GOWM.

The Government are committed to giving the people of Stoke-on-Trent and the city all the support they can. Over recent years the Government have invested some £690 million in Stoke-on-Trent, including on regeneration projects, housing sector renewal and improving college campuses. We have already announced further planned future investment of £500 million which includes the major BSF programme, investment in the university hospital and on housing market renewal.

And I can today announce that the Government have identified £40 million from the Homes and Communities Agency to back regeneration work in Stoke and North Staffordshire, including the City Waterside project which will transform the city centre so that residents and visitors can enjoy new walkways, canal side café's, and open spaces. This investment will provide a new focus for development in the heart of the city. This project is promoted by the North Staffordshire Regeneration Partnership and I will support the partnership in its proposals to change the constitutional arrangements to replace the mayor with the appointment of a new private sector chair to push forward essential economic development and regeneration projects like City Waterside for the new Stoke-on-Trent.

The west midlands regional Minister, my hon. Friend the Member for Dudley, North (Mr. Austin), takes a close interest in Stoke, working to support the city alongside the lead officers in the main organisations operating in the area, including Advantage west midlands, Home and Communities Agency, Job Centre Plus, Learning and Skills Council, Strategic Health Authority, Highways Agency, GOWM, West Midlands LGA. This strong support from the regional Minister and agencies will continue.

The people of Stoke-on-Trent deserve a city which is well governed, with high quality public services, successful economic regeneration, and improved quality of life for all. I believe that the steps we are now taking provide the best possible opportunity for the people of Stoke-on-Trent to achieve this.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Immigration Appeals

The Minister for Borders and Immigration (Mr. Phil Woolas): I am today publishing, in conjunction with the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Justice, my hon. Friend the Member for Lewisham, East (Bridget Prentice), the Government's response to our consultation "Immigration Appeals: Fair Decisions, Faster Justice", published in August last year. Copies of our response have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

The Government intend to transfer the functions of the Asylum and Immigration Tribunal into the First-tier and Upper Tribunal, to ensure that the system is fairer and faster, and that its decisions are respected and final. This will mean replacing the existing High Court review stage with an appeal to the Upper Tribunal, which will speed up the process significantly. The pressure on the administrative court will also be dramatically reduced, which will free up time to deliver justice for other users of the court.

Although the benefits of the unified tribunal system will apply to all immigration appeals, the response we are publishing today also includes a number of measures which focus on asylum cases. Taken together, we expect these measures will ensure that 90 per cent. of asylum applications have either been granted or have exhausted their appeal rights within 18 weeks. This is a significant improvement over the current system, where it can take up to 42 weeks for cases to reach this stage.

The proposals in our consultation stemmed from a small working group chaired by Lin Homer, chief executive of the UK Border Agency and Lord Justice Richards, a Court of Appeal judge. I am grateful to the members of the working group for their valuable insight and to all those who responded to the consultation. We have taken their comments on board and they are reflected in our response.

Animals (Scientific Procedures)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department (Mr. Shahid Malik): I have today published a consultation paper seeking views on the European Commission's proposal published on 10 November 2008 for a directive on the protection of animals used for scientific purposes. The proposed directive will replace Directive 86/609/EEC on which current United Kingdom legislation—the Animals (Scientific Procedures) Act 1986—is based.

The Government welcome the publication of the European Commission's proposal for a revised directive. We support the Commission's aim to harmonise the regulation of animal experimentation across the European Union. We also support measures to promote high welfare standards for laboratory animals and to promote the development and use of alternatives. At the same time we believe it is vital that regulation properly balances the protection of animals and the legitimate needs of science and industry while maintaining public confidence that animals are not allowed to suffer unnecessarily.

The consultation paper seeks views on the detailed and technical provisions of the draft directive with a view to informing the formal United Kingdom negotiating position. The consultation closes on 3 July 2009.

Copies of the consultation paper will be placed in the Vote Office and the Libraries of both Houses. It is also available on the Home Office website at: www.homeoffice.gov.uk.

PRIME MINISTER

Information Commissioner

The Prime Minister (Mr. Gordon Brown): Her Majesty the Queen has approved the appointment of Mr. Christopher Graham as the next Information Commissioner with effect from 29 June 2009 for a period of five years. Mr. Graham will replace the present Commissioner, Richard Thomas, when he retires from the post on 28 June 2009.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Trade Unionists (Blacklisting)

The Minister for Employment Relations and Postal Affairs (Mr. Pat McFadden): The Government firmly believe that the blacklisting of trade unionists has no place in a modern system of employment relations. Individuals should not be systematically and secretly victimised for their trade union membership and for engaging in the activities of a trade union.

Section 3 of the Employment Relations Act 1999 contains a power for the Secretary of State to introduce regulations prohibiting the compilation, dissemination and use of lists of trade union members or activists drawn up with the purpose of discrimination in relation to their recruitment and treatment by employers or employment agencies.

We consulted on draft regulations in 2003 but they were not implemented. We took that decision because it was then widely believed that blacklisting of this type had been eradicated in the UK. Following the investigation of the Information Commissioner into the affairs of the Consulting Association (TCA) renewed evidence has come to light. The investigation showed that, within the construction industry, a covert vetting system has operated. My officials have worked closely with the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) during its investigation and they have examined the detailed information which the ICO seized from the TCA. We have discovered that much of the information held by the TCA concerned the trade union activities of individuals and gave a very unfavourable account of their suitability for employment.

In the light of these developments, the Government are minded to introduce regulations under section 3 of the 1999 Act. To ensure we have drafted them correctly and taken account of subsequent developments, BERR will launch a short public consultation early this summer seeking views on revised regulations. We will then seek parliamentary approval of the final draft regulations this autumn, bringing them into effect at the earliest opportunity thereafter. This abuse needs to be addressed as a matter of priority and our aim is to ensure that suitably drafted regulations are implemented with the minimum of delay.

TREASURY

Investment Banks (Insolvency)

The Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Alistair Darling): As indicated in both the pre-Budget report and the Budget, the Government are conducting a detailed review of the arrangements surrounding the insolvency of investment banks. Today I am publishing the Government's first consultation document on this issue. This document sets out the Government's preliminary thinking on possible market, regulatory or legislative changes that may be considered in respect of future insolvencies in the investment banking sector. The paper covers issues relating to trading, clearing and settlement, to client assets and monies, and to the resolution of investment firms in difficulty. Copies of the document entitled: "Developing Effective Resolution Arrangements for Investment Banks" have been deposited in the Libraries of both Houses and will be available on the HM Treasury website.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Safer School Partnerships

The Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (Ed Balls): Today my right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State for the Home Department and I are announcing the publication of "Safer School Partnerships Guidance".

In the "Youth Crime Action Plan" published in July last year, we said that we wanted to encourage the foundation of more Safer School Partnerships (SSPs), so that they become the norm rather than the exception. SSPs, an important part of neighbourhood policing, have a central role to play in supporting the triple track approach of enforcement, prevention and support on which the action plan is based. Taking early action to ensure pupil safety and to prevent young people from being drawn into crime or antisocial behaviour is important for all pupils and for all schools. And every school—not just those in high crime areas or which have serious issues of antisocial behaviour or offending among its pupils—should consider establishing an SSP.

This publication provides guidance to support that aim. Copies of the guidance have been placed in the Library.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Regeneration (England)

The Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Hazel Blears): I am today publishing "Transforming Places; Changing Lives: Taking Forward the Regeneration Framework". This follows the consultation document I launched last July that looked at the way regeneration is carried out in England.

Since that time the economic downturn has had a significant impact on regeneration activity. This is not just having an impact upon physical developments; but also on the lives of people living across the country through jobs and homes that have been lost and the strain that it places on communities.

This document responds to these challenges and sets out a strategic framework for regeneration, supported by measures to target investment; deliver increased flexibility for front-line agencies; and clear leadership—setting out a vision of the outcomes we expect regeneration to deliver now and in the future.

The framework aims to ensure that regeneration investment is:

more tightly focused on economic outcomes and worklessness; driven at the right spatial level—and as close to communities as is practicable, making the most of opportunities that already exist; targeted—not trying to transform everywhere—but investing where it will have most impact by supporting those communities where the most severe poverty and worklessness persists and where there is the opportunity to deliver long-term change.

The framework sets out three success measures—against which all regeneration should be judged in future. These are:

improving economic performance, particularly in the most deprived areas; creating the right conditions for business growth though improved infrastructure, and use of land, and a better public realm; and creating places where people want to live and can work and businesses want to invest.

The framework is accompanied by an impact assessment. Copies are available in the Libraries of both Houses or it can be accessed via the Communities and Local Government website at: www.communities.gov.uk/citiesandregions/

Education, Youth and Culture Council

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (Barbara Follett): The Education, Youth and Culture Council will be held on 11 and 12 May in Brussels. Andy Lebrecht, UK deputy permanent representative, will be representing the UK on 12 May when culture and audiovisual issues will be taken.

The first item on the agenda concerns the Council conclusions on culture as a catalyst for creativity and innovation. The conclusions successfully draw the link between culture and the Lisbon objectives and also reflect the role of creativity in responding to the economic crisis. This year also celebrates the European Year of Creativity and Innovation. I intend to support the adoption of these conclusions.

The Council will be invited to adopt a decision on the selection of two member states with a view to the nomination by the Council of two experts in the selection panel for the European Capital of Culture Community action 2010-12. The presidency will also seek the adoption of decisions on the selection of cities to host the European Capital of Culture events for 2012 and 2013. Portugal and Slovenia are the EU member states nominating cites for 2012 and have put forward Guimarães and Maribor respectively.

France and Slovakia are nominating cities for 2013 and have put forward Marseille and Košice respectively. I intend to support each of these proposals.

There will then be a discussion of a presidency paper on creative content online. The paper asks a series of questions around the prevention of intellectual property theft and the need to promote media literacy: What steps have member states taken to help develop legal offers and tackle the problems of piracy? How effective have these steps been and are there any lessons that can be learned from the experience gained? In particular: (i) how far is it possible to take Government action without risking the creation of new obstacles to the development of new innovative services, and; (ii) how far is it possible to develop solutions which promote greater variety and better accessibility of legal offer while protecting the interests of rightholders? On media literacy, the presidency asks: How can member states achieve greater awareness on the importance of media literacy, and where do they see added value in possible initiatives at EU level? Our contribution to the exchange of views will outline current UK actions where we think that these are relevant to other member states and the Commission.

Under any other business, the presidency will provide information on the state of play of the Commission proposal establishing MEDIA Mundus, an audiovisual co-operation programme with professionals from third countries. The programme has a budget of €15 million and will run for a three-year period from 2011. The aims of the programme include increasing information exchange, competitiveness and transnational distribution worldwide. It also aims to improve circulation and exposure of audiovisual works, increasing public demand for culturally diverse audiovisual content. The presidency will present a paper outlining the current status of this proposal and will invite discussion and comments from member states. The UK is supportive of the principle of this programme, and I do not foresee the need to intervene on this item.

Also under any other business the presidency will provide feedback on the conference held on the responsibilities of content providers and users and the Forum for Creative Europe. There will be an information point on the Work Plan for Culture 2008-10. There will also be an information point from the Greek delegation on the inauguration of the New Acropolis Museum. The Government do not foresee any need to intervene on any of these items.

DEFENCE

Exercise Joint Warrior

The Minister for the Armed Forces (Mr. Bob Ainsworth): Joint Warrior is a biannual tri-service major exercise with invited NATO and allied nations and usually takes place over a two week period in the spring and autumn. Its aim is to provide high quality joint collective training and pre-deployment training in a multi-threat environment for participating units and their staffs. Each unit will operate from various bases in the UK and abroad but specifically there is an increase in air and land activity across Wales, Scotland and the border regions of England, as well as an increase in maritime activity in the north and west of Scotland.

These exercises have now become routine and I therefore wish to update the House that, with immediate effect, it is my intention to write only to individual Members who have raised specific concerns. I have also written to First Ministers for Scotland and Wales to advise them of this decision.

Joint Warrior is a complex exercise which requires careful planning and co-ordination to minimise the possibility of environmental damage. I would like to reassure the House that, in order to achieve this, the exercise planning teams will continue to work closely with local authorities, various national rural agencies, landowners and other interested parties.

Collective training is a key priority for defence. It is a vital component of the UK armed forces ability to be able to generate forces at the right time, with the right skills and in the right numbers and Joint Warrior has the additional benefit of also giving UK forces the ability to train and operate with other coalition countries. The next exercise, Joint Warrior 091, commences on 11 May 2009 and a press release will be issued for public information.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

EU Competitiveness Ministers Meeting (4 May 2009)

The Minister of State, Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills (Mr. David Lammy): My right hon. Friend the Minister of State for Science and Innovation, Lord Drayson, has made the following written statement:

An informal meeting of EU Research Ministers took place in Prague on 4 May. The two main topics for discussion were links between higher education, research and innovation policies and the mobility and career development of researchers. Professor Adrian Smith, Director-General for Science and Research in DIUS, represented the UK.

The meeting began with a session on the "knowledge triangle" - a concept referring to the links between higher education, innovation and research policies as being central to the creation of a strong knowledge-based economy. There were presentations from the vice-chair of the Czech Research Council and from three organisations representing major investors in R&D from the three sides of the knowledge triangle: EUROHORCs (the heads of national Research Councils in Europe), the European University Association (EUA) and BusinessEurope.

This was followed by a discussion focusing on relevant initiatives being implemented in member states and at European level. The UK stressed the need to address the culture of university-business relations alongside looking at the structures designed to forge links between these two groups and noted action taken in the UK to this effect.

The second session on developing human resources for research examined a paper circulated by the Portuguese and Luxembourg Ministers setting out the conditions required to make Europe a more attractive place for researchers to work. The UK referred to the importance of national action plans on researcher careers and mobility currently being developed in member states and the need to respect national competence which applied in key areas. It was also important to examine the specific needs of mobile researchers in the wider context of mobile workers as a whole and to maximise the use of existing European consultative groups in taking this agenda forward.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Northern Ireland Prison Service

The Minister of State, Northern Ireland Office (Paul Goggins): I have placed copies of the Northern Ireland Prison Service's Corporate and Business Plan for 2009-12 in the Libraries of both Houses.

The Corporate and Business Plan contains key performance targets I have set for the service for 2009-10. These are:

No escape for category A prisoners.

No more than three escapes per 1,000 category B, C or D prisoners.

The number of staff assaulted by prisoners is less than a ratio of 2.5 per 100 prisoners.

The number of prisoners assaulted by prisoners is less than a ratio of 3 per 100 prisoners.

An average of at least 20 hours constructive activity per week for each sentenced prisoner.

An average of at least 10 hours constructive activity per week for each remand prisoner.

To ensure 87 per cent. of prisoners serving six months or more are working to a resettlement plan and that 97 per cent. of lifers work to a life sentence plan, including preparation of the plan, within the first six months of sentence.

Each member of staff should receive an average of five training days.

Reduce the rate of absenteeism to 11 days by 2009-10.

Lay the "Annual Report and Audited Accounts" before Parliament prior to the summer recess.

Ensure the average cost per prisoner place does not exceed £78,750.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

EU Informal Competitiveness Council

The Minister for Trade, Development and Consumer Affairs (Mr. Gareth Thomas): The following statement provides information on the EU Informal Competitiveness Council which took place in Prague on 5 May 2009, at which my official Claire Durkin, director of Europe International Trade and Development at BERR, represented the UK.

The meeting started with the Commission presenting a paper on lessons learned from the 2004 EU enlargement and the future of the EU internal market. The Commission suggested that the priorities for improving the EU single market and responding to the economic crisis were services (implementation of the services directive), intellectual property (agreement on Community patent and a single patent court) and completing the interconnection of the EU's network industries (telecommunications, postal services, energy and transport sectors).

In discussion, member states agreed with these three priorities and that the single market was essential for EU economic recovery and growth. In addition, several member states highlighted the importance of avoiding protectionism and better implementation of single market legislation. All member states agreed that EU enlargement since 2004 had brought positive benefits to the EU. Member states suggested that future EU developments should be an increased focus on skills, innovation, the low-carbon economy, promoting EU standards externally, more cross-border internet sales, boosting consumer and social benefits, or delivering concrete achievements, such as a Community patent.

The UK agreed with the forward looking suggestions by the Commission and other member states. We stressed the need for the EU to be at the high-end of the value chain, noting in particular business opportunities in low-carbon, digital and services. We also pointed out that the UK is the sixth largest manufacturing country in the world and that we wanted the single market to work equally well for the manufacturing sector. In addition, we welcomed the Larosiere report on EU financial supervision and called for an integrated approach to better regulation and enforcement of EU single market rules.

The Commission also presented a paper on the EU better regulation programme and invited member states to share best practice from national programmes. Most member states were supportive of the EU action programme on administrative burden reductions. Several member states wanted the action programme to take account of new and amending regulations. Member states also wanted better impact assessments on Commission administrative burden reduction proposals. The UK representative stressed the need for co-operation and dialogue between member states on better regulation policies and for stronger EU impact assessments. We also suggested that the EU services directive should be an exemplar for EU legislation and that its implementation by the end of 2009 was important for EU's future competitiveness.

The UK strongly supported the Commission's proposal to allow member states the option to exempt micro-entities (companies with ten or fewer employees and less than €1 million turnover) from the EU accounting directives, which would bring major cost savings for the EU's smallest businesses. Germany, Denmark and Romania also stated their support for the proposal.

National Minimum Wage

The Minister for Employment Relations and Postal Affairs (Mr. Pat McFadden): In March 2008 the Government asked the Low Pay Commission to produce their next report on the national minimum wage by the end of February 2009. Due to the exceptional economic circumstances the Low Pay Commission asked the Government for more time to produce their report to allow them to take into account more recent economic data when making their recommendations. The Government granted this request and asked the Low Pay Commission to report by 1 May 2009. I would like to thank the Commissioners for all their hard work.

Low Pay Commission's 2009 report

The main recommendations put forward by the Low Pay Commission concern the rates of the minimum wage. The Commission have recommended that the adult hourly rate of the minimum wage should increase from £5.73 to £5.80. The Commission have recommended increasing the development rate, which covers workers aged 18 to 21-year-olds, from £4.77 to £4.83. They have recommended that the rate for 16 to 17-year-olds moves from £3.53 to £3.57. It is recommended that these changes take place in October 2009.

The Commission has also recommended that the accommodation offset increases from the current £4.46 to £4.51 in October 2009.

In addition, the Government accept the Commission's recommendations that a policy of "naming and shaming" be implemented for those employers who show wilful disregard for national minimum wage; accept that 21-year-olds should be moved on to the adult rate of the national minimum wage; accepts that commissioning policies of local authorities in respect of social care reflect the true cost of care provision including national minimum wage; and accepts that consideration should be given to tackling non-payment of minimum wage in the informal economy.

The Government note the Commission's recommendations that they wish to explore a national minimum wage rate for apprentices and that more resource should be dedicated to increase the number of prosecutions.

Government's response to individual recommendations in the Low Pay Commission's 2009 report

National Minimum Wage Rates

We recommend that the adult minimum wage rate should increase from £5.73 to £5.80 in October 2009.

We recommend that the youth development rate should increase from £4.77 to £4.83 in October 2009 and that the rate for 16 to17-year-olds should increase from £3.53 to £3.57 in October 2009.

We recommend that the accommodation offset should increase from £4.46 per day to £4.51 per day in October 2009.

ACCEPT

21-year-olds

We recommend again that 21-year-olds should be entitled to the adult rate of the national minimum wage.

ACCEPT

The Government accept that 21-year-old should be entitled to the adult rate of minimum wage. However, as employment for young people is particularly vulnerable in an economic downturn, this change will be implemented from October 2010.

Naming and shaming

We recommend that a "name and shame" policy should be put in place to expose those employers who show wilful disregard for the minimum wage.

ACCEPT

We believe greater transparency in this area is valid, particularly in the light of the fact that the NMW has now been in place for 10 years and is an established part of labour rights.

Apprentices

We recommend that a minimum wage for apprentices should be introduced under the national minimum wage framework.

We recommend that the Government ask the Low Pay Commission, as part of the work for its 2010 report, to consider the detailed arrangements for an apprentice minimum wage under the national minimum wage framework, and to recommend the rate and arrangements that should replace the existing exemptions, together with the timing for its introduction.

NOTE

We recognise the central role that apprentices play in developing skills in our economy. This is reflected in the Government's target of 250,000 people a year starting an apprenticeship in England by 2020 and our commitment that one in five young people will be on an apprenticeship by 2013.

Therefore we note this recommendation, and will respond to the recommendation in full at the time of setting the LPC's remit for 2010, which we plan to do in June.

Social Care

We recommend that the commissioning policies of local authorities and the NHS should reflect the actual costs of care, including the national minimum wage.

Accept

Sufficient resource to increase numbers of prosecutions

We recommend that the Government allocate sufficient resources to HMRC to increase significantly the number of errant employers prosecuted in a criminal court.

NOTE

We recognise the importance of the role that criminal prosecution plays in enforcing the NMW. Prosecutions are focused on cases that will do most to promote compliance with the law by deterring employers who deliberately disregard NMW requirements, and the Employment Act 2008 strengthened HMRC's ability to investigate suspected NMW offences. We will keep our approach to NMW enforcement under review to ensure that we have the most effective balance of civil and criminal enforcement activities.

Consideration of measures to tackle the informal economy

We recommend that the Government give urgent consideration to measures that can be taken to effectively tackle employers in the informal economy.

Accept

Tips and the National Minimum Wage

Although this is not part of the LPC's recommendations, the Government announced last year that we would change the regulations to stop the practice of tips being used to make up the NMW. We intend to proceed with this change in October alongside the LPC recommendations.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Safeguarding - Progress in Delivering ContactPoint

The Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (Ed Balls): On 26 January, I announced to the House the first steps to deploy the Government's online directory—ContactPoint. I can today provide an update on progress in delivering ContactPoint, and outline the next steps.

ContactPoint has been developed in response to a key recommendation of Lord Laming's inquiry into the tragic death of Victoria Climbié and is a vital tool designed to help keep children safe. In order to protect children it is crucial to ensure that the right agencies are involved at the right time and to improve the sharing of information between practitioners. ContactPoint will also help practitioners to improve outcomes for all children. It is a tool for practitioners to support better communication among practitioners working with children and young people across education, health, social care and youth offending services in the statutory and voluntary sectors. It will provide a quick way for those practitioners to find out who else is working with the same child or young person and ensure their best interests are promoted.

Under current arrangements, if a practitioner believes that a child is at risk or may need additional support, for example if they have a disability, they may have no way of knowing whether other services have been, or are already in contact with that child. In addressing these issues, the Government estimate that ContactPoint, when fully operational, can save at least 5 million hours of professionals' time, currently spent trying to track down who else, if anyone, is helping the child. Supporting professionals in this way is an important element of the plan of action I announced last week in response to Lord Laming's report on child protection. Lord Laming said in that report: "The new ContactPoint system will have particular advantages in reducing the possibility of children for whom there are concerns going unnoticed".

Since January, important progress has been made. Seventeen early adopter local authorities in the north west of England, along with leading national charities, Barnardo's and KIDS, now have trained management teams in preparation for practitioners to start to use the system. At the same time, as part of the extensive ContactPoint security arrangements, local authorities have shielded the records of children who are potentially at greater risk if their whereabouts were to become known, to provide an additional layer of security, (for example, if a child is fleeing domestic violence or is under witness protection, or in some cases where children have been adopted). Approximately 52,000 records have now been shielded on ContactPoint.

Building on this work, we will continue to take an incremental and steady approach to delivery. We are now moving ahead with the second phase of delivery. From 18 May, and over a period of several weeks, ContactPoint early adopters will train around 800 practitioners to use ContactPoint. They have been hand-picked to ensure they reflect the broad range of professionals working for children's services organisations who will use ContactPoint when the directory is fully rolled out. We will carefully monitor the activity of those practitioners considering what further improvements may be required in the light of their experience of using the system.

From June to August, we will train management teams in the other local authorities and national partners. This will allow them to prepare for deployment of ContactPoint more widely in due course.

Throughout this second phase, we will continue to evaluate the experience of early adopters. This will ensure that the deployment of ContactPoint continues to take account of the experience of new users in the next stages of delivery.

ContactPoint continues to be supported by major children's organisations, such as NSPCC, Barnardo's, Action for Children and KIDS, teachers' unions including NASUWT, as well as the Association of Chief Police Officers, the British Association of Social Workers, the Royal College of General Practitioners and the Children's Inter-Agency Group whose members include the LGA and the Royal College of Paediatrics and Child Health.

Park Home Site Licensing Provisions

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Iain Wright): I have today published a Consultation Paper, "Park Home Site Licensing—Improving the Management of Park Home Sites", that proposes the introduction of an improved park home site licensing system.

Licensing of park home sites is currently governed by the Caravan Sites and Control of Development Act 1960 (the 1960 Act), but the existing site licensing regime does not fully meet the needs of this part of the housing sector. Authorities in general are obliged to grant licences to anyone owning a park home site regardless of their suitability and cannot impose any condition relating to its management. Some sites are therefore run by unscrupulous or incompetent persons, and residents' rights and expectation are often not met, some becoming victims of exploitation and intimidation.

The Government want a thriving and well run sector that provides sites where people want to live. We want a licensing system that raises and maintains standards on sites and ensures they are safe, well planned and properly managed with appropriate facilities and services to meet the needs of residents.

The consultation builds upon decisions about proposals taken following an earlier consultation in 2005 and sets out for further consideration how the new licensing system might look. Persons engaged in the management of park home sites will need to demonstrate they have the relevant competences to manage sites. The new system will give local authorities duties to impose management conditions in licences and a range of enforcement tools to ensure that site licensing conditions are complied with. It will also allow local authorities to recover their costs in connection with their duties under the new provisions by charging appropriate fees. The proposals are intended to drive up the management standards in this sector and, in those parts of it where that is not possible, we intend to give local authorities powers to put alternative management arrangements in place.

I have also today published a paper setting out the Government's response to the May 2008 consultation "A new approach for resolving disputes and to proceedings relating to Park Homes under the Mobile Homes Act 1983 (as amended)". The paper sets out the Government's intention to transfer the jurisdiction on appeals and applications under the Mobile Homes Act 1983 from county courts to Residential Property Tribunals. The paper also includes a short consultation on additional protections for residents subject to proceedings in relation to the termination of their agreements following on from the previous consultation.

The aim of the transfer of the jurisdiction is to provide residents of mobile homes (including caravans) and the owners of sites on which they are located with a level playing field in the resolution of disputes, by providing access to a dedicated, low-cost specialist (housing) tribunal, which can deal with cases quickly and without the parties needing to be legally represented.

Park home residents and the sector more widely will benefit from the introduction of these proposals and will build upon work already done to assist and support residents and others with an interest in park homes. This also includes the recent publication of four new fact-sheets giving key information and basic guidance about commonly raised issues concerning park home sites.

The consultation on site licensing runs until 4 August 2009, and on the additional protections in relation to termination of agreements until 9 June 2009. Both publications have been placed in the Library of the House.

Right to Enfranchise Provisions

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Iain Wright): I have today published a consultation paper that proposes the non-implementation and repeal of the Right to Enfranchise (RTE) provisions in the 2002 Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act (the 2002 Act).

The 2002 Act sought through the RTE provisions to prevent what was at that time acknowledged to be a fairly limited problem: qualifying leaseholders being deliberately excluded when fellow leaseholders exercised statutory rights to purchase the freehold of the building containing their flats (called collective enfranchisement). However, it has become clear that implementation of the provisions would introduce a considerable amount of additional burdens, complexity and cost into the process.

The Government's view is that this would be to the overall detriment of leaseholders in general who are benefiting from the changes that have been made by the 2002 Act and earlier legislation to remove unreasonable barriers to enfranchisement.

Leaseholders will in due course also benefit from the introduction of regulations on accounting for leaseholders monies which will complete the programme of reform introduced under the 2002 Act.

The consultation runs until 3 August 2009 and the Government would welcome responses to their proposals up until that date. Copies of the paper, "A consultation paper on the right to enfranchise (RTE) provisions", have been placed in the Library of the House.

Gypsy and Traveller Caravan Count

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Iain Wright): The Government have today published the "Count of Gypsy and Traveller Caravans on 19 January 2009".

Copies have been placed in the Library of the House and can be accessed via the Communities and Local Government website at:

Housing and Planning Delivery Grant

The Minister for Housing (Margaret Beckett): I am today announcing the release of a consultation into proposed changes to the allocation mechanism for years 2 and 3 (2009/10 and 2010/11) of Housing and Planning Delivery Grant (HPDG). HPDG was established in 2007 to reward local authorities for improved delivery of housing and other planning outcomes as part of their strategic, place shaping role and to provide more support to communities and local councils who are actively seeking to deliver new homes. The decision to review the grant scheme follows our public commitment to monitor the grant in light of changes in economic circumstances.

Changes to the funding profile

The quantum of funding available for HPDG was set in a different economic context than where we are today. We remain committed to the short and long-term objective of increased housing supply and will continue to invest significant sums through HPDG for local authorities who deliver more homes, with funding doubling from £100 million in year 1 to £200 million in year 3. In addition, there will no longer be a capital element to the grant. However, current economic conditions have created new priorities both for Government and local authorities; we have therefore taken the decision to scale back the increase in HPDG and focus on delivering real help to the people who need it—and so have halved the rent increases facing council tenants this year.

Proposed changes to the allocation mechanism

We are also consulting on changes to the way the grant is allocated to ensure it recognises current challenges and encourages positive action by local authorities to facilitate recovery. Key reforms being proposed are:

To reduce the threshold of net additional homes needed to qualify for the housing element in year 3 in recognition of the more challenging conditions in the housing market.

To introduce additional eligibility requirements for demonstrating land for housing in order to reinforce existing requirements in planning policy statement 3 and increase confidence in the land supply position across the county.

To increase the percentage of the planning element awarded for demonstrating land for housing in year 2 in recognition of the importance of land supply in supporting development.

We are also consulting on proposals for an additional HPDG element in year 3 specifically to incentivise the delivery of affordable housing.

Empowerment

Meaningful community involvement is an integral part of the planning system. The White Paper "Communities in Control: Real People, Real Power" announced up to £4 million additional funding for local planning authorities to promote community participation in planning. This funding is in addition to HPDG; however, we propose to use the HPDG mechanism to distribute this additional funding. The proposed allocation criteria would support those authorities whom we would expect to be undertaking significant community engagement work, either in developing their core strategy or delivering high levels of new housing, and who have already identified community empowerment as a priority for their overall performance.

A copy of the consultation document has been placed in the House Library and is available on the Communities and Local Government website at:

NORTHERN IRELAND

Probation Board for Northern Ireland (Business Plan 2009-10)

The Minister of State, Northern Ireland Office (Paul Goggins): I have today published the "Probation Board for Northern Ireland Business Plan for 2009-10". The plan sets out the board's key objectives and performance targets for the coming year.

Copies have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Agency Targets and Business Plans

The Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (James Purnell): I am today able to announce the annual performance targets for 2009-10 for the two executive agencies of the Department for Work and Pensions. The targets I have agreed are set out.

Further information on the plans of Jobcentre Plus and the Pension, Disability and Carers Service in 2009-10 is contained in their individual "Business Plans" which have been published today. Copies have been placed in the Library.

Jobcentre Plus (2009-10 Targets)

Job Outcome Target (million points)	To achieve a total points score of 9 million based on our priority customer groups.
Interventions Delivery Target	To make sure that specified Jobcentre Plus labour market interventions take place within set timescales in 85% of cases checked.
Employer Engagement Target	At least 92% of employers placing their vacancies with Jobcentre Plus will have a positive outcome.
Customer Service Target	To achieve an 86% customer service level in the delivery of the standards set out in the Customer and Employers Charters.
Fraud and Error	To play a key role to prevent and detect overpayments and underpayments of benefit consistent with the Department's aspiration to reduce total overpaid expenditure across all benefits to 1.8% and underpaid expenditure to 0.7% by March 2011.
	The target is supported by a suite of non-published measures of activities to pay our customers the right benefit at the right time.
Average Actual Clearance Times Tartet[1]	To process claims within specified Average Actual Clearance Times:
Jobseeker's Allowance	11.5 days
Income Support	10 days

[1]A shadow target for Employment and Support Allowance is under development and will be monitored closely during 2009-10 to inform target-setting for 2010-11.

Pension , Disability and Carers Service (2009-10 Targets)

Benefit take-up	To deliver at least 255,000 successful new Pension Credit applications.
Accuracy	Pension Credit financial accuracy of new claims and changes of circumstance: 93% first half year; 94% second half year.
	State Pension financial accuracy of new claims and changes of circumstance: 98%.
	Financial accuracy of Carers Allowance: 98%.
	Accuracy of decisions for Disability Living Allowance (DLA): 94%.
	Accuracy of decisions for Attendance Allowance (AA): 94%.
New Claims Clearance Times	Clear new applications for Pension Credit (measured from date all evidence is received) within an average of 15 days.
	Clear 95% of new claims for State Pension within 60 days.
	Clear new claims for Disability Living Allowance within an average of 38 days.
	Clear new claims for Attendance Allowance within an average of 16 days.
	Clear new claims for Carer's Allowance within an average of 13.5 days.
Fraud and Error	Reduce the proportion of benefit overpaid due to fraud and error in Pension Credit to 4.5% by March 2011.
Telephony	At least 93% of calls to be answered by an adviser.
	Less than 1% of calls receiving an engaged /busy tone.

TREASURY

Double Taxation Convention (United Kingdom and Mexico)

The Financial Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. Stephen Timms): A new protocol to the Double Taxation Convention with Mexico was signed on 23 April 2009. The text of the protocol has been deposited in the Libraries of both Houses and made available on HM Revenue and Customs' website. The text will be scheduled to a draft Order in Council and laid before the House of Commons in due course.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Part G of the Building Regulations

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Iain Wright): I have today laid before the House regulations that amend Part G of the Building Regulations addressing sanitation, hot water safety and water efficiency.

These amendments follow a wide reaching review of Part G of the Building Regulations and consultation on the detailed proposals in May last year and in the earlier consultation in December 2006 on the water efficiency for new buildings element.

The main changes are:

Delivering on the commitment we made in July 2007 to introduce into the Building Regulations for the first time a water efficiency standard of 125 litres per person per day for new homes.

Introducing a requirement that baths in new homes are fitted with protective measures, such as a thermostatic mixing valve, to limit the temperature of the hot water, thereby helping to reduce the number of scalding injuries there are each year.

Introducing amendments to the existing provisions on hot water systems so that they apply to all such systems. The legislation and guidance also introduces additional controls to ensure hot water systems are able to resist the effects of temperature and pressure during normal operation and in the event of malfunction and are adequately supported.

Amending the existing requirements on the provision of cold water to specify the delivery of wholesome water to key appliances and to clarify where grey-water and harvested rainwater can be safely used.

Copies of the approved document have been placed in the Library of the House. This document will shortly be notified to the European Commission under the European standards directive and therefore remains in draft form until we have formal clearance.

In addition, we are also today publishing the "Water Efficiency Calculator for New Dwellings" that will be used to estimate water usage for the purposes of both Part G of the Building Regulations and for the code for sustainable homes. I have also placed copies of this document in the Library of the House.

The Department will also shortly be inviting bodies to apply for authorisation of competent person schemes to support the amended Part G and the new requirements on water efficiency. It is hoped that any such schemes would be authorised to begin operation on 1 October 2009 to coincide with the coming into effect of these regulations.

Housing

The Minister for Housing (Margaret Beckett): I have today published a consultation paper, "The Private Rented Sector: Professionalism and Quality", which forms the Government response to the Rugg review of the private rented sector and can also confirm my intention to legislate at the earliest opportunity to improve notice for tenants when landlords are repossessed. These two initiatives together create a major new package of measures to strengthen consumer protections for tenants living in private rented accommodation. Copies have been placed in the Library of the House.

The Government value the private rented sector and recognise that it plays an important role in providing choice and flexibility at all levels across the housing market and so want to improve its quality, by increasing professionalism, driving out bad landlords, and strengthening protections for tenants affected by repossessions. Today's response builds on the high level proposals in an independent review of the private rented sector by Julie Rugg and David Rhodes (October 2008).

Our proposals include a national register of landlords for England with a redress procedure for tenants; full regulation for private sector letting agents with an independent regulator to regulate all letting and managing agents; greater local authority support for good landlords and action against poor performing landlords; and encouragement to local authorities to create "local lettings agencies".

The proposals also seek to identify ways in which those who regularly engage with the private rented sector can support landlords as they increase in professionalism and seek to improve their stock. This is also a way to attract new landlords and new funding into the sector. The measures we are developing with the Homes and Communities Agency build on this by seeking ways to encourage more institutional investment in private rented homes.

The consultation runs until 7 August 2009.

I am also announcing today my intention to legislate at the earliest opportunity to provide better protection for tenants in repossession cases.

At present, a gap in legal protections means that some tenants could be evicted at short notice if their landlord is repossessed—sometimes with less than two weeks to move their belongings and find somewhere new to live. I propose to extend this notice period to two months. These changes are part of a wider package of support the Government have put in place to support households at risk of repossession in the current economic climate.

In the meantime, lenders and Government are working together to try to mitigate the impact on tenants whose landlords are in arrears including by promoting and sharing good practice between lenders through the Council of Mortgage Lenders. Very often tenants can be adversely affected because the borrower is in breach of the terms of his mortgage. Changes to the rules for informing tenants if their landlord is due to attend a court repossession hearing have already come into effect. We now want to ensure that in these cases where a landlord repossession takes place following the hearing, the tenant gets a two-month notice period.

Both these initiatives—our response to the Rugg review and the measures on repossessions—are positive, constructive steps we are taking to enhance and strengthen a key housing sector, and to provide a balanced range of protection to those who provide private rented accommodation and those millions of people who live in it.

Local Government

The Minister for Local Government (John Healey): On 26 March I made a statement to the House on council tax capping. In this, I set out the action that the Government proposed to take, under the Local Government Finance Act 1992, against two police authorities which had set excessive budget requirement and council tax increases in 2009-10 according to the principles that I announced, Official Report, columns 464-65. These were the police authorities of Derbyshire and Surrey. Both authorities were "designated" and the Government proposed maximum 2009-10 budget requirements for each authority.

Both authorities exercised their right to challenge these proposed maximum budget requirements and made written submissions in support of their cases. In addition, I and the Policing Minister, together met delegations from each authority to hear the cases in person.

I can now announce how my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government intends to proceed, having carefully considered these representations, and having taken into account all relevant information. In putting forward their challenges, neither authority has, in the Secretary of State's view, presented strong arguments as to why an excessive increase was necessary, or demonstrated that the pressures identified acted disproportionately upon them to any significant extent compared to other authorities. We intend therefore to take action in both cases.

After careful consideration, the Secretary of State has decided to take the following action:

first, we will proceed with the designation of Surrey Police Authority in 2009-10 at the level of the original budget requirement cap (£197,206,000); secondly, we will cancel the designation of Derbyshire Police Authority and nominate it instead with a proposed notional budget requirement at the level of the original budget requirement cap (£163,511,000).

In the case of Surrey Police Authority, the House will recall that last year the authority was set a notional budget requirement in 2008-09 instead of being designated for in-year capping in that year. This allowed the authority to keep all of its excessive increase in 2008-09, avoided the need for it to rebill and gave it an opportunity to avoid setting an excessive increase in the current financial year, 2009-10. Surrey Police Authority has failed to take that opportunity. I am particularly mindful that I provided an assurance to the House during the capping debate on 9 July 2008 that the residents of all the authorities which were set notional budget requirements last year, including those in Surrey, would be protected against excessive increases in 2009-10. I consider that the Government must take meaningful action which makes good that commitment.

The approach we have taken, in nominating Derbyshire Police Authority and setting a notional budget requirement is equivalent to the action we took against Surrey Police Authority in 2008-09. It is intended to limit the authority's scope for setting excessive increases in subsequent years. This will be achieved by measuring future budget requirement increases for capping purposes against its 2009-10 notional budget requirement. From the actions we have taken this year, the authority should be in no doubt that the Government will take firm action, should we need to do so next year, to ensure that council tax payers are provided with adequate protection.

My officials are writing to both authorities today to inform them of these decisions. Subject to approval of an order which we intend to lay before the House following the local and European elections in June, Surrey Police Authority will need to rebill its residents for a lower level of council tax. Derbyshire Police Authority, having been nominated in 2009-10 and set a notional budget requirement, has 21 days from receipt of the notification in which to challenge its proposed notional budget requirement.

Ideally the Government would not be taking capping action, but the Government consistently made it clear that we would act to protect council taxpayers from excessive increases. This is what we have done. I am nevertheless conscious of the fact that local government generally has done a great deal to ensure that they do not place unnecessary pressures on their council taxpayers. More than 99 per cent. of authorities did not set excessive increases—and the average Band D council tax increase in England for 2009-10 is 3 per cent. The average household council tax bill is almost £240 lower than the average Band D amount, and will increase by just 2.6 per cent.—the lowest such increase since council tax was introduced in 1993.

There is no excuse for excessive increases in council tax and authorities should remain in no doubt that the Government will not hesitate to use their capping powers to deal with excessive increases in future years, including requiring authorities to rebill residents if this proves necessary.

DEFENCE

Joint Aircraft Recovery and Transportation Squadron Basing Study

The Minister for the Armed Forces (Mr. Bob Ainsworth): I am able to inform the House today of the outcome of the Royal Air Force study that has been undertaken to consider the future basing requirements of the Joint Aircraft Recovery and Transportation Squadron (JARTS) units as part of our continuing commitment to ensuring that the best use is made of the Defence Estate.

The primary role of JARTS is to manage the recovery and transportation of both military and, in some instances, civilian aircraft. Currently, there is a team based at Vector Aerospace Fleetlands, in Gosport, which deals with helicopter recovery and transportation; and a team at MOD St. Athan which deals with fixed wing aircraft. The study was undertaken to consider options to collocate the rotary and fixed wing elements, to identify the best value for money and most affordable basing options to meet the operational and training requirements of JARTS.

Based on the recommendations of this work, I have decided that the rotary wing element, currently located at Vector Aerospace Fleetlands, and fixed wing element, currently located at MOD St. Athan, will collocate at MOD Boscombe Down, subject to Trades Union consultation. Not only does this option represent the best value for money and generate savings which cannot be achieved through the current dislocated nature of the organisation, it also offers operational benefits through simplified command and control processes and increased operational flexibility. Subject to the necessary infrastructure being in place, the collocation is due to be complete by late 2010. Service and civilian personnel will be briefed on the progress of the move.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcohol

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department (Mr. Alan Campbell): Today my right hon. Friend the Home Secretary is launching a consultation on the new code of practice for alcohol retailers that will ensure the responsible sale and supply of alcohol in order to tackle alcohol-related crime, disorder and nuisance. The code will consist of a series of mandatory and discretionary local conditions under the Licensing Act and requirements under the Food Safety Act, with statutory guidance to underpin its implementation. We are currently taking enabling powers for this code through the Policing and Crime Bill.

The consultation will run from today until the 5 August 2009. We want to hear views, experiences and evidence from members of the public, those who retail alcohol and represent the industry, licensing authorities and the police who have to enforce licensing policy, and health agencies who have to deal with the impact of alcohol-related harm.

The Home Secretary will report back later this year with the findings of this consultation and will then, at a later date, lay the secondary legislation to bring the code into force.

Copies of the consultation will be placed in the Vote Office and the House Library.

Serious Organised Crime Agency (Annual Report)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for the Home Department (Mr. Alan Campbell): The annual report of the Serious Organised Crime Agency for 2008-09 is being published and laid before Parliament today. As required by the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005, the report includes an assessment of the extent to which the annual plan for 2008-09 has been carried out.

Copies of the report will be available in the Vote Office.

JUSTICE

Bail Accommodation and Support Service

The Minister of State, Ministry of Justice (Mr. David Hanson): I am today announcing that the Government intend to re-tender the contract for the bail accommodation and support service.

The primary aim of the bail accommodation and support service is to provide accommodation and support services to enable the courts and prison governors to make greater use of conditional bail and early release on home detention curfew, in appropriate cases. The scheme allows defendants without an appropriate address, who would otherwise have been granted bail by the courts, to be bailed. It helps to ensure that prison is reserved for people who really need to be there, not people who the courts judge to be suitable for bail or who prison governors judge may be placed on home detention curfew.

The core requirement of the current BASS contract is to make suitable accommodation available at relatively short notice; to seek to ensure that service users comply with the conditions of their orders or licences; and, where necessary, be able to deliver access to a range of accommodation and life skills support services.

The current contract commenced on 18 June 2007 for an initial period of three years and to date over 3300 people have been placed in the service; on a daily basis there are over 400 service users managed within the scheme.

I welcome views on how we can further strengthen this service to improve compliance with orders and licences and reduce re-offending.

OLYMPICS

Government Olympic Executive Quarterly Economic Report

The Minister for the Olympics (Tessa Jowell): Please find below details of the decisions taken at yesterday's meeting of the Ministerial Funders' Group, and of the Government Olympic Executive's first Quarterly Economic Report, which is published today.

Funders' Group Meeting—12 May 2009

The Funders' Group[1] met yesterday and agreed that a further £324 million of the Olympic public sector funding package would be invested in the Olympic Village.

The funders decided that a public sector approach offered better value for money than a deal with private developer Lend Lease and would cost substantially less public money in the long term. The terms of the Lend Lease deal had been materially affected by the economic downturn, such that it no longer offered best value for money. Previous releases of contingency (totalling £326 million) have kept the progress on site on track over the last year.

The decision to make a further £324 million available to the ODA makes a total of £650 million being made available to deliver the village for the games.

This further investment now means the public sector will own the village and receive returns from sales after the games.

Over the medium to long term, as the market improves, the ODA will seek alternative private investment and management for the village on terms more favourable to the taxpayer. At least all of the additional £324 million public investment being made today from contingency and savings is expected to be returned after the games when the flats are sold.

To fund this investment, the Funders Group agreed to release £324 million of public funding from within the Olympic budget. Of this, £261 million comes directly from the contingency fund while £63 million is from savings made elsewhere across the ODA's programme.

Following a competitive tender process the ODA was in discussions with developer Lend Lease about private sector investment into part of the village development. Lend Lease has already been appointed construction and development manager and this remains unchanged.

Lend Lease and its banking consortium were prepared to invest up to £150 million of equity, involving a return to Lend Lease, and £225 million of bank debt to finance part of the construction and development costs.

However, the current economic climate has resulted in the private sector becoming more risk averse and, for the deal to proceed, the ODA would have had to carry an increased level of risk.

After careful assessment it is clear that the publicly funded option will provide the best value for money over the longer term.

It was also confirmed today that agreement in principle has been reached for a further £268 million to be invested in the Village through the pre-sale arrangement for the affordable housing element. This funding is separate to the Olympic budget and made up of grant from the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) and lending from a private sector banking consortium on commercial terms.

This means the funding for the village has now been confirmed. The total cost of the village, including £147 million of post games development costs, can now be confirmed as £1,095 million. This will be funded using:

£650 million of public investment

£268 million of funding for social housing with the balance funded from sales of private housing.

Our valuations demonstrate that at least all of the contingency being invested today and the balance needed to meet the total cost of the village will be recouped in sales. It is impossible to know exactly how much will be recouped from private housing sales, given the uncertainty of the market, but independent analysis has supported the valuation used.

Construction work on the village started on schedule last June and remains on track with building now underway on four out of the eleven residential blocks.

Quarterly Economic Report—May 2009

I have today published the Government Olympic Executive's first Quarterly Economic Report—"London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games Quarterly Economic Report May 2009".

The report explains the latest budget position including the impact of the decisions made at the Funders' Group meeting on 12 May 2009.

Due to cost savings and good management the overall forecast cost of the programme has reduced by £179 million since our last report in January to £7.234 billion—being £865 million less than the maximum budget available.

It also outlines the progress that has been made since January 2009 on providing support for businesses and individuals through training, apprenticeships and other initiatives.

The report shows that, after taking into account the £324 million made available to the ODA yesterday, around £1.3 billion of contingency remains unreleased and the overall programme remains on time and within budget.

It also demonstrates the real impact that the games are having now—providing skills, training, apprenticeships and jobs for individuals and contracts to UK businesses—and how they are helping to prepare the new, post-downturn economy.

This is the first quarterly report produced by the Government Olympic Executive. It marks a shift from a six-monthly to a quarterly reporting cycle, which will increase further the transparency of the project.

I would like to commend this report to the Members of both Houses and thank them for their continued interest and support of the London 2012 Games.

Copies of the Quarterly Economic Report May 2009 are available at: www.culture.gov.uk and will be deposited in the Libraries of both Houses.

'The Ministerial Funders' Group is chaired by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and also consists of the Chief Secretary to the Treasury, Minister for the Olympics, Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport, Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government and Secretary of State for Transport. The Mayor of London attends but is not a member.

Written Answers (Correction)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Transport (Paul Clark): I wish to inform the House that the consolidated answer I gave on 22 April 2009, Official Report, column 758W to four Parliamentary Questions 267114, 267115, 267117 and 267165 regarding the distribution of salt for the treatment of roads, during January and February 2009 was not sufficiently clear in respect of the restrictions that drivers' hours had on deliveries.

The answer advised that "During the weekend of the 7 and 8 February 2009, one of the primary salt suppliers could not make deliveries due to drivers' hours restrictions".

The restriction on drivers' hours was lifted on 6 February, specifically to allow salt deliveries to take place. However, due to the extensive logistics required to plan deliveries and the late stage at which the drivers' hours relaxation was received, a salt supplier, with whom the Highway Agency were in direct contact (via the Central Government led "Salt Cell") to discuss the distribution of salt, confirmed it would not be possible to deliver over the weekend of 7 and 8 February.

Given the critical need for salt over that weekend, the Highways Agency put in place appropriate arrangements to facilitate immediate deliveries.

Sustainable Travel City (Demonstration Project)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Transport (Paul Clark): I am today announcing that large urban areas across England are being given the chance to bid to become the country's first Sustainable Travel City.

Up to £29 million will be invested over three years in at least one of England's larger cities to encourage greener travel choices. These could include plans to support walking, cycling and initiatives to improve public transport.

This follows the success of the Department for Transport's three Sustainable Travel Towns who, over the last five years, have seen car use fall by up to 9 per cent., walking increase by up to 14 per cent., and cycling increase by at least 12 per cent..

The aims of the Sustainable Travel City or Cities are to ease congestion, reduce carbon dioxide emissions and increase levels of physical activity in the local area. By achieving this, the city will provide a model for others to follow. The chosen city will introduce innovative new strategies and build on existing work to achieve this, which could include:

- work or school travel planning;
- cycle training;
- personalised travel planning;
- online journey planning;
- car share schemes;
- car clubs;
- reviewing parking provision;
- dedicated bus routes;
- improved bus stops and shelter;
- cycling/pedestrian routes;
- 20 mph zones.

The major urban areas eligible to apply suffer from the worst congestion in the country. The nine areas are; Greater Manchester, West Midlands, West Yorkshire, South Yorkshire, Tyne and Wear, Merseyside, West of England (Bristol), Nottingham and Leicester.

We are also announcing up to £3 million of funding to smaller local authorities areas to help them develop their own green travel initiatives.

WORK AND PENSIONS

UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (Jonathan Shaw): I am pleased to announce that the Government are taking the final steps towards ratification of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, and we aim to deposit our instrument of ratification with the United Nations on Monday 8 June. I will make a further announcement when this has been done.

The Government have given very careful consideration to the views that have been expressed in response to the Explanatory Memorandum which we laid before Parliament on 3 March setting out the basis on which we propose to ratify, including those of the Joint Committee on Human Rights in their report of 17 April. It remains our view that the handful of reservations and the interpretative declaration are required and we will now proceed to ratification on that basis.

With regard to education, an interpretative declaration will be entered to make clear that the UK general education system includes both mainstream and special schools, thereby clarifying how the UK Government interpret the Convention. A reservation will be entered to allow for circumstances where disabled children's needs may be best met through specialist provision, which may be some way from their home, and which means that they will need to be educated outside their local community. This also maintains parental choice for schools outside the local community. The purpose of the interpretative declaration and reservation is to maintain the present policy and legislative position in respect of inclusive education.

On freedom of movement, a general reservation will be entered in order to retain the right to apply immigration rules and to retain the right to introduce wider health screening for applicants entering or seeking to remain in the UK, particularly in the event of a global health emergency, if this is considered necessary to protect public health.

A reservation will be entered in respect of service in the armed forces to preserve the position already reflected in the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 as amended (DDA). Service in the armed forces is exempt from the employment provisions of the DDA. This approach is entirely consistent with EU Council Directive 2000/78/EC establishing a general framework for equal treatment in employment and occupation. Service in any of the naval, military or air forces of the Crown are excluded from the DDA's employment provisions to preserve their combat effectiveness. The Government decided to exclude members of the armed forces in the DDA because armed forces personnel need to be combat effective in order to meet a world-wide liability to deploy, and to ensure that military health and fitness remain matters for Ministry of Defence Ministers based on military advice, not for the courts.

The Explanatory Memorandum of 3 March explained that the UK's reservation in respect of service in the armed forces and a complementary one proposed by the European Commission in respect of its proposals for European Community Conclusion (ie ratification) would be the subject of discussion. Following (and reflecting) discussion with the European Commission, the terms of that will be entered are:

> "The United Kingdom accepts the provisions of the Convention, subject to the understanding that none of its obligations relating to equal treatment in employment and occupation, shall apply to the admission into or service in any of the naval, military or air forces of the Crown".

This is a slight change in wording—but the substance and rational for the reservation have not changed.

A reservation will be entered in respect of Article 12.4, which concerns safeguards for the exercise of substituted decision-making and includes a requirement for "regular review" by a competent, independent and impartial authority or judicial body. There is currently no review system for Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) appointees, that is, people who are appointed to claim and collect benefits on behalf of another person due to that person's lack of physical or mental capacity. Those appointee arrangements are not at present subject to the safeguard of regular review, as the Government believe this Article requires. DWP is therefore actively working towards a proportionate system of review to address this issue.

Ratification of the Convention is our immediate objective, and represents the end of a detailed process. But equally importantly it marks a beginning, and enables the start of the process of implementing this important Convention within the UK.

Ratification of the Convention is further demonstration of our commitment to equality of human rights for disabled people, and our determination to achieve equality by 2025.

DEFENCE

Deepcut Boards of Inquiry

The Minister for the Armed Forces (Mr. Bob Ainsworth): I am announcing today the findings of the boards of inquiry (BOIs) into the tragic deaths at Deepcut of Privates Gray and Collinson.

The impact of their untimely deaths was felt, not just across the MOD, but across the nation. Our thoughts are with all their families and friends at this difficult time.

The BOIs were delayed due to the other investigations and reviews into the deaths at Deepcut, which had to be completed first. Having convened, they were subsequently reconvened to clarify evidence. We deeply regret the additional distress that the delay to the BOIs has caused to the families of Privates Gray and Collinson.

The next of kin were present at the BOI proceedings and have been presented with copies of the reports.

The board agrees with the coroner's open verdict in both cases. In the case of Private Collinson, the board concludes that there were no indications in his general behaviour during his time in the Army to suggest that he was at any risk. In the case of Private Gray, the BOI concurs with Blake in concluding that there is no substantial evidence supporting third-party involvement in his death. In addition to covering the specific circumstances surrounding the deaths, each report covers the background to Deepcut from 1993 until the time of the deaths, including such issues as discipline, staff selection, welfare support and guarding arrangements. Both reports also detail the changes that have been made since the deaths to address these issues.

The BOIs make 19 identical recommendations and the Gray BOI makes one further recommendation. The recommendations are wide-ranging and there is considerable overlap with those made in earlier reviews and investigations into the deaths at Deepcut. For this reason all have been addressed and further work has been put in train to ensure that all possible related improvements are made. The recommendations focus on support to bereaved families; the service inquiry process, including tracking the implementation of recommendations; and the need to maintain momentum with continuous improvement in the training environment.

The release of these BOIs does not alter our position on the need for a public inquiry. Given the range of investigations that have now taken place, we do not believe there is any wider public or service interest in pursuing one.

I will arrange for copies of both BOI reports, redacted in accordance with guidance on the Freedom of Information Act and the Data Protection Act, to be placed in the Library of the House. Both documents will also be published on the MOD website at www.foi.mod.uk.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

General Affairs and External Relations Council

The Minister for Europe (Caroline Flint): The General Affairs and External Relations Council (GAERC) will be held on 18 and 19 May in Brussels. My right hon. Friends the Foreign Secretary, the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Defence, Baroness Taylor of Bolton, and my hon. Friend the Minister of State for International Development will represent the UK.

The agenda items are as follows:

GENERAL AFFAIRS

Preparation of the 18 and 19 June European Council

EU Foreign Ministers will discuss the presidency's agenda for the June European Council. The European Council will focus on EU institutional issues and agree Ireland's guarantees on the Lisbon treaty. The Council will also discuss the economic, financial and social situation and will take first decisions on financial regulation based on the Commission's proposals on the De Larosiere report, as well as examining progress on the G20 London summit outcomes. There will also be a discussion on climate change funding mechanisms in order to develop an EU position ahead of the UN climate change conference in Copenhagen in December.

The Government support these discussions at the June European Council. We welcome the continued co-ordinated EU response to the economic and financial situation and look forward to the Council discussing credible options for an ambitious climate finance offer.

EXTERNAL RELATIONS

EU-Russia Summit preparations

The Council will discuss preparations for the EU-Russia summit, which is taking place in Khabarovsk on 21 and 22 May. In this context the Council will also discuss EU-Russia relations, taking stock of the state of negotiations on a successor to the EU-Russia Partnership and Co-operation Agreement, and a range of international issues of common interest to the EU and Russia.

At the summit, the EU will reaffirm its commitment to wide-ranging engagement with Russia, which the Government support as being in the UK and EU's interests. We are willing to pursue active co-operation on important international issues, but also insist that Russia plays a responsible international role, keeping to international commitments it has made, including on Georgia. We will provide Parliament with a full update following the summit.

Moldova

Ministers may discuss Moldova, following their discussion at the April GAERC about the post-election demonstrations and the authorities' reaction. The Government remain concerned about human rights abuses, and we encourage the Moldovan authorities to allow an independent investigation into the events following the demonstrations. We recognise Moldova's aspirations of closer integration with the EU, but maintain that this relationship must be based on a firm commitment to human rights as enshrined in the Eastern Partnership.

Iran

Following the April GAERC, which agreed conclusions, this discussion should be an opportunity to broaden the debate and again encourage the EU to consider how it can best support US engagement. Member states will look to the Council secretariat to update them on the Iranian response to the E3+3's invitation to recommence talks as soon as possible—Iran has so far sent no reply.

We will stress the opportunity that the E3+3 offer presents to Iran and the necessity for the EU to give its full backing to the renewed diplomatic efforts and the dual-track strategy, and encourage other member states to express their views on the most effective way forward. We will encourage further discussions on Iran over the coming months in the EU as the diplomatic situation develops.

Georgia

The Council will discuss the current situation in Georgia, including the EU's continued call for dialogue between the Government and the political opposition following a month of protests in Tbilisi. Ministers are likely to focus on the EU's current and future engagement with Georgia. The discussion is likely to include issues such as progress on trade agreements, visa facilitation and other elements arising from the Eastern Partnership summit on 7 May, as well as a discussion of the activities of the EU Monitoring Mission in Georgia.

AOB

Sri Lanka

We would support Council conclusions outlining the EU's serious concern about recent reports of mass civilian casualties in the conflict area. The Government are appalled by these reports; our position is that the fighting must stop, and that the safety and security of those civilians who remain in the conflict area is a priority. The Council is likely to call on the Government of Sri Lanka to allow full and unhindered access for humanitarian agencies to IDPs wherever they are; and to underline the EU's determination to press the Government of Sri Lanka to make urgent progress on an inclusive political solution to the conflict.

Illegal Migration

There will be a short discussion of illegal migration in the Mediterranean region, at the request of Greece. We expect Ministers to focus on increasing and strengthening co-operation in Europe to tackle the increasing flows of illegal migration. The UK supports this and recognises the particular challenges that are faced by Greece and other Mediterranean countries. We are also keen to further the UK's bilateral relationship with Greece on migration through the provision of technical advice and assistance.

JOINT SESSION OF EU FOREIGN AND DEFENCE MINISTERS

Bosnia and Herzegovina

The Council is likely to review progress made to date on the five objectives and two conditions ("5+2") required for the closure of the Office of the High Representative in Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH), and future prospects for achieving these. The UK will note the lack of progress made since the March meeting of the Peace Implementation Council. We will reaffirm our commitment to the "5+2" needing to be completed before transition to a solely EU special representative-led mission can occur. We also expect Ministers to discuss options for drawdown of EUFOR, the EU's military mission.

Somalia/Piracy

Please refer to the EU Defence Ministers section below, which refers to the EU's counter-piracy operation Atalanta.

EU DEFENCE MINISTERS

The European Defence Agency Steering Board will meet in the EU Defence Ministers formation on 18 May. Ministers will be presented with the agency's draft three-year EDA work plan in order to support the setting of a three year financial framework at a GAERC to be held under the Swedish presidency in the second half of 2009.

Ministers will also be given an update on seven European Defence Agency capability projects. This will include the multi-national helicopter initiative (previously the UK-France helicopter initiative) which has raised €27 million towards the cost of upgrading European helicopters and training pilots to deploy to operational theatres. Defence Ministers will reflect on the EUFOR military operation in Chad and the Central African Republic which ended in March 2009. Over lunch, Defence Ministers will talk about the issue of EU co-operation with partners, with a particular focus on productive co-operation with NATO.

In both the joint session of Foreign and Defence Ministers and the separate Defence Ministers session, Ministers will discuss ongoing EU military operations including the next steps for the ALTHEA mission in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Ministers will also discuss the EU's counter-piracy operation Atalanta, which is led by a British Rear-Admiral from the multi-national headquarters at Northwood, as it approaches the six-month review point.

EU DEVELOPMENT MINISTERS

The Council will discuss how the EU can support developing countries in coping with the economic crisis. We expect conclusions to set out a series of measures with a particular focus on honouring our existing aid commitments and supporting progress towards the millennium development goals. The conclusions should also outline how the EU will help support the G20 London summit recommendations on development. Other items on the agenda include a discussion of potential areas for EU/US co-operation, a Commission update on the economic partnership agreements; a preliminary discussion on democratic governance, which will be more fully considered under the Swedish presidency; climate financing; and Kenya.

The UK also intends to raise Sri Lanka in the context of EU development policy.

NORTHERN IRELAND

The Police Service of Northern Ireland and the Northern Ireland Policing Board

The Minister of State, Northern Ireland Office (Paul Goggins): I have today placed copies of the Framework Documents for the Police Service of Northern Ireland and the Northern Ireland Policing Board in the Libraries of both Houses.

TRANSPORT

Maritime and Coastguard Agency (Ministerial Targets)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Transport (Jim Fitzpatrick): I am pleased to announce the broad objectives and specific ministerial targets for the Maritime and Coastguard Agency (MCA) for 2009-10.

These are:

Safety Objective—Through accident prevention and effective search and rescue co-ordination and response, improve the safety of ships and people at sea and at the coast.

Performance under this objective will be measured against the following ministerial delivery targets:

MT1— Maintain the quality of maritime emergency co-ordination and response by the coastguard.

MT2a— Helicopters tasked to respond to incidents will be airborne within 15 minutes during daylight hours and 45 minutes at night in at least 98 per cent. of cases.

MT2b— At each MCA search and rescue helicopter base, a helicopter will be available at least 98 per cent. of the contracted time to respond to incidents.

MT3— Meet the internationally required target to inspect 25 per cent. of foreign vessels in UK ports under port state control arrangements, with an increasing emphasis on inspecting available ships judged to be high-risk.

MT4— Maintain the quality of the UK Ship Register by reducing the level of deficiencies recorded on UK ships inspected abroad, and maintain a position on the Paris MOU White List which is comparable to registers of a similar size and reputation.

MT5— As a Category 1 Responder, continue to meet the provisions of the Civil Contingencies Act including increased engagement with local resilience forums (LRF).

MT6— Respond promptly to potential and actual pollution from ships around the UK coast, drawing effectively on resources including our emergency tugs, and following the procedures set out in the National Contingency Plan.

Under this objective the MCA will also continue with their three-year programme of work in the following areas:

Seafarer Fatigue—working with the shipping industry and seafarer unions on a coherent strategy to reduce seafarer fatigue.

Fishing Vessels—working with the fishing industry to improve the safety of small fishing vessels (under 15 metres).

Lifejackets—working with the agency's partner organisations (including the Royal National Lifeboat Institution and the Royal Yachting Association), to promote the wearing of lifejackets within the leisure sector.

Environment Objective—Through our monitoring of ships and response to pollution incidents protect the marine environment.

Performance under this objective will be measured against the following ministerial delivery target:

MT6—Respond promptly to potential and actual pollution from ships around the UK coast, drawing effectively on resources including our emergency tugs, and following the procedures set out in the National Contingency Plan.

Under this objective the MCA will continue its three-year programme of work covering:

Vessel Traffic Management—identifying the future requirements of sea space management and the role the agency may perform and continue to implement the European Vessel Traffic Monitoring Directive (VTMD) through UK law and monitoring the vessels operating in UK waters.

The agency will also continue to monitor its performance through a range of service standards and measured outcomes which will be reported in its published annual report and accounts.

DEFENCE

Non-Competitive Government Contracts (Profit Formula)

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Defence (Mr. Quentin Davies): The Government have accepted the findings of the review board for Government contracts as detailed in their report of the 2009 annual review of the profit formula for non-competitive Government contracts. The board's recommendations will be implemented in accordance with arrangements subsequently agreed with the industry side and recorded in an addendum to the published report. I will be placing a copy of the report in the Library of the House. The recommendations will be implemented for new non-competitive work with effect from 1 June 2009.

JUSTICE

Coroners and Justice Bill

The Secretary of State for Justice and Lord Chancellor (Mr. Jack Straw): In some rare but very important cases there may be highly sensitive information directly relevant to the circumstances of the death but which cannot be made public in any way. To meet this problem the Coroners and Justice Bill contains provisions to dispense with a jury inquest in certain tightly defined circumstances. These provisions have greatly been improved during their Commons' scrutiny. Now the decisions as to whether to hold a non-jury inquest would be made within the criteria by a High Court judge, sitting as a coroner. The main provisions on this are in clause 11. By clause 12 the blanket ban on the admission of intercept evidence was modified for the purposes of these special inquests.

The Government felt these changes struck a fair and proportionate balance between the interests of bereaved families, the need to protect sensitive material and judicial oversight of the whole process.

However, following further discussions in the House and with interested parties it is clear the provisions still do not command the necessary cross party support and in these circumstances the Government will table amendments to remove clauses 11 and 12 (and the equivalent Northern Ireland provisions) from the Bill.

Where it is not possible to proceed with an inquest under the current arrangements, the Government will consider establishing an inquiry under the Inquiries Act 2005 to ascertain the circumstances the deceased came by his or her death. Each case will be looked at on its own individual merits. As with the provisions in respect of the certification of coroners' investigations, we would expect to resort to such a procedure only in very exceptional and rare circumstances.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Companies House

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (Ian Pearson): I have set Companies House the following targets for the year 2009-10:

Customer

To achieve a score of more than 86 per cent. in each quarterly Companies House customer satisfaction survey.

To achieve on average a monthly compliance rate for accounts submitted of 95.3 per cent.

To achieve an electronic filing target for accounts of 20 per cent.

To achieve an electronic filing target for other transactions of 67 per cent.

To ensure that 95 per cent. of electronic documents can be accessed within 60 seconds by search customers from the Companies House Direct download area.

To resolve 97 per cent. of all complaints within 5 days.

The chief executive to reply within 10 days to all letters from members of Parliament delegated to him to reply.

Process

To ensure that 95 per cent. of electronic transactions received are available to view on the public record within 72 hours.

To ensure that 95 per cent. of paper transactions received are available to view on the public record within 8 days.

To ensure that 99.5 per cent. of images placed on the Companies House image system are legible and complete.

To ensure that Companies House Direct, WebCheck and WebFiling are available for 99 per cent. of the time between the hours of 7.00 am and midnight.

People

To ensure that our average work days lost per person is no more than 10.

To improve the operational energy efficiency rating of Companies House's headquarters building by 10 per cent..

Finance

To achieve by 2010-11 a reduction, in real terms, of 15 per cent. compared to 2007-08 in the operational monetary cost of the registry per company on the register (three-year target).

To achieve taking one year with another, a 3.5 per cent. average rate of return based on the operating surplus expressed as a percentage of average net assets.

To pay invoices within 10 days.

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Health (Ann Keen): I regret that the written answer given to the hon. Member for Halton (Derek Twigg) on 30 March, Official Report, column 896w, was incorrect.

Data provided were not validated and this did not come to light until queries were raised about data for a subsequent question. In addition, it is worth noting that Wakefield sits outside the North West catchment area and should not have been included in the previous table.

Health Inequalities

The Secretary of State for Health (Alan Johnson): The House of Commons Health Select Committee published its report on health inequalities on 15 March 2009. The Government response to this report (Cm 7621) has been laid before Parliament today.

The Government response welcomes the Committee's support for its work on health inequalities. Cross-Government action on health inequalities has helped contribute to major improvements in the health of the people in disadvantaged groups and areas over the last 10 years. The Government also welcome the Committee's support for the health inequalities target, for the post-2010 strategic review of health inequalities announced on 6 November 2008, and for the practical suggestions contained in the report.

The Government have used the experience of the last 10 years to shape their approach to the health inequalities agenda and develop practical, evidence-based programmes and policies. We are committed to continue this work.

TREASURY

Asset Freezing Regime

The Economic Secretary to the Treasury (Ian Pearson): In a Written Ministerial Statement on 10 October 2006, the then Economic Secretary undertook to report to Parliament on a quarterly basis on the operation of the UK's counter terrorism asset freezing regime. This is the tenth of these reports and covers the period January to March 2009[1].

Asset-freezing designations

In the quarter January to March 2009, the Treasury gave no directions under the Al-Qaeda and Taliban (United Nations Measures) Order 2006. The Treasury revoked one direction given under this Order.

The Treasury gave two directions under the Terrorism (United Nations Measures) Order 2006. The Treasury revoked two directions given under this Order, one of which related to a person designated on a restricted basis.

There were no financial sanctions designations made the UN, or at the EU, in relation to terrorism, or Al-Qaeda and the Taliban of persons with links to the UK.

As of 31 March 2009, a total of 253 accounts containing just over £632,500[2] of suspected terrorist funds were frozen in the UK.

Reviews

The Treasury keeps domestic asset-freezing cases under review and completed 10 formal reviews in this quarter.

Licensing

In accordance with UN Security Council Resolution 1452 (2002), the Treasury operates a licensing system whereby designated persons and others are able to apply to make or receive payments under specific and, if necessary, monitored conditions. In this quarter, the following licences were issued to listed persons:

Seven listed persons were granted legal expenses licences;

13 listed persons were granted basic expenses (including licences for benefits payments);

No licences were granted for extraordinary expenses.

In this quarter three household of listed persons were granted benefits licences.

[1]The detail that can be provided to the House on a quarterly basis is subject to the need to avoid the identification, directly or indirectly, of personal or operationally sensitive information.

[2]This figure reflects account balances at time of freezing and includes approximately $58,000 of suspected terrorist funds frozen in the UK. This has been converted using exchange rates as of 31-03-09. Future fluctuations in the exchange rate may impact on the contribution this sum makes to future totals of suspected terrorist funds frozen.

Tax Credits

The Financial Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. Stephen Timms): National statistics published today demonstrate the substantial contribution tax credits are making to deliver guaranteed minimum incomes for working families and families with children, reducing child poverty, and improving work incentives.

The Government remain committed to the current responsive system of tax credits, which provide additional financial support to families experiencing a fall in income. In the current economic climate, this support is benefiting an even larger number of households. Figures published at the Budget show that around 355,000 households living on a lower income are receiving on average £35 more per week in tax credits.

The statistics published by HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) today show that in 2007-08 the child and working tax credits were benefiting around 6 million families and 10 million children.

The figures also show that efforts to reduce overpayments of tax credits continue to be effective. The level of overpayments is now £1 billion, less than half the level in 2003-04 and five per cent of finalised entitlement paid by HMRC. The average size of overpayments is £705, which has fallen by nearly a third since 2003-04. This is against a backdrop of increasing entitlement with total awards increasing again, by six per cent compared to 2006-07.

The number of families entitled to end of year top-ups has increased as we anticipated last May to 1.29 million (£798 million). This is a result of one of the components of the package of measures announced in the Pre Budget Report 2005 to reduce overpayments.

The statistics also show that in 2007-08:

families received more support from tax credits with the average tax credit award increasing by £200 to £3611 compared with 2006-07. This does not take into account further increases in the child element of £390 and in the basic element of the working tax credit of £160 from 2007-08 to 2009-10; more working people on low incomes without children received tax credits, with 336,000 receiving support through the working tax credit, up by 10 per cent on 2006-07;

414,000 families benefited from the childcare element of the working tax credit, an eight per cent increase compared with 2006-07, thereby making childcare more affordable and giving parents more choice in how they balance work and family life; and 108,000 families benefited from extra help for workers with a disability-increase of nine per cent compared to 2006-07, helping these individuals overcome the labour market disadvantage they face.

The take-up of tax credits is a significant success. Other recent published statistics have shown that in 2006-07 take-up of the Child Tax Credit is 81 per cent, with 88 per cent of the money available being claimed. Take-up among those on incomes below £10,000 is 92 per cent; and take-up among lone parents is 95 per cent. This is higher than for any previous system of income-related financial support for in-work families.

Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (Mr. Iain Wright): I am today announcing key performance targets have been agreed for the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre for the period 1 April 2009 to 31 March 2010.

The agency's principal financial target for 2009-10 is to achieve a minimum dividend payment to the Department for Communities and Local Government equal to the total of 6 per cent. of average capital employed and a sum equal to the capital charge that applies to the building for the year concerned. The agency is currently forecasting that 2009-10 will be a year of significant challenge and that the dividend payment will be £1,000,000—a shortfall of £200,000.

An operational target has been set to achieve room occupancy within the centre of 60 per cent. of capacity. If this target is exceeded all revenues received up to a maximum of £200,000 will be added to the dividend payment of £1,000,000 thus reducing, or if trading conditions allow, eradicating the shortfall.

The Agency also has the following quality of service targets:

Overall score for value for money satisfaction of greater than 90 per cent.;

The number of complaints received to be less than two per 100 events; and

An average response time when answering complaints of less than four working days.

Return on Capital Employed

HM Treasury set an annual return on capital employed of 6 per cent. for the Centre's trading fund activities.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Sri Lanka

The Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (David Miliband): I would like to inform the House about the latest situation in Sri Lanka.

On 19 May, the Sri Lankan President formally announced that on 18 May military forces had retaken all the territory once held by the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) and that they had captured or killed the senior leadership of that organisation. Many Sri Lankans of all communities, Sinhalese, Tamil and Muslim, will be relieved that the long and brutal conflict may at last be over. Sri Lanka has before it an historic opportunity to resolve the underlying causes of the conflict and ensure a lasting peace. We must continue to work with Sri Lanka's Government and all their communities to ensure that this opportunity is taken and that it leads to a sustainable end to the conflict.

Our concern has never been whether it was right to defeat the LTTE. The issue has been the price in lives and the future in terms of reconciliation. We may never know exact numbers but thousands of innocent civilians have died, hundreds of thousands made homeless and confined to camps, caught up in a system which continues to restrict access to the international humanitarian agencies. For many, many people, the misery continues.

Our primary concern remains the immediate humanitarian crisis and the long-term political and economic peace and stability of Sri Lanka. We have continued to work with international partners in the EU, UN, and G8 to urge the Government of Sri Lanka to do all that they could to protect their citizens, minimise the risk of casualties and allow the UN and other international agencies access to the conflict area to oversee the possible surrender of the LTTE and the evacuation of the civilians. We also called on the LTTE to lay down their weapons and release the civilians. Tragically, these calls did not prevent the loss of many lives.

I welcome the assurance given to me by Foreign Minister Bogollogama yesterday that the UN and non-governmental organisations will now be able to enter the former conflict zone to provide whatever support is still needed. I would like to pay tribute to the courage of the staff of the International Committee of the Red Cross and others who continued to try and deliver food, water and medical supplies into the conflict zone at enormous risk to themselves. Undoubtedly, their bravery in the face of great danger saved the death toll from being higher.

Although the territorial conflict seems to be over, the grave humanitarian crisis continues to unfold. Some 250,000 civilians who have fled the fighting are either being processed by the Government of Sri Lanka to ensure that they are not escaping LTTE members, or are being held in camps. The Government does not have the resources to cope, but they have not yet offered international aid agencies unrestricted access to the camps. This risks exacerbating the humanitarian crisis and fuelling the resentment of the internally displaced people (IDPs). We urge the Government of Sri Lanka to allow full and unhindered access to the camps where the IDPs remain in urgent need of shelter, food, water, and medicine. The Government of Sri Lanka has also already committed to resettle 80 per cent. of IDPs before the end of this year. This will be a difficult task.

We and others in the international community stand ready to assist the Government of Sri Lanka to meet these humanitarian challenges. The Department for International Development has recently announced an additional £5 million of humanitarian funding for Sri Lanka, bringing our total contribution to the humanitarian relief effort to £12.5 million since September 2008. We will channel this funding through the UN and other humanitarian agencies. We urge the Government of Sri Lanka to use the opportunity of the visits by the UN Secretary General's Chief of Staff Vijay Nambiar and the UN Secretary General himself later this week, to recognise that the UN has a central role to play, both in the delivery of humanitarian aid and in encouraging the process of political reconciliation that must be an integral part of rebuilding Sri Lanka's civil society.

Lasting peace can only come when all communities in Sri Lanka believe that they are accepted and valued members of society. We recognise that the process of political reconciliation will not be easy. There are many entrenched attitudes and resentments. Sri Lankan people from all communities, working on the basis of mutual respect and equality, need to agree the way forward. On 18 May my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister urged President Rajapakse to be magnanimous in victory. I repeated the message to the Sri Lankan Foreign Minister the same day, saying that whatever process emerged, it needed to be inclusive and based on equality. We welcome the President's statement to the Sri Lankan Parliament on 19 May that he will embark on an inclusive political process involving all communities on the basis of equality and absence of fear.

I endorse the conclusions reached at the European Council on 18 May calling for alleged violations of international humanitarian and human rights law to be investigated through an independent inquiry and for those accountable to be brought to justice. This could play an important role in the post-conflict reconciliation process.

The continuing focus of this Government's activity over the coming days and weeks will be to work with international partners in encouraging the Sri Lankan Government to devote as much energy to winning the peace as it did to winning the war.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Policing and Crime Bill (JCHR Reports)

The Minister for Security, Counter-Terrorism, Crime and Policing (Mr. Vernon Coaker): The Government response to the Joint Committee on Human Rights reports on the Policing and Crime Bill (published on 16 April and 5 May 2009), has today been published and laid before Parliament. Copies are available in the Vote Office.

JUSTICE

Employment Tribunal Awards

The Secretary of State for Justice and Lord Chancellor (Mr. Jack Straw): Today I am announcing publication of the Ministry of Justice's report 'Research into Enforcement of Employment Tribunal Awards in England and Wales', which details the extent of non-payment of employment tribunal awards, and measures that the Government are developing, aimed at improving the enforcement of employment tribunal awards and Advisory, Conciliation and Arbitration Service (ACAS) negotiated settlements.

The Government have begun discussions with the High Court Enforcement Officers Association to develop a service whereby creditors will be able to commission a high court enforcement officer to enforce their award or settlement as soon as the respondent fails to pay the sum due. The costs of enforcement will be recoverable from the respondent with limited cost liability for the creditor.

In addition, the Government have recently increased the level of public information available to individuals through the creation of new leaflets that make the enforcement process clearer and explain the importance of compliance with the award and the consequences of failure to make a payment.

Claimants will also benefit from the extension of the customer service general enquiries line, operated by Her Majesty's Court Service, which has been extended to give creditors clear instructions on how and where they can enforce their employment tribunal award or ACAS settlement.

The Government are determined to ensure that individuals who are entitled to their employment tribunal awards or ACAS settlements are not denied access to justice by a small minority of unscrupulous individuals or companies who refuse to respect the award or settlement. These changes will ensure that all recipients can pursue the payment of their award or settlement with ease.

Copies of the report have been placed in the Libraries of both Houses. Copies are also available on the Ministry of Justice website at www.justice.gov.uk.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Boundary Commission for Northern Ireland

The Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (Mr. Shaun Woodward): Schedule 1 to the Parliamentary Constituencies Act 1986 makes provision for the constitution of the four Boundary Commissions, including the Boundary Commission for Northern Ireland. Under paragraph 2 of Schedule 1 to the Act, each Commission must consist of a Chairman, Deputy Chairman and two other members appointed by the Secretary of State. Following an open recruitment process to fill a vacancy, I have appointed Dr William Smith as a member of the Boundary Commission for Northern Ireland for a period of five years.

PRIME MINISTER

Intelligence and Security Committee's Review (London Terrorist Attacks)

The Prime Minister (Mr. Gordon Brown): I have today laid before the House the Intelligence and Security Committee's review of the intelligence on the London terrorist attacks in July 2005 (Cm 7617).

I would like to convey once again my condolences to the families of those killed and pay tribute to the courage shown by the survivors of the July 7 bombings.

I am grateful to the Committee for its work in producing this review. It is the product of careful and extensive research. The material published today testifies not only to the Committee' thoroughness, but also to the Government's commitment to accountability and transparency in matters related to the intelligence and security agencies. As usual, this follows consultation with the Committee over material that could not be published without prejudicing the work of the agencies. Publication of this review has been delayed as a result of related legal proceedings.

The Government accept the Committee's assessment that decisions made during the 'Crevice' investigations were understandable and reasonable in the light of information available at the time, and in the context of the increasing number of priority investigations occurring at the same time. The review shows that there is no evidence to support various allegations about clues or ignored warnings. The police and the intelligence and security agencies receive many pieces of intelligence on potential terrorist threats from multiple sources. Intelligence is often fragmentary and of varying reliability; and terrorists go to great lengths to conceal their intentions.

Analytical judgments and decisions have to be made on the basis of the information available at that time, and the prudence of those decisions can only properly be assessed in that context—not with the benefit of hindsight.

The Committee rightly points to the need for improvements in exploiting information held by the police and the intelligence and security agencies, and in maintaining statistics on terrorist-related convictions. These issues are being addressed, as is reflected in the Government's new 'Contest' counter-terrorism strategy, published earlier this year.

Additional resources were provided by the Government for counter-terrorism work in both the 2004 and 2007 spending reviews. There has been a significant increase in dedicated police counter-terrorism resources; and the intelligence and security agencies have also expanded and continue to expand resources to develop their capabilities. Lessons have been learned from each investigation. The police and the agencies have helped to save many lives and prevented serious injuries and disruption. However, as the Committee makes clear, there can be no absolute guarantee in terms of disrupting terrorist attacks.

TREASURY

UK Debt Management Office

The Economic Secretary to the Treasury (Ian Pearson): The UK Debt Management Office (DMO) has today published its business plan for the year 2009-10. Copies have been deposited in the Libraries of both Houses and from DMO's website, www.dmo.gov.uk.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces' Pay Review Body

The Secretary of State for Defence (Mr. John Hutton): The Supplement to the 2009 Report of the Armed Forces' Pay Review Body (AFPRB) making recommendations on the pay of service medical and dental officers has been published today. I wish to express my thanks to the Chairman and members of the review body for their report. I am pleased to confirm that the AFPRB's recommendations are to be accepted in full, with implementation effective from 1 April 2009.

The AFPRB has recommended an increase in basic military salary of 1.5 per cent. for all defence medical services (DMS) medical and dental officers, and all reserve equivalents. In addition, the AFPRB recommended a 1.5 per cent. increase in the values of national clinical excellence awards and distinction awards, DMS trainer pay and general medical practitioner associate trainer pay.

Copies of the report are available in the Vote Office.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture Council

The Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Hilary Benn): The Minister responsible for farming and the environment, my right hon. Friend the Member for Liverpool, Wavertree (Jane Kennedy), and the Under-Secretary responsible for the natural and marine environment, wildlife and rural affairs, my hon. Friend the Member for Ogmore (Huw Irranca-Davies), represented the United Kingdom at April's Agriculture and Fisheries Council in Luxembourg. Richard Lochhead also attended.

There were only five substantive agenda items—three for fisheries and two for agriculture—and a number of AOB items.

On fisheries, the Council adopted conclusions, which had been agreed in advance, welcoming the Commission's recent action plan on sharks. The action plan set out some principles and future work streams regarding the conservation of sharks, rays and chimeras, which are vulnerable species.

The Commission then gave a brief initial presentation of the Green Paper on Common Fisheries Policy Reform. It stressed that there was a need for fundamental reforms and insisted that member states should not stand in the way of necessary reform; the long-term interest of all was in creating sustainable fish stocks. A more thorough discussion on the Green Paper will take place at the Council in May.

Next, the Commission introduced its communication on the sustainable development of Community aquaculture. It had concerns that EU production was stagnating while demand was increasing, the gap being filled by imports from third countries. It warned, however, that there was no additional funding available. There will be a full debate on this issue at the June Council.

There were four fisheries AOB items. Spain highlighted its concern about the problem of Somalian piracy and called on the Council to take appropriate measures that might include extending the range of the EU NAVFOR Somalia/ATALANTA operation and the establishment of an operating base in the area.

The Netherlands then explained that the official Dutch control body had recently prevented exports of glass eels outside the Community. They wanted a similar ban at EU level.

The Netherlands also raised concerns that the increased activity in coastal zones of gill net fishing has had a negative effect on the porpoise population. They called for EU measures to limit the use of gill nets and entangling nets for all vessels not just the over 10 metre ones.

The Commission expressed its concern that the slow implementation of the European Fisheries Fund (EFF) budget commitments by member states was delaying the spending of the available funds. They identified the main problem as being delays in putting the management and control plans in place.

On agriculture, the presidency introduced its questionnaire seeking member states views on CAP simplification to date; Commission ambition regarding further simplification; and the role Payment Agencies might play in the debate going forward. Member states rehearsed familiar views, all of whom supported further simplification with an emphasis on control burdens and cross compliance. Denmark tabled a list of 39 specific proposals for simplification, which 12 member states, including the UK, signed as co-sponsors. Denmark called for the creation of a high-level group for simplification to consider its proposals and for a commitment from the Commission to report on progress to the October Council.

The Commission then presented its Communication on Less Favoured Areas (LFAs) stressing that its review was limited to intermediate LFA; that is, areas with natural handicaps, encompassing neither mountainous regions nor areas with specific handicaps. The Communication responded to a call from the Council for reform in 2005 and to a 2003 Court of Auditors report, which pointed up shortcomings with the existing instrument. Application of the existing instrument was flawed on two counts: (1) it was based on socioeconomic criteria, whereas the challenge was to address land-use problems not income levels; and (2) there was little coherence at EU level about what constituted an area with a natural handicap leading inevitably to inequalities.

The Communication also constituted the initiation of a technical exercise wherein member states were required to simulate the application of biophysical criteria for areas with natural handicaps, reporting back to the Commission with detailed maps of their findings in six months' time. Only after the completion of this technical exercise would the Commission come forward with legislative proposals. The new definition would not come into force until the next programming period; that is, post-2013. The presidency concluded that it would put draft Council conclusions to the June Council.

There were four agriculture AOB items. Denmark tabled a paper urging the Commission to take a more proportionate approach to financial corrections in respect of farm payment irregularities. Flat-rate corrections often overstated the real risk for Community funds. The process was also too drawn-out and needed to be speeded up.

Germany called on the Commission to permit partial payments to be advanced to farmers before the opening of the existing payment window and without checks having being completed on the respective claims.

Ireland rehearsed the March Council debate on the perceived difficulties in the dairy sector, eliciting merely a reiteration of the Commission's position.

Belgium rehearsed the March Council debate on the perceived difficulties in the pigmeat sector, again eliciting merely a reiteration of the Commission's position.

HEALTH

Lord Archer's Report (Government Response)

The Minister of State, Department of Health (Dawn Primarolo): I am today publishing the Government's response to Lord Archer's independent inquiry report on NHS supplied contaminated blood and blood products.

I thank Lord Archer for his very thorough report. The Government have the greatest sympathy for those who have been affected, and deeply regret that these events came about following NHS treatment.

I have carefully considered the recommendations of Lord Archer, particularly relating to payments for infected individuals and their families. My full response details the action we are taking, but I want to highlight the following points.

The Macfarlane Trust and Eileen Trust provide ex gratia lump sum and discretionary payments to, respectively, haemophiliacs and others, who contracted HIV from infected blood and blood products, and their dependents. Over £45million has been paid out to date and there are currently around 600 beneficiaries.

I recognise Lord Archer's concern about financial relief. I therefore intend to increase the funding available to the Macfarlane and Eileen Trusts to allow them to move to a system of annual payments for infected individuals. The current average annual payment is around £6,400. I intend that in future payments of £12,800 per annum would be made to each infected individual, thus eliminating the need for them to make repeated detailed applications. I will also increase the funding available to the trusts so that the trustees can make higher payments to dependents. Payment to dependents will continue to be decided on a case-by-case basis—and left to the decision of the trustees.

The Skipton Fund provides lump sum payments to people infected with hepatitis C from infected blood and blood products. To date £97million has been paid out to over 4000 individuals.

The Skipton Fund will continue to make payments to people infected with hepatitis C and I commit to reviewing it in 2014 when the fund will have been in existence for ten years.

I understand Lord Archer's desire to establish a committee by statute to advise Government on the management of haemophilia in the United Kingdom. My view is that it is better to build on existing arrangements and expertise, rather than risk disrupting or duplicating those arrangements via legislation.

I have therefore decided instead to invite the Haemophilia Alliance, which comprises patients, haemophilia doctors, and others involved in their care, to meet with Government twice yearly. The Department of Health will host these meetings and representatives from the Health Departments in Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland will be invited to participate in this new formal arrangement.

I will also commit £100,000 per annum funding to the Haemophilia Society over the next five years.

Measures are already in place to help to prevent similar events from happening in the future. The Government receive expert advice on safety measures from the independent advisory committee on the safety of blood tissues and organs (SaBTO), and NHS Blood and Transplant is responsible for ensuring a safe and sufficient supply of blood to England and Wales. I will also ensure strong links are made between SaBTO and the Alliance.

The full response to Lord Archer's report has been placed in the Library of the House and copies are available to hon. Members from the Vote Office.

Written Ministerial Statements

ECOFIN

The Chancellor of the Exchequer (Mr. Alistair Darling): The Economic and Financial Affairs Council was held in Brussels on 5 May 2009. The Financial Secretary to the Treasury represented the UK. The following items were discussed:

Economic and financial situation

Following the publication of the European Commission's forecasts on 4 May, Ministers exchanged views on the economic situation. The Government believe there is a continued need for member states to work together in ensuring a co-ordinated response to the crisis.

Lending to member states in financial difficulty

Ministers discussed and agreed a draft regulation, raising the ceiling for lending from €25 billion to €50 billion for medium-term support to the balance of payments for non euro-area member states under the EU's support facility. The Council also agreed to provide medium-term assistance to Romania. ECOFIN will adopt the regulation at a forthcoming meeting without further discussion, following finalisation of the text. The Government strongly welcome the measures, which are in line with our policy of supporting the principle of ensuring that member states facing balance of payments difficulties have access to financial assistance.

Quality and sustainability of public finances

Ministers took note of a report by the Commission on age-related economic and budgetary projections for EU member states and adopted a set of conclusions on structural reforms to enhance the long-term sustainability and quality of public finances. The Government believe in the importance of sustainability and quality of public finances, particularly in the current juncture.

Dialogue with third countries on economic and financial issues

The Commission updated the Council on progress in its dialogues with the EU's main international partners, mainly the United States, Japan, China and Russia, regarding macro-economic issues and financial services. Ministers discussed the priorities for the near future. The Government welcome these ongoing dialogues, which reflect the discussions under-way in the G20.

Taxation

(a) Tobacco Directive

Ministers discussed the terms of the Tobacco Directive, aimed at updating EU rules on the structure and rates of excise duties on tobacco products. A revised draft was tabled at the meeting, but a number of Ministers expressed unhappiness with it. The Council requested that officials continue to examine the draft directive so that it may be revisited at a later meeting of ECOFIN.

(b) Communication on promoting good governance in tax matters

The Council took note of the Commission's presentation of its communication on the promotion of good governance in tax matters. The Commission also briefed Ministers on progress in the negotiation of an agreement with Liechtenstein on measures to combat tax fraud. Preparatory committees will further examine the communication before it is discussed at ECOFIN in June. The Government support efforts by the Commission on good governance in tax matters which complement existing work by the G20.

General budget of the European Union - preliminary draft budget 2010

The Commission presented the proposed EC Budget for 2010 to the Council, marking the beginning of the 2010 Annual Budget negotiations, which will run until December. The UK supports a realistic budget which promotes sound financial management. This item will return to the ECOFIN agenda in July, after further work by the COREPER.

Other business

The presidency updated ECOFIN on the state of play of four financial services dossiers: Solvency II, the e-money directive, the cross-border payments regulation and the regulation on credit rating agencies. On all four dossiers, the presidency reached agreement with the European Parliament in first reading, enabling adoption by the Council at a forthcoming meeting, once the texts have been finalised.

Finance Bill (Anti-avoidance Measure)

The Financial Secretary to the Treasury (Mr. Stephen Timms): An avoidance scheme has been notified to HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) that exploits the fact that Corporation Tax (CT) rules provide that losses, arising in a trade in the 12 months prior to its cessation, may be carried back and set off against profits made in the previous three years ("Terminal Loss Relief").

The scheme works by artificially engineering a deemed cessation of trading. The deemed cessation of trading means that the company gains access to relief for the losses much earlier than Parliament intended and undermines Clause 23 in the current Bill.

HMRC believe that the scheme is capable of being used by a large number of companies with the consequent risk of a significant loss of revenue. Therefore, in order to protect the Exchequer, the Government will introduce legislation by Government Amendment to Finance Bill 2009, to stop companies exploiting these rules for the purposes of tax avoidance. The legislation, which will be effective in relation to reorganisations taking place on or after today, is today being published on HMRC's website.

The new clause will address situations where there has not been, in any real sense, a cessation of the trade but it is claimed that a cessation occurs as a result of the trade being transferred to a person or persons outside the scope of CT and it can be established that this is part of a scheme or arrangement, one of the main purposes of which is to access 'terminal loss relief'.

In such circumstances 'terminal loss relief' will not be available to the transferring entity. As a consequence of the scheme, carried forward losses relating to the trade will not be transferred to the receiving person(s) for set off against future profits.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Local Government

The Minister for Local Government (John Healey): On 8 May 2008 we introduced through the Standards Committee (England) Regulations 2008 (SI 2008/1085) the new, devolved conduct regime for local authority members, in which responsibility for standards of conduct and dealing with allegations of misconduct by members is largely for each council's independently chaired standards committee with the Standards Board for England having the role of a strategic regulator.

I have today laid before the House the Standards Committee (Further Provisions) (England) Regulations 2009, further developing the devolved conduct regime by allowing councils to set up joint standards committees and making clearer the rules for such committees to grant dispensation to members who would otherwise be excluded from an item of business on the grounds of conflict of interest. The regulations also strengthen the Standards Board's regulatory role by enabling it to intervene in cases of poor performance by a council's standards committee.

These regulations, which we have prepared in consultation with the local government sector, will come into force on 15 June. The next development of the regime will be a revision to the code of conduct in the light of our consultation last year and experience to date.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005

The Secretary of State for the Home Department (Jacqui Smith): In accordance with section 14(3), 14(4) and 14(5) of the Prevention of Terrorism Act 2005, Lord Carlile of Berriew QC prepared a report on the operation of the Act in 2008, which I laid before the House on 3 February 2009.

I am grateful to Lord Carlile for another considered review. Following consultation within my Department and with other relevant agencies, I am pleased to lay before Parliament today my response to Lord Carlile's recommendations. Copies are available in the Vote Office.

I am also laying before Parliament today my response to the report on the "Renewal of the Control Order Legislation" by the Joint Committee on Human Rights, published on 27 February 2009. Copies are available in the Vote Office.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Sri Lanka

The Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for International Development (Mr. Michael Foster): Thousands of people remain in desperate need. The priority is to get assistance to those that need it now. How quickly the international agencies are able to do this depends in significant part on the level of access granted by the Government of Sri Lanka for humanitarian agencies. I would like to assure the House that the humanitarian situation on the ground remains our priority and that we are fully focused on averting a humanitarian crisis. We remain particularly concerned about two groups of displaced people (IDPs).

There are more than 80,000 civilians and war wounded between Kilinochchi and Omanthai and onwards to the camps in Vavuniya. At present, there is no access to this area for any humanitarian agency. The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) has raised its particular concern for the safety of the war wounded needing urgent medical care who have been left behind in the former conflict area. Our second concern is for the 200,000 plus IDPs who are currently in camps. Priority needs are shelter, food, water, medicine and immediate access to surgical treatment. Conditions in the camps are basic but they are improving, albeit slowly. It is vital that these IDPs are allowed to return home as soon as conditions allow.

There are, however, specific concerns which need to be addressed before humanitarian agencies can provide the support needed. Visa restrictions are still being imposed on agencies, including those with surgical teams on stand-by to assist the thousands of war wounded who await life saving treatment. Practical restrictions are also still being imposed on entry to the camps and on the supply of basic relief items like water and sanitation equipment. We encourage the Government of Sri Lanka to do everything possible to allow humanitarian agencies to operate effectively on the ground.

We continue to engage fully with international and multilateral partners. I spoke to Sir John Holmes, the UN emergency relief co-ordinator, yesterday about the humanitarian situation in Sri Lanka and the issues that lie ahead. Ban Ki-Moon, the UN Secretary General, is visiting Sri Lanka soon to focus on the immediate humanitarian relief effort and reintegration and reconstruction as well as the need for a sustainable and equitable political solution.

DFID continues to make financial contributions to the relief effort in Sri Lanka as the situation on the ground allows. Last week I approved £0.5 million for the International Organisation of Migration (IOM) to establish, equip and staff 10 emergency mobile health clinics in the camps in Vavuniya, Mannar and Jaffna. The Secretary of State recently announced a further £5 million of humanitarian funding to Sri Lanka which will be used for activities such as demining and livelihood recovery and we will provide further assistance as people are allowed to return to their homes. The total now stands at £12.5 million. All DFID funding is provided directly to impartial international agencies such as the International Organisation for Migration and United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. None of the UK's assistance is provided directly to the Government of Sri Lanka. DFID will continue to support the international agencies in their work.

WALES

Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Bill

The Secretary of State for Wales (Mr. Paul Murphy): I am pleased to inform the House that the explanatory memorandum setting out proposals for the framework powers in the Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Bill are available in the Library, the Vote Office and on the Wales Office website (www.walesoffice.gov.uk).

Legislative Competence Order

The Secretary of State for Wales (Mr. Paul Murphy): I am pleased to inform the House that the proposed National Assembly for Wales (Legislative Competence) (Health and Health Services and Social Welfare) Order 2009 dealing with Mental Health has been laid today as Command Paper (Cm 7627). This order has been proposed by a backbench Member of the National Assembly for Wales (Jonathan Morgan) and has the support of the Welsh Assembly Government.

Copies of this Command Paper can be found in the Vote Office and will be placed in the Library from 12 noon. I have written to the Welsh Affairs Committee and to the House of Lords Constitutional Committee to request they undertake pre-legislative scrutiny.

OBSERVATIONS

WORK AND PENSIONS

Health and Safety Executive (London Headquarters)

The Petition of the Public and Commercial Services Union,

Declares that the Petitioners are seriously concerned about the closure of the Health and Safety Executive's London Headquarters; further declares that the business case for the single Headquarters assumed that 40 per cent. would move to Liverpool; notes that so far only 12 staff (4 per cent.) have expressed an interest in moving; and further notes that this means that 310 people will lose their jobs with HSE losing the competence, knowledge and know-how of a significant portion of their workforce.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions to reconsider the closure of the Health and Safety Executive's London Headquarters.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Simon Hughes, Official Report, 1 April 2009; Vol. 490, c. 1014.]

[P000346]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions:

The Government believes there are significant benefits for the Health and Safety Executive in moving to a single HQ. Housing the Executive Leadership and the majority of its strategy, policy, operational planning and management, and corporate support teams under one roof will lead to a more effective organisation, better placed to protect workers and the public.

The decision to move was taken in the best interests of the whole organisation and over 10 years, will realise predicted net savings of between £47 million and £61 million. These savings will be invested in interventions to reduce accidents and ill health. The move is also in step with the Government's policy of reducing the number of posts in London and increasing the efficiency of its estate. Around two thirds of the staff affected have secured jobs in HSE or in other parts of the civil service. The assumption that 40 per cent. of staff would move to Liverpool was made at the outset of the programme and was for the sole purpose of enabling an initial estimate of the costs of the programme to be produced.

The Government has recognised from the outset that there are risks to business continuity from the creation of a single HQ, but considers that these risks are being properly managed. This is also the view of Judith Hackitt, Chair of HSE and the HSE Board. HSE's approach to the identification and management of risks from the single HQ has been endorsed by the independent Office of Government Commerce (OGC) reviews. Through recruitment of new staff to Bootle, retention of key London staff through the transition process, flexibility to adapt the pace of change to any emerging pressures and continual senior management oversight, HSE has and will continue to maintain business continuity and deliver the major benefits that the single HQ will bring.

Police Interpreting

The Petition of persons concerned at the treatment of nationally registered interpreters,

Declares that the Greater Manchester Police are currently considering outsourcing provision of face-to-face interpreters to a commercial intermediary; further declares that registered interpreters are not prepared to work for an intermediary and that Greater Manchester Police would no longer be able to obtain their services should they outsource;

Notes that data obtained pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act 2000 show that outsourcing can lead to the use of persons purporting to be interpreters who are not on the National Register (which is stipulated as the first port of call by the Office for Criminal Justice Reform) or any of the other lists authorised by the National Agreement;

Believes that competent, vetted and professional interpreters are an integral part of the Criminal Justice System, ensuring a just and fair delivery of justice; further believes that taxpayers are entitled to see their money spent on a high quality service which will aid the administration of justice for ethnic minorities.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Home Secretary to do all in her power to persuade Greater Manchester Police to treat the profession with the respect it deserves and to include registered interpreters in any future consultations which may affect their livelihoods and profession; the petitioner further requests that the House of Commons urges the Home Secretary to intervene where police forces do not abide by the terms of the National Agreement.

[P000322]

Observations from the Secretary of State for the Home Department:

The Code of Practice C for the detention, treatment, and questioning of persons by police officers, issued under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act (PACE) 1984, provides that the chief police officer for the individual force concerned is responsible for making sure that appropriate arrangements are in place for the provision of suitably qualified interpreters for people who are deaf or who do not understand or speak English. The Code states that, wherever possible, interpreters should be drawn from the National Register of Public Service Interprets (NRPSI).

The National Agreement on Arrangements for the Use of Interpreters and Translators in the Criminal Justice System indicates that an interpreter must be used from the National Register, where possible.

The Association of Chief Police Officers wrote to all chief officers in April 2008 reminding them that they should follow the National Agreement and the benefits of using an interpreter from the NRPSI. The letter further advised that any forces considering or which already outsourcing interpreting service must ensure that the outsourcing process does not compromise compliance with the standards set out in the National Agreement.

Chief Officers are required to achieve value for money and to ensure compliance with rights and safeguards for the individual as set out in legislation. The Government understands that ACPO consider that there is no evidence to support the claim that these rights and safeguards are not being delivered.

The Government is also informed that ACPO has the utmost respect for interpreters who are drawn from the NRPSI. The issues around outsourcing are about availability of interpreters and timeliness of their arrival at the police station. These are issues which will be looked at with colleagues, stakeholders and practitioners in the criminal justice system.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Gaza

The Petition of persons concerned at the BBC's decision not to air the DEC's Gaza Appeal

Declares that the International Committee of the Red Cross has said that conditions for the people of Gaza are "worse than Darfur" but the BBC refuses to allow the Disasters Emergency Committee to broadcast an appeal for aid; further declares the petitioners' agreement with Government Health Minister Ben Bradshaw, who has said the reasons the BBC has given for blocking an appeal for humanitarian aid are "completely feeble" and that it was "an inexplicable decision".

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Government to do everything in its power to urge the BBC to reconsider its decision and to contact the Disasters Emergency Committee as a matter of urgency so that its appeal can be broadcast nationally.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Mr. John Leech, Official Report, 10 March 2009; Vol. 489, c. 270.]

[P000323]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport:

This is a matter for the BBC. Under the terms of the BBC's Charter and Agreement, the BBC is independent of Government and there is no provision for Government to intervene in the BBC's day-to-day editorial matters.

The BBC Charter and Agreement contain specific and detailed provisions on impartiality. A requirement has been placed on the BBC to treat controversial subjects with due accuracy and impartiality, both in the Corporation's news services and in the more general field of programmes dealing with matters of public policy or industrial controversy.

Within this framework, it is the BBC's job to make judgments about what individual programmes should contain. It is a long-standing principle that the Government do not interfere in programme matters, either on arrangements for scheduling or on content.

OBSERVATIONS

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Council Housing (London Borough of Sutton)

The Petition of tenants of the London Borough of Sutton, and others,

Declares that, through the rents they pay, council tenants are net contributors to the Exchequer, paying more to the Treasury in negative subsidy than the Treasury pays out in subsidy with current estimates putting the profit from rents to the Government in 2008-09 at £185 million to £200 million; regrets the fact that the review of housing revenue account subsidy is not yet complete and believes that the current system is unfair and unsustainable; further declares that in the current climate and times of hardship for many, rent increases of over 6 per cent. driven by the Government's rent restructuring policy is unjust; further declares that the £10 million taken from Sutton tenants for last year will be increased by three quarters of a million pounds this year which now represents 38 per cent. of rent income.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons calls upon Her Majesty's Government to reform the system to allow tenants to benefit directly from the rent they pay through investment in the condition of their homes and the quality of the services they receive and to reduce the amount of negative subsidy or at least freeze it until the review is finalised.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Mr. Paul Burstow, Official Report, 25 March 2009; Vol. 490, c. 420 .]

[P000124]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government:

The Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government acknowledges and fully understands the concerns of tenants regarding the present system of council housing finance, which results in the redistribution of subsidy between areas based on need.

The Minister for Housing and Planning has responded to recent extraordinary conditions regarding the sharp fall in inflation and announced on 6 March 2009 proposals to halve the average guideline rent increase for 2009-10. The proposal should significantly reduce the overall Housing Revenue Account negative subsidy position for England. Communities and Local Government has already committed to looking again at the guideline increase for 2010-11. With regard to overall spending on housing, HM Treasury's planned investment in 2009-10 is approximately £6.9 billion.

The Review of Council Housing Finance was launched in March 2008 and is scheduled to report to Ministers in 2009. The Review is looking at all aspects of system reform, including the feasibility of "self-financing" where local authorities could exit the Housing Revenue Account subsidy system. It has examined the case for continuing the substantial investment in social housing stock that began with the Decent Homes programme and which has resulted in more than £29 billion being invested up to 2007-08. Other areas of scrutiny have included rents policy, the role of the landlord and service provision, the treatment of debt in the system, and the case for maintaining a centralised, redistributive system. A period of consultation will follow the Review.

It would not have been possible to complete the Review any earlier due to the complex nature of the system and the many inter-related components which affect it, the commitment to involve stakeholders throughout the process, and the need to gather evidence to support its conclusions.

Eastham Library

The Petition of residents of Eastham, and others,

Declares that the decision by Wirral's Cabinet to either close Eastham Library or transfer it to community ownership is wrong in both form and substance; further declares that the concept of community transfer has not been sufficiently thought through here and it will give rise to widespread concern about the future of the facility; notes that since Eastham Library was previously recommended by Wirral Council "to be retained", the people of Eastham have not been given any chance to respond to the consultation and make their views known; and further notes that the people of Eastham, as the rest of Wirral South, see themselves as always getting short shrift in relation to the North of Wirral.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government to encourage Wirral Council to reconsider its decision to close Eastham Library if community ownership cannot be found by end of June 2009.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Ben Chapman, Official Report, 17 March 2009; Vol. 489, c. 881 .]

[P000136]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government:

The Secretary of State acknowledges the concerns expressed regarding the closure of Eastham Library.

I understand that Wirral undertook a Strategic Asset Review to look at making the best use of its resources, its objective being to improve service delivery, offer better value for money, and support regeneration of the whole borough. A six-week consultation was undertaken which concluded that in total eleven out of 24 libraries should close. In particular, two libraries that had been earmarked for closure would remain open, but a further two would close, one of these being Eastham Library.

The Secretary of State for Culture Media and Sport has intervened under the Public Libraries and Museums Act 1964 and has ordered an inquiry into the proposals.

In the light of this action all closures have been postponed.

Planning and Development (Essex)

The Petition of Graham Brucci, residents of the Dutch Village and others,

Declares that Castle Point Councillors are wrong to seek to develop the fields behind Limburg Road and Holland Avenue with an estate of 400 houses; believes that this would put Canvey's roads and other infrastructure under intolerable pressure; notes that this area is subject to flooding and should be controlled under Environment Agency flood protection development policies; further believes that there is sufficient brown field land to meet the target for new build and that councillors should consult residents properly and listen to them more seriously, should improve Canvey's infrastructure and change their plans to cram yet more housing estates on the Island.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Government to make it clear to Castle Point council that it will uphold the Environment Agency's rules on development in flood risk areas, that the Council should provide better infrastructure and should protect Castle Point Green Belt.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Bob Spink, Official Report, 11 March 2009; Vol. 489, c. 402 .]

[P000329]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government:

The Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government understands that no planning application has yet been made to Castle Point Borough Council in respect of this proposal. If an application is submitted before the council reach their decision they must take into account: the provisions of the development plan for the area; any relevant views expressed by neighbouring occupiers, local residents and other third parties; and any other relevant material considerations which fairly and reasonably relate to the application concerned. They should also be guided by the policies and advice set out in the Department's Planning Policy Guidance Notes, Statements (PPGs and PPSs) and planning circulars.

Planning Policy Statement 25 (PPS25), Development and Flood Risk, provides the policy framework for local planning authorities to avoid, manage and reduce flood risk to new development without exposure to unnecessary flood risk. This is supported by the Practice Guide published in June 2008 to assist local planners in implementing PPS25 policy.

There is an urgent need for more housing development in this country. The location of new housing is very important, to ensure new development is in sustainable locations. It is also important amongst many other issues, that the character of settlements are protected as appropriate, and that the countryside is protected for its own sake if appropriate to do so.

In considering planning applications, Castle Point Borough Council is required to take into account the relevant policies in the development plan. The Government's statements of national planning policy, such as Planning Policy Guidance 2 "Green Belts", are material considerations which must be taken into account, where relevant, in planning decisions, but it is the responsibility of the local planning authority to identify and weigh up all the different issues, in the context of the specific local circumstances, having regard to the views of local residents and other interested parties.

On 9 January 2009, Castle Point Borough Council published for consultation its "Core Strategy Proposed Publication Document". It should be noted that the "Core Strategy Proposed Publication Document" (LDF), does not allocate any sites as such but indicates the broad locations where the development will occur. Its consultation period ended on 20 March.

Should an application be made, the Council will be required to publicise it in order that the public, statutory consultees and other interested parties may make known their views.

Public Libraries (Wirral)

The Petition of residents of Higher Bebington, and others.

Declares that the decision by Wirral's Council to close Higher Bebington Library does not take into account the high regard in which it is valued by local residents and users; further declares that there was strong representation for the retention of Higher Bebington Library during Wirral's consultation period over its Strategic Asset Review; notes that Higher Bebington would benefit from the continued existence of a library facility in the sense that it serves just that community; and further notes that the concept of community transfer (which, according to Wirral Council, could be "vigorously pursued" after the closure of Higher Bebington Library) has not been sufficiently thought through.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Government to encourage Wirral Council to reconsider its decision to close Higher Bebington Library.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Ben Chapman, Official Report, 1 April 2009; Vol. 490, c. 1041 .]

[P000345]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government:

The Secretary of State acknowledges the concerns expressed regarding the closure of Higher Bebington Library.

I understand that Wirral undertook a Strategic Asset Review to look at making the best use of its resources, its objective being to improve service delivery, offer better value for money, and support regeneration of the whole borough. A six-week consultation was undertaken, which concluded that in total 11 out of 24 libraries should close, Higher Bebington Library being one of the 11 identified for closure. As part of the review Wirral Council is proposing a number of multi-purpose complexes across the Wirral, one of which will be sited in Bebington.

The Secretary of State for Culture Media and Sport has intervened under the Public Libraries and Museums Act 1964 and has recently appointed Sue Charteris to carry out an inquiry into the public library service in the Wirral. Her report is due in June and the Secretary of State's decision will follow shortly after.

In the light of this action all closures have been postponed.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Sri Lanka

The Petition of supporters of members of the Tamil Diaspora in the United Kingdom.

Declares their deep concern about the current humanitarian crisis facing the Tamil people in northern and eastern Sri Lanka.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Prime Minister and the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to call on the Sri Lankan Government for an immediate ceasefire to be implemented to prevent the unnecessary loss of innocent civilian lives; to recognise the right of the Tamil community on the island to self-determination; and to allow all necessary humanitarian aid and international aid workers into the conflict zone in northern and eastern Sri Lanka instead of calling for the Tamil people to leave their traditional homes and villages.

[P000154]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs:

I remain extremely concerned about the current situation in northern Sri Lanka. The most pressing concern remains for the safety of the tens of thousands of civilians that humanitarian agencies estimate remain caught up in the fighting. It was our concern for their safety that led my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister to first call for a ceasefire on 14 January. I have repeated the call for a ceasefire on numerous occasions, most recently during my visit to Sri Lanka with French Foreign Minister Kouchner on 29 April.

Both Foreign Minister Kouchner and I welcomed reports that significant numbers of civilians have been able to leave the conflict area over the last few weeks. The Government of Sri Lanka's announcement of a cessation in combat operations using heavy weapons is a welcome first step, but there are credible reports that civilians continue to be killed and wounded every day as a result of the fighting. We condemn the killing of civilians in the strongest possible terms and we have repeatedly called on both the Government of Sri Lanka and the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) to abide by their obligations under international humanitarian law. It is essential that both sides do everything possible to avoid harming civilians and ensure vital aid reaches those civilians who need it.

We are also concerned about the conditions facing the internally displaced persons (IDPs) who have managed to escape the fighting. We have made clear to the Government of Sri Lanka that more needs to be done to provide them with humanitarian and medical aid, specifically: visas and travel permits should be issued swiftly to humanitarian staff; full access should be given by humanitarian agencies to IDPs as soon as they have crossed the front line and the monitoring of all stages of screening; a proper resettlement programme should be developed with specific deadlines to fulfil the Government of Sri Lanka's commitment to have 80 per cent. of IDPs returned to their homes by year's end; and improved distribution of sufficient food and medicine to meet the needs of civilians trapped in the conflict zone. We are pressing the Government of Sri Lanka to fulfil the commitments it has made to improve conditions in the IDP camps and we are working with a number of independent agencies to ensure these standards are met.

The (UK) Government have taken practical steps to alleviate the suffering of civilians. On 26 April, my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister pledged a further £2.5 million for humanitarian aid for displaced persons, taking the total UK humanitarian assistance to £7.5 million. My hon. Friend the Member for Worcester (Mr. Foster), the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for International Development, visited Sri Lanka on 27 April to conduct an humanitarian assessment. Following my visit with Foreign Minister Kouchner, on 4 and 5 May, a cross party group of MPs, including my right hon. Friend the Member for Kilmarnock and Loudoun (Des Browne), held talks with the Sri Lankan Government, humanitarian agencies and visited the IDP camps.

The Government want to contribute to a renewed drive for a political solution to the conflict in Sri Lanka. We believe that for peace to be sustainable, an inclusive political process that takes into account fully the legitimate aspirations of all Sri Lankan communities, Sinhalese, Tamil and Muslim, is essential.

The UK remains active in the UN, EU, G8 and with other key international partners, including the US and India, to ensure that the spotlight of international concern remains firmly on the situation in Sri Lanka. The Government of Sri Lanka can be in no doubt about the depth of feeling in the international community regarding the need for a ceasefire and for a co-ordinated humanitarian relief effort to alleviate the suffering of innocent civilians.

TREASURY
Tax (Alcohol)

The Petition of residents of Plymouth

Declares that the tax on beer sold in pubs should not be increased annually.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons ask the Chancellor to remove the beer escalator on beer sold in pubs in his forthcoming budget

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Linda Gilroy, Official Report, 20 April 2009; Vol. 491, c. 122 .]

[P000349]

Observations from the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The Government notes the petition, and makes the following observations:

Alcohol duty is an important revenue stream for the Government and as the hon. Member is probably already aware Budget 2009 increased alcohol duty by 2 per cent. The additional revenue raised from the increase in alcohol duty will support the public finances. All alcohol receives the same tax treatment regardless of where it is sold. Under EU tax legislation, it is not possible to provide tax reliefs targeted specifically at helping pubs such as levying a reduced rate of alcohol duty on cask beer or taxing beer sold in supermarkets differently from that sold in a pub. The EU definition of beer does not include a reference to how it is packaged or served. Therefore beer wherever it is sold has to be taxed at the same rate. However, we have introduced a range of measures that will support the British pub. These include:

Enabling pubs to spread payment of this year's inflation uprating to business rates over three years;

HMRC's Business Payment Support Service has benefited businesses in the leisure and tourism industry (which includes pubs);

Improved access to finance for small businesses through the introduction of the Enterprise Finance Guarantee; and Support through low-cost loans and advice on energy efficiency for small and medium enterprises (including many pubs) to make savings on their energy bills.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces (Recruitment)

The Petition of people of this country,

Declares that the Petitioners welcome proposals to raise the school leaving age to 18; and further declares their regret that young people joining the armed forces at the age of 16 currently commit themselves to a period of four years service beyond their 18th birthday:

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Government to bring forward legislation to delay enlistment of recruits into the armed forces until after their 18th birthday.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Mr. David Drew, Official Report, 1 April 2009; Vol. 490, c. 1013 .]

[P000344]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Defence:

The minimum age of entry into the UK armed forces is the school leaving age of 16 years; recruitment is totally voluntary. The services provide challenging and constructive education, training and employment to many young people and provide them with valuable transferable skills.

The armed forces offer young people a wide variety of interesting and rewarding careers. They also provide an excellent opportunity to benefit from constructive, nationally recognised training and education regardless of their level of ability on entry.

No young person, under the age of 18 years, may join the UK armed forces unless their application is accompanied by the formal written consent of his or her parents or guardian. Throughout the recruit selection process, the staffs at the armed forces careers offices (AFCO) provide comprehensive written and oral guidance to all potential recruits, in particular those of less than 18 years of age, and their parents or guardians. This guidance covers the potential recruit's terms and conditions of service, the commitments that they would be undertaking, and their rights to discharge.

All new recruits, regardless of age, have a right of discharge within the first six months of service by giving not less than 14 days notice in writing to the Commanding Officer if they decide that the armed forces is not a career for them. In addition, service personnel under 18 years three months who have passed their statutory six month period for "discharge as of right" and before reaching their 18th birthday have registered clear unhappiness at their choice of career, can request permission to leave the armed forces. Such individuals who have registered clear unhappiness are allowed to leave; they are not prevented from doing so. However, there may be circumstances when a final decision may be deferred, for example if the Commanding Officer has doubts about the permanence of the individual's unhappiness. Every effort is made to ensure that they have fully considered their decision.

It is Defence policy that service personnel under the age of 18 are not deployed on any operation, outside of the UK, which would result in them becoming engaged in, or exposed to, hostilities. In addition, in line with UN policy, service personnel under 18 are not deployed on UN peacekeeping operations.

Commanding officers are well aware of the particular welfare needs of younger recruits and trainees, even if they are not formally in loco parentis.

Our policy on the care of under-18s was revised and reissued in the form of a guidance note to commanding officers in light of the Deepcut review. The guidance note has been updated recently to take account of changes in legislation regarding the sale of tobacco products to under-18s and the appointment of the Service Complaints Commissioner.

The UK ratified the optional protocol to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child on the Involvement of Children in Armed Conflict in June 2003. It requires all feasible measures to be taken to ensure that members of the armed forces who have not attained the age of 18 years do not take part in hostilities.

We believe that our policies on under-18s are robust and compliant with national and international law. We remain firmly committed to meeting our obligations under the protocol, and have taken steps to bestow special safeguards on young people under the age of 18. Naturally, we will keep them under review.

We remain committed to improving continuously the environment in which young people are trained and prepared for their career in our armed forces.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Schools (Liverpool)

The Petition of Parents Against Closure (PAC), and other supporters of Croxteth Community Comprehensive,

Declares that Croxteth Community Comprehensive, a specialist college for business and enterprise, has been earmarked for closure; notes that the college plays a vital role in the local community; and further declares that the proposed closure of the college would be highly detrimental to the local community and at odds with Liverpool's role as the European Capital of Culture.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families to take action and engage with the local authorities to ensure that Croxteth Community Comprehensive remains open and continues to be able to serve its community.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Mr. Robert N. Wareing, Official Report, 5 March 2009; Vol. 488, c. 1090.]

[P000319]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families:

Government appreciates that proposals to change local school provision can be upsetting and often unsettling for those involved. However, school place planning is the statutory responsibility of the Local Authority (LA). This includes making sure there are sufficient school places, and also removing surplus places when this is required. To facilitate this, LAs have the power to propose the closure of any type of maintained mainstream school.

Where the LA proposes to make any changes to local school provision, including closure, they must follow a statutory process, which is then decided under established local decision making arrangements. Government has no direct role in the process.

As part of its Building Schools for the Future programme Liverpool LA is planning to reorganise its school provision. Croxteth Community Comprehensive School was proposed for closure because of, among other things, its poor academic standards and it being consistently and significantly undersubscribed. There are currently only 462 pupils on roll (Capacity is 875) and this is expected to fall below 300 by 2015.

On 13 February 2009, having followed the statutory process, the proposals to close the school were approved and the LA is now under a duty to implement the proposals. We understand that the closure was originally planned for 2010, but that this has subsequently been modified to 2012.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Further Education (Wirral)

The Petition of residents of Wirral,

Declares that the proposed closure of Carlett Park Campus, a major site of Wirral Metropolitan College, would have a detrimental effect on current further education provision in South Wirral and beyond, would present difficulties to those wishing to pursue further education courses at Wirral Metropolitan College, fails to take account of the history and local importance of the site, and would discriminate against those whose circumstances dictated against travelling to an alternative site further away from the Carlett Park campus.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills to make representations to Wirral Metropolitan College to encourage the continued existence of the Carlett Park site.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Ben Chapman, Official Report, 17 November 2008; Vol. 483, c. 98.]

[P000288]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills:

Further education colleges are key to ensuring that every local community has a resource at its heart, charged with delivering high quality opportunities to learners and employers.

As with any business, further education colleges will continue to reassess their future position and the local circumstances in which they operate. They will want to continue to ensure that they can respond to changing needs of the community and the demands of learners and employers. This may result in some colleges reviewing their mission, their organisation, the models of delivery and the long-term sustainability of colleges' sites.

As colleges are independent institutions, matters relating to the policy and operation of a college are matters for the governing body. As such it is for the college governing body to make decisions on the future of a site or campus for which a college has responsibility.

However we would expect a college to ensure opportunities for high-quality learning are maintained and the particular needs of all students continue to be addressed.

Universities (Cumbria)

The Petition of residents of Cumbria and others,

Declares that the proposed closure of the University of Cumbria's Ambleside Campus to undergraduate students in 2012 would be a huge blow to the town of Ambleside and would remove opportunities from future generations of students.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills to place pressure on the University of Cumbria to ensure the viability of Ambleside Campus for all students and to scrap the plans for its closure to undergraduate students.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Tim Farron, Official Report, 10 November 2008; Vol. 482, c. 609.]

[P000283]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills:

I understand the concerns that have been raised about the University of Cumbria's plans for its Ambleside site. I do not believe that this is a matter in which Government should seek to intervene. Universities are autonomous bodies. It is right that they should be free to manage their estates to support the mission and economic needs of their institution. The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) is aware of the University's plans for its estate.

I welcome the commitment of the university to work with local partners as it develops its plans. I note that it has no plans to cut its provision overall, and that it will relocate all the courses it currently runs at Ambleside to other sites. I also note that the university proposes to use the Ambleside campus for the benefit of its postgraduate students, who are an important part of the university's life. The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) is aware of the university's plans for its estate.

OBSERVATIONS

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Post Office Closures (Cumbria)

The Petition of residents of Cartmel, Cumbria and others,

Declares that the Post Office in Cartmel provided a crucial service which was relied upon by the local community and therefore should not have closed.

The Petitioners therefore request that the House of Commons urges the Government and Post Office Ltd to reinstate a full Post Office branch in Cartmel.

And the Petitioners remain, etc.—[Presented by Tim Farron, Official Report, 29 April 2009; Vol. 491, c. 1002.]

[P000359]

Observations from the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform:

The Government recognises the important social and economic role of post offices, particularly in rural and deprived urban communities. That is why we are determined to maintain a national post office network allowing people to have reasonable access across the whole country and has put in place a new policy and financial framework to achieve this.

Under the Government's postal sector reforms introduced in 2001, Royal Mail (which includes Post Office Ltd) has been given greater commercial freedom, as the management and unions themselves requested, and Government has assumed an arm's-length role as a shareholder in a public limited company. Subject to agreeing its strategic plan with us, the board can structure the business as it decides best to meet the challenges of market development and changing customer needs.

The provision of post office services at Cartmel is an operational matter for Post Office Ltd.

Post Office Ltd has advised that the Cartmel post office branch closed on a temporary basis on 24 February this year. The sub-postmistress had been trying to sell the branch for some time, had failed to find a buyer and subsequently resigned, leading to a break in service.

In order to maintain post office services in Cartmel, Post Office Ltd is proposing to introduce a Hosted outreach service to operate from the Spar Stores in the village—a distance of 500 yards from its former location.

It is proposed that the Hosted service will be provided for seven hours each week on Tuesdays and Thursdays and will offer the same range of post office services with the addition of motor vehicle licensing. There is on-road parking immediately outside the branch.

Post Office Ltd is currently consulting on the proposed outreach service in accordance with the Code of Practice for Network Change, as agreed with Consumer Focus. The consultation finishes on 9 June 2009. Post Office Ltd will announce its decisions on the future of the branch in due course.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION COMMITTEE

Catz Club: Political Parties

Mr. Maude: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission whether the Electoral Commission plans to investigate donations made by Catz Club to political parties following the announcement of a statutory inquiry by the Charity Commission into previously undisclosed payments. [271949]

Sir Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it has considered two donations made to the Labour party by Catz Club, a permissible donor under the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000. Both donations arose from payments made by Catz Club to attend Labour party events. A proportion of the payments met the costs of the services provided at the event, and a proportion was a donation to the party.

On the basis of information available, the Electoral Commission concluded that the figure used by the party for the cost of services provided in each instance was reasonable, and that there was no breach of the Political Parties, Elections and Referendums Act 2000.

Air Pollution

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which areas in England exceeded (a) national and (b) European air quality limit values for particulates at any time in the last 12 months. [270881]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Under EU legislation, the UK is required to monitor the air continuously for levels of particulate matter (PM10) and to report to the European Commission on an annual basis. The UK also reports modelled data, in accordance with the legislation.

As a result of improvements over recent years the limit values are met across more than 99% of the country, delivering significant health benefits. The few remaining areas where we have reported exceedences are small. The monitoring information for 2008 remains provisional and the fully ratified data are not yet available. However, on the basis of provisional data monitored breaches of EU limit values for particulate matter are only expected to occur in London. The modelling assessment is not due to be completed until the summer.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many times the UK has breached European Union air quality (a) particulate, (b) sulphur dioxide, (c) lead and (d) carbon monoxide limits in each year since they were introduced; and what steps the European Commission has taken in each case. [270883]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Under EU legislation, the UK is required to monitor the air for levels of particulate matter (PM_{10}), and to report to the European Commission on an annual basis. The UK also reports modelled data, in accordance with the legislation.

For the purposes of implementing EU legislation the UK is divided up into 43 agglomeration zones (areas with a contiguous population of over 250,000 as specified by the air quality directives) and non-agglomeration zones. There are 28 agglomeration zones and 15 non-agglomeration zones.

The UK has not reported any breaches of EU limit values for lead or carbon monoxide since they were introduced. A breach of the sulphur dioxide limits was modelled and reported to the European Commission in 2005 and 2006, in the eastern zone close to a brick works in Stewartby. The European Commission requested information on action being taken to address the breaches, and, on the basis of the UK response, there has been no further correspondence. Breaches have not been reported subsequently and the brick works has now closed.

Like most other member states, the UK has reported a number of breaches of the limits for particulates (PM_{10}) since they came into force in 2005. There has been correspondence between the Commission and many other member states on these breaches. Most recently the Commission wrote to the UK Government and a number of other member states in January in relation to breaches since 2006 in the absence of a time extension Notification seeking additional time to meet the limit value. The UK has since submitted a time extension notification for the relevant zones/agglomerations as provided for under the Ambient Air Quality Directive (2008/50/EC). Details of breaches reported since 2005 are set out in the PM_{10} time extension notification application which can be accessed using the following link:

www.defra.gov.uk/environment/airquality/eu-int/eu-directives/airqual-directives/notification.htm

Air Pollution: Greater London

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what discussions he has had with the Mayor of London on his decision to suspend the third phase of London's low emission zone. [270882]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Lord Hunt met with the Mayor of London on 22 January 2009 to discuss how DEFRA and the Greater London Authority could work together to ensure air quality limit values for particulate matter (PM_{10}) and nitrogen dioxide (NO^2) were met in London. Following this meeting, officials in DEFRA, the Greater London Authority and Transport for London have met to discuss potential measures and these discussions are continuing.

The meeting with the Mayor was prior to his announcement on the suspension of the third phase of the London low emission zone (LEZ). While the Mayor has indicated his intentions to suspend the LEZ Phase 3 from October 2010, a final decision will be subject to consultation which will take place between now and then. Should the Mayor decide to suspend Phase 3 the Government expect him to put in place other measures that would contribute to achieving the limit values to the same, if not greater, extent.

Bees: Public Consultation

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to consult beekeepers and other bee enthusiasts on the development of his Department's national bee health strategy; and if he will make a statement. [272410]

Jane Kennedy: The 'Healthy Bees' plan was developed with beekeeping associations and other interested parties and was launched on 9 March. Strengthened partnership working between these parties is vital to the success of the plan. My officials will therefore shortly be discussing the implementation of the plan with key beekeeping representatives in order to secure a sustainable way forward.

DEFRA has allocated new resources for the bee health programme to fund the implementation of the plan. On top of its current £1.3 million, an additional £1.137 million will be provided to the National Bee Unit in the financial year 2009-10 and £1.158 million in 2010-11 to implement the first stage of the plan.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate has been made of the proportion of personal computers in each of his Department's offices that are turned off (a) overnight, (b) at weekends and (c) during holiday periods; and if he will make a statement. [269397]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA is nearing completion of a programme to roll-out new Energy Star compliant Vista laptops and desktops to its staff in core DEFRA and those agencies/NDPBs taking all their desktop services from IBM (including Animal Health, Natural England and Marine and Fisheries Agency), a total of some 7,000 staff.

These new devices deploy Vista's inbuilt group policy options to enforce a default switch to the Vista 'sleep' (which drops the device to a low power setting) and then 'hibernate' standby modes (which encrypts the data and then switches off the machine) after pre-set periods of inactivity.

On completion of this roll-out in the summer, all devices in these DEFRA organisations will therefore be switched off overnight, at weekends and over holiday periods.

No central information is currently available as to the position with DEFRA's other agencies and NDPBs.

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many (a) printers and (b) multi-function devices with printing functions were in use in each division of his Department in each of the last five years; how many such devices had a function enabling two-sided printing; and if he will make a statement. [269618]

Huw Irranca-Davies: There are no figures available for the Department for the period 2004 to 2006.

In 2007 a printer consolidation exercise was undertaken for the core Department and those of its agencies taking desktop services from the Department's strategic supplier IBM (some 4,500 staff). As a result:

2,044 printers were removed for disposal

601 multi-function devices were installed with duplex settings

749 existing printers with duplex and standby power modes were redeployed.

Total printers deployed: 1,350—all enabled with duplex printing.

As these printers are all shared over the network there is no breakdown available by division; nor are figures available yet for 2008.

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many and what proportion of IT products in each category procured for each division of his Department were compliant with the Government's Buy Sustainable-Quick Win standard in the latest year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [269632]

Huw Irranca-Davies: For core DEFRA and those agencies taking all their IT services from IBM, (some 4,500 staff), IBM currently uses a catalogue of assets that conform with the Quick Wins criteria for those product sectors where these are now in place i.e. laptops, desktops and monitors.

96 per cent. of the currently deployed 4,500 IBM desktop and laptop assets are compliant with Quick Wins, following completion of a recent refresh exercise that provided a single device for all these staff.

Departmental Mobile Phones

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much has been spent on (a) the purchase of and (b) bills for (i) BlackBerrys and (ii) other mobile telephones for (A) Ministers, (B) special advisers and (C) civil servants in his Department in each year since 2005. [268249]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The requested information could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The Department does not record costs at the level of detail required to allow a breakdown per device or for the categories of individual requested.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many (a) BlackBerrys and (b) other mobile telephones have been provided to (i) Ministers, (ii) special advisers and (iii) civil servants in his Department in each year since 2005. [268293]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA procures BlackBerry services and mobile phones via two different arrangements.

1. In the case of BlackBerry services, these are provided through the IBM contract. DEFRA is unable to provide a breakdown of past usage of BlackBerry services as this would require a manual trawl of historical data that would incur disproportionate cost. We have shown the usage figures for March 2009 for the core Department for information as an indication of current usage:

	Number
Ministers	2
Special advisers	2
Civil servants	[1]260

[1] Figure relates to civil servants in core Department only.

2. In the case of mobile phones, these are purchased via OGC's Mobile Solutions contract. DEFRA is unable to provide the data at the level of detail requested for historical data. The total number of connections for the core Department and a breakdown for March 2009 data is included in the following table:

Total connections[1]
	Number
2006	1,760
2007	1,153
2008	822
2009	629
March 2009 breakdown
Civil servants	[2]628

[1] Figures based on connections during the year from historical reports in December 2006, October 2007, December 2008, April 2009. Data from 2005 not readily available at proportionate cost.
[2] Figure is based on assumption that civil servants equals end users i.e. civil servants and contractors working in the Department.

Breakdown of historical data could not be provided without incurring disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2009, Official Report, columns 826-27W, on the economic situation, what expenditure was incurred by his Department in relation to (a) the internal conference held in October 2008 and (b) the seminar with delivery bodies held in November 2008, under each budgetary heading. [270595]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The total cost of the senior civil service conference in October 2008 was £16,064.76. £6,687.11 was spent on venue hire and catering and £9,377.65 was spent on facilitation of the event. There were no costs incurred for the following workshops.

The seminar with DEFRA delivery bodies on 10 November 2008 was held at the offices of WRAP in Banbury. The only costs to DEFRA were the time and rail travel of seven departmental representatives. Attendees from the other delivery bodies would have incurred similar costs.

Flood Control

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress is being made to end the right to automatic connections to surface water drains for major new developments. [272696]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Provision for the amendment of the right to automatically connect surface water drains and sewers serving new developments to the public sewerage system, under section 106 of the Water Industry Act 1991, is contained in the draft Flood and Water Management Bill, published for consultation on 21 April.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will take steps to ensure that water company price reviews for 2009 make provision for them to achieve required works for the resilience to flooding of critical infrastructure; and what discussions he has had with Ofwat on the issue. [272839]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The 2009 review of water price limits is owned by Ofwat as the independent economic regulator for the water industry.

Paragraph 2.48 of DEFRA's statutory Social and Environmental Guidance issued to Ofwat in August 2008 states:

"Consideration of the risks and impacts of floods on water and sewerage infrastructure and the greater incidence of more extreme weather conditions that climate change is likely to bring, should also extend to resilience of the water industry. Companies, in their business plans, are expected to consider the vulnerability of their critical assets to hazards and assess the resilience of their asset systems in providing services to their customers and the environment. In addition, specific regulatory requirements are placed on companies by the Security and Emergency Measures Direction (SEMD) 1998, and on Licensees by SEMD 2006. These directions among other things, require companies to carry out security work on their vital installations, and protect their other installations and facilities according to Guidance issued by the Government to companies. Ofwat is expected to ensure that companies are able to invest in essential works."

I received a joint briefing from Ofwat, the Environment Agency, Natural England and the Drinking Water Inspectorate on 27 April on water and sewerage companies' final business plans, which were submitted to Ofwat on 7 April. This included discussions on resilience.

Ofwat is currently scrutinising companies' final business plans ahead of issuing draft determinations of water price limits for comment in July.

Forestry Commission: Grants

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which grants allocated by the Forestry Commission are (a) not and (b) partially funded by the Rural Development Programme for England; and from which budgets each such grant is funded. [271749]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The following table lists the current and previous grant schemes that are currently administered by the Forestry Commission and for which payments continue to be made. All budget items marked 'RDPE' are paid from Axis 2 of the Rural Development Programme for England.

	Part RDPE Funding	Budget
English Woodland Grant scheme
Woodland Planning Grant	Yes	RDPE
Woodland Assessment Grant	Yes	RDPE
Woodland Regeneration Grant	No	FC
Woodland Management Grant	Yes	RDPE/FC[1]
Woodland Improvement Grant	Yes	RDPE

[1] Woodland Management Grant contracts for public access agreed since 1 January 2007 come from Forestry Commission (FC) budget, those prior to 1 January 2007 from RDPE.

Litter

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many (a) prosecutions have been made and (b) fixed penalty notices were issued by each local authority in West Sussex for (i) dropping of litter and (ii) dog fouling in each of the last three years. [272389]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The information requested is as follows:

Fixed Penalty Notices (FPNs)

The following table shows the figures on FPNs issued by each local authority in West Sussex for the dropping of litter and dog fouling. The figures are for the period 2006-07, the last year for which stats are available.

Prosecutions

Court proceedings data held by the Ministry of Justice for the number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates' courts for the offences dropping of litter and dog fouling in Sussex police force area for 2005-07 (latest available) can be viewed in the following table.

Data held centrally cannot be further broken down to local authority level, thus Sussex police force area data have been provided in lieu.

These data are on the principal offence basis. The figures given in the table on court proceedings relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offence for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences, the offence selected is the one for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

Court proceedings data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

Number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates' courts for littering and dog fouling offences in Sussex police force area, 2005-07

Sussex police force area	Proceeded against

Littering	..	1	1
Dog fouling	..	1	1

Notes:
1 Data provided on the principal offence basis.
2 Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when these data are used.
3 Includes offences under the Environmental Protection Act 1990 Sections 87 and 94.
4 Includes the following statutes and corresponding offence descriptions:
Environmental Protection Act 1990 Sec. 87. Depositing litter.
Environmental Protection Act 1990 Sec. 94. Failing to comply with a street litter control notice.
Dogs (Fouling of Land) Act 1996 Sec. 3. Dog defecates on designated land and person in charge of dog fails to remove faeces from land forthwith.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State plans to reply to the letters from the hon. Member for Forest of Dean of 2 March and 8 April 2009 on flooding and biomass crops, reference FD7571. [272364]

Huw Irranca-Davies: I have sought advice from Environment Agency officials about the letters from the hon. Member for Forest of Dean dated 2 March and 8 April on flooding and biomass crops and will respond shortly.

Wild Boar

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) in what circumstances wild boar may be fed meat; and if he will make a statement; [272368]

(2) what precautions the Food and Environment Research Agency has put in place to prevent the spread of disease among wild boar populations which are fed meat. [272369]

Jane Kennedy: Wild boar cannot normally be fed meat unless it is fed for research purposes and is done in accordance with an authorisation. DEFRA has issued a general authorisation for use of animal by-products for research purposes. The Secretary of State can also issue individual authorisations and can suspend or revoke authorisations.

Although the feeding of animal by-products to animals is a potential route of transmission of various diseases and is something that is not sanctioned in farming or domestic feeding practice, this isolated, short-term trial involving wild boar took place at a time when foot and mouth disease (FMD) and other exotic diseases were not present in GB. As such, DEFRA is confident that this particular activity did not increase the risk of introducing FMD or other exotic disease. No additional measures, beyond regular surveillance of the feral wild boar by research scientists, are considered necessary.

The Food and Environment Research Agency does not currently feed any meat to any wild boar populations. In January 2009, as part of the agency's research on managing wild boar populations, meat was used at a single research site.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

House of Commons: Video Recordings

Mr. Amess: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission in what circumstances the House authorities may prevent (a) a live video link to a meeting at the parliamentary estate from being made and (b) a meeting from being held on the parliamentary estate; and if he will make a statement. [272167]

Nick Harvey: The House authorities are guided by the regulations for the use of committee, conference, meeting and interview rooms which are approved by the Administration Committee and set out in the leaflet entitled "Committee Rooms, Conference, Meeting and Interview Rooms" which is available through the Members' Centre, attendants at reception desks and on the intranet. The regulations give guidance on the purposes for which Members may book these rooms. Within these regulations it is possible for Members to invite others to participate in meetings, either in person or via video link.

It is the responsibility of a Member who holds a meeting to ensure that the purpose for which the room has been booked is within the regulations.

Palace of Westminster

John Mann: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission what estimate the House of Commons Commission has made of the sums to be allocated for the renewal of facilities in the Palace of Westminster in each of the next six financial years. [271771]

Nick Harvey: Budgets for 2009-10 to 2011-12 only have been agreed at present, pending sign-off of a revised Accommodation and Estates Strategy following the completion of a condition survey of all buildings on the parliamentary Estate:

	2009-10	2010-11	2011-12
Revenue:
Projects	3,405	19,665	9,922
Maintenance	6,818	6,737	6,774
Furnishings	1,635	1,636	1,640
Surveys, inspections, studies	850	850	850
Total	12,708	28,888	19,186
Capital investment	16,980	31,637	98,303

These figures cover the House of Commons share of investments by the Parliamentary Estates Directorate across the whole Estate. A number of programmes involve more than a single building, some of which are shared with the Lords, making it difficult to identify separate figures for the Palace of Westminster alone.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Departmental Energy

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much (a) electricity, (b) gas and (c) other fuel was used by (i) his Department and (ii) each of its agencies in each of the last 10 years. [267328]

Mr. Woodward: Available figures on fuel expenditure for my Department and its agencies are shown in the following tables:

SCOTLAND

Departmental Rail Travel

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what guidance his Department issues on whether members of staff may claim for travel in first class carriages on trains if there are no seats in standard class. [268540]

Ann McKechin: Office guidance on rail travel requires staff to book tickets through a contracted travel agent. This is in order to ensure that the best value for money is achieved through taking full advantage of advance bookings and discounts for fixed time departures. Staff, who usually travel in standard class, would be permitted to upgrade to first class if no standard seats were available, at their manager's discretion. It would be for individual line managers to assess the relative cost of staff travelling first class against the importance and nature of the journey in relation to the Office's business.

All travel is conducted in accordance with the requirements of the Civil Service Management Code.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Bingo

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate his Department has made of (a) the gross annual revenue generated by bingo clubs and (b) the proportion of such revenue generated from (i) interval bingo and (ii) main stage bingo play in the latest period for which information is available. [272940]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department has not made any such estimates.

Cultural Heritage: Expenditure

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been spent on the World Collections programme since its inception; and on which activities. [272037]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 30 April 2009]: The World Collections programme has received funding of £1 million to date.

This funding has been distributed among the six partners in the programme—the British Museum, the British Library, Tate, the Victoria and Albert Museum, the Natural History Museum and the Royal Botanic Gardens, Kew. World Collections programme funding has been allocated to meet the aims and objectives of the programme, and has either funded projects delivered in challenging environments or has provided the initial money to develop strategic international partnerships.

It has contributed funding towards the following activity since it began on 1 April 2008.

Middle East:

World Ceramics at the Pera Museum, Istanbul

The fourth leg of a V and A touring exhibition of ceramic material ordinarily displayed in the permanent galleries at South Kensington (which are being refurbished).

Museum Management seminar, Damascus

To coincide with the World Ceramics exhibition in Damascus, the World Collections programme partners held a four-day museum management seminar in Damascus with curators from Syria, Jordan and Palestine.

Middle Eastern Contemporary Art

A Tate-led research and relationship-building exercise between UK partners and artists and contemporary art institutions across the middle east. This exercise has included UK staff visits to the middle east (including to Kabul); a two-day seminar on the subject at Tate which involved artists, curators and museum professionals from a number of countries including Jordan, Iraq, Palestine, Israel and the Gulf states; and seminars to bring together artists, curators and museum professionals in Sharjah and Dubai.

Digital photographic exhibition at the National Museum, Kabul

The World Collections programme (led by the British Library) is developing a sustainable exhibition of digital copies of photographic images held in the archives of the six partner institutions. A British Library curator will also write labels and an exhibition guide (all will be translated into Pashtu). The digital images will be printed and mounted in situ in Kabul to share skills, and digital copies of all images in the exhibition given to the National Museum, Kabul.

India:

Indian Life and Landscapes

A V and A-led touring exhibition to Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj Vastu Sangrahalaya (CSMVS) Mumbai and the Mehrangarh Fort, Jodphur. The World Collections programme also enabled the inclusion of a public programme, dual-language exhibition materials, and skills sharing and capacity building in exhibition display at the Mehrangarh Fort in Jodphur.

Capacity building with the Salar Jung Museum, Hyderabad

A V and A-led staff exchange to develop a partnership focused on joint exhibitions and conservation projects.

British Library in India

Digitisation of a selection of the India Office records held at the British Library, and a relationship-building visit to three cities in India to develop partnerships between the six organisations in the World Collections programme and Indian institutions.

Mewar Ramayana manuscript

Digitally reuniting the Mewar Ramayana manuscript which is held in four institutions—the British Library, CSMVS Mumbai, Baroda Museum and the Rajastan Oriental Institute.

Numismatic collections

Development of a series of internships for colleagues in academic institutions in south Asia to study the numismatic collections at the British Museum.

Natural History Museum and the National Natural History Museum, New Delhi

The World Collections programme is funding the initial development of a partnership between these two organisations.

Africa:

National Museums Kenya

A series of initiatives to develop a partnership with National Museums Kenya. This has included a joint project to enhance the cultural heritage storage facilities at the Nairobi Museum, enable staff exchanges between London and Nairobi, and develop a partnership between the Nairobi Museum and the Natural History Museum.

African Sound Archives

A joint project between the British Library and Kenyan National Archives to use the African heritage sound archives held at the British Library and, for the first time, use the audio-visual archives at the Kenyan National Archives. This project will make the archives available to public, provide new input into the British Library collection and assist in the development of the Nairobi-based collection.

National Museum, Addis Ababa

A British Museum-led programme to collaborate with the National Museum in Addis Ababa through the delivery of training in Addis Ababa on the subjects of gallery management, exhibition display and textile conservation.

Development of a partnership with the Institute of Ethiopian Studies

Funding a number of activities involving the British Museum, V and A, British Library and Institute of Ethiopian Studies to develop greater access to the UK-based Ethiopian collections for UK and Ethiopian audiences and the academic community. This has included staff exchanges and the provision of a digitised manuscript for the Institute of Ethiopian Studies.

Money in Africa

Developing links between numismatic collections in the UK and Africa through a number of activities including digitisation of the British Museum's East African coin collection and making this available to African institutions as research and display aids; a capacity building exercise to develop skills in mounting, display and cataloguing with museums in Axum and Addis Ababa; and assistance with training at the Iziko Museums in South Africa.

African Digital Plants Resources

RBG Kew is working to enhance collections-based digital resources relevant to African plant diversity in response to demands from stakeholders and specific feedback concerning existing resources. Main outputs will be a range of user friendly and attractive online 'species pages' for Africa, digitisation and analysis of African specimen information for selected species of conservation concern, and support for capacity building activities requested by African partners.

China:

Royal Botanical Gardens Kew and China Seed Bank

Royal Botanical Gardens Kew worked in partnership with the Chinese Academy of Sciences to develop the China Seed Bank, which opened in Kunming in October 2008.

Natural History Museum and the Geological Museum of China, Beijing

The World Collections Programme is funding the initial development of a partnership between these two organisations.

Internships with the International Dunhuang Project

A series of internships for colleagues from Indian and Chinese institutions to work with the International Dunhuang Project.

Multi-country projects:

International Training Programme

UK-based British Museum-led six-week training programme for 24 international curators, artists and museum professionals to work with specialist staff at the World Collections programme institutions and also develop skills in the basics of museum management. This project also involves Tyne and Wear Museums, Lincoln—The Collection, Manchester Museum and the Whitworth Art Gallery, Glasgow Museums, Birmingham City Museum and Art Gallery and the National Museum of Wales, Cardiff. The World Collections programme has provided funding for the 2008 and forthcoming 2009 training programmes.

Developing multi-lingual access to the collections:

The World Collections programme is providing funding to develop access to the collections in languages other than English.

Administration:

World Collections programme co-ordinator

The programme funds a part-time post, based at the British Museum, to co-ordinate and manage the programme.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) what his most recent estimate is of his Department's capital expenditure in (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10, (c) 2010-11 and (d) 2011-12; and if he will make a statement; [271822]

(2) what his most recent estimate is of his Department's resource expenditure in (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10, (c) 2010-11 and (d) 2011-12; and if he will make a statement. [271823]

Andy Burnham: The data in table C11 of Budget 2009 give the Capital and Resource Departmental Expenditure Limits (DEL) for Estimated Outturn for 2008-09 and Plans for 2009-10 and 2010-11 in £ billions as follows:

£ billion

	Resource DEL	Capital DEL
2008-09 Estimated outturn	1.6	0.3
2009-10 Plans	1.7	0.4
2010-11 Plans	1.7	0.6

We currently do not hold any data relating to 2011-12.

The latest figures for Resource and Capital expenditure will be available in the Main Estimate and Supplementary Budget Information tables. These are normally published five weeks after the Budget.

Departmental Rail Travel

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what guidance his Department has issued to its staff on claims for travel in first class carriages on trains if there are no seats in standard class. [268444]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Our guidance states that for economic purposes staff are encouraged to use standard class rail travel wherever possible. There is no specific guidance about staff claiming for first class travel on trains if there are no seats available in standard class.

Digital Technology: Conferences

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the cost to his Department was of hosting the Digital Britain summit on 17 April 2009; and who attended the summit. [271837]

Andy Burnham [holding answer 29 April 2009]: The DCMS contribution to the cost of the Digital Britain summit was £20,000.

I am arranging for copies of the list of attendees to be placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Gambling Commission: Expenditure

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much was paid in (a) salary and (b) bonus to the (i) chairman, (ii) chief executive, (iii) deputy chief executive, (iv) director of operations, (v) director of policy and communications, (vi) director of corporate services and (vii) director of licensing and compliance at the Gambling Commission in 2008-09. [271610]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 28 April 2009]: The table sets out the salary payments (to the nearest pound) made by the Gambling Commission for the posts listed in 2008-09.

A total of £59,878 was also paid in bonuses for this period but it is not appropriate to provide the specific amounts paid to individuals.

Post	Notes	Salary (£)
Chairman	The post of Chairman is not pensionable.	65,975
Chief Executive	The post of Chief Executive is not pensionable.	144,953
Deputy Chief Executive	—	49,637
Director of Operations	This post became Director of Regulation from 1 November 2008. The figures are inclusive of both posts.	93,328
Director of Policy and Communications	To 31 October 2008.	42,978
Director of Corporate Services	—	95,755
Director of Licensing and Compliance	To 3 January 2009.	69,287

Government Art Collection

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the (a) total purchase price and (b) estimated current market value are of the works of art from the Government Art Collection displayed in the private offices of HM Treasury Ministers. [271200]

Barbara Follett: Works from the Government Art Collection in private offices of Treasury Ministers, and their purchase prices, are set out in the following table.

All prices include VAT where applicable.

It is not possible to provide a current value for each of these works. The monetary value of a work of art can be accurately assessed only at the time of its purchase, sale or by professional valuation. The collection is not actively traded and it would not be a justifiable expenditure of public funds to maintain up-to-date professional valuations of the collection.

Non-profit Making Associations: Commonwealth Games 2014

Mark Lazarowicz: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps his Department is taking to encourage social enterprises to take up commercial opportunities arising out of the 2014 Commonwealth games. [272603]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Following the successful bid for Glasgow to host the Commonwealth games in 2014, the Organising Committee, Glasgow 2014 Ltd., is taking forward the delivery of the games. The Government welcome any steps it takes to encourage the involvement of social enterprises in accessing the commercial opportunities offered by the 2014 Commonwealth games. The Scotland Office will be taking forward two pieces of secondary legislation under the Scotland Act 1998 to facilitate the delivery of the 2014 games. These will protect the intellectual property rights of the games and prohibit ticket touting in the rest of the United Kingdom.

Sports: Training

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many community sport coaches have been in operation in each year since 2005. [272056]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 30 April 2009]: Sport England has advised that the community sports coach scheme was initially established in April 2003, and implemented from April 2004. The headline objectives were to generate 3,000 paid professional coaches working at a local level and to increase the number and range of coaching opportunities by 2006, according to strategic and local need.

In each year since 2005 there has been the following number of community sports coaches:

	Number of coaches
2005-06	2,978
2006-07	3,335
2007-08	3,063

Tourism

Richard Younger-Ross: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what Visit England's budget for tourism promotion is for 2009-10; what the budget for Enjoy England was in its last year of operation; and if he will make a statement. [271318]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 27 April 2009]: Enjoy England is the marketing brand for Visit England. Visit Britain have advised that they have allocated £12 million to Visit England to promote tourism for 2009-10.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 22W, on trade unions, which trade unions are recognised by his Department's agency. [271936]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Royal Parks Agency recognises the Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS) and Prospect.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Sudan: Internally Displaced Persons

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of new arrivals at the internally displaced persons camps in southern Darfur in the last six months; and what assessment he has made of the effects on the capacity of those camps to meet the basic needs of their residents of such arrivals. [271588]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The UN Office for the Co-ordination of Humanitarian Affairs (OCHA) estimates that 100,000 people have been assessed as newly displaced within South Darfur in the last six months. A further 49,000 have been displaced from South Darfur to other states within Darfur. Most of these have arrived in designated IDP camps.

In the wake of the expulsion of 13 international NGOs and dissolution of three national NGOs on 4 March 2009, a UN-Government of Sudan mission assessed the capacity of service providers in the major camps across Darfur. It concluded that due to gap-filling measures taken by the UN and other agencies, an immediate crisis had been averted, but that urgent action was needed to ensure that IDPs received life-saving services in the medium term. We are working with the Government of Sudan, the UN, other international agencies, the remaining NGOs and implementing partners to ensure that the necessary capacity is in place.

Sudan: International Assistance

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what his most recent assessment is of the effects on the humanitarian situation in Sudan of the dissolution or expulsion by the Government of Sudan of non-governmental organisations in March 2009; what gaps in humanitarian assistance consequent on the departure of such organisations from Sudan have been identified by the UN; and what recent estimate he has made of the number of people affected by such gaps. [271729]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The report of the Joint United Nations (UN)-Government of Sudan (GoS) assessment of the impact of the expulsion of 13 international NGOs and dissolution of three national NGOs was released on 24 March 2009. It estimated that 650,000 people risked being left without full access to medical care; 692,000 without non-food items (NFIs) and shelter; over 850,000 without access to water and sanitation; and 1.1 million with disrupted food supplies. The report is available online at:

http://ochaonline.un.org/

On 7 April 2009, the UN presented figures to donors based on worst case scenarios if gaps were not filled. These were up to 30 per cent. higher: 1.5-2 million without any access to medical care; 1 million without access to water and sanitation; 1.1 million with disrupted food assistance during the hungry season; and 1.2 million without adequate shelter and NFIs during the rainy season. The risks of increased morbidity, mortality, malnutrition and large population movements were also reported as significant.

The Department for International Development (DFID) will continue working with the UN and other donors to monitor GoS' commitment to fill the gaps left by the expulsions and closures, and to ensure that the international community has early warning of any significant further deterioration in the humanitarian situation.

OLYMPICS

Olympic Games 2012: Children

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Minister for the Olympics what steps she is taking to enable deprived children to attend events during the London 2012 Olympics. [271353]

Tessa Jowell: The London Organising Committee of the Olympic Games and Paralympic Games (LOCOG) is responsible for the ticketing strategy for the London 2012 games, which will be made public in 2010.

I have held detailed discussions with LOCOG about developing the strategy. We are absolutely committed to making sure that there are tickets for sale at affordable prices for all and for people from around the UK. Some sporting events such as the marathon and road cycling will be free to watch. In addition, LOCOG is already rolling out a network of live sites across the country from now through to 2012 for as many people as possible in the community to watch the games.

TRANSPORT

Aviation: Disabled

Nick Ainger: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) whether he has had discussions with other Governments about the ending of charges by airlines for passengers with pulmonary hypertension, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, muscular dystrophy and other conditions who bring personal oxygen concentrators and equipment on board airlines or who use supplemental oxygen provided by the airline; [271541]

(2) if he will hold discussions with airlines operating from the UK to seek to end charges made on passengers with pulmonary hypertension, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease and muscular dystrophy who require in-flight supplemental oxygen provided by the airline or by themselves; [271542]

(3) if he will make it his policy to ensure air passengers with pulmonary hypertension, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, muscular dystrophy and other conditions are not charged by airlines for bringing on board personal oxygen concentrators or equipment or for having supplemental oxygen provided by the airline. [271543]

Jim Fitzpatrick: European regulation 1107/2006 on the rights of disabled persons and persons with reduced mobility when travelling by air imposes obligations on airlines with respect to the services they provide, including an obligation to carry passengers' medical equipment free of charge. However, there are no specific obligations to carry or provide oxygen in the cabin.

To help the air transport industry to comply with its obligations under the regulation, the Department for Transport has published an updated version of its Code of Practice "Access to Air Travel for Disabled Persons and Persons with Reduced Mobility". The code was developed with input from the Civil Aviation Authority, the Health and Safety Executive, the Disabled Persons Transport Advisory Committee, the devolved Administrations and aviation industry representatives. The code includes a section on oxygen which advises that air carriers may approve the carriage of small gaseous oxygen or air cylinders required for medical use, but notes that carriers will wish to ensure that these do not pose a risk to security. The code also recommends that portable oxygen concentrator devices should normally be allowed if battery powered. Where air carriers wish to supply medical oxygen to passengers on request, the code acknowledges that it would be possible to make a charge for this service to cover the provision of the oxygen.

This is a matter which is best addressed at a European level. The Department has raised the issue of carriage of medical oxygen with the European Commission at a recent meeting of national enforcement bodies for regulation 1107/2006. The Commission is due to review the regulation in 2010.

Aviation: EU Countries

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many (a) scheduled and (b) inclusive tour flights there were from British airports to (a) euro zone countries, (b) Germany, (c) France, (d) Spain and (e) Italy in each of the last five years. [272560]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Flights services are defined as scheduled or charter; inclusive tour flights are not separately identified.

The tables show the number of scheduled and charter flights departing from British airports to euro zone (EU-27) countries, Germany, France, Spain and Italy in each of the last five years.

Table 1. Scheduled flights from British airports to euro zone countries, Germany, France, Spain and Italy

Aviation: Radio Frequencies

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what recent estimate he has made of the level of use by private and leisure pilots of unlicensed aerodromes likely to follow the introduction of higher charges associated with the administered incentive pricing for aeronautical radio spectrum; [272229]

(2) what recent assessment he has made of the effect on (a) airlines and (b) airline passengers using East Midlands airport of the introduction of administered incentive pricing for aeronautical radio spectrum; [272233]

(3) what recent assessment he has made of the effect on (a) aviation and (b) passenger safety of the introduction of administered incentive pricing for aeronautical radio spectrum. [272234]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Ofcom, the independent regulator for the UK communications industries, published proposals for administered incentive pricing (AIP) in its 2008 consultation 'Applying spectrum pricing to the Maritime and Aeronautical sectors'. Ofcom did not publish an Impact Assessment with this consultation, but indicated that it would do so with its second consultation on AIP. Publication of this second consultation, which will feature more detailed proposals for the implementation of AIP in the maritime and aeronautical sectors, is anticipated in spring 2009.

We expect Ofcom's Impact Assessment to identify fully the potential effects of AIP on the maritime and aeronautical sectors.

Aviation: Safety

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the effect on levels of air safety standards of the incorporation of the Civil Aviation Authority into the European Aviation Safety Agency; and if he will make a statement. [271781]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The United Kingdom Civil Aviation Authority has not been incorporated into the European Aviation Safety Agency.

The European Aviation Safety Agency drafts common safety rules in the fields in which it has competence, namely airworthiness and air operations. These rules, once formally adopted through Community procedures, are legally binding across the EU. In some areas of regulation, such as the type certification of aircraft, the agency implements the rules itself, but in most areas they are implemented and enforced by the member states' national aviation authorities (NAAs)—the Civil Aviation Authority in the UK.

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the level of safety standards in the helicopter fleet servicing the UK offshore oil and gas industry; and if he will make a statement. [271782]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The safety of the helicopter fleet servicing the UK offshore oil and gas industry is regulated by independent aviation safety regulators the European Aviation Safety Agency (EASA) and the UK Civil Aviation Authority (CAA).

The Air Accidents Investigation Branch (AAIB) is investigating the fatal accident to a Super Puma helicopter, which occurred on 1 April. EASA and the CAA have closely followed the progress of the investigation and have introduced mandatory safety intervention measures, which required operators of the Super Puma helicopters to inspect and modify their aircraft. The CAA is confident that these measures are sufficient to maintain aviation safety in the light of the information available to date. Should the AAIB investigation reveal additional information, EASA and the CAA will examine that information and consider whether further steps are required.

Departmental Assets

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when his Department last reviewed its assets and land and property holdings with a view to identifying and disposing of surpluses. [269855]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport reviews assets and land and property holdings on an ongoing basis. As and when appropriate any land or property holdings deemed surplus are promptly identified and disposed of in accordance with business needs.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many officials in his Department are suspended; how many are suspended on full pay; for how long each has been suspended; and what the reasons are for each such suspension. [270505]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport and its Executive agencies currently have 24 employees suspended; all are on full pay while internal and/or police investigations are being conducted.

Driving Tests: First Aid

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will bring forward legislative proposals to require candidates for the driving test to undertake training in first aid. [272397]

Jim Fitzpatrick: There are no plans to bring forward legislative proposals to require candidates for the driving test to undertake specific training in first aid.

The driving theory test contains three questions relating to first aid. These questions are drawn from two categories: Accident Handling and First Aid. Each candidate is asked two questions on accident handling and one on first aid.

Driving: Licensing

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the cost of the new computer system to be used by post offices to renew photocard driving licences. [272464]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA) has negotiated a price for the provision of a customer-facing service with the Post Office. The Post Office procured a new computer system through a third party supplier for the provision of the DVLA service and services to other customers. The Post Office shared some of these costs with the agency during negotiations. These costs may not be disclosed as they are commercial in confidence.

Exeter-Yeovil Railway Line

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will undertake an investigation of the likely effect of dualling the Exeter to Yeovil railway line on (a) demand for services on the line, (b) the environment and (c) the economy of the south-west. [272520]

Paul Clark: Network Rail is already doubling the track at Axminster between Exeter and Yeovil to enable more frequent services to operate. The 2006 rail industry study identified this work would suffice to meet predicted demand for services on the line up to 2017.

The overall demand on the line will be kept under review as part of the preparation for the Government rail output requirements for 2014 to 2019 but there is no plan to undertake an early review.

Flying Matters

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport on what dates since 1 January 2007 (a) Ministers and (b) officials in his Department have had (i) discussions and (ii) meetings with representatives of Flying Matters. [270966]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I gave a short address to a Flying Matters round table on The Developing World, Air Freight and Climate Change on 31 March 2008. The organisation represents a broad coalition of bodies who have an interest in supporting sustainable growth in aviation, including the business community, trade unions, tourism bodies as well as airlines, airports, aerospace manufacturers and others in the industry. In the course of business Ministers regularly have meetings with stakeholders from these organisations, as do officials.

Specific official level contact with Flying Matters comprised meetings on 5 May 2007 and 5 February 2009 on a range of aviation issues and brief discussions in late 2007 and early 2008 as part of a series of regular updates to a range of stakeholders on the progress of the Climate Change Bill.

M42

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport when he expects the M42 to be free of roadworks and lane closures in both directions. [272319]

Paul Clark: The current planned roadworks on the M42 are part of the roll-out of the Managed Motorways programme on the motorway box around Birmingham and its approaches. They comprise the installation of ATM between junctions 7 to 9, scheduled to be completed by December 2009, and MIDAS (Motorway Incident Detection System) between junctions 9 to 11, expected to be completed by early August 2009. The work is being carried out in sections within these locations.

It is not possible to guarantee that any motorway will be free of roadworks and lane closures as there will always be the possibility of emergency works, for example as a result of accidents or other unforeseen incidents.

Advance warning of any work taking place will normally be available on the Highways Agency's website, the Traffic England website and on strategic signing on potentially affected approach routes, allowing road users to plan their route accordingly.

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport for what reasons the current roadworks on the M42 were not phased to take place after roadworks on the M1 motorway between Junctions 25 and 28 were concluded; and if he will make a statement. [272320]

Paul Clark: To minimise disruption to road users, the Highways Agency's policy is to ensure, where possible, that concurrent roadworks are not carried out within six miles of each other. The M1 and M42 schemes comply with that policy, being over 19 miles apart.

Motorcycles: Registration

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the merits of registering off-road bikes with the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency to reduce levels of antisocial behaviour; and if he will make a statement. [270092]

Jim Fitzpatrick: An inter-departmental group led by the Home Office is keeping the matter under review. Its remit is to consider the issues around the off-road use of mini-motos and similar vehicles and to pool knowledge of how those issues are being addressed.

Railways

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department is taking to ensure that the transport priorities of regional development agencies take account of the results of consultation with transport users. [272517]

Paul Clark: Regions have the opportunity to provide advice to Government on their investment priorities for transport, housing and regeneration, and economic development through regional funding advice.

The Government issued guidance on preparing regional funding advice in July 2008. This guidance stated that regional development agencies, regional assemblies, leaders' forums and local government would all have a key role to play in developing the advice, and that sub-regional partners and cities should play a role in ensuring that the advice recognised the importance of developing functional economic areas. Furthermore, the guidance stated that the regional advice would be more credible if it was based on a wide consensus, and reflected the views of the broadest range of stakeholders, including the business community, social, environmental and economic partners, and the third sector. Regional partners were also encouraged to engage the public when gathering advice on regional priorities for development.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what guidance he has issued to (a) local authorities and (b) regional development agencies on mechanisms for consultation with residents and other stakeholders on rail transport strategy. [272521]

Paul Clark: We have not issued any specific guidance to either local authorities or regional development agencies on their mechanisms for consultation with residents and other stakeholders specifically on rail transport strategy. We issued draft guidance in December 2008 to local authorities on preparing local transport plans starting in 2011, which includes consultation on local transport generally.

Railways: Coastal Areas

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department is taking to encourage an increase in travel to British seaside resorts by rail by (a) tourists and (b) business users. [271604]

Paul Clark: Promoting travel by rail to seaside resorts is primarily a matter for the train operators who run the services and the resorts who wish to attract visitors.

In addition, in line with the Department for Transport's Community Rail Development Strategy, a number of Community Rail Partnerships promote rail services to seaside resorts in their areas when this can enhance the viability of local rail services.

Railways: Security

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what his policy is on the deployment of facial recognition technology on railway property. [270968]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport does not require the use of facial recognition technology on railway property. Along with other Departments, we are keeping this emerging technology under review. In future, it may have the potential to provide an additional tool to help protect the public. As with any such technology, however, its use for public protection would need to be proportionate and balanced with considerations of privacy. Any use would also need to be backed with appropriate safeguards and transparency for the public.

Railways: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the proportion of journeys between Torbay and London undertaken by rail; and what steps his Department is taking to increase the number of such journeys. [272519]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport has the estimate of the number of journeys from and to Torbay as published in the National Rail Trends. In 2006-07 the number of journeys made was 788,000. However, the Department does not have any estimate of the journeys as a proportion of total between Torbay and London.

Our aim is to give people real choices about how they travel, which means we need both a reliable, well resourced railway and properly financed roads. Our policy is to make the most of existing capacity on both road and rail and that is where the majority of our investment is focused.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make it his policy to alter the service level commitment of the First Great Western franchise agreement to increase the number of direct journeys between Paignton and London Paddington. [272523]

Paul Clark: The Secretary of State currently has no plans to alter the service level commitment of First Great Western to increase the number of direct journeys between Paignton and London Paddington.

Road Signs and Markings: Milton Keynes

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) how many road signs have been purchased by Milton Keynes unitary authority in each year since its inception; [272313]

(2) how much (a) Milton Keynes unitary authority and (b) all local authorities spent on road signs in each of the last 10 years. [272355]

Paul Clark: Local highway authorities are responsible under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 for the installation of traffic signs as necessary. The Department for Transport does not hold information either on the number of traffic signs installed by authorities, or the cost of these measures.

Roads: Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what major improvements have been made to the UK road network in the last 12 months. [271476]

Paul Clark: The Highways Agency completed the following major road improvements in England during the financial year 2008-09.

Name of scheme	County	Completed
A590 High and Low Newton Bypass	Lancashire	April 2008
A66 Long Newton Junction	County Durham	May 2008
M25 J1b-3 Widening (Section 3)	Kent	July 2008
A27 Southerham to Beddingham Improvement	Sussex	August 2008
A14 Haughley New St—Stowmarket Improvement	Suffolk	September 2008
M27 J11-J12 Climbing Lanes	Hampshire	September 2008
M6 Carlisle to Guardsmill Extension	Cumbria	December 2008
M62 Junction 6 Improvement	Merseyside	December 2008
A595 Parton—Lillyhall Improvement	Cumbria	December 2008
A38 Dobwalls Bypass	Cornwall	December 2008
M1 Junction 6a to 10 Widening	Hertfordshire	December 2008
M27 J3 To J4 Widening	Hampshire	January 2009
A5117/A550 Deeside Park Junctions Improvement	Cheshire	March 2009
A2 Bean—Cobham Phase 2 Pepperhill—Cobham	Kent	February 2009
A69 Haydon Bridge Bypass	Northumberland	March 2009
A419 Blunsdon Bypass	Wiltshire	March 2009

Local highway authorities in England completed the following major road improvements during the financial year 2008-09:

Name of scheme	Local/regional authority	Completed
Ridgmont Bypass and Woburn Link Road	Bedfordshire CC	June 2008
Tunstall Northern Bypass	Stoke City Council	July 2008
Darlington Eastern Transport Corridor	Darlington City Council	August 2008
A631 West Bawtry Road Improvements	Rotherham MBC	September 2008

Name of scheme	Local/regional authority	Completed
Glasshoughton Coal Fields Link Road	Wakefield MBC	October 2008
A688 Wheatley Hill to Bowburn Link	Durham CC	October 2008
Brierley Hill Access Network	Dudley MBC	October 2008
Leeds Inner Ring Road, Stage 7	Leeds City Council	November 2008
A6096 Ilkeston to Awsworth Link Road	Derbyshire CC	December 2008
Upperton Road Viaduct Major Maintenance Scheme	Leicester City Council	December 2008
East Leeds Link Road, Leeds	Leeds City Council	February 2009
Scarborough Integrated Transport Scheme	North Yorkshire CC	February 2009
A47 Earl Shilton Bypass	Leicestershire County Council	March 2009
North West Taunton Package	Somerset County Council	March 2009
A386 Northern Corridor	Plymouth City Council	March 2009

There are also a number of other major schemes by the Highway Agency and local highway authorities which are in construction or are due to commence this year.

In addition to the major schemes given above, a number of minor improvement schemes (under £5 million) were completed during the financial year 2008-09 by the Highways Agency and local highway authorities on roads for which they have responsibility.

Responsibility for the road networks in Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales is devolved to the Department of the Environment in Northern Ireland, the Scottish Executive and the Welsh Assembly Government.

Roads: Snow and Ice

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment has been made of the effect of the extreme weather in winter 2008-09 on the condition of roads for which the Highways Agency is responsible; and what funding will be made available to assist with repairs. [271276]

Paul Clark: No special assessment has been made of the effect of the extreme weather incurred during 2008-09 on the condition of the network. However, the Highways Agency carries out regular network condition surveys and timely safety inspections to ensure appropriate funds are allocated to maintain the network in a safe and serviceable condition. The Highways Agency's experience is that road defects due to extreme weather are likely to be safety related, which are treated promptly as part of the routine and winter maintenance programme. Costs for treating such defects are small and are managed using the overall allocated maintenance expenditure.

Rolling Stock

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 9 February 2009, Official Report, columns 1606-8W, on rolling stock, (1) on what date and for what reasons the decision was taken to reduce the number of new carriages scheduled to be ordered in the Rolling Stock Plan; [270979]

(2) which (a) franchise areas and (b) lines originally scheduled to receive new rolling stock under the Rolling Stock Plan will not receive new stock. [270980]

Paul Clark: No decision has been taken to reduce the number of new carriages proposed to be ordered as part of the Rolling Stock Plan. The Rolling Stock Plan published in January 2008 (revised in July 2008) showed an indicative allocation of additional carriages to individual train operators. The plan did not distinguish between new carriages and those transferred between train operators.

543 of the 1,300 new carriages announced in High Level Output Specification (HLOS) have been ordered, with the balance to be ordered in due course.

Shipping: Pollution

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department is taking to reduce the volume of pollution attributable to shipping activities. [272352]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport works in the forum of the International Maritime Organization to develop international standards and regulations which prevent pollution from ships. The Department's Maritime and Coastguard Agency undertakes the surveillance and monitoring of the UK pollution control zone, and enforces relevant legislation in respect of UK-flagged ships and in respect of ships in waters under UK jurisdiction.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make an assessment of the level of pollution from shipping in UK coastal waters. [272836]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Each year, the Department's Maritime and Coastguard Agency commissions the Advisory Committee on Protection of the Sea to prepare an "Annual survey of reported discharges attributed to vessels and offshore oil and gas installations operating in the United Kingdom Pollution Control Zone". The reports of the annual surveys are available on the Maritime and Coastguard Agency's website.

Taunton-Penzance Railway Line: Electrification

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1609W, on Taunton-Penzance railway line: electrification, what conclusions were reached by the cross-industry working group; and what steps his Department plans to take in response to those conclusions. [271517]

Paul Clark: The cross-industry electrification working group led by Network Rail expects to publish its conclusions later in the year. The group's work will inform the rail industry planning process.

Taxis: Crime

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he is taking to ensure that drivers of minicabs operating illegally are (a) apprehended and (b) prosecuted. [272962]

Paul Clark: In order to provide a lawful private hire vehicle service in London, it is necessary for the operator and the driver and the vehicle to be licensed by Transport for London (TfL). Responsibility for enforcing the law in respect of drivers operating illegally rests with TfL and the Metropolitan police. They carry out this responsibility jointly through the Transport Operational Command Unit (TOCU).

The Government have taken steps to facilitate the enforcement task. In 2003 regulations were made which listed taxi touting as a recordable offence, allowing for the finger-printing of offenders and the taking of DNA and photographs.

Tintwistle Hollingworth and Mottram Bypass

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the answer of 13 November 2008, Official Report, columns 1286-87W, on the Longdendale bypass, what costs have been incurred in connection with the A57/A628 Mottram to Tintwistle bypass since 13 November 2008. [272467]

Paul Clark: For the period of 13 November 2008 to 30 April 2009, the A57/A628 Mottram to Tintwistle bypass scheme has incurred costs of approximately £1,176,000.

The costs include general project management, preparation for closure of the Public Inquiry, responding to general inquiries, project governance, staff costs, costs associated with the contract and finalising documents for the postponement of the project.

Transport: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the proportion of children travelling to school by car in the Torbay local authority area; and what steps he is taking to encourage alternative means of transport. [272527]

Paul Clark: Data collected by schools in the Torbay area via the School Census in January 2008 showed that 35.5 per cent. of children normally travelled to school by car; this included 2.9 per cent. of children who travelled in a car with children from another family.

The Government want as many children as possible to walk, cycle or use public transport to travel to school. In 2003, we launched the "Travelling to School" project setting out how we want all schools in England to develop a school travel plan in order to reduce car use for journeys to school and allow many more children to take regular exercise. By 2010 more than £140 million will have been committed to support the project through local authority school travel advisers and capital grants to help schools implement their travel plans.

92 per cent. of schools in Torbay already have an active school travel plan and the council is on target for every school to have a plan by March 2010. In addition Torbay council has in 2008-09 been awarded a total of £6,500 in Walking to School Initiative grants, together with funding in both 2008-09 and 2009-10 for cycle training for 1,000 children in total.

Vehicle Number Plates: Flags

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what progress has been made on his consultation on amendment of the Road Vehicles (Display of Registrations Marks) Regulations 2001 to permit the voluntary display of national flags. [272043]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The consultation exercise has been completed and the new rules came into force on 27 April.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Departmental Computers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many laptop computers have been provided to (a) Ministers, (b) special advisers and (c) civil servants in her Department in each year since 2005; and at what cost. [268274]

Mr. Woolas: Information regarding the breakdown of laptops between Ministers, special advisers and civil servants is not held centrally and to get this information would incur disproportional cost.

Departmental Data Protection

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions in (a) her Department and (b) its agencies confidential data have been downloaded on to compact discs (i) without and (ii) with encryption in the last 12 months. [241539]

Mr. Woolas: We do not hold these data and to obtain them would involve disproportionate costs. We are not aware of any loss of confidential data from compact discs in the last 12 months.

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make it her policy for her Department to sign the Information Commissioner's Personal Information Promise. [258969]

Mr. Woolas: The Government have welcomed the Promise as a commendable initiative to raise awareness of the importance of effective data protection safeguards, particularly for those organisations with no similar commitments already in place.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the average server capacity utilisation by each division of her Department was in each of the last five years; and if she will make a statement. [269679]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office operates a large-scale, multi-vendor supply chain delivering a wide range of ICT categories. Service capacity utilisation and the number of printers and multi-functional devices with printer capability are managed by our suppliers as part of the service offering. The information requested by the hon. Member is not therefore available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. However, the Home Office is working towards a ratio of one printer per 20 people and work is under way to review and rationalise data centres and to convert network printers to duplex capability where practicable.

Departmental Mobile Phones

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much has been spent on (a) the purchase of and (b) bills for (i) BlackBerrys and (ii) other mobile telephones for (A) Ministers, (B) special advisers and (C) civil servants in her Department in each year since 2005. [268234]

Mr. Woolas: BlackBerrys and other mobile telephone devices are supplied through our IT service providers.

Call and data charges for UKBA users of BlackBerrys are approximately £7,800 (including VAT) per quarter. The remainder of call and data charges for BlackBerrys are sent directly to each business area and to get this information would incur disproportional cost.

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) BlackBerrys and (b) other mobile telephones have been provided to (i) Ministers, (ii) special advisers and (iii) civil servants in her Department in each year since 2005. [268295]

Mr. Woolas: Information regarding the breakdown of BlackBerrys and other mobile telephones between Ministers, special advisers and civil servants is not held centrally and to get this information would incur disproportionate cost.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which programmes funded by her Department experienced a real terms reduction in their budget for 2008-09 in comparison with 2007-08; and what the budget for each such programme was in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2006-07. [269689]

Mr. Woolas: The major Home Office Programme budgets and comparisons for the years in question are set out in the Departmental Report 2008, tables 5.1 to 5.3. This report is available on the Home Office website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/documents/hoannualreport08/hoannualreport2008?view=Binary

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department for which financial losses her Department was granted Treasury approval in 2008-09. [269694]

Mr. Woolas: All losses incurred by the Home Office during the year have been managed by the Department within the scope of authorities delegated by the Treasury. The Departmental Resource Accounts for 2008-09 are scheduled for publication in June.

Departmental Training

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which training courses were (a) available to and (b) taken up by (i) civil servants and (b) Ministers in her Department in the last 12 months. [263308]

Mr. Woolas: A wide range of internal and external training courses are available to and taken up by Home Office civil servants. Details cannot be provided without disproportionate cost. On training for Ministers in the Home Office, I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer of 22 March 2009, Official Report, column 167W.

Deportation: Zimbabwe

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will suspend all deportations of people to Zimbabwe until there is greater political stability in that country. [268643]

Mr. Woolas: The court judgment on 19 November 2008 found that there is no prohibition to removing people who have no right to be here to Zimbabwe. However, the policy of Her Majesty's Government is that we will always take account of the political and humanitarian factors before doing so. My right hon. Friend the Home Secretary announced in September 2006 that we would be halting enforced returns to Zimbabwe and we are not currently enforcing the return of Zimbabwean nationals.

Immigration: Somalia

Mr. Fallon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many Somali citizens are seeking (a) asylum and (b) leave to remain; and how many have been (i) granted indefinite leave to remain and (ii) deported in each year since 1997. [269753]

Mr. Woolas [holding answer 20 April 2009]: An integral issue in asylum policy is that claimed national citizenship and actual citizenship are often different.

The number of Somali nationals currently seeking asylum is not available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost by examination of individual case records.

Management information indicates that as at 6 April 2009, there are 1,660 claimed Somali nationals who currently have outstanding applications for limited leave to remain in the UK. This information has not been quality assured under National Statistics protocols and may be subject to change. The figure has been rounded to the nearest five.

The following table shows the numbers of Somali nationals granted settlement in each year from 1997 to 2007, and Somali nationals removed or departed voluntarily from the UK in each year from 1997 to 2008. Published settlement data by nationality for 2008 are not currently available; this information is due to be published in August 2009.

National statistics on asylum applications, including grants and refusals, grants of settlement and removals and voluntary departures from the UK are published in chapters 3, 5 and 6 respectively of the Control of Immigration: Statistics United Kingdom annual bulletins. Copies of these publications are available from the Library of the House and the Home Office's Research, Development and Statistics website at:

National Identity Scheme Commissioner

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2009, Official Report, column 158W, on the National Identity Register: data protection, what (a) financial and (b) staffing resources will be available to the National Identity Scheme Commissioner to provide independent oversight of the provision of information. [269471]

Mr. Malik: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer given on 29 January 2009, Official Report, column 822W.

The appointment of the Scheme Commissioner is still continuing and once the appointee has commenced the role they will discuss the resources required to undertake independent oversight.

In accordance with the Identity Cards Act 2006 the Scheme Commissioner has the right to ask the Home Secretary for staff required to fulfil the role.

Passports: Concessions

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many pensioners have received a free passport in each year since the introduction of the policy. [270155]

Mr. Malik: The introduction of free passports was announced on 19 May 2004 as a special concession for the second world war generation. Those who qualify are British nationals born on or before 2 September 1929 and therefore were old enough by the end of the war to have made a substantial contribution to the national effort.

The scheme also included provision for a refund to be available on request to those that were eligible but applied for a passport in the period between 19 May 2004 (the date the Home Secretary announced the scheme) and 18 October (the implementation date of the scheme). Up until 31 March 2009, 18,897 refunds have been applied for and processed under this provision and are included in the volumes shown.

For each financial year from May 2004 until the end of March 2009, the following volumes of free passports were issued:

Financial year	Volume issued
2004-05	121,444
2005-06	157,229
2006-07	127,820
2007-08	109,655
2008-09	82,034

Vetting

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of records of offences committed outside the United Kingdom held by the UK Central Authority were made available to the Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) and used in CRB disclosures in 2008-09; and whether there are data on categories of offences held by the UK Central Authority which may not be passed to the CRB for such use. [269785]

Mr. Malik: The UK Central Authority for the Exchange of Criminal Records (UKCA-ECR) receives conviction notifications in respect of UK citizens who have been convicted of crimes in EU member states. Convictions that are recordable under the National Police Records (Recordable Offences) Regulations 2000 are added to the Police National Computer (PNC) and are therefore available to the CRB for disclosure purposes.

Between 1 October 2008 and 31 December 2008 the UKCA-ECR received 1,166 notifications, 250 of which were for non-recordable offences. All recordable offences were added to the PNC. It is not known what percentage of these have been subsequently used in disclosures.

Under Section 113A (3) of Part V of the Police Act 1997 criminal record certificates—standard and enhanced disclosures—must contain details of "every relevant matter" recorded in "central records". This means all convictions, cautions, reprimands and warnings held on the Police National Computer (PNC), including spent convictions. Any EU conviction information added to the Police National Computer by the UKCA-ECR would be included on CRB disclosures.

Vetting: Young People

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many under-18 year olds had Criminal Records Bureau checks in 2008-09. [269706]

Mr. Malik: From April 2008 to February 2009, the Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) has issued 122,461 disclosures to applicants under the age of 18 years. Of these, 112,9933 were enhanced disclosures and 9,528 were standard disclosures.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what visits he has made to Afghanistan in the last six months. [272905]

Mr. Hutton: I have visited Afghanistan on two occasions since my appointment as Secretary of State for Defence in October 2008.

Armed Forces: Health Services

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence on how many occasions in the last six months he has visited military personnel in hospitals. [272897]

Mr. Hutton: Since October 2008, I have visited hospitals with military patients on three occasions.

Armed Forces: Recruitment

Bob Russell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many former members of the armed forces who have applied for re-enlistment in the last 12 months are awaiting a decision; what the longest period an applicant has waited for a decision in the last five years is; and if he will make a statement. [265908]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Between 1 April 2008 and 31 March 2009, the Royal Navy received 1,001 Rating or RM Other Rank applications from former UK military personnel including RN, Army, RAF and former Reservists. Of these, 67 are still outstanding; 44 of which are awaiting routine requests for information on pay from the other services and 23 are pending resolution of medical queries. In the same period, there were 11 re-entrant officer applications; eight of these applicants have already re-entered service. Of the balance, one has yet to accept a job offer, one is awaiting a medical and the third's application is still being processed.

In the period 1 April 2008 to 31 March 2009, the Army Personnel Centre completed 2,911 applications for re-enlistment. A further 1,226 applications made during that period are still pending.

During financial year 2008-09, there were a total of 42 ex-service personnel who applied to join the RAF, 16 of whom are still waiting for a final decision. Of these 16, eight are Officers (five are waiting for training places while the remaining three are still going through the selection process) and eight are Other Ranks (all waiting for training places).

In the Army, during the period 1 April 2004 to 31 March 2009, the longest period an applicant has had to wait for re-enlistment is two years 115 days. The relevant Army authorities are currently investigating the reasons behind this delay. It is not possible, within the time constraints, to determine the longest period that an individual has had to wait for a decision on a re-entry application within the RN and RAF.

Colombia: Military Aid

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence whether his Department has provided training to the Colombian military in counter-guerrilla operations; and if he will make a statement. [271087]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 2 April 2009, Official Report, column 1310W, to the hon. Member for Chorley (Mr. Hoyle). The UK has not provided specific counter-guerrilla training to the Colombian military.

I also refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement made to the House on 30 March 2009, Official Report, column 40WS, by the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs, in which he set out the UK Government's current work and future aims in Colombia.

Defence Act 1842

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many times the powers contained within the Defence Act 1842 have been used since May 1997. [272399]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The Defence Act 1842 includes various statutory powers. The Ministry of Defence does not record centrally each and every occasion that any one of these powers has been used, whether before or after May 1997.

EU Battlegroups

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence to what exercises with European Union military formations UK armed forces are committed for the next 18 months; and in which exercises they have participated in the last 12 months. [272383]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: There are no standing European Union military formations, and the European Union does not conduct military exercises apart from headquarters-level planning exercises.

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence to which European Union military formations UK armed forces currently have a potential obligation; and on what scale in each case. [272386]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: There are no standing European Union military formations. All forces belong to member states until volunteered to the EU on a case-by-case basis.

The UK has made a voluntary commitment to lead Operation Atalanta, the EU naval counter-piracy naval force off the coast of Somalia, until the end of the current mandate of 13 December 2009. The UK provides the Operation Commander and the Multinational Operation Headquarters (OHQ) at Northwood, with UK armed forces filling 49 of these OHQ posts. The UK provided HMS Northumberland from the start of the operation (8 December) to 28 February. Contribution of any further UK assets to the operation is dependent on force generation requirements and UK operational priorities, but there are currently no plans.

The EU mission Operation Althea continues in Bosnia Herzegovina and the UK retains nine posts in the headquarters of the EU force (EUFOR) in Sarajevo.

The ESDP mission to Chad and the Central African Republic reached the end of its mandate on 15 March 2009 and is now completing its handover to the UN follow-on force Minurcat II. Under standing augmentation procedures, the UK previously provided four staff officers to the headquarters, of whom, two now remain in post while the operation draws to a close.

The UK has made a voluntary commitment to provide an EU Battlegroup on stand-by from January to June 2010. This will be met by forces from the Lead Commando Group element of the Joint Rapid Reaction Force (JRRF), which will consist of forces drawn from the long-standing UK-Netherlands Amphibious Landing Force. We have also offered to provide a joint UK-Swedish Battlegroup on stand-by from January to June 2013. Battlegroups would only deploy on operations following a unanimous decision from all 27 EU member states.

The UK Permanent Joint Headquarters (PJHQ) at Northwood is one of five national OHQs declared available for European Union (EU) military operations; the other four are at Mont Valerien (Paris), Potsdam (Germany), Rome (Italy) and Larissa (Greece).

PJHQ will provide the OHQ building and technical and administrative support, including trained core staff, for the Nordic Battlegroup during its time as one of the two EU Battlegroups on stand-by between January and June 2011.

Future Large Aircraft

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what position the Government's delegation to the March OCCAR meeting took on adoption of the three-month moratorium on a decision on the A400M programme; and what the reasons for that position were. [271814]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The UK supported the decision to enter a 'without commitment' standstill period. Its purpose is to enable the Partner Nations and Airbus Military to explore all possible options in more detail without prejudicing the rights of either party under the existing contract.

This additional information will inform national and joint decisions in due course.

Military Intelligence

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department has spent on the acquisition of intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance assets in each year since 1997; and what plans he has for future acquisition of such assets. [271394]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The expenditure on intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance assets since 1997 is not held centrally, and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Our future plans include a number of programmes which contribute to intelligence, surveillance, target acquisition and reconnaissance capability. For example, the Helix programme for airborne electronic surveillance; Dabinett for management of the direction, processing and dissemination of intelligence and for deep and persistent surveillance; and the Watchkeeper tactical unmanned aerial vehicle system. There are also programmes to invest further in Electronic Warfare systems and surveillance systems such as Sentry E-3D UK Airborne Early Warning capability and the Sea King Mk 7 Airborne Surveillance and Control variant.

Northern Ireland

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what visits he has made to Northern Ireland on official business in the last 12 months. [272862]

Mr. Hutton: I have not yet visited Northern Ireland since my appointment in October 2008. My predecessor the right hon. Des Browne did not visit Northern Ireland between May and October 2008.

Territorial Army

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence which Territorial Army barracks are under review following the report of the Reserves Review. [272497]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Volunteer estate, which currently consists of over 2,000 sites, is a key element of the reserve forces, not only providing unit locations and training facilities but also retaining the important military footprint across the UK and the associated ability to connect with the nation. The review confirmed the importance of the Volunteer estate but noted that much of it was old, expensive, underused and located to serve the population centres of the 19th century as opposed to those of the 21st century. To ensure that the reserves have an estate that is modern, provides value for money and is correctly located to match changes in the demographics and national infrastructure, the Review recommended that the Ministry of Defence conduct a detailed requirements-based study. We will be forming a team to conduct this detailed work which will need to consider all of the estate. No decisions have been made.

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many Territorial Army posts will be affected by the implementation of the recommendations of the review of reserves. [272818]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Review does not make any recommendations on numbers of Territorial Army posts. The aim of the review was to ensure that the Reserve Forces are correctly structured to meet current and future challenges and it made a number of recommendations to achieve this. However, further work is required to determine the best means to deliver the capabilities required.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 238W, on trade unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional annual value of such provision is. [271928]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Representatives for each recognised trade union and staff association or federation are provided with equipped office space in an appropriate location, including facilities to work in accordance with that provided for other staff in the buildings on site.

The notional annual value of such provision for these facilities is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 238W, on trade unions, which trades unions his Department's agencies recognise. [271929]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The Ministry of Defence currently recognises the following trade unions and staff associations, which represent staff in a wide range of grades, trades and professions. This recognition applies across the Department which includes its Agencies:

Non-Industrial Trade Unions

FDA

Prospect

PCS (Public and Commercial Services Union)

Industrial Trades Unions

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Burma

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what representations the Government have made to the Government of Burma on the investigation of the rape and mutilation of a schoolgirl in Kachin state on 27 July 2008. [250798]

Bill Rammell: We have not raised this specific, tragic case with the Burmese authorities. However, through our embassy in Rangoon, and in the UN's Human Rights bodies, we continue to take every opportunity to press the regime to uphold international human rights norms and protect vulnerable groups, including women and ethnic minorities.

On 21 November 2008, the UK helped secure a UN General Assembly resolution which expressed grave concern at the continued discrimination and hardships suffered by ethnic minority groups, and the broader human rights situation in Burma. We call on the regime to adhere to its international obligations and co-operate fully with the UN special rapporteur, Thomas Ojea Quintana, who last visited Burma from 3-7 August 2008.

Christmas

Mr. Rob Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether it is his Department's policy to offer staff (a) additional leave entitlement for Christmas shopping and (b) Christmas bonus payments. [262801]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office do not give staff any additional leave for Christmas shopping, nor does it pay a Christmas bonus.

Departmental ICT

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to page 131 of the 2009 Budget Red Book, what effect the savings he expects to achieve through contract negotiations with his Department's existing telecommunications supplier will have on his Department's IT services; and if he will make a statement. [271453]

David Miliband: The contract was originally agreed in 2000. Improvements in technology since 2000 have meant the levels of service needed by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) can now be delivered at lower unit cost. The negotiations referred to ensure that these lower costs are available to the FCO. The newer technologies available provide faster, more reliable services, allowing FCO staff to work more efficiently.

Departmental Security Guards

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which private security companies are employed by his Department in volatile countries; what the (a) duration and (b) monetary value is of each contract; and what local arrangements are in place to manage each contract. [266900]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) continues to contract private security companies (PSCs) to provide guarding of our staff and missions in high-threat environments such as Iraq and Afghanistan, as follows:

Iraq:

Mobile Security—Control Risks—£20,831,233 from 1 July 2007—30 June 2008.

Static Security—Gardaworld—£5,427,186 from 1 July 2007—30 June 2008.

Intelligence Analysts—Minimal Risks—£867,475 from 1 October 2007—30 September 2008.

Vehicle Maintenance—Armorgroup—£606,019 from 27 February 2008—26 February 2009.

Afghanistan:

Mobile Security—Armorgroup—£16,733,399 from 1 January 2008—31 December 2008.

Static Security—Armorgroup—£2,867,228 from 1 January 2008—31 December 2008.

Vehicle Maintenance—Armorgroup—£606,019 from 27 February 2008—26 February 2009.

Police Mentors and Advisers—Armorgroup—£869,625 from 1 October 2007—30 September 2008.

Primary Healthcare—Edinburgh International—£121,380 from 1 January 2008—31 December 2008.

The values quoted relate only to the specific periods stated, and not necessarily to the entire duration of the respective contracts.

All PSCs are subject to ongoing performance monitoring and contract management by the FCO, both in country and from the UK. The FCO monitors performance by key performance indicators, regular visits and reports by overseas security advisors, regular review meetings in London with PSCs, and monitoring expenditure against a fully profiled budget.

I also refer my hon. Friend to the reply I gave on 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 518W, which asked what assessment my right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has made of the use of private armed security companies in volatile countries.

Entry Clearances: Sports

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 12 February 2009, Official Report, columns 85-88WS, on departmental expenditure limits, under what circumstances UK visas are offered gratis to fans planning to visit the UK to attend sporting events; on how many occasions such visas were provided in 2007-08; and what the cost to his Department of such visas was, broken down by category of expenditure. [260887]

Mr. Woolas: I have been asked to reply.

Gratis visas may be issued in a range of circumstances, commonly as a matter of international courtesy. This means that the visa applicant does not pay a fee for the application to be considered but another Government Department reimburses the Home Office for the lost fee income.

Our records show that in 2007-08 no gratis visas were issued to fans visiting the UK to attend sporting events.

In May 2008 we accepted 2,169 short-term visit visa applications from fans of FC Zenit St. Petersburg travelling to Manchester for the UEFA Cup Final without a fee being paid by the applicant, normally £65. This was in part in recognition of the waiver of visa requirement by the Russian Government for fans of Chelsea FC and Manchester United FC travelling to the UEFA Champions League Final in Moscow later in the same month, which Manchester United won on penalties. The cost to the FCO was £104,000 in reimbursing the Home Office for lost fee income. Our records show that this is the only occasion in 2008-09 to date where gratis visas have been issued to fans visiting the UK to attend sporting events.

EU Institutions: Manpower

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what percentage of applications to each (a) European Commission, (b) Council of the European Union and (c) European Parliament traineeship programme have been from UK nationals since March 1997; and what percentage of places under each such scheme have been awarded to UK nationals in the same period; [270840]

(2) how many UK nationals (a) applied for and (b) have been accepted for traineeships in each (i) European Parliament and (ii) Council of the European Union programme since March 1997. [270841]

David Miliband: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office do not hold this information. The relevant data are owned by each EU Institution. The Government are clear that it is in the EU and UK's interests to have successful UK candidates working at the heart of the EU's institutions.

Intelligence Services: Equality

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many and what proportion of (a) field-based and (b) office-based Secret Intelligence Service officers were of each (a) ethnicity, (b) religious faith and (c) sex in each year since 2001. [258551]

Gillian Merron: It is Government policy not to comment on intelligence matters, including information about Secret Intelligence Service (SIS) staff numbers.

The Intelligence and Security Committee has reported on matters relating to SIS's recruitment and staffing policies in its annual reports. Diversity issues relating to SIS were most recently covered in the 2004-05 annual report (paragraph 53, column 6510).

Iran

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent discussions he has had with his (a) Iranian and (b) EU counterparts on the treatment of the Baha'i and other religious minorities in Iran. [249295]

Bill Rammell [holding answer 22 January 2009]: We are deeply concerned by the treatment of the Baha'i community and other religious minorities in Iran. In particular, we have consistently voiced our concern about the continued detention without charge of the seven Baha'i leaders who were arrested in April and May 2008, and through the EU and bilaterally have made several representations to the Iranian authorities calling for their immediate and unconditional release—most recently in a public EU declaration on 26 September.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not met or spoken with his Iranian counterpart since April 2008, and last met the Iranian Deputy Foreign Minister in September 2008. However, I met the Iranian ambassador on 20 November 2008, and raised our concerns about human rights issues including the draft penal code, which would impose a mandatory death sentence for apostasy.

We, along with EU partners, will continue to press Iran to fully uphold the right to freedom of religion and to end the persecution of Baha'is in Iran.

Iran: Bahai Faith

Lyn Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations his Department has made to the Government of Iran on the treatment of members of the Baha'i faith in that country; and if he will make a statement. [272377]

Bill Rammell: We take every opportunity to raise our concerns about the treatment of the Iranian Baha'is, both in bilateral and EU meetings with the Iranian Government. We have repeatedly urged them to take steps to end the persecution of religious minorities. On 18 March 2009 the EU presidency issued a declaration expressing concern about the numerous human rights violations in Iran and urged them to comply with their human rights obligations. I issued a public statement on 16 February 2009, about the imminent trial of seven leading members of the Iranian Baha'is which was strongly supported by an EU statement on 17 February 2009, calling on the Iranian Government to reconsider the charges, ensure that any trial is fair and to allow independent observation of the judicial proceedings.

We will continue to urge the Iranian Government to take their international human rights obligations seriously including the right to freedom of religion and belief as described in Article 18 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights—to which Iran is a state party.

Israel: Anniversaries

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs to what events held in (a) the UK and (b) Israel to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding of Tel Aviv he has been invited; what such invitations he has (i) accepted and (ii) declined; and if he will make a statement. [272174]

Bill Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has not received any invitations to events commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of Tel Aviv. However, our ambassador to Tel Aviv has accepted invitations to commemorate the 100th anniversary.

Middle East: Armed Conflict

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the number of persons allegedly murdered in the Gaza Strip by Hamas members since December 2008; and if he will make a statement. [272175]

Bill Rammell: According to the Amnesty International report published in April 2009, between 27 December 2008 and 31 March 2009 there have been at least 32 extra-judicial killings which were committed by either Hamas security forces or gunmen believed to be associated with Hamas.

The UK clearly condemns these acts of violence and will continue to call for Hamas to renounce violence.

Pakistan: Prisoners

Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what representations has he made to the Government of Pakistan on the case of James McLintock; and on what date he most recently discussed the detention of James McLintock with his Pakistani counterpart; [272368]

(2) what steps the High Commission in Pakistan has taken to secure access to James McLintock. [272369]

Bill Rammell: Since we were made aware of unconfirmed reports that Mr. James McLintock had been arrested in Pakistan, officials in London and from our high commission in Islamabad, including the deputy high commissioner, have been pressing the Pakistan authorities for confirmation that Mr. McLintock is being detained and if so, for consular access to be granted. Our most recent representation was made by a senior Foreign and Commonwealth Office official directly to the Pakistani high commissioner in London on 30 April 2009.

Repatriation

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many prison places in Ilorin prison he expects to be provided under the Returns and Reintegration Fund. [266270]

Bill Rammell: We are discussing with the Nigerian Government a range of assistance to the Nigeria Prison Service through the Returns and Reintegration Fund to support reform and improve conditions. This includes equipping an uncommissioned prison in Ilorin, which has a capacity to hold around 160 inmates. Final plans on assistance are yet to be confirmed.

Western Sahara: Fisheries

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will seek agreement at EU level to exclude the waters off occupied Western Sahara from future fisheries agreement with Morocco. [271572]

Bill Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary has no plans to seek agreement at EU level to exclude the waters off the undetermined territory of Western Sahara from any future fisheries agreement with Morocco.

Future negotiations on the expiry of the EU-Morocco Fisheries Partnership Agreement (FPA) will take into account any changes in the situation of Western Sahara that may occur before the FPA's expiry in 2011.

Western Sahara: Politics and Government

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make representations to the Moroccan Government on (a) ending the movement of members of the Moroccan civilian population into the occupied Western Sahara and (b) the application of article 49 of the Fourth Geneva Convention. [271538]

Bill Rammell: We have not discussed the movement of population between Morocco and Western Sahara, or the application of article 49 of the fourth Geneva convention, and have no current plans to discuss either matter with the Moroccan Government.

The Government see the status of Western Sahara as undetermined and continue to believe that progress towards a negotiated solution to the dispute, providing for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara, is best achieved under the auspices of the UN. To this end the UK fully supports the efforts of the UN Secretary-General and his Personal Envoy, Christopher Ross.

Yvonne Fletcher

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when he last had discussions with the Libyan Government on bringing to justice those responsible for the death of WPC Yvonne Fletcher. [272533]

Bill Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary raised the investigation into the murder of WPC Yvonne Fletcher when he met with the then Libyan Foreign Minister, Abdurrahman Shalgam on his visit to London in January 2008. I also raised the investigation into WPC Fletcher's murder with the Libyan Minister for Europe last month and again when I visited Libya in February this year. Officials also continue to raise the failure of Libya to allow the Metropolitan Police to complete its investigations in Libya.

Securing full Libyan co-operation with the Metropolitan Police Service investigation into this murder continues to be a key objective in our relations with Libya.

In all our conversations with the Libyan Government on the investigation into the murder of WPC Fletcher, we make it clear that they made a commitment to co-operate fully with the Metropolitan Police Service's investigation. The Government will continue to demand co-operation from the Libyan authorities and insist that they allow the Metropolitan Police to return to Libya to continue their investigation.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Climate Change: Conferences

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many UK Ministers and officials attended the United Nations Climate Change Conference in Poznan on 13 December 2008; and what method of transportation each used. [246697]

Joan Ruddock: The United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change conference in Poznan in December 2009, known as the 14th Conference of the Parties (or COP14) was attended by two Ministers and 45 officials. Delegates attended from different Departments across Whitehall to ensure the full range of issues could be addressed by UK experts. Of the total, 33 delegates attended from the Department of Energy and Climate Change

The Ministers in attendance were Secretary of State Ed Miliband, and Parliamentary Under-Secretary Joan Ruddock.

The 47 delegates travelled to and from Poznan in the following proportions:

	Number
By air to Warsaw and rail to Poznan	16
By air to Poznan, including both Ed Miliband and Joan Ruddock	30
By rail from the British embassy in Warsaw	1

All emissions resulting from DECC's international commitments are offset. In April 2006 the UK developed a Government Carbon Offsetting Fund (GCOF) as part of the wider UK Sustainable Development Strategy to meet the commitment to offset emissions arising from official and ministerial air travel.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 404W, on the economic situation, what estimate he has made of the carbon cost of the meeting of energy and oil Ministers in London on 18 and 19 December 2008; and whether his Department took steps to offset such carbon expenditure. [270963]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department has made no estimate of the carbon cost of the meeting of international energy and oil Ministers in London on 18 and 19 December 2008. No specific steps were taken by the Department to offset this impact. I have no information on the extent to which participants may have taken steps themselves to offset the carbon impact of their attendance at the meeting.

Low Carbon Buildings Programme

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many grant applications were received by the Low Carbon Buildings Programme in respect of (a) schools, (b) hospitals and (c) other public buildings in (i) Ribble Valley constituency, (ii) Lancashire and (iii) England in each year since the scheme began. [270542]

Mr. Mike O'Brien [holding answer 27 April 2009]: The number of grant applications received by the Low Carbon Buildings Programme from (a) schools, (b) hospitals and (c) other public buildings in (i) Ribble Valley constituency, (ii) Lancashire and (iii) England in each year since the scheme began is shown in the following tables.

Low Carbon Buildings Programme: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what proportion of grant applications received by the London borough of Bexley have been successful in each year since the scheme began; and how much has been paid in such grants in each year. [270924]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The number of grant applications received by the Low Carbon Buildings Programme from the London borough of Bexley which have been successful in each year since the scheme began; and how much has been paid in such grants in each year are as shown in the following table:

	Number of grants offered	Grant amount (£)	Number of grants paid	Payment amount (£)
2006-07	8	7,072.47	6	6,290.00
2007-08	5	4,100.00	3	3,300.00

2009-10	1	400.00	0	0.00
Total	15	11,972.47	9	9,590.00

The Energy Saving Trust only hold data by local authority area for domestic grants and so non-domestic grants are not included in the data.

However under Phase 2 of the scheme there has been one application from the London borough of Bexley which has also been successful in obtaining a grant of £64,000.

Low Carbon Buildings Programme: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many grant applications have been received by the Low Carbon Buildings Programme in respect of (a) schools, (b) hospitals and (c) other public buildings in (i) Hemel Hempstead and (ii) Hertfordshire in each year since the scheme began. [271262]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The number of grant applications that have been received by the Low Carbon Buildings Programme in respect of (a) schools, (b) hospitals and (c) other public buildings in (i) Hemel Hempstead and (ii) Hertfordshire in each year since the scheme began are tabled as follows:

Nuclear Power: Finance

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what cost recovery will be applied to operators of nuclear plants in respect of the proportion of the public investment in new transmission links relating to distribution of nuclear generated electricity arising from the programme for uplifting national infrastructure set out at paragraph 3.31 of the Government document New Industry, New Jobs, published on 20 April 2009. [271758]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The costs for providing grid infrastructure for all forms of electricity generation, including nuclear are recovered from generators via National Grid's charging methodology at:

http://www.nationalgrid.com/uk/Electricity/Charges/

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what proportion of the subsidy to support low carbon energy industries under the fund announced in the New Industry, New Jobs programme on 20 April 2009 is available to support nuclear energy projects. [271759]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: On 22 April, my right hon. Friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced a £750 million Strategic Investment Fund to support advanced industrial projects of strategic importance. £250 million of this fund will be earmarked for low carbon investments. Decisions on how his will be spent will be made in the coming weeks.

Government acknowledge the role of nuclear power in the global move to a low carbon economy. Government anticipate helping to ensure business in the UK is able to make the most of the opportunities available in low carbon industries, including the global civil nuclear industry, by supporting strategic investments, including by using allocations from the fund where appropriate. This forms part of the Government's Low Carbon Industrial Strategy.

Parliamentary Questions: Government Responses

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change when he plans to answer question 246697, tabled by the right hon. Member for Wokingham on 12 January 2009, on attendance at the United Nations Climate Change Conference in Poznan. [269343]

Joan Ruddock: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer I gave today to his question 246697.

Renewable Energy

Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many and what proportion of homes he estimates will be supplied with electricity from renewable energy sources by 2020. [271085]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The UK renewable energy strategy consultation document set out scenarios for deployment of renewable energy needed to meet the UK's share of the EU renewable energy target. The central scenario presented in the consultation document:

www.berr.gov.uk/renewableconsultation

suggested that the UK might need to produce around 32 per cent. electricity demand by 2020.

Total energy demand for the domestic sector in 2020 (around 30 million homes) was estimated at the time of the consultation to be around 105 to 110TWh, around 28.5 per cent. electricity demand.

In reality households will receive their electricity from a mixture of fuel types and not all renewable electricity generated will be supplied to domestic households. These figures will be updated in the renewable energy strategy.

Robert Key: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many and what proportion of homes are supplied by electricity from renewable energy sources. [271086]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: In 2007, the UK generated 19,664 GWh of electricity from renewable sources, sufficient for around 4.2 million homes, based on the average household electricity consumption of 4,670 KWh (just over 16 per cent. of UK homes).

In reality households will receive their electricity from a mixture of fuel types and not all renewable electricity generated will be supplied to domestic households.

Warm Front Scheme

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many times his Department's officials have discussed complaints made by the hon. Member for Bassetlaw about Warm Front with Eaga (a) by telephone, (b) by electronic and written correspondence and (c) in meetings. [265989]

Joan Ruddock: The Department has not discussed such complaints with Eaga by means of written or electronic correspondence and does not record phone calls made to Eaga. Such complaints, however, have been discussed on two occasions in meetings between officials and Eaga and as my hon. Friend is aware he and I met to discuss these issues on April 30.

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change pursuant to the answer of 26 February 2009, Official Report, column 933W, on the Warm Front scheme, when he expects his Department's review of the eligibility criteria for the Warm Front scheme to be concluded. [266664]

Joan Ruddock: A number of changes to the Warm Front scheme were announced on 23 April, including increases to the maximum grants—from £2,700 to £3,500 for those properties on the gas grid, and from £4,000 to £6,000 for harder to treat properties off the gas grid.

A review of fuel poverty policies is currently under way with initial findings expected in early summer. The review is examining whether we can make existing fuel poverty policies more effective, including exploring whether we can identify and target assistance at the most vulnerable households more effectively.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Departmental Responsibilities

John Penrose: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what contribution his Department's Energy and Climate Change Unit has made to the development of Government policy on energy in the last 12 months; [272074]

(2) what the (a) remit and (b) budget of his Department's Energy and Climate Change Unit is for 2009-10; [272075]

(3) what arrangements are in place to ensure the effective co-ordination of activities between his Department's Energy and Climate Change Unit and the Department for Energy and Climate Change; [272076]

Mr. McFadden: The Department of Energy and Climate Change (DECC) is responsible for energy and climate change policy. The Energy and Climate Change Unit in the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) was set up in autumn 2008 following the formation of the new DECC. BERR has a remit to work within Whitehall as the 'voice for business' on all policy areas where business might have an interest. The Unit therefore works closely with DECC and other Whitehall Departments to ensure that business views are fully taken into account in the development of energy and climate change policies. The Unit represents BERR interests on cross-departmental groups, led by DECC, tasked with delivering the Government's energy and climate change objectives. The Climate Change Projects Office is also located within the Unit and promotes UK private sector involvement and opportunities in the international carbon market.

The 2009-10 administration costs budget for the Unit is being finalised at present. Programme requirements will be met from the Department's business sponsorship budget.

Home Information Packs

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2009, Official Report, column 952W, on home information packs, how many notifications the Office of Fair Trading has received of penalty charge notices being issued in relation to home information pack duties; and in respect of which local authority areas. [270187]

Mr. Thomas: In general terms, and subject to transitional arrangements, under the provisions of the Housing Act 2004 estate agents have been required to commission a Home Information Pack (HIP) prior to marketing a property.

A local authority can serve a penalty charge notice (PCN) on the estate agent if they fail to comply with these duties. The local authority is required to advise the OFT of any PCN it issues. However it is not required to notify the OFT of every infringement it detects or other types of enforcement action it has taken such as advice, verbal or written warnings etc.

The OFT was notified of one PCN that had been issued, but this was subsequently withdrawn by the issuing authority.

The OFT is aware that other enforcement action has been taken by local authorities in relation to duties under the HIPs regime but that did not result in PCNs being issued. This information will be held by individual services and has not been formally reported to the OFT.

Post Offices: Bank Services

Kate Hoey: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what the percentage split of profits arising from the joint venture between Post Office Ltd and the Bank of Ireland is. [273086]

(2) what cash profit Post Office Ltd has made as a result of the joint venture with the Bank of Ireland. [273087]

Mr. McFadden: These are operational and commercial matters for Post Office Ltd.

I have therefore asked Alan Cook, managing director of Post Office Ltd., to reply direct to my hon. Friend. Copies of the letters will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Rover Group

Peter Luff: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much the Companies Act investigation into MG Rover had cost on the latest date for which figures are available; when he expects the investigation to be completed; what estimate he has made of the total cost of the investigation; and if he will make a statement. [271417]

Mr. McFadden: The total cost of the Rover inquiry as at 31 March 2009 was £15,191,376 (broken down as £12,502,416 in costs, £447,406 in disbursements and £2,241,554 in VAT).

As is normal in Companies Act inspections the inspectors were not given a specific target date for the completion of their investigation, nor are they working to a pre-determined financial ceiling. Either might restrict the depth and thoroughness of their inquiry.

Royal Mail

Frank Dobson: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which (a) organisations and (b) individuals are advising (i) the Secretary of State and (ii) Royal Mail on the proposed part-privatisation of Royal Mail. [271742]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 29 April 2009]: UBS, Freshfields and Deloitte are advising my right hon. and noble Friend the Secretary of State on this matter and Rothschild and Slaughter and May are advising Royal Mail.

There are no individuals advising either the Government or Royal Mail.

Short-Time Working

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent estimate he has made of the number of (a) businesses that are operating short-time working practices and (b) people on short-time working. [272500]

Mr. McFadden: The information is as follows:

(a) Data on businesses that are operating short-time working practices are not centrally collected because businesses do not have to inform Government of changes in their terms and conditions of employment.

(b) Estimates of the number of people on short-time working can be made from the Office for National Statistics Labour Force Survey. In Quarter 4 (October to December) 2008 around 60 thousand UK employees are estimated to be on short-time working practices. This represents 0.2 per cent. of all UK employees.

This estimate defines short-time working as the number of employees whose actual hours worked, when surveyed, were fewer than their usual hours worked due to economic causes.

Telephone Services

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what powers Ofcom has to (a) investigate and (b) take action in respect of inaccurate claims made by telephone service provider sales staff in relation to the transfer of existing numbers associated with the BT Call Sign service. [271032]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 24 April 2009]: The matter raised is the responsibility of the independent regulator, the Office of Communications (Ofcom), which is accountable to Parliament rather than Ministers. Accordingly, I have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to reply directly to my hon. Friend. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Trading Funds

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will place in the Library a copy of the Trading Funds Assessment. [272082]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 30 April 2009]: The findings of the Trading Funds Assessment were made public on the 21 April 2009 with the publication of the final report of the Operational Efficiency Programme:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/oep_final_report_210409_pu728.pdf

Written Questions: Government Responses

Justine Greening: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he plans to answer question 259782, on the Aspire Fund, tabled on 24 February 2009. [265583]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 23 March 2009]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1063W.

TREASURY

Banks: Finance

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many documents his Department received from (a) Lloyds Banking Group and (b) RBS as a result of their participation in the Asset Protection scheme; and if he will make a statement. [268083]

Ian Pearson: In the course of negotiating participation in the Asset Protection scheme (APS) and in the associated due diligence and information gathering, some 5,000 documents have been provided from participating banks as of 20 April.

In completing the due diligence process and establishing the operation of the scheme we expect further documents from the banks.

Child Care Tax Credit

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much funding was allocated for the child care element of the working tax credit in each year since 2003; and how much has been spent from that allocation in each such year. [272595]

Angela Eagle: The child care element is an integral part of tax credits. There is no separate funding allocation for the child care element of working tax credits but information on the average amount of help awarded and the number of families benefiting from the child care element can be found in table 2.4 of the HMRC publications, "Child and Working Tax Credits Statistics. Finalised Annual Awards", for 2003-04 to 2006-07. These publications can be found on the HMRC website at http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-quarterly-stats.htm

Figures for 2007-08 will be available in May 2009.

Information on the total amount spent each year by HMRC on tax credits can be found in its annual departmental reports which are available on its website at http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/about/reports.htm

Coins: Forgery

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate the Royal Mint has made of the number of counterfeit £1 coins in circulation. [273492]

Ian Pearson: The most recent survey conducted by the Royal Mint found that its sample contained a £1 coin counterfeit rate of 2.58 per cent.

Cost Effectiveness

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of progress on the Operational Efficiency programme. [271172]

Yvette Cooper: The final report of the Operational Efficiency Programme was published on 21 April 2009 and it is available on the following website:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/vfm_operational_efficiency.htm

As announced in the Budget 2009 document, the Government accept the recommendations of the Operational Efficiency Programme and all Departments will be working to implement and deliver the additional value for money savings identified through the programme.

Departmental Bank Services

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 23 March 2009, Official Report, column 91W, on departmental bank services, what the (a) purpose and (b) monetary value is of each contract between his Department and each of the banks listed in the answer. [268303]

Ian Pearson: HM Treasury has contracted with those banks for the provision of financial advice during the financial year 2008-09.

Figures for the Treasury's spending in 2008-09 will be available in the Department's resource accounts 2008-09 after the conclusion of the Comptroller and Auditor General's audit.

Economic Growth

Mr. Ames: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to his statement of 22 April 2009, Official Report, column 237, what the evidential basis is for the statement that he expects the economy to start growing towards the end of 2009; and if he will make a statement. [272246]

Ian Pearson: A detailed assessment of economic prospects including those relating to GDP growth in the UK is set out in chapter B of the 2009 Financial Statement and Budget Report (HC 407).

Excise Duties: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the amount of revenue to the Exchequer from the 2 per cent. increase in alcohol duty in each of the next three years. [272323]

Angela Eagle: HM Revenue and Customs publishes estimates of the revenue effects of alcohol duty rate changes on its website:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/tax_expenditures/table1-6.pdf

Financial Services Authority

Justine Greening: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answers of 25 March 2009, Official Report, column 406W, on financial services: standards to question (a) 265933, (b) 265929, (c) 265934, (d) 265922, (e) 265925, (f) 265927, (g) 265924 and (h) 265926, when he expects the Financial Services Authority to write to the hon. Member for Putney. [271817]

Ian Pearson: I understand that the FSA has recently replied to the hon. Member.

Government Departments: Assets

Mr. Gerrard: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what guidelines govern the procedures by which (a) Government Departments and (b) Executive agencies are permitted to insure their assets; [272035]

(2) whether (a) Government Departments and (b) Executive agencies are permitted to carry forward reserves held as contingency sums as an alternative to the insurance of assets. [272036]

Yvette Cooper: The principles behind the Government's approach to insurance are explained in sections 4.4 and 5.2 of "Managing Public Money", the Government's guide to proper standards of conduct in the treatment of public funds (see www.hm-treasury.gov.uk). There is a general guide to treatment of risk at section 4.3 of the same document.

Loans: Debts

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what proportion of personal loan accounts were in reportable arrears in each quarter to date since 1997. [262537]

Mr. Thomas: I have been asked to reply.

The Government do not hold these data.

Low Carbon Buildings Programme

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer which categories of (a) housebuilder and (b) low carbon sustainable homes will be eligible for support from the £100 million of new capital being made available under Chapter 5, section 5.76 and Chapter 7, section 7.17 of the 2009 Budget Report. [271766]

Angela Eagle: Budget 2009 provided up to £100 million for local authorities over two years to deliver new social housing at higher energy efficiency standards. The funding will be allocated via a competitive bidding process, which will be open to all local authorities in England. The Homes and Communities Agency will set out criteria for bids shortly, including meeting the energy efficiency commitment.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Baron: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Billericay of 23 March 2009 on his constituent, Mr D. Randall. [272591]

Mr. Timms: There is no record of receipt of this correspondence at HM Treasury. Copies have been requested from the hon. Member's office and will be dealt with as soon as possible on receipt.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Billericay of 12 March 2009 on his constituent, Mr Gray. [272593]

Ian Pearson: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Mr. Baron: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Billericay of 13 March 2009 on his constituent, Mrs N. Finlay. [272594]

Mr. Timms: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Mortgages

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what information his Department holds on the amount of mortgage lending which has funded (a) new build, (b) mortgages for first-time buyers and (c) high loan-to-value ratio mortgages in the last (i) six and (ii) 12 months. [270435]

Ian Pearson: The Council of Mortgage Lenders publishes data relating to the mortgage market, including the number and value of loans to first-time buyers and average loan-to-value ratios, available at:

http://www.cml.org.uk/cml/statistics

These figures are published on a monthly basis.

Motor Vehicles: Manufacturing Industries

Kerry McCarthy: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what representations his Department has received from the motor trade on the effect on car dealers of the provisions in the Finance Act 2008 specifying that only registered owners of vehicles can apply for rebates of vehicle excise duty; and what estimate has been made by his Department of the costs to the motor trade of those provisions. [272325]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

As detailed in my answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 104W, by advising their customers to take the tax disc for a refund when selling a car into the trade, car dealers can preserve the financial benefit of Vehicle Excise Duty refunds for all parties.

The Treasury does not expect to receive additional revenue as a result of this change.

Public Expenditure

Mr. Drew: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will take steps to reintroduce historic accounting systems for Government expenditure; and if he will make a statement. [269330]

Yvette Cooper: Since the introduction of resource accounting and budgeting in 2001-02, Government expenditure has been reported in resource accounts that conform to generally accepted accounting practice, subject to such adaptations as are necessary, as required under the Government Resources and Accounts Act 2000. Resource accounts are prepared applying the historical cost convention, modified by the revaluation of fixed assets to fair value. Where material, current asset investments and stocks are similarly valued as determined by the relevant accounting standards. On the switch to reporting under International Financial Reporting Standards from 2009-10, modified historical cost accounting will be maintained.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what predicted Government expenditure as a proportion of gross domestic product is in each year from 2009-10 to 2013-14. [272501]

Yvette Cooper: Public sector expenditure projections for the years 2009-10 to 2013-14, as a percentage of gross domestic product, are shown in table C5 of the Budget 2009 document.

Public Sector: Land

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what public sector land will be made available for development, as referred to in paragraph 5.78 of the Budget 2009 Red Book. [271373]

Angela Eagle: The Housing Green Paper 'Homes for the future: more affordable, more sustainable', published in July 2007, announced the Government's target to deliver 200,000 new homes on surplus public sector land by 2016. Government are on track to meet the target. The Surplus Public Sector Land programme, overseen by Communities and Local Government and managed by the Homes and Communities Agency, has been set up to identify where and when this land becomes available.

Information on what surplus public sector land is available for development is available through two main sources:

1. The Register of Surplus Public Sector Land, managed by the Homes and Communities Agency, provides a quarterly publication of sites that are owned by central Government Departments and their agencies. Currently over 700 sites, covering about 5,000 hectares of land, were listed in the most recent quarterly report published in March 2009. This report is available on the Homes and Communities Agency website at:

http://www.homesandcommunities.co.uk/Surplus_public_sector_land

2. The National Land Use Database of Previously Developed Land (NLUD-PDL), completed annually by individual local authorities, records previously developed land that may be available for redevelopment within their area. In 2007, NLUD-PDL recorded an estimated 62,130 hectares of land, of which just over a quarter was owned by local authorities and other public bodies. The 2007 NLUD report can be found at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/documents/corporate/pdf/945914.pdf

Research and Development Tax Credit

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many companies operating in the UK's life sciences sector have received research and development tax credits in each of the last three years; and what proportion of those were (a) large companies and (b) small and medium-sized enterprises. [272037]

Angela Eagle: The most recent National Statistics on R and D tax credits, published on the HMRC website on 19 December 2008, cover financial years up to 2006-07.

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/corporate_tax/randdtcmenu.htm

Information on claims for R and D tax credits by companies operating in the life sciences sector is not available because the data are broken down by industry sector using the UK Standard Industrial Classification of Economic Activities (SIC), and life sciences are not identified as a separate sector in this classification.

Social Security Benefits

Lynne Jones: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much (a) the basic state pension, (b) single pensioners' means tested benefit, (c) child benefit for up to two children, (d) incapacity benefit and (e) jobseeker's allowance or income support for a person

(i) under 25 and (ii) over 25 years old was in (A) nominal and (B) real terms in each year since 1983; and what the percentage change in each was from each year to the next. [260674]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I have been asked to reply.

The available information on benefit rates up to 2008-09 has been placed in the Library. This includes child benefit rates from 5 January 2009, as announced in the 2008 pre-Budget report. Real-terms rates are presented in April 2008 prices.

Benefit rates which came into effect on 6 April 2009 are shown in the following table. It is not possible to present the real-terms rates in April 2009 prices at this time as the April 2009 Retail Price and ROSSI index figures will not be published until 19 May 2009.

Benefit	April 2009 rate (actual rate) (£)
Basic State Pension (Single pensioner)[1,2]	95.25
Basic State Pension (Couples aged 60 and over)[1,3]	152.30
Pension Credit (single person aged 60 and over)[4]	130.00
Pension Credit (couples aged 60 and over)[4]	198.45
Incapacity Benefit[5]	89.80
Income Support (single claimant aged 18 to 24)[6]	50.95
Income Support (single claimant aged 25+)[6]	64.30
Income Support (couple both aged 18+)[6]	100.95

[2] Man or woman under 80 on own insurance. 0.25 addition for over 80-year-olds.
[3] This is the rate where the wife's state pension is based on the husband's contributions. Where it is based on her own contributions, the state pension will be twice that of a single pensioner if both individuals are entitled to 100 per cent. state pensions. 0.25 addition for over 80-year-olds.
[4] For all pension ages. Excludes all premiums other than pensioner premium.
[5] Long term IB rate for a single person aged 16+.
[6] The rates quoted are standard rates. There are also additional payments for dependent child(ren), disability, caring responsibilities, etc.

Note:
JSA rates are the same as those for income support.

Tax Allowances: Housing

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how many people in (a) Wales, (b) Scotland, (c) Northern Ireland and (d) England claim tax relief under the furnished holiday letting rules; and what the amount claimed was in each of the last two years; [272080]

(2) what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the repeal of the furnished holiday letting rules from April 2010 on those claiming tax relief under those rules. [272091]

Ian Pearson: We estimate that the amount claimed under the Furnished Holiday Lettings rules in 2006-07, the last full year for which information is available, was £15 million.

In 2006-07 15,000 individuals offset losses from furnished holiday lettings in the UK against income from other sources and capital gains with an average tax benefit of £1,000 per annum.

HM Revenue and Customs do not have information on the location of furnished holiday lettings within the UK.

Tax Avoidance

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the revenue which has accrued to the Exchequer directly attributable to the introduction of IR35 measures. [271195]

Angela Eagle: The revenue resulting from the intermediaries legislation (also known as IR35) arises from a number of elements: voluntary compliance with the legislation; the deterrent effect where those who might otherwise disguise employment income through incorporation decide not to; and HMRC compliance activity.

HMRC do not routinely collect data in respect of specific types of employers from PAYE returns and it is not possible to measure the deterrent effects. It is therefore not possible to estimate the total revenue accrued to the Exchequer as a result of this legislation.

Tax Havens

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will estimate the annual increase in revenue to the Exchequer which would otherwise have been forgone in tax avoidance as a result of the implementation in the UK of the G20 agreement on tax havens. [271598]

Mr. Timms: The actions agreed at the G20 London summit were focused on addressing tax evasion by increasing the exchange of information between tax authorities. Once the tax information exchange agreements called for by the G20 are in operation, HMRC will be better able to assess tax liability of UK residents who have income arising offshore. No such estimate has been made so far.

Taxation: Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate his Department has made of housing sector receipts as a percentage of (a) total taxation receipts and (b) gross domestic product in each of the next three years. [271559]

Ian Pearson: Box C3 in Budget 2009 provides details of housing and financial sector receipts. Taxes such as capital gains tax and inheritance tax will reflect both housing and financial sector assets. Stamp duty will reflect shares, housing and commercial property.

Table 2.9 in Budget 2009: the economy and public finances—supplementary material provides projections for stamp duty, inheritance tax, capital gains tax up to 2013-14 and total receipts. This is available at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/Budget2009/bud09_econfinances_968.pdf

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/Budget2009/bud09_chapterc_463.pdf

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assumptions he made on (a) house prices and (b) numbers of new build (i) starts and (ii) completions in reaching the estimates on housing sector receipts in each of the next three years set out in the Budget 2009 Red Book. [271561]

Angela Eagle: Receipts related to the housing market are determined primarily by the levels of property transactions and prices. The assumptions for both are set out in paragraphs B77 and C52 in the Budget document. For the purposes of the fiscal forecasts house prices are assured to move in line with the average of independent forecasts.

Taxation: Second Homes

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his most recent estimate is of the cost to UK residents with property holdings in the European Economic Area outside the UK of the extension of the furnished holiday lettings rule to such properties. [272315]

Ian Pearson: It was announced at the Budget that the furnished holiday letting (FHL) rules would be repealed with effect from 6 April 2010. Until the repeal takes effect the FHL rules will be regarded as extending to those with qualifying FHLs elsewhere in the European Economic Area.

There will be no tax cost to UK residents with property holdings in the European Economic Area outside the UK from the extension of the furnished holiday lettings rules to such properties.

Welfare Tax Credits: Short-Time Working

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent estimate he has made of the number of workers on short-time working who are eligible for tax credits. [272498]

Angela Eagle: The information requested is not available.

JUSTICE

Departmental Costs

9. Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent estimate he has made of the effect of the recession on the costs of running his Department's estate. [272271]

Maria Eagle: The cost of running the Department's estate is regularly reviewed to ensure we achieve excellent Value for Money. Changes to these costs are not attributable to the recession alone and are linked to prevailing economic conditions at the point when leases are reviewed.

Land Registration Fees

10. Angela Watkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what consultation he has undertaken with the property, retail and business sectors on the increase in land registration fees to take effect on 6 July 2009. [272272]

Mr. Wills: The Order implementing the change in the fees structure was made following consultation with the Land Registration Rules Committee, which includes representatives of property groups and the Business User and Small Firms Business Groups.

Prisoners: Literacy Skills

11. Rob Marris: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps his Department is taking to provide literacy skills to functionally illiterate prisoners. [272273]

Mr. Hanson: Developing literacy and numeracy of prisoners is a key part of the Government's strategy to reduce reoffending. We have implemented the Offenders' Learning and Skills Service which in the academic year 2007/08 saw prisoners, assessed as having a literacy need, enrol on to a total of 50,936 accredited literacy courses.

Legal Aid

12. Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what estimate he has made of the effect of the economic downturn on levels of public expenditure on legal aid. [272274]

Mr. Malik: We are closely monitoring trends in legal aid expenditure. We are taking action to help people affected by the recession. An extra £13 million has been made available to help 70,000 more people with debt and housing problems, and the Housing Possession Court Duty scheme is helping more than 2,800 people each month. The civil eligibility limit has been raised by 5 per cent. from the start of the financial year. These measures have been funded from existing resources.

Prison Population

13. Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what his most recent estimate is of the size of the prison population; and what percentage of that population is comprised of foreign nationals. [272275]

Mr. Hanson: On 1 May 2009 the prison population was 82,868. The foreign national prisoner population equates to just under 14 per cent. of the total population.

Independently produced data suggest that at 14 per cent. England and Wales has significantly fewer foreign nationals in prison than the rest of Europe.

Legal Services

14. Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what progress his Department has made in establishing alternative business structures for the provision of legal services. [272276]

Bridget Prentice: Legal disciplinary practices, the first step towards full alternative business structures (ABS), have been permitted since 31 March. The Legal Services Board (LSB) will be consulting on ABS later this month, and is keen for the first ABS licences to be issued in 2011. We are working with the LSB to support this timetable.

Prisons: Market Testing

15. Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the deadline is for the submission of bids for the market testing of prisons in Wellingborough and Birmingham; and when he expects decisions on those bids to be announced. [272277]

Mr. Hanson: It is expected that the deadline for the submission of bids for the market testing of prisons in Wellingborough and Birmingham will be November 2009 with award notices for both prisons expected to be issued in February 2010. Bids will be considered from public, private and third sector providers.

Family Courts

16. Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what timetable has been set for implementation of his proposals for greater transparency in the family courts; and if he will make a statement. [272278]

Bridget Prentice: I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement made by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Justice and Lord Chancellor on 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 38WS.

Human Trafficking Offences

17. Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what sentencing guidance his Department provides to judges who preside over human trafficking cases. [272279]

Maria Eagle: It is the responsibility of the independent Sentencing Guidelines Council to issue sentencing guidelines for criminal offences. In May 2007, the SGC issued a guideline on trafficking into the UK for purposes of sexual exploitation and will consider developing guidelines for people trafficking more generally. The Government's aim are to make the UK a hostile environment for trafficking and protect victims and potential victims from this abhorrent crime.

Electoral Administration

18. Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent assessment he has made of standards of electoral administration in the UK, with particular reference to postal voting. [272280]

20. Mr. Mackay: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent assessment he has made of the effectiveness of electoral administration in the UK. [272282]

Mr. Wills: The Electoral Commission published its performance standards for returning officers on 16 March 2009. The standards cover all aspects of the work of ROs, including the processes they have in place to identify and deal with any instances of electoral malpractice. The Commission will publish details of ROs performance across the whole of Great Britain in autumn of 2009.

25. Mrs. Riordan: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will make an estimate of the number of people unable to vote on a Thursday as a result of their work or child care commitments. [272287]

Mr. Wills: The Government have consulted on whether voting could be made more convenient by changing the timing of Election Day. On one hand, for those balancing family and child care commitments with working full or part-time, Thursday may not be a convenient day for voting. However, other groups, including religious groups, might have concerns about voting on a Saturday or Sunday.

This consultation has now closed and the Government are currently working on a detailed analysis of the responses. We will publish this analysis and set out the findings of the consultation in due course.

Electoral Fraud

19. Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps the Government are taking to reduce levels of electoral fraud. [272281]

Mr. Wills: The Government have taken significant steps to enhance the security of the electoral process including the measures introduced in the Electoral Administration Act 2006.

Recent information published by the Association of Chief Police Officers and the Electoral Commission on 1 May allows us, for the first time, to examine the extent and nature of allegations of electoral malpractice. It is consistent with earlier findings that the scale and volume of allegations of fraud have been decreasing. Of the 60 voting and registration alleged offences recorded at the 2008 elections, no further action was taken in the significant majority of these cases. This must be seen in the context of the 16 million votes which were cast at the May 2008 elections—but fraud is still unacceptable.

We cannot be complacent about electoral fraud but these figures demonstrate that the measures which we and others, including the police, the Electoral Commission and electoral administrators, have already taken have been successful.

We are now legislating for the introduction of individual registration in a way that will help to further curb the risk of fraud, while ensuring that changes also support improvements to the comprehensiveness and accuracy of electoral registers.

Prison Capacity

21. Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps he is taking to ensure adequate capacity in the prison system. [272283]

Mr. Hanson: Prison is the right place for the most dangerous, serious and persistent offenders. We are committed to making sure we have enough prison places to cater for those offenders who need to be imprisoned. Our current prison population projects suggest we should continue to plan for a capacity of 96,000 by 2014, and our capacity programme will therefore increase overall prison capacity to 96,000 places by 2014.

We have increased prison capacity by nearly 25,000 places (not all new build) since 1997. We have delivered, to date, over 4,600 places as part of the ongoing capacity programme and will deliver a further 1,600 additional places in 2009.

HM Prison Ashwell

22. David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what representations he has received on the recent disturbances at HM Prison Ashwell. [272284]

Mr. Hanson: We have received representations from the Prison Officers' Association and from the hon. Member for Rutland and Melton (Alan Duncan). Police and prison investigations are under way. The incident resulted in significant damage to the establishment. As I made clear in my written ministerial statement of 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 2WS, and the Justice Secretary in his oral statement on 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 569, we pay tribute to the staff of the Prison Service and other emergency services for bringing the incident to a conclusion.

Prisoners: Learning Difficulties

24. Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what steps his Department is taking to identify prisoners with learning difficulties. [272286]

Mr. Hanson: The Learning and Skills Council has commissioned Dyslexia Action to develop a questionnaire for use with offenders which highlights features of a broad range of "hidden" disabilities, including dyslexia, dyspraxia and attention deficit disorder. Education providers will shortly be trained in its use and be expected to assess all learners who are referred to them from August 2009.

Departmental Expenditure

Greg Mulholland: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which of his Department's programmes will be subject to reductions in their planned budgets between 2009 and 2011. [272285]

Maria Eagle: Allocations to business groups are currently being finalised for 2010-11, to reflect the additional £70 million efficiency savings announced in the Budget, but 2009-10 allocations are set out in the corporate plan.

Civil Service: Reform

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the planned parliamentary timetable is for the passage of a Civil Service Bill. [271974]

Mr. Wills: The draft Constitutional Renewal Bill contained provisions in respect of the civil service. The Government are finalising the clauses of the Constitutional Renewal Bill in response to consultation and parliamentary scrutiny, and intend to introduce the Bill as soon as parliamentary time allows.

Housing: Sales

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many house sales have been recorded by the Land Registry in each region in each month since January 1990; [272101]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 969W, on housing: sales, how many sales there were in each local authority area in each month since January 1990. [272106]

Mr. Wills: A breakdown of the figures requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost. Land Registry's Residential Price Report and House Price Index provide further information from 1995. These are available on Land Registry's website www.landregistry.gov.uk

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer of 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 969W, on housing: sales, what the earliest (a) monthly and (b) annual data on numbers of sales are that the Land Registry has on record; and if he will place in the Library a copy of those data. [272107]

Mr. Wills: Land Registry's earliest recorded data for residential sales in England and Wales dates from (a) January 1995 and (b) 1995. These figures are 50,675 and 800,494 respectively. Land Registry's Residential Property Price Reports and House Price Index provide these data from 1995. The information is available on the Land Registry website at;

http://www1.landregistry.gov.uk/property_info/

http://www1.landregistry.gov.uk/houseprices/

Offences against Children: Greater London

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prosecutions for offences relating to child abuse there were in each London borough between 1998 and 2007; and if he will make a statement. [271043]

Maria Eagle: There is no specific offence of 'child abuse'. Furthermore, the term 'child abuse' describes harm caused to a child arising from emotional, physical and sexual abuse or neglect caused by a parent or carer.

The statistics provided in the following table are for those offences currently identified as such, including causing or allowing the death of a child, sexual assaults against under 16s, and cruelty or neglect of a child. Not included are other forms of abuse for which there is no separate legal category, offences where the victim cannot be identified as a child from the type of offence, and cases of abuse which cannot be identified because they were proceeded against under more general offences such as physical assault.

It is not possible to further break down information held to individual London boroughs, thus data for both Metropolitan and City of London police force areas have been provided in lieu.

These data are on the principal offence basis. The figures given in the table on court proceedings relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offence for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences, the offence selected is the one for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

Court proceedings data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

Number of defendants proceeded against at magistrates' courts for offences relating to child abuse in Metropolitan and the City of London police force area, 1998 to 2007[1, 2, 3, 4]

[2] Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts, and police forces.
As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Prisoners

Mr. Grieve: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will commission the Social Exclusion Unit to review its work on the prison population and the cost of reoffending. [268819]

Mr. Straw: Since the publication of the Social Exclusion Unit's report "Reducing re-offending by ex-prisoners" in 2002 we have had significant success in reducing the reoffending by offenders released from custody. Between 2000 and 2006 there was a 22.9 per cent. fall in the frequency rate from 189.4 to 146.1 offences per 100 offenders. Additionally the rate of serious re-offending decreased by 11.1 per cent. over the same period.

The Government's social exclusion agenda is now led by the Social Exclusion Task Force (SETF), which has a strategic role in delivering better working across Departments on social exclusion issues. This includes the Socially Excluded Adults Public Service Agreement (PSA), which aims to increase the proportion of socially excluded adults in employment and accommodation. The Ministry of Justice is working closely with the SETF and other delivery departments to take forward this PSA and to tackle other factors linked to reducing reoffending. With this aim in mind a Reducing Reoffending Inter Ministerial Group (IMG) chaired by my right hon. Friend the Minister of State for Justice (Mr. Hanson) and my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (Mr. Simon), and including Ministers from 13 Government Departments, is responsible for ensuring the alignment of departmental targets and PSAs to support crime reduction and the reduction of reoffending, and ensure delivery of agreed cross government plans.

Work is also in hand to collect data associated with the costs of reoffending. The Ministry of Justice is currently developing a segmentation approach better to understand different offender groups, including their behaviour and criminal careers. This will include an assessment of which offenders are likely to cost society the most through their reoffending, and therefore where there are likely to be higher benefits to the public through reducing further reoffending. Additionally, the National Offender Management Service (NOMS) is undertaking a Specification, Benchmarking and Costing Programme, which aims to create a robust framework of costed service specifications thereby exposing choices for the business about what services should be delivered, to which offenders, at what level of quality. Both of these work-streams will help us to understand how to best target resources and intervene more effectively in the future to minimise the cost of reoffending.

Prisoners Release: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will assess the effectiveness of electronic tagging of (a) young offenders aged between (i) 10 and 15 and (ii) 12 and 16 years old, (b) prisoners released on end of custody licence and (c) those on bail resident in (A) Essex and (B) Castle Point. [272559]

Mr. Hanson: No research on the effectiveness of tagging in Essex, or Castle Point in particular, has been carried out or is planned. The current research programme within the Ministry of Justice includes further research on the effectiveness of a wide range of interventions aimed at reducing re-offending including a feasibility study into reoffending by prisoners released on home detention curfew but not on electronic monitoring in general.

Current evidence suggests that electronic monitoring has a neutral effect on re-offending. However, international research does suggest that it can be effective in helping to ensure compliance with other, more rehabilitative, community penalties.

Electronic monitoring provides the courts with a credible alternative to custody. Curfews introduce regularity into what are often chaotic lifestyles, and enhance supervision and can disrupt the pattern of offending behaviour. A Joint Criminal Justice Inspectorates Report on the effectiveness of electronically monitored curfews was published in October 2008, and its recommendations are being considered by the Ministry of Justice.

Prisoners released on an end of custody licence are not subject to a curfew condition.

Prisons: Basford

Mr. Timpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what size of prison was considered for the Basford East and West site; [272180]

(2) what categories of prison have been considered for the Basford East and West site; [272181]

(3) what assessment he has made of the potential impact on the local community in Basford East and West as a result of building a prison in that area; [272182]

(4) whether his Department has decided against Basford East and West as a potential site for a prison building; [272183]

(5) what parties local to Basford East and West he has consulted on prison building; [272184]

(6) what assessment he has made of Basford (a) East and (b) West as a potential site for a prison building; [272163]

(7) what estimate he has made of the cost of building a prison on the Basford (a) East and (b) West site was. [272164]

Mr. Straw: As I announced on 27 April 2009, Official Report, columns 569-80, we will not be proceeding with the 2,500 place "Titan" prisons, but we will be building 1,500 place prisons instead.

The site at Basford East and, West was one of a number of sites brought to the attention of the National Offender Management Service as part of the site search exercise for "Titan" prisons to hold 2,500 prisoners. It was assessed, but not considered suitable for development as a Titan and no estimates of costs were made. There are no current plans for prisons on any of the sites listed other than those named by me in Parliament on 27 April.

Prisons: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent discussions have taken place on (a) extending existing prison capacity and (b) providing new prison facilities in Essex; and if he will make a statement. [272058]

Mr. Straw: As I announced on 27 April 2009, Official Report, columns 569-80, we will not be proceeding with the 2,500 place "Titan" prisons, but we will be building 1,500 place prisons instead.

I explained then that we were working to secure sites for the first two of these prisons, including one at Runwell in Wickford, Essex. We commenced negotiations with the owners of the site, the Homes and Communities Agency following my announcement and wrote to Chelmsford borough council on 27 April 2009 to inform them that we intend to start negotiations to buy this site.

The other site is Beam Park West in Dagenham in the London borough of Barking and Dagenham and is on land that was formerly part of the Ford motor car company. There are no plans for extending existing prison sites in Essex.

Prisons: Mobile Phones

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many mobile telephones were seized in each prison in England and Wales in the last five years for which figures are available. [260436]

Mr. Hanson: Prisons are asked to send mobile phones and SIM cards they find to a central unit for analysis. The numbers analysed are set out in the following table for each of the last three years. There are no figures available for the years prior to 2006, because this information was not collated centrally.

The figures include items discovered within the prison perimeter and on entry to establishments. However, we believe that these figures may understate the actual number of finds, because they do not include items retained by the police for evidential purposes, and because in some instances prisons have not sent items for analysis. NOMS is putting in place new procedures to ensure that we have a more comprehensive picture in future. While the numbers of phones found indicates the scale of the challenge in tackling illicit mobile phones, it is also a reflection of prisons' increasing success in finding them and better reporting.

NOMS is implementing a strategy to minimise the number of phones entering prisons, and to find or disrupt those that do enter. As part of the strategy, prisons are being provided with technologies to strengthen local security and searching strategies, in line with the recommendations in the Blakey report, Disrupting the Supply of Illicit Drugs into Prisons, published in July 2008. This includes the roll out of "BOSS" chairs to all prisons, and the deployment of other detection and disruption technologies, including mobile phone signal blockers.

We have also strengthened the law, through the Offender Management Act 2007 (implemented in April 2008), which makes it a criminal offence with a punishment of up to two years' imprisonment to bring an unauthorised mobile phone or component part into a prison.

Young Offenders: Education

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) what recent discussions he has had with representatives of the Advisory Steering Group for the proposed young offenders academy; [272684]

(2) whether he plans to undertake public consultation on the proposal for a young offenders academy before the pilot project is given approval to begin procurement; and if he will make a statement; [272685]

(3) what assessment he has made of the compatibility of proposals for a young offenders academy with the Government's policy to make custody for children a last resort. [272686]

Mr. Hanson: My right hon. Friend, the Secretary of State for Justice, met with representatives of East Potential, the organisation proposing the academy, on 11 November 2008. Officials of the Youth Justice Board (YJB) have also met several times with East Potential representatives to consider the proposal.

The proposal is still at the development stage: it is too early to discuss the Government's possible response to a more fully developed plan or how such a proposal would be considered.

Any proposals regarding the use of custody for young people who offend would be considered in the light of the Government's overall approach to youth justice, including our clear statement that custody for young people under 18 should only be used as a last resort.

Youth Justice

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what factors he took into account in the decision to reduce the number of places contracted for custodial places in local authority secure children's homes; and if he will make a statement. [270775]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

The secure children's homes contract decisions followed a joint tendering exercise by the Youth Justice Board and the Department for Children Schools and Families. New contracts were offered to nine homes following a detailed evaluation, consisting of an assessment of the quality of the bids received and a financial assessment, based on the submitted prices. The required number of beds in each region, value for money, and overall affordability were factors in the decision-making process.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

10 Downing Street

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether people attending confidential meetings at 10 Downing Street are required to enter through an entrance other than the main door. [271957]

Kevin Brennan: It has been the practice of successive Governments not to comment on security matters.

10 Downing Street: Internet

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) with reference to the Answer of 18 December 2007, Official Report, column 1229W, on departmental email, for how long the contact email form on the Downing Street website has been unavailable for public communication; and what effect this unavailability will have on his Department's progress towards its strategic objective 4 in respect of avoidable contact; [258669]

(2) on what date the Downing Street website stopped offering a contact form for members of the public to email the Prime Minister; [271971]

(3) how many emails from members of the public 10 Downing Street has received in the last three months. [271973]

Mr. Watson: Enhancements have been made to the No. 10 e-mail facility and an updated version is now available. This is in addition to the other ways in which members of the public can interact with the Prime Minister, including: ePetitions; Ask the PM on the Downing Street YouTube site; Twitter; and, written correspondence.

10 Downing Street: Repairs and Maintenance

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 2 March 2009, Official Report, column 1350W, on 10 Downing Street: repairs and maintenance, which contractors were employed to undertake the works carried out in August and September 2008. [271943]

Kevin Brennan: The procurement of facilities services across the Cabinet Office estate is provided by the total facilities management provider for the Cabinet Office.

Charities

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what assessment has been made of the effectiveness of the Charity Commission's monitoring of links between charities and extremism; and if he will make a statement. [271955]

Kevin Brennan: The Charity Commission takes a zero tolerance approach to links between charities and terrorism, and last year published a revised counter-terrorism strategy. I have asked the Charity Commission to write to set out its approach to this issue.

Letter from Andrew Hind:

As the Chief Executive of the Charity Commission, I have been asked to write in connection with your written Parliamentary Question on what assessment has been made of the effectiveness of the Charity Commission's monitoring of links between charities and extremism. I thought it would be useful to set out our approach to this issue.

The Charity Commission has a specific monitoring unit to identify and monitor suspected and apparent abuse in charities, including fraud and financial abuse, risks to vulnerable beneficiaries and the risk of terrorist abuse. The Commission published its Counter-Terrorism Strategy in July 2008 which sets out the Commission's strategic approach to dealing with the vulnerability of the charity sector to terrorism, including criminal extremism. This document is publicly available on our website, www.charitycommission.gov.uk, and I will arrange for a copy of this to be placed in the Library of the House.

Our Compliance Monitoring Unit liaises closely with a variety of agencies. Matters of criminality are for the police to lead on. The Unit is also responsible for conducting compliance visits to charities to carry out on-site inspections and proactively look into matters of concern. As of 31 March 2009 it had 236 proactive monitoring cases open and since the beginning of 2008 it had conducted 15 visits covering the full range of issues and concerns, some of which related to matters of possible criminality and extremism.

I hope this is helpful.

Charities: Finance

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with reference to his Department's press release of 8 April 2009, on campaigning charities, what restrictions will govern the use of the available funds for (a) political campaigning and (b) the promotion of political campaigns by charities. [271942]

Kevin Brennan: The Government want to promote the development of strong active and empowered communities. Organisations that represent the voices of their community and campaign for change are central to this. This role is particularly important in respect of groups that currently feel disadvantaged in decision-making processes.

All third sector organisations that participate in the innovative campaigning programme must adhere to the Charity Commission guidance on campaigning which can be found at http://www.charitycommission.gov.uk/publications/cc9.asp.

This guidance makes it clear that charities can engage in political campaigning in furtherance of their charitable objectives, but can not engage in party political campaigning.

Childbirth

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many babies (a) had a low birth weight and (b) were stillborn in each (i) ward and (ii) low layer super output area in England in the most recent year for which figures are available. [271807]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many babies (a) had a low birthweight and (b) were stillborn in each (i) ward and (ii) low layer super output area in England in the most recent year for which figures are available. (271807)

Information on low birthweight babies and stillbirths is not routinely published for wards and lower layer super output areas, in order to protect the privacy of individual mothers and babies.

Death Certificates

Anne Milton: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many death certificates mentioning (1) thrombosis have been issued in each of the last five years; [271404]

(2) arteriosclerosis have been issued in each of the last five years; [271405]

(3) gout have been issued in each of the last five years; [271406]

(4) prostate cancer have been issued in each of the last five years; [271407]

(5) osteoarthritis have been issued in each of the last five years; [271408]

(6) sleep apnoea have been issued in each of the last five years; [271409]

(7) (a) type 1 diabetes and (b) type 2 diabetes have been issued in each of the last five years; [271410]

(8) high blood pressure have been issued in each of the last five years. [271411]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent questions asking:

(1) How many death certificates mentioning thrombosis have been issued in each of the last five years. (271404)

(2) How many death certificates mentioning arteriosclerosis have been issued in each of the last five years. (271405)

(3) How many death certificates mentioning gout have been issued in each of the last five years. (271406)

(4) How many death certificates mentioning prostate cancer have been issued in each of the last five years. (271407)

(5) How many death certificates mentioning osteoarthritis have been issued in each of the last five years. (271408)

(6) How many death certificates mentioning sleep apnoea have been issued in each of the last five years. (271409)

(7) How many death certificates mentioning (a) Type 1 diabetes and (b) Type 2 diabetes have been issued in each of the last five years. (271410)

(8) How many death certificates mentioning high blood pressure have been issued in each of the last five years. (271411)

Internationally accepted guidance from the World Health Organisation requires only those conditions that contributed directly to death to be recorded on the death certificate. Medical practitioners and coroners are not supposed to record all of the diseases or conditions present at or before death. Whether a condition contributed is a matter for their clinical judgement.

The table attached provides the number of deaths where the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) codes recorded indicate whether any of the following conditions were mentioned anywhere on the death certificate, either as the underlying cause or as a contributory factor, in England and Wales, for 2003 to 2007 (the latest year available).

(1) Thrombosis

(a) Myocardial infarction and coronary thrombosis

(b) Thrombotic Strokes

(c) Pulmonary embolism and deep vein thrombosis

(d) Arterial embolism and thrombosis

(2) Arteriosclerosis

(a) Strokes specifying embolism, thrombosis or and narrowing or occlusion of arteries

(b) Other and unspecified strokes

(c) Ischaemic heart diseases

(d) Atherosclerosis

(3) Gout

(4) Prostate cancer

(5) Arthrosis (osteoarthritis)

(6) Sleep apnoea

(7) Diabetes

(a) Type I diabetes

(b) Type II diabetes

(c) Unspecified diabetes

8) Hypertensive diseases

It is not possible from death certificate data to separate thrombotic, embolic and atherosclerotic conditions affecting the arteries to the brain. Atherosclerosis of arteries in the neck and inside the skull can lead to strokes through thrombosis, embolism or sometimes haemorrhage. The table therefore includes a single category of deaths with mention of one or more ICD codes in the range that includes thrombotic, embolic and atherosclerotic cerebrovascular diseases. Pulmonary embolism and venous thrombosis have been combined, because when one is part of the sequence leading to death, the other nearly always is as well, whether it is mentioned on the certificate or not.

Arteriosclerosis can affect any artery in the body, including those supplying the brain, the heart and all other vital organs. Whether the term used is arteriosclerosis, coronary or ischaemic heart disease, the medical condition is virtually the same - lack of oxygenated blood (ischaemia) to the heart muscle because of atherosclerosis (narrowing and stiffening) of the coronary arteries. This clinical category is represented by the ICD-10 code range 120-125. The whole range has been used to count deaths with any mention of atherosclerotic/ischaemic/coronary heart disease in the attached table.

Type I and Type II diabetes are distinct clinical entities, which are easily identified and tabulated from death certificates using ICD codes. However, the type of diabetes is not always accurately recorded on the death certificate. Therefore, ICD codes have been used to tabulate death certificate mentions of diabetes specified as Type I or Type II, and also those where the type has not been specified.

When interpreting the data in these tables, it is important to be aware that many deaths will have more than one of the requested conditions mentioned. Thrombosis of the coronary arteries in the heart is one of the steps in a heart attack; thrombosis of cerebral arteries may cause a stroke. In both these cases, atherosclerotic narrowing of the arteries will usually have led to the thrombosis. Therefore, many deaths will be represented in more than one of the causes listed.

Death: Malnutrition

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many hospital deaths were caused by malnutrition among those in each age group over 65 years in each region in the last 10 years. [272547]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many hospital deaths were caused by malnutrition among those in each age group over 65 years in each region in the last 10 years. (272547)

Malnutrition may be recorded as the underlying cause of death, but this is a rare occurrence. The 'effects of hunger', as the effects of malnutrition may be reported on a death certificate, is never recorded as the underlying cause of death, because it is defined by the International Classification of Diseases as a 'secondary cause' only. Consequently, deaths with any mention of either of these causes on the death certificate are reported together.

The attached tables provide the numbers of deaths in hospital where (a) malnutrition was the underlying cause of death (Table 1), and (b) malnutrition or 'effects of hunger' was mentioned anywhere on the death certificate (Table 2), for persons in each age group over 65 years, resident in each government office region in England, for the years 1998 to 2007 (the latest year available). Table 2 will include deaths where malnutrition was a complication of the underlying cause (for example cancer of the stomach) in addition to deaths where it was reported as the underlying cause.

The term 'hospital' includes NHS, non-NHS and military hospitals. It is not possible to determine from these figures how or where the malnutrition or 'effects of hunger' occurred.

[1] 'Hospital' includes NHS and non-NHS hospitals or establishments sites, and military hospitals.
[2] Cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Ninth Revision (ICD-9) codes 260-269 (malnutrition) for the years 1998 to 2000, and the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) codes E40-E46 (malnutrition) for 2001 onwards. The introduction of ICD-10 in 2001 means that the numbers of deaths from each cause before 2001 are not completely comparable with later years.
[3] Based on boundaries as of 2009.
[4] 0 figures are for deaths registered in each calendar year.

Employment: Defence

Lindsay Roy: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what percentage of the population is directly employed in defence and related industries. [271248]

Kevin Brennan [holding answer 27 April 2009]: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking what percentage of the population are directly employed in Defence and related industries. (271248)

Statistics on Ministry of Defence (MOD) personnel are published by Defence Analytical Services and Advice (DASA). These indicate that there were a total of around 274,000 service and civilian personnel as at 1 April 2008 who were UK residents.

DASA also publishes estimates of UK employment directly dependent on MOD expenditure and defence exports (other than its service and civilian personnel). This includes employment in the manufacture of weapons, shipbuilding etc. It is estimated that 160,000 full-time jobs were supported on this basis, on average, during the 2006- 07 financial year, the latest period for which estimates are available. A headcount equivalent of this figure is not available.

Taken together, the latest estimates of service and civilian personnel and of jobs dependent on MOD expenditure indicate that, approximately, 1 per cent of the UK resident population aged 16 and over is directly employed in Defence and related industries.

Foreign Workers

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 2 March 2009, Official Report, column 1353W, on employment levels: private sector, what estimate the Office for National Statistics has made of the number of individuals who were not British citizens who were employed in the (a) public and (b) private sector in (i) 1997 and (ii) the most recent period for which figures are available. [271941]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking, pursuant to the Answer of 2 March 2009, Official Report, column 1353W, on employment level: private sector, what estimate the Office for National Statistics has made of the number of individuals who were not British citizens who were employed in the (a) public and (b) private sector in (i) 1997 and (ii) the most recent period for which figures are available. (271941)

The available information for non-UK nationals aged 16 and over is provided in the attached table.

The estimates are derived from the Labour Force Survey (LFS). The distinction between public and private sector is based on respondents' views about the organisation for which they work. The public sector estimates provided do not correspond to official Public Sector Employment estimates. Those are derived directly from employers and are based on National Accounts definitions, but do not include a nationality breakdown.

Citizenship is defined as the nationality reported by the respondents at the time of the survey.

As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty. This is assessed in a footnote to the table.

The figures have been derived from the LFS microdata which are weighted using the official population estimates published in autumn 2007. Consequently the 2008 estimate is not entirely consistent with the figures published in the monthly Labour Market Statistics First Release, which are weighted using more up-to-date population estimates.

[1] It should be noted that public and private sector estimates;
- are based on survey respondents' views about the organisation for which they work;
- do not correspond to the National Accounts definition used for Public Sector Employment estimates.
[2] Includes nationalised Industry or state corporation, central government, civil service, local government or council (incl. police, fire services and local authority controlled schools or colleges), university or other grant funded educational establishment, health authority or NHS trust and armed forces.
[3] Includes self-employed and unpaid family workers.
[4] Includes those whose type of employer was not known.
[5] Coefficients of Variation have been calculated for the latest period as an indication of the quality of the estimates, as described below:
Guide to Quality:
The Coefficient of Variation (CV) indicates the quality of an estimate, the smaller the CV value the higher the quality. The true value is likely to lie within +/- twice the CV—for example, for an estimate of 200 with a CV of 5 per cent, we would expect the population total to be within the range 180-220
Key Coefficient of Variation (CV) (%) Statistical Robustness
* 0 = CV<5 Estimates are considered precise
 5 = CV <10 Estimates are considered reasonably precise
 10 = CV <20 Estimates are considered acceptable
* CV 20 Estimates are considered too unreliable for practical purposes
It should be noted that the above estimates exclude people In most types of communal establishment (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels mobile home sites etc.)

Public Bodies

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which existing public bodies the Office for National Statistics has stopped classifying as part of the civil service since 2004. [271969]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated 5 May 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning which existing public bodies the Office for National Statistics has stopped classifying as part of the Civil Service since 2004. (271969).

Estimates for the home civil service from Q3 2004 onwards are taken from the Civil Service element of the Quarterly Public Sector Employment Survey (QPSES). Estimates prior to this date are based on results from the Civil Service Statistics publication (Mandate collection), undertaken by Cabinet Office.

The Office for National Statistics has stopped classifying the following public bodies as part of the Civil Service since Q3 2004:

Forensic Science Service—became a Government Owned Company on 5 December 2005 and transferred out of the Home Office.

Assets Recovery Agency—on 1 April 2008, the Assets Recovery Agency merged with the Serious Organised Crime Agency.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which bodies were classified by the Office for National Statistics as public corporations (a) in 1996 and (b) on the latest date for which information is available. [271970]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning which bodies were classified by the Office for National Statistics as public corporations (a) in 1996 and (b) on the latest date for which information is available. (271970).

Teenage Pregnancy

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 24 March 2009, Official Report, column 252WA, on teenage pregnancy, if he will rank the wards in each local authority from highest to lowest in respect of their rates of conceptions to under-18 year olds. [271491]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking for the wards in each local authority to be ranked from highest to lowest in respect of their rates of conceptions to under 18 year olds. (271491)

The information requested is not readily available and can be provided only at disproportionate cost However, ONS has ranked under 18 conception rates for 2000-02 and 2001-03 for all the wards in England and Wales by quintiles and published these as thematic maps on the Neighbourhood statistics website at:

http://neighbourhood.statistics.gov.uk/dissemination/

Voluntary Organisations: Finance

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what recent estimate he has made of the proportion of third sector organisations in receipt of public funds. [271485]

Kevin Brennan: The Cabinet Office does not hold this information centrally.

Data from the National Council for Voluntary Organisations' UK Civil Society Almanac 2009 show that in 2006-07 25 per cent. of general charities—40,000 organisations—received public funding.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which third sector organisation received the largest allocation from the public purse in each of the last five years. [271486]

Kevin Brennan: The Cabinet Office does not hold this information centrally.

Voluntary Organisations: Government Assistance

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what steps have been taken to increase access to Government grants for small, community-led projects. [271967]

Kevin Brennan: Government are investing £130 million through the Grassroots Grants programme to deliver small grants funding to charities and social enterprises.

In West Sussex for example, Government have committed £1,836,363 over three years to provide immediate funding to small, local community groups, and also to match fund local donations, which will support these groups into the future.

In recognition of the particular challenges facing community level third sector organisations who provide recession focused services, Government have provided a further £15.5 million to support these organisations in the 50 areas of England most at risk of increased deprivation as a result of the recessions.

More information about the Grassroots Grants and Targeted Support Funds can be found at the Community Development Foundation (CDF) website:

www.cdf.org.uk

Voluntary Organisations: Leicestershire

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how much funding from the public purse has been allocated to third sector organisations in (a) Leicester East constituency and (b) Leicestershire in each of the last five years. [271483]

Kevin Brennan: The Cabinet Office does not hold this information centrally.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what recent estimate he has made of the number of third sector organisations operating in Leicester East constituency. [271484]

Kevin Brennan: The Cabinet Office does not hold information on the number of third sector organisations operating in each constituency area.

HEALTH

Accident and Emergency Departments

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many attendances there were at each type 1 accident and emergency department in England in the most recent year for which figures are available. [271810]

Mr. Bradshaw: A table which shows the number of attendances at major (type 1) accident and emergency departments, in the most recent year for which figures are available (2008) has been placed in the Library. The data requested are also available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Statistics/Performancedataandstatistics/AccidentandEmergency/DH_077485

Cancer: Alcoholic Drinks

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what information his Department holds on the relationship between alcohol consumption and cancer among (a) men and (b) women; and if he will make a statement. [270218]

Dawn Primarolo: Research has shown that alcohol is a carcinogen and that long-term regular consumption increases the risks of cancers of the mouth, oesophagus (gullet), larynx, liver, and female breast and, to a lesser extent, cancers of the colon, and rectum. While research suggests that there is no low level of long-term, regular consumption of alcohol that can reliably be described as risk-free, any such increased risk of cancer at low levels of consumption is itself reported as low.

The relative risks of developing mouth, oesophagus (gullet), larynx, colo-rectum, liver and female breast cancer are given in the following table:

Alcohol-related cancers	Relative risk of developing cancer for men regularly drinking 40 grams (g) (5 units) or more per day and women regularly drinking 20g (2.5 units) or more per day compared to men/women who do not drink[1]		Relative risk of developing cancer for men regularly drinking 60g (7.5 units) or more per day and women regularly drinking 40g (5 units) or more per day compared to men/women who do not drink[2]
	Men	Women	Men	Women
Mouth	2.5	1.7	5.4	5.4
Oesophagus	1.9	1.4	4.4	4.4
Larynx	[3]1.8	1.2	4.9	4.9
Colo-rectum	[4]1.2	1.1	[4]1.5	1.4
Liver	1.3	1.2	3.6	3.6
Female breast	n/a	1.2	n/a	1.6

The Department is committed to raising public understanding of the risks from excessive alcohol consumption, including those relating to various types of cancer. Raised risks of female breast cancer, in particular, are highlighted in the Department's 'Know Your Limits' campaign, which began in May 2008.

Cancer: Death

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many deaths from cancer there were in each (a) ward and (b) lower layer super output area in England in the most recent year for which figures are available. [271808]

Kevin Brennan: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many deaths from cancer there were in each (a) ward and (b) lower layer super output area in England in the most recent year for which figures are available. (271808)

The tables provide the number of deaths where cancer was the underlying cause of death in each (a) electoral ward (Table 1) and (b) lower super output area (Table 2), in England, for 2007 (the latest year available). A copy of the tables has been placed in the House of Commons Library

Departmental Visits Abroad

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department spent on (a) overseas and (b) domestic (i) travel and (ii) subsistence in respect of its (A) officials and (B) contractors in each year since 1997 [267473]

Mr. Bradshaw: There is no statutory requirement to report overseas and domestic travel or subsistence as separate items in the departmental annual accounts. Therefore, it is only possible to provide the total value of travel and subsistence paid (which includes overnight accommodation). Similarly, it is not possible to separately identify officials and contractors.

In July 2008, the Department introduced a new finance system, which does allow for the separate identification of domestic and overseas travel. Separate figures for overseas and domestic travel will therefore be available from the 2009-10 financial year. However, these expenses will not be identifiable as for departmental staff or contractors.

Drinking Water

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research his Department has (a) undertaken and (b) evaluated on the comparative effects on health of bottled water and tap water. [272045]

Dawn Primarolo: No research has been undertaken or evaluated by my Department on this matter.

Both bottled water and tap water must comply with legislation that establishes safety limits for chemicals and microbes in the water. These requirements are similar for both tap water and bottled water.

The safety and quality of the public water supply is regulated in England by the Drinking Water Inspectorate and that of private water supplies and bottled water by local authorities.

Eczema: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were diagnosed with eczema in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years. [272161]

Ann Keen: The information on the number of people diagnosed with eczema in Hemel Hempstead and Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years is not held centrally.

Epilepsy: Waiting Lists

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 933W, on epilepsy: waiting lists, for what (a) clinical and (b) other reasons no specific waiting time targets have been set for referrals of patients with suspected epilepsy. [272638]

Ann Keen: The Department does not set targets, or collect data, on waiting times for most specific medical conditions. However, guidance issued by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence in their report, The diagnosis and management of the epilepsies in adults and children in primary and secondary care, published October 2004 recommends that all people having a first seizure should be seen as soon as possible by a specialist in the management of the epilepsies to ensure precise and early diagnosis and initiation of therapy as appropriate to their needs.

Eyesight: Testing

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many pensioners resident in Hendon had free eye tests in 2008-09. [272300]

Ann Keen: The information is not available in the format requested.

Information is provided by primary care trust (PCT) and by strategic health authority but is not available by parliamentary constituency. In 2007-08, 30,738 persons over 60 received a free national health service sight test in the Barnet PCT area. Barnet PCT comprises the Hendon, Chipping Barnet, and Finchley and Golders Green constituencies.

First Aid: Parents

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make an estimate of the proportion of new parents who undertook training in first aid prior to the birth of their children in the last 12 months. [272494]

Ann Keen: Information on the number of parents who have undertaken first aid training is not available.

Our publication "Birth to Five" gives advice to new mothers on a full range of child health, development and parenting issues, including how to cope with illness, injuries and step-by-step emergency first aid. "Birth to Five" encourages parents to take a first aid course and gives information on courses run by the St. John's Ambulance and local NHS ambulance services. A copy of the publication has already been placed in the Library.

Food: Hygiene

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many businesses selling food have been closed consequent upon visits from environmental health inspectors in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years. [272160]

Dawn Primarolo: Local authority environmental health officers have powers under food safety regulations to close food establishments, through either an emergency prohibition notice/order or a voluntary closure, because of their imminent risk to food safety. Establishments may subsequently re-open if brought back to compliance with food safety regulations. In a small number of cases, an emergency notice may be served prohibiting the use of a specified piece of equipment; however, the food business may continue to operate.

The figures in the following table show the number of food establishments subject to an emergency prohibition notice/order, or a voluntary closure:

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many businesses selling food have been closed after visits from environmental health inspectors in (a) England, (b) the North East, (c) Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each of the last 10 years. [271346]

Dawn Primarolo: Local authority environmental health officers have powers under food safety regulations to close food establishments, through either an emergency prohibition notice/order or a voluntary closure, because of their imminent risk to food safety. Establishments may subsequently re-open if brought back to compliance with food safety regulations. In a small number of cases, an emergency notice may be served prohibiting the use of a specified piece of equipment; however, the food business may continue to operate.

Health Visitors: Children

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which primary care trusts in England provide for health visitors to carry out routine development checks upon children at (a) eight months and (b) two years old. [271746]

Ann Keen: The Healthy Child programme (formerly the Child Health Promotion programme) is the early intervention and prevention public health programme beginning in pregnancy through to the first five years of life. It sets out a schedule of the core universal services, providing families with a programme of screening, immunisation, health and development reviews, health promotion and parenting guidance, at various stages, including at six months to a year and between one to three years. The Healthy Child programme sets out the core universal programme to be commissioned by local primary care trusts and provided for all families as well as identifying additional preventive elements that may improve the outcomes for children with medium and high risk factors.

Hospital Wards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) pursuant to the answer of 11 March 2009, Official Report, columns 510-11W, on hospital wards, how many staff at each grade are working in the operations team; and what programme governance infrastructure has been established; [271164]

(2) pursuant to the answer of 11 March 2009, Official Report, columns 510-11W, on hospital wards, which NHS trusts were identified in March 2009 as requiring support from the improvement team; [271168]

(3) pursuant to the answer of 25 February 2009, Official Report, column 874W, on hospital wards: gender, how many improvement teams there will be; what the size of each team will be; how much funding will be allocated to each team; and what qualifications members of teams will be required to have. [271202]

Ann Keen: There are currently three permanent civil servants working within the core eliminating mixed sex accommodation programme team. These are graded; one grade 6, one senior executive officer and one higher executive officer. Additionally, the programme lead is a hosted NHS[1] member of staff working at the equivalent of a senior civil servant grade 1. Each of these members of staff also participate in other areas of departmental work.

Working alongside the core team is a group of six hosted national health service staff, two secondees and six contractors. As the programme progresses, it will continue to draw on input from a range of expertise sourced from both the Department and from external organisations, (including the NHS), as determined by the emerging requirements.

An internal assurance governance group is in place which includes the programme's Director and policy lead who report directly to the Department's two lead Director Generals; i.e. the Chief Nursing Officer and the Director General, NHS Finance, Performance and Operation.

An improvement programme has been developed through a series of initial fact-finding visits to trusts. The sites selected are experiencing a range of problems and volunteered for the visits.

Full improvement team support will commence in May this year, beginning with those trusts perceived by the public as having shared accommodation and wash facilities and those who have reported having problems.

The total number of trusts with which improvement teams will engage has not been decided, as such the number of teams cannot yet be specified. The size of any one improvement team will vary, as it will be determined by the nature and complexities of an individual trust's requirements. Likewise, the resources allocated to each team will vary in accordance with the objectives of each improvement visit.

There are no pre-determined qualification requirements for improvement team members. It is envisaged that teams comprise expertise relating to; nursing, admissions and bed management, estates/hospital design and communications. The main criteria is that members' expertise contributes to delivering the improvement objectives of a particular visit.

[1] Via the NHS Business Services Authority

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 11 March 2009, Official Report, columns 510-11W, on hospital wards, (1) what funding was released to each strategic health authority on 1 April 2009; and how much has been allocated to each project; [271165]

(2) if he will place in the Library copies of each of the two-weekly update reports which have been received from strategic health authorities; [271166]

(3) if he will place in the Library a copy of each strategic health authority plan which were to be submitted to his Department by 9 March 2009. [271167]

Ann Keen: Funding has been confirmed with each strategic health authority (SHA) as follows:

SHA	Allocation (£ million)
North West	14.8
North East	5.7
East of England	10.3
East Midlands	8.4
West Midlands	10.8
South West	9.6
South Central	6.8
South East Coast	7.8
London	15.3
Yorkshire and Humber	10.5
Total	100

Information is not available to confirm the funding for each individual project. Copies of the SHA plans will be placed in the Library. The two-weekly monitoring reports are subject to revision and may provide an incomplete or misleading assessment of progress against the SHA plans. Each SHA will be required to submit a report in early July confirming delivery of their plans. These will be made available in the Library.

Hyperactivity

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children aged (a) under 10 years and (b) under 16 years were diagnosed with attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder (i) in each year since 1997 and (ii) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available. [272782]

Ann Keen: Information is not collected on the number of people diagnosed with attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD).

In 2006, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) published guidance on the use of drugs to treat ADHD. NICE has estimated that around 5 per cent. of school-aged children meet the diagnostic criteria for ADHD, equivalent to 366,000 children and adolescents in England and Wales, but not all these children will require medication.

Influenza

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which voluntary organisations have been involved in developing his Department's plans for responding to an influenza pandemic; and what mechanisms are in place to ensure that such organisations assist the implementation of those plans. [272499]

Dawn Primarolo: The following organisations have been involved in developing the Department's plans for responding to an influenza pandemic: the British Red Cross, St. John Ambulance, Women's Royal Voluntary Society Disaster Action, the Samaritans, Salvation Army and other smaller organisations who are members of the Voluntary Sector Civil Protection Forum.

In the draft "Pandemic Influenza: Guidance on planning for vulnerable groups", published on the Department's website last year, primary care trusts and Local Resilience Forums have also been encouraged to involve third sector (voluntary) organisations in their planning for an influenza pandemic. A copy of the draft has been placed in the Library.

Specific advice and information leaflets for third sector organisations have been developed for the Department of Health. Drafts of the leaflets were presented to the Voluntary Sector Civil Protection Forum last November 2008. We will be seeking to publish them in May 2009.

NHS: Accidents

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of (a) the number of staff hours lost and (b) other costs to the NHS arising from workplace accidents in each of the last three years. [272064]

Ann Keen: Data relating to the number of staff hours lost due to accidents in the workplace are not collected centrally. National health service trusts and foundation trusts, as employers in their own right, may collect this information for their own purposes.

The National Health Service Litigation Authority has supplied the following figures covering claims already paid to staff and outstanding costs to staff for each of the last three years in respect of the employers liability cover that they provide for NHS organisations. Costs include legal costs for both claimant and defence parties, and costs for damages. Employees have up to three years in which to register a claim.

	Incident year
	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09
Number of claims	2,366	2,090	1,011
Outstanding estimate	25,392,037	23,079,422	13,178,698
Already paid	9,401,526	3,420,344	210,794
Total	34,793,563	26,499,766	13,389,492

NHS: Accountancy

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 10 February 2009, Official Report, columns 1934-5W, on NHS: accountancy, what recent assessment he has made of the likely effects on the revenue of NHS organisations of the adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards from April 2009. [271288]

Mr. Bradshaw: National health service organisations have submitted their 2009-10 International Financial Reporting Standards compliant financial plans and we are now undertaking detailed reviews with strategic health authorities to agree these plans.

Once this agreement process has been completed, the detailed financial impact of the transition will be established.

NHS: Pay

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he last met the Chief Executive of Monitor to discuss salary levels of senior management of NHS foundation trusts. [268873]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Secretary of State for Health and the Chairman of Monitor have regular meetings to discuss various issues. The most recent of these was on 28 April 2009.

NHS: Pensions

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the administration costs of the NHS Pension scheme were in each of the last 10 years. [272667]

Year ending 31 March	Administration costs (£ million)
2001	17.1
2002	18.9
2003	19.4
2004	19.6
2005	23.0
2006	27.6
2007	23.5
2008	21.5

Note:
In 2004, the Student Grants Unit (SGU) merged with NHS Pensions to become one strategic health authority, and the SGU admin costs are included in the figures for years ending 2005 and 2006. The SGU was then separated out again once NHS Pensions became part of the NHS Business Services Authority.

NHS Pensions

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many NHS staff started claiming their pension from the NHS Pension scheme before the scheme's normal retirement age in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [272668]

Ann Keen: The information available is shown in the following table.

NHS: Redundancy

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time NHS staff have been made redundant in each of the last 10 years. [272669]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not available for the period or the form requested. Numbers of compulsory redundancies have been collected since 2006-07. In 2006-07 there were 2,330 redundancies and in 2007-08 there were 2,223.

Information on the numbers of staff who were granted an early retirement pension on the grounds of redundancy is shown in the following table.

1999	1,345
2000	925
2001	917
2002	589
2003	494

Year ending 31 March	Numbers of redundancy retirements
2004	760
2005	531
2006	410
2007	891

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the policy of the NHS on the size of redundancy payments is; and if he will make a statement. [272670]

Ann Keen: Redundancy payments to NHS staff are made in line with the arrangements set out in section 16 of the Agenda for Change Terms and Conditions of Service Handbook. These came into force from 1 October 2006. At the same time changes were made to the National Health Service (Compensation for Premature Retirement) Regulations 2002 and the NHS Pension Scheme Regulations 1995. These were also negotiated in partnership with the NHS trade unions. Under these arrangements the standard redundancy terms are one months pay per year of reckonable service up to a maximum of 24 months pay. Members aged over the minimum pension age may choose to use their redundancy payment to pay for their retirement pension to be paid on redundancy without reduction. The previous redundancy arrangements involving enhancements of service of up to 10 years are being phased out and will cease to apply completely from October 2011.

Section 16 makes clear that before making staff redundant employers should seek suitable alternative employment either in their own organisation or with another NHS employer.

Nurses: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the average ratio of nurses to patients was at each hospital in Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years. [272159]

Ann Keen: The average ratio of nurses to patients at each hospital in Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years is not held centrally.

Patient Rights

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 12 February 2009, Official Report, column 2186W, on patient rights, what the financial levers will be in the standard contracts from April 2010; and what the measures of and definitions for overriding clinical justification are. [271204]

Ann Keen: Progress is being made to develop the levers that would fit into the current structure of the contracts. The options will be tested prior to final decisions being taken later in the year for implementation in April 2010.

The local national health service, rather than the Department, is best placed to make final decisions about what constitutes a clinical justification of mixed sex accommodation for an individual patient. To assist with such local determination, the Department will shortly be issuing definitional guidance relating to emergency admissions, day treatment, critical care environments, children and young people, as well as services used by transsexual people and gender variant children.

Strokes

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) women and (b) men aged (i) under 30 years, (ii) between 30 and 50 years and (iii) over 50 years (A) were admitted to hospital and (B) died upon having a stroke in each of the last 10 years. [270813]

Ann Keen: The available information is in the following tables and notes.

Notes:
1. Primary diagnosis: The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 20 (14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and 7 prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was admitted to hospital.
' Primary diagnosis codes used:
I60 Subarachnoid haemorrhage
I61 Intracerebral haemorrhage
I62 Other nontraumatic intracranial haemorrhage
I63 Cerebral infarction
I64 Stroke not specified as haemorrhage or infarction
2. Data quality: HES are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts (PCTs) in England. Data are also received from a number of independent sector organisations for activity commissioned by the English NHS. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and works to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.
3. Assessing growth through time: HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. The quality and coverage of the data have improved over time. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. Some of the increase in figures for later years (particularly 2006-07 onwards) may be due to the improvement in the coverage of independent sector activity. Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in outpatient settings and may no longer be accounted for in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.
4. Unproved data: Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in the data, i.e. the data are unproved.
5. Discharges: A discharge episode is the last episode during a hospital stay (a spell), where the patient is discharged from the hospital (this includes transfer to another hospital).
6. Finished admission episodes: A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
7. Deaths: HES data cannot be used to determine the cause of death of a patient while in hospital. Deaths recorded on the HES database may be analysed by the main diagnosis for which the patient was being treated during their stay in hospital, which may not necessarily be the underlying cause of death. For example, a patient admitted for a hernia operation (with a primary diagnosis of hernia) may die from an unrelated a heart attack. The Office for National Statistics collects information on the cause of death, wherever it occurs, based on the death certificate and should be the source of data for analyses on cause of death.
' A death in hospital is coded as discharge method = 4 (dead).

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 391W, on trade unions, which trade unions his Department's agencies recognise. [271922]

Mr. Bradshaw: I refer the right hon. Member to the written answer I gave him on 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 391W. There has been no change in the unions recognised by the Department and its agencies since that time.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Asbestos: Schools

Mr. Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what relevant interests were declared by those responsible for (a) advice on and (b) drafting of the Health and Safety Executive report RR624. Further measurements of fibre concentrations in CLASP construction buildings. [271138]

Jonathan Shaw: This project was funded by HSE to support a working group set up to consider asbestos risks in CLASP and other system-built schools. The working group was made up of specialists from central and local government organisations—including the author of the report RR624, a Principal Scientist employed as a civil servant by the Health and Safety Laboratory. Individual working group members declared no interests. The working group did however include a representative of SCAPE—the trading arm of CLASP. Input from this commercial organisation was necessary to provide information on the design and location of CLASP buildings.

Benefits Rules

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether the Government plans to relax the 16-hour rule relating to work and benefits; and if he will make a statement. [264867]

Mr. McNulty: We have no plans to relax the remunerative work rule whereby a person may not claim working-age benefits if they are working for more than 16-hours a week. This rule has been designed to strike a balance between providing for need and maintaining work incentives.

It is inevitable that there must be a cut-off point at which work is regarded as full-time in any income-related scheme intended to help people who are unable to support themselves by working. People on low incomes who work for 16-hours or more a week have access to working tax credit. Furthermore, benefits such as housing benefit and council tax benefit are in-work, as well as out-of-work benefits, and are specifically designed to ensure that people have sufficient encouragement to find and to remain in work, particularly when their income from that employment is low.

Construction: Safety

Mr. Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what criteria applied to the selection of buildings in the Health and Safety Executive report RR624 - Further measurements of fibre concentrations in CLASP construction buildings; and if he will make a statement. [270420]

Jonathan Shaw: The duty holders for all CLASP system built schools were asked in 2006 to check for asbestos and seal it securely if it was present.

Report RR624 was published in 2008 and contains the results of a sampling survey which was designed to see if remedial work to seal and secure asbestos had been done effectively and if there was any potential for residual risks of exposure to asbestos.

In order to obtain accurate results it was important to complete the sampling in normal school operating conditions. This required considerable disruption to classroom activities. Therefore the research team selected buildings from a number of volunteer organisations who were willing to co-operate in providing access and tolerate the disruption. Seven school buildings were tested where remedial work on asbestos had already been completed but samples were also taken in two locations where no work had been done.

The analysis of 28 air samples from the seven schools did not detect any asbestos.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many officials in his Department are suspended; how many are suspended on full pay; for how long each has been suspended; and what the reasons are for any such suspensions. [270506]

Mr. McNulty: As at 21 April 2009, nine people are suspended on full pay.

Length of time suspended from duty	Number of employees
0-6 months	4
6-12 months	3
12 plus months	2
Total	9

The Department for Work and Pensions Records the numbers of staff on suspension under a single category of "absence". Information is not recorded on our HR System to break this down further.

To provide information in the format requested would be at disproportionate cost and not in line with departmental policy, on the grounds of confidentiality.

Employment: Conferences

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what expenditure under what budgetary headings was incurred by his Department in relation to the Employment Summit held on 12 January 2009. [270545]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 23 April 2009]: The Employment summit was held at the Science museum in London on 12 January. The total cost of the event was £162,076. The costs are broken down by budgetary headings in the following table.

Expenditure breakdown of Employment summit held on 12 January 2009

Catering Costs	5,641
Venue Hire	13,950
Event Management	142,485
Total	162,076

Employment: Fife

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many job vacancies were advertised in job centres in North East Fife constituency in each month of 2008; and for how long on average such vacancies were advertised. [270861]

Mr. McNulty: The information requested is shown in the following table.

The coverage of these figures relates only to vacancies notified to Jobcentre Plus and as such represent a market share of vacancies throughout the whole economy. This proportion varies over time, according to the occupation of the vacancy and industry of the employer, and by local area. Comprehensive estimates of all job vacancies (not just those notified to Jobcentre Plus) are available from the monthly ONS Vacancy Survey since April 2001, based on a sample of some 6,000 enterprises. However, the ONS survey is currently designed to provide national estimates only.

Vacancies advertised in North East Fife parliamentary constituency in each month of 2008

	Live unfilled vacancies	Median duration (days between notification and closure)
January	182	40.2
February	315	20.1
March	443	14.6
April	426	21.2
May	341	12.9
June	394	20.9
July	549	6.4
August	421	28.5
September	456	22.1
October	289	21.1
November	172	19.4
December	181	11.2

Notes:
1. Data are unrounded.
2. The stocks of live unfilled vacancies reflect more accurately job opportunities available via Jobcentre Plus. In the case of unfilled vacancies, use of the figures on live vacancies is recommended (i.e. excluding suspended vacancies), and this is the default option. Live vacancies may still include some vacancies which have already been filled or are otherwise no longer open to recruits, due to natural lags in procedures for following up vacancies with employers.
3. The median duration (in days) is calculated by ranking all the vacancies in order of ascending duration and taking the middle value. Half the vacancies will have a duration greater than the median, and half will have a duration less than the median. For most purposes, the median will give a more representative measure of the average duration a mean figure tends to be distorted by a small number of vacancies that have very long durations. The median duration is available using live unfilled vacancy figures only.

European Union

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what visits he has made to Brussels on official business in the last three months. [272487]

Jonathan Shaw: The Secretary of State has not made any visits to Brussels on official business in the last three months.

Health and Safety Executive: Economic Situation

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) summits, (b) conferences and (c) seminars the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) has held since January 2008 at which the primary subject for discussion was the effect of the economic situation on matters within the HSE's responsibility. [270565]

Jonathan Shaw: HSE has not identified a need to convene any special summits or conferences on the impact of the economic downturn. Workers and others should still expect to be properly protected against the very real risks presented by work activities. It is particularly important during the downturn and the eventual recovery that hard won standards of health and safety be maintained; standards for which the UK should rightly be proud. HSE will not back away from pursuing enforcement action where necessary against those who seek to avoid or abuse their legal responsibilities. HSE is not unsympathetic however to the effects of the downturn and is keeping the situation under review. It is in regular contact with key stakeholders elsewhere in Government, in trade unions, in key business sectors and in academia. The current priority themes of leadership, competence and worker involvement underpinned by a commonsense and proportionate approach to risk management are exactly those necessary for business survival and recovery.

Housing Benefit: Fraud

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people were successfully prosecuted for housing benefit fraud in London in the last three years for which figures are available. [249557]

Mr. McNulty: The available information is provided in the following table:

Successful housing benefit prosecutions in London for the last three years for which data is available

2005-06	696
2006-07	723
2007-08	697

Jobcentre Plus: Manpower

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many frontline Jobcentre Plus staff there were in each Jobcentre Plus district in each quarter of the last two years; [264653]

(2) how many staff have left positions in Jobcentre Plus in each region in each month of the last two years. [264656]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Jobcentre Plus: Standards

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent assessment he has made of the ability of Jobcentre Plus staff to deliver the full range of services provided under re-employment and training programmes. [263813]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Jobseeker's Allowance

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people claimed jobseeker's allowance in each of the last five years; and what proportion of the population in (a) the UK, (b) each of the Scottish regions and (c) North East Fife constituency claimed the allowance in each such year. [270855]

Local Employment Partnerships

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what budget has been allocated for the organisation of the Local Employment Partnership Awards 2009; and how much (a) each of the 11 local award ceremonies and (b) the grand final are expected to cost. [261015]

Mr. McNulty: The Local Employment Partnerships Awards 2009 are an integral part of our strategy to support the delivery of LEPs across Great Britain. We want more employers to work through LEPs so that unemployed people have a better chance to get back to work.

The awards have been established to highlight the major benefits that LEP participation have brought to employers and partners and to celebrate the success of individual employees who have found sustainable work through the programme. So far more than 140,000 people have found jobs with more than 20,000 employers through LEPs.

An overall budget of £663,000 has been allocated to support this work. Final figures for the costs of the events will not be known until all 12 have been delivered.

Nuclear Power: AWE Burghfield

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what arrangements the Health and Safety Executive has made for consultation on proposed changes to the nuclear licensed site boundary at the Atomic Weapons Establishment Burghfield. [271289]

Jonathan Shaw: The licensing of nuclear installations is undertaken by the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) under the powers provided by the Nuclear Installations Act 1965 (NIA65). In accordance with the requirements of section 3(1 A) of NIA65, HSE consulted the Environment Agency about the application from the site licensee, AWE plc, for a replacement nuclear site licence for Burghfield. The new site licence was required to enable AWE plc to bring additional land into the licensed enclave to accommodate the construction of replacement facilities.

HSE also has a discretionary power under section 3(3) of the NI Act to direct a licence applicant to serve notice on certain public bodies local to the site in question. HSE concluded that public body notification was not required in respect of this application because it will not alter the nature of the activities undertaken in the licensed area, nor impact on the competence and capability of the licensee. Furthermore such bodies would be briefed on the relicensing via the AWE plc Local Liaison Committee (LLC) and that the development would be subject to the usual planning processes.

Pathways to Work

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what information his Department holds on the performance of (a) private sector providers and (b) in-house teams providing Pathways to Work schemes from the start of the contracts to the end of October 2008. [263405]

Mr. McNulty: Official Statistics on the performance of private sector providers delivering Pathways to Work Schemes will be available in summer 2009.

The Department does collect high level, aggregate management information on Provider Led Pathways performance. It is to be expected that in the normal course of managing their business, Departments will have available and use more recent very often incomplete data, from a range of sources, than are available from Official Statistics at a particular point in time, but this has not been quality assured and would give an incomplete picture of performance.

The Department publishes regular performance monitoring reports for Jobcentre Plus led Pathways. The latest published official statistics available show that up to September 2008, there had been 1,038,910 starts to the programme and the total number of job entries was 143,650 up to March 2008.

Social Security Benefits

Ms Buck: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the value was in (a) real and (b) cash terms of (i) the state pension, (ii) pension credit, (iii) income support and (iv) jobseeker's allowance for each year since 1997. [267576]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The available information on benefit rates up to 2008-09 has been placed in the Library. Real terms rates are presented in April 2008 prices.

Benefit rates which came into effect on 6 April 2009 are shown in the following table. It is not possible to present the real terms rates in April 2009 prices at this time as the April 2009 Retail Price and ROSSI index figures will not be published until 19 May 2009.

Benefit	April 2009 rate (actual rate) (£)
Basic State Pension (single pensioner)[1,2]	95.25
Basic State Pension (couples aged 60 and over)[1,3]	152.30
Pension Credit (single person aged 60 and over)[4]	130.00
Pension Credit (couples aged 60 and over)[4]	198.45
Income Support (single claimant aged 18 to 24)[5]	50.95
Income Support (single claimant aged 25+)[5]	64.30

Benefit	April 2009 rate (actual rate) (£)
Income Support (couple both aged 18+)[5]	100.95

[2] Man or woman under 80 on own insurance. £0.25 addition for over 80-year-olds.
[3] This is the rate where the wife's state pension is based on the husband's contributions. Where it is based on her own contributions, the state pension will be twice that of a single pensioner if both individuals are entitled to 100 per cent. state pensions. £0.25 addition for over 80-year-olds.
[4] For all pension ages. Excludes all premiums other than pensioner premium.
[5] The rates quoted are standard rates. There are also additional payments for dependent child(ren), disability, caring responsibilities, etc.
Note:
JSA rates are the same as those for income support.

Social Security Benefits: Asylum

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people who successfully claimed asylum since 1997 have (a) claimed and (b) been granted benefits. [265345]

Mr. McNulty: Once a person has been granted leave to remain, they can apply for benefits but no record is kept of the fact that they had previously claimed asylum.

Swimming Pools: Safety

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what guidance the Health and Safety Executive publishes on safety in municipal swimming pools. [271226]

Jonathan Shaw: The guidance on safety in swimming pools published by the Health and Safety Executive is "Managing health and safety in swimming pools - HSG179", which is available from HSE Books. This is supplemented by additional advice held on the entertainment and leisure industry pages on the HSE website.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2009, Official Report, column 865, on trade unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional monetary value of such provision was in 2008-09. [271916]

Jonathan Shaw: The information is as follows:

1. The Department for Work and Pensions allows the following office facilities for the use of its recognised trade unions:

A room, wherever possible, is made available for the use of the trade union side. Failing this, trade union representatives are allowed the use of private rooms where necessary, for example, to enable private discussions with individual union members.

The trade unions are provided with sufficient furniture e.g. desks, lockable pedestals and filing cabinets, to enable them to carry out their duties efficiently.

Trade union representatives are allowed the use of official telephones for union activities permitted within the DWP Employee Relations framework.

Trade union representatives are allowed the use of departmental personal computers, where available, for work in respect of their representational duties. They may also be allowed access to e-mail facilities.

The local union branch may have notice board facilities on official premises, where they are available.

Trade union representatives are allowed reasonable use of office services and provisions for essential trade union activities, provided it does not interfere with official work and they are not used excessively. This could include, for example, use of typists, the internal courier, facsimile machines, photocopiers and stationery.

2. The information requested on what the notional monetary value of such provision was in 2008-09 is not available.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2009, Official Report, column 865W, on trade unions, which trade unions his Department's agencies recognise. [271917]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department for Work and Pensions and its Executive agencies, Jobcentre Plus and the Pension, Disability and Carers Service (PDCS) recognise three trade unions as representing members of staff; the Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS), FDA and Prospect.

Winter Fuel Payments: North East

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the amount paid to pensioner households in Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland constituency in winter fuel payments in 2008-09. [271350]

Ms Rosie Winterton: Actual expenditure data are not yet available for 2008-09 and forecasts of benefit expenditure are not produced at constituency level. However, in 2007-08, expenditure on winter fuel payments in the parliamentary constituency of Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland was £3.5 million.

Notes:

1. Winter fuel payments are paid to people aged 60 and over.

2. Parliamentary constituencies and local authorities are assigned by matching postcodes against the relevant ONS postcode directory.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he plans to answer Question 248120 on the UK's membership of the Euro, tabled by the hon. Member for Forest of Dean on 12 January 2009. [270693]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 23 April 2009]: I replied to the hon. Member's question on 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 115W.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he plans to answer Question 263741, on Woolworth, tabled by the hon. Member for Forest of Dean on 11 March 2009. [270694]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 23 April 2009]: I replied to the hon. Member's question on 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 119W.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Council Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects the Review of Council Housing Finance to be completed; and if she will make a statement. [272222]

Mr. Iain Wright: We expect the work of the review to conclude shortly and to make a statement over the summer.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what floor area space standards are expected of (a) one, (b) two and (c) three bedroom homes in local authority high density housing schemes. [272224]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government's Planning Policy Statement 3: "Housing" (PPS3) is clear on the need to achieve high quality new housing, including promoting appropriate designs and layouts, encouraging innovative approaches to help deliver high quality outcomes, and ensuring developments at all densities contribute positively to making places better for people.

As regards social housing the Government's new delivery body, the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA), is currently reviewing the benchmarks for high quality urban design, construction and environmental sustainability, including any space standards for new homes funded by the public sector.

In the meantime the HCA is continuing to operate under the regimes set in place by the Housing Corporation and English Partnerships. Under these, the Housing Corporation Design and Quality Strategy and Standards set out the requirements and recommendations for housing projects which receive Social Housing Grant, and the English Partnerships Housing Quality Indicators set out requirements for housing developments that receive funding from the property and regeneration programmes. Both sets of requirements include a space standard. Details are available through the internet. The relevant links are http://www.englishpartnerships.co.uk/qualitystandards.htm

http://www.housingcorp.gov.uk/server/show/ConWebDoc.10783

http://www.homesandcommunities.co.uk/design_quality_standards

Where local authorities build or acquire homes with funding from the HCA they will be expected to meet the relevant conditions of the grant, and compliance with development standards is one of these.

Derelict Land: Gardens

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1503-05W, on gardens, (1) how long she expects the (a) first and (b) second stage of her Department's review into the effect of development on gardens to take; and if she will make a statement; [272200]

(2) on what date her Department wrote to local planning authorities in England to request data on the number of planning permissions granted or refused for housing development within the cortilage of an existing house; and if she will place in the Library a copy of the letter. [272201]

Margaret Beckett: I refer the hon. Member to the letter my Department wrote to all local planning authorities in England to request data for the review of evidence on 3 April 2009. A copy of the letter was placed in the library (reference DEP2009-1135) on 17 April 2009.

Eco-Towns

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government in respect of how many of the potential eco-towns sites which appeared on her Department's shortlist in April 2008 construction has commenced. [271580]

Margaret Beckett: No construction work related to eco-towns has commenced in those locations shortlisted as part of our programmes of consultation, which began in April 2008, and was pursued in more detail in November 2008. The consultation ended on 30 April and following consideration of all the responses we will publish the final Eco-towns Planning Policy Statement and list of locations with potential to be an eco-town. However, before any construction work related to eco-towns can commence individual schemes will need to submit planning applications, which will be for local authorities to determine through the local planning process.

Energy Performance Certificates

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what penalties may be imposed on (a) social and (b) private rented sector landlords who do not supply prospective tenants with an energy performance certificate for a property; and if she will make a statement. [270603]

Margaret Beckett: A fixed penalty of £200 is applicable to landlords that do not provide prospective tenants in either the social or private rented sectors with a valid Energy Performance Certificate.

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the effectiveness of roll-out of energy performance certificates; and if she will make a statement. [271569]

Margaret Beckett: We have commissioned research to evaluate the implementation of the Energy Performance of Buildings Directive, which will include an assessment of the effectiveness of the roll-out of Energy Performance Certificates. The research is due to be completed in October 2009.

Fire Services

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the effect of costs of business rates on fire stations on the level of service provided by fire and rescue services; and if she will make a statement. [272563]

John Healey: No assessment has been made regarding the impact of business rates on fire stations and the level of service they provide.

Fire Services: Taunton

Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the cost of maintaining the Regional Fire Control Centre in Taunton was in each month since April 2008. [272562]

Mr. Khan: The cost of maintaining the regional Fire Control Centre in Taunton from April 2008 to December 2008 has been approximately £140,000 per month. We would expect up to final cut-over in the South West in October 2011, costs would remain at approximately the same level.

Fire Services: Warrington

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much the FiReControl centre in Warrington (a) has cost to date and (b) is expected to cost in each of the next five years; and if she will make a statement. [272370]

Mr. Khan: The running costs of the FiReControl centre in Warrington from practical completion on 1 July 2008 to the end of March 2009 is approximately £710,000. The expected running cost for the current financial year (April 2009 to March 2010) is £1,850,000. For each of the following four years the running cost of the building is expected to be approximately £2,000,000 per year.

Home Information Packs

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the changes in average cost of a home information pack as a result of the changes to the regulations which became effective on 6 April 2009. [272112]

Margaret Beckett: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given to the hon. Member for Meriden (Mrs. Spelman) on 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 911W.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the average price of a home information pack in each year since the packs were introduced. [272209]

Margaret Beckett: The cost of a home information pack (HIP) is set by the market and the Government have no role in this. However, industry feedback indicates that the average cost of a HIP has fallen from £300-£350 (excluding VAT) following their introduction in 2007 to £200-£300 (excluding VAT).

Homes and Communities Agency: Finance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) gifts, (b) losses and (c) special payments were reported to her Department as having been received by the (i) Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies and (ii) Tenant Services Authority in each of the last three years. [270576]

Mr. Iain Wright: In the last three years, it has not been a requirement under the terms of the management statements or framework documents of the Homes and Communities Agency, the Tenant Services Authority or their predecessors (English Partnerships, the Housing Corporation and the Academy for Sustainable Communities) to report to the Department gifts received. Instead the bodies have been required to maintain their own registers of gifts received.

It is unclear as to how an organisation might receive a loss, so it has not been possible to provide information on this issue.

The Housing Corporation received the following special payments in the last three years:

2006-07

Termination payment to contractor

Termination payment to administrator of Elonex plc

2007-08

No special payments.

Audited information for 2008-09 is not yet available, but will be made available in the respective organisations annual reports and accounts, all of which will be laid before Parliament.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what losses were incurred by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies as a result of legal claims being (a) waived and (b) abandoned in each of the last five years; [270609]

(2) what losses attributable to constructive losses the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies incurred in each of the last five years; [270610]

(3) what losses attributable to the writing off of accountable stores the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies incurred in each of the last five years; [270611]

(4) what losses attributable to overpayments of (a) salaries, (b) wages, (c) pensions and (d) allowances the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies incurred in each of the last five years. [270612]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the (investment arm of the) Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the agency from Communities and Local Government.

It is not possible to disaggregate losses for the investment arm of the Housing Corporation without incurring disproportionate costs.

For the Homes and Communities Agency, English Partnerships, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities the answers are:

There were no losses incurred as a result of legal claims being waived and abandoned in each of the last five years.

There were no losses incurred due to constructive losses in each of the last five years.

There were no losses incurred due to the writing off of accountable stores in each of the last five years.

There have been no losses as a result of overpayment of salaries, wages or allowances during the period stated. Since 1 April 2004 there have been unrecovered pensions to the value of £843.28 as a result of death of pensioners. This loss is met by the EP/HCA Pension Scheme and not the employer.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many contracts were let by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies in which competitive tendering was not employed in each of the last three years; and what the monetary value of each such contract was. [270618]

Margaret Beckett: Since the Homes and Communities Agency's inception on 1 December 2008, it has let six contracts by single tender to a total value of £102,190. These were valued at £25,000, £24,950, £25,000, £19,500 and £7,740 and £8,156.

The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the (investment arm of the) Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the Agency from Communities and Local Government.

The Academy for Sustainable Communities entered into five contracts by single tender between 2006-07 and 2008-09 as follows:

One contract valued at £45,000

2007-08:

Two contracts valued at £66,304.60 and £4,261.60

2008-09 (to inception of HCA on 1 December 2008):

Two contracts valued at £74,000 and £94,400.

I am unable to provide details of single tender contracts awarded by English Partnerships as no central record was held. Similarly, I am unable to provide details of single tender actions undertaken by the investment arm of the Housing Corporation as it is not possible to differentiate between Housing Corporation spend on the basis of whether it related to that organisation's investment or regulation activities, the latter of which are now the responsibility of the Tenants Services Authority.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1111-12W, on Homes and Communities Agency: finance, how much of the additional funding for the Homes and Communities Agency will be brought forward from funding allocations for future years. [272479]

Margaret Beckett: None of the additional funding for the Homes and Communities Agency will be brought forward from funding allocations for future years.

Housing Revenue Accounts

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the draft housing revenue account subsidy determination 2009-10 amending determination for 2009, what recent assessment her Department has made of the net cash loss to participating local authorities as a result of compensation based on guideline rents rather than actual average rent per property. [272416]

Mr. Iain Wright: No detailed assessment has been made: the exact details will depend both on rents in 2008-09 and what authorities had originally planned for in 2009-10. The latter data are not available. We expect to respond shortly to the consultation on the amending determination.

Housing: Rent Back

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps her Department is taking to provide advice on buy and let back schemes to those home owners experiencing financial difficulties. [269994]

Margaret Beckett: We are a taking a range of actions to provide advice to homeowners who may be considering entering private sale and rent back (SRB) arrangements.

Last year we published a consumer advice leaflet with the National Homelessness Advice Service (NHAS), "Are you worried about your mortgage? Get advice now". The leaflet highlighted the risks associated with signing up to SRB schemes 'that appear too good to be true' and was widely disseminated throughout England via MPs' offices, local authorities and advice agencies. As part of the Mortgage Pre-Action Protocol the NHAS leaflet must be sent to homeowners threatened with repossession.

A revised leaflet was issued in January 2009 highlighting the Government's Mortgage Rescue scheme (MRS), which offers households a 'Government Mortgage to Rent' option. This provides greater protection to "vulnerable" households (families with dependent children, or those containing elderly, ill or disabled people, who can no longer afford their repayments and who would be legally entitled to homelessness assistance if repossessed) targeted by SRB companies by allowing households to sell their property at market value to a housing association and becoming tenants of the housing association—initially on a three-year assured shorthold tenancy—paying an intermediate rent.

We have worked closely with stakeholders to raise awareness among local authority officers of the need to ensure the risks associated with SRBs are well understood by all parties.

We have also published information about the need for households at risk of repossession to be aware of SRB schemes and seek advice from an independent adviser on the Direct Gov website as part of the Government's 'Real help now' campaign.

Housing: HomeBuy

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average income has been of a (a) first-time buyer, (b) social tenant and (c) key worker taking part in the (i) MyChoiceHomeBuy, (ii) HomeBuy Direct and (iii) OwnHome initiative, since the inception of each initiative. [270620]

Margaret Beckett: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 24 March 2009, Official Report, columns 216-17W.

The average household income figures provided for My Choice HomeBuy and Own Home Initiative are for 1 April 2008 to 28 February 2009.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what procedure is followed by developers wishing to withdraw a property from a Homebuy scheme. [270621]

Margaret Beckett: Where a new build property has been developed with grant for one of the HomeBuy schemes, a developer has to get consent to sell the property outside the affordable housing sector. For RSLs this requires an application to the TSA for a section 9 consent to dispose. This constitutes a relevant event and triggers grant recycling. For non-RSL investment partners (including private sector developers) where properties are retained by the developer on completion, the rentcharge requires that they seek consent from the HCA before selling. If such consent were given, under the rentcharge, grant would be repaid with a link to value, the calculation for which is set out in the rentcharge. Generally, where grant is paid to private sector developers, at build completion, ownership and management is transferred to an RSL, in which case the requirements outlined above in relation to RSLs would apply.

For developers who have signed up to sell homes as part of the HomeBuy Direct, schemes can be withdrawn from the scheme with the consent of the HCA. As HomeBuy Direct is currently configured, there is no grant to repay in these circumstances because grant is not paid until the property is sold.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) New Build Homebuy and (b) Open Market Homebuy completions there were in each region in each of the last three months. [270641]

Margaret Beckett: The number of new build HomeBuy and open market HomeBuy completions funded through the Homes and Communities Agency in the each of the last three months of 2008-09 is as follows. These figures are provisional.

	New build HomeBuy			Open market HomeBuy
	January	February	March	January	February	March
East Midlands	43	30	53	33	20	32
East of England	20	48	43	94	77	143

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many Social Homebuy sales there were in each region in each of the last three months. [270689]

Margaret Beckett: The following table shows the provisional figures for Social HomeBuy sales in each of the last three months (January to March 2009) broken down by region.

	Sales in January to March 2009
Region	January	February	March
North West	1	0	1
Yorkshire and Humberside	1	0	0
England	6	1	6

[1] London figure in March includes two sales in local authority sector. Sales figures by registered social landlords (RSLs) are from the Homes and Communities Agency.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether HomeBuy scheme variants are in operation; and what the differences in eligibility, equity terms and scope between each scheme are. [272452]

Margaret Beckett: The information requested can be found in the leaflet 'CLG HomeBuy Factsheet', a copy of which has been placed in the Library of the House.

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people have applied for assistance under the (a) MyChoiceHomeBuy and (b) Ownhome scheme to date. [271627]

Margaret Beckett: To the end of March 2009 there were (a) 52,029 applications for MyChoiceHomeBuy and (b) 6,409 applications for Own Home.

Housing: Low Incomes

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many of the low-income households helped into home ownership in 2007-08 were resident in each local authority area. [271629]

Margaret Beckett: A table showing the number of homes purchased through affordable housing schemes in 2007-08, by local authority, has been deposited in the Library of the House.

These figures are taken from the low cost home ownership (LCHO) figures in the CLG affordable housing live table figures, and the number of right to buy (RTB) and preserved right to buy (PRTB) sales.

Affordable housing LCHO figures are collated from the Homes and Communities Agency Investment Management System (IMS); and Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix (HSSA) returns submitted to CLG by local authorities. Figures showing the number of local authority right to buy sales are from P1B returns to CLG from local authorities. Figures showing the number of registered social landlord right to buy sales are from Regulatory and Statistical Returns (RSR) to the Tenant Services Authority (TSA) from RSLs.

Not all affordable housing sales can be broken down to local authority level, so we have included a row for sales where the LA is not known. This includes 3,150 registered social landlord PRTB sales, which are collected at RSL level rather than at LA level, and as RSLs can operate in more than one LA it is not possible to count these figures at LA level.

Housing: Affordable Homes

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what the average cost to the public purse of building a new home for social rent was in each of the last five years; [272210]

(2) what the average cost to the public purse of building a new affordable home was in each of the last five years. [272211]

Mr. Iain Wright: The national average amount of grant per unit paid through the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing Programme for social rent and intermediate affordable housing in each of the last five years is as follows:

	Grant per completion (£)
2005-06
Intermediate	31,795
Rent	55,353
2006-07
Intermediate	28,927
2007-08
Intermediate	25,524
Rent	57,289
2008-09
Intermediate	30,313
Rent	57,306

Homes and Communities Agency.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of (a) social homes and (b) affordable housing was judged to be of (i) average and (ii) poor design quality in the most recent study of the sector conducted by the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment. [272510]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Affordable Housing Survey conducted by the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment (CABE) did not differentiate between social and affordable housing. Instead it looked at affordable housing schemes which were either built by Registered Social Landlords or provided for them by market developers as part of planning agreements. 61 per cent. of those schemes tested were judged average and 21 per cent. poor as set out in the report of the survey. This can be found on the HCA's website:

It should be noted however that the housing schemes that were assessed for this audit went through the planning process before our planning policy in PPS3 (November 2006) was issued which set out what is expected on housing design and before the Housing and Regeneration Act and Planning Act (both 2008) which put legislation in place to tackle poor quality design. We expect the future surveys to show increasing improvement as our policies have a chance to bed down and completed schemes reflect new HCA standards.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of (a) social homes and (b) affordable housing was judged to be poor in its provision for adaptation, conversion and extension in the Homes and Communities Agency's most recent survey of affordable housing. [272516]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Affordable Housing survey conducted by the Commission for Architecture and the Built Environment (CABE) did not differentiate between social and affordable housing. Instead it looked at affordable housing schemes which were either built by RSLs or provided for them by market developers as part of planning agreements.

The percentage of these judged as poor in their provision for adaptation, conversion and extension was 94 per cent. as set out in the report which can be found on the HCA's website:

www.homesandcommunities.co.uk

The reason for this is that a large proportion of schemes assessed involved apartments where the design did not offer the potential to enable them to be adapted for the future.

It should be noted however that the housing schemes that were assessed for this audit went through the planning process before our planning policy in PPS3 (November 2006) was issued which set out what is expected on housing design and before the Housing and Regeneration Act and Planning Act (both 2008) which put legislation in place to tackle poor quality design. We expect the future surveys to show increasing improvement as our policies have a chance to bed down and completed schemes reflect new HCA standards.

Housing: Sales

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many households purchased a home via the First Time Buyers Initiative in each region in each of the last three years; and if she will make a statement. [272102]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows the number of households who purchased a home through the First Time Buyers initiative in each of the last three years by region.

	2007	2008	2009	Total
South West	86	162	35	283
North West	43	150	25	218

	2007	2008	2009	Total
Yorks and Humber	73	37	0	110
West Midlands	69	119	21	209
East England	15	77	1	93

South East	177	265	39	481
London	160	217	20	397
Total	644	1,072	150	1,866

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 2 April 2009, Official Report, column 1507W, on housing: low incomes, what the average price of a property purchased with support from the First Time Buyers Initiative has been in each year since the scheme's inception. [272105]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows the average price of a property purchased through the First Time Buyers initiative in each year since its inception.

2006	220,000
2007	201,916
2008	177,139
2009[1]	163,008

Local Area Agreements

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent assessment she has made of (a) the level of progress achieved in the roll-out and (b) the effectiveness of the Local Area Agreement framework. [271574]

Mr. Khan: Communities and Local Government has commissioned a long-term evaluation of local area agreements (LAAs) and local strategic partnerships (LSPs). Early findings published late last year indicated that the new local performance framework has been broadly welcomed, though concluded that it was difficult to attribute improvements directly to the new framework at this early stage. A forthcoming report from the evaluation provides further evidence that the new LAAs are generating greater focus and improved partnership working at the local level.

The earlier report is available at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/localgovernment/laalspevaluationcasestudies

The forthcoming report will be made available later this month at:

www.communities.gov.uk

Comprehensive area assessment, due to start reporting from November 2009, will include the first formal assessment of the progress areas are making against LAA targets. A review of local areas' initial efforts to prepare for LAA delivery was carried out by Government offices earlier this year indicated that the new framework was progressing well, with the vast majority of areas strengthening their partnership and delivery arrangements to enhance their ability to meet their new targets.

Local Government

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many local councils have not yet had their core strategies (a) submitted and (b) approved; and what the timetable is for such core strategies to be approved. [272428]

Mr. Iain Wright: Of 333 core strategies planned by local councils:

(a) 282 are yet to be submitted to the Secretary of State, and;

(b) 291 are yet to be approved.

According to Local Authority Local Development Schemes, all core strategies will be adopted by August 2012.

Local Government: Equal Pay

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much funding was disbursed during the equal pay capitalisation round in 2008-09. [271636]

John Healey: Since 2006, the Government have issued over £1.1 billion in capitalisation directions to provide support for councils to deliver equal pay for thousands of employees. Equal pay capitalisation directions issued by the Government in 2008-09 totalled £472 million.

Local Government: Standards

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 877W, on corporate improvement boards, what Audit Commission Use of Resources score each local authority received in (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008; which local authorities have had their annual accounts qualified either in whole or in part in the last four years; and how much support each local authority has received for corporate or financial improvement purposes from their local regional improvement and efficiency partnership in each of the last two years. [272356]

John Healey: The following table shows Use of Resources each relevant local authority received in (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008.

	Audit commission use of resources judgment
Local authority	(a) 2006	(b) 2007	(c) 2008

We do not hold information on which local authorities have its accounts qualified.

The Regional Improvement and Efficiency Partnerships (RIEPs) are devolved partnerships of councils and other local services. Information on support each local authority has received for corporate or financial improvement purposes is not held centrally.

Mortgages: Government Assistance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many households have received support under the Mortgage Rescue Scheme. [271467]

Margaret Beckett: As part of the monitoring arrangements for the Government Mortgage Rescue Scheme, headline data will be published on a monthly basis on the Department's website starting this month. We will be publishing headline data for January, February and March 2009 on 30 April 2009, as pre-announced on the UK National Statistics Publication Hub, after which local authority breakdowns can be made available. The date of this publication has been delayed from 21 April 2009 owing to unforeseen issues with data quality and validation.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many loans she expects to be provided under the Repossession Prevention Fund; and what the maximum loan value is under the scheme; [272213]

(2) what the monetary value of her Department's Repossession Prevention Fund will be in (a) 2009, (b) 2010 and (c) 2011. [272214]

Margaret Beckett: The total value of the Repossession and Evictions Prevention Fund will be £20 million. This will be a one off payment for 2009-10 to local authorities in direct response to the current economic conditions. It will be administered through the Homelessness Revenue Grant programme, under Section 31 of the Local Government Act 2003. This is an established process as CLG have already allocated over £150 million, of Homelessness Grant, over three years (2008-11), to all local authorities to support their homelessness strategies to tackle and prevent homelessness effectively.

The Fund will be used to provide loans of up to a maximum value of £5,000 to prevent repossession or eviction, helping at least 4,000 households to remain in their homes.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the effect of the Homeowner Mortgage Support scheme on the total level of mortgage debt. [272455]

Margaret Beckett: Homeowners Mortgage Support will enable eligible borrowers who suffer a temporary loss of income to cut their mortgage interest payments for up to two years to help them get back on track with their finances. Before entering the scheme, borrowers must receive independent money advice. We have estimated the increase in mortgage debt arising as part of the government scheme to be around £200 million, based on assumptions explained in detail within the impact assessment published alongside the launch of the scheme. This figure can be compared with the Council of Mortgage Lenders' latest estimate of balances outstanding on lending secured against dwellings of £1,224,856 million as at February 2009.

Mortgages: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many homeowners in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire took out mortgages in the last five years. [272157]

Mr. Iain Wright: Data on actual numbers of mortgage taken out are available from the Council of Mortgage Lenders (CML). However they are only available for the United Kingdom as a whole.

The Council of Mortgage Lenders latest press release on this is on their website at:

http://www.cml.org.uk/cml/media/press/2218

The CML data on mortgage lending are no longer freely available from their website. For detailed time series information members of the public can request to subscribe to CML to obtain access to a restricted website.

New Deal for Communities

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the extent to which (a) the provision of guidance and (b) sharing good practice has contributed to the development of local sustainability plans in New Deal for Communities areas. [271639]

John Healey: It is too early to make an assessment of the contribution that guidance and shared good practice from the New Deal for Communities (NDC) programme is making to the development of local sustainability plans in NDC areas.

It was always the intention that the improvements to NDC residents would be delivered in a way that could be sustained beyond Government funding and into the long term. The Department has issued various guidance notes which relate to succession throughout the programme, most recently comprehensive succession guidance on 4 December 2008. This was launched at a conference attended by NDCs and local authorities, which was designed to assist them with preparing long term succession strategies to ensure that the benefits and improvements made to the areas can be sustained.

Non-Domestic Rates

Peter Luff: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what discussions her Department has had with the Treasury and

Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on the implementation of measures to introduce automatic rate relief for small businesses. [271532]

John Healey: The Department for Communities and Local Government has had a number of discussions with the Department for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and Treasury on making small business rate relief automatic.

The Government are keen to explore ways in which we can promote, and improve the administration of, the existing small business rate relief scheme and increase its take up, including through automatic options. CLG officials will work with Treasury officials to see how the take up of the scheme can be improved.

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans she has to make payment of small business rate relief automatic for eligible businesses; and if she will make a statement. [272634]

John Healey: The Government are keen to explore ways in which we can promote, and improve the administration of, the existing small business rate relief scheme and increase its take up. CLG officials will work with Treasury officials to see how the take up of the scheme can be improved.

Planning Permission

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the timetable is for each local planning authority to complete its core strategy; and what penalties will apply in the case of late completion. [272440]

Mr. Iain Wright: The individual timetable for the completion of each local authority core strategy is contained in its local development scheme, published on each local authority's website, which sets out all development plan documents and has been agreed by the Secretary of State. According to these local development schemes, all core strategies should be adopted by August 2012.

Although there are no direct penalties, local authorities will fail to receive the full grant allocation from the Government's Housing and Planning Delivery Grant if priority development plan documents set out in the local development scheme are not prepared in accordance with their agreed time scale.

Without up to date development plan documents, local authorities reduce their ability to direct the right type of development to the right place within their areas.

Regional Planning and Development

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent progress has been made in her Department's Growth Points programme; and if she will make a statement. [271579]

Margaret Beckett: Through the Growth Points initiative the Government are responding positively to local partners who are keen to pursue sustainable growth. Allocations to growth point locations, announced in December 2008:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/housing/housingsupply/growthareas/growth/fundallocations/were based on their programmes of development and we encourage these documents to be made available through the local authorities concerned. We are now asking local authorities to work closely with CLG and the Homes and Communities Agency to implement their programmes of development and effective partnership working will be particularly important during the current economic conditions.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 23 March 2009, Official Report, column 76W, on regional planning and development, what timetable has been agreed for delivery of each of the remaining core strategies. [272335]

Mr. Iain Wright: Core strategies form part of the Local Development Framework and part of the development plan for each local planning authority in conjunction with the regional spatial strategy.

The individual timetable for the completion of each local authority core strategy is contained in its Local Development Scheme, published on each local authority's website, which sets out all development plan documents and has been agreed by the Secretary of State. According to these local development schemes, all core strategies should be adopted by August 2012.

Rented Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how much was spent on maintaining (a) local authority and (b) registered social landlord properties which are (i) newer than 10 years, (ii) older than 10 years and (iii) older than 20 years in the last 12 months; [270623]

(2) what estimate she has made of the costs of maintaining housing owned by (a) local authorities and (b) registered social landlords which is (i) up to 10, (ii) between 11 and 20 and (iii) over 20 years old; and if she will make a statement. [272514]

Mr. Iain Wright: Information for local authorities is not available in the format requested.

The Tenant Services Authority only hold information in relation to registered social landlords. The information for England in the Global Accounts for the period 1 April 2007 to 31 March 2008, show:

Routine repairs—£1,422 million

Planned and major repairs—£2,701 million (this includes capitalised major repairs)

Total repairs—£4,123 million

Management cost spend—£1,913 million

The Tenant Services Authority do not hold or collect any data by property age.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what guidance is given to (a) local authorities and (b) registered social landlords on reducing the numbers of properties illegally sublet by tenants; [272205]

(2) what incentives are provided for (a) local authorities and (b) registered social landlords to reduce the numbers of properties illegally sublet by tenants; [272206]

(3) what estimate has been made of the number of social homes which were illegally sublet in each of the last three years; and if she will make a statement. [272207]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department has not issued guidance to social landlords on unlawful sub-letting. Robust procedures to tackle unlawful sub-letting are a part of effective stock management. Successful possession action against unlawful sub-letters frees up stock and, therefore, enables social landlords to house more of those in greatest need.

The Department does not collect data on the numbers of social homes unlawfully sub-let.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what information her Department has on the age profile of housing owned by (a) registered social landlords and (b) local authorities; and if she will make a statement. [272512]

Mr. Iain Wright: The English House Condition Survey includes an assessment of the age of dwellings that are owned by local authorities and registered social landlords. Table 1 provides estimates for 2006, the latest available from the survey.

Table 1: Dwellings owned by local authorities and registered social landlords by age, 2006

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average length of tenure for a tenant leaving a property in (a) the registered social landlord sector and (b) local authority housing was prior to departure in each year since 1997. [272515]

Mr. Iain Wright: Data on the average length of tenure for tenants leaving a property are not available.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average cost was of maintaining a domestic dwelling owned by (a) a local authority and (b) a registered social landlord in each of the last five years. [272566]

Mr. Iain Wright: Information for local authorities is not available in the format requested.

The Tenant Services Authority (TSA) only hold information in relation to registered social landlords. The information for England in the global accounts from 2005 to 2008 is shown in the table.

Average costs per unit: England

Repossession Orders: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many domestic properties in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire have been repossessed in the last five years. [272156]

Mr. Iain Wright: There are two independent sources of data on actual numbers of mortgage possessions: the Council of Mortgage Lenders (CML) and the Financial Services Authority (FSA). However both are only available for the United Kingdom as a whole.

The Council of Mortgage Lenders latest press release on this is on their website at:

http://www.cml.org.uk/cml/media/press/2108

The CML data on repossessions are no longer freely available from their website. For detailed time series information members of the public can request to subscribe to CML to obtain access to a restricted website.

The Financial Services Authority data are available on their website at:

http://www.fsa.gov.uk/pages/Doing/Regulated/Returns/IRR/statistics/

The CML and FSA release slightly different figures. The CML data are for repossessions on first-charge mortgages only, including Buy-to-Let mortgages, as issued by their members. CML estimate that their lenders currently account for 98 per cent. of mortgage lending. The FSA data, as well as covering possessions on first-charge mortgages, cover possessions on second-charge loans by regulated firms (many second charge lenders are not regulated) but do not cover possessions as comprehensively on Buy-to-Let mortgages, as some of these are from unregulated firms. The overall effect of the differences is that the FSA's statistics on possessions are slightly higher.

Roads: Floods

Mr. Heald: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the Government's plans are for storm drainage standards for future road adoptions; what account those plans take of Environment Agency guidelines of a 100 year return-period storm standard; and if she will make a statement. [271534]

Paul Clark: I have been asked to reply.

Adoption of highways is a matter for each highway authority. The Government have no plans to set design and construction standards in relation to adoptions.

Tenant Services Authority

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent assessment she has made of the performance of the Office for Tenants and Social Landlords; and if she will make a statement. [271583]

Margaret Beckett: The Office for Tenants and Social Landlords, also called Tenant Services Authority (TSA), has issued a corporate plan with high level targets, agreed by Ministers in the Department for Communities and Local Government, and which should be reported on in its annual report. As the TSA has only been operational since December 2008, no formal performance review has yet taken place, but there have been several meetings between TSA and myself.

Travelling People: Caravan Sites

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent guidance her Department has issued to (a) police forces and (b) local authorities on the eviction of unauthorised Traveller camps. [272437]

Mr. Iain Wright: Communities and Local Government has produced the following guidance to assist the relevant authorities in dealing both with unauthorised camping (where the land is owned by others), and with unauthorised development (where the land is owned by the developer):

"Local Authorities and Gypsies and Travellers: a guide to responsibilities and powers": May 2007;

"Guide to effective use of enforcement powers, Part 1: unauthorised encampments" February 2006 (in conjunction with the Home Office); and

"Guide to Effective Use of Enforcement Powers, Part 2: Unauthorised Development of Caravan Sites": October 2007.

All of these publications are available on the Communities and Local Government website:

www.communities.gov.uk/housing/housingmanagement/care/gypsiesandtravellers

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Apprentices

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the application process is for an apprenticeship under the Government apprenticeship scheme for 16 to 18 year-olds. [272502]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: There are various routes by which young people may enter an apprenticeship. Connexions services, and other agencies providing information, advice and guidance, refer young people to training providers and employers offering suitable apprenticeship opportunities. Young people may also apply directly to training providers and employers. From the beginning of this year the national apprenticeship on-line system for vacancy matching has been operating, providing a free service for employers and providers to advertise apprenticeship vacancies, and allowing potential apprentices to register and apply for vacancies. The National apprenticeship Service, launched on 1 April 2009, will provide an end-to-end service to promote and deliver apprenticeships for employers and individuals, including young people.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the role and responsibilities are of local colleges in delivery of the apprenticeship programme for 16 to 18 year-olds. [272677]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Further education colleges are important delivery partners in achieving our ambitions for 16 to 18-year-old apprentices. Where a local college is contracted by the Learning and Skills Council to deliver the apprenticeship programme they, along with other training providers, work with employers and their apprentices to deliver the training both on the job and at the college. The college will ensure the young person receives the training, work experience and personal support required to achieve the apprenticeship framework—the detail of which is determined by Sector Skills Councils or Standard Setting Bodies in conjunction with employers in their sector. Colleges may also be involved in delivering components of apprenticeship frameworks on behalf of other training providers and employers.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps his Department has taken to publicise the apprenticeship programme for 16 to 18 year-olds in (a) rural areas and (b) Cheshire; and if he will make a statement. [272678]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Local Connexions services and other information, advice and guidance agencies publicise the apprenticeships programme across the whole country, covering both urban and rural areas, including Cheshire. Our new national apprenticeship on-line system for vacancy matching provides access to apprenticeship vacancies for all potential apprentices. The national advertising campaign, fronted by Sir Alan Sugar, ran successfully in February and March, generating over 4,000 employer leads and increasing visitors to the apprenticeships website to 100,000 a week.

The Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill currently before Parliament will place a duty on the Chief Executive of the National apprenticeship Service (NAS) to promote apprenticeships to employers and apprentices, and we would expect rural areas to be covered by this commitment. We are also working with the Commission for Rural Communities to research particular issues around increasing the number of apprenticeship places in rural areas.

The NAS team for Cheshire are working with employers across the county to develop apprenticeship opportunities, and work with Connexions and other agencies to ensure that young people have the information and support they need to access them.

Children: Care Homes

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what factors he took into account in making the recent decision to decommission beds at local authority secure children's homes. [272687]

Beverley Hughes: The secure children's homes contract decisions followed a joint tendering exercise by the Youth Justice Board and the Department for Children Schools and Families. New contracts were offered to nine homes following a detailed evaluation, consisting of an assessment of the quality of the bids received and a financial assessment, based on the submitted prices. The required number of beds in each region, value for money, and overall affordability were factors in the decision-making process.

Education: Finance

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what role (a) local authorities, (b) sub-regional groups of local authorities, (c) Government offices of the regions, (d) regional planning groups, (e) the Young People's Learning Agency, (f) regional development agencies and (g) his Department will have in (i) funding and (ii) commissioning education and training required for 16 to 19-year-olds in (A) schools, (B) academies, (C) sixth-form colleges and (D) further education colleges. [272552]

Jim Knight: Our plans for the roles of these parties in the funding and commissioning process is set out in the "Raising Expectations: enabling the system to deliver (March 2008)" White Paper. Implementation of those plans is subject to the passage of the legislation now before the House.

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which sub-regional groups of local authorities he expects to provide funding for 16 to 19 education from April 2010; and what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the arrangements established by each sub-regional group for such funding. [272625]

Jim Knight: As part of the transfer of responsibilities from the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) to local authorities, the Department asked for proposals for sub-regional groupings by October 2008. Local authorities developed those further and submitted proposals in February 2009 to a national panel, involving the Local Government Association, Association of Directors of Childrens Services, Association of Colleges, Association of Learning Providers, Government Office, LSC and DCSF. A total of 43 proposals have now been considered by the national panel and demonstrate how well local authorities are respondi[illegible]e plans to devolve commissioning for 16-19 provision to them. The sub-regional groupings are intended to plan the commissioning of provision with individual local authorities responsible for the funding. A list of the sub-regional groupings is set out as follows.

The conclusions of the national panel are being considered by Ministers at the moment, although there are a number of themes such as the need to strengthen the involvement of providers in the process. A letter will be issued to each sub-regional grouping in May which will indicate the areas they should continue to develop and what further evidence the Secretary of State will be seeking to ensure their competence to take on this critical role by April 2010.

Sub-regional Group Proposals

Following the National Panel in April 2009, proposals were received from 43 sub-regional groups:

Educational Psychology: Finance

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what consideration he gave to continuing the top-slicing of funding for the training of educational psychologists in the annual revenue support grant; and if he will make a statement; [272607]

(2) what estimate he has made of the funding to be available to local authorities for training educational psychologists in each year from 2009-10 to 2012-13. [272608]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The continued use of top slice of the revenue support grant (RSG) for local authorities, as a means of funding the entry training of educational psychologists (EPs), was one of the options considered by a group of interested parties, including members drawn from the Local Government Association (LGA), EP professional interests and training providers. The LGA, however, decided that it no longer wished to use RSG top slice for that purpose. The effect of this recommendation was that the funds were redistributed to local authorities through the formula grant system administered by the Department for Communities and Local Government.

As formula grant is an un-hypothecated block grant it is not possible to identify amounts within it provided for a particular purpose. The decision as to how much of its budget an individual local authority might wish to earmark to a particular activity, such as support for the training costs of trainee EPs, is a matter for each local authority and not something on which this Department collects information.

The Children's Workforce Development Council (CWDC) is working with interested parties to develop a long-term and sustainable, employer-led funding and entry training scheme for EPs, while administering the current training arrangements. To this end, the CWDC will continue to seek the views and engagement of all key stakeholders through its Educational Psychology National Forum, and to carefully examine options for future funding, while working with local authorities to secure their support for the current subscription scheme.

The CWDC has commissioned a work force development model to help future planning. This will be used to help decide the number of training places needed nationally and regionally for the 2010/11 intake of students.

Further investigation into the role of EPs in the children's work force of the future is also being commissioned to inform planning.

Further Education: Finance

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funds his Department has allocated to (a) further education and (b) sixth form colleges to support capital building projects in (i) 2008-09, (ii) 2009-10 and (iii) 2010-11; and when such funds will become available. [268454]

Jim Knight: The Department has responsibility for the 16-19 capital programmes which fund building projects for additional places for 16 to 19-year-olds in expanded and new school sixth forms and new 16-19 provision in schools and colleges resulting from 16-19 competitions. The 16-19 capital budget is (i) £210 million in 2008-09 (ii) £210 million in 2009-10 and (iii) £240 million in 2010-11.

We have also made £53 million available in 2009-10 and 2010-11 for exemplar 14-19 capital projects in schools and colleges to support delivery of diplomas and will announce the projects to be funded in the next few weeks.

Learning and Skills Council for England: Manpower

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many staff will transfer from the Learning and Skills Council in 2010 to (a) each local authority in England and (b) each regional office of the Young People's Learning Agency. [272553]

Jim Knight: We expect, subject to the passage of the Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill, to transfer some 950 posts to transfer to local authorities from the Learning and Skills Council in April 2010. A further 500 posts will transfer to the Young People's Learning Agency, with approximately 300 posts in the nine English regions. A breakdown of the number of posts by local authority is set out in the following table, together with the regional figures for YPLA. The precise number of staff will be finalised as they are matched to a suitable post in a region.

Pre-School Education: Finance

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the (a) overall cost of introducing the Early Years Foundation Stage and (b) cost of monitoring the 69 learning goals in (i) 2009-10 and (ii) 2010-11. [272554]

Beverley Hughes: The EYFS Framework was launched on 13 March 2007 and became a statutory requirement from September 2008. The cost of developing, designing and printing the original Early Years Foundation Stage statutory guidance pack for providers was £610,000. The cost of the information and communications activity surrounding the launch of the EYFS was £245,000 which included communications to raise awareness, launch events, leaflets to parents, surveys exercises and media activities.

The Department funded Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) training and development in schools through the School's Standard Fund. The level of funding provided was £5 million in 2007-08 and £7.9 million in 2008-09.

EYFS training and development in the private, voluntary and independent sector is funded through the General Sure Start Grant (GSSG). We topped up this funding during 2007-08 with an additional £7 million exclusively for the level 3 certificate in EYFS. At the same time we enabled greater flexibility of the Transformation Fund, which is designed to raise the level of professional qualifications in the early years workforce, to enable further EYFS training for the private, voluntary and independent sector. Because of the way we fund local authorities through these broad grants it is not possible to provide a breakdown of how much was spent specifically on EYFS training per se.

The Department funded QCA a total of £485,000 in 2007-08 and £888,000 in 2008-09 to provide guidance and materials, such as the EYFSP handbook and video exemplifications to support practitioners to monitor each child's achievements against the learning goals in the EYFS profile. This funding also includes the range of activities and support that QCA provides to local authorities, including accredited training and to make sure practitioner judgements are moderated and that the data are secure. We also funded QCA a total of £290,000 in 2008-09 to process and manage applications for exemptions from the EYFS learning and development requirements.

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how much funding has been allocated to the extension of the entitlement to free early education to all two year-olds; [272596]

(2) what estimate he has made of the cost of extending entitlement to free early education to all parents with children of two years of age additional to the funding allocated to the extension of that entitlement to the parents of the 15 per cent. the most disadvantaged two year-olds in each local authority. [272597]

Beverley Hughes: We are extending a pilot, offering free early learning and childcare to 15 per cent. of the most disadvantaged two year olds in every local authority, over the next two years.

Funding has been allocated until March 2011 to support this.

Decisions regarding the pace and scale of further rollout will be taken as part of the next spending review.

Schools: Knives

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many appeals against decisions of schools to (a) temporarily and (b) permanently exclude children for carrying a knife have been upheld in each of the last five years; [272963]

(2) how many successful appeals have been lodged in respect of children (a) temporarily and (b) permanently from schools for violent behaviour in the last five years. [272865]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: There is no process for a parent or pupil to appeal a head teacher's decision on a fixed period exclusion (suspension), aside from a review by the governing body of certain fixed period exclusions. Claims alleging disability discrimination in respect of fixed period exclusions may be made to the First-tier Tribunal (Special Educational Needs and Disability). Information on such claims is not collected by my Department.

Information on the number of appeals against permanent exclusion (expulsion) is collected centrally, but this is not broken down by the reason for exclusion.

Departmental guidance on exclusions clearly sets out the circumstances and procedures that should be followed and the Government's guidance to independent appeals panels emphasises that exclusions should not be overturned without good reason. In 2006/07, 970 appeals were heard by panels, with only 100 pupils reinstated. These figures must be seen in the context of the total number of 8,680 permanent exclusions for that year. It means that just 1.2 per cent. of permanently excluded pupils were reinstated.

Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many mainstream secondary schools were attended by pupils with statements of special educational need in each year since 1997. [271480]

State-funded secondary schools[1]: Number of schools attended by pupils with statements of special educational need[2], as at January each year[3], in England

	All schools	Schools with pupils with statements of SEN
1997	3,584	3,463
1998	3,582	3,486
1999	3,575	3,477
2000	3,565	3,471

2002	3,471	3,371
2003	3,454	3,372
2004	3,435	3,369
2005	3,416	3,360
2006	3,405	3,356
2007	3,399	3,344
2008	3,383	3,322

[1] Includes city technology colleges and academies.
[2] Solely registered pupils only.
[3] From 2002, data may not be comparable with previous years, as collection was changed from school level, to pupil level.
[4] Estimates have been made for January 2001 because the data for SEN are known to be incomplete.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Adult Education

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate his Department has made of the number of adult education courses available in England in each year since 1997. [264845]

Mr. Simon: Information on the number of different courses funded in a given year is not collected. FE colleges and providers are given indicative budgets based on the expected delivery of an overall volume of learning. The actual numbers and types of courses delivered by a college or provider will depend on demand. The Statistical First Release (SFR) "Post-16 Education: Learner Participation, Outcomes and Level of Highest Qualification Held" (March 2009) provides information on the number of LSC-funded learners; the SFR can be found at the following link:

http://www.thedataservice.org.uk/statistics/sfrmar09

Adults learn on different kinds of courses, ranging from unaccredited informal adult learning for personal enjoyment to vocational training courses that lead to recognised qualifications. In 2007/08, there were 3,278,000 adults learners participating in LSC-funded further education (made up of FE colleges including Learn Direct, adult and community learning, work-based learning and Train to Gain).

Adult Education: Finance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills whether building projects that come within the Adult Safeguarded Learning budget are safeguarded until the end of the project; and whether such budgets are within the scope of the review of further education capital funding. [270336]

Mr. Simon: Capital projects that are already underway and funded from within the Learning and Skills Council's (LSC) Adult Safeguarded Learning budget are not subject to change. These projects will proceed and continue to be supported by the LSC as planned, in line with agreed terms and conditions and LSC procedures.

The work that the LSC is undertaking with the sector on prioritisation will not include projects funded through the Adult Safeguarded Learning capital budget.

Apprentices

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent representations he has received on the effects of levels of availability of apprenticeship places on the ability of students to complete courses of study; and if he will make a statement. [265744]

Mr. Simon: Ministers and officials have received a number of representations about the problems training providers have experienced in finding work placements for apprentices to enable them to complete their apprenticeship framework. The construction industry is one sector where problems have been most acute and we have worked with employers, trade unions and sectoral bodies through the construction taskforce to identify measures to help providers, employers and apprentices. Most notably we have, together with ConstructionSkills established a matching service to help those apprentices in the construction sector at risk of redundancy to find alternative employment and to complete their apprenticeship. We are currently working with the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) to explore how this approach might be extended to other sectors.

We are also taking steps to encourage employers to continue to support training and apprenticeships through the £175 billion a year Government spend on procuring goods and services. Government have made a commitment to routinely consider skills issues and promote training opportunities through their procurements. In construction, Departments and Agencies have made a specific commitment to consider the case for including a requirement that a proportion of the project workforce is apprentices when letting new construction contracts. We are looking to build on this approach in other major areas of spend, including IT.

On 17 April, the Department published new guidance, jointly developed with the Office of Government Commerce, to support Departments and agencies in implementing these commitments.

The £140 million package announced by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister in January for an additional 35,000 apprenticeship training places will help fund new provision in both the public and private sectors, and will extend the opportunities available to people facing redundancy. We have also developed some flexibilities to help apprentices who have been made redundant. Redundant apprentices can now continue their training with a provider for up to six months while they and their provider look for an alternative employer. The National Apprenticeship Service has provided revised guidance about access to EMA and hardship funds which is already available. If a redundant apprentice is close to completing their framework and has evidence of the relevant employer experience, we expect providers, Sector Skills Councils and awarding bodies to be considerate to their individual circumstances in order to support them in completing their course of study.

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assessment he has made of the recommendations of the final report of the UK Skills Commission's inquiry into apprenticeships published in March 2009. [271765]

Mr. Simon: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State and the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Schools and Learners have welcomed the Skills Commission report on Apprenticeships at its launch on 18 March 2009.

We welcome this constructive contribution to the development of the Government's Apprenticeship Programme in England, and the emphasis it places on the value of work-based learning. We expect to make a formal response to the recommendations set out in the report in June, which will allow us to take into account the responses to the consultation on the Specification of Apprenticeship Standards for England (SASE).

Apprentices: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what funding his Department is providing for apprenticeships in Coventry in 2009-10. [272029]

Mr. Simon: Funding for 2009/10 has not yet been allocated to training providers and financial information of this type is not available at constituency level.

Since 2001 we have invested £6.4 billion in the apprenticeship programme and we will continue to build on this investment. We are increasing funding for apprenticeships in England in 2009-10 to over £1 billion. In January my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister announced a £140 million package to provide 35,000 extra apprenticeship places in the coming year.

Apprentices: Energy

Mr. Donohoe: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent steps his Department has taken to provide apprenticeships in the energy sector. [270833]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 24 April 2009]: The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills and the Department for Children Schools and Families currently fund apprenticeships in a number of energy related occupations in the gas, electricity and nuclear industries in England. In 2007-08 900 young people started an apprenticeship in the energy sector. We are taking a wide range of steps to encourage more employers to offer high quality places in all sectors of the economy. We also believe apprenticeships can play a key role in our response to the current economic downturn. Earlier in the year my right hon. friend the Prime Minister announced a £140 million package to provide an extra 35,000 apprenticeship places over the coming year in both the public and private sectors to help strengthen the country's competitiveness.

In January the new online apprenticeship vacancy matching service for employers and potential apprentices went live. The first chief executive of the new National Apprenticeship Service took up post in February and the National Apprenticeship Service was fully functional from 1 April 2009 with a remit to expand apprenticeships and provide a single point of contact for employers and apprentices. To raise awareness and encourage more employers to take on or offer more apprenticeships a national advertising campaign fronted by Sir Alan Sugar ran in February and March.

Our New Opportunities White Paper published in January announced the Government's commitment to extend group training associations; ensure all apprentices have clear progression routes; and commits to work towards an entitlement to an apprenticeship for all young people leaving care. Looking to the future, we have set ambitious targets for the growth of the Apprenticeships programme. Apprenticeships provisions are being taken forward as part of the Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning Bill, including provisions to ensure that an apprenticeship place is available for all suitably qualified young people by 2013.

Apprentices: Expenditure

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much has been spent on apprenticeships for 16 to 18 year olds in (a) Cheshire and (b) England in the last 12 months. [272617]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I have been asked to reply.

For apprenticeships for 16 to 18-year-olds in 2008-09, £12.4 million has been allocated to training providers contracted to the LSC in the Cheshire and Warrington area. In 2007-08, the latest financial year for which spend information is available, £637 million was spent on apprenticeships for young people in England. Total funding for apprenticeships in England is planned to increase to over £1 billion in 2009-10. Earlier in the year my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister announced a £140 million package to provide 35,000 extra apprenticeship places in the coming year.

Basic Skills: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what funding his Department is providing for adults' skills development in Coventry in 2009-10. [272031]

Mr. Simon: The Department does not hold this 2009-10 budget allocation at a regional or local level. The LSC makes decisions about allocations of funding to specific areas based on strategic discussions with FE Colleges and providers, partners and other organisations. This ensures that the needs of the local communities are met and that the activity delivered supports key priorities and targets. Geoffrey Russell, the Council's Acting Chief Executive, will write to the hon. Friend with further information. A copy of his reply will be placed in the House Libraries.

Building Colleges for the Future Programme

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills on what date he received a copy of the report commissioned by the Learning and Skills Council's Director of Property and Infrastructure on capital budgets in the further education sector which was published on 11 February 2008. [269963]

Mr. Simon: The report commissioned by the Learning and Skills Council's (LSC) Director of Property and Infrastructure on capital budgets in the further education sector was an LSC internal report.

The report was not published and was not seen by the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many projects delayed by the Learning and Skills Council's moratorium on capital spending for further education colleges he expects to be re-tendered as the original tender will have become invalid. [270787]

Mr. Simon: Capital funding for further education colleges is administered by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). As the information requested pertains to records held by the council, I have asked Geoffrey Russell, the acting LSC Chief Executive, to write to the hon. Member with the further information requested. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Libraries.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many of capital projects in further education colleges were at the time of the announcement of the Learning and Skills Council's moratorium on capital spending for further education colleges were at post-tender stage with a selected contractor; and what assessment has been made of the merits of allowing projects which had reached this stage of development to proceed notwithstanding the moratorium. [270788]

Mr. Simon: Budget 2009 announced that an additional £300 million of capital funding will be made available in the current spending review period. This will allow us to take forward a limited number of the most urgent and greatest need projects during this spending review, although the precise number will depend on the projects chosen. In order to determine which projects will be funded, the LSC are consulting with the sector on prioritisation criteria and they have established a reference panel of college principals convened by the Association of College to inform the approach for prioritising schemes.

As the information requested for the first part of your question, regarding college projects at the post-tender stage, pertains to records held by the Council, I have asked Geoffrey Russell, the acting Learning and Skills Council (LSC) Chief Executive, to write to the hon. Member with the further information requested. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Libraries.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of the costs incurred by those colleges bidding for contracts which have been affected by delays caused by the Learning and Skills Council's moratorium on capital spending for further education colleges. [270789]

Mr. Simon: We recognise that some colleges have incurred significant costs particularly, but not exclusively, where the project is at an advanced stage of development.

The Learning and Skills Council's (LSC) new acting Chief Executive, Geoff Russell, has appointed an external team to review the current financial data held by the LSC, as well as a team of property specialists to assist the LSC to ensure information held about individual projects is accurate, comprehensive and a sound basis for taking future decisions. The LSC will work with each college, with the help of independent property consultants, to assess how the longer term value of expenditures that can be incurred, as well as to understand the nature and extent of any liabilities.

Through its normal financial intervention process, the LSC will ensure that no college is unable to meets its financial obligations as a result of decisions on capital projects. Once this work by the property specialists has been completed, and there is a full analysis of the costs incurred, then the contribution that can be made to such costs from the LSC will be confirmed. The LSC plan to be able to confirm this to colleges at the beginning of June.

Departmental Billing

John Mason: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what percentage of its suppliers his Department has paid within 10 days of receipt of invoice in each of the last five months. [272253]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 30 April 2009]: The percentage of invoices from suppliers settled by the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills within 10 days of receipt, in the last five months, is shown in the following table:

	Percentage
November 2008	90
December 2008	96
January 2009	91
February 2009	96
March 2009	95

Departmental NDPBs

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when he expects the outcomes of his Department's review of its relationship with its non-departmental public bodies to be published; and if he will make a statement. [269960]

Mr. Simon: Following the Foster report on the LSC capital programme, the Secretary of State has asked the Permanent Secretary to carry out a review of the Department's relationships with its non departmental public bodies. The aim of the review is to ensure that there is clarity about accountability and responsibility in these relationships. I expect the Permanent Secretary to complete his work by the end of May. The Secretary of State will then consider appropriate next steps.

Learning and Skills Council

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills who the members of the Learning and Skills Council's Prioritisation Working Group are; and if he will make a statement. [269956]

Mr. Simon: The Learning and Skills Council's Prioritisation Working Group was a group that the LSC established in spring 2008, with the specific task of considering how capital projects might be prioritised at regional and national level. As this is a group established by the LSC, I have asked Geoffrey Russell, the acting chief executive of the LSC, to write to the hon. Member with the information he has requested.

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which of his Department's officials (a) are members of and (b) observers on (i) the Prioritisation Working Group, (ii) the Capital Policy Group and (iii) the Finance and Resource Board; and if he will make a statement. [269964]

Mr. Simon: The Prioritisation Working Group was a Learning and Skills Council (LSC) group, established in spring 2008 with the specific task of considering how capital projects might be prioritised at regional and national level. The Department was not represented on this group when it was first formed. However, the group was re-established in autumn 2008 and officials from the Department were invited as observers to this group. This invitation has been taken up by a number of officials.

The Capital Policy Group was an LSC working group on developing FE capital policy. The Team Leader of the Further Education Infrastructure Team, from the Department, was an observer on this group.

The Department has observer status on the Learning and Skills Council's Finance and Resources Board. Usually represented by the Deputy Director in the Further Education Finance and Performance Division.

North Devon College

Mr. Cox: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent assessment he has made of progress in the construction projects at North Devon College. [271122]

Mr. Simon: Capital funding for further education colleges is administered by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). As the information requested is with regard to an operational matter for the council, I have asked Geoffrey Russell, the acting LSC chief executive, to write to the hon. Member with the further information requested. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Libraries.

Overseas Students: Assessments

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many students were awarded qualifications by further education colleges not on the UK Border Agency's accreditation list in (a) 2006, (b) 2007 and (c) 2008. [269743]

Mr. Simon: The UK Border Agency's accreditation list lists all organisations that have been approved by the UK Border Agency to employ migrants or sponsor students. On 31 March 2009, the register of sponsors replaced the Register of Education and Training Providers maintained by the Department for Education and Skills and then the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills.

The Department for Children, Schools and Families do collect and publish information on the achievement of accredited qualifications, including those delivered by both approved and non-approved FE colleges. However, coverage and identification of the delivery of these qualifications is not robust enough to derive reliable statistics.

Research

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what the new research priorities referred to in Table 6.1 of the Budget 2009 Red Book are; and what steps his Department (a) has taken and (b) plans to take to consult the research community on the identification of these priorities. [272093]

Mr. Lammy: The priorities referred to in Table 6.1 of the Budget 2009 Red Book relate to the spending of £118 million of efficiency savings that the Research Councils achieved in 2008-09. In accordance with the Haldane Principle, detailed priorities are for the Research Councils, rather than DIUS, to decide. The research priorities for each Research Council can be found in their individual delivery plans.

Research Councils

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when he expects the research councils to publish their plans for refocusing research priorities; and whether he plans to reduce commitments to existing research programmes to fund new priorities. [272092]

Mr. Lammy: The Research Councils are currently in the process of assessing how their spending on research might be focused to give the best value from our investment. The details of this process, including the timetable of any publications, are for the Research Councils to decide.

Research Councils: Finance

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) what instructions his Department has issued to the research councils on identifying the value-for-money savings identified in the 2009 Budget; [272096]

(2) how the value-for-money savings identified in the 2009 Budget will be shared between the research councils; and from which areas of their budgets he expects the research councils to make savings. [272094]

Mr. Lammy: The Department has given no instructions to the Research Councils. The Research Councils have told us that they have revised their plans for value-for-money efficiencies for CSR07 which has resulted in the collective target for 2010/11 increasing from £243 million to £349 million.

The details of how these targets will be achieved are a matter for the Research Councils and the outcomes will be reported in the normal manner in the departmental annual report.

Training: Veterinary Medicine

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much funding was made available to local learning and skills councils for the provision of veterinary nurse training in each of the last five years. [272895]

Mr. Simon: Funding for specific learning aims is administered by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). As the information requested is with regard to an operational matter for the Council, I have asked Geoffrey Russell, the acting LSC chief executive, to write to the hon. Member with the further information requested. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Libraries.

Vocational Training

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills for what reasons the Statistical First Release on further education, DS/SFR1, published in December 2008, does not include figures for the number of learners on Learning and Skills Council funded work-based learning and Train to Gain provision at the end of each quarter by programme. [263890]

Mr. Simon: The number of learners was previously provided alongside starts and completions. This can present a misleading picture because the figures cannot be immediately related to each other in the same year. This is particularly true where the number of starts changes significantly because there is a time lag before completions increase as seen in Train to Gain over the last few years. Therefore the Statistical First Release (SFR), DS/SFR1, published in December 2008, focuses on the most instructive and transparent measures of starts and completion rates. Starts provide insight on growth in the programme and completion rates demonstrate the quality of delivery in the system.

The December SFR was the first step in addressing the findings of the review of "Post-16 Learner Statistical First Releases". It is planned that the SFR will develop over the coming year by integrating a range of sources into one main quarterly release and adopting more robust and sustainable approaches to the presentation of data.

This was the first SFR to be produced by the 'Data Service', a new arms length organisation of the LSC, being setup to focus on improving and evolving data services for the FE sector. With its statistical resource now fully operational, the onward development of the SFRs is expected to gather pace along with improved availability of other data. As part of this process statisticians will be reviewing the content and are considering providing a quarterly series of starts for these programmes in future SFRs.

CHURCH COMMISSIONERS

Church of England: Land

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners if the Commissioners will make it their policy to increase the amount of agricultural and horticultural produce grown on land owned by the Church Commissioners. [272949]

Sir Stuart Bell: All the Church Commissioners' agricultural land is let and their tenants have freedom of cropping.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

1 Carlton Gardens

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs when 1 Carlton Gardens ceased to be used as a ministerial residence. [271278]

Gillian Merron: 1 Carlton Gardens ceased being a ministerial residence on 16 October 2007.

British Indian Ocean Territory

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many visits to the outer Chagos Islands by members of the Chagossian community sponsored by his Department are planned in the next 12 months; and what estimate he has made of the cost per person to the public purse of each trip. [273268]

Gillian Merron: The British Indian Ocean Territory Administration (BIOTA) hopes to arrange two visits by Chagossians to the territory in the next 12 months. It is hoped that one of these visits will be to repair Chagossian graves in BIOT. Funding has not yet been secured but based on the cost of two similar visits in 2008, which together included 14 people, BIOTA estimate that this will amount to around £60,000.

British Overseas Territories: Crime

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many cases of white collar crime have been recorded on (a) Anguilla, (b) Bermuda and (c) the Cayman Islands in each of the last five years. [272622]

Gillian Merron: The information requested by the hon. Member is not held by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, but by the authorities in each overseas territory.

British Overseas Territories: Crime Prevention

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much money the Overseas Territories Regional Crime Intelligence System has cost in each year since its establishment. [272620]

Gillian Merron: Since its establishment in 1996, the total costs of the Overseas Territories Regional Crime Intelligence System were:

	Total costs (£)
1996	197,517
1997	12,662
1998	12,662
1999	37,162
2000	70,687
2001	157,811
2002	28,755
2003	28,755
2004	28,755
2005	28,755
2006	28,755
2008	236,273

The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) paid for initial set-up costs in 1996 and for maintenance and support costs until 2003. The FCO also paid for licence upgrades and new servers in 2001 and 2008. From 2004 to 2007, the overseas territories paid for maintenance and support costs of £28,755 per annum. In 2008, they contributed £33,492. The total costs in 2008 paid for the system to be upgraded and maintained.

British Overseas Territories: Security

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what steps have been taken by his Department to ensure acceptable standards of maritime and aviation security in the UK Overseas Territories. [272599]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I have been asked to reply.

The Department for Transport is responsible for aviation security in the UK and has a Regional Aviation and Maritime Security Adviser (RAMSA) to provide a dedicated guidance and support service to Governors, Directors of Civil Aviation (DCAs) and Port Facility Security Officers on aviation and maritime security issues in the Caribbean Overseas Territories (OTs) and Bermuda. This is supported by compliance inspection undertaken by teams drawn from the OTs with oversight maintained by TRANSEC, the Department's Transport Security and Contingencies Directorate. TRANSEC's London-based staff fulfil the same role directly in the other OTs.

British Overseas Territories: Tax Havens

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make an assessment of the progress of UK Overseas Territories towards the signing of the tax-sharing agreements discussed at the G20 summit. [272628]

Gillian Merron: We welcome the progress made by Bermuda, the Cayman Islands, the British Virgin Islands and Gibraltar in signing or agreeing to sign in the near future Tax Information Exchange Agreements (TIEA) that count towards meeting the international standard.

Bermuda and the British Virgin Islands should reach the internationally agreed standard by the end of May 2009. The Cayman Islands have introduced domestic legislation to allow tax information to be shared with other jurisdictions and currently have 12 jurisdictions, in addition to eight bilateral agreements, included in this approach. An Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development meeting in May will determine whether unilaterally listing countries with whom they are prepared to exchange tax agreements, in conjunction with appropriate information gathering powers, can count towards their TIEA number.

Gibraltar has invited a number of states to sign TIEAs and negotiations are progressing well.

We are in discussion with the smaller jurisdictions (Anguilla, Montserrat and the Turks and Caicos Islands) to find the best approach to allow them to meet the agreed standard as quickly as possible.

British Overseas Territories: Tourism

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what percentage of (a) St. Helena's and (b) Bermuda's gross domestic product was generated by the tourism sector in each year since 2005. [272619]

Gillian Merron: Percentage of gross domestic product (GDP) generated from Tourism in St. Helena:

	Percentage
2004-05	3
2005-06	3

Percentage of GDP generated by tourism (hotels and restaurants) in Bermuda:

	Percentage
2005	5.5
2006	5.8
2007	5.5

Central Africa: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his policy is on the proposed United Nations mission in the Central African Republic and Chad peace conference on Eastern Chad; and if he will make a statement. [271594]

Gillian Merron: We are not aware of any current plans for the United Nations mission in the Central African Republic and Chad to hold a peace conference on Eastern Chad.

Colombia

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on what dates (a) Ministers and (b) officials from his Department met representatives of the Colombian Government during 2008. [270945]

Gillian Merron: Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) Ministers had meetings or discussions with representatives of the Colombian Government, including President Uribe, Vice President Santos, Foreign Minister Bermudez and Defence Minister Santos on the following dates in 2008:

20 February
6 March
11 March
16 May
21 May
9 October
16 October
5 November
19 November

In addition, FCO ministers are in regular contact with the Colombian ambassador to the UK.

Sir Peter Ricketts, Permanent Under Secretary of State for the FCO, visited Colombia 17-18 December 2008, during which he met several representatives of the Colombian Government including Foreign Minister Bermudez and Defence Minister Santos.

Other FCO officials, including in Bogota, London and in multilateral Posts, hold regular meetings with Colombian Government officials as part of their regular official duties. As this information is not held centrally, it would not be possible to provide a comprehensive list of such meetings without incurring disproportionate cost.

Democratic Republic of Congo: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Stroud of 2 March 2009, Official Report, column 1235W, on the Democratic Republic of Congo: peacekeeping operations, what the proposed UK support to the UN Mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo (MONUC) will consist of; and what progress has been made on the secondment of the small number of appropriately skilled individuals from the UK to fill vacant posts on the MONUC staff. [271646]

Gillian Merron: In addition to the five British personnel currently seconded to UN Mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) (MONUC), the UN Secretariat announced on 9 April 2009 that our candidate for the position of Deputy Force Commander slot had been accepted. He is scheduled to take up his post in May 2009, by which time the total number of UK personnel in the mission will be seven. The UK pays 7.8 per cent. of the total cost of MONUC. In addition, the UK, through the Africa Conflict Prevention Pool, has allocated £2.5 million for conflict prevention work in DRC this financial year.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer to the right hon. Member for Richmond, Yorks (Mr. Hague) of 11 February 2009, Official Report, column 1999W, on the Democratic Republic of Congo: peacekeeping operations; what progress has been made on securing (a) the second authorised infantry battalion, (b) two special forces companies and (c) a second formed police unit for the UN Mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo; and what discussions he has had with potential contributors. [271667]

Gillian Merron: The UN Secretariat has secured the additional infantry and special forces capabilities from Bangladesh, Jordan and Egypt and is in discussions with potential contributors to provide the second formed police unit. These additional personnel are scheduled for deployment in July. The UK has led calls for the reinforcement of the UN peacekeeping mission in the Democratic Republic of Congo (MONUC) and lobbied troop contributing countries.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many officials in his Department are suspended; how many are suspended on full pay; for how long each has been suspended; and what the reasons are for each such suspension. [270519]

Gillian Merron: There are members of staff currently suspended. We are unable to provide any details in order to protect their identities and on grounds of confidentiality.

Departmental Finance

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to page 131 of the 2009 Budget Red Book, what his Department's definition is of back office activity; and what the cost to his Department of such activity was in 2008-09. [271452]

David Miliband: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) works to the set of departmental strategic objectives (DSOs) and management and support activities. Work on DSOs one to eight is known as "front-line" activity. Management and support work is known as "back office" activity.

FCO resource accounts for the financial year 2008-09 are currently in preparation and costs are not yet available. The latest full year for which costs are available is 2007-08. At that time, the DSOs were known as strategic priorities (SPs).

Expenditure on management and support (including spend on information technology, procurement and maintenance among other items, but excluding programme spend) for 2007-08 was £360 million.

Some of that management and support activity was carried out for other Government Department staff, their share of which was recovered by the FCO.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to page 131 of the 2009 Budget Red Book, what the (a) UK mission, (b) current grade and (c) planned grade is of each post which will be downgraded as part of achieving the £6.6 million of savings; in which year each downgrading will take place; and what the reasons are for each downgrading. [271455]

David Miliband: The following downgrades of positions, completed or planned, will contribute to the £6.6 million of savings forecast by the Europe Zero Based Review (ZBR) efficiency programme:

Year of downgrade	Post	Current grade	Proposed grade
2009-10	Berne	C3	C4
2010-11	Brussels	SMS1	D7
2008-09	Gibraltar	C4	B3
2008-09	Istanbul	D6	C4
2008-09	Kyiv	SMS1	D7
2007-08	Lisbon	SMS2	SMS1
2008-09	Nicosia	SMS1	D7
2007-08	Rome	LE11	LE111
2009-10	Rome	LE11	LE111
2009-10	Vienna	SMS1	D7
2009-10	Warsaw	LE11	LE111

All these downgrades were undertaken to ensure that missions in the Europe Network were appropriately staffed to meet changing priorities and more efficient ways of working driven by the Europe Zero Based Review efficiency programme.

Departmental Recruitment

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs for what reason the European Fast Stream is not available as a Graduate Fast Stream option. [270836]

Mr. Watson: I have been asked to reply.

The European Fast Stream (EFS) has been suspended since 2007. This is because for several years there were no major concours being run by the EU institutions which were open to UK candidates. There was therefore no demand from Government Departments for Cabinet Office to supply them with European Fast Streamers through the Graduate Fast Stream (GFS) scheme. Cabinet Office, in conjunction with other interested Government Departments, is currently considering whether a revised version of the EFS should be reintroduced for 2010.

Ethiopia: Politics and Government

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make representations to the government of Ethiopia on the (a) welfare of the leader of the Union for Democracy and Justice and (b) the conduct of elections in 2010 in Ethiopia; and if he will make a statement. [271761]

Gillian Merron: My noble Friend the Minister for Africa, Asia and the UN, Lord Malloch-Brown, raised both issues with the Ethiopian Prime Minister Meles Zenawi in February 2009 pointing out the potential damage to Ethiopia's international image that both issues could cause. Our ambassador to Ethiopia also raises these issues with both the Ethiopian Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Seyoum Mesfin on a regular basis.

Officials from our embassy in Addis Ababa attended the trial of Birtukan Mideksa, leader of the Union for Democracy and Justice political party, in April 2009. We will continue to urge the Ethiopian Government to resolve this issue quickly.

We regularly raise our concerns about the perceived closing of political space in Ethiopia and the potential impact this might have on the 2010 elections. In support of efforts to promote democracy, the UK and other donors are helping to build the capacity of the National Election Board of Ethiopia. We are also committed to continue to work with the Ethiopian Government, opposition and civil society to promote free and fair elections.

Iran: Sanctions

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions since 27 December 2006 the UN Sanctions Committee established pursuant to UN Security Council Resolution 1737 has recommended ways to strengthen the effectiveness of sanctions imposed on Iran by the resolution; and what the outcome was of the recommendation in each instance. [270987]

David Miliband: The UN Sanctions Committee for UN Security Council Resolution (UNSCR) 1737 (2006) has reported to the UN Security Council at least every 90 days on its work, as required by UNSCR 1737. The reports comment on the implementation of the Resolution and recommend ways to strengthen the effectiveness of the sanctions measures. The Committee has submitted nine reports since 27 December 2006. Full details of the UN Sanctions Committee reports are publicly available at:

http://www.un.org/sc/committees/1737/sclreshcs.shtml

The UN Security Council considers all recommendations made by the Committee. Recommendations that have been implemented include the creation of a model text to assist member states in drafting their reports to the Committee, and making the consolidated lists of individuals and entities subjects to assets freezes and travel bans more user-friendly.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his policy is on a UN prohibition on the export of arms and related material to Iran; and if he will make a statement. [270994]

David Miliband: The Government fully support UN Security Council Resolution 1747, paragraph six of which calls upon all states to exercise vigilance and restraint in the supply, sale or transfer of a variety of arms and related material to Iran. We urge all states to comply with the resolution.

A UN prohibition on the export of arms and related materiel to Iran may be required in due course, however, as I said in the House on 31 March 2009, Official Report, column 769, now is not the time to rush for more UN sanctions. Instead, now is the time to back American outreach, which is a once-in-a-generation opportunity both for us and for the Iranians. If the Iranians do not respond in a positive way, we can then ensure that further steps are taken.

Israel: Arms Trade

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer by Lord Davies of Oldham of 13 March 2009, Official Report, House of Lords, WA288, on Israel, what the remit of his Department's assessment of arms exports is; and when he expects the assessment to be complete. [267844]

David Miliband: I refer the right hon. Member to the written ministerial statement I made on 21 April 2009, Official Report, column 8WS.

Somalia: Piracy

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Daventry of 18 March 2009, Official Report, column 1187W, on piracy, what the outcome was of the 5 March 2009 meeting of experts from the International Contact Group on Somalia; and whether the International Contact Group has issued guidance on the arrest and transfer of persons suspected of committing acts of piracy. [271041]

David Miliband: The chairman's summary of Contact Group Working Group 2 can be found online at http://www.africa-union.org/root/au/Conferences/2009/mars/PSC/16MARSBIS/CGPCS_WG%202.pdf

The role of the Working Group is to provide advice to the governments of member states, the Contact Group countries and to the participating organisations, not itself to issue guidance. The Working Group discussed national legislation, the exercise of jurisdiction, arrangements between states, capacity building and potential future work areas for the Group. The Contact Group meeting in Cairo on 17 March 2009 recognised the need for the Working Group to continue its work. The Contact Group also agreed to task the Working Group to set the legal framework for a possible International Trust Fund to help defray the expenses associated with prosecution of suspected pirates as well as to support the costs of other activities related to implementing contact group objectives regarding combating piracy in all its aspects.

Sudan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of the effect on the political situation in Darfur of restrictions on movement of the joint UN-AU force for Darfur imposed by the government of Sudan since the beginning of 2009; and what discussions he has had with the government of Sudan on those restrictions. [271537]

Gillian Merron: Intermittent restrictions on UN-African Union hybrid mission in Darfur (UNAMID)'s movement continue to be imposed by the Government of Sudan. This has a negative impact on the ability of the UN-African Union force to provide protection for civilians and monitor the humanitarian and security situation. However, despite the challenges, UNAMID continues to expand its operations. During the upsurge in conflict around Muhajeriya in January and February 2009, UNAMID successfully resisted requests from the Government of Sudan that they should withdraw.

My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary called on the Sudanese Government to facilitate UNAMID deployment in his statement of 4 March 2009. The statement may be found on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office website:

www.fco.gov.uk/en/newsroom

We have also raised our concerns in other appropriate forums. The Foreign Secretary has not, however, discussed this issue directly with the Sudanese Government since the beginning of the year.

Uganda: Politics and Government

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the treason (a) charge and (b) trial of Dr. Kizza Besigye in Uganda; and if he will make a statement. [271762]

Gillian Merron: Dr. Kizza Besigye remains on bail and his trial on hold pending the outcome of a petition to the Constitutional Court, for which a date has not been set. We continue to be in close contact with Dr. Besigye's lawyer and carefully follow developments in the case.

In the course of our regular dialogue with the Government of Uganda, we continue to press them on all aspects of good governance and the rule of law.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received on the February 2009 Annual Conference of the Forum for Democratic Change in Uganda; and if he will make a statement. [271763]

Gillian Merron: The Forum for Democratic Change (FDC) held its second national delegates conference in February 2009, during which its members elected key party officials. This included the re-election of Dr. Kizza Besigye as FDC President. I welcome the Conference and the transparent contest for the FDC presidency and other party offices as a positive contribution to the strengthening of multiparty democracy in Uganda.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs with reference to the answer of 20 October 2008, Official Report, column 99W, on Uganda: politics and government, what reports he has received on the trial of Lieutenant Ramathan Magara of the Uganda Army following the shooting of three people at Dr. Kizza Besigye's election rally in February 2006; and if he will make a statement. [271764]

Gillian Merron: We have received no further reporting on the trial of Lieutenant Ramathan Magara of the Ugandan Army since October 2008, but understand his case is still pending.

The responsibility for investigating incidents such as this lies with the local authorities. However, we continue to regularly raise with the Ugandan Government the importance of good governance, the rule of law, engaging with the opposition and building towards the next elections in 2011.

UN World Conference against Racism

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will make it his policy to support removal of a reference to foreign occupation in the draft text of the UN Durban 2 anti-racism conference; what recent discussions he has had with the government of Israel on this matter; and if he will make a statement. [270594]

Gillian Merron: The UK supported the removal of the reference to foreign occupation in the outcome document of the Durban review conference. This did not, however, achieve consensus, as the reference was generic and did not apply to any specific state or region.

The Government did not discuss this issue with the Government of Israel.

A written ministerial statement on the Durban review conference was laid before the House on 28 April 2009, Official Report, column 41WS.

TREASURY

Child Benefit

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of the amount and proportion of child benefit paid to families earning more than (a) £100,000 and (b) £150,000 per annum in the last year for which figures are available; and if he will make a statement. [272738]

Mr. Timms: The Family Resources survey produces unreliable estimates for households with high incomes. An accurate estimate could therefore only be provided at disproportionate cost.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Winnick: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall North of 16 March 2009 concerning a constituent reference PO3/09295/2009. [272947]

Mr. Timms: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letters from the hon. Member for the Forest of Dean of 13 March and 26 March 2009 on Equitable Life, reference LT2480. [273102]

Ian Pearson: A reply should be provided shortly. I apologise for the delay.

Public Expenditure: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect of the 2009 Budget on learners resident in Coventry. [272950]

Yvette Cooper: The Government announced a number of measures in the Budget to increase the opportunities for learners, and ensure the country has the skills for the future.

Budget 2009 announced that the September Guarantee of a place in education and training to every 16 and 17 year-old who wants one will be met in full. There will be additional investment of £251 million in 2009-10 and £404 million in 2010-11. This will cover an extra 54,500 student places in the next academic year.

Financial allocations will shortly be made to all schools and colleges—including those in Coventry—through the Learning and Skills Council.

And to support the long-term unemployed, Budget 2009 also guaranteed that every young person between 18 and 24 who has been claiming JSA for 12 months will be offered a job, work placement, or work-related skills training for at least six months. In total Budget 2009 allocated over £260 million to support additional training places, training allowances, and recruitment subsidies, to support young people to learn skills or gain experience in sectors where there will be strong future demand.

In addition to the £260 million, Budget 2009 also announced extra funding for Care First to offer 50,000 traineeships for young people in the care sector. Social care providers will receive a subsidy for offering sustained employment and training to young people who have been out of work for 12 months. This will give them the skills and experience they need for a career in this growing sector.

Public Expenditure: Northern Ireland

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much was (a) spent from the public purse and (b) raised for the Exchequer from Northern Ireland in the latest year for which information is available. [272489]

Yvette Cooper: Public expenditure in Northern Ireland was £17.2 billion in 2007-08 as set out in table 9.1 of the Public Expenditure Statistical Analyses 2008 (HC489). However, we do not hold regional and country breakdowns for the aggregate amount of taxation raised for the Exchequer. The latest figures on tax raised in the UK as a whole can be found in the 2009 Budget Report (HC 407).

Public Works Loan Board

Mr. Hands: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much each local authority borrowed from the Public Works Loan Board at (a) fixed and (b) variable rates in each of the last five years. [265857]

Angela Eagle: I have deposited a table showing this information in the House of Commons Library.

Small Businesses

Mr. Amess: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made in each month since June 2008 of the likely effects on small businesses as a result of the downturn in the economy; what assistance he plans to give during the next 12 months to small businesses; what representations he has received on this issue; from whom; what response he gave; and if he will make a statement. [247992]

Ian Pearson: BERR makes use of official statistics produced by ONS on a range of economic indicators, and findings from a large number of regular surveys of business confidence and trading conditions conducted by business representative bodies (for example, the quarterly CBI Industrial Trends Survey). In addition, figures published by the British Banking Association enable trends in net lending to small businesses to be monitored each month. In addition, the Department receives lending data on a monthly basis. BERR also periodically conducts surveys of business which examine a wide range of issues of concern to business. These are published on the BERR website at http://www.berr.gov.uk/publications/reports/index.html.

On 12 January the Secretary of State for Business and Enterprise announced a package of measures to address the cash flow, credit and capital needs of businesses. This is an important element of wider Real Help for Business that provides targeted Government support to businesses. Further specific support was announced on 27 January aimed at freeing up lending of more than £2 billion for the automotive industry. Information about these measures is available through Business Link at www.businesslink.gov.uk/realhelp

BERR is engaging with SME business representative bodies and UK banks about the issues affecting business during current economic difficulties, specifically through regular meetings of Small Business and Small Business Finance Forum.

Stamp Duty Land Tax

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much stamp duty was paid on average by purchasers of (a) a Right to Buy purchase council house, (b) a Right to Acquire purchase, (c) a Social HomeBuy purchase of the full equity and (d) a First Time Buyer Initiative purchase in the most recent period for which figures are available. [272418]

Ian Pearson: Information on the average amount of stamp duty land tax paid by purchases under these schemes is not available.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate has been made of the number of first-time homebuyers who paid stamp duty land tax in each year since 1997. [273348]

Ian Pearson: The information is not available.

Tax Yields

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much taxation was raised in (a) England, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales and (d) Northern Ireland in each of the last five years. [272490]

Yvette Cooper: The latest estimates of current receipts for the UK are published in table C6 of the Financial Statement and Budget Report (HC 407). We do not hold information on the aggregate amount of taxation raised in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland.

Taxation

Mr. Brady: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what information his Department holds on the top rates of (a) income tax and (b) social taxes in OECD economies. [273103]

Angela Eagle: The main source of information for international comparisons of income tax and social security contributions in OECD economies are publications produced annually by the Centre for Tax Policy and Administration (CTPA) of the OECD in particular the 'OECD Tax Database' and the 'OECD Taxing Wages'.

The OECD Tax Database is available on the OECD website at:

http://www.oecd.org/ctp/taxdatabase

The OECD Taxing Wages publication is available at:

http://www.oecd.org/ctp/taxingwages

Taxation: Construction

Jeff Ennis: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his estimate is of the average time taken by HM Revenue and Customs to (a) register small and medium-sized enterprises in the construction industry and (b) issue a unique taxpayer reference number. [272314]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs currently register the vast majority of Construction Industry scheme applications for individuals within six to seven working days. The unique taxpayer reference number is then dispatched to individuals via an automated process within the next seven working days.

Trade Unions

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Castle Point of 23 June 2009, Official Report, column 129W, on trade unions, what office facilities are provided for the exclusive use of each of the recognised trade union in (a) his Department, (b) the Crown Estate, (c) HM Revenue and Customs and (d) the Valuation Office Agency; and what the notional monetary value of such provision is. [272392]

Angela Eagle: The information requested is in the following table:

Department HM Treasury	Facilities
HM Treasury	Office provided exclusively for the use of recognised trade union staff
HMRC	No central record of exclusive office use held
VOA	No exclusive use of office facilities provided

No information is available on notional annual value.

The Crown Estate is not an Agency of the Treasury.

Valuation Office: Conferences

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1629W, on the Valuation Office: overseas visits, if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation and handouts presented by the representative of the Valuation Office Agency at the Australian Valuer General, Registrar General and Surveyor General's Conference in Adelaide. [272387]

Mr. Timms: A copy of the presentation, made by a representative of the Valuation Office Agency, is available to view online at the Government of Australia Department for Transport, Energy and Infrastructure website at http://lac2008.landservices.sa.gov.au/Industry_Day/2Presentations.asp#tretton

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1629W, on the Valuation Office: overseas visits, if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation and handouts presented by the representative of the Valuation Office Agency at the Mass Appraisal Valuation Symposium in Toronto. [272388]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst (Robert Neill) on 12 November 2008, Official Report, column 1261W.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation and handouts on (a) practical problems in the valuation of non-residential properties and (b) steps for a successful revaluation presented by the representative of the Valuation Office Agency at the International Property Tax Institute in Pretoria in March 2009. [272389]

Mr. Timms: A copy of the presentation will be placed in the Library.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1629W, on the Valuation Office: overseas visits, what seminars officials of the Valuation Office Agency attended during the visit to the Gartner's Symposium/ITxpo in Cannes. [272472]

Angela Eagle: One person visited Cannes to attend the Gartner's Symposium/IT (xpo). Attendance at Symposiums and conferences provides benefit to both the Agency and the individual, particularly in terms of keeping them abreast of developments and innovation in IT.

The seminars attended were:

Jump Start 2009; Mobilising People Process and Technology

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation and handouts presented by the representative of the Valuation Office Agency at the European Valuation Standards 2009 conference held in Warsaw on 1 April 2009. [272493]

Mr. Timms: A copy of the presentation and handouts will be placed in the Library.

PRIME MINISTER

10 Downing Street: Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Prime Minister (1) whether 10 Downing Street is equipped with an air conditioning system with an output greater than 250kW; and whether the air conditioning system in 10 Downing Street has been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007; [272115]

(2) how much has been spent on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within 10 Downing Street in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force. [272119]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him by my hon. Friend the Parliamentary Secretary for the Cabinet Office (Kevin Brennan) on 30 April 2009, Official Report, column 1462W.

10 Downing Street: Official Hospitality

Mr. Hands: To ask the Prime Minister on how many occasions political events have been hosted at 10 Downing Street in each year since 1997; which organisation hosted each such event; and how much each such organisation was charged for each such event. [272042]

The Prime Minister: As was the practice under previous Administrations and in accordance with the ministerial code, I have hosted a number of political events at Downing street. The costs for these events are met by the Labour party. Information on official and charity receptions held at 10 Downing street is published by means of an annual list as soon as it is ready at the end of the financial year.

Cricket

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister if he will hold a reception at 10 Downing Street to celebrate the victory of the England women's cricket team in the women's cricket World Cup tournament in Australia. [268947]

The Prime Minister: Yes. My Office has contacted the England and Wales Cricket Board to arrange an appropriate date.

Damian McBride

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister to whom Damian McBride reported in the post he occupied before his recent resignation; what performance reporting procedures applied to him; what his job description was; what (a) pay band and (b) pay range he was in; and if he will make a statement. [269835]

Norman Baker: To ask the Prime Minister (1) what the (a) job title, (b) main responsibilities and (c) annual salary of Damian McBride was at the time of his resignation; [270877]

(2) whether the post formerly occupied by Damian McBride was advertised externally prior to Mr. McBride's appointment to it; [270878]

(3) whether there are plans to make an appointment to fill the post left vacant by the resignation of Damian McBride. [270880]

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister on what date Damian McBride was appointed as a special adviser; what criteria were used in the selection procedures to fill the post; what reasons Mr. McBride provided for his resignation; and if he will make a statement. [270769]

The Prime Minister: Special advisers are appointed under terms and conditions set out in the Model Contract for Special Advisers. Since 2003, the Government have published on an annual basis the names and overall cost of special advisers and the number in each pay band. Updated information will be published in the usual way.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister when he was first informed of the activities of Damian McBride that led to his departure from his office; whether he requested

Mr. McBride's resignation; whether Mr. McBride will be subject to disciplinary proceedings; whether Mr. McBride will receive financial compensation; what discussions he has had with (a) the Cabinet Secretary, (b) Cabinet colleagues and (c) others about the departure of Mr. McBride; and if he will make a statement. [269836]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the press briefing given my spokesman on 14 April. A transcript of this is available on the No. 10 website at:

http://www.number10.gov.uk/Page19008

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister if he will place in the Library a copy of each letter he wrote to hon. Members about the activities of Damian McBride; and if he will make a statement. [269837]

The Prime Minister: The letters referred to were sent on a private and personal basis to the individuals concerned.

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister how many emails to (a) governmental and (b) non-governmental recipients were sent by Damian McBride from his Government email account between 1 September 2008 and 11 April 2009. [270847]

The Prime Minister: Civil servants, including special advisers are required to abide by their respective codes of conduct and guidance on the use of official resources.

Departmental Email

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister (1) if he will install Pretty Good Privacy encryption software and an associated email address to enable members of the public to correspond with Downing Street securely; [270293]

(2) for what reason the redesigned Downing Street website does not have a functioning contact email address or contact form; [269893]

(3) for how long the email Number 10 facility on the Downing Street website has been unavailable. [269909]

The Prime Minister: Enhancements have been made to the No. 10 email facility and an updated version is now available. The systems comply with the Government security requirements.

Departmental Ministerial Policy Advisers

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister what overseas visits were undertaken in an official capacity by special advisers in his Office in each year since June 2007; what the cost of those visits was; how many official engagements and meetings were undertaken on each visit; and if he will make a statement. [269834]

The Prime Minister: Since 1999 the Government have published an annual list of all visits overseas undertaken by Cabinet Ministers costing £500 or more during each financial year. Copies of these lists are available in the Library of the House. Information on the number of officials accompanying Ministers on overseas visits is included in the list. Information for the financial year 2008-09 will be published in the usual manner.

More detailed information is not available in the format requested and could be obtained only at disproportionate costs.

All travel is undertaken in accordance with the requirements of the ministerial code and the civil service management code.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister what training was provided to special advisers in 10 Downing Street in each year since 2007; how much was spent on such training for each special adviser in each such year; and if he will make a statement. [270078]

The Prime Minister: Special advisers receive training as appropriate to enable them to fulfil their duties and responsibilities as set out in the Model Contract for Special Advisers.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister if he will publish the register of interests of departmental special advisers. [270290]

Norman Baker: To ask the Prime Minister whether Damian McBride declared any payments received by him from sources other than the public purse during his tenure of office in 10 Downing Street. [270879]

The Prime Minister: The rules for civil servants, including special advisers, on the handling of interests are set out in the Civil Service Management Code. Individual disclosures are personal between the employer and employee and not normally made public.

Departmental Public Appointments

Nadine Dorries: To ask the Prime Minister what his role is in the appointment of (a) civil servants and (b) special advisers to posts based in 10 Downing Street; and if he will make a statement. [271097]

The Prime Minister: The appointment of civil servants and special advisers, including those in my Office, are made in accordance with the conditions set out in the Ministerial Code.

Derek Draper

Mr. Hands: To ask the Prime Minister whether Mr. Derek Draper has a security pass to No. 10 Downing Street. [265853]

The Prime Minister: No.

Iraq: Iran

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Prime Minister what plans he has to discuss the matter of the protected persons status of persons in Ashraf City, Iraq under the Geneva Conventions with the Prime Minister of Iraq during his visit to London on 30 April 2009; and if he will make a statement. [272770]

The Prime Minister: I discussed a wide range of issues with Prime Minister Maliki. I refer my hon. Friend to the press conference I held with Prime Minister Maliki on 30 April 2009; a transcript of which is available on the No. 10 website:

http://www.number10.gov.uk/Page19193.

Israel: Anniversaries

Mr. Amess: To ask the Prime Minister to what events held in (a) the UK and (b) Israel to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding of Tel Aviv he has been invited; what such invitations he has (i) accepted and (ii) declined; and if he will make a statement. [272173]

The Prime Minister: I have not received any such invitations. But the British ambassador to Israel, based in Tel Aviv, has accepted invitations to commemorate the 100th anniversary and will represent the British Government.

Members: Allowances

Norman Baker: To ask the Prime Minister what assessment he made of the merits to accepting the offers of meetings to discuss reform of hon. Members' allowances made by (a) the right hon. Member for Sheffield Hallam and (b) the right hon. Member for Witney before announcing his proposals on the matter on 21 April. [270959]

The Prime Minister: I have met the right hon. Member for Witney (Mr. Cameron) and the right hon. Member for Sheffield, Hallam (Mr. Clegg) to discuss these issues.

Pakistan: Nuclear Weapons

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister whether Pakistan's nuclear weapons were discussed during his visit to Pakistan on 27 April 2009. [272724]

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Prime Minister whether he made representations to President Zardari on the re-assertion of central government control in Swat during his recent meeting with him. [272728]

The Prime Minister: I discussed a wide range of issues on my recent visit to Pakistan. I refer the hon. Member and my hon. Friend to the press conference I held with Prime Minister Gilani on 27 April 2009; a transcript of which is available on the No. 10 website:

http://www.number10.gov.uk/Page19148.

I also refer the hon. Member and my hon. Friend to the statement I made to the House on 29 April 2009, Official Report, columns 869-73.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Conferences

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which (a) Ministers and (b) others attended the local media summit on 28 April 2009. [272813]

Andy Burnham: The local media summit on 28 April 2009 was attended by myself and my noble Friend Lord Carter of Barnes.

The event was attended by representatives from a wide range of stakeholder groups, including the National Union of Journalists, the Society of editors, the Newspaper Society, Ofcom, the Press Association, as well as other Members of Parliament and key stakeholders from national and local television and radio.

Conferences: Official Hospitality

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department spent (a) in total and (b) on (i) venue hire, (ii) food and drink and (iii) travel costs in respect of its local media summit on 28 April 2009. [272812]

Andy Burnham: My Department spent nothing on venue hire, food and drink, or travel costs for the local media summit of 28 April.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much (a) his Department and (b) its agency spent on official hospitality in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [272809]

Mr. Sutcliffe: All expenditure on hospitality is made in accordance with published departmental guidance, based on principles set out in Managing Public Money.

The information requested by the hon. Member is not readily available from the Department's accounting system. To provide the information would incur disproportionate cost.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what the hourly rates of pay of all non-permanent members of staff working in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies were in each of the last 12 months; and how many staff received each rate. [273065]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Empty Property: Non-Domestic Rates

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what his Department's liability for unoccupied property rates was in 2008-09. [272811]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department had one unoccupied property, Oceanic house, during 2008-09. Oceanic house is a listed building and is exempt from business rates whilst it is unoccupied.

Gambling: Antigua

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many visits the Gambling Commission has made to Antigua in relation to the addition of that country to the White List of countries permitted to advertise online gambling services in the UK. [272759]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Gambling Commission have advised that there have been no official visits to Antigua in relation to its addition to the White List.

Licensed Premises: EC Action

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what assessment he has made of the likely effects on the sale of alcohol of the implementation of European Commission proposals on the introduction of online facilities for applications for the types of licence provided for by the Licensing Act 2003. [272844]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The EU services directive requires member states to allow applications for permission to provide services to be made electronically and to a 'point of single contact'. The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) is responsible for transposing its requirements into UK law. My Department is working with BERR to ensure that application processes under the Licensing Act 2003 (LA2003) in respect of services are modified in an appropriate and efficient manner. The requirements of the services directive complement our own plans to make it easier for applicants to apply for licences and permission under LA2003 electronically. The necessary protections currently in place under LA2003, including consultation with responsible authorities, will remain, and we will consult upon proposed modifications before implementation.

Non-Domestic Rates

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what his most recent estimate is of the amount of money his Department expects to pay in unoccupied property rates in (a) 2009-10 and (b) 2010-11. [273066]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department does not expect to pay any unoccupied property rates in (a) 2009-10 or (b) 2010-11.

DEFENCE

Armed Forces: Food

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make an assessment of (a) the popularity with personnel, (b) the value for money in comparison with the daily mess rate and (c) alternative options for implementation of the Pay as you Dine pilot projects carried out at RAF Henlow, Leuchars and Holton prior to (i) any extension of the contract at these stations and (ii) any further extension of the concept to other bases; and if he will make a statement. [272067]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Pay As You Dine (PAYD) trials were established at RAF Henlow, RAF Leuchars and RAF Halton in 2002, 2004 and 2005, respectively. The performance of these trials has been reviewed continually since they commenced and from early 2008 focus groups and consumer surveys have been carried out to assess performance in meeting the aspirations of consumers and their perception of value for money. On the whole personnel accepted that there would be winners and losers, but that PAYD would be a fairer system, allowing choice on how they spend their money. This information is being used to inform the dialogue process currently ongoing with industry to identify a PAYD model that meets the RAF requirements and is viable to industry.

The MOD considered alternative options for PAYD both prior to implementing the trials and since. In all cases it was decided that the external contractor option best met the RAF requirements. This is still the expectation.

RAF trials are continuing and a RAF specific solution is being developed in consultation with industry, with a final proposal expected by mid 2010 at the latest. It is then planned that a revised PAYD model, informed by the results of the trials, will be taken forward with industry and the agreed solution will be introduced as far as possible to existing PAYD units and rolled out across the other RAF sites.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the regulations came into force. [272116]

Mr. Kevan Jones: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Pay

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much was paid in bonuses to civil servants in his Department in each financial year since 2005-06; and what the maximum bonus was in each such financial year. [270185]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The total monetary value of bonuses or performance awards paid to members of the Senior Civil Service (SCS), to Fixed Term Appointees and to 60,000 civil servants below the level of the SCS covered by the MOD main pay deal, excluding Trading Funds, and the maximum bonus in each financial year since 2005-06 is provided in the following tables.

Gurkhas

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many troops are serving in Gurkha regiments. [273077]

Mr. Kevan Jones: As at 1 March 2009, the Brigade of Gurkhas comprised of some 130 Officers and 3,760 other ranks.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Land: Sales

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the monetary value of (a) grade A and (b) grade B agricultural land from the national land stock sold off in each year since 1997. [270441]

Jane Kennedy: The following table shows the number, area and average price of agricultural land sales for Grade 1 and 2 land between 1997 and 2004. Figures are not available separately for these grades of land and may not reflect full sales for 2001-04 because it is not possible to update the information fully without disproportionate cost. Data are not available after 2004.

Agricultural land sales in England

	1 and 2			All grades
	Number of sales	Area sold (Ha)	Average price (£ per Ha)	Number of sales	Area sold (Ha)	Average price (£ per Ha)
1997	552	19,131	7,348	4,187	124,840	6,448
1998	488	15,016	6,974	3,498	103,802	6,134
1999	489	16,319	7,354	3,437	91,534	6,673
2000	462	12,365	6,948	3,227	78,502	7,082
2001	391	13,313	7,072	2,603	65,383	7,406
2002	397	12,524	6,696	3,029	77,487	6,915
2003	315	11,036	7,043	2,459	64,861	7,172
2004	205	6,275	7,256	1,570	37,634	7,654

Note:
Grade 1 land is that with very minor or no physical limitations to agricultural use. Yields are consistently high on these soils and cropping highly flexible since most crops can be grown including the more exacting horticultural crops. Grade 2 land has some minor limitations which exclude it from Grade 1. A wide range of agricultural and horticultural crops can usually be grown though there may be restrictions in the range of horticultural crops and arable root crops on some types in this grade.

Wild Boars: Forest of Dean

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department is taking to control the wild boar population in the Forest of Dean. [272879]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA is not attempting to control feral wild boar in the Forest of Dean.

DEFRA's policy is that primary responsibility for feral wild boar management lies with local communities and individual landowners. However, Government are committed to facilitating this regional management through the provision of advice and guidance. The Deer Initiative is responsible for the provision of this advice (in addition to its responsibilities concerning wild deer).

ELECTORAL COMMISSION COMMITTEE

Electoral Register

Chris Ruane: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what steps the Electoral Commission plans to take to increase levels of electoral registration. [272733]

Sir Peter Viggers: The Commission informs me that it is currently running a public information campaign to encourage people to register to vote before the June 2009 European parliamentary elections and local elections in England. It also delivers targeted campaigns directed at under-registered groups such as recent home movers, students, service personnel and British citizens living abroad.

Following its first assessment of the performance of Electoral Registration Officers, the Commission also plans to discuss with a number of officers how they intend to improve performance at the 2009 annual canvass. In addition, the Commission plans to continue its programme of research into the accuracy and completeness of electoral registers.

Electoral Register: Standards

Chris Ruane: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission whether the Electoral Commission plans to publish a list of local authority electoral registration departments that are not performing to national standards, with reference to the Commission's recent report Performance standards for electoral registration officers in Great Britain. [272734]

Sir Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that comprehensive detailed information about the 2008 assessment of performance by each ERO in Great Britain against the performance standards has been published on its website. The Commission also informs me that a copy of the data from which its assessment was derived has been placed in the House of Commons Library.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

14 Tothill Street

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 26W, on 14 Tothill Street, if he will place in the Library a copy of the memorandum of understanding between the House of Commons and House of Lords. [271161]

Nick Harvey: The terms of the memorandum are still under discussion. When it is agreed it will be placed in the Library.

House of Commons: Political Levy

Mr. Maude: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission what rules govern the holding of events funded from the trade union political levy on the Parliamentary estate. [272071]

Nick Harvey: There are no specific rules governing the holding of events funded from the trade union political levy on the parliamentary estate; but the general rule is that facilities provided by the House for accredited trade union representatives are not available for party political activity or political campaigning, whether or not it has been funded from the political levy. Similarly, as a general principle, office space and facilities for Members are provided to help carry out parliamentary duties effectively and not for unrelated party purposes. The rules governing the purposes for which Members may use committee, conference, meeting and interview rooms are provided on the parliamentary intranet.

Parliament: Internet

Mr. Amess: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission for what reasons the Parliamentary intranet was not available on 26 April; what steps the Commission (a) has taken and (b) plans to take to reduce the number of occasions when the intranet is not available; and if he will make a statement. [272170]

Nick Harvey: There were no reported problems with the availability of the intranet service on 26 April 2009.

The parliamentary technology infrastructure is being replaced over a three-year period. The replacement improves resilience in order to reduce the number of breakdowns in services. The replacement programme is one third completed and some services, such as the intranet service, are already more resilient than they were in April 2008.

Mr. Amess: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission on which occasions the Parliamentary intranet has not been available since January 2008; what the reasons were for non-availability in each case; and if he will make a statement. [272171]

Nick Harvey: The parliamentary intranet has been unavailable due to unplanned events on the following occasions since January 2008:

24 January 2008: 45 minutes due to a domain name service (DNS) failure;

29 February 2008: 1 hour and 30 minutes due to a proxy server service failure.

The parliamentary intranet was also unavailable due to planned maintenance on the following occasion:

21 March 2009: 9 hours due to emergency security patch requirements.

This answer deals only with the intranet service but access to that service can be denied if there is a failure on the parliamentary network or one of the remote access services that Members use when away from the estate.

SCOTLAND

High-Speed Rail

8. Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Transport on a high-speed rail link between London and Scotland. [271868]

Ann McKechin: My right hon. Friend and I have discussions with colleagues on a wide range of issues.

Electricity Generators

9. Mr. Weir: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent representations he has received on the costs of generators of electricity in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [271869]

Ann McKechin: My right hon. Friend receives regular representations from industry on generation and transmission matters in Scotland.

Budget 2009

10. Mr. Bone: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what assessment he has made of the effect of Budget 2009 on taxpayers in Scotland. [271870]

Mr. Jim Murphy: Taxpayers in Scotland will benefit from over £100 million in Barnett consequentials, and around £400 million from additional Government investment.

Pleural Plaques

11. David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland whether he has recently discussed with the First Minister access to compensation for people in Scotland with pleural plaques. [271871]

Ann McKechin: The Secretary of State has regular discussions with the First Minister on a range of issues.

Banking

12. Philip Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had with representatives of banks on the future of banking in Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [271872]

Mr. Jim Murphy: I am in regular discussion with bank representatives. The Scottish banking system is now well placed to combat these difficult times, after the significant intervention by this Government to stabilise the market, including the £50 billon recapitalisation of RBS and Lloyds.

Gross Domestic Product

13. Mr. Crabb: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent trends he has identified in the gross domestic product of Scotland; and if he will make a statement. [271873]

Mr. Jim Murphy: The Scottish economy has not been immune from the global economic difficulties and is now officially in recession. To combat this the UK Government have delivered a £500 million fiscal boost from Budget 2009 measures, a £2 billion boost as part of the 2008 pre-Budget report, all in addition to the substantial interventions to support the Scottish banks.

Broadband Access

14. Sir Robert Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what discussions he has had with Ministerial colleagues on the development of next generation broadband access in rural Scotland. [271874]

Ann McKechin: My right hon. Friend has discussions with ministerial colleagues on a range of issues. The Government are very committed to Next Generation Broadband and the opportunities it brings for consumers and businesses alike.

The Budget confirmed the Government's plan to deliver a Universal Service for broadband at up to 2 Mbps by 2012.

The Government will also be carrying out research on broadband 'Not spots' under "Delivering Digital Inclusion—An Action Plan for Consultation". This will aim to inform local communities enabling them to manage the risks and realise the opportunities of Next Generation Access locally and regionally, where they identify a need and want to activate their own solutions. This research will cover the whole of the UK.

Equal Pay

15. John Barrett: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland what recent discussions he has had with the Minister for Women and Equality on equal pay between men and women in Scotland. [271875]

Ann McKechin: I have had discussions with my right hon. Friend on a range of equal pay issues, including in relation to the provisions in the new Equality Bill. The Bill, which extends to Scotland, includes measures to improve transparency around the gender pay gap.

TRANSPORT

Aviation: Air Pollution

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many aeroplanes were subject to (a) carbon monoxide, (b) carbon dioxide and (c) ozone gas level monitoring in cabin air in 2008; in how many and what percentage of cases levels of each gas above acceptable levels were detected; and if he will make a statement. [273037]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The presence of gases in aircraft cabin air is not routinely monitored in the UK. Studies such as the European Cabin Air project have shown that normally the levels of chemical and biological contaminants in aircraft are less than in many work environments such as office buildings.

There are however occasional bad smells or "fume events" during flights, which are estimated to occur on approximately 0.05 per cent of flights overall (one in 2000).

The Department for Transport funded research is under way to capture samples of aircraft cabin air during normal conditions and fume events and analyse them to see what substances they contain and in what concentrations.

The research findings will be published as a whole once they are written up and peer reviewed.

Since 2006 the Government have a statutory duty to safeguard the health of persons on aircraft. As far as we know, that is unique to the UK and we take it seriously.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what factors underlie the decision to allocate the research project on cabin air quality to Cranfield; and for what reasons EU public procurement procedures were not invoked in this instance. [273038]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The research project was tendered under the single tender procedure and approved in April 2007. Due to the complex logistics and the need for a project manager to develop protocols, this research could not be specified as a normal tender. Following the tender, Cranfield university was chosen by the Department, in consultation with the Department of Health, the Civil Aviation Authority, BALPA (largest pilot trade union) and airlines.

Cycling: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what funding his Department is providing to Torbay local authority for the National Cycle Network in 2009-10. [272518]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport does not provide funding directly to local authorities for specific projects such as the National Cycle Network, although they may choose to spend some of their LTP—local transport plan—funding on this.

In 2009-10 the Department has made available £7 million in grant funding to Sustrans for a Links to School programme to provide children with high quality cycle and walking routes to schools, linked to the National Cycle Network and local cycle networks.

Torbay has not yet applied for any of this although they have until September 2009 to apply to Sustrans for match funding for such links.

Departmental Pay

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 28 April 2009, Official Report, column 1223W, on departmental pay, what the equivalent figures are for each year since his Department was established. [273012]

Mr. Hoon: The number of Civil Servants in DFT to receive a non-consolidated performance payment (NCPP) each year since the Department was established is shown in the following table.

	Total number of staff who received one or more NCPP	Percentage of staff receiving NCPP	Total NCCP paid (£)
2003-04[1]	4,814	47	2,020,828
2004-05[2]	5,537	50	1,881,308
2005-06	13,682	71	8,212,780
2006-07	14,906	77	10,290,961
2007-08	13,472	72	8,909,692

[1] These figures exclude SCS and DVL[illegible] available.
[2] These figures exclude DVLA which are n[illegible]ilable.

M18: Lorries

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 9 February 2009, Official Report, column 1603W, on M42: lorries, if he will consider the merits of prohibiting heavy goods vehicles from travelling in the outside lane on those stretches of the M18 where there are only two lanes. [272982]

Paul Clark: There are currently no plans to implement a heavy goods vehicle (HGV) overtaking lane on the M18.

M25: Road Traffic

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will request the Highways Agency to conduct a preliminary study of (a) the construction of slip roads at junction 5 of the M25 and (b) the effect this would have on the alleviation of heavy lorry congestion from cross-channel routes. [272948]

Paul Clark: Following consideration of the recommendations of the ORBIT multi-modal study, the then Secretary of State in his response, asked the Highways Agency to carry out further work on possible improvements to junction 5 of the M25.

The objectives of this work were to consider the technical feasibility of building slips roads to connect the M26 to the A21 south of the M25. An initial assessment was completed in 2004 and concluded that although improvements were feasible, further work was necessary to determine whether such options would provide value for money. This work is being progressed by the Highways Agency and its findings will be considered alongside our exercise to establish spending priorities for transport across modes after 2014.

In light of that, the Government do not consider it necessary at this stage to commission further additional work on improvements to junction 5 of the M25.

Railways: Fares

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department is taking to reduce rail fares. [272590]

Paul Clark: We have made it clear that were RPI to be negative this year, this could lead to a reduction in fares next year.

The Government do not intend to change the policy capping regulated fare increases at a maximum of RPI+1 per cent. The policy reflects the need to balance protection for passengers with a move away from very heavy demands on the taxpayer.

It is our intention that from January 2010 this cap will also generally apply to individual regulated fares, as opposed to being an average over the whole fares basket.

Unregulated fares are a commercial matter for train operators who are free to set them on a commercial basis.

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will take steps to promote the availability of the Rover range of rail tickets. [272850]

Paul Clark: The Minister of State has recently completed an intensive UK wide rail tour using an All Line Rail Rover which has improved the visibility of this excellent value product to the market. The promotion and advertising of this range of tickets is undertaken by train operators.

Railways: Job Creation

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what estimate he has made of the number of jobs likely to be created by planned work on (a) electrification of parts of the rail network, (b) construction of high speed rail routes and (c) re-opening of disused railway lines. [272395]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport is working with the rail industry to explore the case for further electrification, in particular of the First Great Western and Midland main lines. However, until a decision has been made on whether to take forward such schemes, the extent of the planned electrification and the timescale for doing the work, it is not possible to estimate the number of jobs that might be created.

High speed two has been formed to develop the case for high speed services between London and Scotland. As a first stage it will report by the end of the year with a proposed route from London to the west midlands, setting out any necessary options. Until a decision is made regarding the construction of a new line or lines, it is not possible to say how many jobs might be created.

The Government's priority is to maintain and enhance the existing network. Local authorities may put forward proposals to reopen disused lines if they believe this is the best way to meet local transport needs. Construction and manpower for such proposals are a matter for the authority in question.

Railways: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will make an assessment of the reliability of direct train services between Paignton and London Paddington. [272524]

Paul Clark: Department of Transport officials meet First Great Western every four weeks to discuss franchise performance. The Public Performance Measure of each train operator is published by Network Rail on its website at:

http://www.networkrail.co.uk/aspx/842.aspx

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions Ministers in his Department have had with First Great Western on rail services between Exeter and Paignton in the last 12 months; and what the results of such discussions were. [272525]

Paul Clark: The then Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Transport, my hon. Friend the Member for Glasgow, South (Mr. Harris) met First Great Western on 12 May 2008. First Great Western said it was looking for the Department for Transport's support for solutions for train services west of Exeter following the withdrawal of South West Trains services on those routes in December 2009. Paignton is one of the destinations served by the South West Trains services.

The Department for Transport subsequently asked First Great Western to make proposals to it for covering the withdrawn South West Trains services west of Exeter. These proposals have been received and are currently under consideration by the Department.

Transport: Standards

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will take steps to ensure that his Department provides timely assistance and advice to local transport bodies seeking to introduce quality control measures. [273096]

Paul Clark: The Department for Transport (DfT) provides a range of Guidance to local transport authorities and other bodies. For example, the Department has recently consulted on draft Guidance to inform the next local transport plans, which are due in April 2011. This draft guidance sets out the importance of effective programme, project and risk management, and DfT aims to produce further detailed advice on this subject in due course.

The Department has also issued detailed guidance in respect of some of the measures included in the Local Transport Act 2008, for example in relation to Quality Partnership schemes that a local authority may make to improve their bus services. There will be further consultation and guidance during 2009 on quality contracts. officials are supporting that through ongoing engagement with regional and local authorities and bus operators.

Transport: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what assessment he has made of the performance of Torbay local authority in meeting the objectives of its local transport plan. [272526]

Paul Clark: Torbay council, along with other local transport authorities in England outside London, has recently undertaken a review of progress made over the first two years of their current local transport plan (April 2006-March 2008).

As part of this process, the Government office for the south-west met with the authority to discuss progress. Subsequently, it issued a letter to the authority, which is published on the Department's website at:

http://www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/regional/ltp/ltp2/southwest/torbay1.pdf

Torbay council has made their progress report available on their website at:

http://www.torbay.gov.uk/ltp2progressreport-v5.pdf

HEALTH

Abortion

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of each document in his Department's file (a) CPO 14/7 Abortion Laws in Other Countries, (b) CPO 5/5 Publicity Material and Publications from Anti Abortion Organisation, (c) CPO 4/28 HF and A Amendment of the Abortion Act 1967 and (d) CPO 3/6 Abortion Act 1967 Correspondence between Sir Bernard Braine MP and Minister of Health on matters concerning abortions in NHS hospitals; and if he will make a statement. [272244]

Dawn Primarolo: The information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 21 April 2009, Official Report, column 570W, on abortion, what the causes of death were in each case; and if he will make a statement. [272245]

Dawn Primarolo: The information collected on this issue is available in the successive reports of the confidential enquires into maternal deaths (CEMACH), and these reports are available from CEMACH. There were three maternal deaths following termination of pregnancy from 2003-05. One death resulted from severe anaemia from haemorrage from retained products, and the cause of death in the other two cases was unclear.

Alcoholic Drinks: Misuse

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many people were admitted to hospital as a consequence of intoxication through alcohol in each of the last 12 months; [271734]

(2) how many people were treated for alcohol abuse in each of the last 12 months; [271735]

(3) how many (a) women and (b) men were admitted to hospital for treatment for the effects of alcohol abuse in each of the last five years. [271736]

Dawn Primarolo: The following tables give the number of admissions to hospital, in England, as a result of alcohol intoxication for 2007-08, the latest year for which this data has been finalised, and the number of alcohol-related hospital admissions, in England, for the last five years for which data is available.

Concerning treatment, prior to 1 April 2008 there was no routine collection of data on numbers receiving structured care-planned alcohol treatment in England. On 1 April 2008, a National Alcohol Treatment Monitoring System (NATMS) begun operation to collect and report local and national information on the provision of structured care-planned treatment for alcohol misuse in England.

While the first year's NATMS data is due to be reported in October 2009, limited data is reported on the National Drug Treatment Monitoring System website, at:

www.ndtms.net/alcohol.aspx

This provides data at a countrywide, strategic health authority and primary care trust level. The latest countrywide data shows that in February 2009, 54,306 people were in contact with specialist alcohol treatment in England, with a year-to-date figure for 2008-09 of 98,058 people.

* Date episode ended
This field contains the date on which a patient left the care of a particular consultant, for one of the following reasons: Discharged from hospital (includes transfers) or moved to the care of another consultant.

ICD-10 Code used for alcohol intoxication
F10.1 - Mental and behavioural disorders due to use of Alcohol: Acute Intoxication

Alcohol-Related Admissions
The number of alcohol-related admissions is based on the methodology developed by the North West Public Health Observatory (NWPHO). Following international best practice, the NWPHO methodology includes a wide range of diseases and injuries in which alcohol plays a part and estimates the proportion of cases that are attributable to the consumption of alcohol. Details of the conditions and associated proportions can be found in the report Jones et al. (2008) Alcohol-attributable fractions for England: Alcohol-attributable mortality and hospital admissions.

Finished admission episodes
A finished admission episode is the first period of inpatient care under one consultant within one healthcare provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of inpatients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.

Number of episodes in which the patient had a (named) primary or secondary diagnosis
These figures represent the number of episodes where the diagnosis was recorded in any of the 20 (14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and seven prior to 2002-03) primary and secondary diagnosis fields in a Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) record. Each episode is only counted once in each count, even if the diagnosis is recorded in more than one diagnosis field of the record.

Data quality
HES are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts in England. Data is also received from a number of independent sector organisations for activity commissioned by the English NHS. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and works to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.

Assessing growth through time
HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. The quality and coverage of the data have improved over time. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series.

Some of the increase in figures for later years (particularly 2006-07 onwards) may be due to the improvement in the coverage of independent sector activity.

Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken as outpatient settings and may no longer be accounted for in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what recent discussions he has had with representatives of the alcoholic drinks industry on trends in the rate of harm attributable to the consumption of alcohol in low income communities; [272402]

(2) what recent discussions he has had with (a) primary care trusts and (b) strategic health authorities on measures to reduce the rate of harm attributable to the consumption of alcohol in low income communities. [272003]

Dawn Primarolo: Ministers have not specifically discussed reducing alcohol-related harm in low income communities at recent meetings with the alcohol industry or with primary care trusts and strategic health authorities.

Reducing alcohol-related harms is an integral part of the Department's health inequalities strategy, as described in 'Health Inequalities—progress and next steps', June 2008. This includes support and funding for primary care trusts in Spearhead areas which face the greatest challenges in reducing the trend of alcohol-related hospital admissions.

Breast Feeding

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what steps his Department is taking to increase the rate of breastfeeding by women from disadvantaged backgrounds; [272305]

(2) what steps his Department is taking (a) further to encourage breastfeeding and (b) to support continued breastfeeding by women who return to work. [272307]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has a range of interventions in place to promote breastfeeding, including action to help women from disadvantaged backgrounds. These include: investment of £6 million for primary care trusts to implement the Baby Friendly Initiative in hospitals and in the community; the provision of easily accessible and timely advice through the National Breastfeeding Helpline; the breastfeeding DVD "From bump to breastfeeding" given to all new mothers in England via their midwives and health visitors; and a number of promotional materials provided and activities held during the National Breastfeeding Awareness Week. In addition, the Department's healthy start scheme supports breastfeeding mothers from low income and disadvantaged households.

We are also supporting breastfeeding women at work by promoting breastfeeding-friendly places, engaging with employers and business (shopping centres, retailers, restaurants etc.) encouraging them to provide the necessary facilities to help mothers who wish to breastfeed. We have also published the leaflet "Breastfeeding and Work", providing information to employers and employees on their rights, obligations and best practice to enable women to continue breastfeeding after returning to work. A copy has been placed in the Library.

Care Homes: Standards

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance his Department issues to inspectors of care homes to assist them in assessing how each home performs against each of the national minimum standards; and what factors are taken into account in assessing performance against each standard. [272700]

Phil Hope: The Department does not issue guidance directly to inspectors of care homes. The inspection of care homes is the responsibility of the Care Quality Commission (CQC).

We are informed by CQC that it issues a range of guidance documents to its inspectors. "How we inspect services: Guidance for inspectors" gives an overview of:

each stage of the key inspection cycle—from planning, to fieldwork and reporting; and the different types of inspections—key, random and thematic.

The guidance is available on the CQC website at:

www.cqc.org.uk/_db/_documents/20081014_How_we_inspect_care_services_310408.doc

Key Lines of Regulatory Assessment (KLORA) helps inspectors make decisions about the quality of a service. They give examples of what to look for to decide whether service users experience poor, adequate, good or excellent outcomes. KLORA is available on the CQC website at:

www.cqc.org.uk/guidanceforprofessionals/socialcare/careproviders/inspection/keylinesofregulatoryassessment.cfm

Depression: Children

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children aged (a) under 10 years and (b) under 16 years were diagnosed with depression (i) in each year since 1997 and (ii) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available. [272705]

Phil Hope: We do not routinely collect this information. However, a 2004 survey by the Office of National Statistics (ONS) found that 9.6 per cent. of children in Great Britain aged between five and 16 suffered from some kind of mental disorder. The survey was based on interviews with a sample of parents and children. The full results are published in the ONS report 'Mental health of children and young people in Great Britain'.

Details on prevalence of mental disorders by age and sex, 2004 are listed in the following table.

Dietary Supplements: EU Law

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment the Food Standards Agency has made of the likely effects on manufacturers and retailers of nutritional supplements of the provisions of Article (a) 13.3 and (b) 16.1, 17.1 and 18.4 of the EU Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation in relation to the role of the European Food Safety Authority. [272376]

Dawn Primarolo: The regulation has transition periods to allow food business operators to respond to the effect of decisions on the authorisation of health claims, such as the need to re-label if claims are not authorised. Any delays in completing the process set out in the provisions to these articles could affect the ability of food business operators to respond to new conditions on products within normal re-labelling cycles and additional costs could occur. This possible outcome was discussed in the impact assessment the Food Standards Agency finalised in July 2007.

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent representations he has received from manufacturers and retailers of nutritional supplements on the economic impact assessment of the EU Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation. [272407]

Dawn Primarolo: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Health has not received any such representations. Written representations with revised assessments of the economic impact of the European Union Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation have however been received by Food Standards Agency officials from two of the food supplement industry's trade associations.

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what information his Department holds on applications to the European Food Safety Authority for the approval of statements submitted under Article 13.1 of the EU Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation. [272408]

Dawn Primarolo: The Food Standards Agency (FSA) has kept a record of all claims submitted to the United Kingdom under Article 13.1 of the Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation for application to the European Union list, and subsequent correspondence with submitters. Details of the consolidated EU list of health claims undergoing assessment, which also includes applications submitted by other member states, is publicly available on the European Food Safety Authority's website. The FSA has kept stakeholders fully informed of developments with the Article 13 process and will continue to do so as work progresses.

Drugs: Babies

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children were drug dependent at birth in each region in each of the last five years; and what the numbers of such children in the case of each type of drug were.[1] [271664]

Dawn Primarolo: The following tables show the number of finished consultant episodes (FCEs) where the primary or secondary diagnosis was either neonatal withdrawal symptoms from maternal use of drugs of addiction or withdrawal from therapeutic use of drugs in newborns. It is not possible to provide information on the type of drug to which a newborn child is addicted.

Drugs: Misuse

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were admitted to hospital for conditions related to the misuse of illegal drugs (a) in each region in each year since 1997-98 and (b) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available. [272787]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is not collected centrally.

Eating Disorders

Norman Lamb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many (a) males and (b) females aged (i) under 10, (ii) between 10 and 18 and (iii) over 18 years in each region were admitted to hospital for eating disorders in each of the last five years. [272856]

Phil Hope: The information requested has been placed in the Library.

Epilepsy: Health Services

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent guidance his Department has issued to (a) local authorities, (b) educational institutions and (c) voluntary organisations on the provision of services to those with epilepsy. [270407]

Ann Keen: The Department has issued no recent guidance to local authorities, educational institutions and voluntary organisations on the provision of services specifically for those living with epilepsy.

However, officials have been working with NHS Choices to produce detailed guidance and information for health professionals and the general public on epilepsy which can be accessed at the website www.nhs.uk/livewell/epilepsy/Pages/Epilepsyhome.aspx

This guidance includes information on diagnosis and the available treatment options, specific information for children with epilepsy including those with learning disabilities and special education needs, as well as advice and links to sites covering issues around work and benefit rights.

Food: Labelling

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether he expects the Community List referred to in Article 13.2 of the EU Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation to be published by 31 January 2010; and if he will make a statement. [272981]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave him on 23 April 2009, Official Report, column 833W.

Genito-urinary Medicine

Natascha Engel: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which sexual health clinics have (a) applied for and (b) been granted the 'You're Welcome' quality mark. [272362]

Dawn Primarolo: The operating framework for the NHS in England 2009-10 (copies of which have already been placed in the Library) encourages local areas to implement 'You're Welcome' standards, which set out principles for all health care settings to ensure they are young people friendly.

The initial area of focus in the roll-out of 'You're Welcome' was to put in place a regionally based infrastructure to support primary care trusts and children's trusts to implement locally owned, sustainable arrangements for 'You're Welcome'. The focus now is on promoting uptake in both national health service and non-NHS provision through a wide reaching dissemination programme which has been put in place across the nine regions. The regions are prioritising sexual and reproductive health services during 2009-10.

To date, 41 health services have already applied for 'You're Welcome' quality mark. Of these, 32 are sexual health services, 16 of which have been granted the quality mark which are:

ARC at Stowe;
Bpas Leigham Clinic;
Brook Brixton;
Brook Liverpool;
Brook Manchester;
Brook Milton Keynes;
Brook Oldham;
Carlton Street Centre for Sexual Health;
CHYPS Plus;
Market Street Health Centre;
North Ormsby Health Village Contraception and Sexual Health Service;
The Parallel;
Sex Sense at Pashgrove Healthy Living Centre;
Streetwise Young Peoples Project;
Vauxhall Riverside Sexual Health Service; and Victoria Clinic.

Health Services: Non-profit Making Associations

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the likely effect on future commissioning services in primary care trusts of the provision for health-care made by social enterprises. [272794]

Phil Hope: The Department has not made such an assessment.

National health service commissioning is focused upon improving the quality of care, personalisation and improving outcomes for individuals. Patient choice and increasing the plurality of providers are key to this.

Primary care trusts are currently developing their commissioning plans for community services, which includes considering future patterns of provision, including social enterprises.

Hospitals: Furniture

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what work his Department has undertaken with (a) the Design Council and (b) the national health service on the development of new furniture design for hospitals to reduce the incidence of health-care acquired infections in hospitals. [272837]

Ann Keen: In autumn 2007, the Department held workshops with around 500 national health service doctors, nurses and cleaning staff at which ideas were gathered about what kinds of technology might be used to further help combat health care-associated infections more effectively. From the 150 ideas generated, 10 were prioritised as showing the most promise and these have been subject to design and development programmes since that time. Among the 10 prioritised ideas are two items of furniture—a waste bin/locker and a new style commode. Working prototypes are currently subject to clinical trials at University College London Hospital.

Additionally, the Department commissioned the Design Council to deliver a competition in which designers joined forces with manufacturers to develop working prototypes of furniture for the bedside environment (patient chair, bedside storage and overbed table), a porter's chair and a commode. The Design Council also worked with the Royal College of Art's Helen Hamlyn Centre to design innovations in a further five areas, one of which was a new style 'intelligent' patient bed mattress. These prototypes have now been launched and will be showcased over the next three weeks at seven NHS hospitals and then at a number of health care conferences through until the autumn.

Learning Disability: Social Services

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what role the Transforming Adult Social Care Programme Board will have in relation to adult social care for people with a learning disability; [272503]

(2) what steps he plans to take to monitor the work of the Transforming Adult Social Care Programme Board; [272504]

(3) what steps his Department plans to take to (a) monitor and (b) evaluate the (i) implementation and (ii) use of the Transforming Social Care grant within each local authority. [272505]

Phil Hope: The Transforming Adult Social Care Programme Board is a cross-sector body, which brings together the key partners responsible for oversight of delivery of all dimensions of "Putting People First" (a copy of which has already been placed in the Library) for all citizens, including people with learning disabilities. The Terms of Reference, current membership and agreed minutes of meetings are available at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/SocialCare/Socialcarereform/Personalisation/DH_088549

The Department has governance structures and performance management processes in place to monitor its work to deliver "Putting People First" through the Transforming Adult Social Care Board. Other partners are responsible for monitoring their own contributions to the programme.

The Department of Health does not directly monitor the use of the ring-fenced Social Care Reform Grant for each local authority. However we expect that the Care Quality Commission will do so, against the clear outcomes set out in the Local Authority Circular, LAC (DH)(2009)1, which can be found at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Lettersandcirculars/LocalAuthorityCirculars/DH_095719

A copy has been placed in the Library.

As partners on the Transforming Adult Social Care Programme Board, the Association of Directors of Adult Social Services and the Local Government Association undertook to measure and report on progress in implementing "Putting People First" over the year 2008-09. They are due to publish the report on 11 May.

Mental Health Services

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the effects of the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence guidance on funding for cognitive behavioural therapy on funding for fully-qualified psychologists. [272004]

Phil Hope: The National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) makes recommendations about effective treatments, after investigating the available evidence: it offers no guidance about funding.

The Government announced three years of funding, rising to £173 million in 2010-11, to train a new workforce in cognitive behavioural therapy to help the national health service put in place NICE guidance for treatment of depression and anxiety disorders.

Already some 800 trainees are in place and a further 1,700 will start this autumn. All these trainees are supervised by fully-trained psychologists in order to safeguard the quality of the therapy services they are delivering now and in the future.

Mentally Ill: Children

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many prescriptions of anti-psychotic drugs were issued to children aged (a) under 10 years and (b) under 16 years (i) in each year since 1997 and (ii) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available; [272781]

(2) how many prescriptions for anti-depressants were issued to children aged (a) under 10 years and (b) under 16 years (i) in each year since 1997 and (ii) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available; [272783]

(3) how many prescriptions for drugs to treat attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder were issued to children aged (a) under 10 years and (b) under 16 years (i) in each year since 1997 and (ii) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available. [272784]

Dawn Primarolo: This information is not collected centrally.

NHS Treatment Centres: Private Sector

Frank Dobson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the total cost of the payments made to independent sector treatment centres has been since their introduction; and what cost would have been incurred in payments under the tariff set for comparable NHS procedures. [272004]

Mr. Bradshaw: The total cost of the payments made to independent sector treatment centre providers up to 31 March 2009 is £1,215 million.

The Department does not hold information about what the total cost of the payments to independent sector treatment centre providers would have been under the tariff set for comparable national health services procedures.

NHS: Drugs

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what procedures the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence follows to determine the order of priority in which it makes appraisals of particular drugs. [272038]

Dawn Primarolo: Following final referral of technology appraisal topics by the Secretary of State for Health, the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence sequences its work based on the date of referral of topics and their anticipated licensing timeframe.

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 18 March 2009, Official Report, column 1235W, on orphan drugs, when he expects to publish the Government's response to the consultation. [272039]

Dawn Primarolo: The joint Department of Health and National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE) consultation on a revised topic selection process for technology appraisals will close on 22 May. The Department and NICE will publish information on action following the consultation later this year.

NHS: Information and Communications Technology

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will place in the Library a copy of his Department's strategy for accelerating the delivery for the National Programme for IT. [272808]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department's strategy for accelerating delivery of the national programme is set out in the Treasury Minute on the second report from the Committee of Public Accounts, Cm 7568, laid before Parliament on 26 March 2009. A copy is available in the Library.

NHS: Pensions

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what the cost of pension payments made to NHS employees was who took early retirement between the date of their retirement and the date they reached the NHS pension scheme normal retirement age was in each of the last five years. [272671]

Ann Keen: The information requested is not available in the form requested. The total premature retirement costs including the cost of paying pensions and lump sum early, enhancements of lump sum and enhanced service after normal retirement age are set out in the following table.

	2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08
Premature retirement costs prefunded (one-off capitalised costs)	67,581	52,470	51,609	162,578	198,567
Premature retirement costs quarterly recharge	0	65,281	64,235	64,742 [A]	62,732

Note:
National health service organisations had a choice of paying for premature retirement either by quarterly recharge of actual costs or by a one off capitalised charge.
Source:
NHS Pensions

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance the NHS pension scheme has issued on the award of enhancements under the scheme to NHS staff who are members of the scheme and who (a) are made redundant, (b) take early retirement on grounds of ill health and (c) take early retirement on grounds other than those of ill health. [272672]

Ann Keen: The enhancements available to staff who retire early are set out in the scheme regulations and a booklet entitled "Notes for pensioners and their dependants" which provides general guidance about their pension and related issues for example the process for payment of retirement benefits. In addition, a booklet containing guidance about the scheme is provided to all national health service staff on entry into the service and is also available on the NHS pensions website. Copies have been placed in the Library.

The specific arrangements are as follows:

(a) Staff over minimum pension age who are made redundant can elect to use their redundancy payment to pay for their pension to be taken early without actuarial reduction. For staff in post in October 2006, transitional arrangements allowing some enhancements are also available until October 2011.

(b) Since April 2008, the NHS pension scheme has two tier ill-health retirement arrangements. Staff who for reasons of ill-health are permanently incapable of efficiently discharging the duties of their employment (the 'tier 1 condition') are eligible for early payment of pension without reduction. Staff who are permanently incapable of regular employment of like duration (the 'tier 2 condition') in addition to meeting the tier 1 condition are eligible for an enhancement of two thirds of pensionable service until their normal pension age.

(c) The other forms of early retirement available are voluntary early retirement where the member has their pension reduced actuarially and retirement in the interests of the service where the employer pays for the cost of the members retiring without a reduction for early payment of pension.

Organic Food

Stephen Hesford: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what research his Department has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the potential effects on public health of organic foods in the last 10 years. [272574]

Dawn Primarolo: The Food Standards Agency has advised that it has commissioned an independent systematic literature review to evaluate the evidence on nutrient content differences between organic and conventionally-produced foodstuffs and any associated health benefits. The review has just been completed and the results have been submitted by the researchers to a peer-reviewed scientific journal. The full review report will be made available at the same time as the summary results are published in the scientific press.

The agency continues to assess new research on organic foods as it is published.

Swine Flu: Royal Family

Mr. Wallace: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether his Department has made arrangements to monitor the health of members of the royal family during the current outbreak of swine influenza in Mexico. [272587]

Dawn Primarolo: The royal family has its own medical advisers to monitor their health. Clearly, all information issued by this Department is available to everyone, including members of the royal family.

Telecommunications: Health Hazards

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what studies his Department has (a) conducted and (b) evaluated on the effects on public health of long-term exposure to wireless internet networks. [272881]

Dawn Primarolo: The Health Protection Agency (HPA) advises the Government in relation to the protection of communities from radiation hazards, including those associated with exposure to non-ionising radiation such as the radio waves from wireless communication systems. The agency has concluded that there is no consistent evidence to date that exposure to radio waves from wireless networks adversely affects the health of the general population. On the basis of current knowledge and experience, exposures are likely to be lower than those from mobile phones and well within the internationally accepted guidelines from the International Commission on Non-Ionizing Radiation Protection (ICNIRP). The Agency also considers it sensible, as with any new technology, to adopt a precautionary approach, and keeps the situation under review.

HPA announced in October 2007 that it was to carry out a systematic programme of research into wireless local area networks (WLANs) and their use. At the same time HPA stressed that it had good reasons to expect the results from this research to be reassuring and that there is no reason why schools and others should not use wireless fidelity (WiFi) equipment. This work is ongoing and expected to be complete in 2010. It includes assessments of exposures around selected items of WiFi equipment through measurements and computer modelling and is part of the Agency's ongoing programme of work in the area of electromagnetic fields. Details can be seen on the HPA web site at:

www.hpa.org.uk/webw/HPAweb&HPAwebStandard/HPAweb_C/1195733726123?p=1171991026241

In addition to its own research, HPA monitors studies being carried out by others, and conducts comprehensive reviews of the scientific evidence. Its independent Advisory Group on Non-ionising radiation (AGNIR) also prepares reviews of the evidence for health effects. The most recent AGNIR review of health effects in relation to radio waves was published in 2003 (see Documents of the NRPB, volume 14, number 2) and this is also available on the HPA website. AGNIR is about to prepare another review of the health effects of radio wave exposures and this is expected to take two to three years to complete.

CDC

Dr. Pugh: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which CDC investee companies have been sampled for the purposes of estimating their tax payments in each of the last five years. [268414]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: As part of its continuing development evaluation work, CDC started to collect tax payment data from its investee companies last year.

CDC collects this information in relation to both subsidiary and non-subsidiary investee companies. As at 31 December 2008, CDC had received tax payment data from 272 investee companies. A list of these companies will be placed in the Library of the House.

The tax payment data are used by CDC to calculate an aggregate tax paid figure for all its investee companies.

Malawi: Health Services

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the effects of his Department's funding for health services in Malawi on the number of unfilled (a) nursing, (b) midwifery and (c) doctor posts in Malawi's health services in the last three years. [272351]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department for International Development (DFID) is providing £109 million of funding to health services in Malawi over the six-year period 2005-11 including £45 million to the Emergency Human Resource Programme (EHRP).

DFID's recent assessment is that the funding has led to increases in the numbers of nurses, midwives and doctors working in Malawi's health services in the last three years:

(a) The number of registered nurses has increased from 3,250 to 4,450

(b) The proportion of health centres with two staff members having midwifery skills, has increased from 23 per cent. to 48 per cent.

(c) The number of practising doctors has increased from 140 to 190.

Although vacancy rates of health staff remain high, 77 per cent. for nurses and 67 per cent. for doctors, our assessment is that this does not reflect the real progress made. This is due to the fact that in 2006 the Ministry of Health conducted a Functional Review of the health sector which increased the number of health sector posts from 23,114 to 42,309, greatly raising the number of unfilled posts.

Overseas Aid

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development by how much the monetary value of the Government's official development assistance has fallen as a result of the decline in the value of sterling in the last 12 months; what assessment he has made of the effect of this decline on the Government's commitment towards achieving the Millennium Development Goals; and if he will make a statement. [269084]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: It is not the policy of the Government to comment on the value of sterling.

My right hon. Friend the Chancellor of the Exchequer confirmed in the Budget that the UK remains on track to meet the target of raising development aid to 0.7 per cent. of national income by 2013.

WALES

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with greater than 250kW of output; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272122]

Mr. Paul Murphy: My Department's main listed office building in London does not have an air conditioning system greater than 250kW.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. [272123]

Mr. Paul Murphy: My Department's listed office building in London does not have an air conditioning system greater than 250kW and inspections under the regulations are not required. We also lease office space in Cardiff, but air conditioning systems and inspections are provided as part of the building infrastructure and are the responsibility of the landlord.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 55W, on trade unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional annual value of such provision is. [271935]

Mr. Paul Murphy: No exclusive office facilities are provided in Wales Office premises but as our staff are employed by Ministry of Justice or the Welsh Assembly Government, office facilities are offered by each of these organisations.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Bloody Sunday Tribunal of Inquiry

Mr. Paterson: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much the Saville Inquiry has spent on security for (a) legal companies and (b) witnesses. [257121]

Mr. Woodward: I am advised that the Bloody Sunday inquiry has spent approximately £3.4 million on security to the end of January 2009. There have been no specific costs incurred by the inquiry associated with providing security for either legal teams or witnesses.

Various security measures were provided by the Government in relation to security for witnesses. These measures ranged from physical protection by the police and security guards, to IT security for the protection of witness information. Given the nature of such security measures, the duration of the inquiry and the distribution of costs throughout various Government Departments and agencies, I am advised that a figure could not be provided without incurring disproportionate cost.

Criminal Investigation

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) on how many occasions and in what circumstances the Police Service of Northern Ireland's Historical Enquiries Team has departed from its policy of investigating deaths in chronological order; and if he will make a statement; [273055]

(2) how many investigations undertaken by the Police Service of Northern Ireland's Historical Enquiries Team have related to the death of a (a) police officer, (b) member of the Ulster Defence Regiment, (c) member of the Army other than the Ulster Defence Regiment and (d) civilian; and if he will make a statement; [273060]

(3) how many deaths the Historical Enquiries Team has investigated to date; of those investigated how many cases have (a) been closed, (b) been referred for prosecution and (c) led to successful prosecutions; and if he will make a statement. [273062]

Paul Goggins: These are operational matters for the Chief Constable. I have asked him to reply directly to the hon. Member, and copies of his letters will be placed in the Library of the House.

Independent Monitoring Commission

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland when he expects the Independent Monitoring Commission to publish its next report. [273100]

Mr. Woodward: I have received the 21st report of the Independent Monitoring Commission and will publish it shortly.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Complaints

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland (1) how many Police Service of Northern Ireland police officers have been disciplined for concealing shoulder numbers in each of the last five years; [273054]

(2) how many complaints have been made against Police Service of Northern Ireland police officers for concealing shoulder numbers in each of the last five years. [273052]

Paul Goggins: Dealing with such complaints is the operational responsibility of the Office of the Police Ombudsman for Northern Ireland. I have asked the chief executive to reply to the hon. Member directly, and will arrange for copies of the letters to be placed in the Library of the House.

Police Service of Northern Ireland: Manpower

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many staff work in the Police Service of Northern Ireland's Historical Enquiries Team. [273053]

Paul Goggins: That is an operational matter for the Chief Constable. I have asked him to reply directly to the hon. Member, and a copy of his letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Racially Aggravated Offences

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many racially-motivated assaults in Northern Ireland were reported in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008; and how many successful prosecutions there were arising from such assaults. [273097]

Paul Goggins: In 2006-07 there were 251 and in 2007-08 there were 204 reported racially-motivated assaults/wounding. Data include the offence categories of, 'wounding with intent', 'grievous bodily harm with intent', 'wounding', 'grievous bodily harm', 'assault occasioning actual bodily harm', 'common assault', 'aggravated assault' and 'assault on police'.

The information sought on successful prosecutions is not available. Legislation for racial hatred is provided for by way of The Criminal Justice (No. 2) (Northern Ireland) Order 2004. Under this order, penalties for convictions for specified violent offences can be increased by the court if racial hatred, sexual orientation, gender or disability was an aggravating factor. Court data do not contain background information in relation to offences committed and it is therefore not possible to separate out the number of successful prosecutions for racially motivated offences in Northern Ireland.

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how many anti-Semitic assaults occurred in Northern Ireland in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [273098]

Paul Goggins: That is an operational matter for the Chief Constable. I have asked him to reply directly to the hon. Member, and a copy of his letter will be placed in the Library of the House.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2009, Official Report, column 826W, on trade unions, which trade unions his Department's agencies recognise. [271920]

Paul Goggins: The Northern Ireland Office agencies attach great importance to ensuring effective consultation and involvement of its staff. It is a personal decision whether or not to join a trade union; however the agencies encourage staff to join an appropriate trade union and to play an active part in it, ensuring their views are represented.

Members of staff in the Northern Ireland Office agencies are currently represented by the following trade unions:

Northern Ireland Public Service Alliance (NIPSA);

First Division Association (FDA);

Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS);

National Association of Schoolmasters Union of Women Teachers (NASUWT); Prison Officer's Association (POA);

Unison;

Prison Governor's Association (PGA).

JUSTICE

Antisocial Behaviour: Fixed Penalties

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many penalty notices for disorder were issued in each year since 2004, broken down by (a) age of recipient and (b) offence. [272022]

Maria Eagle: The number of penalty notices for disorder (PND) issued since 2004 in England and Wales, broken down by age group and offence is shown in tables 1 to 4.

PND data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

Ashwell Prison

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what factors he took into account when deciding on the nature of the review of the disturbance at HM Prison Ashwell on 11 April 2009. [272820]

Mr. Hanson: There are a number of types of incident where the National Offender Management Service automatically initiates an investigation and the disturbance at Ashwell was clearly a matter which required investigation.

The Chief Operating Officer of NOMS was the Commissioning Authority for the investigation. He asked the Head of National Operations Group, who has significant operational experience to lead the investigation, supported by the Governor of HMP Stafford.

I will make the findings of the investigation and our conclusions on it available to the House in due course.

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prison officers constitute the normal night staff team at HM Prison Ashwell; and how many prison officers were on duty on the night of 10-11 April 2009. [272830]

Mr. Hanson: The normal staffing levels for night patrol at HMP Ashwell are eight operational support grades (OSG), four prison officers and one senior officer. On the night of 10-11 April staffing levels exactly matched normal levels with the addition of another senior officer who was on induction for night duties and was shadowing a colleague.

Bribery Bill: Draft

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice from which organisations he has received representations on the draft Bribery Bill; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each representation received. [272600]

Maria Eagle: The draft Bribery Bill was published 25 March 2009 for pre-legislative scrutiny. Since its publication the Secretary-General of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) has written to the Justice Secretary to welcome the publication of the draft Bill and to urge its adoption as early as possible. There will be the opportunity for other organisations to make representations to the committee undertaking pre-legislative scrutiny in Parliament.

Community Service Orders

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost to the public purse has been of advertising the Community Payback scheme; and what role members of the public have in determining the work undertaken by offenders. [272072]

Mr. Hanson: The Community Payback campaign aims to raise awareness of Community Payback by inviting members of the public to vote for unpaid work to be completed by offenders in their area.

Since the creation of the Ministry of Justice, £63,000 has been spent on advertising Community Payback across 59 pioneer areas in England and Wales in March/April 2009. Funding was provided by the Home Office and the Ministry of Justice incurred no costs. The campaign invited the public to vote on a selected number of projects running in participating areas or to nominate new projects.

In 2007-08 55,771 people successfully completed community payback sentences. This amounts to over eight million hours of labour, used to benefit the community. The majority of the public surveyed in 2008 wanted to have a say on the type of work that was undertaken by offenders.

The Mayoral Project which involves Mayors and Civic Leaders to identify and sponsor Community Payback work project during their year in office, incurred no advertising costs nationally.

Crown Dependencies: Prisoners

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners from Crown Dependencies are serving time in British prisons for drug or alcohol-related offences. [272631]

Mr. Hanson: British Crown Dependencies consist of the Bailiwicks of Jersey and Guernsey and the Isle of Man and their citizens are British citizens. Any prisoners from the British Crown Dependencies are therefore included in the total number of British national prisoners and cannot be separately identified.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force. [272126]

Maria Eagle: From the information collected so far, the Ministry of Justice has spent £142,920 on carrying out inspections of air conditioning within departmental buildings that we have information for in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the regulations came into force. We are still awaiting returns and I will write to the hon. Member providing an updated figure when I have complete information.

Drugs: Sentencing

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people have been convicted of (a) possession and (b) supply of illegal drugs in each year since 1997; and how many received a custodial sentence in each case. [272027]

Maria Eagle: The available information is contained in the following tables.

Figures for 2008 will be available later this year.

Number of persons given custodial sentences[1] for possessing[2] or supplying[3] illegal drugs, 1997-2007

	Supply	Possession
1997	5,699	1,005
1998	5,914	1,505
1999	5,899	1,665
2000	5,484	1,529

2002	5,322	1,361
2003	5,666	1,315
2004	5,838	1,093
2005	5,719	1,174
2006	6,341	1,526
2007	7,054	1,827

[1] These figures include fully suspended and suspended sentences (Suspended sentence order introduced by the Criminal Justice Act 2003 came into force on 4 April 2005 and replaced the previous fully suspended sentence.)
[2] Offence of having possession of a controlled drug under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 s.5(2).
[3] Offence of having possession of a controlled drug with intent to supply and offence of supplying or offering to supply a controlled drug under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971s.4(3).
Notes:
1. The statistics relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offences for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences the principal offence is the offence for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.
2. These figures have been drawn from administrative data systems.
3. Although care is taken when processing and analysing the returns, the detail collected is subject to the inaccuracies inherent in any large scale recording system.

[3] Staffordshire police force were only able to submit sample data for persons proceeded against and convicted in the magistrates courts for the year 2000. Although sufficient to estimate higher orders of data, these data are not robust enough at a detailed level and have been excluded from the table.

Electoral Register

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what local authority electoral registration departments (a) use and (b) do not use cross-referencing of other local authority databases to assist in increasing levels of electoral registration. [273101]

Mr. Wills: The Electoral Commission has issued guidance to Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) encouraging them to use their powers to inspect records. The guidance also contains advice on the records that may be inspected. In addition, the Commission published a final set of performance standards for EROs in Great Britain in July 2008. These standards required EROs to provide information on their use of databases available to them. The Commission published the results of EROs' self-assessments against the performance standards in April 2009.

Performance Standard No. 1: 'Using information sources to verify entries on the register of electors and identify potential new electors', aims to ensure that EROs use the appropriate sources of information to verify records on the existing register of electors and identify potential new electors who come into the authority area. To meet the standard EROs are required to proactively identify and use the records they are entitled to inspect, throughout the year, to verify and validate data held on the electoral register.

The Commission's analysis of the returns for this standard shows that over half of EROs across Great Britain assessed themselves as above the performance standard, with 40 per cent. meeting the standard and a small minority (18 EROs) below the standard.

We will be discussing with the Commission how the performance standards programme can be developed.

National Offender Management Service

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will take steps to ensure that there is no duplication in the workload of National Offender Management Service regional directors and HM Prison Service area managers; and if he will make a statement. [272374]

Mr. Hanson: One of the key objectives of NOMS is to protect the public and reduce re-offending. The new regional directors of offender management (DOM) will be accountable for this objective by achieving effective integration of the work of all agencies across the region. Each will lead by developing relationships and creating and implementing a strategic vision focused on outcomes. Optimising the integration of the prison and probation services at local and regional levels will be a key part of their role to protect the public, reduce re-offending and improve performance.

Following a comprehensive review and restructure of the regional organisation, the role of Area Manager no longer exists. Instead, each DOM will be supported by a team of regional managers, each with a specific portfolio of work, in line with overall strategy, reporting to the DOM.

The demarcation lines between the strategic role of the DOM and the more delivery focused roles of their senior management Team will remove the opportunity for duplication.

Prison Service: Management

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice if he will commission a review of the effectiveness of management at HM Prison Service headquarters; and if he will make a statement. [272375]

Mr. Hanson: The effectiveness of management at NOMS headquarters is under constant review through the use of Key Performance Targets and either the Senior Civil Service or NOMS performance management system. The agency also has a management and leadership development framework in place to assess and develop managers' behavioural competence and effectiveness. I do not believe there is a need to commission a separate review.

Prisoners Release

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners have been released in each month since the inception of the end of custody licence scheme, broken down by category of offence. [272866]

Mr. Straw: Information on the number of prisoners released under the end of custody licence (ECL) scheme each month and by offence group can be found in the following tables.

The figures presented in the answer are published monthly and available on the Ministry of Justice website at:

http://www.justice.gov.uk/publications/endofcustodylicence.htm

These figures have been drawn from administrative IT systems which, as with any large scale recording system, are subject to possible errors with data entry and processing.

[1] Includes serious violent offences such as murder, manslaughter, wounding with intent to commit grievous bodily harm, possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life, child cruelty and serious explosives offences. A full list of exclusions can be found in Prison Service Instruction 42/2007 (which consolidates and replaces PSI 27/2007).

[2] Prisoners subject to the notification requirements of the Sex Offenders Act 1997/Sexual Offences Act 2003 are excluded from release on ECL. Not all offences of a sexual nature are subject to the notification requirements; such prisoners are therefore eligible for release on ECL.

Prisons: Public Consultation

Michael Fabricant: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the statement of 27 April 2009, on prisons and probation, when he plans to begin consultations on the proposed prison site at Curborough; when he expects to publish the exact location of the proposed site; when he expects to announce his decision on whether to site a prison at Curborough; and if he will make a statement. [272098]

Mr. Straw: As I announced on 27 April 2009, Official Report, columns 569-80, we will not be proceeding with the 2,500 place 'Titan' prisons, but we will be building 1,500 place prisons instead. There are no current plans for prisons on any of the sites listed other than those named by me in Parliament on 27 April.

The site at Curborough was one of a number of sites brought to the attention of the National Offender Management Service as part of the site search exercise for 'Titan' prisons to hold 2,500 prisoners. It was assessed, but not considered suitable for development as a Titan.

Special Educational Needs: Tribunals

Andrew George: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the cost to the public purse was of special education needs tribunals in each local authority area in each of the last five years. [272259]

Bridget Prentice: The First-tier Tribunal (Special Educational Needs and Disability Tribunal) (SEND) does not hold the information in a readily available format. This information could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The Tribunals Service does, however, hold data on the total annual running costs for the last five years (including departmental overheads, except 2005-06), as follows:

	£ million
2003-04	6.476
2004-05	6.376
2005-06[1]	5.136
2006-07	6.558
2007-08	5.633

[1] Department for Education and Skills (DFES) overheads are not disclosed in the annual report

The figures prior to 2006-07 can be found at appendix. 1 of each of the annual reports produced by the Department for Education and Skills and published on the SEND website:

www.sendist.gov.uk

The 2006-07 and 2007-08 figures are taken from the audited accounts of the Tribunals Service.

Television: Licensing

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many people per 10,000 of the population in Northern Ireland were prosecuted for non-payment of the television licence fee in each of the last three years. [273099]

Bridget Prentice: Information is not available for 2006 as centrally collated data only became available with the implementation of a new IT system.

In 2007, 5,901 people were prosecuted, representing a rate of 40 per 10,000 of the population, 4,466 were convicted and 1,435 cases were withdrawn or dismissed. In 2008 5,272 people were prosecuted representing a rate of 30 per 10,000 of the population, 4,123 were convicted, and 1,149 cases were dismissed or withdrawn.

The information for 2008 is provisional.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which trade unions are recognised by each of his Department's executive agencies. [271950]

Mr. Straw: The Ministry of Justice recognises the Public and Commercial Services Union and the FDA across the whole of the organisation including its executive agencies.

Prospect are recognised within Her Majesty's Court Service.

HMPS recognise the following trade unions: The Professional Trades Union for Prison, Correctional and Secure Psychiatric Workers (POA) and The Prison Governors Association (PGA).

The following work together with the National Offender Management Service under the title National Offender Management Service Trade Unions (NOMSTUS): Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS), Prospect, FDA and Royal College of Nursing (RCN).

The following work together with HM Prison Service under the title of Prison Service Joint Industrial Council (PSJIC): Transport and General Workers Union (TGWU), Union of Construction, Allied Trades and Technicians (UCATT), GMB, AMICUS, UCATT.

Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007

Tony Baldry: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice whether he plans to bring into effect the debt management scheme provisions of the Tribunals, Courts and Enforcement Act 2007. [272044]

Bridget Prentice: The Government are committed to supporting consumers in unexpected difficulties and are considering measures for providing real and timely assistance to those encountering debt problems. As part of this, we are currently reviewing the implementation of part 5 of the Act. It is expected that an announcement will be made on this shortly.

Victim Support Schemes: Finance

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what funding his Department has made available for victim support services in 2009-10. [272690]

Maria Eagle: Victim Support has been granted £30 million core funding for 2009-10 from the Ministry of Justice.

In addition Victim Support has been allocated £6.2 million in 2009-10 to finance Victim Support Plus.

Wandsworth Prison: Inspections

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice for what reasons a scheduled inspection by HM Chief Inspector of Prisons of HM Prison Wandsworth did not take place in 2008; and if he will make a statement. [272373]

Mr. Hanson: No inspection of HM Prison Wandsworth by HM Chief Inspector of Prisons was scheduled in 2008. The Chief Inspector carried out a full announced inspection of HMP Wandsworth in May 2004 with an unannounced follow up to that inspection in June 2006. The next scheduled inspection will be in June this year.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

62 South Eaton Place

Robert Neill: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department owns the property at 62 South Eaton Place, London for the purposes of the Land Registry. [253890]

Mr. Woolas: I have been asked to reply.

My Department holds this property by way of a leasehold interest although as is normal legal title is vested in the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government as the property forms part of the Government's civil estate.

Angling: Planning Permission

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1096W, on angling, if she will ensure that the review of planning application fees takes into account the effect on the construction of fishing lakes by commercial enterprises of changes in the levels of (a) planning fees and (b) mineral extraction charges. [273472]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government are currently conducting a review of planning application fees and as part of that review, we are assessing the effect of recent increases on the construction of fishing lakes.

Audit Commission: Public Relations

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 752W, on publicity, what projects were undertaken by each of the public relations companies hired by the Audit Commission; and for what reason the Commission did not use its own staff in each case. [272332]

Mr. Khan: This is an operational matter for the Audit Commission and I have asked the chief executive of the Audit Commission to respond to the hon. Member direct.

Letter from Steve Bundred, dated 6 May 2009:

Your Parliamentary question outlined above has been passed to me to reply.

Geronimo Communications—£45,600

The Audit Commission contracted with Geronimo, an advertising and communications company, to supply an interim Director of Communications to cover the gap between the resignation of Jenny Grey, who left the Audit Commission to become Director of Communications at the Cabinet Office, and the appointment of a successor. The payment covered the services of a senior executive with board level experience, Marina Pirotta, from June to October 2008. Ms Pirotta brought experience and knowledge that was, by definition, not available within the commission.

Consolidated Communications—£137,700

The Audit Commission contracted with Consolidated Communications, a communications and public relations company, in 2006 and 2007 during a period of substantial reorganisation of its publishing and media relations. Consolidated offered advice and support, replacing functions that, temporarily, were not available in house.

Fishburn Hedges—£141,900

In order to set up Comprehensive Area Assessment, the Audit Commission is creating, in collaboration with other inspectorates, new ways of reaching out to the general public, and providing them with information about how their areas are fairing. Graphics and branding specialists from Fishburn Hedges were appointed in autumn 2008 to carry out research and graphical development. The Audit Commission did not have these skills in house.

A copy of this letter will be placed in Hansard.

Community Development: Finance

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how many community projects formerly funded by her Department have had their funding from her Department discontinued in the last 12 months; [272869]

(2) how many community projects funded by her Department have started in the last 12 months. [272870]

Mr. Khan: The Department provides funding to local authorities and national or regional third sector organisations for a range of projects and initiatives designed to support communities. However most community projects are funded locally and so information about the total number of projects started in the last 12 months or those which are no longer funded is not held centrally.

Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many groups receiving funding from local authorities in support of work to prevent violent extremism use subcontractors; what measures are in place to monitor the work of such subcontractors; and if she will make a statement. [271516]

Mr. Khan: As the hon. Member will know, funding in support of the preventing violent extremism agenda is provided through Area Based Grant to local authorities. Area Based Grant is a mechanism for providing non-ring fenced funding to local authorities to enable them to deliver their area priorities. Local authorities are responsible for monitoring the use and performance of subcontractors and have their own mechanisms in place for doing so.

Community Relations: Religion

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst of 4 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1644-5W, on community relations: religion, which organisations each of the regional faith forums has funded to date. [272150]

Mr. Khan: Funding is provided to the forums by Communities and Local Government for them to take forward the regional strand of the inter faith framework, "Face-to-Face and Side-by-Side". The regional faith forums are not grant making bodies. However we are aware that in some circumstances they may fund third party organisations to support the wider regional implementation of the inter faith framework. We do not routinely collect this information but believe this to amount to no more than £10,000.00 nationally during 2008-09.

Conveyancing: Fees and Charges

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what information her Department holds on (a) the property search fees levied by each local authority and (b) variance between local authorities in property search fees. [272341]

Margaret Beckett: The Department holds information on those local authorities who made available information on the fees charged for local inquiries (CON29) search of 1 April 2007, which showed that the average fee charged for a CON29 search was £114 and ranged from £28 to £244. We are currently collecting data on the fees charged by local authorities as of 1 April 2009 following the implementation of the Local Authorities (England)(Charges for Property Searches) Regulations 2008.

Council Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many housing units were held by (a) local authorities and (b) registered social landlords in each region in each year since 1997. [273347]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows the total number of dwellings owned by local authorities and registered social landlords in each region in each year from 1997.

Council Tax

Mrs. Gillan: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many people in each local authority area in (a) Wales and (b) England have been prosecuted for non-payment of council tax in each year since 1999. [272911]

John Healey: The administration of council tax is a matter for individual local authorities and data on prosecutions for non-payment in England are not collected centrally. Council tax policy in Wales is a matter for the Welsh Assembly Government.

Councillors

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1101W, on councillors: Arun, whether the Audit Commission plans to require local authorities to disclose the bank account details of councillors held in their payroll databases as part of the National Fraud Initiative exercise for 2010-11. [273473]

Mr. Khan: This is an operational matter for the Audit Commission and I have asked the chief executive of the Audit Commission to write to the hon. Member direct.

Letter from Steve Bundred, 6 May 2009:

Your Parliamentary question outlined above has been passed to me to reply.

The 2010/11 National Fraud Initiative will collect data from local authorities beginning in October 2010. All local authorities are required to submit payroll data for all of their employees and councillors and the data fields submitted will include bank account numbers and sort codes. This information is used to detect undeclared bank accounts in circumstances where for example a benefit claimant has failed to declare income, but the actual account details are not disclosed. Data matches merely indicate whether two bank accounts are the same or different and neither the sort code or the account number is reproduced.

A copy of this letter will be placed in Hansard.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent by her Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. [272132]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1104W.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many of her Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the regulations came into force; and if she will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272140]

Mr. Khan: The Department for Communities and Local Government occupies one building, Eland House, which has an air conditioning system with an output greater than 250 kW, where the Department has responsibility for inspecting and controlling the equipment in line with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. The Department holds a current inspection report for this system and a copy of the document will be placed in the Library.

Departmental Assets

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when her Department last reviewed its assets and land and property holdings with a view to identifying and disposing of surpluses. [269850]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the Department for Communities and Local Government's Property Asset Management Plan published in March 2009, which sets out an overarching five year vision for corporate property assets and property services across the Department's group, comprising our central headquarters, the Government office network and all our other arm's length bodies (ALBs). The plan is formally reviewed annually and is available on the CLG website:

www.communities.gov.uk/publications/corporate/assetmanagementplan

I also refer the hon. Member to the Operational Efficiency Programme final report:

www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/oep_final_report_210409_pu728.pdf which identifies the further work to be undertaken on the QEII Conference Centre.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much (a) her Department and (b) its executive agencies spent on consultancy contracts in 2008-09. [272585]

Mr. Khan: This information will be available in the Department's annual report which will be published in June.

Departmental Furniture

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 313W, on departmental furniture, how many chairs were ordered from Herman Miller in 2007-08; and what the model and cost of each was, including value added tax. [272541]

Mr. Khan: Pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough (Mr. Jackson) of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 313W, on departmental furniture, the number, model and cost of the chairs, including VAT, ordered from Herman Miller by the Department for Communities and Local Government in 2007-08 are detailed as follows.

Model	Quantity	Unit cost[1] (£)
Vista (visavis)	148	267.80
Dean	16	381
Hay	6	424

[1] Inclusive of VAT

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what estimate she has made of the (a) energy consumed by, (b) energy cost of and (c) carbon dioxide emissions from each category of IT device in each division of her Department in each of the last five years; and if she will make a statement; [269549]

(2) what the average server capacity utilisation by each division of her Department was in each of the last five years; and if she will make a statement; [269584]

(3) how many (a) printers and (b) multi-function devices with printing functions were in use in each division of her Department in each of the last five years; how many such devices had a function enabling two-sided printing; and if she will make a statement; [269606]

(4) how many and what proportion of IT products in each category procured for each division of her Department were compliant with the Government's Buy Sustainable-Quick Win standard in the latest year for which figures are available; and if she will make a statement. [269629]

Mr. Khan: Communities and Local Government (CLG), in line with the approach adopted by the cross-Government Chief Information Officers (CIO) Council, has produced a 'CIO Green ICT Roadmap' which my Department will be following to deliver against the 18 target improvement areas outlined in the Greening Government ICT Strategy.

The Greening Government ICT strategy has been established to:

make energy consumption of our ICT systems carbon neutral by 2012, and make them carbon neutral across their lifetime (including manufacture and disposal) by 2020.

CLG is in the process of introducing the basic Quick Wins steps into our procurement strategies and this will assist our procurement officers moving forward.

A full Report of the CIO Council Green ICT Roadmaps is scheduled to be made available by the Cabinet Office in May featuring the action plans of all Departments (including CLG) involved in this initiative.

CLG operates a large-scale, multi-vendor supply chain delivering a wide range of ICT categories. Obtaining the level of specific detail requested in these PQs would be likely to have significant cost implications and involve removing key staff from urgent delivery programmes.

Departmental Internet

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department spent on maintaining its website in the last 12 months. [273092]

Mr. Khan: We do not hold the information in the format required. The Department pays for its intranet, corporate site and info4local on the same contracts and is not able to break this cost down further. Across all three websites we paid £446,124 in 2008-09 for annual hosting charges, licensing, application support and maintenance and development.

Eco-Towns: Marston Vale

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library a copy of the report prepared by PricewaterhouseCoopers for her Department on the Marston Vale eco-town proposal. [272344]

Margaret Beckett: The promoters of Marston Vale eco-town withdrew their proposals in early February 2009 and are no longer part of the Eco-towns Programme. Therefore they were not included in the Financial Viability Study of the Eco-towns Programme which we published on 5 March 2009.

Eco-Towns: Public Consultation

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which organisations have responded to the Government's consultation on the draft planning policy statement on eco-towns. [272154]

Margaret Beckett: The consultation on the eco-towns programme, including the draft Planning Policy Statement closed on 30 April 2009. Following our review of the consultation responses we will publish a Government response together with consultation summary report of responses received, including a list of organisations that responded to the consultation.

Empty Property: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many of the new houses completed in (a) Essex and (b) Castle Point constituency between 2003 and 2008 were vacant in October 2008. [273371]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information requested is not held centrally.

The Council Tax Base and Council Tax-Base supplementary (CTB1 and CTB1S) return, reported by local authorities to CLG, includes the total number of long term and short term vacancies in a local authority area.

The following table gives the total number of vacant dwellings in Castle Point district authority and Essex at 6 October 2008, the latest date for which figures are available.

County/local authority	Number of long term empty dwellings (empty for more than six months)	Total number of empty dwellings
Essex	6,223	18,365
Castle Point	311	877

Source:
Council Taxbase and Council Taxbase Supplementary (CTB1 and CTB1S) returns from local authorities.

Those dwellings vacant for less than six months are more likely to be empty for a short period following a sale before the new owner occupies it, where the property needs work to be carried out before it can be occupied, or where the property is in probate and are seen as 'transactional' vacant dwellings and are thus a characteristic of the housing market.

It is therefore sometimes more appropriate to look at long term vacancies rather than the total number of vacant dwellings.

European Union

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on how many occasions she has visited Brussels on official business in the last 12 months. [272876]

Mr. Khan: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government has been to Brussels once on official business in the last 12 months.

Fire Services

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the (a) original estimated and (b) current estimated (i) cost and (ii) completion date is of the (A) Durham, (B) Warrington, (C) Wakefield, (D) Castle Donington, (E) Wolverhampton, (F) Cambridge, (G) Taunton, (H) Fareham and (I) Morden regional control centre of the FiReControl project; and if she will make a statement. [272604]

Mr. Khan: There was no capital outlay for the buildings as the Department procured them through a private developer scheme. The lease cost was established through the procurement. The risk of construction costs rested with the developer. The FiReControl Business Case Part 2, published in November 2008, available in the House Library outlines lease costs.

I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Stroud (Mr. Drew) on 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 346W, which outlines the practical completion date for each region.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many fire engines have (a) entered and (b) left service in the last 12 months. [272871]

Mr. Khan: The number of fire engines which have entered and left service in the last 12 months is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Fire Services: Closures

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many fire stations have closed in the last 12 months. [273093]

Mr. Khan: This information is reported in annual returns to the Department, and the latest data show that one fire station closed in England in 2007-08.

Fire Services: Death

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many firefighters have died in the last 12 months as a result of injuries sustained in the course of their duties. [272873]

Mr. Khan: No firefighters died as a result of injuries sustained in the course of duty in 2008-09.

Fire Services: Industrial Disputes

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 316W, on fire services: industrial disputes, whether (a) her Department and (b) the Government Offices for the Regions hold copies of the contingency plans of fire and rescue authorities in the event of industrial action in the fire service. [272329]

Mr. Khan: We do not hold copies of the contingency plans prepared by fire and rescue authorities in relation to industrial action.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what arrangements are in place for the provision of fire cover in the event of national industrial action by firefighters. [272426]

Mr. Khan: The provision of fire cover within a fire and rescue authority in the event of industrial action is the responsibility of that fire and rescue authority, whether the dispute is local or national in extent.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether firefighters from other fire and rescue authorities will be asked to cross picket lines to provide emergency fire cover in the event of localised industrial action in a fire and rescue authority. [272442]

Mr. Khan: The question of whether firefighters from another fire and rescue authority would be asked to cross any particular picket line would be a matter for the respective fire and rescue authorities.

Fire Services: Influenza

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent assessment the London Regional Resilience Forum has made of the effect of an influenza pandemic on the operation of a fire and rescue service in London. [272420]

Mr. Khan: The London Regional Resilience Forum is responsible for strategic, multi-agency planning and for ensuring that London as a whole is fully prepared to deal with the consequences of an influenza pandemic on public health and the continuity of essential services in London. It is the statutory responsibility of individual Category 1 responders themselves, including the London fire brigade, to ensure that they are prepared and have business continuity processes in place to manage the effects of an influenza pandemic.

Fire Services: Labour Turnover

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many firefighters have (a) entered and (b) left the fire and rescue service in the last 12 months. [272872]

Mr. Khan: The latest data available on the number of firefighters entering and leaving the fire and rescue service are for 2007-08 and are shown in the following table.

Firefighters entering and leaving the fire and rescue service, England, 2007-08

	Joiners	Leavers
Whole-time	1,014	1,467
Retained	752	1,130
Total	1,766	2,597

Fire Services: Uniforms

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department has spent on the design of new uniforms for fire and rescue services; and what public consultation it carried out on the design. [272878]

Mr. Khan: A nationally available contract for the provision of uniforms, personal protective equipment and other clothing was awarded by Firebuy Ltd., as the national procurement body for the English fire and rescue service, to Bristol Uniforms Ltd. in 2007. The design of the new uniforms was undertaken by this supplier. Firefighers and union representatives were consulted on the design as part of the garment trials in 2006, to which Communities and Local Government contributed £190,000. The views of the general public were also considered through surveys conducted in 2007. Firebuy have subsequently participated in presentations on the new uniform to fire and rescue authorities.

Firebuy

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether papers related to the Firebuy project are subject to the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act 2000. [272429]

Mr. Khan: Firebuy Ltd., as an executive non-departmental public body of Communities and Local Government, is subject to the provisions of the Freedom of Information (FOI) Act 2000. It has produced a publication scheme in accordance with the FOI Act.

Government Offices For The Regions

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library a copy of the Government Office Network's Places handbook. [272413]

Mr. Khan: The Places Handbook has been developed as a tool to help Government Office (GO) staff and their partners support the delivery of Government policy. It is an online Handbook that provides quick and easy access to a range of analytical and delivery tools and techniques, as well as links to appropriate data sources. As the Places Handbook is an online facility I have been advised that it is not suitable for placing in the Library. Instead, I am providing the email link to the Places Handbook which is accessed by the public via the internet:

http://www.gos.gov.uk/placeshandbook/

Green Belt: East Midlands

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what changes the East Midlands Regional Plan proposes to make to green belt designation and protection in the region. [273217]

Mr. Khan: The East Midlands Regional Plan, published on 12 March 2009, makes no specific changes to green belt designation in the east midlands. However, the Three Cities Sub-Regional Strategy Policy 2 (Sub-Regional Priorities for Green Belt Areas) states that:

"The principle of the Nottingham-Derby and Burton-Swadlincote green belts will be retained. However a comprehensive review of the most sustainable locations for growth within the Nottingham Core HMA and Hucknall will be required urgently to consider how to accommodate future growth requirements over at least the next 25 years. As this may include considering locations within the green belt, when implementing this review through their local development documents, local planning authorities will have regard to:

the level of growth proposed in Regional Plan Policy 13a and in Three Cities SRS Policy 3 identifying the locations for future development; sustainable development principles; the principles and purposes of including land in Green Belt set out in PPG2; and where changes to the Green Belt are proposed, the retention of existing, or creation of new, defensible boundaries based on natural features or other barriers such as major roads.

This review will need to be done as part of the evidence base underpinning the next RSS review."

Homes and Communities Agency: Finance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the budget for administrative costs of the Homes and Communities Agency is in each of the next three years. [270575]

Margaret Beckett: The Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) inherited running costs budgets of £86 million per annum from its predecessor bodies. Obviously with the publication of the Operational Efficiency Programme on 21 April, my Department in conjunction with its arms length bodies, is currently reviewing the scope for making further operational efficiency savings in the current spending period. Budgets for 2011-12 fall in the next spending period and decisions have yet to be made.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1111-12W, on Homes and Communities Agency: finance, how much each local authority will receive from the £50 million to enable local authorities to deliver new social housing; and how many homes she expects to be delivered through that funding. [272480]

Margaret Beckett: The allocation of grant funding is dependent on the bids submitted by local authorities. Likewise the number of homes delivered will depend on the details of the bids submitted, for example whether they are flats or houses.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much the Homes and Communities Agency spent on producing its Affordable Housing Survey publication; and how many copies were produced. [272509]

Margaret Beckett: The Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor body, the Housing Corporation, spent £160,000 on producing its Affordable Housing Survey. There were no hard copies produced of the report; it is freely and publicly available on the Homes and Communities website at:

www.homesandcommunities.co.uk

Housing Benefit

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many and what proportion of (a) registered social landlords and (b) local authority tenants were in receipt of housing benefit in each of the last five years. [273346]

Mr. Iain Wright: Estimates of the proportions of registered social landlord and local authority tenants in receipt of housing benefit from 2002-03 to 2006-07 are provided in the following table. These estimates are based on data from the Survey of English Housing.

Social sector households in receipt of housing benefit, England, 2002-03 to 2006-07

	Tenure
	Local authority	Registered social landlord[1]	All social renters (percentage)	Total number of social renters (Thousand)
2002-03	64	60	62	2,483
2003-04	64	59	62	2,428
2004-05	62	61	61	2,366
2005-06	62	60	61	2,357
2006-07	63	63	63	2,489

[1] Sometimes referred to as Housing Associations.

Source:
Communities and Local Government, Survey of English Housing

Survey based estimates of the separate numbers of local authority and registered social landlord tenants are not considered robust as a significant number of registered social landlord tenants wrongly report that they are local authority tenants, typically when ownership has transferred due to a large-scale voluntary transfer.

Housing Market

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government with reference to the written ministerial statement of 8 December 2008, Official Report, columns 24-26WS, on home buying and selling, who the members of the working group on home condition reports are; and what declaration of political activity each has made. [272338]

Margaret Beckett: The membership and terms of reference of the "Working Group on Condition Information in the Home Buying and Selling Process" are available on the CLG website at:

www.communities.gov.uk/housing/buyingselling/homeconditionworkinggroup

There is no requirement on the members of the working group to declare political activity.

Housing: Finance

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much of the £600 million announced for housing in the Budget 2009 is additional to that announced in the Comprehensive Spending Review. [272427]

Mr. Iain Wright: All of it.

Housing: Low Incomes

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many (a) local authorities and (b) housing associations are participating in the Social HomeBuy scheme; and how many properties were sold by each participating organisation in each of the last three years. [272114]

Margaret Beckett: A table has been deposited in the Library showing how many (a) local authorities and (b) housing associations are currently taking part in the Social HomeBuy scheme; and number of sales by each participating organisation per year from 2006-07 to 2008-09.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 23 April 2009, Official Report, columns 886-7W, on housing: low incomes, what budget has been established for the (a) the National Affordable Housing Programme, (b) Decent Homes, (c) the Community Infrastructure Fund, (d) support for the Department for Work and Pensions programme of Support for Mortgage Interest and (e) other housing and regeneration programmes in (i) 2008-09, (ii) 2009-10 and (iii) 2010-11. [272199]

Mr. Khan: The following table includes capital budgets for each of the listed areas in 2008-09, 2009-10 and 2010-11:

Programme

	2008-09	2009-10	2010-11
	to nearest £ million[1]
National Affordable Housing programme	2,629	3,471	2,299
Decent Homes	1,291	1,278	848
Community Infrastructure Fund	37	123	160
Support for Mortgage Interest (DWP programme)[2]	0	40	55
Other housing and regeneration programmes (Growth Areas and Thames Gateway, Regional Housing Pot, Housing Market Renewal and the Homes and Communities Agency's Property and Regeneration programme)	1,272	1,462	1,243

[1] Figures are provisional and may be subject to amendment through the financial year

In addition, £108/£152/£147 million resource (near cash) has been made available for other housing and regeneration programmes. These figures do not include additional funding to support the housing market announced in the Budget on 22 April 2009:

Programme

	2009-10	2010-11	Total
			to nearest £ million
Stalled sites fund	320	80	400
Local authority house building	30	70	100
Housing energy efficiency	75	30	105

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of implications for her Department's policy on affordable housing of the findings of the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing Survey; and whether she plans to take steps in response to its recommendations. [272507]

Margaret Beckett: The purpose of this Affordable Housing Survey was to establish an understanding of the quality of schemes delivered prior to the introduction of new quality standards by the then Housing Corporation in April 2007, to enable the impact of introducing the new standards to be evaluated in the future.

We have already taken action and have put in place policies and legislation to make sure that poorly designed housing is not repeated. Through the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 and the Planning Act 2008, we are ensuring that design quality is a key consideration for local authorities and the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA). The emphasis must now be on more effective implementation. We expect future surveys to show increasing improvement as the policies bed down and reflect the new HCA standards.

The challenge going forward is to apply these new standards and policies across the board and the HCA and local authorities will play a lead role in making that happen.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what percentage of HomeBuy applicants have registered an interest in (a) the First-time Buyers Initiative, (b) HomeBuy Direct, (c) Rent to HomeBuy, (d) MyChoice HomeBuy, (e) Open Market HomeBuy and (f) OwnHome; [272578]

(2) what the average period between an applicant first making an application and a decision being taken on that application has been for the (a) HomeBuy Direct, (b) OwnHome, (c) OpenMarket HomeBuy, (d) the First-time Buyers Initiative, (e) MyChoice HomeBuy, (f) New Build HomeBuy, (g) Social HomeBuy and (h) Rent to HomeBuy scheme in each of the last three years; [272815]

(3) what targets have been set for HomeBuy agents to process applications; and what steps are in place to ensure that agents process applications within an acceptable time; [272816]

(4) what percentage of people registering for HomeBuy to date have expressed an interest in New Build HomeBuy. [272762]

Margaret Beckett: The data sought on expression of interest and applications are not held centrally.

Under the terms of their contract with the Homes and Communities Agency, HomeBuy Agents who administer the HomeBuy scheme and the First-time Buyers Initiative are required to send applicants confirmation of their eligibility status within eight working days of receipt of a fully completed application form.

HomeBuy agents are required to provide a monthly self-assessment of compliance against Key Performance Standards, which are monitored by, and discussed with, the Homes and Communities Agency at regular contract review meetings.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of (a) affordable housing and (b) homes for social rent built in each of the last five years had (i) one, (ii) two, (iii) three and (iv) four or more bedrooms. [272580]

Mr. Iain Wright: A table will be placed in the Library of the House which shows the percentage of social rented and affordable homes delivered through the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing Programme by the number of bedrooms. These figures are only available from the Homes and Communities Agency's Investment Management System, so will not cover the total number of new build social rent and affordable homes.

Not all affordable housing is provided through new build completions, supply can also come from the acquisition and refurbishment of private sector homes. In 2007-08, a total of 53,730 additional affordable homes, of which 29,370 were for social rent homes, were provided.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of (a) affordable housing and (b) homes for social rent built in each of the last five years were (i) apartments and (ii) houses. [272581]

Mr. Iain Wright: A table will be placed in the Library of the House which shows the percentage of social rented and affordable homes delivered through the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing Programme by apartments and houses. These figures are only available from the Homes and Communities Agency's Investment Management System so will not cover the total number of new build social rent and affordable homes.

Not all affordable housing is provided through new build completions, supply can also come from the acquisition and refurbishment of private sector homes. In 2007-08, a total of 53,730 additional affordable homes, of which 29,370 were for social rent homes, were provided.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what estimate she has made of her Department's expenditure on (a) OwnHome, (b) New Build HomeBuy, (c) HomeBuy Direct, (d) Rent to HomeBuy, (e) Social HomeBuy, (f) the First-Time Buyers Initiative, (g) Open Market HomeBuy and (h) MyChoice HomeBuy in each of the next three years; and if she will make a statement; [272755]

(2) what costs her Department has incurred in the administration of (a) OwnHome, (b) New Build HomeBuy, (c) HomeBuy Direct, (d) Rent to Buy HomeBuy, (e) Social HomeBuy, (f) the First-time Buyers Initiative, (g) Open Market HomeBuy and (h) MyChoice HomeBuy on the latest date for which figures are available; and if she will make a statement; [272763]

(3) what her Department's total expenditure was on (a) OwnHome, (b) New Build HomeBuy, (c) HomeBuy Direct, (d) Rent to HomeBuy, (e) Social HomeBuy, (f) the First-time Buyers Initiative, (g) Open Market HomeBuy and (h) MyChoice HomeBuy to date. [272764]

Margaret Beckett: The Homes and Communities Agency expenditure to the end of 2008-09 on (a) OwnHome, (b) New Build HomeBuy, (c) HomeBuy Direct, (d) Rent to HomeBuy, (e) Social HomeBuy, (f) First-time Buyers Initiative, (g) Open Market HomeBuy and (h) MyChoice HomeBuy is as follows:

		£ million
(a)	OwnHome	22
(b)	New Build HomeBuy	639
(c)	HomeBuy Direct	0
(d)	Rent to HomeBuy	88
(e)	Social HomeBuy	3
(f)	First-time Buyers Initiative	213
(g)	Open Market HomeBuy[1]	350
(h)	My Choice HomeBuy	115

[1] Includes OwnHome and My Choice HomeBuy

On expenditure on Social HomeBuy in the local authority sector I refer the hon. Member to my reply of 9 February 2009, Official Report, columns 1693-694W.

£400 million has been made available for the HomeBuy Direct scheme. In addition, a proportion of the £400 million announced in the Budget to unlock stalled housing developments will also be spent through HomeBuy Direct. Scheme funding is currently available up to the end of 2010-11. The precise level of spend will depend on take-up.

Expenditure on the First-time Buyers Initiative is forecast to be around £13 million in 2009-10, with no further expenditure in future years.

We have not allocated specific funds in 2009-10 and 2010-11 for the other categories listed to allow full flexibility within the National Affordable Housing Programme operated by the Homes and Communities Agency.

Future estimated levels of expenditure beyond 2010-11 will be dependent upon the next spending review.

The administration costs incurred by Communities and Local Government for the HomeBuy programme and the First-time Buyers' initiative form part of the overall cost for the policy and delivery of affordable housing.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much initial equity homebuyers on average have purchased through the New Build HomeBuy scheme to date. [272760]

Margaret Beckett: The following table shows the average value and percentage of equity for properties purchased under New Build HomeBuy schemes in England since 2006-07, when the New Build HomeBuy scheme started.

New Build HomeBuy

	Average value of equity (£)	Average percentage of equity

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average amount of assistance provided to a home purchaser under the New Build HomeBuy scheme has been to date. [272761]

Margaret Beckett: The assistance provided under New Build HomeBuy is in the form of grant for the provision of the property which enables the property to be sold in stages on shared ownership terms. The national average amount of grant per unit provided through the Homes and Communities Affordable Housing Programme for new Build HomeBuy to date is £28,374.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1117W, on housing: low incomes, which local authorities offer cash incentive schemes to assist their tenants in purchasing houses; [272854]

(2) how many houses have been sold via local authority cash incentive schemes in each year since 1997. [272855]

Mr. Iain Wright: As reported by local authorities through the 2007-08 Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix, the following local authorities in England provided cash incentive scheme grants, under section 129 of the Housing Act 1988, to assist tenants to acquire an interest in a new home in 2007-08:

Barnet
Bournemouth UA
Camden
Carrick
Chesterfield
Croydon
Dartford
Ealing
Enfield
Hackney
Hammersmith and Fulham
Harrow
Hillingdon
Ipswich
Kingston upon Thames
Lambeth
Lewisham
Mid Devon
North Cornwall
North Hertfordshire Norwich
Purbeck
Redbridge
Redditch
Selby
South Cambridgeshire
St. Albans
Tendring
Three Rivers
Tower Hamlets Wandsworth
Warwick
Watford
West Somerset
Westminster
Woking
Wycombe

The figures supplied count only the number of local authorities giving cash incentive scheme grants under section 129 of the Housing Act 1988, and they also do not include any local authorities offering cash incentive scheme grants under these provisions where none were taken up in the year.

The Department does not collect data on the number of properties purchased with the assistance of cash incentive scheme grants, but for the number of cash incentive scheme grants made in each year since 1997 in England under section 129 of the Housing Act 1988, I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave on 24 February 2009, Official Report, columns 554-56W, to my hon. Friend the Member for Regent's Park and Kensington, North (Ms Buck).

Local Government

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the remit of her Department's Lean Six Sigma for local government initiative is. [272447]

Mr. Khan: Six Sigma, or any other business transformation technique, is not specifically recommended for use in local government by the Department. The National Process Improvement Project (NPIP), funded by the department and run by London borough of Lewisham, asked pilot local authorities to examine the application of a variety of service transformation tools and techniques to different service areas, and created best practice guidance to their use based on generic principles and irrespective of specific methodology.

This guidance forms part of the Business Improvement Package:

www.bip.rcoe.gov.uk

and is in the process of being fully transferred to the local government sector with regional improvement and efficiency bodies taking forward the learning on a regional basis.

Local Government Information Unit

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 318W, on the Local Government Information Unit: finance, for what project the Local Government Information Unit provided consultancy services in 2008; and whether the Unit produced a report on the project. [272347]

Mr. Khan: Pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough (Mr. Jackson) of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 318W, further investigation has found that in 2008 the Local Government Information Unit in fact provided research services rather than consultancy services for 'The Role of Councillors to inform the Commission on Local Councillors'.

A paper was produced and assisted in informing and producing the report of the Councillors Commission, titled 'Representing the Future'. This was presented to the Secretary of State and published for wider dissemination in December 2007.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 318W, on the Local Government Information Unit: finance, for what project the Local Government Information Unit provided consultancy in 2009; and what the reimbursed legal fees related to. [272330]

Mr. Khan: In 2009 the Local Government Information Unit was paid for research work prepared earlier for the "Learning Network on the Role of Councillors in Neighbourhood Working- LGR 65/12/174" project.

The reimbursement of legal fees related to the legal costs incurred by LGIU in consulting on extension/ termination of arrangements regarding a secondment to Hazel Blears' office.

Mortgages: Government Assistance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much will be provided from the Homes and Communities Agency's budget for (a) the Repossession Prevention Fund, (b) the Mortgage Rescue Scheme, (c) the Homeowners Mortgage Support Scheme and (d) the measures announced to increase the level of homebuilding in the 2009 Budget in each of the next three years. [272212]

Margaret Beckett: The Repossession Prevention Fund will be funded directly from my Department's budget not the Homes and Communities Agency budget.

For the Mortgage Rescue Scheme the HCA budget for 2009-10 will include £140 million and for 2010-11 will include £95 million.

The Homeowners Mortgage Support Scheme will be funded directly from my Department's budget not the HCA budget.

As a result of the Budget 2009 the HCA will receive an additional £450 million over the next two years (2009-10 and 2010-11) to help increase the levels of house building. This is broken down as follows:

£400 million to unlock currently stalled developments by providing development finance, and additional funding for social and affordable housing, including help for first time buyers.

£50 million to enable local authorities to deliver new social housing over the next two years.

Budgets for 2011-12 are dependent on the outcome of the next spending review.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) whether property owners in negative equity are eligible for assistance under the Mortgage Rescue Scheme; [272448]

(2) what changes to the eligibility criteria for the Mortgage Rescue Scheme she proposes to make to extend eligibility to property owners in negative equity; and whether those with no equity will be eligible for assistance under the scheme. [272449]

Margaret Beckett: In the Budget 2009 it was announced that the Mortgage Rescue Scheme criteria will be expanded to include eligible households previously excluded due to negative equity. This change will come into effect from 1 May 2009.

All households are now able to apply for the Mortgage Rescue Scheme so long as they meet all the other eligibility criteria and the value of their mortgage (and any additional secured loans) is less than 120 per cent. of the value of their home.

This change reflects our commitment to keep the scheme under review in order to maintain flexibility in the light of changing market conditions.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many months arrears are required for a homeowner to be eligible for assistance under (a) the Mortgage Rescue scheme and (b) the Homeowners Mortgage Support scheme. [272451]

Margaret Beckett: Neither the Mortgage Rescue scheme nor Homeowners Mortgage Support have a requirement for households to be in arrears for a specified period in order to access the schemes.

For the Mortgage Rescue scheme, lenders are expected to demonstrate that they have used their full range of hardship tools—including in most cases three months' forbearance—before a household applies for support.

For Homeowners Mortgage Support, households need to have demonstrated that they have had a temporary loss of household income and to have been making regular payments (but not necessarily in full) in agreement with their lender for at least five months.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government within how many years of purchase must a home be repossessed in order for mortgage lenders to be eligible for payment under the Homeowners Mortgage Support scheme. [272457]

Margaret Beckett: Homeowners Mortgage Support will enable eligible borrowers who suffer a temporary loss of income to cut their mortgage interest payments for up to two years to help them get back on track with their finances and avoid repossession. The Government will guarantee the lenders against a proportion of any loss incurred on the deferred interest payments in case the borrower defaults.

The period in which claims can be made under the guarantee will last for four years after the borrower comes off the scheme. As a condition of participation in the scheme, lenders will need to commit to best practice in forbearance when the borrower exits the scheme, and agree reasonable and affordable repayment schedules, with the aim of keeping any subsequent repossessions to a minimum.

A claim would be made once the property had been sold, if the equity remaining in the property was insufficient to clear the debt. The period of four years was set following discussions with stakeholders to ensure that repossession is prevented wherever possible, and is always a last resort.

Following this period, the liability returns to the lender, since it is assumed that a household still remaining in their home for that long will be continuing to make normal payments by that time.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which banks are not participating in the Homeowner Mortgage Support scheme. [272462]

Margaret Beckett: My written ministerial statement of 21 April 2009, Official Report, columns 5-6WS, set out those lenders signed up to the Homeowners Mortgage Support (HMS) scheme, those lenders who will offer HMS as soon as possible and those lenders offering comparable arrangements. This represents around 80 per cent. of the mortgage market.

We will continue to work with the remaining 20 per cent. of the market including many smaller lenders, to encourage as many as possible to offer HMS or comparable arrangements for their customers in the future. A list of UK lenders is available in the "Council of Mortgage Lenders year book and directory of lenders and associated services, 2008-09" (which covers around 98 per cent. of the market).

Planning Permission

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many planning applications were made in each of the last four quarters. [272203]

Mr. Iain Wright: The number of planning applications made in each of the last four quarters for which data are available in England is tabled as follows:

Period	Number received (Thousand)
January to March 2008	158
April to June 2008	149
July to September 2008	135
October to December 2008	111

Regional Government: Mass Media

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much each (a) Government Office and (b) regional assembly spent on media monitoring services in each of the last three years. [272415]

Mr. Khan: Government Office costs for media monitoring services in each of the last three years is as follows:

Government office	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09 £
North East	[1]3,000	3,000	[1]—
Yorkshire and The Humber	16,450	12,885.05	[1]—
North West	0	0	[1]—
East of England	[2]6,500	3,000	[1]—
South West	29,553	6,627	[2]7,097
London	976.15	4,515.87	1,275.89

[1] In 2008-09 the Government Office Network contracted media monitoring services for five Government Offices at a cost of £28,793.38.
[2] Plus VAT.

Details of any media monitoring costs for regional assemblies is not held centrally and there would be a disproportionate cost incurred in trying to obtain this information.

Repossession Orders: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many home repossessions initiated by (a) building societies and (b) banks there were in (i) Essex and (ii) Castle Point constituency in each of the last five years. [273375]

Mr. Iain Wright: There are two independent sources of data on actual numbers of mortgage possessions: The Council of Mortgage Lenders (CML) and the Financial Services Authority (FSA). However both are only available for the United Kingdom as a whole.

The Council of Mortgage Lenders latest press release on this is on their website at:

http://www.cml.org.uk/cml/media/press/2108

The CML data on repossessions are no longer freely available from their website. For detailed time series information members of the public can request to subscribe to CML to obtain access to a restricted website.

The Financial Services Authority data is available on their website at http://www.fsa.gov.uk/pages/Doing/Regulated/Returns/IRR/statistics/

The CML and FSA release slightly different figures. The CML data is for repossessions on first-charge mortgages only, including Buy-to-Let mortgages, as issued by their members. CML estimate that their lenders currently account for 98 per cent. of mortgage lending. The FSA data, as well as covering possessions on first-charge mortgages, covers possessions on second-charge loans by regulated firms (many second charge lenders are not regulated) but doesn't cover possessions as comprehensively on Buy-to-Let mortgages, as some of these are from unregulated firms. The overall effect of the differences is that the FSA's statistics on possessions are slightly higher.

Smoke Alarms

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps her Department has taken to encourage the use of smoke detectors in domestic properties. [272874]

Mr. Khan: It has been our policy for some time that smoke alarms have a vital role to play in saving lives as they provide the vital early warning of fire and therefore help people to escape. Since 1987, the Government have conducted high profile national and regional television campaigns promoting smoke alarms which have proved very successful. Ownership has increased from 9 per cent. in 1987 to the current level of 80 per cent. and we are seeking to raise it further as evidence suggests that those without alarms are often in those groups who are most at risk from fire. The Government are committed to running further smoke alarms ownership and maintenance campaigns as part of this years programme.

Furthermore, in 2004, Communities and Local Government invested £25 million pump priming capital over four years in the Home Fire Risk Check initiative. This funding resulted in just under 2 million Home Fire Safety Checks by fire and rescue services in England, installing over 2.4 million smoke alarms. Research into the impact of the Home Fire Risk Check initiative demonstrates it was responsible for 57 per cent. of the fall in accidental dwelling fire deaths. The research also concluded that the Home Fire Risk Check grant was responsible for 13,670 fewer fires and 888 fewer non-fatal casualties. The value placed on these figures showed a total benefit of £926 million to £1,943 million to the economy.

Tenant Services Authority

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she expects the Tenant Services Authority to launch its National Conversation; and what budget has been allocated to it. [265261]

Mr. Iain Wright: The National Conversation was launched on 19 January 2009. The budget allocated for the Conversation was £600,000.

Travelling People: South East

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) pursuant to the answer of 28 April 2009, Official Report, column 1181W, on Travelling people: South East, how many responses to the South East England Regional Assembly consultation were received; and how many were returned for being discriminatory; [272766]

(2) from what source the South East England Regional Assembly took its legal advice on the treatment of responses to its consultation. [272767]

Mr. Iain Wright: I have nothing to add to the answer I gave to the hon. Member on 28 April 2009, Official Report, column 1181W.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Charities

Jenny Willott: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many charities were on the Charity Commission register in each of (a) the last 30 years and (b) the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [272400]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the Charity Commission. I have asked the Commission to reply.

Letter from Andrew Hind, dated 6 May 2009:

As the Chief Executive of the Charity Commission, I have been asked to respond to your written Parliamentary Question on how many charities were on the Charity Commission register (a) in each of the last 30 years and (b) in each of the last 12 months.

With regard to your question attached below are tables which set out the number of main (reporting) charities that were on the Register for each of the last 30 years, by financial year, and each of the last 12 months.

Financial year	Total of main (reporting) charities
1978-79	101,956
1979-80	105,238
1980-81	109,012
1981-82	112,338
1982-83	115,967
1983-84	119,643
1984-85	123,455
1985-86	127,221
1986-87	131,074
1987-88	135,113
1988-89	138,804
1989-90	142,592
1990-91	145,969
1991-92	142,205
1992-93	138,613
1993-94	147,863
1994-95	153,880
1995-96	157,994
1996-97	156,919
1997-98	159,988
1998-99	162,370
1999-2000	160,189
2000-01	160,625

Financial year	Total number of main (reporting) charities
2001-02	161,715
2002-03	163,355
2003-04	165,412
2004-05	166,675
2005-06	167,321
2006-07	168,855
2007-08	169,306
2008-09	168,580

Month	Total number of main (reporting) charities
April 2008	169,574
May 2008	169,374
June 2008	169,398
July 2008	169,638
August 2008	169,695
September 2008	169,742
October 2008	169,666
November 2008	168,675
December 2008	168,416
January 2009	168,552
February 2009	168,561

Month	Total number of main (reporting) charities
March 2009	168,500

Main (reporting) charities are those required to prepare accounts and to send an Annual Return to the Charity Commission or, if their income is less than £10,000, inform the Commission of changes to the information we hold on the Register of Charities. The figures above exclude subsidiary and group charities as these report to the Commission through the charities listed above. As of 30 April 2009, there were 22,662 subsidiary and group charities.

Our website provides regular updates on the key facts and figures of the Register and further explanations of terms at:

http://www.charitycommission.gov.uk/showcharity/registerofcharities/registerhomepage.aspx?&=&

I hope this is helpful.

Charities: Bank Services

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar of 17 October 2008, Official Report, column 1577W, on local government: bank services, what information (a) the Office of the Third Sector and (b) the Charity Commission received from (i) the Financial Services Authority, (ii) the Bank of England and (iii) HM Treasury on the level of risk associated with charities investing in Icelandic banks between October 2007 and October 2008. [271940]

Kevin Brennan: The Office of the Third Sector received no information from the Financial Services Authority, the Bank of England and HM Treasury on this issue.

I have asked the Charity Commission to reply to the question as it refers to it.

Letter from Andrew Hind, dated May 2009:

As the Chief Executive of the Charity Commission, I have been asked to respond to your written Parliamentary Question on the information the Charity Commission received from (i) the Financial Services Authority, (ii) the Bank of England and (iii) HM Treasury on the level of risk associated with charities investing in Icelandic banks between October 2007 and October 2008.

The Charity Commission received no information from these bodies on this issue.

As the independent regulator of charities in England and Wales, the role of the Charity Commission is not to provide advice to charities on specific investments but to provide advice on the general powers and duties of trustees in relation to the investment of charitable funds. As such, our guidance for charities states that the fundamental principle governing trustees' decisions about investing their charity's funds is that they must take a prudent approach, considering both the suitability for their charity of any investment and the need for diversification.

This guidance specifically emphasises that, before making investments and when reviewing them, trustees must obtain and consider advice from a suitably qualified adviser, unless the size of the funds available for investment is so small that seeking investment advice wouldn't be cost effective.

The Commission itself is legally prohibited from offering specific investment advice to individual charities.

I hope this is helpful.

Civil Servants: Redundancy

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time civil servants have been made redundant in each of the last 10 years. [272641]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning how many (a) full-time and (b) part-time civil servants have been made redundant in each of the last 10 years. (272641).

The Office for National Statistics collects data on leavers from the Civil Service as part of the Annual Civil Service Employment Survey (ACSES).

The requested data are attached at Annex A.

Annex A: Full-time and part-time civil servants made redundant in the last 10 years[1,2]

	Permanent employees only

Deaths: Alcoholic Drinks

Mr. Spring: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many alcohol-related deaths there were in (a) the East of England and (b) Suffolk in the last 12 months. [273247]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated may 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many alcohol-related deaths there were in (a) the East of England and (b) Suffolk in the last 12 months. (273247)

The table attached provides the number of deaths with an alcohol-related underlying cause in (a) the East of England government office region and (b) Suffolk county, for 2007 (the latest year available).

Table 1. Number of deaths with an alcohol-related underlying cause of death[1], East of England Government Office region and Suffolk county[2], 2007[3]

Area	Deaths (persons) 2007
East of England	573
Suffolk	62

[1] Cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10). The specific causes of death categorised as alcohol-related, and their corresponding ICD-10 codes, are shown in the box below.
[2] Based on boundaries as of 2009.
[3] All figures are for deaths registered in 2007.

Box 1. Alcohol-related causes of death—International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10)

Cause of death	ICD-10 code(s)
Mental and behavioural disorders due to use of alcohol	F10
Degeneration of nervous system due to alcohol	G31.2
Alcoholic polyneuropathy	G62.1
Alcoholic cardiomyopathy	I42.6
Alcoholic gastritis	K29.2
Alcoholic liver disease	K70
Chronic hepatitis, not elsewhere classified	K73
Fibrosis and cirrhosis of liver (excl. Biliary cirrhosis)	K74 (excl. K74.3-K74.5)
Alcohol induced chronic pancreatitis	K86.0
Accidental poisoning by and exposure to alcohol	X45
Intentional self-poisoning by and exposure to alcohol	X65
Poisoning by and exposure to alcohol, undetermined intent	Y15

Electoral Register

Chris Ruane: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what the electoral registration rates are for each local authority, ranked from highest to lowest; and how much each such authority spent on electoral registration per elector in the latest period for which figures are available. [272732]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your question asking what the electoral registration rates are for each local authority ranked from highest to lowest; and how much each such authority spent on electoral registration per elector in the latest period for which figures are available. (272732)

The closest approximation to the registration rates that you have requested is the number of people who were registered to vote in Local Government elections as a percentage of the estimated resident population aged 18 and over. The table shows these percentages for each Local Authority in the UK in 2007. This is the latest year for which estimates of the usually resident population are available by Local Authority. A copy of the table has been placed in the Library of the House.

Care should be taken when interpreting these percentages. There may be an underestimation in some areas, as not everyone who is usually resident is entitled to vote. For example foreign citizens from outside of the EU and Commonwealth are not eligible to vote.

Conversely, for other areas the percentages may be over estimates and, in some cases, exceed one hundred per cent as figures for the registered electorate may be inflated. People who have more than one address may register in more than one place (e.g. students may register at parental and term-time addresses) and electoral registration officers vary in how quickly they remove people from the registers after they have moved away from an area or died.

Data on how much each local authority spent on electoral registration per elector are not currently available. As part of its work in developing Performance Standards for electoral services, the Electoral Commission launched a financial information survey across Great Britain on 10 September 2007. Electoral Registration Officers and Returning Officers were asked to complete the survey and return it by 31 July 2008.

The Commission is currently analysing this information in conjunction with CIPFA (the Chartered Institute of Public Finance Accountants) and will publish results in due course. It will be for the Commission to decide whether it wishes to collect and publish financial information in relation to 2008-09.

Local Government: Manpower

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what records the Office of National Statistics holds on the number of people employed by individual local authorities. [271225]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question concerning what records the Office for National Statistics holds on the number of people employed by individual local authorities. (271225).

The Office for National Statistics collects employment statistics for the public sector, including Local Authorities in England and Wales as part of the Quarterly Public Sector Employment Survey (QPSES).

The results of this survey are published in aggregate as part of the Public Sector Employment First Release. The latest published statistics are for December 2008 and copies are available in the library of the House.

http://www.statistics.gov.uk/pdfdir/pse0309.pdf

The published statistics provide totals for the UK by sector classification, industry and Civil Service department. Statistics are not available for individual Local Authorities.

Employment totals of individual Local Authorities, collected by the QPSES, will be published for the first time by Local Government Association (LGA) in June 2009.

Pensioners: Essex

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the number of pensioners with a net household income of less than £130 a week in (a) Essex and (b) Castle Point constituency in each of the last five years. [273374]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking what estimate he has made of the number of pensioners with a net household income of less than £130 a week in (a) Essex and (b) Castle Point constituency in each of the last five years. (273374)

The information requested is not available.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Ammunition: Exports

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2009, Official Report, column 19W, on ammunition: exports, how many of the 67 licences related to exports to each country. [272318]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 5 May 2009]: The Government publish summary details of export licences issued, refused and revoked in their annual and quarterly reports on strategic export controls. This is broken down by destination, including a summary of the items covered by these licences.

The Government's annual reports, published since 1997, and quarterly reports, published since 2004, are available from the House of Commons Library and the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) website at http://www.fco.gov.uk/en/about-the-fco/publications/publications/annual-reports/export-controls1

The latest date for which information is available is 31 December 2008.

The annual report summary for munitions that are designed to create illumination or to act as an incendiary fall under the following goods descriptions:

Smoke hand grenades, smoke ammunition, signal flares, signal hand grenades, signal flares, incendiary hand grenades and illuminators.

The reports do not break down goods descriptions beyond this level of detail.

Better Regulation Executive: Manpower

John Penrose: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the (a) annual budget and (b) number of staff employed by or in support of (i) the Better Regulation Executive and (ii) the Local Better Regulation Office has been in each year since their creation. [266931]

Ian Pearson: The Better Regulation Executive (BRE) was established in May 2005. Its budget was £7.6 million in 2006-07; £7.0 million in 2007-08 and £6.7 million in 2008-09. In 2005-06, the BRE inherited a budget of £3.9 million from the Regulatory Impact Unit (RIU). However, the BRE's workload was greater than the RIU and therefore in this year the BRE incurred an overspend.

The BRE employed 96 employees in 2005-06; 94 in 2006-07, 94 in 2007-08 and 99 in 2008-09.

The Local Better Regulation Office (LBRO) was established in September 2007 and had a budget of £2.0 million in 2007-08 (£4 million pro rata); and £4.4 million in 2008-09. Additionally, the Welsh Assembly Government have commissioned the LBRO to undertake further specific work in Wales. In 2008-09, this grant was £234,000.

The LBRO employed a total of 24 employees in 2007-08 and 29 employees in 2008-09.

Business: Government Assistance

Mr. Amess: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether individuals are eligible to apply for a loan through (a) the Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme and (b) the Working Capital Scheme; and if he will make a statement. [259067]

Ian Pearson: Businesses with a turnover of up to £25 million seeking loans of between £1,000 and £1 million are eligible to apply for a loan through any of the 26 lenders approved to administer the Enterprise Finance Guarantee. Since its launch on 14 January, the Enterprise Finance Guarantee has nearly £300 million of eligible applications from over 2,600 firms that have been granted, are being processed or assessed.

Businesses cannot apply for direct support through the Working Capital Scheme. The scheme provides banks with guarantees covering 50 per cent. of the risk on existing and new working capital portfolios worth up to £10 billion, thereby freeing up lender capital for onward lending and benefiting businesses.

Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much has been spent on promoting the Enterprise Finance Guarantee scheme to potential borrowers since its creation; and if he will make a statement. [253632]

Ian Pearson: The Government are running a multi-media advertising campaign, "Real Help for Businesses Now", to raise awareness by businesses of the whole range of advice and support available to help them. Promotion of the Enterprise Finance Guarantee is integral to this campaign and it is therefore not possible to isolate a discrete figure.

Exports: Power Stations

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will make it his policy that fossil fuel plants exported with support of the Export Credits Guarantee Department include integrated carbon capture and storage technology. [271812]

Ian Pearson: It is ECGD's policy that projects it supports should comply with the relevant international standards.

The most recently published international standard relating to fossil fuel fired power stations is "Environmental, Health and Safety Guidelines for Thermal Power Plants" published by the International Finance Corporation (part of the World Bank Group) in December 2008.

Financial Reporting Council

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on which dates in the last three years his Department held meetings with the Financial Reporting Council to discuss the accounting practices of banks. [263436]

Ian Pearson: We have no records of any meetings specifically to discuss the accounting practices of banks, but there have been numerous contacts between BERR officials and members and officials of the FRC and its operating bodies over the last three years at which the matter of the accounting practices of banks will have been raised as one of the matters discussed.

Manufacturing Industries

Mr. Prisk: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the (a) terms of reference, (b) estimated cost and (c) planned final reporting date are of Mark Gibson's review of engineering and construction industry productivity; what Mr Gibson's fee and expense arrangements are for conducting the review; and if he will make a statement. [271595]

Ian Pearson: The terms of reference of the review of productivity and skills in the engineering construction sector (the Gibson Review) are:

Building on the previous (2005) study commissioned by the Engineering Construction Industry Training Board the review would:

Assess the state of productivity in engineering construction in the UK (as 2005)

Identify the key inhibitors to productivity including skills aspects (as 2005)

Compare productivity levels with those experienced on overseas sites (as 2005)

Identify changes in practice, and factors, and their effect on productivity in the period since the ECITB 2005 review

Identify specifically the factors influencing success for UK-based companies bidding for UK and foreign, especially other European Union, engineering construction contracts (over the last six years)

Make recommendations on:

Ways to improve skills and productivity in the UK engineering construction industry.

What steps small firms can take to compete and to develop new skills and technologies in process

Strengthening the links between procurement of major public projects and provision of training through methods such as contracting

How procurement practices can be geared to support productivity in UK firms.

The estimated costs of the review are £250,000. The majority of these costs relate to staff time for BERR and DIUS officials in the review team.

There is no firm deadline for the completion of the review, although this is expected to be around autumn, 2009.

Mark Gibson is employed by the Whitehall and Industry Group (WIG). Mr. Gibson's services in connection with the review are covered by a contract between BERR and WIG to the value of £6,375 plus expenses, plus VAT.

WIG is an independent, not for profit, politically neutral organisation, whose purpose is to encourage better understanding between business and Government. Mr. Gibson will not benefit personally from the contract.

Minimum Wage

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many people aged (a) 16, (b) 17, (c) 18, (d) 19, (e) 20 and (f) over 20 years old have been in receipt of the national minimum wage applicable to them in (i) Jarrow constituency, (ii) South Tyneside, (iii) the North East and (iv) the UK in each year since its inception. [270219]

Kevin Brennan: I have been asked to reply.

The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking how many people aged (a) 16, (b) 17, (c) 18, (d) 19, (e) 20 and (f) over 20 years did have been in receipt of the national minimum wage applicable to them in (i) Jarrow constituency, (ii) South Tyneside (iii) the North East and (iv) the UK in each year since its inception. (270219)

Estimates for the number of jobs paid at the national minimum wage are not available from the Office for National Statistics (ONS). However, estimates for the number of employee jobs paid below the national minimum wage are available. The lowest geographical breakdown of estimates of all employee jobs paid below the national minimum wage published by the ONS is Government Office Region. Furthermore, estimates for the number of employee jobs paid below the national minimum wage by region by age are not available, but UK estimates are published for employees aged 16 to 17, aged 18 to 21 and aged 22 and over.

I attach a table showing the number of jobs earning less than the national minimum wage in the UK for all employees, for employees aged 16-17, aged 18-21 and aged 22 and over and for all employees only in the North East Figures are provided for each year since the inception of the national minimum wage in 1999.

A guide to measuring low pay and associated articles can be found on the National Statistics website at:

Nigeria: Exports

Sir George Young: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he plans to reach a decision on the application for an export licence for goods for Nigeria referred to in the letter from the right hon. Member for North West Hampshire of 22 September 2008, and subsequent correspondence of 6 and 31 October 2008 and 23 March 2009. [271513]

Ian Pearson: An export licence for these goods was issued on 23 April 2009.

Royal Mail: Profits

Geraldine Smith: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much profit General Logistics Systems made in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [263013]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 12 March 2009]: General Logistics Systems made a £114 million operating profit before exceptional items for the financial year 2007-08. For the first six months of financial year 2008-09 (period April to September 2008) it made an operating profit before exceptional items of £59 million.

Small Business: Government Assistance

Mr. Breed: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress has been made on allowing small businesses to access the £1 billion fund announced in December 2008. [255888]

Ian Pearson: On 14 January 2009, the Government launched the Enterprise Finance Guarantee (EFG) as part of a wider programme of Real Help for Business.

As of 22 April 2009, the Enterprise Finance Guarantee has nearly £300 million of eligible applications from over 2,600 firms that have been granted, are being processed or assessed.

Small Businesses

Mr. Hepburn: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many small businesses operate in (a) Jarrow constituency, (b) South Tyneside, (c) the North East and (d) England. [268470]

Ian Pearson: The following table shows the number of small businesses in the north-east and England at the start of 2007. Data for 2008 will be available in autumn 2009.

Businesses are classified as small if they have between zero and 49 employees.

	Number of small businesses

Estimates of the total number of small businesses (registered and unregistered) are only available at national and regional level, and not at parliamentary constituency level.

However, figures are available for the number of businesses registered for VAT and/or PAYE to parliamentary constituency level. These figures exclude the very smallest businesses and we estimate that only 45 per cent. of businesses are registered for either VAT or PAYE.

The following table shows the number of registered small businesses in the Jarrow constituency and South Tyneside as of March 2008.

	Number of registered small business
Jarrow constituency	1,320
South Tyneside	2,380

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcoholic Drinks: Sales

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the effect on antisocial behaviour of levels of sales of alcohol from off-licences. [271601]

Mr. Coaker: No specific assessment has been made on the effect on antisocial behaviour of levels of sales of alcohol from off-licences, however the Government are aware that alcohol is a factor in some instances of antisocial behaviour and a number of actions have been taken to address the issue. These include the provisions in the Policing and Crime Bill which will introduce a mandatory code for all alcohol retailers, and will give licensing authorities new powers to clamp down on specific problems in their areas. We have also given £3 million to Crime and Disorder Reduction Partnerships (CDRPs) in order to undertake multi-agency enforcement activities on specific alcohol-related problems. We have made available a further £1.5 million to our top 50 priority areas which have the highest levels of alcohol-related crime and disorder and public concern about drunk or rowdy behaviour. This money has been used to tackle under age sales, to confiscate alcohol from under 18s and to run communications campaigns to tell local people what action is being taken in their area.

A number of antisocial behaviour tools and powers are also available which include written warnings, home visits, Acceptable Behaviour Contracts, Parenting Orders/Contracts, crack house and premises closure orders, antisocial behaviour orders and dispersal zones. We have recently just finished a series of 13 regional Alcohol Enforcement Skills Development training workshops for front-line practitioners covering the use of these tools and powers and those available under the Licensing Act 2003. In addition, we are legislating to improve these powers, including increasing the fine for anyone not obeying an instruction to stop drinking in a Designated Public Place Order (DPPO) area, making it easier for the police to disperse antisocial drinkers, and introducing a new offence of persistent underage possession. We are also encouraging wider use of Acceptable Behaviour Contracts and have recently extended the alcohol arrest referral pilots to include under 18s. We are working across Government to take these actions forward.

Antisocial Behaviour: Crime Prevention

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of mosquito teen deterrents in use. [270334]

Mr. Coaker: Information on the use of mosquito dispersal devices is not collected centrally by the Home Office.

Anti-terrorism Control Orders

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department has spent on payments to individuals subject to control orders for (a) accommodation, (b) council tax, (c) utility bills, (d) telephone line rental, (e) pre-paid telephone cards and phone bills and (f) other subsistence in each year since 2005. [264686]

Mr. Coaker: Expenditure on accommodation, council tax, utility bills, pre-paid telephone cards and other subsistence prior to April 2007 was absorbed by the UK Border Agency as part of spending on accommodation for asylum seekers. Figures covering the expenditure on accommodation for controlled persons could be retrieved only at disproportionate cost.

During the last two financial years the Department has spent the following amounts on accommodation, council tax, utility bills, pre-paid telephone cards and other subsistence:

April 2007-March 2008	244,078.15
April 2008-(end of) February 2009	187,522.05

This expenditure could be broken down further only at disproportionate cost.

During the last three financial years, the Home Office has paid the following amounts on telephone line rental, bills and connection charges for those subject to control orders:

April 2006-March 2007	3,186.59
April 2007-March 2008	2,209.39
April 2008-February 2009	1,635.13

This expenditure could be broken down further only at disproportionate cost.

Assaults on Police

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many assaults on police constables per 100,000 population were recorded in each police force area in (a) 2003-04 and (b) 2004-05. [271674]

Mr. Coaker: Data for assaults on all officers in England and Wales were published by Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary at the time. Links to these publications are provided below.

Asylum

Tom Brake: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer from Lord West of Spithead of 29 October 2008, Official

Report, House of Lords, column WA165, on asylum seekers, how her Department ensures that asylum seekers with grounds to make an appeal or fresh claim are given the opportunity to do so before attending a re-documentation interview. [242460]

Mr. Woolas: Where an asylum claim falls to be refused, and the consequent immigration decision attracts a right of appeal, applicants are notified how to appeal and by when. The United Kingdom Border Agency is not required to wait for any appeal right to be exercised or any lodged appeal to be concluded before a re-documentation interview is arranged.

Case owners give full consideration to further representations, including whether they amount to a fresh claim, and decide on a case by case basis whether it is appropriate to suspend the re-documentation process in the light of those representations. The re-documentation interview is not prejudicial to the consideration of further representations or the outcome of any appeal.

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many asylum seekers were removed through (a) assisted voluntary returns and (b) enforced returns in each of the last five years. [242733]

Jacqui Smith: The Home Office publishes statistics on the number of asylum seekers who were removed or departed voluntarily from the UK on a quarterly and annual basis.

The latest published annual information for the last four years can be found in table 7a of the Control of Immigration: Quarterly Statistical Summary, bulletin http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs09/immih408.pdf.

Information prior to 2005 can be found in table 6.1 of the Control of Immigration: Statistics United Kingdom 2007 bulletin http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs08/hosb1008.pdf.

Published statistics on immigration and asylum are placed in the Library of the House and are available from the Home Office's Research, Development and Statistics Directorate website at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration-asylum-stats.html.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of age assessments made by the UK Border Agency in 2008 have been successfully challenged on appeal. [269169]

Mr. Woolas: Information on the percentage of age assessments made by the UK Border Agency in 2008 that have been successfully challenged on appeal is not available. This is because our Case Information Database does not record the specific reasons why an appeal is allowed. This information could be obtained only at disproportionate cost by the examination of a large number of individual case files.

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many cases there were in the Legacy casework system on the latest date for which figures are available. [272032]

Mr. Woolas: The previous Home Secretary informed Parliament in July 2006 of "the Immigration and Nationality Directorate's case load of around 400,000 to 450,000 electronic and paper records, which as hon. Members also know, are riddled with duplication and errors, and include cases of individuals who have since died or left the country, or are now EU citizens"

The Case Resolution Directorate has concluded 155,500 cases up to 9 January and the chief executive of the UK Border Agency will update the Home Affairs Select Committee on case conclusion progress in the summer.

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects to have cleared the backlog of applications in the Legacy casework system. [272033]

Mr. Woolas: The Case Resolution Directorate aims to complete all cases in the asylum backlog by 2011 and is currently on track to do so.

Ms Keeble: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications in the Legacy casework system were made in each of the last seven years. [272034]

Mr. Woolas: The work to clear the backlog of asylum cases was announced to Parliament in July 2006. The chief executive of the UK Border Agency provided an update on clearing the backlog of older cases to the Home Affairs Committee on 8 December 2008 and the next update is expected in the summer. To provide this information would involve a detailed examination of all our case records which would incur a disproportionate cost.

Mr. Lancaster: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when a decision will be made on the application for asylum by a constituent of the hon. Member for North-East Milton Keynes, Sima Salamat, Home Office reference number S1011503. [272357]

Mr. Woolas: The UK Border Agency sent a reply to the hon. Member on 30 April 2009.

Asylum: Finance

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were granted section 4 support in each of the last five years; and how many people were in receipt of section 4 support in each of those years. [263956]

Mr. Woolas: The table shows the number of failed asylum seekers granted section four support and those who were in receipt of section four support. Information on the number of failed asylum seekers receiving section four support is only available from March 2005.

The number of failed asylum seekers granted section four support and the number of people in receipt of section four support is published on a quarterly and annual basis.

The latest publication covering the fourth quarter of 2008 is available from the Library of the House and from the Home Office Research Development and Statistics website at http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration1.html.

Number of asylum seekers who were granted section 4 support and in receipt of section 4 support, excluding dependants, 2005 to 2008[1,2]

	Number of principal applicants
	Decisions to grant section 4	Persons in receipt of section 4 at the end of the period
2005	10,235	5,145
2006	6,025	6,555
2007[3]	6,705	9,140
2008[3]	9,110	10,295

[1] Figures rounded to the nearest five.
[2] Information on Section 4 support prior to April 2007 is understated due to data quality issues associated with previous recording systems. The process of recording data on ASYS (the support database) improved the quality of the information.
[3] Provisional figures.

Mr. Gerrard: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 19 March 2009, Official Report, column 69WS, on asylum support, in which areas the plastic payment card system for the administration of section 4 support is to be piloted; how many asylum seekers will be involved in the pilot programme; what the planned timetable for the pilot programme is; what the aims of the pilot programme are; what estimate she has made of the cost of the pilot programme; what criteria will apply in respect of its assessments; when she expects to publish an evaluation of the pilot programme; and if she will make a statement. [271647]

Mr. Woolas: The introduction of the Section 4 Support Card will be piloted in London and the north-west region and the plan is to issue the card to around 200 people.

The date for commencing the pilot programme has not yet been determined and planning for the pilot programme is at an early stage. I am unable to provide any more information at the present time. There are no plans to issue a statement.

Mr. Gerrard: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 19 March 2009, Official Report, column 69WS, on asylum support, if she will provide section 4 support for asylum seekers in cash; and if she will make a statement. [271648]

Mr. Woolas: There are no plans to begin paying section 4 support to failed asylum seekers in cash.

Asylum: Terrorism

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of those arrested on suspicion of terrorist offences since 11 September 2001 have at some point claimed asylum. [241282]

Mr. Woolas: The information requested can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many of those arrested in the course of Operation Pathway claimed asylum after being arrested. [271668]

Mr. Woolas: The UK Border Agency does not normally disclose the immigration status of individuals.

Community Relations

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 312W, on community relations, when she expects Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary to report its findings in relation to its inspection of police Prevent activity. [271523]

Mr. Coaker: Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary are nearing completion of their inspection of police Prevent activity, and plan to report their findings in May 2009, a month later than previously planned.

Community Relations: Contracts

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether any of the tasks to be undertaken under the Channel Project will be delivered by subcontractors. [271515]

Mr. Coaker: Channel relies on the full range of local partners, including statutory and community-based partners, to provide support packages for those individuals identified as vulnerable to being drawn into violent extremism. These organisations are not funded through the Home Office's Channel grant. Home Office funding for Channel covers the costs of salaries for Channel co-ordinators.

Community Relations: Finance

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2009, Official Report, column 1482W, on community relations: finance, how many of the 33 projects aimed at disrupting violent extremism will be delivered by subcontractors; and how the performance of those subcontractors will be monitored. [270569]

Mr. Coaker: Our delivery partners (subcontractors) are contributing to the delivery of 16 of the 33 projects aimed at disrupting violent extremism. Where they are being used, a number of systems are in place to monitor delivery including:

Internal evaluation schemes;

Project Board meetings or monthly update meetings;

Independent evaluation;

Progress reports;

Agreed action plans.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2009, Official Report, column 1481W, on community relations: finance, which of the grass roots projects aimed at tackling radicalisation funded by her Department are being delivered by subcontractors; and what measures are in place to monitor the performance of such subcontractors. [270587]

Mr. Coaker: The nine projects that are funded by the Office for Security and Counter-Terrorism Prevent Unit are being delivered by subcontractors. The arrangements in place to monitor these projects are through a third sector intermediary and their evaluation is overseen by internal researchers.

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 21 January 2009, Official Report, columns 1481-82W, on community relations: finance, what projects aimed at preventing violent extremism are being undertaken by youth offending and youth secure establishments; and whether any of these projects are being run by subcontractors. [270674]

Mr. Coaker: There are currently 40 operational projects in Youth Offending Teams, Young Offender Institutions and Secure Training Centres across England and Wales that the Youth Justice Board have responsibility for. A further nine are due to undertake projects with immediate effect.

Projects range from mentoring to sport and arts based activities to civil and community lead initiatives. Project work with young people across the criminal justice sector ranges from light touch prevention projects working with those young people who have yet to enter the criminal justice arena, to more tailored interventions with young people on community and custody orders.

Youth Offending Teams, Young Offender Institutions and Secure Training Centres have been actively encouraged to work with a range of different community and third sector partners. They have also been encouraged to align to the local authority's local Preventing Violent Extremism delivery plan, which they must feed into. This process will limit the possibilities of duplication in projects and funding.

Funding has been given to the Youth Offending Teams, Young Offender Institutions and Secure Training Centres and the Youth Justice Board has an established audit and accounting process already in place with these establishments. In addition, progress is overseen by the Youth Justice Board's Preventing Violent Extremism Programme Board and governance structures within the Office of Security and Counter-Terrorism also provide oversight and challenge. The University of Huddersfield has been contracted to provide independent evaluation of the effectiveness of the programmes.

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much the Prevent strategy has cost in each year since its inception; and if she will make a statement. [272556]

Mr. Coaker: The Prevent Strategy was launched in October 2007. Total Home Office spending in 2007-08 was under £2 million. The United Kingdom's Strategy for Countering International Terrorism published in March 2009 sets out the cost of key deliverables in 2008-09 and this includes more than £140 million across Government on the Prevent Strategy.

Community Security Trust

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will place a copy of her speech to the annual dinner of the Community Security Trust on 2 March 2009 in the Library; and if she will make a statement. [263290]

Mr. Coaker: A copy of the Home Secretary's speech to the annual dinner of the Community Security Trust on 2 March is available on the Home Office website at http://press.homeoffice.gov.uk/Speeches/speech-community-security-trust

Demonstrations: Parliament Square

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many (a) males and (b) females in each age group were arrested during the demonstration in Parliament Square on 20 April 2009; how many have been charged with offences committed during that demonstration; and if she will make a statement; [270872]

(2) how many police officers of each rank took part in policing the demonstration held in Parliament Square on 20 April 2009; and if she will make a statement. [270798]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold this information. These are operational matters for the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what steps she (a) has taken and (b) plans to take to ensure that Parliament Square is kept free of demonstrators on parliamentary sitting days; what recent representations she has received on this issue; and if she will make a statement; [270960]

(2) if she will commission a report from the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis on the policing of the demonstration held in Parliament Square on 20 April 2009; what steps the police (a) have taken and (b) are planning to take to clear Parliament Square of demonstrators; and if she will make a statement. [270873]

Mr. Coaker: The Government are committed to protecting and facilitating the right to peaceful protest. Police tactics and decisions on policing protests are matters for the independent judgment of chief officers of police. We have made it clear that there should be no unnecessary restrictions on the right to protest in the vicinity of Parliament. Following our consultation exercise last year on managing protest around Parliament, we announced our intention to repeal the relevant provisions in the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005. We intend to do that as soon as parliamentary time allows.

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many arrests the police have made of persons demonstrating in Parliament Square and adjacent areas since 3 April 2009 under section 132 of the Serious Organised Crime and Police Act 2005 for the offence of demonstrating without authorisation in a designated area; [271680]

(2) how many items have been confiscated by the police from Tamil demonstrators in Parliament Square and in lieu of arrest under the provisions of section 13 of the Terrorism Act 2000 since the commencement of the protest; [271682]

(3) how many arrests the police have made in connection with the Tamil protest in Parliament Square and adjacent areas since its commencement; for what offence or offences each individual has been arrested; and how many of these arrests were made of the offence of display of support for an organisation proscribed under section 13 of the Terrorism Act 2000. [271683]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold this information. These are operational matters for the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the daily cost of policing the ongoing demonstration in Parliament Square has been; how many police officers of each rank are taking part in policing the demonstration; how many (a) males and (b) females in each age group have been arrested since 21 April 2009; how many have been charged with offences committed during that demonstration since 21 April 2009; and if she will make a statement. [272169]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold this information. These are operational matters for the Commissioner of the Metropolitan police.

Departmental Billing

John Mason: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of its suppliers her Department has paid within 10 days of receipt of invoice in each of the last five months. [272249]

Mr. Woolas: The percentage of invoices paid within 10 days to small and medium enterprises (SMEs) in each of the last five months is as follows:

Month	Percentage of invoices paid to SMEs within 10 days
November 2008	19
December 2008	27
January 2009	27
February 2009	36
March 2009	50

As many suppliers issue more than one invoice in each month, it is not possible to provide the percentage of the Department's suppliers which are paid within 10 days of receipt of invoice.

Departmental Data Protection

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many private contractors have been granted access to personal data held by her Department in the last 12 months; and if she will make a statement. [241805]

Jacqui Smith: The information required is not held centrally, therefore we are unable to provide an answer because of the disproportionate cost threshold.

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what percentage of contractors and suppliers to (a) her Department and (b) its agencies have reported that they are compliant with the Government's security standards following publication of the report, "Data Handling Procedures in Government", and the accompanying document, "Cross-departmental Actions: Mandatory Minimum Action", on 25 June 2008. [245325]

Mr. Woolas: All contractors have been informed of the requirements.

In addition, in September 2008 each major Home Office supplier was sent a letter to a named, senior individual in the organisation reminding them of their responsibilities regarding data handling and requesting sight of the supplier's policy. A self assurance model is being developed, supplemented by a risk based audit regime on suppliers.

A supplier conference has been held which specifically included a presentation on the approach to data handling and supplier obligations.

The Home Office is using the Office of Government Commerce (OGC) model services contract which contains the revised security terms and guidance to reflect the recommendations contained in the "Data Handling Procedures in Government" report for all new contracts.

Departmental Databases

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what (a) guidelines and (b) safeguards her Department has in place for the commercial licensing of its departmental databases. [271994]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold any commercial licensed databases for the use of private companies therefore there are no guidelines or safeguards in place.

David Davis: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which of her Department's (a) centrally managed and (b) agency managed databases are commercially licensed for the use of private companies; to whom each is licensed; and how much revenue her Department has received for each licence. [271995]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold any commercial licensed databases for the use of private companies.

Departmental Higher Education

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff in her Department undertook courses funded by the Department for (a) undergraduate degrees, (b) postgraduate degrees or diplomas, (c) Masters degrees, (d) MBA degrees and (e) PhD degrees in the last 12 months, broken down by pay band. [242129]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office HQ, United Kingdom Border Agency (UKBA), Identity and Passport Service (IPS), and the Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) provide sponsorship for staff to undertake a range of training leading to higher education qualifications.

Data are not collected centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) printers and (b) multi-function devices with printing functions were in use in each division of her Department in each of the last five years; how many such devices had a function enabling two-sided printing; and if she will make a statement. [269603]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office operates a large scale, multi vendor supply chain delivering a wide range of ICT categories. Service capacity utilisation and the number of printers and multi-functional devices with printer capability are managed by our suppliers as part of the service offering. The information requested by the hon. Member is not therefore available and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. However, the Home Office is working towards a ratio of one printer per 20 people and work is under way to review and rationalise data centres and to convert network printers to duplex capability where practicable.

The Home Office, in line with all other Chief Information Officers (CIOs) on the CIO Council, has produced a "CIO Green ICT Roadmap" which we will be following to deliver against the 18 target improvement areas outlined in the Greening Government ICT Strategy.

The CIOs and Chief Technology Officers (CTO) Council of the Cabinet Office have completed the CIO Green ICT Roadmap baselines for all of its CIOs including local government representatives and agencies.

A full report of the CIO Council Green ICT Roadmaps will be made available in May featuring the action plans of all Departments involved in the council against the 18 steps. A final "one year on" report will be issued by the Cabinet Office in July. The CIO/CTO Council Green ICT Delivery Unit will refresh its annual CIO key objectives against the latest developments in technology and advances in carbon measurement which will be circulated for comment to all CIOs and relevant Departments this summer.

The Home Office is directly represented on the CIO/CTO Council Green ICT Delivery Unit and is responsible for providing support to the development of the pan-government Greening Government ICT Strategy and leadership.

Departmental Rail Travel

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what guidance her Department issues on whether its members of staff may claim for travel in first class carriages on trains if there are no seats in standard class. [262032]

Mr. Woolas: My Department's policy, for the majority of staff who are limited to standard class travel, is that first class travel is permitted only when:

(i) the member of staff can certify that he/she could not find a seat in standard class, although staff must take advantage wherever possible of reserving a seat or travelling at a different time. This concession is not applicable for travel on suburban lines;

(ii) it is operationally essential to sit with a civil servant who is entitled to and is travelling first class; or

(iii) it is operationally essential to sit with a non civil servant who is travelling first class.

All travel is undertaken in accordance with the civil service management and ministerial codes.

As part of its wider focus on increasing value for money, the Home Office has a travel contract that enables significant savings to be achieved compared with the standard price of UK rail travel.

Departmental Surveys

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department spent on staff surveys in each of the last five years; and which companies were contracted to carry out the surveys. [260250]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office Headquarters (HQ) and the United Kingdom Border Agency (UKBA) ran joint staff surveys in 2004, 2005 and 2008; all of the surveys were run by ORC International. HQ and UKBA together spent £75,459 on the 2004 Staff Survey, £65,578 on the 2005 survey, and £66,338.64 for the 2008 survey.

The Criminal Records Bureau used Ipsos MORI to run a staff survey in each of the last five years. The cost of running the 2006 survey was £24,120, and in 2007 it cost £25,180. Exact figures are unavailable for 2004, 2005 and 2008 but each survey cost approximately £25,000.

The Identity and Passport Service (IPS) has run two surveys over the last five years: in 2005, using Ipsos MORI; and in 2007 using Jigsaw. IPS is unable to provide the cost of the survey in 2005 without incurring a disproportionate cost but the 2007 staff survey cost £65,823.

Departmental Training

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether her Department has provided voice coaching to any of its employees in the last 12 months. [260649]

Mr. Woolas: A small proportion of staff within the Home Office will have had some voice coaching as part of their training in presentation skills. Information about this is not collated centrally.

Deportation

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals have been deported on the grounds of national security in the last (a) 12 months, (b) five years and (c) 10 years; and how many such deportations were to (i) Pakistan, (ii) India, (iii) Yemen, (iv) Saudi Arabia, (v) Iran, (vi) Afghanistan, (vii) Bangladesh, (viii) Turkey and (ix) Oman. [271819]

Mr. Woolas: The number of individuals deported on the grounds of national security is (a) none in the last 12 months, (b) nine in the last five years and (c) nine in the last 10 years. No deportation on the grounds of national security has taken place to the countries listed in the past 10 years.

Deportation: Children

Mr. Andrew Smith: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether a race impact study has been undertaken of the practice of removal from the UK of British citizen children with a foreign parent. [248591]

Mr. Woolas: There has not been a race impact study conducted as the UK Border Agency does not remove children who are British citizens. However, where a foreign national is subject to enforced return and is a parent to a child with British citizenship, it is possible for that child to accompany the parent through the enforcement process. This is only on a voluntary basis and with the consent of all parties.

UK born children who are not British citizens can be detained and removed under Immigration Act powers.

Detainees: Young People

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many children aged (a) under five, (b) five to 10 and (c) 10 to 15 years old have been held in immigration removal centres in the UK in each of the last five years; [272193]

(2) how many children aged (a) under five years old, (b) from five to 10 years old and (c) from 10 to 15 years held in immigration removal centres in the UK have been held there for (i) less than six months, (ii) between six and 12 months, (iii) 12 to 24 months and (iv) longer than 24 months. [272195]

Mr. Woolas: The requested information is not available. The Home Office has however published the number of adults and children recorded as leaving detention in the UK solely under Immigration Act powers by length of detention between January 2005 and September 2006.

Information for each year is available from the Library of the House and in Table 9.4 of each year's Asylum Statistics United Kingdom publication published each August

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs07/hosb1407.pdf

Information outside this time period is not available.

National statistics on the total number of children detained on a quarterly snapshot basis by length of detention are available in Table 11 of the Control of Immigration Quarterly Statistical Summary United Kingdom publication http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pdfs09/immiq408.pdf and from the Library of the House.

Detection Rates: Staffordshire

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the detection rate for crimes of (a) violence against the person, (b) robbery, (c) burglary in a dwelling, (d) theft of a motor vehicle and (e) theft from a vehicle was in each basic command unit in the Staffordshire Police Authority area in each of the last 10 years. [271271]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The information requested is given in the table. Statistics at basic command unit level are only available from 1999-2000 onwards.

It should be noted that non-sanction detections that contribute to the percentage change in detection rates have fallen in recent years reflecting a significant shift by many police forces away from recording detections of crime where no further action is taken. For this reason overall detection rates over time are not fully comparable. From 1 April 2007 the rules governing recording of non-sanction detections were revised to reduce the scope within which they can be claimed to a very limited set of circumstances.

[1] The National Crime Recording Standard was introduced in 2002-03 and detections data before and after that date are not directly comparable.

Note:

From 1 April 2007 the rules governing recording of non-sanction detections were revised to reduce the scope within which they can be claimed to a very small limited set of circumstances. This has significantly reduced the number of non-sanction detections which has been reflected in the overall detection rates.

DNA: Databases

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people from each police force area had their DNA samples and personal information removed from the National DNA Database in each of the last (a) five years and (b) 12 months; and if she will make a statement. [269508]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Table 1 shows the number of subject profiles removed from the National DNA Database for all reasons (including removals under the Exceptional Case Procedure, i.e. following a request to the chief officer of the responsible force from the person concerned) between April 2004 and December 2007.

Table 2 shows the number of subject profiles removed from the National DNA Database under the Exceptional Case Procedure only, for each month between January 2008 and March 2009, and for the year one April 2008 to 31 March 2009.

As the figures before January 2008 show all removals, and figures after that date show removals under the Exceptional Case Procedure only, the figures for April to December 2007 and those for January to March 2008 cannot be added to produce a figure for the year 2007-08.

The tables cover subject profiles from English and Welsh forces only.

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what her latest estimate is of the number and proportion of people in each police force area who had their DNA stored on the DNA database and who had not been charged or convicted of a crime, who had subsequently had their DNA and personal information removed from the DNA database; and if she will make a statement; [269534]

(2) what recent estimate she has made of the number and proportion of people in each police force area with DNA stored on the National DNA Database as the result of a police investigation into a criminal offence who had not been (a) charged and (b) convicted of the crime under investigation; and if she will make a statement. [269509]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The National DNA Database (NDNAD) is designed to match DNA taken from crime scenes with that taken from individuals. It does not hold information on whether those with records on it have been charged or convicted, as this is not necessary for its purpose. Some data on whether those on the NDNAD have convictions are available from the Police National Computer (PNC), but not as part of its routine functions and not within the cost limit for parliamentary questions. However, the National Policing Improvement Agency does periodically obtain information on the number of people on the NDNAD who do not currently have a conviction recorded on PNC.

When data were last obtained from PNC they showed that at 31 March 2008 857,366 people on the NDNAD who had been sampled by England and Wales police forces did not have a current criminal record on PNC. However, this figure includes those who have been convicted and their records deleted, and those where proceedings are still ongoing, as well as those who have never been convicted. It would be possible to break this figure down by police force area only at disproportionate cost.

More up to date information showing the number of people on the NDNAD in England and Wales with no current criminal record on PNC will be available shortly.

Entry Clearances: Overseas Students

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applicants for student visas from (a) Pakistan and (b) Algeria were interviewed by UK-based immigration staff in each of the last 10 years, excluding appointments for biometric checks; and how many of those granted a visa were subsequently granted an extension of leave to remain in each of the last 10 years. [270456]

Mr. Woolas: This information is not centrally recorded and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many student visas were granted to applicants from (a) Pakistan and (b) Algeria in each of the last 10 years. [270457]

Mr. Woolas: The number of student visas issued to nationals of Pakistan and Algeria in each of the last five calendar years is shown in the table. Data held for previous years are not considered to be reliable.

	Nationality

2004	13,683	337
2005	9,765	281
2006	13,372	417
2007	12,300	532
2008	9,663	338

Note:
The data are unpublished and should be treated as provisional.

Mr. Hancock: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether people who are outside the UK may apply to be subject to the transitional arrangements under the Tier 1 for post-study workers. [272061]

Mr. Woolas: People outside the UK are not able to apply for leave to enter under the transitional arrangements for Tier 1 (post-study work).

Firearms: Crime

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many violent crimes involving a firearm were recorded in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years. [271257]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Available information relates to violence against the person crimes recorded by Hertfordshire police, in which firearms (excluding air weapons) were reported to have been used from 1998-99 up to and including 2007-08. The data cannot be broken down to a more local level.

Violence against the person crimes involving firearms[1] (excluding air weapons): Hertfordshire police force area, 1998-99 to 2007-08

[3] The National Crime Recording Standard was introduced on 1 April 2002, which may have resulted in inflated figures for some crime categories. Figures before and after this date are not directly comparable.

Forced Marriage

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of forced marriages which took place in (a) Luton, (b) Bedfordshire and (c) East of England region in the last 12 months. [271426]

Mr. Coaker: The Government's Forced Marriage Unit (a joint Home Office and FCO Unit, established in 2005) deals with a significant number of forced marriage cases every year. In 2008, the unit began keeping more detailed statistics on all reportings of forced marriage that were referred to the FMU. These statistics are not broken down by local area, but are broken down by regions.

During the whole of 2008 the unit received reports of over 1,600 possible forced marriage cases. Of those who gave a location, 5 per cent. were in the eastern region.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what funding her Department is providing for specialist support for organisations dealing with forced marriage in 2009-10; and if she will make a statement. [271427]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Following a successful pilot in 2008 the joint Home Office/Foreign and Commonwealth Office Forced Marriage Unit (FMU) has allocated £84,000 to its Domestic Programme fund for 2009-10. Specialist organisations will shortly be invited to apply for funds for project activities which support delivery of the FMU's 2009 and 2010 action plan. The Unit also separately funds support and awareness raising activity overseas, including in Pakistan, India and Bangladesh.

The Home Office has also allocated a total of £3.5 million to the nine Government offices for the regions and the Welsh Assembly for 2009-10 to support initiatives to tackle domestic violence. A number of regions have chosen to allocate specific funding to local initiatives tackling forced marriage in their areas.

Forced Marriage: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of forced marriages which took place in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire in the last 12 months. [272158]

Mr. Coaker: The Government's forced marriage unit (a joint Home Office and FCO unit, established in 2005) deals with a significant number of forced marriage cases every year. In 2008, the Unit began keeping more detailed statistics on all reporting's of forced marriage that were referred to the FMU. These statistics are not broken down by local area, but are broken down by regions.

During the whole of 2008 the unit received reports of over 1,600 possible forced marriage cases. Of those who gave a location, 5 per cent. were in the Eastern region.

The unit intervened to provide direct support in 420 cases. Of these cases 213 were assistance cases where interventions were made overseas, and 207 were reluctant sponsor cases where immigration support was given.

G20: Greater London

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent discussions she has had with the Commissioner of Police of the Metropolis on the policing of the G20 demonstrations in the City of London on 1 April 2009; and what assessment she has made of effectiveness of the use of the kettling procedure to control demonstrators. [270848]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Secretary has regular discussions with the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police which have included the policing of the G20 protests.

Tactics used to police protests are operational matters for the chief officer of the force concerned. The Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police has invited Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary to review the police tactics involved in policing G20, including containment, to assess their effectiveness.

Heathrow Airport: Detainees

Mr. Mullin: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to publish her response to the report of the Independent Monitoring Commission on immigration detention conditions at Heathrow Airport; and if she will make a statement. [272062]

Mr. Woolas: Both the chief executive of the UK Border Agency and I have already responded to the chair of the Independent Monitoring Board (IMB) for Heathrow. The Agency is appreciative of the work of the Board at the airport, and many of the suggested improvements identified in the report had already been identified and are therefore work in progress. Detention Services have, however, made further improvements a priority for the coming year.

Hillsborough Stadium: Disclosure of Information

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what papers held by her Department on the Hillsborough disaster she plans to publish in addition to those which have been placed in the Library. [271669]

Mr. Coaker: Government Departments holding papers on the Hillsborough tragedy are currently exploring the most appropriate means for reviewing undisclosed papers and, wherever possible, arranging for their disclosure. A statement will be issued once an appropriate way forward has been determined.

Human Trafficking

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people have been arrested under the Sexual Offences Act 2003 for trafficking for (a) sexual exploitation and (b) labour exploitation since the inception of the Act. [271357]

Mr. Alan Campbell: 425 people have so far been arrested for trafficking for sexual exploitation under the relevant sections of the Sexual Offences Act 2003.

161 people have been arrested for trafficking for the purposes of forced labour since the inception of the Asylum and Immigration (Treatment of Claimants) Act 2004.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the number of victims of human trafficking who are repeat victims. [271449]

Mr. Coaker: The nature of human trafficking makes it difficult to provide a precise estimate of the number of victims in the United Kingdom, including those who are repeat victims. Our current estimate of the number of victims is that at any one time in 2003 there were up to 4,000 women in the UK who were victims of trafficking for the purposes of sexual exploitation.

The United Kingdom Human Trafficking Centre continues to work on providing a more up to date estimate of the number of victims. We will be in a position to provide a more up to date estimate of the overall number including repeat victims by the end of the year.

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she will publish her Department's report on the Pentameter 2 operation against human trafficking; what assessment she has made of the effectiveness of the operation in Bedfordshire; and if she will make a statement. [271454]

Mr. Coaker: Gloucestershire constabulary will be publishing a report on the outcomes of Pentameter 2 in the near future.

Identity Cards: Airports

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether airside workers will be able to request removal of their data from the temporary National Identity Register (a) on leaving their job during the course of the pilot, (b) at the end of the pilot and (c) at any other time. [258105]

Mr. Woolas: It is planed to start issuing identity cards from the second half of this year to airside workers at Manchester and London City airports. Identity cards issued to British citizens may be used for travel in Europe instead of a passport and will be valid for 10 years. Accordingly, the core identity information relating to all those issued with identity cards will be held securely on the National Identity Register and, in a similar way to information currently held for passport issue, would not be removed simply at the request of the card holder.

Information will continue to be retained on the National Identity Register, in accordance with section 3(1) of the Identity Cards Act 2006 only for so long as it is consistent with the statutory purposes for it to be recorded in the Register.

Illegal Immigrants

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many clandestines were detected in vehicles attempting to enter the UK from France in 2008. [272463]

Mr. Woolas: From 1 January 2008 to 31 December 2008 a total of 28,007 attempts by clandestines to enter the UK illegally were prevented. This figure includes multiple attempts made by individuals. The clandestines were detected by the UK Border Agency, alongside its partners at the Juxtaposed controls in Calais, Coquelles and Dunkerque.

Note:

These figures have been sourced from locally collated management information held within locally accessed computer systems and do not represent National Statistics. They have not been the subject of National Statistics protocols and verification and should therefore be treated as provisional and subject to change.

Immigration

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) when she expects local immigration teams to be operational; [271358]

(2) what estimate she has made of the likely cost of local immigration teams in 2009; [271359]

(3) what role the police will play in local immigration teams; [271360]

(4) what recent discussions she has had with representatives of (a) local authorities and (b) police forces on the local immigration team scheme. [271361]

Mr. Woolas: Local immigration teams are being delivered as part of a rolling programme from 2009 to the end of 2011. Nine are already operational. We expect national coverage by operational local immigration teams to be in place by December 2011.

Local immigration teams will be delivered from within the UK Border Agency's overall operational budget for the next three years.

These teams' work will focus on the prevention and disruption of illegal activity and the arrest and removal of offenders. To disrupt illegal immigrants, the local teams will be backed by Immigration Crime Partnerships with the police. The police will work with immigration officers as equal partners in integrated teams to tackle organised immigration-related criminality as well as bringing a solution to those who are in the UK illegally and committing crime.

UK Border Agency regional directors are leading the discussions with stakeholders in their regions.

Immigration Controls

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many applications under the Highly-Skilled Migrants programme have been received in each year since the programme began. [272235]

Mr. Woolas: The following table shows the number of highly skilled migrant applications received in each year since the programme began.

Number of highly skilled migrant applications received[1] in each year 2002-08

	Number
2002	2,495
2003	6,575
2004	23,845
2005	38,620
2006	51,590
2007	56,975

[1] Figures include review applications.

Notes:

1. Figures are rounded to nearest five.
2. The figures quoted are not provided under National Statistics protocols and have been derived from local management information and are therefore provisional and subject to change.

Pete Wishart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many failed applicants under the Highly-Skilled Migrants programme have subsequently been deported; [272238]

(2) what the average cost of completing deportation proceedings against failed applicants under the Highly-Skilled Migrants programme was in the latest period for which figures are available. [272239]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office publishes statistics on the number of persons removed and departed voluntarily from the UK on a quarterly and annual basis. National Statistics on immigration and asylum are placed in the Library of the House and are available from the Home Office's Research, Development and Statistics website at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/immigration-asylum-stats.html

These statistics are categorised by asylum or non-asylum removals and it is therefore not possible to disaggregate the numbers of those who have been removed after a failed application under the Highly Skilled Migrants

Programme from the overall figures for removals without the examination of individual records at disproportionate cost.

Removals are delivered from within the UK Border Agency's overall operational budget. It is not possible to provide a figure for the average cost of removing a failed applicant under the Highly Skilled Migrants Programme because there are many different factors which may or may not be involved in the cost of a case (such as detention costs, travel costs, and the cost of escorting the individual in question). We are unable to disaggregate the specific costs and any attempt to do so would incur disproportionate cost.

The National Audit Office (NAO) gives a breakdown of the cost of typical asylum cases in 2007-08 in part four of its report 'The Home Office Management of Asylum Applications by the UK Border Agency' which was published on 23 January 2009. Although this refers specifically to asylum applicants, it provides an indication of the average costs of removing a person from the UK under a range of different circumstances. The report is available for viewing at:

http://www.nao.org.uk/publications/0809/management_of_asylum_appl.aspx

However, the UK Border Agency aims to ensure removals are effected at the lowest available rate subject to operational needs.

Immigration: Fees and Charges

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will estimate revenue from charges for applications for (a) visas to the UK, (b) UK citizenship and (c) work permits in each of the next six financial years. [272256]

Mr. Woolas: In 2009-10, we estimate that we will raise £338 million from applications for visas, £81 million from British citizenship applications and £16 million from tier 2 leave to remain applications.

We will continue to set fees in a way which ensures those who benefit from the system make an appropriate contribution towards the end to end costs of the immigration system.

Immigration: Romania

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will hold discussions with representatives of the government of Romania on the number of people from that country who were refused entry to the UK on the grounds that their presence would threaten public policy, public security or public health since 2007. [268726]

Mr. Woolas: There are ongoing discussions with the Romanian Government, including at the Justice and Home Affairs Council in April, on various issues. HM Government have no current plans to meet with the Government of Romania on the number of Romanian citizens refused entry to the UK due to their presence being a threat to public policy, public security or public health. Any individual refused entry to the UK is dealt with on a case by case basis.

Immigration: Security Guards

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people applying for work as guards with the Security Industry Authority were asked to prove their immigration status in the latest year for which figures are available; how many of these did so; and how many of those found to be without the right to work (a) appealed, (b) appealed successfully and (c) had an appeal challenged by the UK Border Agency. [271831]

Mr. Coaker: All applications for licences to the Security Industry Authority (SIA) from non-European Economic Area nationals are automatically checked for the right to work by the UK Border Agency at the request of the SIA.

From 1 April 2008 to 31 March 2009, 28,892 checks were conducted. Of these, 25,165 were confirmed as having the right to work.

There were 3,727 who did not have the right to work, or where the UKBA had no trace of the applicant.

Out of the 3,727, a total of 1,196 contacted the SIA to claim that they had the right to work. Of these 1,041 were successful in having their right to work confirmed and 155 were unsuccessful. During the same period there were 27 appeals to the courts of which 20 were upheld, three were dismissed and four are awaiting a court ruling.

Iona School: Demonstrations

Alan Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what the cost to the public purse was of the recent police operation at the Iona School, Sneinton; and whether there is to be a charge to the public purse for the school's repair and refurbishment required as a consequence of the demonstration; [272095]

(2) whether charges have been brought in relation to the recent demonstration at the Iona School, Sneinton; and what reports she has received on whether demonstrators forced their way into the main school rather than adjacent units. [272468]

Mr. Coaker: I cannot comment on an ongoing investigation. The costs relating to a police operation is a matter for the chief officer of the force concerned.

The police have a duty to facilitate peaceful protest, but balanced against this is their duty to prevent the commission of offences.

Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on what occasions the decision to include the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam on the list of proscribed organisations has been reviewed in the last five years; and what criteria were applied to the review in each case. [271511]

Mr. Coaker: The list of proscribed organisations in schedule 2 to the Terrorism Act 2000 is kept under regular review.

It is Home Office policy to review the proscription of each organisation on the list at least once a year. The proscription of the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) was specifically reviewed twice during the period 2004 to 2005 and subsequently reviewed at least once in each of the years 2006, 2007 and 2008.

The proscription of the LTTE was additionally reviewed between October 2007 and January 2008 following receipt of an application for deproscription of the organisation. This application was refused.

At each annual review, officials consider whether the organisation in question is "concerned in terrorism" as defined in Terrorism Act 2000 and, if so, whether as a matter of discretion the organisation should remain proscribed.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Macclesfield of 23 March 2009, Ref M7032/9, UKBA Ref M1368250, on indefinite leave to remain, sent on behalf of his constituent Mrs Chatellon Matibag. [271435]

Mr. Woolas: The Deputy Chief Executive of the UK Border Agency replied to the letter on 24 April.

Metropolitan Police: Complaints

Lady Hermon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many complaints have been made against police officers serving in the Metropolitan Police for concealing shoulder numbers in each of the last five years; [273050]

(2) how many police officers serving in the Metropolitan Police have been disciplined for concealing shoulder numbers in each of the last five years. [273051]

Mr. Coaker: These data are not held by the Home Office. The Metropolitan Police Service may be able to provide such information.

The Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC) is responsible for the collation and annual publication of police complaints and discipline statistics. However, these statistics are not broken down to the level of detail requested.

National Extremism Tactical Co-ordination Unit

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much funding her Department has allocated to the National Extremism Tactical Co-ordination Unit in each year since its inception. [266956]

Mr. Coaker: Funding to the National Extremism Tactical Co-ordination Unit is managed on the behalf of the Home Office by the Association of Chief Police Officers Terrorism and Allied Matters (ACPO TAM). We do not disclose details of grants provided to individual units on security grounds.

Offenders: Deportation

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department spent on private contractors for escorted deportations in 2008. [263195]

Mr. Woolas: The value of contracts between the UK Border Agency and its escorting suppliers is commercially sensitive and cannot therefore be disclosed.

Police: Conduct

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many serving police officers in each police force area have (a) been subject to criminal proceedings, (b) been suspended from duty and (c) received written warnings for (i) misuse of the Police National Computer and (ii) other data protection offences in each of the last five years. [270580]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not receive or collect such information. These are issues for individual forces.

Police: Costs

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will estimate the cost of policing (a) late alcohol licences and (b) football matches in each of the next six financial years. [272258]

Mr. Coaker: This information is not held centrally. Deployment of local policing resources is a matter for the chief constable and police authority to determine in light of local circumstances and operational priorities.

Police: Finance

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of the budget of each police force in Wales was derived from central Government funding in each year since 1997. [272773]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is set out in the following tables.

Police: Leyton

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what funding has been provided to the Metropolitan Police in Leyton and Wanstead constituency in each of the last five years; and what initiatives have been introduced by the police in the constituency in each of those years. [273334]

Mr. Coaker: The Government allocate funding to police authorities as a whole. The allocation of resources and the management of the police estate in Leyton and Wanstead constituency is a matter for the Metropolitan Police Commissioner and the Metropolitan Police Authority, who are responsible for assessing local needs.

The information requested on what initiatives have been introduced by the police in the constituency is not held centrally.

Police: Manpower

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) special constables there were in each year since 1997-98 and (b) community support officers there were in each year since the establishment of the post (i) in England and Wales and (ii) in each police force. [262900]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is published annually in the Home Office Statistical Bulletin series "Police Service Strength, England and Wales". The bulletins are available in the Library of the House, and can be downloaded from the publications link within the Research Development and Statistics directorate website located at:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/rds/pubsstatistical.html

Proscribed Organisations

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on which date each organisation proscribed under the Terrorism Act 2000 was so proscribed; and if she will make a statement. [272165]

Mr. Coaker: A total of 59 groups are proscribed under schedule 2 to the Terrorism Act 2000. This includes 45 international terrorist organisations and 14 groups connected to the affairs of Northern Ireland.

On the Terrorist Act receiving Royal Assent on 20 July 2000, 14 organisations connected to the affairs of Northern Ireland were listed under schedule 2; these organisations were until that point proscribed under previous legislation either with effect in Northern Ireland only, or, in respect of the Irish Republican Army and the Irish National Liberation Army, with effect in the whole of the UK. The organisations are:

The Irish Republican Army
Cumann nam Ban
Fianna nah Eireann
The Red Hand Commando
Saor Eire
The Ulster Freedom Fighters
The Ulster Volunteer Force
The Irish National Liberation Army
The Irish People's Liberation Organisation
The Ulster Defence Association
The Loyalist Volunteer Force
The Continuity Army Council
The Orange Volunteers
The Red Hand Defenders

Mujaheddin e Khalq was removed from the proscribed list on 24 June 2008.

The following entry

"The military wing of Hizballah, including the Jihad Council and all units reporting to it (including the Hizballah External Security Organisation)" was substituted for the entry

"Hizballah External Security Organisation"

with effect from 18 July 2008.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on which date each organisation that has been removed from the proscription list under the Terrorism Act 2000 was removed; what the reasons for the removal were in each case; and if she will make a statement. [272166]

Mr. Coaker: Mujaheddin e Khalq, also known as the People's Mojahedin Organisation of Iran (PMOI), is the only organisation to have been removed from the list of proscribed organisations. The Order proscribing the organisation came into force on 24 June 2008 following rulings from the Court of Appeal and the Proscribed Organisations Appeal Commission (POAC) that the organisation was no longer concerned in terrorism as set out in the Terrorism Act 2000.

Racial Discrimination: Internet

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which Minister in her Department has policy responsibility for tackling racism on the internet; what funds her Department has allocated to tackling racism on the internet in 2009-10; what steps are being taken to tackle (a) racism and (b) anti-Semitic hate on the internet. [271850]

Mr. Coaker: I am responsible for tackling hate crime on the internet. This includes racism on the internet. In February 2009 a ministerial seminar met to discuss how to more effectively tackle hate crime on the internet, including anti-Semitic hate crime. Work following this meeting is ongoing with officials currently researching options and costings on how best to tackle internet hate crime. Consideration will be given to the costed proposals in due course.

Reparation by Offenders: Publicity

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department has spent on its advertising campaign Justice Seen, Justice Done to date. [272882]

Mr. Coaker: The Justice Seen Justice Done Campaign comprised two elements—communications about the new Policing Pledge and communications about Community Payback.

The total media spend on the Policing Pledge campaign was £3,427,521. The total media spend on the Community Payback campaign was £621,266.

Sexual Offences

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) complaints and (b) items of correspondence (i) her Department and (ii) Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary has received in respect of historical investigations of allegations of sex abuse in each year since 2001. [270817]

Mr. Coaker: The Home Office does not hold this information.

Stop and Search: Essex

Mr. Burns: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many individuals were found to be carrying illegal (a) weapons and (b) drugs during stop and search procedures by the police in (i) West Chelmsford constituency and (ii) Essex in each of the last 10 years. [271985]

Mr. Coaker: Information on the number of arrests arising from stop and search procedures for illegal weapons and drugs in Essex police force area from 1998-99 to 2007-08 (latest available) is provided in the table.

The information reported to the Home Office on searches is broken down at police force area level only and cannot separately identify arrests resulting from searches conducted in the West Chelmsford constituency area.

Number of persons arrested for the possession of offensive weapons and drugs after stop and search procedures by police in Essex police force area, 1998-99 – 2007-08

	Stops and searches under the Police and Criminal Evidence Act 1984		Searches in anticipation of violence under Section 60 of the Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994

Note:
Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when these data are used.

Telecommunications: Databases

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the annual cost to businesses of implementation of her proposals to retain email and web information on customers. [272582]

Mr. Coaker: Current legislation, the Data Retention (EC Directive) Regulations 2009 (Statutory Instrument 2009/859), provides that the Secretary of State may, subject to prior agreement, reimburse any expenses incurred by a public communications provider in complying with the regulations for retention of communications data. On 27 April the Home Secretary published a consultation paper, "Protecting the Public in a Changing Communications Environment" seeking views on options for maintaining the capability of law enforcement and security and intelligence agencies to obtain communications data to protect the public.

The paper outlines that high level initial estimates of the cost of the options are in the range of up to £2 billion over a 10 year period. The Government are actively seeking the views of business on the proposed options to help meet its Better Regulation commitments to minimise their impact on business.

Territorial Support Group: Complaints

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many complaints were received against officers of the Territorial Support Group in (a) 2007 and (b) 2008; and how many such complaints have been received in 2009 to date; [271848]

(2) how many allegations of assault were made against officers of the Territorial Support Group in (a) 2007, (b) 2008 and (c) 2009 to date; and of these, how many were (i) upheld, (ii) allegations of assaults against ethnic minorities and (iii) allegations of assaults against women. [272359]

Mr. Coaker: These data are not held by the Home Office. The Metropolitan Police Service may be able to provide such information.

The Independent Police Complaints Commission (IPCC) is responsible for collecting the general complaint statistics that are published annually. However, these statistics are not broken down to the specific policing duty area where the officer works.

Terrorism: Anthrax

John Cummings: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment has been made of the level of risk of anthrax infection to workers in Government Department postal sections arising from the terrorist action; and if she will make a statement; [271429]

(2) what guidance her Department has given to companies on the vaccination of key workers against anthrax infection arising from terrorist action; [271430]

(3) whether personnel in the 18 chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear preparedness centres planned in the Government's Contest counter-terrorism strategy will be vaccinated against anthrax infection; [271431]

(4) what assessment she has made of the likely effects on public health of the release of anthrax spores on a platform at a deep-level London Underground station serving multiple Underground lines; and if she will make a statement; [271432]

(5) which manufacturers of vaccines against anthrax are represented on (a) the security and resilience suppliers community (RISC) and (b) the RISC chemical, biological, radiological and nuclear industry advisory group; [271433]

(6) what steps her Department took following the spreading of anthrax contamination by postal means in the US in 2001; and if she will make a statement. [271434]

Mr. Coaker: From 2001, and following the anthrax incidents in the United States of America, the United Kingdom's Chemical, Biological, Radiological, and Nuclear (CBRN) Resilience programme has provided the framework for comprehensive planning and preparation for dealing with the possible consequences of a CBRN attack. In addition, the Government's wider Counter-Terrorism Strategy (CONTEST) deals, among other things, with all aspects of protection to the public, including security advice to the private sector. While for security reasons it would be inappropriate to detail all aspects of such planning, the Government's approach is to prevent terrorists from obtaining or using hazardous materials; to put in place safeguards to protect the public, public places or critical national infrastructure from such attacks; and to ensure that measures are in place to reduce the impact of any such attack should it occur. The Health and Safety Executive has, for example, produced guidance on "Biological/Chemical Threats by Post" and general advice to businesses is provided by the Centre for the Protection of National Infrastructure.

With regard to anthrax vaccine, the Health Protection Agency is the sole manufacturer of the UK's licensed anthrax vaccine. The vaccine is manufactured for and on behalf of the UK Government. As a public body, the HPA is not a member of RISC. Routine vaccination against anthrax is generally used only to protect individuals who may be exposed to anthrax in the workplace (for example working with animal hides).

Terrorism: Arrests

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) arrests, (b) prosecutions and (c) convictions have been made under the (i) Terrorism Act 2000 and (ii) Terrorism Act 2006 in each year since their implementation. [272196]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is not currently available.

The Home Office, Ministry of Justice and Attorney-General's Office are currently working with the National Coordinator for Terrorist Investigations to improve the quality of data on arrests and convictions under terrorist legislation and other related legislation. As soon as this is complete a statistical bulletin to cover information on arrests and convictions will be published.

Terrorism: Convictions

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of indictments on charges of terrorism has resulted in convictions in the last two years. [273315]

Mr. Coaker: The information required will be contained in the Statistical Bulletin on Terrorism Arrests and Outcomes which is due to be published shortly. The data contained in the Statistical Bulletin are recorded up until 31 March 2008.

Statistics for 2008-09 are expected to be published in late 2009.

Terrorism: Crime Prevention

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what additional training is proposed for employees of (a) civil nuclear facilities, including research laboratories, and (b) military bases in support of the resilience strategy set out in the report, "The United Kingdom's Strategy for Countering International Terrorism". [267593]

Mr. Coaker: The Department of Energy and Climate Change and the Ministry of Defence are among the wide range of stakeholders involved in the delivery of the strategy for countering international terrorism, including work to mitigate the impact of a terrorist attack and to recover from its aftermath. Civil nuclear installations in the UK operate within a strict regulatory regime. Robust emergency plans are in place to ensure an effective response in the event of an emergency at a civil nuclear site. These plans are subject to regular exercise and review. We do not comment on the arrangements for security of military facilities for obvious reasons.

Theft: Motor Vehicles

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) how many thefts from vehicles were recorded in Staffordshire Police Authority area in each of the last five years; [271269]

(2) how many incidents of vehicle crime were recorded in Staffordshire in each year since 2005. [271272]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The information requested is given in the table.

Numbers of offences against vehicles recorded in the Staffordshire police force area

Offence	2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08
Theft or unauthorised taking of motor vehicle	3,995	3,245	3,226	3,075	2,596
Aggravated vehicle taking	214	225	185	160	150
Theft from vehicle	9,576	7,800	7,646	7,682	6,826
Interfering with a motor vehicle	2,145	1,791	1,755	1,576	1,237
Total offences against vehicles	15,930	13,061	12,812	12,493	10,809

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department has taken to reduce the incidence of vehicle crime in rural areas since 2005. [271273]

Mr. Coaker: The Government are committed to ensuring that the response to motor vehicle and other motor vehicle enabled crime is as effective as possible.

Crime and disorder reduction partnerships and Community safety partnerships are required to prioritise the crime types and problems of most concern locally based on a robust strategic assessment. This involves an appropriately differentiated approach between areas.

Total recorded offences against vehicles fell by 20 per cent. between 2004-05 and 2007-08.

We also know from British crime survey statistics published in July 2008 that theft of vehicles fell by over 21 per cent. from 2005-06 to 2007-08, and that theft from vehicles fell by over 14 per cent. over the same period.

66 per cent. of vehicle crime involves theft from vehicles, and this is being tackled through local crime prevention initiatives such as reminding drivers about leaving items visible in vehicles.

Success in the reduction of theft of vehicles has been achieved, in part, through successful problem solving—particularly in reducing repeat victimisation and improved vehicle security which has been achieved by partnership working between the Government, motor manufacturers and insurers.

British crime survey statistics consistently show that crime is lower in rural areas. The following table shows the percentage of households in each area type that were victims of vehicle related thefts:

Vehicle crime

	Percentage
	Urban	Rural
2005-06	8.3	4.3
2006-07	8.3	4.6
2007-08	7.2	3.7

Vehicle Number Plates

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many successful prosecutions have been brought for offences related to (a) speeding,

(b) jumping red lights and (c) stolen vehicles as a result of the use of automatic number plate recognition technology in each police force area in each of the last five years. [271767]

Mr. Coaker: Automatic Number Plate Recognition is now in regular use in all aspects of operational policing. Records relating to the number of successful prosecutions as a result of the use of this technology are not held centrally.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which (a) individuals, (b) private businesses and (c) public authorities are able to access data collated by automatic number plate recognition systems operated by police forces. [271768]

Mr. Coaker: The handling of ANPR data by police forces is subject to the provisions of the Data Protection Act 1998, and any requests for access would be considered within that context.

(a) Individuals have no specific right to access data collated by ANPR systems operated by police forces.

(b) Private businesses have no specific right to access data collated by ANPR systems operated by police forces.

(c) Public authorities have no specific right to access data collated by ANPR systems operated by police forces. However, some local authority CCTV control rooms have the provision to be alerted to ANPR hits to enable efficient operation of CCTV cameras. In such circumstances, the reason for the interest in the vehicle is not shared with the control room. Local authorities have—by agreement with the police—the ability to alert police to a vehicle.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department for what period of time police forces are allowed to retain data acquired via automatic number plate recognition systems. [271769]

Mr. Coaker: Automatic Number Plate Recognition (ANPR) data are, in general, retained for the first 90 days after collection, for viewing by authorised persons for post-crime interrogation and investigation. This enables investigations to use the ANPR tool to identify suspects, witnesses or patterns.

Some data maybe retained for up to two years, however, these data are partitioned from general viewing. A senior officer (superintendent or above) must authorise any access to data older than 90 days. This authorisation is restricted to serious crime and counter-terrorism investigations only.

The Association of Chief Police Officers is currently revising its guidance around data retention.

Mr. Benyon: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what legislation governs the operation of automatic number plate recognition systems by police forces. [271770]

Mr. Coaker: In their usage of Automatic Number Plate Recognition systems, police are bound by the provisions of legislation including the Data Protection Act 1998 and the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000, and the European Convention on Human Rights.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to answer question 247959, on loss of departmental property, tabled on 12 January 2009. [262507]

Mr. Woolas: Question 247959 was answered on 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 160W.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Adoption: British Overseas Territories

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will make it his policy to apply The Hague Convention on Intercountry Adoption to all overseas territories. [270404]

Beverley Hughes: For the Hague convention to be extended to any overseas territory, that territory must have the necessary legislation for implementing the convention in place. The 'overseas territories' are self-governing and our position is that implementation of the convention is a matter for them. Should an overseas territory wish to implement the convention, then we could extend the convention to that territory once the necessary legislation was in place.

We would encourage all countries to implement the Hague convention to protect the best interests of children in intercountry adoptions.

Children in Care

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of grandparents and other family members in England who are (a) family and friends carers but not foster carers and (b) family and friends foster carers. [270228]

Beverley Hughes: One of the key principles of the Children Act 1989 is that children should be cared for by their families where this is consistent with the child's welfare.

Where a child needs to be looked after by the state, local authorities are required to consider the potential benefits of a placement with family and friends before all other options. A family or friend who has a child placed with them by the local authority must become an approved foster carer. The number of foster carers who are related to the child placed with them is not collected centrally. However, information collected in the SSDA903 return from local authorities shows that the number of looked after children at 31 March 2008 in a foster placement with a relative or friend is 6,900.

Family and friends caring for children who are not looked after by the state are a very broad group. Some will be caring for the child as a private family arrangement with the child's parents, where state intervention will not necessarily be appropriate and the child and their carers may not be known to the local authority.

If a child being cared for by a family or friend is assessed as being in need, the local authority may provide support under section 17 of the Children Act 1989 ("the Act") in order to promote their upbringing by their family. The number of families receiving support under section 17 of the Act is not collected centrally.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in care in 2008 had had more than (a) 60, (b) 70, (c) 80, (d) 90 and (e) 100 foster placements while in care. [270905]

Beverley Hughes: I refer the hon. Member to the reply given on 3 February 2009, Official Report, columns 1055-58W.

The response showed that there were no children looked after in 2008 that had more than 30 foster placements. This means that there were also no children looked after in 2008 that had more than (a) 60, (b) 70, (c) 80, (d) 90 and (e) 100 foster placements while in care.

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in council care homes subsequently moved into private housing in (a) Leeds West constituency, (b) the Leeds metropolitan area and (c) England in the last five years. [271113]

Beverley Hughes: Information on the number of looked after children in private housing is not collected centrally by the Department.

However information on the number of looked after children placed in homes is available from tables A3 and LAA2 in the Statistical First Release entitled 'Children looked after in England (including adoption and care leavers) year ending 31 March 2008', which is located at

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000810/index.shtml

Table A3 (national level) can be found within the 1st set of national tables and table LAA2 (local authority level) can be found within the first set of additional tables.

Children: Databases

Annette Brooke: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) which local authorities have not completed the first phase of implementation of the ContactPoint database; and if he will make a statement; [266639]

(2) when he expects the ContactPoint database to be fully operational; and if he will make a statement. [266640]

Beverley Hughes: We are taking a prudent and incremental approach to ContactPoint delivery. Local authorities provided a progress update on their shielding activity 13 March, which included whether they had robust arrangements in place to deal with shielding requests on an ongoing basis. Two thirds of local authorities confirmed that they had completed the required shielding actions. We are aware of a number of issues raised by local authorities and are working closely with them to address these issues.

The Secretary of State will provide an update to Parliament in the spring about progress towards being fully operational.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Mid Dorset and North Poole (Annette Brooke) of 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 233W, on children: databases, if he will place in the Library a copy of each letter and email. [271471]

Beverley Hughes: These documents form part of the normal and ongoing implementation process between my Department and the local authorities. A considerable amount of time and money, both centrally and locally would be required to ensure that they did not include material that:

was provided in confidence;

identified individuals;

was commercially or technically sensitive.

I believe to make these documents available would inhibit the free and frank exchange of views which is critical to the success of projects of this nature, and therefore they will not be published.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which local authorities have raised concerns with his Department about tracing co-resident children in ContactPoint; and what concerns each such authority has raised. [271501]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 27 April 2009]: ContactPoint's prime objective is to identify who else is working with a child, not to trace all other children in a particular location.

Three local authorities have provided feedback that the functionality to locate co-resident children, in some cases has not shown any records to the user. This is because, in these cases, the number of children that the system identifies as potentially co-resident is in excess of limits on ContactPoint that are in place to prevent trawling.

We are, as with all feedback received, during this learning phase, evaluating it; and any identified improvements will be considered for implementation.

These responses were sent in confidence and as part of the normal, ongoing discussion between the Department and the local authorities; and as part of the implementation process of the project.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his most recent assessment is of the performance of the ContactPoint database in penetration tests. [272083]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 30 April 2009]: ContactPoint has undergone security penetration testing in accordance with Government policy for the assurance and risk management of information assets. The findings of all penetration tests have been appropriately addressed.

While it is not appropriate to report externally on the detail of these tests, periodic penetration testing of ContactPoint is a key element of the framework of measures that provide the required assurance that an appropriate level of security has been established and is being maintained for the system.

Children: Protection

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will publish anonymised versions of the full serious case reviews into the deaths in Doncaster of (a) Alfie Goddard, (b) Child A, (c) Child AO6 and (d) Child BO5. [253077]

Beverley Hughes: Paragraph 8.33 of 'Working Together To Safeguard Children' 2006 states that

"in all cases, the LSCB overview report should contain an executive summary that will be made public and that includes, as a minimum, information about the review process, key issues arising from the case and the recommendations that have been made."

Executive summaries are available on the Doncaster Safeguarding Children Board website in respect of Child A, Child A06 and Child B05. The executive summary for AG has not yet been published.

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Justice on the effect on child protection of proposed reductions in funding for legally-aided family cases. [271506]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 30 April 2009]: The Government are fully committed to safeguarding vulnerable children and I am clear that it is important we secure the right level of support for these children within the family justice system. Officials from the Department, the Legal Services Commission (LSC), the Ministry of Justice (MOJ) and the Children and Family Court Advisory and Support Service (CAFCASS) have already had discussions about how to achieve this. Further discussions are planned in the light of the consultation responses, following the MOJ/LSC consultation on Family Legal Aid Funding 2010.

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families when he plans to publish the Missing from Home and Care guidance; and if he will make a statement. [272885]

Beverley Hughes: The draft version of the revised Missing from Home and Care guidance was published on the DCSF website for public consultation in January 2009 and consultation events were held in York, Manchester and London in February. The consultation came to an end in April 2009 and my officials are working closely with a group of experts, including members of the English Coalition for Runaway Children, to amend the guidance as a result of the responses received.

I anticipate that the guidance will be published in electronic form in mid to late June. When the outcomes of the review into emergency accommodation provision are known, we will consider the implications on our statutory guidance to local authorities in this area and revise this section of the guidance accordingly. The guidance will then be published in hard copy towards the end of the year.

By publishing the guidance in electronic form in June, local authorities will be able to use it to help them implement the requirements of National Indicator 71—"Missing from Home and Care".

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families with reference to page 66 of "The Protection of Children in England: a progress report", HC330, what recent estimate he has made of vacancy rates within child protection teams. [265232]

Mr. Coaker: I have been asked to reply.

Information on the vacancy rates within child protection teams is not recorded centrally. It is for individual chief constables to assess their own staffing priorities and decide how best to address the vacancy rates within child protection teams.

The Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families intends to publish a detailed action plan in response to Lord Laming's recommendations on 6 May 2009.

Local Safeguarding Children Boards

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what indicators his Department uses to monitor the performance of local safeguarding children boards; and if he will make a statement: [258351]

(2) what safeguards exist to ensure (a) openness and (b) fairness in the operation of local safeguarding children boards; and if he will make a statement. [258354]

Beverley Hughes: I apologise to the hon. Member for the delay in responding to this question. I refer the hon. Member to the reply I gave to a similar question on 31 March 2009, Official Report, column 1131W.

Local Safeguarding Children Boards' (LSCBs) compliance and effectiveness in their statutory role to develop policies and procedures for safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children is monitored by local authority scrutiny, through peer review based on self-evaluation, performance indicators and joint audit and through the judgments made by inspectorates. The work of LSCBs has to be planned properly and fit within a framework of action set out in the Children and Young People's Plan.

Ofsted assesses and inspects local authority area level services for children, including the effectiveness of the LSCB. It has done so through annual performance assessments (APAs) and joint area reviews (JARs) of children's services. From April 2009 it will do so, with other inspectorates, as part of new arrangements for comprehensive area assessment (CAA). There will also be a three yearly cycle of inspections specifically of safeguarding and services for looked after children, undertaken by Ofsted and the new Care Quality Commission.

In his recent report, 'The Protection of Children in England: A Progress Report', Lord Laming states that

"Despite Local Safeguarding Children Boards being relatively new, they are already having a positive impact on services for protecting children. Ofsted published 21 Joint Area Reviews of children's services between April to June 2008 and in 18 of those they reported that LSCBs are already making a significant positive difference to their local services."

Lord Laming's report makes a number of recommendations designed to strengthen further the positive impact of LSCBs. The Government have accepted Lord Laming's recommendations and set out in their immediate response, published on 12 March, how we will strengthen the role of the LSCB so that they challenge every member of the Children's Trust, through the Children's Trust Board, on their success in ensuring that children and young people are kept safe. The LSCB should also publish an annual report on the effectiveness of arrangements locally for keeping children safe, as recommended by Lord Laming.

The Government will publish a detailed response to all Lord Laming's recommendations on 6 May 2009.

Schools: Influenza

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what estimate he has made of the number of schools with the capacity to provide education remotely in the event of school closure necessitated by a flu pandemic; [272906]

(2) what guidance his Department has issued to schools on contingency preparations for a flu pandemic; [272971]

(3) what scientific advice the Government have received on the appropriate time to issue advice to schools on closures in the event of a pandemic; [272972]

(4) what provisions he plans to make to support students with special educational needs in the event of school closures owing to a pandemic; [272973]

(5) what steps he has taken to ensure that schools have stocks of (a) personal protective equipment and (b) personal cleansing materials necessary in the event of an influenza pandemic; [272974]

(6) what steps he plans to take to keep schools informed of the levels of infection in their areas in the event of an influenza pandemic; [272975]

(7) what guidance he has issued to schools on measures to ensure that children are able to make up learning forgone because of school closures during any pandemic. [272976]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department issued guidance in 2006 on contingency measures for pandemic flu, which we supplemented with guidance on infection control (2007) and remote learning in the event of a school closing for an extended period (2008). The Department sent out reminders in the week commencing 27 April 2009 that the guidance is available. We also drew the attention of local authorities, schools and others to the raising of the World Health Organisation's level of alert to phase 5 and the increased urgency for existing plans to be reviewed, drawing on the Department's guidance. The Department issued a note to schools and local authorities on 5 May 2009, which included a comprehensive brief on issues of interest to the education sector.

The pandemic flu and infection control guidance were informed by advice from the Health Protection Agency. Local authorities have a responsibility for vulnerable children in their area and they must plan to ensure that essential services can operate for the provision of education for all children including those with special educational needs. Our guidance on infection control includes advice on the use and disposal of personal protection equipment and clothes and the use of cleansing materials. It is for schools and local agencies to liaise on making these available.

The Department has set out in its guidance to schools and children's services on planning for a human influenza pandemic, the communication channels through which it would communicate any decisions that schools should close or re-open.

The remote learning guidance referred to above aims to help the provision of ongoing education in the event of a school not being able to open. It is our belief that this will lessen the impact on pupils' learning because their school is closed due to pandemic flu.

Schools: Sports

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much funding from (a) the public purse and (b) the National Lottery has been spent on school sport in each of the last five years. [272765]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: In the last five years from 2004-05 to 2008-09, a total of £1.134 billion has been spent on PE and school sport via the Exchequer. A further £679.8 million has been spent on school sports programmes via the Big Lottery Fund. These programmes include PE and Sport in Schools, Spaces for Sports and Arts and School Sports Co-ordinators. Awards have also been made to projects that have contributed to school sports through other Big Lottery Fund grant programmes including Community Sports programmes, Football Foundation, Awards for All and Reaching Communities. School sport also benefits from awards from the four home country sports lottery distributing bodies.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Carbon Emissions

Simon Hughes: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what his Department's policy is on the criteria for access to international funding for the purposes of reducing carbon dioxide emissions from deforestation and degradation. [265838]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 23 March 2009]: The Bali Action Plan (2007) calls for consideration of policy approaches and positive incentives on issues relating to reducing emissions from deforestation and forest degradation (REDD) in developing countries. This is in addition to the role of conservation, sustainable management of forests and enhancement of forest carbon stocks in developing countries. The UK supported the commitment that the needs of local communities and indigenous people will be addressed when action is taken to reduce emissions from deforestation and recognised the relevant provisions of other international agreements such as the convention on biological diversity (CBD) to support the conservation and sustainable use of biodiversity.

Any payment for mitigation is expected to be paid post carbon saved. Consequently an agreement on baselines and a reliable framework for monitoring, reporting and verification (MRV) is needed to ensure the integrity and credibility of REDD efforts. This needs to take into account national, sub-national and sector and project level MRV.

However there is an understanding that finance is needed for up-front investment and capacity building costs. We expect that such funding will take into account, as with existing funds, country preparedness and ability—institutional and otherwise—to undertake REDD initiatives, taking into account Government efforts to date and Government willingness to move to a strategic approach to REDD and to integrate the role of forests into development.

Sir Nicholas Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change if he will introduce the proposed pay as you save initiative in advance of 2013. [269517]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Government are currently consulting on options to encourage householders to install energy saving and renewable technologies by providing financial mechanisms which spread the costs of these measures over time, so that the costs are more than offset by savings on bills. The consultation, which also covers the broader heat and energy saving strategy, closes on 8 May and we encourage stakeholders to send in their views.

Housing: Standards

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what discussions he has had with ministerial colleagues on the introduction of the PassivHaus standard; and if he will make a statement. [269730]

Joan Ruddock: My right hon. Friend the Secretary of State has had no discussions regarding the introduction of the "PassivHaus" standard with ministerial colleagues. Issues regarding the energy efficiency of new builds fall within the remit of the Department for Communities and Local Government.

Insulation: Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1128-9W, on insulation: housing, how many homes have been insulated since the commencement of the heat and energy saving strategy; and if he will make a statement. [272470]

Joan Ruddock: The Heat and Energy Saving Strategy (HESS) consultation, published on 12 February, seeks views on our long-term strategy to deliver energy and carbon savings through the next decade and beyond. In particular, the package of policies under consideration aims to ensure we are capable of living within our proposed carbon budgets during the period to 2022, and that we can achieve our target to cut UK greenhouse gas emissions by 80 per cent. by 2050. We aim to publish a finalised strategy by the end of the year.

In the meantime, our existing package of policies, including the carbon emissions reduction target (CERT); the Warm Front scheme; and the Decent Homes programme, is continuing to roll-out insulation measures to GB homes. We estimate that well over 1 million homes have been insulated in the last 12 months under these schemes.

Renewable Energy: Heating

Mr. Charles Kennedy: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what timescale Ofgem requires to assess the suitability of renewable heating products for funding through the Carbon Emissions Reduction Target programme; and what the (a) maximum and (b) minimum time taken between an initial application to Ofgem and the successful accreditation of a new product has been. [272932]

Joan Ruddock: Ofgem advises that if all required information is provided at the time of submission it may take around a month to assess and approve the proposal. However, if a piece of information is missing, for example details of the seasonal coefficient of performance (CoP) which may need to be monitored for six months via a trial, assessing such an activity may take significantly longer, even up to a year.

Mr. Charles Kennedy: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what procedures Ofgem uses to assess the suitability of renewable heating products for funding through programmes associated with the Carbon Emissions Reduction Target; and if he will make a statement. [272933]

Joan Ruddock: Ofgem assesses renewable heating products in a number of ways as different types of information are required to demonstrate compliance with the CERT obligation.

Manufacturers of heat pumps are required to demonstrate a seasonal coefficient of performance (CoP) of the units and the percentage of heat load they provide. If the seasonal CoP is not known then a field trial on 10 installations is required. For each installation, the energy supplier is required to confirm which fuel has been displaced as a result of the installation and the type of supplementary heating used if need be. This allows Ofgem to estimate how much carbon each installation saves using a methodology developed for this purpose.

Ofgem requires that between 3 and 4m^2 of solar water heating panelling (evacuated tube and flat plate respectively) is installed per property, which is calculated to be an appropriate size for each property type.

Installation of the domestic biomass boilers must meet the standards outlined in the guidance to the Building Regulations.

Each of these domestic renewable technologies above and installers of these technologies is required to be accredited by the Microgeneration Certification Scheme (MCS) or equivalent to ensure the quality of the technology and installation. This means that each technology promoted through CERT must comply with the standards specified by the MCS. In addition, each installer is recommended to be registered by the REAL Assurance Scheme.

Evaluation of each communal biomass boiler installation is assessed on a case by case basis. The supplier is required to provide: the existing site heat demand, type of heating system (fuel and system efficiency), information about the biomass boiler including its seasonal efficiency, type of wood and its calorific value and moisture content, annual fuel supply and details of the back-up system. Suppliers are also required to check whether an installation may take place in a smoke control area in which case only exempted appliances may be used.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Audio Recordings: Licensing

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent assessment his Department has made of the accuracy of catalogued lists kept by (a) PPL and (b) the Performing Right Society of (i) featured and (ii) non-featured artists on sound recordings produced between 1950 and 1970. [273289]

Mr. Lammy: No such assessment has been made.

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what representations he has received from (a) the Radio Centre and (b) representatives of business organisations on Performing Right Society (PRS) public performance licences for radios in the workplace; what recent representations he has received from businesses which have ceased to used radios in the workplace because of PRS licensing requirements; and if he will make a statement. [273290]

Mr. Lammy: My officials met Radio Centre on 23 April this year following a general stakeholder meeting on 20 March, correspondence from Radio Centre dated 2 February, a meeting in November 2008 and Radio Centre's response to the Intellectual Property Office's consultation on changes to exemptions from public performance rights in sound recordings and performers' rights dated October 2008.

We have received a number of representations from businesses about the PRS licence for workplace radio listening, many of which say they are considering ceasing to use the radio.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272142]

Mr. Simon: The Department's building services are provided through the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) and the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF), which manage the buildings that DIUS occupies.

The National Measures Office (NMO) occupies space in Teddington that is owned by DIUS but managed by the NMO.

All of these organisations are currently in the process of scheduling in the works required to satisfy the regulations. The inspection results will be placed in the Libraries.

Higher Education: Admissions

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills whether a financial penalty will be imposed on higher education institutions for over-recruitment against the admission figures prescribed by the Higher Education Funding Council for England for 2009-10; and whether universities which made offers to their applicants prior to 15 January 2009 will be treated differently to institutions which made offers after that date. [272162]

Mr. Lammy: We are determined to maintain arrangements both for the funding of institutions and support for students that meet needs but are at the same time sustainable. If universities over-recruit, these objectives are jeopardised. We made this clear to institutions last October when we asked HEFCE to "work up contingency measures that could be used to reduce the risk of institutions over recruiting". HEFCE reiterated this message in November when it asked institutions to "review their planned recruitment for 2009/10". Our grant letter to HEFCE repeated this position by asking the Council to "minimise and preferably eliminate over recruitment in 2009/10" and reinforced this by saying that "any over-recruitment in the coming year could result in a transfer of HEFCE grant back to this Department, in order to meet the consequent unanticipated student support costs in that or future years".

As we have been entirely consistent in signalling the particular importance of controlling over-recruitment, HEFCE will treat all institutions in the same way when responding here.

Higher Education: Veterinary Medicine

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many students from (a) England, (b) Wales and (c) outside the UK undertook university courses in veterinary studies in each of the last five years. [272896]

Mr. Lammy: The numbers of English, Welsh and non-UK domicile enrolments to veterinary science courses, in each of the last five years for which data are available, are shown in the following table.

English, Welsh and non-UK[1] domicile enrolments[2] to veterinary science courses, UK higher education institutions[3], academic years 2003-04 to 2007-08

Academic year	England	Wales	Non-UK
2003/04	2,620	180	445
2004/05	2,860	170	500
2005/06	2,920	180	535
2006/07	3,140	185	665
2007/08	3,280	175	650

Housing: Carbon Emissions

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps he has taken to improve skills in the house-building sector in order to assist progress towards the Government's 2016 target for zero carbon homes. [273190]

Mr. Simon: There will be real challenges in responding to the skill needs of the house-building industry in the next few years. Through our continued investment in skills we want to support the house-building and wider construction industry so that they are ready for the upturn and have the skilled workforce required to meet the 2016 target and the demands of a low carbon economy.

The Zero Carbon Hub, established by the Department for Communities and Local Government, aims to ensure that industry can work with Government and other stakeholders to overcome any barriers to delivery. The skills and training strand of this work will establish the industry's current level of knowledge about building to low and zero carbon home standards, and determine any areas where additional skills and training are required and which agencies are best placed to support this. The Homes and Community Agency (HCA) has a parallel skills action plan, supported by DIUS, to ensure the development of sustainable communities.

ConstructionSkills (the sector skills council for construction) are working with the Zero Carbon Hub, the HCA and the UK Green Building Council to understand the wider skills needs of sustainable construction. The results of this research will inform training development and the future shape of qualifications.

Through the Sector Compact agreed with ConstructionSkills in June 2008, some £133 million of Train to Gain funding will be available over three years to support the priority skills needs of the construction sector including house-building. Compacts will be reviewed regularly to ensure they continue to meet the needs of employers in the sector in the light of the need for economic renewal and to address the new and emerging skills needs. We have also established an Apprenticeship Task Force with employers, trade unions, educationalists and Government to review the approach to apprenticeships within the sector, and how it might be expanded and improved.

Measurement

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2009, Official Report, columns 421-2W, on trading standards: weights and measures, what changes to enforcement guidance (a) have been made and (b) are being made in relation to the prosecution of traders using imperial scales by local authorities. [271282]

Mr. Lammy: The information is as follows:

(a) None.

(b) Discussions are continuing between Government and the Local Authorities Co-ordinators of Regulatory Services (LACORS) on the updating of LACORS' guidance on the enforcement of units of measurement legislation. This guidance will reflect an update to Directive 80/181/EEC and will be available to local authority trading standards departments in advance of the changes to UK law which will be implemented before the end of 2009.

Students: Loans

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many graduates of universities in England who have moved abroad to (a) other EU member states and (b) non-EU countries have informed the Student Loans Company of their change of status in each of the last five years. [273075]

Mr. Lammy: In the five-year period 2003-04 to 2007-08, around 38,700 income-contingent loan borrowers notified the Student Loans Company (SLC) of a period of overseas residency. Annual statistics are not readily available. 35 per cent. of known overseas residences during that period were in EU countries, 65 per cent. were in non-EU countries.

Training: Energy

Mr. Donohoe: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent steps his Department has taken to increase the skills base of employees in the energy sector. [270832]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 24 April 2009]: Power is the number one industry for the future success of our economy. It currently has an ageing workforce and faces challenges including the asset renewal needed to meet the changing needs of a low carbon economy, and handling the impact of new technology. Energy and Utility Skills (E&U Skills) is the Sector Skills Council (SSC) responsible for the energy sector, and its coverage includes the electricity and gas industries. In common with all SSCs, E&U Skills has developed a Sector Skills Agreement (SSA) which identifies the sector's current and future skills needs. The SSA, which is UK wide, provides a clear platform for employers, training providers and other stakeholders to address the sector's skills needs.

Government are directly supporting the industry through the creation of The National Skills Academy for Nuclear (NSAN) and the approval for a National Skills Academy for Power (NSAP), which is at the business planning stage.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force. [272136]

Jonathan Shaw: The costs to DWP are included in the overall facilities price of the Department's private finance initiative contract. The cost to the Department's supplier, Telereal Trillium, to date is £67,000.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272137]

Jonathan Shaw: There are 234 air conditioning systems with an output of more than 250 kW. Of these 42 have been inspected by accredited energy assessors. The current programme of inspection is due to be completed by the end of July 2009. Copies of the energy assessors' reports, which are held by the Department's PFI service partner, Telereal Trillium, will be placed in the Library shortly.

Departmental ICT

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much his Department has spent on IT maintenance in the last 12 months. [272486]

Jonathan Shaw: Since 2005 the Department has had a realigned contract for IT services, which covers the provision of all IT, including maintenance. It is not possible to identify specific costs for IT maintenance.

EU Globalisation Fund

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if his Department will co-ordinate a UK bid for funds from the EU Globalisation Fund; and if he will make a statement. [270677]

Mr. McNulty: In England, (different arrangements apply in the devolved Administrations), Regional Development Agencies, with their partners, are responsible for coordinating an immediate response to large redundancies. They are aware of the availability of the European Globalisation Adjustment Fund (EGF) and would make the initial decision about whether a bid would add value to their response. The European Social Fund (ESF) has already been used to invest in Jobcentre Plus, its Rapid Response Service and Train to Gain, the combination of which have already proved to be effective in helping workers and areas affected by restructuring. The EGF must not duplicate use of the ESF but as long as any bid, that were to come forward to my Department, met the criteria, it would receive full consideration.

Hazardous Substances: Aviation

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether aircraft (a) static on the ground and (b) travelling through UK airspace are subject to Control of Substances Hazardous to Health Regulations. [270036]

Jonathan Shaw: Aircraft either static on the ground or travelling through UK airspace are subject to Control of Substances Hazardous to Health Regulations 2002 (as amended).

Housing Benefit

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people have claimed housing benefit at least once in (a) the UK, (b) the North East, (c) the Tees Valley and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each of the last 10 years. [271349]

Kitty Ussher: Information is not available on the number of times people have claimed housing benefit.

Housing benefit information is not available at constituency level.

The available information is in the following table.

Number of housing benefit recipients in Great Britain and the north-east 1997 to 2007

	Great Britain	North East
August 1997	4,591,920	278,120
August 1998	4,425,210	269,290

2. The figures have been rounded to the nearest 10.
3. The totals for Great Britain include estimates for local authorities that have not responded.
4. Housing benefit figures exclude any extended payment cases.
5. From February 2007, DWP has been collecting more detailed HB/CTB data electronically from local authorities. Over time this will improve the accuracy, timeliness and level of detail available in the published statistics. However, the new data have not yet been fully quality assured to National Statistics standards, the most recent summary statistics available are for August 2007.

Incapacity Benefit

John Barrett: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people have been removed from incapacity benefit because they do not have enough points to continue to qualify in the last 12 month period for which figures are available. [270003]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 22 April 2009]: The available information is in the following table.

The number of incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance benefit terminations in the most recent 12 month period

	All	Other reasons	Failed either own occupation test or Personal Capability Assessment
November 2007	175,600	145,900	29,100
February 2008	163,500	134,200	28,900

Income Support: Mortgages

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people resident in North East Fife constituency have received assistance from his Department with the cost of meeting mortgage interest repayments in the last 12 months. [270858]

Kitty Ussher: Information on mortgage interest repayments is not available at constituency level.

Jobcentre Plus

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what proportion of people have been helped into work by Jobcentre Plus in each (a) regional and (b) Jobcentre Plus district in each (i) year since its job outcome target was launched and (ii) of the last 24 months. [264241]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked the acting chief executive to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Ruth Owen:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking how many and what proportion of people have been helped into work by Jobcentre Plus in each (a) regional and (b) Jobcentre Plus district in (i) each year since its job outcome target was launched and (ii) each of the last 24 months. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to Mel Groves as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus. Mel Groves is currently on Annual Leave and I am replying in his absence.

The Job Outcome target was introduced in April 2006. It measures the number of people who move into work after help from Jobcentre Plus or one of its partners. It uses HMRC tax data to identify job outcomes and awards points accordingly to the position of the customer in the labour market, allowing us to accord priority to those customers in most need of our help. It includes a broad range of customers, not just those who are unemployed. The type of support our customers require and indeed receive will vary depending on the individuals themselves. The latest data available is to August 2008.

I have placed in the Library the available information regarding the annual and monthly performance of Jobcentre Plus against its Job Outcome Target broken down by region and district. The data reflects the number of people helped into work, not achievement against the Job Outcome Target which is points based.

Jobcentre Plus: Complaints

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions on what grounds formal complaints were made to Jobcentre Plus in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [269756]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Mel Groves:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question 'on what grounds formal complaints were made to Jobcentre Plus in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement'. This is something which falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Jobcentre Plus operates a three-level feedback process in response to issues raised by customers:

Level 1—feedback received by a specific business area that relates solely to Jobcentre Plus business;

Level 2—feedback received direct by a District Manager, or that relates to another business area, for example Local Authorities, or feedback not resolved at level 1; and Level 3—feedback received direct by the Chief Executive, or feedback not resolved at level 2.

Our customer complaints are then categorised according to the nature of the complaint.

Services—e.g. advisory services, benefits, job broking;

Standards—e.g. waiting times, office environment, information quality; and Treatment—e.g. equal treatment and helpfulness of staff.

There are currently 48 sub categories which fall under the three standard headings. In the main these cover the primary benefits administered by Jobcentre Plus, staff behaviour and treatment of customers, Jobcentre Plus interventions, Jobcentre Plus programmes and job broking services.

There was no centralised recording of level 1 and 2 complaints before April 2005. The current categories have been in place since then.

Jobcentre Plus: Manpower

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many full-time equivalent customer-facing Jobcentre Plus staff there were on average in each (a) region and (b) Jobcentre Plus district since November 2008; and if he will make a statement. [269758]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Mel Groves, 6 May 2009:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking how many full-time equivalent customer-facing Jobcentre Plus staff there were on average in each (a) region and (b) Jobcentre Plus district since November 2008. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The table below gives the average number of full-time equivalents for customer-facing Jobcentre Plus staff by Region and District between November 2008 and February 2009.

Information for parliamentary questions is usually obtained from the Jobcentre Plus management information portal. This does not contain the level of data requested and therefore data has been taken from an alternative source known as Dataview, extracted from resource management (RM). In a minority of cases it has not been possible to identify the region or district that an individual works in. This is due to the data not being available in RM.

Jobcentre Plus: Standards

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the performance of Jobcentre Plus in each (a) region and (b) Jobcentre Plus district against each of the indicators for its interventions delivery target (i) in each year since the target was launched and (ii) in each of the last 24 months. [264239]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Mel Groves:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking what assessment he has made of the performance of Jobcentre Plus in each (a) region and (b) Jobcentre Plus district against each of the indicators for its interventions delivery target (i) in each year since the target was launched and (ii) in each of the last 24 months. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

The Intervention Delivery Target (IDT) was introduced in April 2007. I am therefore able to provide in month district and regional performance for the last 19 months to October 2008. This is because Jobcentre Plus has a time delay of approximately 4 months in its recording of data for IDT.

The target for 2008/09 is made up of the following three components, and measures whether we conduct a number of our main interviews within a given time:

85% of initial Incapacity Benefit work-focused interviews are conducted between week 9 and week 13 of the claim;

85% of Income Support lone parent work-focused interview reviews that become due are conducted within 3 months; and 90% of 13, 26, 52, and 78 week Jobseeker's Allowance interviews (including New Deal initial interviews) that become due are conducted within 6 weeks.

These three components make up the overall national target of 86%, with each component having an equal share of the target.

The target for 2007/08 was made up of the following four components, and measured the timeliness of several of our key mandatory work-focussed interviews:

80% of initial Incapacity Benefit work-focused interviews are conducted after the end of the 8th week and up to the end of the 13th week stage of the claim;

85% of Income Support Lone Parent work focussed interviews that become due are conducted within 3 months;

85% of 13 and 26-week Jobseeker's Allowance advisory interviews that become due are conducted within 6 weeks; and 90% of Jobseeker's Allowance Labour Market Interventions and follow up activity are conducted.

These four components were used to make up the overall national target of 85%. Performance for the Interventions Delivery Target is the mean average of the four components weighted equally.

As the components of the target within these 2 years differed slightly we would not recommend making any direct comparisons of the data.

The available data has been placed in the Library.

Members: Correspondence

Tony Lloyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he plans to reply to the letter of 26 January from the hon. Member for Manchester Central regarding TW (ref: GREA01009/GAB); and what the reasons are for the time taken to respond. [272983]

Jonathan Shaw: A reply to my hon. Friend's letter of 26 January regarding TW (ref: GREA01009/GAB) was given on 5 May 2009 and I apologise for the delay in doing so.

Social Security Benefits

Mr. Charles Kennedy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what explanatory and administrative provisions are in place to enable prospective eligible claimants to receive the £1,000 employer payment voucher available from Jobcentre Plus with effect from 6 April 2009; and if he will make a statement. [267461]

Mr. McNulty: Jobcentre Plus staff have been made fully aware of the £1,000 recruitment subsidy through a series of internal communications. Supporting guidance about how to appropriately promote and administer the recruitment subsidy from 6 April 2009 was issued on 23 March 2009.

Jobcentre Plus staff will promote the offer to eligible customers, as appropriate, and issue them with a voucher which they can use to approach employers seeking new employees. In addition, Jobcentre Plus is promoting the £1,000 offer to employers through an initial burst of media advertising across both print and online channels. This will take place from 6 April until 14 May and will feature in selected national press, trade publications and key business websites. All advertising will direct employers to go online to

to receive more information on the offer.

In addition to this Jobcentre Plus have identified a list of key partner websites including Business Link, Train to Gain, and the UK Commission for Employment and Skills, where messages to promote the offer will be held, alongside signposting back to the Jobcentre Plus site.

All activity and take-up of the offer will be monitored and evaluated during May with a view to developing further plans to promote the offer if required.

Social Security Benefits: Fraud

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what discussions he has had with scientists working in the field of voice risk analysis technology on the accuracy of the technology being used by his Department to differentiate between high and low risk claims; and what use he has made of independent scientific evidence when evaluating the system; [265603]

(2) what assessment he has made of the accuracy of voice risk analysis technology in recognising high-risk groups; and what estimate he has made of the level of risk of false positives arising from the use of voice risk analysis technology in relation to elderly callers; [265604]

(3) pursuant to the Written Ministerial Statement of 11 March 2009, Official Report, columns 19-20WS, on voice risk analysis, whether the technology being tested by his Department has been independently evaluated; what use has been made of control groups in which telephone advisers have not been using the technology in evaluating the results of the pilots; and if he will make a statement. [265692]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department's evaluation of Voice Risk Analysis technology makes use of previously published research to help test the process and interpret the results.

The Department has not entered into discussions with scientists outside of government at this stage.

The Department has recently made available estimates of the accuracy of the process in recognising both high-risk and low-risk groups. I refer the hon. Member to the written ministerial statement of 11 March 2009, Official Report, columns 19-20WS.

Analysis of the accuracy of the Voice Risk Analysis process amongst elderly callers has not been conducted as yet. Should the Voice Risk Analysis process demonstrate acceptable rates of accuracy in the general population, further work will be undertaken to assess accuracy with respect to differing demographic groups. The data from the phase two local authority trials will enable the Department to assess the risk of false positives in relation to elderly callers.

The Department has not commissioned independent experts to evaluate Voice Risk Analysis. The Department's evaluation is being conducted by Government Statisticians who are required to offer independent advice to support the policy formulation.

The Department's evaluation assesses the accuracy of the Voice Risk Analysis process by comparing the risk found in both 'low' and 'high' risk groups and not through control groups. If the technology is effective, the rate of incorrectness of benefits in the 'high' risk group should be substantially higher than that in the 'low' risk group. This assessment of the difference between the two groups is supported by a range of statistical tests. This is an accepted technique for assessing the accuracy of this type of technology that does not rely on a separate control group.

Unemployed: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many unemployed people in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire Jobcentre Plus were assisted into employment in each of the last five years. [265803]

Mr. McNulty: The available information is in the following table.

Number of job seeker's allowance claimants who returned to work

	April 2004 to March 2005	April 2005 to March 2006	April 2006 to March 2007	April 2007 to March 2008	April 2008 to March 2009
Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire (JCP district)	23,055	21,065	19,910	20,185	21,610
Hemel Hempstead (parliamentary constituency)	1,750	1,555	1,520	1,555	1,580

Notes:
1. Number off-flows moving into employment include claimants who increased their employment hours beyond 16 per week.
2. This information is published on the Nomis website at www.nomisweb.co.uk.
3. The percentage of people leaving with an unknown destination recorded has increased over the last 10 years. This is because the completion levels of the JSA40 (forms filled in by people leaving Jobseeker's Allowance) have decreased over this period. This should be taken into account when interpreting these statistics, as many of these 'unknown' leavers will have moved into employment or other benefits.

Unemployment: Coastal Areas

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will bring forward proposals to address seasonal unemployment fluctuation in seaside towns; and if he will make a statement. [262997]

Mr. McNulty: Analysis carried out in response to the 2007 CLG Select Committee report on coastal towns showed that seasonal work accounted for less than 1 per cent. of total employment in coastal towns, ranging from a low of 0.4 per cent. of employment in winter to at most 1.7 per cent. in the summer months.

The extent to which seasonal employment affects coastal towns varies across areas, reflecting their differing labour market characteristics. This underlines the need for local and regional interventions which are sensitive to local requirements and their interrelationships with the surrounding areas.

Regional Development Agencies are supporting coastal towns through their regional economic strategies with a wider focus on the broader objectives of addressing employment, enterprise and skills in coastal areas.

Where seasonal employment is a key driver of the local economy this needs to be considered as part of the wider regeneration and economic development of the local area and inform the regional economic strategy and local area agreement process.

The Department for Work and Pensions, through Jobcentre Plus, provides a national system of help and support to those affected by unemployment, wherever they live. People are able to make use of the job matching service available through local Jobcentre Plus offices or the internet. Fast track access to more intensive support is available to individuals facing particular labour market disadvantages and tailored help is available through the New Deal and Pathways to Work programmes for those claiming other welfare benefits, such as lone parents or those with a health problem or disability.

CHURCH COMMISSIONERS

Religious Broadcasting

9. Robert Key: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners whether the Church of England has made recent representations to broadcasters on trends in levels of religious broadcasting. [273158]

Sir Stuart Bell: The Church of England is in regular contact with broadcasters, and the BBC in particular, and seeks to help them retain and develop religious broadcasting. The Bishop of Manchester wrote on the Church's behalf to the Director General of the BBC about recent changes in the Religion and Ethics department and I understand he has received an encouraging response.

Carbon Footprint

Norman Baker: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what steps the Church Commissioners are taking to reduce the carbon footprint of their activities. [273154]

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what steps the Church Commissioners are taking to reduce the carbon footprint of their activities. [273275]

Sir Stuart Bell: In the last two years the Commissioners have increased from seven to 24 the number of fuel-efficient hybrid-power cars provided to bishops. They also share in the energy-efficiency measures in place at Church House, Westminster including the use of lower-energy heating and lighting systems, and recycling facilities. They are also improving their approach to sustainability in land management.

Church Commissioners: Finance

John Robertson: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what effect the financial situation has had on the investment policy adopted by the Church Commissioners. [273152]

Sir Stuart Bell: The Commissioners continue to diversify their portfolio and allocate more capital internationally but the financial situation has not caused them to change their overall policy of holding the majority of their assets in equities and property.

The financial situation to which my hon. Friend refers is a moving target, however, and I assure him that they keep it under constant review.

Church of England: Finance

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what proportion of the Church of England's running costs in each of the last three years was met by the Church Commissioners. [273479]

Sir Stuart Bell: Around one sixth.

Lambeth Palace

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what the cost of (a) running and (b) maintaining Lambeth Palace was in each of the last three years. [273478]

Sir Stuart Bell: The Commissioners' policy is not to make public the running and maintenance costs of individual bishops' residences.

ELECTORAL COMMISSION COMMITTEE

Electoral Registration

8. Mr. Hollobone: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what the Electoral Commission's most recent estimate is of (a) the number of non-British EU citizens who are registered to vote in the United Kingdom and (b) the number of non-British EU citizens who are wrongly registered to vote as British citizens. [273157]

Sir Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that figures from the Office for National Statistics show that 961,681 non-British EU citizens were registered to vote in the United Kingdom as of 1 December 2008. This figure does not include EU citizens from the Republic of Ireland, Malta or Cyprus.

The Commission further informs me that no estimate has been made of the number of non-British EU citizens who are wrongly registered to vote as British citizens. All applicants are required to state their nationality on the registration form and electoral registration officers can request evidence as to nationality.

Fraud

Bob Spink: To ask the hon. Member for Gosport, representing the Speaker's Committee on the Electoral Commission what assessment the Electoral Commission has made of the likelihood of fraud in the 2009 European Parliament elections. [273153]

Sir Peter Viggers: The Electoral Commission informs me that it has issued detailed guidance to police and returning officers, jointly with the Association of Chief Police Officers, on assessing the risk of electoral malpractice at elections.

It is the operational responsibility of returning officers and the police to assess the risk of electoral malpractice at specific elections, including the 2009 European parliamentary elections.

TRANSPORT

Driving Tests: Motorcycles

Mark Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many sites were available to run module one of the new motorcycle test on 27 April 2009 of each type in each region. [272771]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The following table provides the information on operational sites for the new module one motorcycling test on 27 April.

	Operational multi purpose test centres	VOSA sites (weekend)	Casual hire sites
South West	6	4
London and South East	6	4	1
East Anglia	5
East Midlands	5		1
West Midlands	3	1	1
Yorks and Humberside	3	2	1
North East	2
North West	5	2	1
Wales	3
Scotland	6	3	1
Total	44	16	6

Driving: Elderly

Mr. Blunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many fatal road traffic accidents were caused by drivers aged (a) 70 to 79, (b) 80 to 89 and (c) over 89 years old in each of the last 10 years. [273573]

Jim Fitzpatrick: I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 22 January 2009, Official Report, column 1575W.

Motor Vehicles: Excise Duties

Joan Walley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will bring forward proposals to amend regulations for vehicle excise duty (VED) refund applications to prevent VED refund claims being made by a vehicle seller before the new registered keeper's details have been updated by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency. [273258]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The 2008 Finance Act introduced changes to ensure that refunds of vehicle excise duty (VED) are available only in specific circumstances. As these changes only came into effect on 1 January 2009, no further changes are currently planned.

Motor Vehicles: Registration

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what reports he has received of allegations of the fraudulent use of V5C forms with serial numbers between (a) BG8229501 and BG9999030 and (b) BI2305501 and BI2800000; [272465]

(2) how many V5C forms with serial numbers between (a) BG8229501 and BG9999030 and (b) BI2305501 and BI2800000 have been misplaced by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency or its contractors. [272466]

Jim Fitzpatrick [holding answer 5 May 2009]: The precise circumstances surrounding the theft of vehicle registration certificates (V5C) falling within the serial number ranges quoted are the subject of an ongoing police investigation.

The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA) is aware of 1,163 V5C documents within this range that have been stolen and used fraudulently.

DVLA took practical steps to alert the public to the situation, issuing a series of national press releases leading to advice appearing in various national publications.

Railways: South East

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many rail services Southeastern Railway has cancelled in the last 12 months. [273205]

Paul Clark: In the year to 31 March 2009, London and South Eastern Railway cancelled 7,326 trains. This is 1.2 per cent. of the number of trains that they planned to operate.

Roads: Safety

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many road traffic accidents involving Trief kerbs have been recorded in the last 12 months. [273520]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The information requested is not collected.

Roads: South West

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment he has made of the adequacy of central Government funding for road improvements in each local authority area in the South West region. [272528]

Paul Clark: Local major schemes, including road improvements, costing over £5 million need to be identified by the respective region for funding within its regional funding allocation. This funding is based on a formula which reflects the population of the specific region.

In addition to funds for specific major schemes, the Department for Transport also allocates integrated transport block and highways maintenance funding to local transport authorities for general capital investment in transport for schemes costing under £5 million. This funding is not ring-fenced and local authorities have discretion to spend their allocations in line with their priorities.

Speed Limits: Safety

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment his Department has made of the effect on road safety of a reduction of the 60mph speed limit to 50mph. [273200]

Jim Fitzpatrick: On 21 April, the Department for Transport published a consultation paper, 'A Safer Way: Consultation on Making Britain's Roads the Safest in the World'.

This paper highlighted the high casualty rates on rural roads, which carry 40 per cent. of traffic, but account for 62 per cent. of road deaths. Of particular concern are rural single carriageways. In the document we propose to publish stronger guidance on these roads and to provide information annually to highway authorities about the most dangerous roads. It will be for individual highway authorities to consider reducing speed limits.

The consultation proposals and background research can be found at:

www.dft.gov.uk/roadsafetyconsultation

Transport: Local Government

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps his Department is taking to assess the transport infrastructure needs of local authorities with Growth Point status; and what steps his Department is taking to ensure sufficient funding is provided to meet those needs. [272530]

Paul Clark: In 2008, Department for Transport officials collaborated with colleagues in Communities and Local Government and regional Government Offices to set up an information management structure for the infrastructure requirements of new growth points and growth areas. That structure is now in place and provides the framework for the Department's continuing efforts to understand and offer assistance to overcome the transport challenges faced by growth point authorities. The Department has recognised the importance of streamlining mainstream funding with the needs of housing growth, and encouraging regions to do the same: up to 2014, most of the schemes in the national roads programme and over half of the regional funding allocation pot go some way towards supporting housing growth. In addition, the Department has sought to maximise the capacity of the community infrastructure fund, which is dedicated to supporting housing growth.

Vehicle and Operator Services Agency: Expenditure

Julie Morgan: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much of the funding for 2008 for Vehicle and Operator Services Agency testing services announced on 30 July 2008 the Agency spent in 2008. [273014]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The funding announced on 30 July relates to the provision of loan funding from the Department for Transport, which is to be repaid with interest. A loan of £20 million has been received which has been spent in the 2008-09 financial year.

JUSTICE

Administration of Justice

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what progress has been made on national implementation of his Department's Simple Speedy Summary Justice programme. [272994]

Bridget Prentice: Following the publication of Delivering Simple Speedy Summary Justice in July 2006, the Criminal Justice Simple, Speedy, Summary programme was implemented in all magistrates court across England and Wales by March 2008. Since implementation the estimated average time from charge to disposal in the magistrates courts for adult charged cases (excluding committals) has dropped from 61 days in the year to March 2007 to 48 days in December 2008 and the average number of hearings has reduced by around 20 per cent. Following the success of this project, Her Majesty's Courts Service has now implemented a similar programme for youth cases where the estimated average time from charge to disposal for youth cases has dropped from 52 to 40 days (over the same time period).

Courts: Video Conferencing

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the (a) efficiency savings and (b) savings in time for (i) police officers and (ii) others arising from the virtual court pilot at Camberwell Green; when he plans to initiate the second pilot site in north Kent; whether a timetable has been established for the national implementation of virtual courts; and when he plans to bring forward legislative proposals to amend the law on the right of the defendant to consent to attendance at a virtual court. [272995]

Bridget Prentice: A business case for virtual courts was developed based on the experience of the prototype run in London in 2007. This suggested that a pilot linking Camberwell Green magistrates court and 15 police stations could yield benefits of £2.2 million per annum for the Metropolitan Police, National Offender Management Service and Crown Prosecution Service. This includes efficiency savings (for example reduced prisoner transport costs) and savings in staff time for police officers and other staff in the criminal justice system.

The costs and benefits of virtual courts will be tested fully in further pilots which are due to commence at the first sites in London later this month and last for 12 months. The pilot in North Kent is due to commence at the end of June 2009.

No timetable has been established for the national roll out of virtual courts. The pilots will be evaluated thoroughly and the findings will inform decisions on wider roll-out.

The Coroners and Justice Bill currently before Parliament contains provisions removing the requirement for defendant consent to participate in virtual courts.

Crown Dependencies

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many British citizens have taken up residence in (a) Guernsey, (b) Jersey and (c) the Isle of Man in the last five years. [272675]

Mr. Wills: The information sought is not held in the form requested. The following details have been obtained from the Governments of Guernsey, Jersey and the Isle of Man.

(a) Guernsey does not hold any accurate data on the subject.

(b) Jersey does not collect information on the nationality of persons who choose to take up residence.

(c) In the Isle of Man, the 2006 census recorded that 7,406 British citizens who were not born in the Isle of Man came to the island to live between 2001 and 2006 and were still living on the island on census day.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many British citizens have taken up residence in Alderney and Sark in the last five years. [272676]

Mr. Wills: The information sought is not held in the form requested. Details were sought from the Governments of Alderney and Sark but such information is not collected by the islands.

Crown Dependencies: Microgeneration

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice in which Crown Dependencies micro-generation electricity production schemes are in operation. [272633]

Mr. Wills: The Crown Dependencies are self governing dependencies of the Crown and responsible for their own internal affairs, including the generation of electricity. While this is not a matter in which the Ministry of Justice is involved we understand that the Isle of Man has a small hydro generation facility and that Guernsey and Jersey do not currently run such schemes.

Crown Dependencies: Renewable Energy

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much electricity is generated from renewable resources in each of the Crown Dependencies. [272632]

Mr. Wills: The Crown Dependencies are self governing dependencies of the Crown and have their own directly elected legislative assemblies, administrative, fiscal and legal systems. The Ministry of Justice does not keep information on the amount of electricity generated from renewable resources in the Crown Dependencies.

Crown Dependencies: Tourism

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what percentage of (a) Guernsey's and (b) Jersey's gross domestic product was generated by the tourism sector in each of the last five years. [272674]

Mr. Wills: The information sought is not held in the form requested, but the following details have been obtained from the Governments of Guernsey and Jersey.

(a) Guernsey does not hold specific figures on the contribution of "tourism" to gross domestic product, nor any figures that take multiplier effects into account. However, the percentage of gross domestic product generated by the hostelry and recreation sectors is regarded as a good representation of the contribution of tourism to GDP. The percentages for the last five years for which figures are available are:

	Percentage
2003	4.84
2004	4.58
2005	4.51
2006	4.22
2007	4.19

(b) Jersey does not measure its economy in terms of gross domestic product but of gross value added (GVA). There is no accurate data available on the contribution of the "tourism sector".

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with greater than 250kW of output; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272187]

Maria Eagle: The number of departmental buildings we currently have information for that are equipped with air conditioning systems with greater than 250kW of output is 37 and the number of these systems that have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 is 35. We are still gathering information for Her Majesty's Prison Service, HMCS and Ministry of Justice HQ Core Estate. I will write to the hon. Member as soon as this information is received. To place copies of inspection reports in the Library would incur disproportionate cost as the Ministry of Justice has responsibility for over 100 buildings.

Drugs: Sentencing

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the average length of sentence for those sentenced to immediate custody for possession of cannabis was in each year since 1997. [272026]

Maria Eagle: The available information is shown in the following table. Figures for year 2008 will be available towards the end of 2009.

Average custodial sentence length of offenders sentenced to immediate custody for possession[1] of cannabis, 1997 to 2007

	Average custodial sentence length (months)
1997	4.5
1998	4.2
1999	3.2
2000	3.1
2001	3.5
2002	3.4
2003	4.0
2004	3.8
2005	4.0
2006	2.8
2007	3.1

[1] Having possession of a controlled drug (cannabis) under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 (as S(2) [Class 'C' drug] as amended by Criminal Justice and Public Order Act 1994 Sec 157. Cannabis use to be classified as class 'B' before it was reclassified as class 'C' in 29 January 2004.

Notes:

The statistics relate to persons for whom these offences were the principal offences for which they were dealt with. When a defendant has been found guilty of two or more offences the principal offence is the offence for which the heaviest penalty is imposed. Where the same disposal is imposed for two or more offences, the offence selected is the offence for which the statutory maximum penalty is the most severe.

These figures have been drawn from administrative data systems. Although care is taken when processing and analysing the returns, the detail collected is subject to the inaccuracies inherent in any large scale recording system.

OMS Analytical Services, Ministry of Justice

Jersey

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the purpose was of the visit by Ministers of his Department to Jersey on 17 April; whom Ministers met during that visit; and what matters were discussed at those meetings. [272536]

Mr. Wills: My noble Friend the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State for Justice (Lord Bach) visited Jersey on 17 April. This was his first visit since being appointed Minister with responsibility for the Crown Dependencies and an opportunity to meet key figures in the Government of Jersey. He met the Chief Minister, Deputy Minister, Bailiff and Deputy Bailiff. The matters for discussion included the G20 summit, Tax Information Exchange Agreements, the Borders, Citizenship and Immigration Bill, and the Health Foods and Medicines Directives.

Jersey: Dietary Supplements

Mr. Austin Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what his most recent information is on the likely timetable for the implementation by Jersey of (a) the EU Food Supplements Directive and (b) the EU Nutrition and Health Claims Regulation. [272537]

Mr. Wills: Our most recent information on these matters is as follows:

Jersey Health Protection is continuing to work on law drafting instructions, for the Food Supplements Directive and the Nutrition and Health Claims Regulations although law drafting time has yet to be allocated in the legislation programme.

The Ministry of Justice will continue to work with Jersey to progress the implementation of these two matters.

Land Registry: Fraud

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what recent steps his Department has taken to prevent the unauthorised amendment for the purposes of fraud of house ownership information on the HM Land Registry website. [273350]

Mr. Wills: It is not possible for an amendment to be made to the register of title through Land Registry's website. The Find a Property service, formerly known as Land Register Online, which is available through the website only allows users to view or obtain information, for example, a copy of the register for a particular property. This information is also available to any person who applies to Land Registry by post or in person. The Land Register has been open to the public since 1990.

Land Registry views registration fraud very seriously. It has had a number of measures to help combat fraud in place for some time, including identity verification for the parties to registration applications and service of notice on property owners in certain circumstances. It also constantly keeps its anti-fraud strategy under review and changes its procedures as appropriate to meet developing threats.

Legal Advice and Assistance: Travelling People

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 667W, on legal advice and assistance: travelling people, what the location of each planning application handled by each local authority was; and whether the representation was in relation to (a) a new planning application, (b) retrospective planning permission, (c) planning enforcement and (d) another matter; [272390]

(2) what the (a) type of planning inquiry and (b) location of each development was in respect of each case in which funding was provided. [273261]

Mr. Malik: The Ministry of Justice does not record the locations involved in legal aid applications for representation at planning inquiries as a matter of course. It is possible that by giving details of those locations, the identities of individual legal aid clients would be revealed. As these are personal data, they are not routinely disclosed.

Applications for exceptional funding for legal representation at planning inquiries usually concern an appeal against a local authority's rejection of an application for planning permission and may also pertain to enforcement. MOJ does not record applications for exceptional funding for planning inquiries by any sub-categories.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 667W, on legal advice and assistance: travelling people, what the cost to the public purse of the grant through the exceptional funding scheme was. [272391]

Mr. Malik: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 2 February 2009, Official Report, column 917W.

The total cost of exceptional funding grants to Travellers in the financial year 2008-09 remains the same as the amount stated in my earlier answer, as no further grants were made before the end of the financial year.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 667W, on legal advice and assistance: travelling people, how much grant funding was given in each case. [273260]

Mr. Malik: The grant of funding in each case was:

Financial year 2007-08

Tunbridge Wells County Council	2,114.50
Basildon District Council	1,614.50
North Somerset Council	2,317.40
North Somerset Council	2,214.68
Tandridge District Council	1,897.04
Dartford Borough Council	1,614.70
South Staffordshire District Council	1,267.87

Surrey Heath Borough Council	2,264.50
London Borough of Bromley	1,635.56
Bath and North East Somerset Council	4,127.93
Wyre Forest District Council	2,114.00
Lewes District Council	2,468.75
South Somerset District Council[1]	1,897.04
South Gloucester Council[1]	2,011.60
Wealden District Council[1]	2,321.65
Wealden District Council[1]	1,614.50
Total	33,496.22

[1] The names of these authorities have been confirmed since the initial question was answered.

Financial year 2008-09

Mid Devon District Council	2,021.08
Rother District Council	1,614.50
Chichester District Council	1,309.53
Canterbury City Council	2,508.00
Kent County Council	2,114.50
Bedford Borough Council	1,614.50
Lewes District Council	1,057.25
Ashford Borough Council	1,719.33
Total	13,958.69

The total cost of exceptional funding grants to Travellers in the financial year 2008-09 remains the same as the amount stated in my initial answer, as no further grants were made before the end of the financial year.

The final amounts paid may have varied slightly from the figures aforementioned as the Legal Services Commission can adjust the grant if necessary (for example if the hearing is longer, or shorter, than expected).

Legal Aid: Expenditure

Mr. Swire: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department and its predecessor spent on legal aid in (a) England, (b) the South West, (c) Devon and (d) East Devon constituency in each of the last 10 years. [272611]

Mr. Malik: Figures for (a) and (b) are only readily available for the last seven years. These are shown in the following table. Figures for (c) and (d) could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The data come from several databases some of which do not go down to the level of detail requested. Manual extraction of the data would take several days.

	England	£ million South West
2001-02	1,628	122
2002-03	1,861	138
2003-04	2,035	146
2004-05	1,978	157
2005-06	1,953	145
2006-07	1,882	135
2007-08	1,929	132

Note:
Small elements of expenditure which cannot be split regionally (e.g. CDS Direct) have been excluded.

Legal Aid: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department and its predecessor spent on legal aid in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire in each of the last 10 years. [272792]

Mr. Malik: The information requested is not readily available and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. The data come from several databases some of which do not go down to the level of detail requested. Manual extraction of the data would take several days.

Victim Support: Finance

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much funding from his Department has been allocated to the organisation Victim Support in each of the last five years. [273422]

Maria Eagle: Victim Support has received an annual grant of £30 million from the Ministry of Justice in each of the past five years.

In addition Victim Support received £5.6 million in 2007-8 and £7 million in 2008-9 to finance Victim Support Plus.

Youth Justice

David Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what impact assessment was made of (a) the decision to reduce the number of places contracted for custodial places in local authority secure children's homes and (b) the allocation of £20 million for development or redevelopment of new young offender institutions for juveniles. [270770]

Beverley Hughes: I have been asked to reply.

The decision to reduce the number of secure children's home places for which the Youth Justice Board (YJB) contracts was taken following a comprehensive analysis by the YJB of recent data, which showed that the optimum number of secure children's home places that should be contracted for was 191. The YJB is confident that this number will meet future levels of demand.

The allocation of £20 million of capital provision in 2008-09 for the development or redevelopment of young offender institutions (YOIs) was not directly related to the decision about the award of contracts to secure children's homes. For the most part, secure children's homes and YOIs cater for different age groups within the under-18 custodial population. The £20 million has been used by the YJB to develop and improve facilities at a number of YOIs. Capital investment in secure children's home is the responsibility of the Department for Children, Schools and Families.

HEALTH

Alcoholic Drinks: Children

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many under 14 year olds were treated for alcohol-related health problems in each county in the East of England region in the last 12 months. [273244]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested on the number of 14-year-olds treated for alcohol-related health problems in each county in the east of England region in the last 12 months is not held centrally. However, the number of admissions of patients under 14 and resident in east of England with an alcohol-related condition in 2007-08 (the latest 12-month period for which data are available) is shown in the following table:

Number of admissions of patients under 14 and resident in east of England with an alcohol related condition in 2007-08

County	Number
Peterborough	*
Luton	*
Southend-on-Sea	*
Thurrock	*
Bedfordshire	*
Cambridgeshire	6
Essex	17
Hertfordshire	10
Norfolk	*
Suffolk	14
East of England total	72

Notes:
1. The data are for residents of the East of England, rather than patients treated in the east of England.
2. Figures have not been adjusted for shortfalls in data (i.e. the data are unsmoothed).
3. To protect patient confidentiality, figures between one and five have been suppressed and replaced with '*'. Where it was possible to identify numbers from the total due to a single suppressed number in a row or column, an additional number (the next smallest) has been suppressed.
4. The number of alcohol-related admissions is based on the methodology developed by the North West Public Health Observatory. Figures for under 18s only include admissions where one or more of the following alcohol-specific conditions were listed:
alcoholic cardiomyopathy (I42.6);
alcoholic gastritis (K.29.2);
alcoholic liver disease (K.70);
alcoholic myopathy (G72.1);
alcoholic polyneuropathy (G62.1);
alcohol-induced pseudo-Cushing's syndrome (E24.4);
chronic pancreatitis (alcohol induced) (K.86.0);
degeneration of nervous system due to alcohol (G31.2);
mental and behavioural disorders due to use of alcohol (F.10);
accidental poisoning by and exposure to alcohol (X45);
ethanol poisoning (T51.0); methanol poisoning (T51.1); and toxic effect of alcohol, unspecified (T51.9).
5. These figures represent the number of episodes where an alcohol-related diagnosis was recorded in any of the 20 (x14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and seven prior to 2002-03) primary and secondary diagnosis fields in an HES record. Each episode is only counted once in each count, even if an alcohol-related diagnosis is recorded in more than one diagnosis field of the record.
6. The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 20 (x14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the HES dataset and provides the main reason why the patient was admitted to hospital.
7. As well as the primary diagnosis, there are up to 19 (13 from 2002-03 to 2007-08 and six prior to 2002-03) secondary diagnosis fields in HES that show other diagnoses relevant to the episode of care.
8. A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
9. Years are assigned by the end of the first period of care in a patient's hospital stay.
10. HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. The quality and coverage of the data have improved over time. These improvements in information submitted by the national health service have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. Some of the increase in figures for later years (particularly 2006-07 onwards) may be due to the improvement in the coverage of independent sector activity. Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in out-patient settings and may no longer be accounted for in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.

Appendicitis

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many people were treated for a ruptured appendix in each hospital trust in England in the most recent year for which figures are available; [271185]

(2) how many people were treated for a ruptured appendix in hospital in England in each of the last five years for which figures are available. [271186]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on treatment for ruptured appendices, specifically, is not collected centrally.

However, we can supply figures for finished admission episodes with a primary diagnosis of 'acute appendicitis with generalized peritonitis'. This includes perforation, peritonitis (generalized), and rupture.

A table containing these data has been placed in the Library.

Cannabis: Children

Mr. Spring: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children under the age of 16 years sought treatment for cannabis use in (a) England, (b) the East of England and (c) Suffolk in the last 12 months. [273245]

Dawn Primarolo: Data on those seeking treatment for drug use are not collected centrally. Data on those in treatment are collected and the following table gives figures for under 16-year-olds in treatment for cannabis, both for primary and adjunctive use, for England, the east of England and Suffolk. These figures are based on data for 2007-08, the most recent period for which data are available.

	Primary	Adjunctive
England	6,075	2,075
East of England	380	116
Suffolk	52	21

Notes:
1. If a client starts the year already in treatment, age is taken at 1 April, if they begin treatment during the year, age is taken at triage.
2. Figures are provided for primary use (the substance that brought the client into treatment) and adjunctive use (a substance additional to the primary drug used by the client).

Carbon Monoxide: Departmental Responsibilities

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 28 April 2009, Official Report, column 1232W, on carbon monoxide: departmental co-ordination, (1) whether Ministers from his Department attended the Health and Safety Executive-led Officials Group on Gas Safety and Carbon Monoxide Awareness on 5 September 2007; and if he will make a statement; [273110]

(2) whether Ministers took part in meetings on carbon monoxide took place in the three years to September 2007. [273126]

Dawn Primarolo: No Ministers attended the meeting of the Health and Safety Executive-led Officials Group on Gas Safety and Carbon Monoxide (CO) Awareness on 5 September 2007.

There was one meeting of the Ministerial Group on Gas Safety and CO Awareness. This took place on 14 June 2007.

Departmental Temporary Employment

Mr. Willis: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many staff on temporary contracts are employed at his Department's offices at Richmond House; and what entitlement such staff have to (a) sick and (b) holiday pay. [273224]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department uses the Home Office Framework set up by the Home Office to engage temporary agency staff. This is used by several other Government Departments as well as Health.

The numbers of workers on temporary contracts requested for Richmond House are given in the following table.

Person type	Total full-time equivalents
Agency worker	52.1
Consultant	4.1
Contractor	4.0
Total	60.1

This is based on data as at 31 March 2009 from the Department's Business Management System.

The relevant temporary staff agencies are responsible for managing their staff's sick leave and annual leave entitlements and not the contracting authority, in this instance the Department.

The provision of non-permanent staff as specialist contractors is under tax exemption IR35 and as such the contractors are deemed to be self-employed. The Work Time Regulations do not apply, there is no holiday entitlement outside of public holidays and the contract is therefore silent on this matter.

Health Services

Mr. Malins: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the proportion of the NHS budget which was allocated to services for those over the age of 60 years in the last 12 months. [273280]

Mr. Bradshaw: Information on actual expenditure by age group is not available. Further, primary care trusts' (PCTs) allocations are not broken down by age or on any other basis: there is no ring fencing of funding for individual groups.

The weighted capitation formula determines the target funding allocations of PCTs and takes account of the higher cost of providing health care services for those in the older age groups. The formula takes account also of the need for health care services due to the health status and socio-economic characteristics of each PCT's population. Actual allocations depend also on pace-of-change policy: how quickly PCTs are moved towards their target allocation through the distribution of additional funding.

The Hospital and Community Health Services component of the formula for 2009-10 and 2010-11 accounts for 76 per cent. of the total target allocation. An estimated 54 per cent. of this component is accounted for by those aged 60 and over, who make up 22 per cent. of the population. The formula is derived using data on actual costs from 2004-05 and 2005-06.

Information for the age group 60 and over is not available for other components of the formula or for the target allocations used to inform PCT allocations in 2008-09.

Further information about the application of weighted capitation formula can be found in "Resource Allocation: Weighted Capitation Formula (Sixth Edition)", a copy of which has already been placed in the House of Commons Library.

Hospitals: Infectious Diseases

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what criteria his Department's Rapid Review Panel uses in judging the suitability of products intended for use in the NHS. [273370]

Ann Keen: The Rapid Review Panel (RRP) provides the Department with prompt assessment of new and novel products or protocols designed to reduce healthcare associated infections (HCAI). Prior to submission for assessment by the RRP, a new product or process must fulfil certain criteria, and the application form should contain the following information:

contact details of the manufacturer;

product/process name and date of release;

where the product/process is marketed;

how it will contribute to reducing HCAIs;

in what respect it is innovative/new;

the mechanism of action;

the in vitro activity of the product;

evidence of the product's impact on HCAIs;

references;

proof of risk and safety assessment; and authorization.

Following initial scrutiny products are reviewed on a case-by-case basis on the information presented by the applicant. The focus of the panel's review is on the on the products clinical effectiveness and its impact in combating healthcare associated infections. Each product submitted may receive one of the following recommendations:

basic research and development, validation and recent in use evaluations have shown benefits that should be available to national health service bodies to include as appropriate in their cleaning, hygiene or infection control protocols;

basic research and development has been completed and the product may have potential value; in use evaluations/trials are now needed in an NHS clinical setting; a potentially useful new concept but insufficiently validated; more research and development is required before it is ready for evaluation in practice; not a significant improvement on equipment/materials/products already available which claim to contribute to reducing health care associated infection; no further consideration needed; unlikely to contribute to the reduction of health care associated infection; no further consideration needed; insufficient clarity/evidence presented to enable full review of the product; an already well established product that does not merit further consideration by the panel; or the product is not sufficiently related to infection control procedures to merit consideration by the panel.

These recommendations are available on the Health Protection Agency website at:

www.hpa.org.uk/webw/HPAweb&HPAwebStandard/HPAweb_C/1200055729551?p=1158313434380

Hospitals: Waiting Lists

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans his Department has for data to be collected in future on waiting times for hospital treatment in order to monitor the performance of NHS trusts; and if he will make a statement. [273227]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department collects a range of waiting times returns to monitor national health service waiting times performance against its published operational standards as set out in the NHS Operating Framework for 2009-10 and in the handbook to the NHS Constitution. Both publications have already been placed in the Library.

These returns cover referral to treatment (RTT), inpatient and outpatient stage of treatment waiting times, diagnostics, accident and emergency, coronary heart disease and genito-urinary medicine. In addition the cancer national database is used to monitor progress on cancer waits.

All these returns are kept under regular review.

In Vitro Fertilisation: Standards

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the extent to which assisted fertility centres are following guidance from the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority on witnessing clinical and laboratory practices during in vitro fertilisation treatment; and if he will make a statement. [273251]

Dawn Primarolo: The Code of Practice published by the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Authority (HFEA) sets out requirements that must be met by providers of treatment services regulated under the Human Fertilisation and Embryology Act 1990, such as in vitro fertilisation (IVF). These requirements include procedures for witnessing critical stages of a treatment cycle. In the case of witnessing, the existing requirements were drawn up in 2006, based on external expert advice, and were incorporated into the Code of Practice in 2007.

All HFEA licensed centres are required to witness the critical points of the clinical and laboratory processes involved in IVF. Compliance with this requirement is one of the key areas examined during a HFEA inspection visit to a licensed centre. Any breach of the licence condition relating to witnessing and/or non-compliance with HFEA guidance on witnessing is documented in the report of the inspection visit. This report is then considered by a Licence Committee of the authority. It is the responsibility of the Licence Committee to decide whether any regulatory action should be taken.

In addition, all licensed centres are required to report any adverse incident that relates to the witnessing of clinical and laboratory practices. These incidents are reviewed and followed up either by means of a further inspection or an investigation.

Influenza

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what research his Department has conducted into the use of antimicrobial products for the purpose of preventing the spread of influenza viruses; and if he will make a statement; [273376]

(2) if he will make it his policy to encourage the use of antimicrobial products for the purpose of preventing the spread of influenza viruses; and if he will make a statement. [273377]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department has not commissioned research into the use of antimicrobial products, as there is already scientific evidence to show that influenza viruses are readily deactivated by washing with soap and water or alcohol hand-rub and by cleaning surfaces with normal cleaning agents.

The Department continues to advise the public of the importance of good respiratory and hand hygiene to minimise the risk of influenza transmission.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, the hon. Member for Brentford and Isleworth (Ann Keen) plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Altrincham and Sale West of 8 September 2008. [273622]

Dawn Primarolo: A reply was issued to the hon. Member on 7 October 2008.

NHS: Assets

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how much land each NHS organisation indicated in its estates return it expected to have available for disposal in (a) 2008-09, (b) 2009-10 and (c) 2010-11; [272930]

(2) what information each NHS organisation submitted in its estates return on its anticipated receipts from net land and property disposal in 2007-08. [272945]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information requested has been placed in the Library.

This information was provided by national health service trusts through the annual Estates Returns Information Collection (ERIC) 2007-08 returns. The data are correct as at 31 March 2008. There is a possibility that the situation has changed since then.

The information is collected on a compulsory basis from NHS trusts, except foundation trusts who can provide the data on a non-compulsory basis if they wish. The information has been supplied by the NHS and has not been amended centrally. The accuracy and completeness of the information is the responsibility of the provider organisation.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much each NHS organisation received in net land and property disposal receipts in each year since 2002-03, according to data from estates return information collection (ERIC) returns; and what the ERIC code for each organisation was in each year. [272944]

Mr. Bradshaw: The information is not available in the format requested.

Since 2004-05, the Department has collected annual data from national health service trusts on the amount received in land and property disposal receipts within the reporting year, through the Estates Returns Information Collection (ERIC). The available data for each year since 2004-05 have been placed in the Library.

The information is collected on a compulsory basis from NHS trusts in England, including Foundation trusts. The information has been supplied by the NHS and has not been amended centrally. The accuracy and completeness of the information is the responsibility of the provider organisation.

NHS: Information and Communications Technology

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what criteria his Department uses to accredit systems for the Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework; and which suppliers and systems have been accredited. [272802]

Mr. Bradshaw: Suppliers' systems were not "accredited" as a part of the Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework (ASCC) framework procurement. The purpose of the procurement was to create a framework of suppliers with demonstrated capacity and capability in various specialisms. Subsequently, on identification of a business need, each national health service procuring body will specify its particular requirements to suppliers in the most appropriate service category. It will be for suppliers to demonstrate how they can meet this need against the procurements' specific evaluation criteria. Those suppliers included on the ASCC framework may be found by utilising the following link:

www.connectingforhealth.nhs.uk/industry/ascc

A copy of the relevant lists of supplier has been placed in the Library.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether the contracts for information systems procured by trusts through the Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework (ASCCF) are held centrally in his Department; whether the cost of local specification for systems obtained by trusts through the ASCCF will be met centrally by the Department; and whether this capital is to be taken from the original budget for the National Programme for IT. [272803]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework contracts are held and is managed centrally in the Department by NHS Connecting for Health. They provide for other contracting authorities, such as individual trusts, to procure systems and services for themselves utilising the framework. Funding for specific requirements is always determined on a case-by-case basis and no final decisions have been taken as to the funding arrangements, including the utilisation of existing budgets.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) what the agreed costs of each information system in the Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework (ASCCF) are; and by what process trusts in the Southern cluster of the National Programme for IT who are not managed by BT procure systems from the ASCCF; [272804]

(2) how many sites in the Southern cluster of the National Programme for IT have been granted permission to choose a system through the Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework. [272805]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Additional Supply Capability and Capacity Framework (ASCCF) does not specify agreed system costs as it is not possible to know in advance the particular requirements that national health service organisations seeking to use the framework will have. Instead the ASCC framework includes provisions that cap the profit margin, man-day rates, and overhead rates that may be charged by suppliers. The framework is available for use by any NHS organisation. However, the details of the central procurement arrangements for delivery of the national programme for information technology in the South for those not serviced by the BT contract will be announced in due course.

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 21 April 2009, Official Report, column 583W, on NHS: information and communications technology, what percentage of the £92.8 million paid to BT as working capital for the National Programme for IT's Southern cluster will be deducted from the amount paid to the company upon delivery of the systems for which it is contracted. [273076]

Mr. Bradshaw: All of it.

Nutrition

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will give consideration to the recommendations of the report by the British Medical Association on Early Life Nutrition in implementing the joint strategy on children and young people's health; [272306]

(2) if he will take steps to improve public awareness of the effect on foetal development and long-term health of a variation in diet and nutrition of (a) pregnant women and (b) babies. [272358]

Dawn Primarolo: The Department is aware of the British Medical Association's (BMA) report and has noted their recommendations. The Scientific Advisory Committee on Nutrition (SACN) have been asked to review evidence on the influence of maternal, fetal and child nutrition status, including growth and development in utero and early childhood, on the development of disease later in life.

In taking this work forward, the committee is considering the evidence around maternal, fetal and early life factors, including infant diet and growth, and are also considering the BMA report. SACN aims to publish their final report later this year.

Palliative Care: Children

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent estimate he has made of the number of children receiving long-term ventilation (a) in hospital, (b) in their own homes, (c) in residential care and (d) elsewhere. [272752]

Phil Hope: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Pharmacy

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what mechanisms his Department plans to put in place to ensure that primary care trusts considering a new pharmacy application take account of competition and choice, as referred to in the Pharmacy White Paper; and if he will make a statement. [272697]

Phil Hope: Subject to parliamentary approval, clause 24 of the Health Bill amends the NHS Act 2006 to replace the current market entry test so that primary care trusts (PCTs) will in future determine whether a new prospective provider will be admitted to a PCT's pharmaceutical list (or an existing listing can be amended) by reference to and determined against its pharmaceutical needs assessment. Regulations will in due course set out the detailed requirements of what must be contained in those assessments and may also prescribe matters which a PCT must consider when making a decision on an application.

When we consulted on these measures last autumn in "Pharmacy in England: Building on strengths—delivering the future—proposals for legislative change", a copy of which has already been placed in the Library, we proposed to carry forward a number of factors introduced in the 2005 regulations, which help PCTs reach their decisions. These factors include the choice and diversity of providers or of services.

We expect to work closely with stakeholders and will take account of observations in a recent court appeal case when drafting these regulations.

Mr. Laurence Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what opportunities pharmacists working in (a) academia, (b) industry and (c) other areas, other than general practice, will have to register with the General Pharmacy Council under his Department's proposals for a draft Pharmacy Order 2009; whether his Department's proposals will allow retired pharmacists to be able to describe themselves as such; and if he will make a statement. [273141]

Phil Hope: Ministers will shortly be publishing the formal response to the consultation on the draft Pharmacy Order 2009, which will include registration criteria for all pharmacists in Great Britain. There is nothing in the draft Pharmacy Order 2009 that would prevent a person from describing themselves as a "retired pharmacist".

Pregnancy: Health Education

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will ensure that the Change 4 Life public awareness campaign includes information for young women about the importance of health and well-being before pregnancy with regard to (a) diet, (b) optimal body weight, (c) smoking and (d) alcohol consumption. [271753]

Dawn Primarolo: The Change4Life campaign seeks to address the rising tide of obesity in England through marketing communications about diet and activity that address the target groups of families having at least one child under the age of 11. The priority groups for 2009-10 include pregnant women, families with children under the age of two, and 'at risk' families, those whose current behaviours and/or attitudes suggest that their children are most at risk of weight gain.

Change4Life currently provides information about diet and activity-related behaviours only (not smoking or alcohol consumption), and as this is a prevention campaign, it focuses on how these behaviours relate to children, i.e. what and how children eat, and how much they are physically active. The Change4Life campaign does not, therefore, currently target adults about their own diet and activity behaviours, rather it targets adults who are parents, about their children. It does not currently target adults who do not have children, or those planning a pregnancy.

However, the Department will consider the feasibility of communicating to those planning a pregnancy when it develops plans for a pregnancy-specific strand of the Change4Life campaign later this year.

With regards to tobacco and alcohol, there have been campaigns this year that have targeted pregnant women, as follows:

Smoking

an NHS Smokefree campaign targeting pregnant smokers launched in February 2009. Initial results show a 196 per cent. increase in calls against February 2008. Further information can be found at:

www.smokefree.nhs.uk/smoking-and-pregnancy/

The campaign aims to raise awareness of the dangers of smoking and the immediate benefits of becoming smokefree for pregnant women and their babies, offers telephone stop smoking support and new resources.

The campaign focused on women already pregnant, rather than those trying to conceive. However, relevant information for those trying to conceive is included on the NHS Choices website at:

www.nhs.uk/chq/pages/2319.aspx

Alcohol consumption

A national campaign to improve the public's understanding of units of alcohol was launched in May 2008, featuring two phases. Phase 1 focused on improving peoples knowledge of how many units of alcohol are in the alcoholic drinks they consume, while phase 2 focused on improving people's understanding of the link between their alcohol consumption and their health; the second phase of the campaign included targeting people who were trying to conceive and pregnant women. The communications messages "Did you know that drinking alcohol whilst pregnant can damage your unborn baby?" and "Did you know that it's safer to avoid alcohol if you are trying to get pregnant?" were delivered in press adverts; and in addition, a pregnancy and alcohol booklet was produced in September 2008 for stakeholders such as PCTs, local councils and charities to use as support materials. The booklet offered information about drinking when you're trying to conceive, during pregnancy, and while breastfeeding, how alcohol affects your unborn baby, and the advice on drinking during pregnancy.

Sexually Transmitted Diseases

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many people were admitted to hospital for the treatment of sexually transmitted infections (a) in each region in each year since 1997-98 and (b) in each primary care trust area in the last year for which figures are available. [272788]

Dawn Primarolo: We are unable to provide a breakdown by primary care trust of residence due to the sensitivity of the data. The count of admissions to hospital for sexually transmitted infections (STIs) broken down by strategic health authority of residence for 1997-98 to 2007-08 is provided in the following table. These data only include admissions to hospital and do not include attendances at genito-urinary medicine clinics, where the majority of STIs are detected and treated.

Notes:
Finished admission episodes
A finished admission episode is the first period of in-patient care under one consultant within one health care provider. Finished admission episodes are counted against the year in which the admission episode finishes. Admissions do not represent the number of in-patients, as a person may have more than one admission within the year.
Primary diagnosis
The primary diagnosis is the first of up to 20 (14 from 2002-03 to 2006-07 and seven prior to 2002-03) diagnosis fields in the Hospital Episode Statistics (HES) data set and provides the main reason why the patient was admitted to hospital.
The ICD-10 codes used to identify sexually transmitted infections are as follows:
A50: Congenital syphilis
A51: Early syphilis
A52: Late syphilis
A53: Other and unspecified syphilis
A54: Gonococcal infection
A55: Chlamydial lymphogranuloma (venereum)
A56: Other sexually transmitted chlamydial diseases
A57: Chancroid
A58: Granuloma inguinale
A59: Trichomoniasis
A60: Anogenital herpesviral (herpes simplex) infection
A63: Other predominantly sexually transmitted diseases, not elsewhere classified
A64: Unspecified sexually transmitted disease
It should be noted that there are other diagnoses that can be transmitted sexually but are not limited to sexually transmission—they have been excluded from this response.
Data quality
HES are compiled from data sent by more than 300 NHS trusts and primary care trusts (PCTs) in England. Data are also received from a number of independent sector organisations for activity commissioned by the English NHS. The NHS Information Centre for health and social care liaises closely with these organisations to encourage submission of complete and valid data and seeks to minimise inaccuracies and the effect of missing and invalid data via HES processes. While this brings about improvement over time, some shortcomings remain.
PCT/SHA data quality
PCT and SHA data were added to historic data years in the HES database using 2002-03 boundaries, as a one-off exercise in 2004. The quality of the data on PCT of treatment and SHA of treatment is poor in 1996-97, 1997-98 and 1998-99, with over a third of all finished episodes having missing values in these years. Data quality of PCT of GP practice and SHA of general practitioner (GP) practice in 1997-98 and 1998-99 is also poor, with a high proportion missing values where practices changed or ceased to exist. There is less change in completeness of the residence-based fields over time, where the majority of unknown values are due to missing postcodes on birth episodes. Users of time series analysis including these years need to be aware of these issues in their interpretation of the data.
Assessing growth through time
HES figures are available from 1989-90 onwards. The quality and coverage of the data have improved over time. These improvements in information submitted by the NHS have been particularly marked in the earlier years and need to be borne in mind when analysing time series.
Some of the increase in figures for later years (particularly 2006-07 onwards) may be due to the improvement in the coverage of independent sector activity.
Changes in NHS practice also need to be borne in mind when analysing time series. For example, a number of procedures may now be undertaken in out-patient settings and may no longer be accounted for in the HES data. This may account for any reductions in activity over time.

Swine Flu

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will put in place arrangements for the decontamination of passenger airplanes between flights in cases where there is a risk of swine influenza infection. [272353]

Dawn Primarolo: Airlines have standard procedures for decontaminating aircraft where a passenger exhibits symptoms suggestive of an infectious disease. This is in accordance with normal International Air Transport Association guidance. In light of the recent outbreak of swine flu, the Health Protection Agency has issued Interim guidance reminding airlines of the procedures that should be followed. A copy has been placed in the Library.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 391W, on trade unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional annual value of such provision is. [271923]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department provides office space and facilities for the Public and Commercial Services Union and for members of the departmental trade union side in London and Leeds.

In London, space is provided in Skipton house with a total notional cost of £20,620 per annum. In Leeds, space is provided in Quarry house with a total notional cost of £17,109 per annum.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Car Scrappage Scheme

7. Mrs. Lait: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress has been made on plans for the introduction of the car scrappage scheme. [273166]

14. Mr. Robathan: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform when he expects the vehicle scrappage scheme to come into operation. [273175]

Ian Pearson: The scrappage scheme announced in the Budget will be operational from 18 May 2009.

Consumer Rights

9. Mark Lazarowicz: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent steps he has taken to strengthen consumer rights. [273169]

Mr. Thomas: Over recent months the Government have developed further our work tackling illegal money lending and improving access to debt advice and affordable credit.

We have ensured that credit card companies adopt a breathing space for consumers who are in debt, and have announced that we will take action to outlaw unsolicited credit card cheques.

We launched Consumer Focus, the new advocacy body to ensure a stronger voice for consumers and have introduced new protections against rogue traders who sell to consumers on the doorstep.

Post Bank

11. Danny Alexander: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent representations he has received on proposals for a Post Bank. [273172]

Mr. McFadden: In addition to representations from hon. Members, my right hon. Friend has recently received representations from the "Post Bank Collection" and the National Federation of Sub-Postmasters about the creation of a Post Bank.

WTO Negotiations: Doha

12. Richard Ottaway: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent assessment he has made of progress on the Doha round of World Trade Organisation negotiations; and if he will make a statement. [273173]

Mr. Thomas: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave earlier today in the Chamber in response to a question from the hon. Member for Banbury (Tony Baldry).

Small Business: Credit

13. Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent representations he has received from small businesses on the availability to them of credit. [273174]

Ian Pearson: BERR is in regular contact with small business representative organisations and with small businesses themselves on many issues, including access to credit.

Trade Credit Insurance Scheme

15. Gordon Banks: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what eligibility criteria will apply to assistance under his Department's trade credit insurance scheme; and if he will make a statement. [273177]

Ian Pearson: I refer my hon. Friend to the answer I gave to the Member for Glenrothes (Lindsay Roy).

Unscrupulous Lenders

16. Lyn Brown: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department is taking against unscrupulous lenders; and if he will make a statement. [273178]

Mr. Thomas: We are funding a specialist team in every region of England, Wales and Scotland to help crack down on illegal money lending and in March we launched a national hotline and an awareness campaign, to warn consumers against the dangers of illegal lending.

Regulatory Budgets

Mr. Spring: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress the Government have made in their consultation on introducing a system of regulatory budgets. [273159]

Mr. McFadden: As set out in the statement to the House on 2 April, the Government have decided not to implement a system of regulatory budgets at this stage. Rather we will undertake a programme of better regulation measures tailored to the present exceptional economic circumstances.

Business Support

Mr. Tom Harris: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps regional development agencies are taking to support small and medium-sized businesses during the recession; and if he will make a statement. [273168]

Mr. McFadden: Strong RDAs are crucial in the current economic climate to support businesses through these challenging times and bring forward major capital investment schemes to act as an economic stimulus.

RDA support for small and medium-sized businesses during the recession includes: the provision of free 'Health Checks' for business from Business Links; delivery of the Government's streamlined business support portfolio Solutions for Business; and Regional Transition Loan Funds.

Government Industrial Strategy

Mr. Harper: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what plans his Department has for the implementation of the Government's new industrial strategy. [273171]

Ian Pearson: 'New Industry, New Jobs' was published on 20 April. Implementation has already started across Government and a plan of action will be published shortly.

Ammunition: Exports

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what (a) guidelines and (b) restrictions apply to the export of white phosphorus munitions. [272317]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 5 May 2009]: All munitions are strategically controlled Military List goods and as such cannot be exported without a license.

All applications for export licences are rigorously assessed on a case by case basis against the Consolidated EU and National Arms Export Licensing Criteria and any other relevant announced policies. There are no specific guidelines on the export of white phosphorous munitions but assessments of applications take account of all available information at the time of the application, including information about the situation in the receiving country and licences will not be issued if the proposed exports would be inconsistent with any of the Consolidated EU and National Arms Export Licensing Criteria. As part of the assessment process consideration is given to the past behaviour of end users.

Business: Government Assistance

Mr. Amess: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what (a) advice and (b) financial assistance his Department provides to (i) small, (ii) medium-sized and (iii) large companies; how many companies in each category in each region sought (A) advice and (B) assistance from his Department in the last 12 months; how many officials in each pay band in his Department are engaged in the provision of advice to businesses; how much his Department spent on providing (1) advice and (2) financial assistance to companies during the last year; and if he will make a statement. [256577]

Ian Pearson: This Department delivers advice and access to business support primarily through the national Business Link service. The regional development agencies manage Business Link advisory services, which are delivered locally throughout England by external providers. For further information see

www.businesslink.gov.uk

In the 12 months ending December 2008, advisers helped over 942,000 businesses and the website attracted 9.8 million visitors.

In addition to Business Link, this Department sponsors the work of UK Trade and Investment and the Manufacturing Advisory Service. Our annual report describes these and the other forms of business support provided by this Department more fully. The RDAs fund the Business Link service from monies provided by this and other Departments. In 2008-09, we estimated that the value of Business Link contracts in the regions amounted to approximately £190 million.

The remaining information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Newmark: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many businesses have received assistance from the Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme; and how much funding has been committed to date. [259007]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 26 February 2009]: Since its launch on 14 January, the Enterprise Finance Guarantee has nearly £300 million of eligible applications from over 2,600 firms that have been granted, are being processed or assessed.

Mr. Newmark: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many businesses in Braintree have received assistance from the (a) Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme, (b) Capital for Enterprise Fund and (c) Working Capital Guarantee Scheme; and how much funding has been committed to businesses in Braintree under each scheme. [259009]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 26 February 2009]: The Enterprise Finance Guarantee, Capital for Enterprise Fund and the Working Capital Scheme were announced under the Real Help with Finance package on 14 January.

Since its launch on 14 January, the Enterprise Finance Guarantee has nearly £300 million of eligible applications from over 2,600 firms that have been granted, or are being processed or assessed.

With respect to the £75 million Capital for Enterprise equity scheme, the appointed fund managers are in discussions and conducting due diligence on companies from whom they have received serious proposals seeking a total of around £60 million of investments

The Working Capital Scheme is not available directly to businesses. The scheme enables participating banks to increase the amount of working capital they can make available to businesses.

Manufacturing Industries

Mr. Bone: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what assessment he has made of prospects for the manufacturing industry in the next three years. [273225]

Ian Pearson: The Manufacturing Strategy launched in September 2008 sets out clearly the importance of manufacturing to the UK economy. It provides a powerful vision for how the UK can take advantage of global trends and brings together £150 million of support to seize new opportunities.

The Government are also taking steps to help manufacturers through the current economic downturn by boosting capital and liquidity in the market, and ensuring that the policies within the Manufacturing Strategy work to bolster UK manufacturing and help businesses to prepare for the upturn when it comes.

In April, the Government published "New Industry, New Jobs", which identifies key areas where Government action can speed recovery through investing in growth and building manufacturing and services essential to ensure business can compete successfully in future markets.

Motor Vehicles

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department is taking to support research and development of environmentally-friendly car technologies within the automotive sector. [271352]

Ian Pearson: BERR has been working with the Technology Strategy Board (TSB), other Government Departments (including the Department for Transport and the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills) and other organisations to further the development of low carbon technologies for the automotive sector, primarily through the TSB's Low Carbon Vehicle Innovation Platform. Details of Government's vision for the development of ultra-low carbon vehicles in the UK were announced on 16 April 2009. BERR has also supported the industry-led New Automotive Innovation and Growth Team (which published its report on 6 May) articulating a strategic vision for low carbon cars in the UK. In addition, the £2.3 billion Automotive Assistance Programme has been designed to help support the development of green technologies.

Motor Vehicles: Manufacturing Industries

Mr. Byers: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what his most recent assessment is of the progress made by the European Investment Bank to (a) Nissan and (b) Jaguar Land Rover in agreeing terms for financial assistance; on what date he estimates the financial assistance will be made available; and if he will make a statement. [272261]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 30 April 2009]: The European Investment Bank announced on 7 April that its Board had approved in principle a loan of €400 million to Nissan to support fuel efficiency projects in the UK and Spain, and a loan of €360 million to Jaguar Land Rover to support low carbon projects in the UK. Both companies are now engaged in separate discussions with the EIB to agree terms for the respective loans.

John Hemming: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will seek to provide interim funding of £4 million for LDV to facilitate the purchase of the business and to enable it to continue to trade. [272841]

Ian Pearson: The government have agreed to make available a one-off £5 million bridging loan facility to prevent LDV going into administration, and to facilitate the purchase of the company by Weststar of Malaysia. Weststar's proposed purchase of LDV offers the only credible chance of keeping this manufacturing plant in the UK, sustaining UK jobs and a platform for future model development.

New Businesses

Joan Ryan: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what support his Department is providing for new business start-ups in 2008-09; and if he will make a statement. [260160]

Ian Pearson: Advice and support for new business start ups in England is provided through the Business Link network as contracted by the Regional Development Agencies (RDAs) and funded by this Department. This includes free advice and information on understanding business finance. More intensive support, including mentoring or one-to-one coaching, is available for those targeted by RDAs as either being from underrepresented groups or as having high-growth potential. The businesslink.gov.uk website provides a wide range of advice and support tools for new business start ups.

Post Offices

Bob Spink: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what plans he has for the development of the Post Office network. [273160]

Mr. McFadden: I refer the hon. member to the answer given earlier today to the hon. Member for Argyll and Bute (Mr. Reid).

Real Help with Finance Package

Mr. McGrady: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what percentage of each of the three funds announced under the Real Help with Finance Package have been allocated to Northern Ireland; and when it is expected that funding under the package will be made available to Northern Ireland businesses. [260312]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 3 March 2009]: The three funds announced under the Real Help with Finance package on 14 January are the Enterprise Finance Guarantee, the Capital for Enterprise Fund and the Working Capital Scheme.

The Enterprise Finance Guarantee and Capital for Enterprise Funds are UK-wide schemes and are open to all eligible UK businesses, including those in Northern Ireland. Since its launch on 14 January, the Enterprise Finance Guarantee has nearly £300 million of eligible applications from over 2,600 firms that have been granted, are being processed or assessed.

The Working Capital Schemes supports lenders by providing a guarantee on portfolios of lending to business and is open to all UK banks.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

British Overseas Territories: Agriculture

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what percentage of land in (a) the Turks and Caicos Islands and (b) the Cayman Islands was used for crop or livestock production in each of the last five years. [272614]

Gillian Merron: There is no significant or regular crop or livestock production in the Turks and Caicos Islands.

The department of agriculture in the Cayman Islands does not have an agricultural land use database but has estimated that the percentage of land used for crop and/or livestock production in the Cayman Islands is 6 per cent.

British Overseas Territories: Environment Protection

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much funding (a) Montserrat, (b) Bermuda and (c) the British Virgin Islands has received from the Overseas Territories Environment Programme for environmental management. [272605]

Gillian Merron: The Overseas Territories Environment Programme is jointly funded by the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Department for International Development for environmental management projects. Funding to date has been £257,413 for projects in Montserrat, £324,334 for projects in Bermuda and £65,058 for projects in the British Virgin Islands.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many species endemic to (a) South Georgia and the Sandwich Islands and (b) Anguilla are on the endangered species list. [272609]

Gillian Merron: According to the International Union for the Conservation of Nature's Red list of threatened species, none of the species endemic to either South Georgia and the Sandwich Islands or Anguilla are thought to be endangered.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which UK Overseas Territories have coral reefs; and whether an assessment has been made of the condition of such reefs in the last 10 years. [272613]

Gillian Merron: The British Overseas Territories with coral reefs are: the Cayman Islands, the Turks and Caicos Islands, the British Virgin Islands, Anguilla, Bermuda, Pitcairn Islands, the British Indian Ocean Territory and Montserrat. With the exception of Pitcairn Islands and Montserrat, all have assessed the condition of their reefs within the last 10 years.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether strategies are in place to deal with the risks of climate change and rising sea levels in low-lying UK Overseas Territories in the Caribbean. [272615]

Gillian Merron: The Caribbean British Overseas Territories are Anguilla, Montserrat, the British Virgin Islands, the Cayman Islands, and the Turks and Caicos Islands. Anguilla is addressing climate change through a sustainable energy strategy. Montserrat has established a Climate and Volcano Institute to address the impact of the active Soufriere volcano on climate change in the region. The British Virgin Islands are undergoing a year-long assessment prior to identifying climate change strategies. The Cayman Islands have set up a climate change adaptation working group. The Turks and Caicos Islands have set up a climate change group.

The British Overseas Territories in the Caribbean are participating in a Department for International Development funded project to enhance capacity for adaptation to climate change.

British Overseas Territories: Nature Conservation

Mr. Carmichael: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department has spent on conservation measures in British Overseas Territories in each of the last five years; and what funding allocation has been made to such measures in 2009-10. [271990]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office has contributed £500,000 per annum every year for the last five years to the Overseas Territories Environment Programme, which supports conservation measures in the British Overseas Territories. The same amount has been allocated for 2009-10.

British Overseas Territories: Population

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what the population of (a) the Turks and Caicos Islands and (b) the Cayman Islands was in each year since 2000. [272606]

Gillian Merron: The statistical office of the department for economic planning and statistics in the Turks and Caicos Islands has provided the following estimated figures relating to the population of the Turks and Caicos Islands in each year since 2000.

	Estimated figure
2000	18,491
2001	19,886
2002	20,900
2003	25,143
2004	27,496
2005	30,602
2006	33,202
2007	34,862
2008	36,605

The economics and statistics office in the Cayman Islands has provided the following estimated figures relating to the population of the Cayman Islands in each year since 2000.

	Estimated figure
2000	40,800
2001	41,900
2002	43,004
2003	44,144
2004	36,340

	Estimated figure
2005	52,466
2006	53,172
2007	53,886

Figures for 2008 are not yet available.

The drop in population level in 2004 has been attributed to the temporary relocation of residents abroad in the aftermath of Hurricane Ivan. The increase in population in 2005 has been attributed to the return of these residents, and the increase in the labour force needed for the reconstruction of the country.

British Overseas Territories: Prisoners

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many people have been held in prisons in (a) Anguilla and (b) Gibraltar since 2005. [272618]

Gillian Merron: We understand that 744 people were held in prison in Anguilla between 1 January 2005 and 29 April 2009 inclusive.

As regards Gibraltar, in 2005 there were 192 receptions of prisoners, the average daily population was 26.

In 2006, there were 202 receptions of prisoners, the average daily population was 34.

Under the 2006 constitution, the administration of the prison in Gibraltar, except as it affects the Governor's responsibility for upholding internal security, is a matter for the Government of Gibraltar. Figures for 2007 onwards are therefore not held by the Government.

British Overseas Territories: Renewable Energy

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which UK Crown Dependencies have trialled electricity generation through the use of (a) wind turbines, (b) solar power and (c) tidal or hydro-electric power. [272634]

Mr. Wills: I have been asked to reply.

The Isle of Man has a small hydro generation facility which supplies about 1 per cent. of island electricity demand. Feasibility work is being carried out on larger scale renewable schemes.

Jersey and Guernsey Governments have not yet trialled electricity generation through wind, solar or hydro power. However, Jersey and Guernsey are in the process of establishing tidal energy commissions. Alderney has already established such a commission to oversee the regulation of companies which wish to run tidal energy schemes.

Democratic Republic of Congo: War Crimes

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 620W, on the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC): war crimes, what further reports he has received on allegations that Bosco Ntaganda is playing a leading role in military operations in the DRC; and if he will direct his officials to make further high level representations to the Congolese government on the arrest of Bosco Ntaganda. [272737]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 6 May 2009]: It is unclear from reports we have received whether Bosco Ntaganda has taken a role in planning military operations against the Democratic Liberation Forces of Rwanda (FDLR) in the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC). Our embassy in Kinshasa is seeking to establish the facts. We understand that the UN Secretary-General's Special Representative in the DRC has ordered his officials not to attend meetings at which Bosco may be present. Our ambassador in Kinshasa raised the question of Bosco's position in meetings with the DRC Foreign Minister and the commander of the UN peacekeeping force on 20 April 2009. He has sought reassurances that Bosco will be handed over to the International Criminal Court.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272144]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has three buildings for which inspections of air conditioning systems need to be carried out in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings Regulations (2007/991). No inspections have been carried out to date. The surveys on all three are due to be completed by 15 May 2009

The FCO will place in the Library of the House, a copy of the display energy certificates and their associated advisory reports in respect of each property occupied by the FCO and its agencies, once received.

Departmental Billing

John Mason: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what percentage of its suppliers his Department has paid within 10 days of receipt of invoice in each of the last five months. [272250]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) has paid the following percentage of valid invoices received from UK suppliers within eight days of receipt in the last five months. In normal circumstances it will take two further days for a payment to reach the suppliers' bank accounts.

	Percentage
November	70.2
December	74.4
January	73.2
February	83.1
March	84.8

The FCO is committed to paying all of its suppliers as quickly as possible following receipt of a valid invoice, and is giving priority to increasing the percentage of invoices paid within eight working days.

Diplomatic Service: Recruitment

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs by what method it is intended to select the person to be appointed as the next Ambassador to the Holy See when the post is expected next to become vacant; and whether the post is to be advertised. [271790]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 28 April 2009]: Our current ambassador to the Holy See is due to leave the post in summer 2010. Leaving dates in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) are to some extent flexible to allow the FCO to deploy its resources most effectively, and it is therefore possible that this timing will change. We will select a replacement for our current ambassador by advertising within the FCO and more widely across other Whitehall Departments, as is standard with senior posts.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether the post of Ambassador to South Africa was (a) advertised and (b) trawled before the recent appointment of a successor to the right hon. Paul Boateng. [271791]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 28 April 2009]: The vacancy for the post of our high commissioner in Pretoria was advertised within the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) and the wider civil service at the end of October 2008. An appointment has been made without the need for the position to be trawled. Our high commissioner-designate is expected to take up their post in August 2010.

Ghana: Military Aid

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 2 April 2009, Official Report, column 1307W, on Africa: conflict prevention, how many UK staff or personnel were seconded to the British Military Assistance Training Team in Ghana in each year since 2000; what the role of the Training Team has been; what activities it has undertaken; and if he will make a statement. [270460]

David Miliband: The British Military Advisory and Training Team-West Africa (BMATT-WA) is funded through the Africa Conflict Prevention Programme, managed tri-departmentally by the Ministry of Defence, Foreign and Commonwealth Office and Department for International Development. From 2000-02 there were five posts for UK military personnel and from 2003 to date there have been seven posts. In addition, a UK civilian post has been in existence since May 2003. The team will be withdrawn by September 2009.

The role of BMATT-WA, based in Ghana, has been to support two institutions—the Ghana armed forces command and staff college and the Kofi Annan international peace training centre (KAIPTC).

In the staff college, the team primarily provided training advice and assistance to the senior division. This support included delivering lectures, writing staff and tactical exercises, and facilitating visiting lecturers for the delivery of specialist defence modules. The three members of BMATT-WA embedded within the KAIPTC are working as executive director, resource director and staff officer for training development. The centre offers Ghanaian, regional and international participants the opportunity to examine specific peace operations issues at the operational level and to update and share their knowledge of the latest practices through conferences, discussions, lectures and computer assisted training exercises.

Iran: Sanctions

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs which states have reported to the UN Sanctions Committee impediments under their domestic law to the implementation of the assets freeze on designated persons and entities in accordance with UN Security Council Resolutions 1737 of 2006, 1747 of 2007 and 1803 of 2008; and whether the UK has offered assistance to any such state in this regard. [270991]

David Miliband: Member states' reports affirming their implementation of the measures contained in UN Security Council resolutions 1737 of 2006, 1747 of 2007 and 1803 of 2008 are publicly available online at:

http://www.un.org/sc/committees/1737/memberstatesreports.shtml

The 1737 Iran Sanctions Committee has never found it necessary to investigate any impediments under any member state's domestic law concerning implementation of the assets freezes as a result of these reports.

The UK works with other states to provide assistance on the implementation of asset freezes under the UN sanctions against Iran through bilateral discussions and multilateral groups, such as the EU and the Financial Action Task Force.

Kenya: Piracy

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many piracy suspects have been transferred to Kenyan custody under (a) the EU/Kenya exchange of letters of 6 March 2009 for the transfer of persons suspected of committing acts of piracy and (b) the December 2008 memorandum of understanding between the UK and Kenya. [272920]

David Miliband: Twenty seven piracy suspects have been transferred to Kenyan custody under the EU/Kenya exchange of letters (sixteen by Germany and eleven by France). No piracy suspects have been transferred to Kenyan custody under the memorandum of understanding (MoU) between the UK and Kenya. The transfer of eight piracy suspects to Kenyan jurisdiction by the Royal Navy in November 2008 was done under an exchange of letters that preceded the MoU of December 2008.

Montserrat: Overseas Aid

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much financial aid has been provided to Montserrat by the UK since 1995. [272616]

Mr. Michael Foster: I have been asked to reply.

Full details of the UK development expenditure in Montserrat are contained in the DFID publication "Statistics on International Development". This publication is available from the Library and online at www.dfid.gov.uk. Relevant figures are reproduced in the table.

Rwanda: Extradition

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether his Department has had discussions with the Rwandan government on steps to be taken following the judgment of the divisional court of 8 April 2009 on the extradition of four men to Rwanda. [271801]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 28 April 2009]: We are discussing with the Government of Rwanda how we might best proceed in light of the High Court judgment of 8 April 2009, on the extradition of four men to Rwanda. We will continue to provide technical advice and support to the Rwandan justice sector. The Government and Parliament of Rwanda are pressing ahead with various reforms to this sector, in discussion with the Office of the Prosecutor at the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 634W, on trade unions, which trade unions are recognised by his Department's agencies. [271915]

Gillian Merron: The following three trade unions have agreed rights to represent employees in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's agencies:

Public and Commercial Services Union

The Diplomatic Service Association—the Diplomatic Service section of the FDA (formerly First Division Association)

Prospect—representing technical staff and other specialists.

Zimbabwe

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what his policy is on the establishment of a contact group for Zimbabwe; and if he will make a statement. [271590]

Gillian Merron: We want the new inclusive Government in Zimbabwe to work and to lead to a better future for all Zimbabweans, and we work to keep Zimbabwe high on the agenda at all appropriate international gatherings. There are already effective mechanisms for international discussion and co-ordination on Zimbabwe without the need to establish a formal contact group. An example of this co-ordination is the 20 March 2009 meeting in Washington of all donors, which reconfirmed international willingness to support recovery in Zimbabwe when there is evidence of a genuine commitment by the new Government to political and economic reform.

We also discuss the situation regularly with EU and other partners, including members of the Southern Africa development community. As input to these various discussions, our ambassador in Harare ensures with his colleagues that there is effective monitoring of the political situation. Humanitarian and recovery issues are also monitored and co-ordinated on the ground in Harare with regular meetings of like-minded donors.

It is encouraging that the inclusive Government have also begun their own direct dialogue with major international partners such as the EU and the International Monetary Fund. In the meantime, the international community continues to make a major contribution to supporting the humanitarian welfare of the Zimbabwean people.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Cabinet: Glasgow

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many (a) special advisers and (b) officials accompanied him to Glasgow for the Cabinet meeting on 16 April 2009. [273937]

Andy Burnham: None.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Anne Main: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much his Department has spent on hospitality and entertainment in each of the last five years. [273885]

Mr. Sutcliffe: All expenditure on hospitality is made in accordance with published departmental guidance, based on principles set out in Managing Public Money.

The information requested by the hon. Member is not readily available from the Department's accounting system. To provide the information would incur disproportionate cost.

Football: Finance

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which projects have received more than £250,000 in funding allocated through the Football Foundation since 2000. [273232]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Football Foundation advise that 416 projects have received more than £250,000 from them since 2000.

22 community projects (schemes using football/sporting activity to achieve wider social outcomes) have been awarded a grant over £250,000.

394 facility projects (capital funding to build football and multi-sport facilities) have been awarded a grant over £250,000.

Gambling Commission

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been spent by the Gambling Commission on (a) press officers, (b) media monitoring, (c) consultants and (d) events in each of the last three years. [272322]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 5 May 2009]: The following table shows the amount (to the nearest pound) spent on each named activity for the last three financial years.

	Press officers[1]	Media monitoring	Consultants[2]	Events[3]
2006-07	40,212	10,700	55,477	4,341

Government Art Collection

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much was spent on (a) purchasing and (b) commissioning items for the Government art collection in each of the last 10 years. [271211]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 27 April 2009]: The information is as follows.

Works acquired with Government art collection funds:

	Purchases	Commissions
1999-2000	189,992	0
2000-01	146,438	0

Licensed Premises

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will bring forward proposals to establish a national database of designated premises supervisors. [272819]

Mr. Sutcliffe: A convincing business case is required before committing public expenditure to establishing national databases. The case for establishing a national database for personal licence holders, some of whom would be designated premises supervisors, was examined by independent consultants and they did not find that a compelling case existed. In the absence of any new evidence to strengthen the case we have no current plans to introduce a database but we will keep the matter under review. The current arrangements were designed to function effectively with or without an electronic database.

Listed Buildings

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many recommendations made by English Heritage in respect of the listing of buildings were rejected by his Department in each of the last 10 years. [273281]

Barbara Follett: No central record is maintained, either by the Department or English Heritage, to show the number of occasions on which advice provided by English Heritage on listing applications is rejected. The information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

National Lottery

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding allocated by each of the National Lottery distributors was channelled through local authorities in each of the last five years. [273234]

Barbara Follett: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Office of Communications: Complaints

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many complaints in each category have been received by the Office of Communications in each year since its establishment. [273476]

Andy Burnham: The matters raised are the responsibility of the Office of Communications (Ofcom) as independent regulator. Accordingly, my officials have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to respond directly to the hon. Member. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Olympic Games 2012: Finance

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how the funds raised by Team 2012 will be allocated to each sporting discipline. [272768]

Andy Burnham [holding answer 6 May 2009]: Money received by UK Sport from Team 2012 will be allocated and distributed to Olympic and Paralympic sports according to their 'no compromise' investment strategy and against the 10 investment principles published in June 2008, with the aim of delivering the overall targets for London 2012 of Top 4 in the Olympics and 2nd in the Paralympics with more medals won in more sports.

Hugh Robertson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what support is available for sportsmen and women training to participate in the London 2012 Olympics in disciplines which fall outside UK Sport's funding envelope to meet (a) medical insurance costs and (b) other essential costs. [272769]

Andy Burnham [holding answer 6 May 2009]: The Olympic Sports that do not receive public funding from UK Sport are football and tennis.

The remaining Olympic and Paralympic sports are benefiting from record public funding of £304 million in the run up to the London 2012 Olympics and it is for the national governing bodies of these sports to determine how to allocate this funding.

In line with UK Sport's investment principles, there are three tiers of funded sports—'Podium', 'Emerging' and 'Basic'. Those sports on 'Podium' and 'Emerging' levels of funding are in receipt of Athlete Medical Scheme cover for named athletes on the World Class Programme.

'Basic' level funding covers core staff costs and basic preparation. The eight Olympic sports funded at this level can opt to prioritise access to the Athlete Medical Scheme within their funding.

Sports: Finance

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which projects have received more than £250,000 in funding allocated through the Community Club Development Programme since 2003. [273233]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Sport England has advised that the following projects have received more than £250,000 in funding through the Community Club Development Programme since 2003:

HOME DEPARTMENT

Community Relations: Finance

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the planning guidance, Safer places: a counter-terrorism supplement, whether the £5 million of funding is (a) additional funding, (b) to be delivered in one year and (c) available to local planning authorities and other bodies. [272433]

Mr. Coaker: The extra £5 million funding comes from the Home Office budget for the Office for Security and Counter-Terrorism (OSCT). It was allocated as part of the budget setting round for 2009-10. The funding will support regional and local delivery of work to improve the protection of crowded places as set out in the Government's consultation document "Working Together to Protect Crowded Places".

The Government will allocate this funding based on priorities identified by local partnerships and risk assessments carried out by counter-terrorism security advisers (CTSAs).

Departmental Databases

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects automated supply of crime and detection data from existing police force management systems via her Department's data hub to be fully operational. [273018]

Jacqui Smith: The Home Office data hub will receive crime, detections and police personnel data from police forces in England and Wales. The system is currently being tested and test data extracts have now been received from 28 forces. It is planned that the system will be fully operational by the end of the financial year 2010-11.

Departmental Manpower

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people will be employed in the Confidential Intelligence Unit in each of the next three years; what budget has been established for the Unit in each such years; and if she will make a statement. [271988]

Jacqui Smith: There is no organisation called the Confidential Intelligence Unit, nor are there any plans to set one up.

Police: Accountability

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which police forces in England and Wales have implemented the Justice Seen, Justice Done programme. [273021]

Jacqui Smith: The Justice Seen, Justice Done programme is about raising public awareness and knowledge of the services and actions the public should expect from the police and other agencies—especially the commitments set out in the Policing Pledge.

All 43 forces in England and Wales have been involved in the Justice Seen, Justice Done programme through their local promotion of the Police Pledge.

Police: Powers

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what timetable she has set for the completion of the review of the use of powers under the Regulation of Investigatory Powers Act 2000. [273015]

Jacqui Smith: The Government launched a three month consultation period on 17 April. Once we have had an opportunity to consider the responses to the consultation we will bring Consolidating Orders before Parliament at the earliest opportunity. The orders will set out which authorising officers in which public authorities may authorise specific covert investigatory techniques and for what purpose.

Police: Standards

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to (a) finalise and (b) implement the single top-down public confidence measure for police forces; and whether a method for measurement of the indicator has been agreed. [273031]

Jacqui Smith: Following a period of consultation with all police forces and authorities, the single top-down public confidence target was announced on 5 March 2009. Forces and authorities have until the end of March 2012 to reach their individual targets, which when achieved will mean that, nationally, 60 per cent. of the public agree that the police and their partners are dealing with the crime and antisocial behaviour issues that matter locally.

The target will be measured using the British Crime Survey question which asks whether respondents agree that:

"the police and local councils are dealing with the antisocial behaviour and crime issues that matter in [their local] area".

As a joint measure it deliberately promotes partnership working between the police and councils as that is what is needed to tackle local problems.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what progress has been made on (a) the Policing Objective Analysis model and (b) the development of force value for money profiles to provide improved data on the individual component costs of policing functions; and what timetable has been set for their completion. [273033]

Jacqui Smith: The Association of Chief Police Officers have developed the Policing Objective Analysis model and obtained agreement with forces and the Association of Police Authorities to commence its use from April 2009. The first year's results will be available at the end of the 2009-10 financial year.

Her Majesty's inspectorate of constabulary (HMIC) is taking forward the development of force Value for Money profiles. HMIC plan to make the first set of profiles available to police authorities and forces in autumn 2009.

Police: Surveillance

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what timetable she has set for the introduction of new codes of practice on the use of (a) covert human intelligence sources and (b) covert surveillance; and when she expects these codes of practice to enter into force. [273016]

Jacqui Smith: The Government launched a three month consultation period on 17 April. Once we have had an opportunity to consider the responses to the consultation we will bring an Order before Parliament to bring revised Codes of Practice into force at the earliest opportunity.

Police: Technology

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much ring-fenced funding each police force will receive for spending on new technology to fight crime in (a) 2009-10 and (b) 2010-11; and how much such funding each force received in 2008-09. [269233]

Jacqui Smith: All police forces in England, Scotland and Wales have received ring-fenced funding under the mobile information programme. Funding has been awarded in two phases:

Phase one forces received £40,126,510 during 2008-09

Phase two forces received £14,646,348 during 2008-09 and are due to receive £14,890,846 during 2009-10

This brings the total funding to forces to £69,663,704. No forces will receive funding from the programme in 2010-11.

Terrorism

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 1 April 2009, Official Report, column 1265W, on terrorism, what mechanism exists to measure progress on the proposal to establish a civilian force of 60,000 workers trained to deal with terrorism incidents. [270191]

Jacqui Smith: Local police counter-terrorism security advisers (CTSAs) submit regular returns to the police National Counter-Terrorism Security Office (NaCTSO). The returns cover the activities CTSAs have undertaken, including Project Argus, in order to raise awareness of counter-terrorism in the business community and help them identify what they can do to help prevent and recover from a terrorist attack.

Vetting

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many (a) standard and (b) enhanced record checks were processed by the Criminal Records Bureau in each police force area in 2008-09. [269698]

Mr. Malik: The Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) has issued 3,208,966 enhanced disclosures and 359,990 standard disclosures between April 2008 and February 2009. In total, the CRB has issued 3,568,956 disclosures during this time.

The CRB cannot provide figures broken down by police force area. This is because standard disclosures are processed without any requirement for the police forces to conduct checks and several different police forces may be required to conduct checks in order to produce one enhanced disclosure.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Courts: Travel

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Solicitor-General pursuant to the answer of 1 April 2009, Official Report, column 1209W, on courts: travel, when she plans to write to the hon. Member for Torbay. [272636]

Bridget Prentice: I have been asked to reply.

I replied to the hon. Member on 5 May 2009 and will arrange for a copy of my letter to be placed in the Library of the House.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Carer's Allowance

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will estimate the cost to the Exchequer of allowing people receiving the basic state pension but who would be eligible for carer's allowance if they were under state pension age to receive full payment of both, in each of the next six years. [257198]

Ms Rosie Winterton: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to him on 29 January 2009, Official Report, column 696W.

Civil Servants: Pensions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer of 3 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1446-7W, on civil servants: pensions, whether the Pensions Regulator has issued guidance in relation to investing in with-profits pension funds. [270173]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The pensions regulator has not issued any guidance in relation to investing in with-profits pension funds.

Council Tax Benefit

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will estimate the expenditure required from the public purse to raise personal allowances for council tax benefit to £193 per week for all households, excluding households with a couple where one or both are aged 65 years or over, in circumstances where the current level of capital allowance is (a) maintained and (b) abolished; and if he will estimate the number of households which would pay (i) a reduced rate of council tax and (ii) no council tax as a result of such a change. [273284]

Kitty Ussher: The table shows estimates of the cost and number of council tax benefit (CTB) beneficiaries; and the saving and number of losers, if the personal allowance in CTB was £193, for all households excluding households with a couple where one or both are aged 65 years or over in circumstances where:

Option A—Current level of capital allowance is maintained

Option B—Current level of capital allowance is abolished

Increase in applicable amount	Option A	Option B
Number of beneficiaries	1,910,000	2,140,000
Cost in annually managed expenditure (£ million per year)	700	860
Number of losers	110,000	110,000
Saving in annually managed expenditure (£ million per year)	-30	-30
Impact on annually managed expenditure (£ million per year)	670	830

Notes:
1. All figures are for Great Britain.
2. Beneficiaries and losers are rounded to the nearest 10,000. Costs and savings are rounded to the nearest £10 million. These estimates include both customers who gain/lose and those who become or lose entitlement to the benefit.
3. Each beneficiary represents a benefit unit, which can be a single claimant or a couple.
4. The impact is estimated using the Department's Policy Simulation Model for 2008-09, using data from the 2006-07 Family Resources Survey up-rated to 2008-09 prices, benefit rates and earnings levels, and is calibrated to latest published forecasts and policies.
5. Results are subject to sampling and reporting errors and estimation assumptions, and are therefore indicative only. No behavioural changes are assumed.

Julia Goldsworthy: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the effect on the public purse would be of increasing personal allowances for the purposes of calculating council tax benefits to £193 per week for (a) a single person aged 60 to 64 years, (b) a couple, one or both of whom is aged 60 to 65 years, (c) a single person aged under 25 years, (d) a single person aged 25 to 60 years and (e) a couple; and if he will estimate the effect such an increase would have on the number of council tax benefit claimants in each case. [268179]

Kitty Ussher [holding answer 31 March 2009]: Estimates of the cost and number of council tax benefit (CTB) beneficiaries; and the saving and number of losers, if the personal allowance in CTB was £193, for the following groups:

Option 1—Single person aged 60 to 64 years;

Option 2—Couple, one or both of whom is aged 60 to 65 years;

Option 3—Single person aged under 25 years;

Option 4—Single person aged 25 to 60 years;

Option 5—Couple;

is in the following table.

Change of personal allowance in council tax benefit for some groups

Personal allowance in CTB (£193)	Number of beneficiaries	Cost in annually managed expenditure (£ million per year)	Number of losers	Saving in annually managed expenditure (£ million per year)	Impact on annually managed expenditure (£ million per year)

Option 2	160,000	*	0	0	*
Option 3	130,000	50	0	0	50
Option 4	990,000	370	20,000	-10	370
Option 5	580,000	140	90,000	-20	120

Notes:
1. All figures are for Great Britain.
2. '*' Less than £5 million.
3. Beneficiaries and losers are rounded to the nearest 10,000. Costs and savings are rounded to the nearest £10 million. These estimates include both customers who gain/lose and those who become entitled to, or lose entitlement to the benefit.

Housing Benefit

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) how many housing benefit recipients were social housing tenants in each of the last three years; and how many were (a) local authority and (b) registered social landlord tenants; [272217]

(2) what percentage of housing benefit recipients were social housing tenants in each of the last three years; what proportion of those were (a) local authority and (b) registered social landlord tenants. [272218]

Kitty Ussher: The available information is in the following tables.

Number of housing benefit recipients who are social housing tenants in Great Britain—2005 to 2007

As at August each year	Total housing benefit	All social housing tenants	Local authority tenants	Registered social landlord tenants
2005	3,981,020	3,175,470	1,744,810	1,430,660
2006	4,024,280	3,163,280	1,683,830	1,479,450
2007	4,040,940	3,100,350	1,625,050	1,475,290

Proportion of housing benefit recipients who are social housing tenants in Great Britain—2005 to 2007

As at August each year	Percentage of housing benefit recipients who are social housing tenants	Percentage of social housing tenants who are local authority tenants	Percentage of social housing tenants who are registered social landlord tenants
2005	79.77	54.95	45.05
2006	78.60	53.23	46.77
2007	76.72	52.42	47.58

Notes:
1. The data refer to benefit units, which may be a single person or a couple.
2. Housing benefit figures have been rounded to the nearest ten. Totals may not sum due to rounding.
3. Figures for any non-responding authorities have been estimated.
4. Housing benefit figures exclude any extended payment cases.
5. From February 2007, DWP has been collecting more detailed HB/CTB data electronically from local authorities. Over time this will improve the accuracy, timeliness and level of detail available in the published statistics. However, until the new data have been fully quality assured to National Statistics standards, the most recent summary statistics available are for August 2007.

Jobcentre Plus: Standards

Justine Greening: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the performance of Jobcentre Plus in each (a) region and (b) Jobcentre Plus district against its employer outcome targets for (i) resolution, (ii) responsiveness and (iii) matching in (A) each year since the target was launched and (B) in each of the last 24 months. [264238]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked the acting chief executive to provide the hon. Member with the information requested.

Pension Credit

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the Financial Statement of 22 April 2009, Official Report, column 249, on what date the capital limit for pension credit will increase; for which other (a) groups and (b) benefits the capital limits will be changed; and on what date these other changes will take effect. [271860]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 29 April 2009]: The capital thresholds for pension credit, housing benefit and council tax benefit for those who have attained the qualifying age for pension credit will be increased from £6,000 to £10,000 bringing these into line with the threshold for those living permanently in care homes. This change will take effect from paydays in the week commencing 2 November 2009.

The Government recognise the importance of supporting pensioners appropriately through the economic downturn. Increasing the capital threshold from £6,000 to £10,000 represents a generous increase in the thresholds and means that the proportion of pension credit recipients who will see their capital fully disregarded rises to 88 per cent. Half a million pensioners stand to gain from this change, with an average weekly gain of £4.

Social Security Benefits: Disqualification

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Health on implementation of provisions relating to drug users in the Welfare Reform Bill. [270910]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 24 April 2009]: DWP Ministers discuss matters of joint interest with the Secretary of State for Health including the provisions in the Welfare Reform Bill.

Written Questions: Government Responses

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he plans to provide a substantive answer to question 264368, on jobseeker's allowance and voluntary drug rehabilitation programmes, tabled by the hon. Member for Rochdale on 13 March 2009 for answer on 18 March. [268845]

Mr. McNulty: I replied to the hon. Member's question on 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 115W.

PRIME MINISTER

Cabinet: Glasgow

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister for what reasons the Cabinet met in Glasgow; and what the marginal cost of holding the meeting in Glasgow was. [270846]

The Prime Minister: The visit of the Cabinet to Glasgow on 16 April 2009 was one of several ministerial visits across the region; there was a public engagement event with around 230 local people and a formal Cabinet meeting. The cost of the public engagement event and the Cabinet meeting was approximately £54,300, excluding VAT. This figure includes the cost of hiring the venue, catering, associated security and delegate management. There are no separate figures for the Cabinet meeting. In addition, Departments and agencies will have incurred costs in terms of travel, staff time and other support. The cost of any security provided by the police is a matter for the relevant police force.

Canada: Afghanistan

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Prime Minister whether he has had discussions with his Canadian counterpart on the continuing deployment of Canadian troops in Afghanistan; and if he will make a statement. [272727]

The Prime Minister: We have continued to keep in close touch with our Canadian counterparts about our deployments, most recently as part of the NATO summit. I refer my hon. Friend to the written ministerial statement I made on 20 April 2009, Official Report, columns 3-4WS.

Chequers

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister whether he discussed the issue of political websites with Mr. Derek Draper at Chequers on 16 November 2008. [272007]

The Prime Minister: No.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Prime Minister on what dates (a) Mr. Charlie Whelan, (b) Mr. Andrew Dodgshon and (c) Mr. Derek Draper have attended Chequers as a guest of the Prime Minister since June 2007. [272008]

The Prime Minister: A list of guests entertained at Chequers is published on an annual basis. For information for 2007-08 I refer the hon. Member to the written statement I made on 22 July 2008, Official Report, columns 108-10WS. Information for the financial year 2008-09 will be published in the usual manner.

Damian McBride

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Prime Minister with reference to his letter of 13 April to the Cabinet Secretary on the Code of Conduct for Special Advisers, from whom he received assurances that no Minister and no political adviser other than Mr. McBride had knowledge of or involvement in the emails sent by Mr. McBride regarding members of Her Majesty's Opposition and their families. [270768]

The Prime Minister: I refer the hon. Member to the letter from the Cabinet Secretary of 21 April 2009 to the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude), a copy of which has been placed in the Library of the House.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many enhanced blast munitions have been fired in Afghanistan in each year since 2007. [271393]

Mr. Hutton: The only enhanced blast weapons used by UK forces in Afghanistan are variants of the AGM-114N Hellfire missile. This was released into service in spring 2008 and so there were none fired prior to May 2008; however, the number of enhanced blast munitions fired on operations in Afghanistan during 2008-09 is provided in the following table.

	Total fired
2008	20
2009	23

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many UK civilian contractors are currently stationed in Afghanistan. [273001]

Mr. Quentin Davies: As at 28 April 2009 there were some 300 UK civilian contractors stationed in Afghanistan supporting UK operations.

Armed Forces: Housing

Willie Rennie: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2009, Official Report, column 20W, on armed forces: housing, if he will make an assessment of the reasons for the changes in numbers of houses at grade (a) one and (b) four for charge between 2005 and 2007. [264226]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Given the way Grade for Charge data is collated officials need to identify and analyse information to answer this question. I will write to the hon. Member when this work is complete and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Substantive answer from Kevan Jones to Willie Rennie:

Further to my answer of 17 March 2009 (Official Report, column 970W) I promised to write to the hon. Member when we had identified the reasons for the changes in numbers of Service Family Accommodation (SFA) properties at each Grade for Charge (GfC) in 2005 and 2007.

GfC is the methodology used to determine the level of charges for each SFA property and takes into account various factors including condition, size, environmental and locational factors.

Our analysis has shown that the changes in the worldwide SFA GfC totals between 2005 and 2007 were mainly due to changes in the Great Britain figures, which are provided in the table below.

GB SFA	2005	2007
Number of SFA at G1fC	13,774	9,907
Number of SFA at G2fC	18,779	19,029
Number of SFA at G3fC	13,569	15,437
Number of SFA at G4fC	4,065	5,538
Total	50,187	49,911

All SFA is subject to a rolling audit, where its GfC is assessed by Grading Boards at least once every four years. The reasons why properties have been re-graded are not centrally recorded and to provide this level of detail would require the collation and analysis of large amounts of data from across the Department, incurring disproportionate effort and cost. However a number of factors go into calculating grade for charge including: size, provision of Key Amenities condition and environmental factors like noise.

Standard for Condition (SfC) has been the Department's preferred measure for assessing a property's physical condition. For comparison purposes, GB SFA was at the following SfC in 2005 and 2007 are provided in the table below.

GB SFA	2005	2007
Number of SFA at S1fC	26,426	29,691
Number of SFA at S2fC	20,774	17,910
Number of SFA at S3fC	2,792	2,165
Number of SFA at S4fC	195	145
Total	50,187	49,911

Further to my Written Ministerial Statement on 17 March (Official Report, column 970W) regarding the new condition survey of SFA, it should be noted that the above SfC figures reflect the data collected from previous condition surveys.

Cycling

Nick Harvey: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) service personnel and (b) civil servants in his Department participate in a cycle-to-work scheme. [271291]

Mr. Kevan Jones: My Department has a strong commitment to cycle to work schemes in support of the MOD climate change strategy. During 2008-09, 322 Service personnel used cycles for their home to duty travel. Similarly during 2008-09, 336 interest-free loans were authorised for civilians to purchase cycles for commuting to work. In addition, at present 94 civilians have joined the MOD Defence Science and Technology Laboratory's cycle to work scheme which leases out cycles to staff using a salary sacrifice mechanism.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department spent on consultancy contracts in 2008-09. [272584]

Mr. Quentin Davies: This information is intended for future publication and will be placed in the Library of the House before the summer recess, as is our usual practice.

Ex-servicemen

Mr. Fallon: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his policy is on the use of service facilities by ex-servicemen's clubs. [273143]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Ex-servicemen's clubs may use spare capacity in service facilities where this is compatible with operational requirements. Where publicly-funded facilities are provided the Department would normally be required to recover its costs; however, where there are justifiable benefits to defence, consideration can be given to abating the costs.

Terrorism: Northern Ireland

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what arrangements his Department made for the transfer of the remains of Sappers Azimkar and Quinsey from Northern Ireland; whether the remains were transported in military aircraft; at which airfield the flight carrying the remains arrived, and on what date and at what time; what ceremonies were observed on arrival of the remains at the destination airfield; and who comprised the official party receiving the remains. [273223]

Mr. Kevan Jones: The bodies of Sappers Azimkar and Quinsey were returned from Northern Ireland to the mainland on 13 March 2009 in a similar manner to that which has been used over the past 35 years. A memorial service was conducted at Massereene Barracks by members of 38 Engineer Regiment before the bodies were transported to Belfast International Airport by the MOD Funeral Directors, Dignity. They were flown back to London Heathrow on Aer Lingus Flight ECI 032 which departed from Belfast at 0740 in the morning and arrived at 0950. The flight was met by Kenyons, the MOD Funeral Directors. The body of Sapper Quinsey was then passed from Kenyons to the family's appointed Funeral Directors, Co-Op, in Birmingham. Sapper Azimkar's body was taken by private ambulance to Kenyons in London, who were appointed by the Azimkar family as their Funeral Directors.

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what discussions his Department had with media outlets on the media coverage of arrangements made for the funerals of Sappers Azimkar and Quinsey. [273283]

Mr. Hutton: We routinely discuss media attendance at the funerals of Service personnel with the families of those who have died and with media organisations. We aim to minimise any distress that might be caused to families, friends and former colleagues by media coverage.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Church of Scientology

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst (Robert Neill) of 31 March 2009, Official Report, column 1047W, on the Church of Scientology, whether the Church of Scientology is recognised as a religion for the purposes of (a) council tax exemption Class H and (b) business rate exemptions. [272240]

John Healey: It is for individual local authorities to decide whether Class H exemption from council tax applies in any case. The Department does not have information about those decisions as they relate to the Church of Scientology. It is for the valuation officers of the Valuation Office Agency to decide whether any hereditament is a place of public religious worship which is exempt from non-domestic rates in accordance with Paragraph 11 of Schedule 5 of the Local Government Finance Act 1988.

Community Development

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for what reasons funding for the Inspiring Communities programme is restricted to 64 local authority areas. [273210]

Mr. Khan: Inspiring Communities is intended particularly for neighbourhoods where low aspirations have been identified as a barrier to young people achieving their potential. It is being targeted at deprived neighbourhoods and the 64 local authority areas are eligible to apply because on the Index of Multiple Deprivation (IMD) 2007 they either have:

10 per cent. or more of their Lower Super Output areas (statistical units of average 1,500 population) in the most deprived 10 per cent. in England; or 20 or more Lower Super Output Areas in the most deprived 10 per cent. in England.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the functions are of the regional neighbourhood training and resources centres. [273240]

Mr. Khan: The seven Neighbourhood Training and Resource Centres (NTRCs) in operation were originally set up by CLG to promote a unified approach to neighbourhood wardens by providing support and training to existing and new warden schemes. Over the last two years they have been diversifying, and now offer a broad range of training and advice services for people and projects operating at a neighbourhood level. The aim is to deliver improved neighbourhood working and increased community empowerment in order to achieve more resilient and sustainable neighbourhoods.

Community Relations

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent steps her Department has taken to increase levels of community cohesion. [272877]

Mr. Khan: We have demonstrated our ongoing commitment to community cohesion with a £50 million investment over three years and a public service agreement (PSA 21) to build cohesive, active and empowered communities. In addition to financial support we are working to support local authorities in delivering improvements in cohesion by providing a framework of guidance and targeted local support.

The latest part of this guidance framework was delivered in January 2009 and contains guidance on Meaningful Interaction and Building a Local Sense of Belonging, and summarises what we already know about the benefits of interaction and a local sense of belonging and how it can be achieved.

In addition, in we have also published ah inter faith framework. Supported by a funding commitment of over £7.5 million, it aims to maintain and further develop good relations between faith communities and wider civil society.

Council Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent under each budgetary heading on the Review of Council Housing Finance; and how many civil servants have provided support to the review. [272223]

Mr. Iain Wright: The review has spent £200,000 on external research and £186,000 on other activity—primarily to ensure maximum stakeholder input into the review. The Chartered Institute of Housing facilitated the delivery of 12 stakeholder workshops and three regional events in Bristol, Birmingham and Leeds. Stakeholders included local authorities, academic experts, housing practitioners, tenants and key sector representatives. Communities and Local Government also held separate seminars for national and regional tenant organisations during the review.

The review team consists of five civil servants in my Department and two from HM Treasury. They have been supported by other civil servants from both Departments and by a secondee from a local authority.

Council Housing: Rents

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which local authorities have responded to the consultation on the Draft Housing Revenue Account Subsidy Determination 2009-10 Amending Determination 2009 to the effect that they are considering taking up the offer of reducing rents for appropriate compensation. [272345]

Mr. Iain Wright: 173 local authorities have responded positively to the consultation. We are currently reviewing all responses received, and having discussions with those who have not responded, before preparing an amending Housing Revenue Account Subsidy Determination 2009-10 for issue later this month.

Council Tax: Valuation

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what account was taken by the Valuation Office Agency of the Lands Tribunal decision of Baker (Valuation Officer) (VO) v Citibank NA 2007 in its council tax valuation methodology, in relation to new hereditaments and material changes of circumstance. [272430]

John Healey: The case of Baker (VO) v. Citibank LT 2007 confirmed the principle that a change in the boundaries of a hereditament created a new hereditament. This principle applies for council tax as it does for non-domestic rating.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what property data from the stamp duty land tax database are used by the Valuation Office Agency for the purposes of (a) council tax valuations and (b) populating the automated valuation model with data. [272443]

John Healey: Data on property transactions are provided to the Valuation Office Agency (VOA) by the Stamp Taxes Office of HM Revenue and Customs. These data are used by the VOA (a) to assist staff in maintaining council tax valuation lists and (b) as an input to its automated valuation modelling.

Councillors: Accountancy

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 737W, on councillors: Arun, what plans the Audit Commission has to require other local authorities to disclose the bank account details of councillors held in their payroll databases. [273686]

Mr. Khan: I refer the hon. Member to the answers given on 17 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1101-02W, 20 April 2009, Official Report, columns 423-24W and 6 May 2009, Official Report, column 232W.

Councillors: Complaints

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance (a) her Department and (b) the Standards Board has issued on whether anonymous complaints against councillors should be considered by a Standards Committee; and what guidance has been given on whether anonymous complaints making potentially defamatory claims should be recorded in public minutes. [272149]

John Healey: The Department does not issue guidance on the conduct regime. The Standards Board for England's guide for authorities on the local standards framework includes specific guidance on the handling of anonymous complaints, making it clear that anonymous complaints should only be considered if supported by evidence indicating an exceptionally serious matter. The guidance also provides that some details of any complaint considered should be made public following the decision as to whether or not it should be investigated, but these details need not contain the name of the subject of the complaint.

Departmental Consultants

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1102W, on departmental consultants, what assessment has been made of the effectiveness of the high-level seminar to engage senior leaders organised by McKinsey and Company. [273362]

Mr. Khan: The Communities High-Level Seminar (and the follow up work arising from the event) made a significant contribution to the successful development and implementation of the new local performance framework. This included the introduction of the National Indicator Set; publication of the National Improvement and Efficiency Strategy; agreement of 150 Local Area Agreements and the introduction of the Comprehensive Area Assessment.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1102W, on departmental consultants, how much her Department has paid to McKinsey and Company in the last 36 months; and for what projects. [273363]

Mr. Khan: In addition to the work set out in the answer given to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 17 March 2009, McKinsey and Company also undertook two other pieces of work for the Department during this period:

A Review of DCLG Communications (July 2006). The value of this contract was £93,500 excluding VAT;

A Study of Local Strategic Partnership Performance and Capacity Building (September 2006). The value of this contract was £93,500 excluding VAT.

Departmental Manpower

Kelvin Hopkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether she plans to reduce the use of (a) agency staff, (b) interim staff, (c) contractors, (d) consultants, (e) inward secondments and (f) outward secondments in her Department's headquarters building in the next six months. [273297]

Mr. Khan: In 2009-10 as in the previous year, our Administration Budget is planned to fall by 5 per cent. in real terms. Against this background, the Department will continue looking at the scope for making reductions in these areas and will take action where appropriate to reduce use of these staff. We currently have no plans to reduce the number of inward and outward secondments taking place.

The use of these groups of staff is appropriate in certain circumstances as a temporary measure. For example, agency and interim staff can be used to provide short-term additional support during heavy periods of work in key areas. Contractors or consultants may be used as and when specialised skills—not easily found within the Department—are required for time-specific projects.

There are controls in place within HR and Procurement to ensure that all recruitment takes place in accordance with the Department's business needs and in line with the Civil Service Recruitment Principles.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her Department's end year flexibility entitlement was in 2008-09; what percentage of that entitlement has been taken up; for what programmes that funding will be used; and how much funding has been allocated to each programme. [273415]

Mr. Khan: The following tables set out the Department's End Year Flexibility entitlement for 2008-09 for each of its two departmental expenditure limits (DEL) and the take up of end year flexibility during the year.

Main programmes departmental expenditure limit (DEL)

		£ million
	Resource	Capital
End year flexibility (EYF) 2008-9	184.805	397.145
Take up of EYF—
Winter supplementary estimates central administration costs	8.644	0.000
Spring supplementary estimates	0.000	0.000
Remaining	176.161	397.145
Percentage taken up	5	0

Local government departmental expenditure limit (DEL)

		£ million
	Resource	Capital
End year flexibility (EYF) 2008-9	106.837	418.069
Take up of EYF—	0.000	82.000
Winter Supplementary Estimates Local Government Public Services Agreement Estimates
Spring Supplementary Local Government Public Services Agreement	10.000	10.000
Invest to Save Special Grant	0.410	0.000
Remaining	96.427	326.069
Percentage taken up	10	22

Government DEL, the resource EYF from 2007-08 was understated by £10 million due to an error in the published version of the Public Expenditure Provisional Outturn White Paper.

Departmental Visits Abroad

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many overseas visits were made by staff in her Department in the last 12 months; and what the (a) destination and (b) purpose was in each case. [272459]

Mr. Khan: In the 12 months to 31 March 2009 there have been 582 overseas trips undertaken by Communities and Local Government staff. Of the 582 trips there were 529 to Europe; 27 trips to North America, six trips to Australia and 20 trips to Asia.

The purpose of these journeys was to represent the Department and provide expert advice on policy/subject issues.

All travel is undertaken in accordance with the civil service management code.

District Councils

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether her Department has commissioned any recent research on the financial viability of district councils in two-tier areas. [272417]

John Healey: While the Department has not commissioned any such research, in our 2006 Local Government White Paper—Strong and Prosperous Communities—we recognised that some district councils are too small to have the capacity to secure efficiency, drive change and provide strong leadership.

Economic Situation

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 18 March 2009, Official Report, column 1174W, on the economic situation, if she will place in the Library a copy of the presentation and handouts provided at the event held on (a) 7 January 2009, (b) 5 February 2009 and (c) 26-27 February 2009. [273365]

Mr. Khan: One departmental presentation was made at the Home Builders Federation seminar held on 7 January 2009. A copy of this presentation will be placed in the Library. The other speakers at these events were from external stakeholders, who are responsible for their own presentations and handouts.

One presentation was made at the Homeowners Mortgage Support scheme development workshop on 5 February 2009. A copy of this presentation will be placed in the Library.

A range of speakers from external stakeholders were invited to present their views at the Housing Roundtables held on 26-27 January 2009. External stakeholders are responsible for their own presentations and handouts.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1498-502W, on departmental conferences, if she will place in the Library a copy of the presentations and handouts produced for the Arms-Length Bodies in Finance networking event on 4 December 2008. [273458]

Mr. Khan: Two presentations were made at the Arms-Length Bodies in Finance networking event on 4 December 2008. Copies of the presentations will be placed in the Library.

Empty Dwelling Management Orders

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 24 February 2009, Official Report, columns 543-4W, on empty dwelling management orders, if she will place in the Library a copy of each ruling of the Residential Property Tribunal Service in relation to the issuing of each of the interim empty dwelling management orders with sensitive personal data redacted. [273450]

Mr. Iain Wright: Copies of the rulings of the Residential Property Tribunal Service (RPTS) in relation to all applications for interim empty dwelling management orders have been placed in the Library. 24 interim orders have now been approved and seven applications for interim orders have been rejected. The rulings are in the public domain and can be viewed on the RPTS website at:

www.rpts.gov.uk/decisions

European Commission

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much her Department and its predecessors have paid in financial corrections to the European Commission since May 1997. [272456]

John Healey: The Department has incurred €51 million in financial corrections since 1997 on European programmes worth over €11 billion to England.

Fire Alarms

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what criteria apply in the valuation of fire alarms for ratings purposes in the 2010 rates revaluation. [272432]

John Healey: A hereditament is rateable to the extent that it comprises land, buildings and rateable plant and machinery.

Plant and machinery items deemed rateable must be named in the Valuation for Rating (Plant and Machinery) Regulations 2000 (SI 2000/540), which can be found at:

http://www.opsi.gov.uk/si/si2000/20000540.htm

Food

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make an estimate of the (a) monetary value and (b) quantity of waste food disposed of from her Department's premises in the last 12 months. [273441]

Mr. Khan: The Department for Communities and Local Government does not dispose of waste food. The Department operates a food waste composting scheme in its main headquarter building, Eland House, and during the last 12 months the scheme avoided the disposal of 25 tonnes of food waste from the general waste stream. The waste food was instead sent for composting and re-use as organic material.

The Department does not hold sufficient data to estimate the monetary value of waste food redirected in the last 12 months.

Geographical Information Systems

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps the Valuation Office Agency is taking to comply with the recommendations contained in the report, Place matters: the location strategy for the United Kingdom. [272458]

John Healey: There are no recommendations in the report that require specific steps to be taken by the Valuation Office Agency.

Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government when she plans to publish the Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix returns for 2008-09; and if she will make a statement. [272113]

Mr. Iain Wright: The provisional publication date for the Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix returns for 2008-09 is for November/December 2009.

Housing

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what external (a) companies and (b) consultants have been contracted by her Department to promote housing market renewal pathfinders; and how much had been spent on such contracts on the latest date for which figures are available. [273335]

Mr. Iain Wright: CLG has not contracted external companies or consultants to promote HMR pathfinders. It is for individual pathfinders to decide if they wish to promote their own activity and this information is not held centrally.

Housing: Low Incomes

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many social tenants in each local authority area have bought a share in their home through the Social HomeBuy scheme to date. [271628]

Margaret Beckett: The following table shows the number of Social HomeBuy sales in each local authority area between April 2006 and March 2009. Social HomeBuy is a voluntary and demand-led scheme in which only some social landlords chose to participate. It is one of a suite of options designed to help social tenants into home ownership. Purchasers can buy shares of between 25 and 100 per cent.

Housing: Valuation

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many homes in England there are with a CiG value significant code according to Valuation Office Agency records. [272422]

John Healey: The VOA has not undertaken a comprehensive exercise to gather value significant coding information on all domestic dwellings in England.

Local Government

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which councils are pathfinders for new two-tier models of joint working. [272546]

John Healey: Four county areas—Buckinghamshire, Dorset, Hertfordshire and Lincolnshire—are currently enhanced two-tier working pathfinders. This includes the following councils:

County area	Councils involved
Buckinghamshire	Buckinghamshire County Council
	Aylesbury Vale District Council
	Chiltern District Council
	South Bucks District Council
	Wycombe District Council
Dorset	Dorset County Council

County area	Councils involved
	Christchurch Borough Council
	East Dorset District Council
	North Dorset District Council
	Purbeck District Council
	West Dorset District Council
	Weymouth and Portland Borough Council
Hertfordshire	Hertfordshire County Council
	Borough of Broxbourne Council
	Dacorum Borough Council
	East Herts Council
	Hertsmere Borough Council
	North Hertfordshire District Council
	St. Albans City and District Council
	Stevenage Borough Council
	Three Rivers District Council

	Welwyn Hatfield Borough Council
Lincolnshire	Lincolnshire County Council
	East Lindsey District Council
	City of Lincoln Council
	North Kesteven District Council
	South Holland District Council
	South Kesteven District Council
	West Lindsey District Council

Local Government Finance

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what measure of council tax the Office for National Statistics uses to make comparisons between the tax and spending levels of local authorities. [272153]

John Healey: Information on council tax and local authority revenue expenditure is given in table 5 of the statistical release, "Local authority revenue expenditure and financing England: 2007-08 Final Outturn" available at:

http://www.local.communities.gov.uk/finance/stats/cos0708fin.pdf

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what powers to levy fines have been conferred on local authorities by her Department and its predecessors since 2003. [272439]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Peterborough (Mr. Jackson) on 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 744W.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department has issued to local authorities on special expenses in unparished areas; and whether the percentage increase in council tax including special expenses is taken into account by her Department in determining whether to cap a local authority. [272477]

John Healey: Communities and Local Government have not issued guidance to local authorities on special expenses in unparished areas. For capping purposes special expenses are taken into account.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 29 April 2009, Official Report, column 1372W, on local government finance, on what date she expects to write to local authorities inviting bids for funding; what the maximum grant level will be; and when she expects to begin processing such applications. [273414]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Homes and Communities Agency will shortly be inviting local authorities to bid for this funding, and will announce at the same time the timetable for decisions. There will be no maximum grant level set; bids will be assessed on value for money.

Local Government Finance: Departmental Coordination

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which Government departments and agencies participate in the regional funding allocation process in respect of regional assemblies and local authorities. [272414]

John Healey: The current regional funding advice exercise is being led jointly by Her Majesty's Treasury, the Department for Transport, the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills, the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform and my Department. Guidance on the exercise was issued by these Departments in July 2008 and can be found at http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/regional_funding_advice300708.pdf

The guidance states that regions' advice will be valuable in informing decisions in the areas of transport, housing and regeneration, economic development and skills and that regions should consult with stakeholders that deliver relevant outcomes.

Local Government: Bank Services

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what her latest estimate is of the proportion of deposits held by local authorities in Icelandic banks that will be returned; what the timetable is for the return of such deposits; and whether interest will be paid. [272460]

John Healey: The administrators of Heritable and KSF, and the Resolution Committees of Glitnir and Landsbanki have made public their own estimates of what percentage of the principal and interest might be repaid in each case and by when.

Local Government: Databases

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will make it her policy to support the Mash the State campaign to encourage the accessibility of data held by local authorities. [272434]

John Healey: This is a voluntary initiative and it is a matter for individual local authorities to provide information to their citizens in whichever ways are most appropriate to meet the needs of their citizens. However, the Government supports the general principle of this campaign to encourage the accessibility of local authority data.

To this end, as was announced in the Communities in Control White Paper in 2008, we have developed the Timely Information to Citizens project, including approximately £1.2 million funding for around 20 pilot projects to support the development and take-up of good practice for local authorities on provision of information to their citizens. This project includes encouragement and support for local authorities to make the information held in their systems available for reuse by others.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what progress her Department has made in achieving its target of a 30 per cent. reduction in data collections from local authorities to date; which data collections have stopped; and which data collections continue to be collected. [272446]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst (Robert Neill) on 19 January 2009, Official Report, column 1080W.

Local Government: Inspections

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent estimate she has made of the direct and indirect costs of local government inspection to (a) local and (b) central government. [272151]

John Healey: The Audit Commission, which is sponsored by the Department for Communities and Local Government, is the only inspectorate of local government to charge a fee element to authorities for inspection. The reply I gave to the hon. Member for Wellingborough (Mr. Bone) on 3 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1547-48W, set out the estimated costs relating to the Audit Commission 2008-09 comprehensive performance assessment inspection programme for local authorities. There are no definitive figures to calculate the indirect costs of inspection to local government (such as staff time). The Department does not hold information about the costs of inspection of local authorities by other local services inspectorates.

Local Government: Planning Permission

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what rights (a) parish and (b) town councils have to (i) comment on planning applications and (ii) make recommendations to the planning authority. [273477]

Mr. Iain Wright: Parish and community councils, including town councils, and the councillors who serve them, play an important role in our democratic planning system.

As prescribed in Article 13 of the Town and Country Planning (General Development Procedure) Order 1995, parish or community councils can have a specific role in the decision making process for planning applications. It becomes a statutory duty on a local planning authority to notify the parish council about relevant applications, if the parish itself requests such notification. The purpose of notification is to invite comments, on specific applications.

The local planning authority may not determine a planning application until either a parish intending to comment has done so, or at least 21 days have elapsed following notification. The local planning authority must take into account any timely and relevant comments when reaching its decision. Its decision and the reasons for it must also be made publicly available.

Local Government: Public Consultation

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government for what reasons publication of the results of the Place survey has been postponed until June 2009. [272424]

John Healey: Before confirming publication arrangements for the Place Survey the Department is conducting a review to ensure the data are of sufficient quality. This is a responsibility that the Department takes very seriously. It is vital that the general public as well as the local government community can have trust in all official statistics that are used to measure local government performance. The review is being structured around the principles laid out in the Code of Practice for Official Statistics, published in January this year by the UK Statistics Authority.

As soon as we are in a position to do so we will pre-announce a publication date via the United Kingdom Statistics Authority website.

Non-domestic Rates

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many hereditaments have a rateable value of (a) between £10,000 and £15,000 in each Government Office Region outside London and (b) between £10,000 and £21,500 in London, according to Valuation Office Agency records. [272148]

John Healey: The information is as follows:

2005 Rating List as at 31 March 2009

	Number of hereditaments over £10,000 or under £21,500

Non-Domestic Rates: Licensed Premises

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library a copy of the Valuation Office Agency's guidance notes and advice for the rating of licensed premises for the 2010 rates revaluation. [272436]

John Healey: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) on 24 November 2008, Official Report, column 966W.

Official Hospitality

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1103W, on departmental ministerial policy advisers, whether her Department keeps a register of the (a) declared interests of and (b) gifts, hospitality and benefits in kind received by special advisers. [273364]

Mr. Khan: The Department records declarations of interest, and maintains information about gifts and hospitality received by its staff, including special advisers, in accordance with the requirements of the Civil Service Management Code.

Planning Permission

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the latest timetable is for the introduction of a new version of planning guidance PPS6 to (a) abolish the needs test and (b) introduce a competition test. [272419]

Mr. Iain Wright: On 5 May 2009 we published a consultation draft Planning Policy Statement 4 (PPS): "Planning for Prosperous Economies". This brings together all of the Government's key planning policies relating to the economy in both urban and rural areas into one single document, creating a coherent and modern set of policies designed to meet the economic challenges we face both now and over the longer term. This new PPS incorporates "draft PPS 4: Planning for Sustainable Economic Development"; "PPG 5: Simplified Planning Zones"; "PPS 6: Planning for Town Centres"; and the economic development policies in "PPS 7: Sustainable Development in Rural Areas". We have also published a 'living draft' of town centres practice guidance to support the consultation PPS. The consultation documentation for the draft PPS and further details about how to respond are available on the Department's website at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/planningandbuilding/consultationeconomicpps

The draft practice guidance and further details about how to submit comments are available on the GVA Grimley website at:

www.gvagrimley.co.uk/towncentresgoodpracticeguide

The draft PPS does not introduce a competition test. Following the Order made by the Competition Appeal Tribunal (CAT) dated 3 April 2009, the Competition Commission (CC) is to reconsider certain aspects of the competition test they proposed as a result of their inquiry into the groceries market. The CC has undertaken to complete this work within the next six months. Government will then consider any revised recommendations made to it.

Regional Assemblies

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government which Regional Assemblies and their successor bodies have offices in (a) Brussels and (b) Strasbourg; and what estimate she has made of the cost to the public purse of such offices in 2008-09. [272339]

John Healey: No regional assembly or successor body has a sole office in either Brussels or Strasbourg. However there are offices for each region in Brussels which are funded by a wide range of partners. The East of England and North West offices are managed by the respective assembly and successor body on behalf of a group of regional partners.

The costs of running these offices are drawn from a wide range of bodies. Records on these costs are not centrally held.

Regional Assemblies: Costs

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the cost of the regional assemblies in England is in 2009-10. [272589]

John Healey: The estimated cost of the regional assemblies and successor bodies for 2009-10 is £18 million.

Regional Planning and Development

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent progress has been made on the National Improvement and Efficiency Strategy. [271576]

Mr. Khan: The National Improvement and Efficiency Strategy was produced to support councils, as leaders of place, working with their local partners to deliver better outcomes, improve the quality of life in places and provide better public services. It commits urban and local governments and making it easier for councils and their partners to access the right support at the right time.

Regional Improvement and Efficiency Partnerships have been successfully launched and their 1st Annual Reports highlight around £100 million of efficiency savings in their first year and significant support to improve performance. They increasingly are providing councils with the mechanism to have a simply conversion for regional improvements needs in their locality.

In the 'Prospectus 2008: the guide to improvement and efficiency support' we set out a comprehensive picture of the support which central and local government are providing to local partners. This document provides a valuable practical tool to help make this happens.

Regional Planning and Development: Green Belt

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer of 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1509-10W, on regional spatial strategies, if she will revoke the elements of each regional spatial strategy which specify removal or undermining of green belt protection. [273451]

Mr. Iain Wright: Regional Spatial Strategies (RSSs) prepared by regional planning bodies set the framework for green belt policy and settlement policy for each region, forming the strategic planning context for local plan making by local planning authorities. The policies expressed in RSSs relating to green belts have been drafted in accordance with national planning guidance set out in Planning Policy Guidance 2 Green Belts.

Further, green belt policy like all policies contained in RSS is subject to testing through an independent examination at the Examination in Public (EiP). the EiP is also chaired by an independent Chair.

The RSSs do not contain policies which would lead to the removal or undermining of the protection of existing green belt; they do contain policies to carry out reviews of green belt in accordance with PPG2 Green Belts.

Rented Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average length of tenure for a tenant of a house in the (a) registered social landlord and (b) local authority sector was in each year since 1997. [272513]

Mr. Iain Wright: Estimates of the average length of residence of tenants at their current address in (a) the registered social landlord sector and (b) the local authority sector for each year from 1997-98 to 2006-07 are provided in the table. These estimates are based on data from the Survey of English Housing.

Average length of residence at current address, social sector tenants, England, 1997-98 to 2006-07

Years[1]

	Tenure
	Local authority	Registered social landlord
1997-98	12.9	8.4
1998-99	13.0	8.4
1999-2000	13.3	8.9
2000-01	13.6	8.7
2001-02	13.3	9.6
2002-03	14.3	9.9
2003-04	13.8	10.2
2004-05	13.4	10.3
2005-06	14.3	10.7
2006-07	13.5	10.7

[1] Years are given in decimal format, for example the 0.9 in 12.9 refers to 9/10 of a year.

Social Rented Housing

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government in which local authority areas her policy of reducing social housing rents areas will be applied; and if she will make a statement. [272343]

Mr. Iain Wright: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given today UIN 272345 to the hon. Member for Meriden (Mrs. Spelman).

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 37W, on trade unions, what office facilities (a) her Department and (b) each of its agencies provide for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional monetary value of such provision was in 2008-09. [271918]

Mr. Khan: The Department and its executive agencies provide recognised trade unions with the following office facilities:

Unit	Facilities	Notional cost per year (£)
Communities and Local Government HQ	Two offices, with four desks, computers, telephones, fax, printer, separate meeting room, stationery and notice boards	58,096.00
QEII Conference Centre	There are no office facilities provided	0
Fire Service College	One office, with a desk, computer, telephone and printer	1,200.00
Planning Inspectorate	One office, computers, photocopiers, fax machines and telephones, stationery and notice boards	29,000.00

Unitary Councils

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will estimate the level of savings to the public purse expected to result from the introduction of new unitary authorities. [272266]

John Healey: Whilst we have not estimated the level of savings that would be expected from introducing unitary authorities across England, the nine new unitary councils established on 1 April, which provide services to around 13 per cent. of the population of the two tier areas that existed in England prior to that date, are on track to make savings of over £100 million per annum once they are fully up and running, as well as having new opportunities for redesigning service delivery and simplifying partnership working. Local government in Wales, which is a devolved matter, has been wholly unitary since 1996.

Valuation Office

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will list those local billing authorities which do not communicate with the Valuation Office Agency through the Valuebill and e-BAR interface. [272435]

John Healey: All billing authorities use the Valuebill interface. There are 57 billing authorities who have not submitted any of their Billing Authority Reports (BARs) using the e-BAR facility.

They are:

Mid Bedfordshire
Luton
Bedford
Cambridge
Fenland

South Cambridgeshire
Peterborough
Broxbourne
East Hertfordshire

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether the Valuation Office Agency plans to publish its location-related datasets. [272453]

John Healey: No.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Subsidies

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many Single Payment Scheme stage one appeals are being processed by the Rural Payments Agency; how many of them have been subject to processing for more than (a) 90 days, (b) 120 days and (c) 150 days; and if he will make a statement. [270106]

Jane Kennedy: At 28 April 2009 the Rural Payments Agency (RPA) had 117 Single Payment Scheme stage 1 appeals under consideration of which 73 had been considered for less than 90 days.

Nine cases had been considered for up to 120 days; a further six for up to 150 days and 29 for more than 150 days.

The RPA aims to consider an appeal and notify the decision within 90 days, however given the complexity of some of the cases, which require additional legal and policy advice, this is not always possible to achieve.

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much (a) matched and (b) unmatched funding available to England from the EU agriculture budget was not taken up in each year since 1997. [273277]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA is not responsible for the administration of all of the funding available to England from the EU budget.

The information requested could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Apprentices

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs with reference to the answer of 9 July 2008, Official Report, column 1585W, on apprentices, what progress has been made on increasing the number of apprentices in his Department; and how many apprentices his Department employs. [251956]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA has been actively looking for opportunities to recruit apprentices and to offer apprenticeship opportunities to existing DEFRA staff. The number of apprentices in DEFRA and its agencies at 31 March has increased to 16, of which 12 are part of the Pathfinder apprenticeship programme, and four are non-Pathfinder apprenticeships based at Kew Gardens.

DEFRA is actively looking for more opportunities in 2009-10 significantly to increase this number in core DEFRA and its agencies. An official has been allocated to this agenda, and is liaising with both the core Department and the agency network to ensure that DEFRA is doing all that it can to support this work. The Department is actively engaged with colleagues in Jobcentre Plus to identify ways in which development opportunities can be offered to unemployed citizens, in particular those sometimes viewed as 'harder to reach' such as the long-term unemployed.

Dairy Farming

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of farm holdings where dairy is the predominant activity in each year since 1997. [273421]

Jane Kennedy: The number of holdings where dairy is the predominant activity are shown in the following table for each year since 1997.

	Thousand holdings
1997[1]	18.0
1998[1]	17.0
1999[1]	16.3
2000	15.5
2001	14.3
2002	14.5
2003	13.8
2004	13.3
2005	12.9
2006[2]	11.1
2007[2]	10.6
2008[2]	10.1

[1] Data prior to 2000 are for main holdings only. Figures from 2000 onwards include main and minor holdings.
[2] Until 2006, cattle populations were derived from the annual June Survey of Agriculture. Since June 2007, they have been sourced from administrative data—the cattle tracing system. The farm types have been recalculated on this basis for June 2006 onwards.

Departmental Disciplinary Proceedings

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many officials in his Department are suspended; how many are suspended on full pay; for how long each has been suspended; and what the reasons are for any such suspensions. [270517]

Huw Irranca-Davies: There are currently four people within the Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs who are suspended. Because it is such a small number, we cannot give further details because of the possibility of identifying individuals.

Suspensions are considered in line with DEFRA's disciplinary policy and procedures. These reflect the central framework set out in the Civil Service Management Code and they are available to all staff via the Department's intranet.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the (a) energy consumed by, (b) energy cost of and (c) carbon dioxide emissions from each category of IT device in each division of his Department in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [269538]

Jane Kennedy: No measurements were taken or estimated in 2004, 2005, 2006 or 2007.

In 2007 DEFRA commissioned its strategic supplier IBM to trial the use of ISO 14064 to provide an initial IT footprint assessment for the Department. This provisionally identified for April 2008 that IT in use across DEFRA and all its Executive agencies had an annual footprint of:

(a) 12 million kwH

(b) Costing £1.08 million (at 9p per kwH)

(c) Emitting 6 ktonnes CO_2

Subsequently as part of the Department's response to the launch of the HMG Green ICT Strategy in July 2008, IBM were commissioned to undertaken a feasibility study of the actions the Department could take to meet the 2012 target for carbon neutrality for ICT in use across the estate and to prepare its roadmap. The study team was asked to provide a more detailed assessment of the ICT footprint for the Department to provide a robust baseline for the roadmap. Preliminary figures from the draft report issued in April 2009 indicate that for 2008-09 core DEFRA and all its Executive agencies have an annual footprint for IT in use of:

(a) 12.5 million kwH

(b) Costing £1.13 million

(c) Emitting 6.5 ktonnes CO_2

An exercise has also been undertaken to re-align the April 2008 figures with the revised DEFRA organizational structure as at April 2009 and with an increased scope for the footprint that now includes telephony. This has established a footprint for 2007-08 of:

(a) 12.3 million kwH

(b) Costing £1.11 million

(c) Emitting 6.4 ktonnes CO_2

A breakdown of the above figures by device type is not currently available but a breakdown of energy consumption in million kwH is provided as follows of the broad device categories that were assessed i.e. work space assets used in the office, and data space assets e.g. servers and network assets used in the office and in off-site data centres.

Million kwH

	Original 2008 footprint study	Re-aligned 2008 footprint	2009 footprint
Office space	2.6	2.8	2.9
Data space	9.4	9.5	9.6
Total	12.0	12.3	12.5

Departmental Rail Travel

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what guidance his Department has issued to its staff on claims for travel in first class carriages on trains if there are no seats in standard class. [268443]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Rules relating to travel claims are set out in the Civil Service Management Code, which can be accessed at:

http://beta.civilservice.gov.uk/about/work/codes/csmc/index.aspx

DEFRA's travel policy is that staff are discouraged from travel in first class carriages on trains if the journey is less than 2.5 hours in duration. An upgrade is permitted when it is not possible to reserve a seat in standard class and no standard class seat is available.

All staff are encouraged to book tickets for travel at the earliest opportunity in order to obtain travel discounts and travel cost savings.

Elephants: Conservation

Mr. Morley: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent reports he has received of elephant poaching in Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) signatory countries in contravention of CITES. [272851]

Huw Irranca-Davies: I am aware of continuing concerns about elephant poaching and the recent ivory seizure in Vietnam. The UK has helped fund both the Elephant Trade Information System (ETIS) and the Monitoring of Illegal Killing of Elephants (MIKE) programmes under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES). We expect to receive an update on illegal elephant trade at the next Conference of CITES Parties in 2010.

Farmers: Income

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 23 April 2009, Official Report, column 816W, on farmers: income, how many farm businesses had an income of less than £10,000 in 2007-08. [273351]

Jane Kennedy: The following table shows the estimated number of farms with a Farm Business Income[1] (FBI) of less than £10,000 since 2003-04, based on the sample of farms included within the Farm Business Survey. Farm Business Income is the preferred measure of income but is not available for earlier years. Equivalent data are therefore also shown for Net Farm Income[2] (NFI) for the entire period.

	Number of farms with less than £10,000 FBI	Number of farms with less than £10,000 NFI
1997-98	n/a	34,000
1998-99	n/a	37,500
1999-2000	n/a	36,500
2000-01	n/a	35,500
2001-02	n/a	30,500
2002-03	n/a	28,500
2003-04	17,500	22,500
2004-05	22,000	27,500
2005-06	21,500	28,500
2006-07	20,000	26,000
2007-08	15,500	21,500

Source:
Farm Business Survey, England[3]

[1] Farm Business Income represents the financial return to all unpaid labour (farmers and spouses, non-principal partners and directors and their spouses and family workers) and on all their capital invested in the farm business, including land and buildings.

[2] Net Farm Income is defined as the return to the principal farmer and spouse alone for their manual and managerial labour and on the tenant type capital of the business. An imputed rent is deducted for owner-occupied farms as is a charge for other unpaid labour.

[3] The Farm Business Survey sample covers businesses with a Standard Labour Requirement (SLR) of at least 0.5, i.e. a size considered sufficient to occupy a farmer for at least half their working time.

Flood Control

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs if he will publish the programme of measures to be undertaken by individual water companies to secure critical infrastructure from flood risk; and what the (a) start and (b) expected end date of each such project is. [272692]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Water companies submitted their final business plans to Ofwat on 7 April. These plans included proposals to secure critical infrastructure from flood risk. Summaries of individual companies' plans, and web links to the full plans, can be accessed via the Ofwat website:

www.ofwat.gov.uk/pricereview/pr09phase3/sub_fbp_pr09partasumm

Ofwat is currently scrutinising these plans ahead of issuing draft determinations of water price limits for consultation in July.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with (a) water companies and (b) Ofwat on programmes to protect critical infrastructure from flood risk. [272693]

Huw Irranca-Davies: I received a joint briefing from Ofwat, the Environment Agency, Natural England and the Drinking Water Inspectorate on 27 April on water and sewerage companies' final business plans, which were submitted to Ofwat on 7 April. This included discussions on resilience.

Ofwat is currently scrutinising companies' final business plans ahead of issuing draft determinations of water price limits for comment in July.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what assessment he has made of the current level of risk from flooding to critical infrastructure of (a) reservoirs and dams, (b) electricity sub-stations, (c) gas power stations, (d) pumping stations and (e) other critical infrastructure. [272694]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Natural Hazards Team, charged with co-ordinating efforts to identify and counter risks to national infrastructure from natural hazards, has now been established in the Civil Contingencies Secretariat in the Cabinet Office.

The team's first priority will be to assess the vulnerability to flood risk of key elements of the national infrastructure, which includes energy and water assets. This information will be used to prioritise flood resilience building in the national infrastructure. This work is expected to be completed in July 2009 and be published in sector resilience plans, along with proposed resilience measures, by the end of 2009.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent representations he has received on the works required to protect critical infrastructure from flooding; and if he will make a statement. [272695]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA Ministers and officials maintain regular contact with water companies and representative bodies on a range of issues. This includes discussions concerning the resilience of critical infrastructure from flooding.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects the latest Environment Agency maps of flood risk areas to be published. [273131]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Environment Agency provides local updates of flood risk maps on its website on a quarterly basis. The latest update took place on 26 March 2009.

The Environment Agency plans to publish the latest national flood risk assessment information on its website in the spring. This will provide a major upgrade to the Environment Agency's flood risk maps.

Floods: Insurance

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions his Department has had with the Association of British Insurers on development in flood risk areas; and if he will make a statement. [273226]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Secretary of State has not had any formal meetings with the Association of British Insurers (ABI) recently. However, he was present at the recent launch of the draft Flood and Water Management Bill on 21 April at the Flood Forecasting Centre, along with ABI representatives.

I have had two recent meetings with ABI. I met with Stephen Haddrill on 10 March, and was then invited to give a keynote address at the recent ABI event in the House of Commons on 28 April.

DEFRA officials regularly meet with ABI representatives to discuss progress against commitments made under the ABI Statement of Principles on the Provision of Flood Insurance.

Hill Farming

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate his Department has made of the average age of a hill farmer. [273419]

Jane Kennedy: The latest information we have available indicates that in 2007 the average age of a farm holder in the Less Favoured Areas (LFAs) in England was 59 years.

These data are sourced from the 2007 EU Farm Structure Survey.

Oil: Waste Disposal

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department has had discussions at EU level on the implications for the implementation of the provisions of the Environmental Permitting (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 in respect of the status of waste oil of the ruling of the (a) European Court of Justice in the case of ARCO Chemie in 2000 and (b) Court of Appeal in the case of OSS Group v. Environment Agency in 2007; and if he will make a statement. [272835]

Jane Kennedy: The Arco Chemie case is discussed in the "Interpretative Communication on waste and by-products" published by the European Commission on 21 February 2007. The UK participated in the written consultation which the Commission carried out with member states on a draft of that communication.

DEFRA has not to date had discussions at EU level on the case of the OSS Group v. Environment Agency. With the aim of fulfilling the Appeal Court's judgment in that case, the Environment Agency carried out a public consultation on an end-of-waste protocol for "the production and use of processed fuel oil from waste lubricating oil". On conclusion of the Agency's consideration of the responses to that consultation, the Government will submit a post-consultation draft of the protocol to the European Commission, and other member states, in compliance with the Technical Standards Directive (98/34/EC).

Recycling

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what research his Department has carried out into the effectiveness of local authority recycling schemes; and if he will make a statement. [273242]

Jane Kennedy: Neither DEFRA nor the Waste and Resources Action Programme has undertaken any research into the effectiveness of local authorities' recycling schemes.

Renewable Energy: Waste

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many end of waste cases have been submitted to the Environment Agency since January 2007; which manufacturers have had their product certified as having reached end of waste by the Environment Agency since that date; and if he will make a statement. [272176]

Jane Kennedy: The Environment Agency and the DEFRA-funded Waste and Resources Action Programme (WRAP) are working to develop 'end of waste' quality protocols that can identify when certain waste materials can be considered to be 'recovered' and no longer subject to waste management controls.

Since January 2007, 17 waste materials have been included in the programme. To date, quality protocols have been fully developed and published for two materials; compost from source-segregated biodegradable waste, and the production of cullet from waste flat glass.

The Environment Agency and WRAP do not certify products produced by manufacturers, but provide a framework for manufacturers to follow which will enable them to state with confidence that the material produced is no longer waste.

Lynne Featherstone: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs at what level of rated thermal input a Part 1A permit is required under the Environmental Permitting Regulations 2007 for the combustion of (a) fuel manufactured from waste, (b) fuel manufactured from waste which has attained an End of Waste certificate, (c) diesel and (d) hazardous waste; and if he will make a statement. [272177]

Jane Kennedy: The relevant thresholds are given in schedule 1, part 2, of the Environmental Permitting (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 and are as follows:

(a) Fuel manufactured from waste

Section 1.1 Part A(1) (a) 50 MW

Section 1.1 Part A(1) (b) 3-50 MW.

The relevant section will be dependent upon the specific type of material being burnt.

(b) Fuel manufactured from waste which has obtained an end of waste certificate

The term 'end of waste certificate' is not used in the 2007 regulations. There is, therefore, no threshold set in the 2007 regulations for this type of fuel.

(c) Diesel

Section 1.1 Part A(1) (a) 50 MW.

(d) Hazardous waste

The burning of 'hazardous waste' would fall under section 5.1 which does not refer to 'rated thermal input'. The thresholds in this section are based on tonnages of waste; however, it should be noted that for the burning of hazardous waste there is no "de minimis".

Rural Development Programme

Mr. Paice: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 674W, on agriculture: subsidies, how much funding has been allocated under Axis 3 of the Rural Development Programme England 2007-2013 to village renewal and development to date. [270896]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Since the Rural Development Programme for England (RDPE) was formally approved in December 2007, £4.03 million has been allocated (i.e. committed to projects or programmes of investment) under axis 3 of the Rural Development Programme for England 2007-13 to village renewal and development.[1]

Sea Level

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department has made predictions of changes in sea levels over the next 50 years. [270781]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Climate change is projected to increase the frequency, variability and magnitude of flooding and coastal erosion in the UK. The DEFRA funded UK Climate Impacts Programme published scenarios in 2002 which included a range of relative sea level rise of between 9 cm and 69 cm over a 50-year period.

Following this, DEFRA published revised supplementary guidance to operating authorities in 2006 with allowances that varied over time as well as location. This amounted to between 30 cm and 40 cm of relative sea level rise, depending on location, for the period between 1990 and 2055. DEFRA's supplementary guidance also indicated that by 2100, relative sea levels could rise between 79 cm and 98 cm, depending on location.

The Environment Agency, working with the Met Office Hadley Centre, has developed projections of sea level rise for the Thames Estuary 2100 project. This suggested that relative sea levels in the Thames estuary are likely to rise by between 20 cm and 88 cm, by 2100.

The UK Climate Projections 2009, expected to be launched shortly, will include a Marine Report providing information on possible future sea level rise and surge.

Lembit Öpik: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate his Department has made of the effects on the economy of expected changes in sea levels in the next 10 years; and if he will make a statement. [270785]

Huw Irranca-Davies: We do not expect significant sea level rise within the next 10 years. DEFRA's supplementary guidance on climate change impacts for flood and coastal operating authorities estimates that between now and 2019, sea levels could rise by between 25 mm and 40 mm along English and Welsh coastlines, depending on location.

The UK Climate Projections, due to be launched in summer 2009 (UKCP09), will provide data on a range of climate variables, such as temperature and precipitation. The marine report also includes sea level rise and storm surge projections up to 2099 for three emissions scenarios. DEFRA will be reviewing its supplementary guidance in the light of UKCP09.

DEFRA is conducting a UK climate change risk assessment and adaptation economic analysis (CCRA and AEA) of the impacts of climate change. This will assess current and future vulnerability to a range of climate variables, including sea level rise, and quantify the risks and opportunities of these impacts across sectors, such as agriculture, water and the built environment. The CCRA and AEA will provide products to HM Government, Northern Ireland, Scotland and Wales to:

Understand the level of risk (likelihood and scale of impact) and compare the risk of a changing climate with other pressures on the Government;

Prioritise adaptation policy geographically and by sector; and

Assess the costs and benefits of adaptation actions and support the case for resources for these.

The CCRA and AEA project is due to start in summer 2009 and is due to report to Parliament by January 2012 (as required by the Climate Change Act 2008).

Water

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether he has had recent discussions with representatives of water companies on the potential need for hosepipe bans in the next six months. [273413]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA Ministers have not had any discussions recently with representatives of water companies on the need for hosepipe bans in the next six months. Water companies have powers to impose temporary hosepipe bans without recourse to Ministers.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Equality and Human Rights Commission: Pay

Mr. Paul Goodman: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what the (a) pay band and (b) cash equivalent transfer value is of each member of the senior management board at the Equality and Human Rights Commission; and if she will make a statement. [268591]

Maria Eagle: The information asked for under (a) will be part of the Equality and Human Rights Commission's annual report and accounts for the transition period of October 2007 to March 2008. The Commission intend that the annual report is laid before Parliament before the summer recess.

The cash equivalent transfer value information (b) will also appear in the remuneration report section of the annual report and accounts.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Apprentices:

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) how many new apprenticeship places in the agriculture sector have been created in the last 12 months; [272960]

(2) how many new apprenticeship places in the retail sector have been created in the last 12 months. [272961]

Mr. Simon: There were 4,500 apprenticeship starts in 2007-08 in the 'agriculture, horticulture and animal care' sector subject area, the latest academic year for which full year information is available.

There were 49,300 apprenticeship starts in 2007-08 in the 'Retail and Commercial Enterprise' Sector Subject Area, the latest academic year for which full year information is available.

The Government are committed to rebuilding apprenticeships. Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 65,000 to a record 225,000 apprenticeship starts in 2007-08. Completion rates are also at a record high with 64 per cent. successfully completing an apprenticeship—up from 37 per cent. in 2004-05.

Further Education: Overseas Students

Mr. Soames: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many further educational establishments accepted non-EU students in the last year for which information is available; how many further education establishments were inspected in the latest year for which information is available; and how many failed that inspection. [272384]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 5 May 2009]: DIUS does not collect information on the number of further education establishments who accept non-EU students. However, data returned to the Data Service show that there were 392 FE establishments with non-EU domiciled learners undertaking some form of further education in the 2007-08 academic year. This is based on country of domicile information (the country where the learner has been ordinarily resident for the three years preceding the start of the programme).

Ofsted data show that 95 LSC-funded general further education and sixth form colleges were inspected by Ofsted between April 2008 and March 2009. Of these, the published results show that five colleges were graded inadequate for overall effectiveness and are therefore judged to have failed inspection.

Research Councils: Finance

Adam Afriyie: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what guidance his Department has issued to the research councils on the expenditure of money which they save as a result of the value for money savings identified in the Budget 2009. [273121]

Mr. Lammy: The Department has given no instructions to the research councils.

The Research Councils have told us that they have revised their plans for value-for-money efficiencies for CSR07 which has resulted in the collective target for 2010-11 increasing from £243 million to £349 million. The resulting money is to be reinvested by the Research Councils in priorities to be identified by the Research Councils.

On 6 April, the Research Councils made public areas their initial views on areas for focus:

Green economy
Life science sector (including health and food)
Digital economy
High-value manufacturing systems and services
Cultural and creative industries

Vocational Training

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people have completed training funded by his Department in each month since June 2007; and if he will make a statement. [272649]

Mr. Simon: In the 2007-08 academic year 2,960,300 people achieved at least one qualification funded by the Learning and Skills Council. This includes qualifications achieved through study at a Further Education provider, and those achieved through an Apprenticeship or Train to Gain programme.

Data on the number of people achieving a qualification are only published on an academic year basis. The latest provisional estimate of mid-year performance (1 August to 31 January) for the 2008-09 academic year shows that 49,100 learners completed an apprenticeship, and 152,000 learners achieved a qualification through the Train to Gain programme.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Children in Care: Mentally Ill

Lyn Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what provision the Government has made for children in care with chronic and severe mental health disorders; and if he will make a statement. [272571]

Beverley Hughes: The Government are addressing the problems faced by children in care with chronic or severe mental health needs through a range of measures including taking forward the recommendations of the CAMHS review in relation to vulnerable children and piloting the Multi-dimensional Treatment Foster Care programme for children in care with severe and complex needs. We will shortly be publishing for consultation proposals on promoting the health of looked after children through revised statutory guidance. This will require CAMHS services to provide targeted and specialist services to looked after children where there is an identified local need. Since April 2008 all local authorities have to screen children in care for emotional and behavioural difficulties through use of a Strengths and Difficulties Questionnaire and in partnership with primary care trusts provide support where the screening shows this is necessary.

Children in Care: Personal Records

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families for how long local authorities are required to keep records of children in care. [273286]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Local authorities are required to keep case records for looked after children until the 75th anniversary of the child's date of birth or 15 years from the date of death in the case of a child who dies before reaching the age of 18.

Foundation Schools

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families in what circumstances a foundation school may be closed by a local education authority; what powers he has to prevent such a closure; and if he will make a statement. [273418]

Jim Knight: School place planning is the statutory responsibility of the local authority (LA). This includes making sure there are sufficient school places, and also removing surplus places when this is required. To facilitate this, LAs have the power to propose the closure of any type of maintained mainstream school, including foundation schools.

Where the LA proposes to make any changes to local school provision, including closure, they must follow a statutory process, which is then decided under established local decision making arrangements. Ministers have no direct role in the process.

Decisions are normally taken by the LA. However, in the case of a foundation school closure there are certain rights of appeal. Where they do not agree with a LA's closure decision, the school's governing body, trustees and local Dioceses each have a right of appeal to the independent schools adjudicator, who will then consider the proposals 'afresh'. The adjudicator's decision is final.

Pupils

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the End of Key Stage attainment levels achieved by pupils in schools in England who have been living in the UK for less than two years; and whether such attainment levels are included in results published by schools. [273136]

Jim Knight: We have made no separate assessment of the attainment of these pupils.

Individual pupils recently arrived from overseas with little or no English can be removed at a school's discretion from the data we use for calculations in the Department's Achievement and Attainment Tables, provided they meet all of the following criteria:

(for the 2008 tables) they were admitted to an English school for the first time on, or after, the start of the 2006-07 school year; and they arrived from overseas prior to their admission; and their first language is not English

Schools may present their own performance data in any way they choose i.e. either including or excluding the results of such pupils.

Sixth Form Education: Finance

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much (a) total and (b) transitional protection funding for sixth forms for academic year 2009-10 was identified in letters to sixth forms dated (i) 3 March 2009 and (ii) 30 March 2009. [270390]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the LSC, and they will be writing to the hon. Member shortly. Following the announcement in the Budget of £655 million of additional funding the LSC have written to schools and colleges to give them immediate reassurance that they will receive the funding for the learners they have already planned for and outline the next steps.

Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1148W, on special educational needs, to which departmental capital and revenue funding streams non-maintained special schools have access. [273425]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: For the 2009-10 financial year non-maintained special schools have access to the following funding streams:

Capital

Devolved Formula Capital

Revenue

Schools Standards Grant

School Standards Grant (Personalisation)

Standards Fund

Teacher Threshold Payments

Harnessing Technology Grant

A small number of school are also eligible for School Travel Grant

Sure Start Programme: Leicestershire

Mr. Andy Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funding was allocated for SureStart provision in Leicestershire in (a) 2006-07, (b) 2007-08, (c) 2008-09 and (d) 2009-10. [272491]

Beverley Hughes: The SureStart funding allocated to Leicestershire local authority from 2006-07 to 2009-10 is given in the following table.

	Revenue funding	Capital funding	Total funding
2006-07	720,223	3,571,042	4,291,265
2007-08	1,641,054	8,621,763	10,262,817
2008-09	9,387,852	7,464,637	16,852,489
2009-10	11,448,975	5,139,063	16,588,038
Total	23,198,104	24,796,505	47,994,609

In 2006-07 and 2007-08 Leicestershire local authority chose to pool its revenue funding in a local area agreement which was paid by the Department for Communities and Local Government (CLG, formerly the Office of the Deputy Prime Minister, ODPM) as part of the LAA grant revenue. This funding was not ring fenced to SureStart activities; Leicestershire local authority had the freedom to spend the funding pooled in its local area agreement in line with local priorities. Therefore the allocation shown for 2006-07 and 2007-08 contains only pilot funding and money to transform the early years workforce which was the funding paid through the SureStart grant.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Biofuels

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what estimate he has made of the level of imports of biomass necessary to enable the Government's biomass targets as specified in the Renewable Energy Strategy consultation 2008 to be met. [249618]

Joan Ruddock: In its Consultation on a Renewable Energy Strategy, Government published figures estimating that there is potentially sufficient domestic resource to meet nearly all our modelled bioenergy requirement for heat and electricity in 2020 but we recognise that, as occurs today, it is likely that we will make use of a mix of domestic and imported products.

We are in the process of furthering our understanding of how the biomass market to supply the UK may develop and intend to use this information to inform development of the Renewable Energy Strategy. We will, of course, publish our findings.

Mr. Clifton-Brown: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what the evidential basis is for the statement in paragraph 7.5.35 of the Renewable Energy Strategy consultation 2008 that one of the principal constraints to achieving the infrastructure for biomass envisaged in that paper is public hostility to combustion plant, particularly those burning waste. [249620]

Joan Ruddock: Anecdotal evidence, correspondence received and the Government's experience of challenges to its waste PFI projects demonstrate that there is considerable hostility in some quarters to the combustion of waste. This is a common experience throughout Europe.

Green Neighbourhoods Initiative

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) of 5 March 2009, Official Report, column 1806W, on the Green Neighbourhoods Initiative, for what reasons the scheme is still in development; how much funding will be allocated to the scheme; and what the timetable is for the allocation of funding to participating neighbourhoods. [271283]

Joan Ruddock: Green Neighbourhoods is currently under review. Following the Budget 2009 announcements we anticipate a decision on Green Neighbourhoods being made within the next few weeks.

Renewable Energy: Heating

Mr. Charles Kennedy: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many renewable heating products have been accredited by Ofgem under the Carbon Emissions Reduction Target programme. [272931]

Joan Ruddock: A total of 545 heat pumps and 216 m_2 of solar water heating have so far been installed in the first year of the obligation. All measures are accredited before installation.

TREASURY

Aggregates Levy

Mr. Hands: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how much the Exchequer has received from the aggregates levy in each month since its introduction; [273079]

(2) how many (a) staff and (b) full-time equivalent staff of HM Revenue and Customs work on matters related to the aggregates levy. [273080]

Angela Eagle: Aggregates levy monthly revenue figures are available at this website address:

http://www.uktradeinfo.com/index.cfm?task=Bulletins

No HM Revenue and Customs staff work on aggregates levy matters exclusively. Those that work on the levy have a range of responsibilities.

Bank Services

Kate Hoey: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people in the UK have (a) a basic bank account, (b) a bank account and (c) no bank account. [273085]

Ian Pearson: The Government are committed to reducing financial exclusion and increasing the number of people who can manage their money by using a bank account.

The Family Resources Survey data for 2006-07, published in June last year, show that the number of adults with a basic bank account was around 2.5 million and that the overall number of adults with access to a bank account was 44.6 million. The data also show that the number of adults without access to a bank account fell from 2.8 million in 2002-03 to 2.1 million in 2006-07.

The Financial Inclusion Taskforce recently published its third annual report on access to banking. The report contains profiles of the number of people in the UK without access to a bank account, including commentary and figures for the take up of basic bank accounts. The report is on the Taskforce's website:

http://www.financialinclusion-taskforce.org.uk

Bank Services: Overseas Residence

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what regulatory restrictions exist on the opening of a bank account in the United Kingdom by non-domiciled British citizens. [272725]

Mr. Timms: There are no statutory legal or regulatory restrictions preventing banks from providing services to non-domiciled, or non-resident, British citizens.

Bradford and Bingley

Philip Davies: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what UK Financial Investment's role in the preparation of the most recent Bradford and Bingley Business Plan was; and if he will make a statement. [272836]

Mr. Timms: As set out in the Shareholder Relationship Framework Document which governs the relationship between Bradford and Bingley and HM Treasury as shareholder, HM Treasury designed the high level objectives that the Business Plan is designed to achieve and agreed the Business Plan with the Board.

The Shareholder Relationship Framework document is available at:

www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/bradford_bingley_shareholder_framework.pdf

Business: Government Assistance

Peter Luff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many applications Capital for Enterprise Ltd. has received from banks to join the Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme; and how many such applications (a) have been processed and (b) are outstanding. [259158]

Ian Pearson: In launching the Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme (EFG) all the 31 lenders accredited to deliver the Small Firms Loan Guarantee Scheme (SFLG) were approached to participate in the new scheme.

To date, 26 lenders have migrated across, with the remaining five SFLG lenders either undecided or have decided not to participate in the Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force; [272135]

(2) how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272138]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave on 23 February 2009, Official Report, column 317W, to the hon. Member for Tunbridge Wells (Greg Clark).

Copies of the Advisory Reports and their associated display energy certificates in respect of each property were placed in the Library at that time. The cost of these reports was £5,400.

Economic and Monetary Union

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will place in the Library a copy of the minutes of each meeting the Euro Steering Committee held in the last 24 months. [272776]

Ian Pearson: The last meeting of the Euro Ministers Steering Group was held on 6 June 2007. The Government's policy on membership of the single currency remains unchanged.

Equitable Life Assurance Society: Compensation

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects to be in a position to (a) set a timetable for the opening of the ex-gratia payments scheme for Equitable Life policyholders to receipt of claims, (b) estimate the length of time to be taken for the determination of claims made under that scheme and (c) establish mechanisms for considering disputed claims made under that scheme. [272726]

Ian Pearson: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam (Mr. Burstow) on 16 March 2009, Official Report, column 856W.

EU Emissions Trading Scheme

Mr. Letwin: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what plans he has to allocate future revenues raised through the auctioning of allowances under the (a) second and (b) third phase of the EU Emissions Trading Scheme; and if he will make a statement; [272834]

(2) where revenue raised through the auctioning of allowances from the EU Emissions Trading Scheme is accounted for in (a) the Red Book and (b) general accounts published with the Budget Statement; and if he will make a statement. [272979]

Mr. Timms: Any revenue raised through the use of auctioning is considered as part of general revenue streams, and has already been factored into public finance forecasts. These revenues cannot be allocated as a separate income source without an equivalent reduction to the public finance forecasts. The spending review process ensures that resources are allocated efficiently to deliver Government objectives.

Auction receipts from the EU emissions trading scheme are included in the 'Other taxes and royalties' line in Table C6 in Budget 2009, available at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/Budget2009/bud09_chapterc_463.pdf

and in Table 2.9 of 'Budget 2009: the economy and public finances – supplementary material', available at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/Budget2009/bud09_econfinances_968.pdf

Government Departments: Aviation

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer with reference to OGC buying.solutions contract, reference RM645, which company won the contract for the Government Air Programme; and what the (a) monetary value and (b) duration of the contract is. [272777]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Gentleman to the answer I gave the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude) on 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 985W.

No company has yet won the Framework Agreement for the Government Air Programme. The planned award is set for June 2009.

The Framework Agreement will be awarded for a two-year period with the option to extend for a third year.

Inheritance Tax: Housing

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer at what stage in the process of the payment of inheritance tax the Valuation Office Agency undertakes a valuation of the property forming part of the inherited estate. [272778]

Mr. Timms: It is HM Revenue and Customs' standard practice to seek the advice of the Valuation Office Agency about the value of UK land and buildings where inheritance tax is payable. In the great majority of cases this happens shortly after the inheritance tax papers are received in the operational office following the issue of the grant of probate to the personal representatives of the estate.

Mass Media

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what media appearances (a) he and (b) each other Minister in his Department has made since 1 January 2009. [271170]

Angela Eagle: Treasury Ministers undertake a number of visits, interviews and appearances on a wide range of issues.

The information requested is not collected centrally.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Baron: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Billericay of 27 March 2009 on his constituent, Mr. T. Lewer. [272592]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 5 May 2009]: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Mr. Burns: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Chelmsford of 15 December 2008 concerning his constituent, Ms Pippa Cuckson of Great Leighs, Chelmsford. [273480]

Mr. Timms: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

Pre-Budget Report 2008: Disclosure of Information

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will request the Security Commission to undertake an investigation into the unauthorised disclosure of information relating to taxation measures in the Pre-Budget Report 2008. [272070]

Angela Eagle: It has been the policy of successive Administrations not to comment on the initiation of, content of, or outcome of any such inquiries.

Revenue and Customs: Closures

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment his Department has made of the effect of the implementation of HM Revenue and Customs' (HMRC's) Workforce Change programme on the average yield per annum brought in by an HMRC compliance officer. [273236]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) does not collect the information asked for. Annual yield and yield/cost ratio figures are published in the departmental autumn performance report, available at:

www.hmrc.gov.uk/about/autumn-report-2008.pdf

The implementation of HMRC's Workforce Change programme enables business efficiencies by matching HMRC's staff resources and estate to future business needs. It is one of many factors in HMRC's reorganisation and strategy that together have resulted in a continuous improvement in yield in each of the last three years for which figures are available.

	£ million
2005-06	9,001
2006-07	11,430
2007-08	12,853

Revenue and Customs: Pay

Jim Cousins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many staff are employed on work contracted out by HM Revenue and Customs in (a) each region of England, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales and (d) Northern Ireland; and what percentage in each case are paid less than £7.45 per hour for that work. [273112]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs does not have the information requested.

Royal Mail: VAT

Mr. David Anderson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the implications for Royal Mail of the recent European Court of Justice ruling on value added tax liabilities; and if he will make a statement. [273170]

Mr. Timms: The Government welcome the Court's confirmation that postal services provided by Royal Mail, as the only UK universal service provider, will continue to be exempt from VAT. HM Revenue and Customs are considering the implications of the judgment in detail.

Tax Allowances: Pensions

Dr. Cable: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what proportion of tax relief on pension contributions goes to (a) basic and (b) higher rate taxpayers. [257646]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 23 February 2009]: A break down of tax relief on individual and employee contributions broken down by the individual's marginal tax rate is provided in the following table:

Marginal income tax rate	Percentage of tax relief
Higher rate	65
Those that would be higher rate without the tax relief	5
Others	30

Note:
This distribution is based on 2006-07 Survey of Personal Incomes data that has been adjusted to account for the 2008-09 tax rates. Figures have been rounded to the nearest 5 per cent.

It is not possible to provide such a breakdown for employer contributions.

Tax Allowances: Personal Pensions

Mr. Gregory Campbell: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much income tax relief was payable in respect of personal pension contributions for income taxed at (a) 40 per cent. and (b) 20 per cent. in 2006-07. [250200]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 22 January 2009]: The amount of income tax relief at the basic rate in respect of personal pension contributions was estimated to be £790 million in 2006-07. The amount of income tax relief in respect of those taxed at the higher rate was £2,430 million in 2006-07.

These figures have been rounded to the nearest £10 million and relate to contributions by employees and the self-employed only. They are based on 2006-07 survey data. It is not possible to provide such a breakdown for employer contributions.

Tax Allowances: Personal Savings

Harry Cohen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer for what reason the higher annual ISA investment limit will be available only to those aged 50 years and above for the tax year 2009-10. [272831]

Ian Pearson: The Government recognise that low interest rates, which are benefiting many people with mortgages, have meant that savers have seen their return from savings fall. In particular, this has affected people who are retired, or are beginning to prepare for retirement, who are more reliant on their savings income to meet day-to-day needs or fund discretionary purchases.

As announced in Budget 2009, the Government are therefore taking targeted action now to help people aged 50 and over with their savings. The ISA limits are being raised for those aged 50 and over from 2009-10, enabling them to move more of their savings into a tax-advantaged ISA, rewarding those who have saved by improving their returns.

The Government also recognise that people need to be supported to save as the economy emerges from the downturn, and therefore the ISA limits will increase to the same level for all savers from April 2010.

Taxation: Bingo

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what assessment he has made of the effect on the bingo industry of the changes to taxation announced in the 2009 Budget; [272846]

(2) what estimate he has made of the net change in revenue to the Exchequer from changes to the taxation of bingo clubs announced in the 2009 Budget. [272847]

Angela Eagle: The estimated revenue impacts of the changes to the taxation of bingo are set out in Table A1 of the 2009 Financial Statement and Budget Report. The revenue impacts of the relevant Budget measures are shown in the following table.

£ million, + or - to an Exchequer yield

		Indexed			Non-indexed
Measure number	Description	2009-10	2010-11	2011-12	2009-10
47	Gambling participation fees removal of VAT	-50	-55	-60	-50
49	Bingo duty: increase rate to 22 per cent.	+ 35	+ 35	+ 35	+ 35

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much accrued to the Exchequer in taxes on gross profits made by the bingo industry in each of the last five years. [272941]

Angela Eagle: HM Revenue and Customs publishes receipts from bingo duty on the UKTradeInfo website:
https://www.uktradeinfo.com/index.cfm.?task=bullbett

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer with reference to Table A1 of the Budget

2009 Red Book, item 49, how much HM Treasury received in value added tax from the bingo industry in each of the last five years. [273293]

Angela Eagle: HM Revenue and Customs does not collect data on VAT from individual goods and services.

However, it is possible to estimate the amount of VAT paid by the bingo industry based on bingo duty receipts. In 2008-09, the bingo industry is estimated to have paid around £65 million in VAT on bingo participation fees.

Taxation: Pensioners

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) with reference to the answer of 11 February 2004, Official Report, columns 1490-1W, on pensions (tax relief), if he will estimate the amount of tax relief on pension contributions provided in each financial year since 2003-04 (a) in total and (b) for (i) higher rate taxpayers and (ii) basic rate taxpayers; [264994]

(2) if he will estimate the number of taxpayers receiving pension tax relief at the (a) higher and (b) basic rate in each year since 2003-04; and what percentage of all taxpayers below state pension age these figures represent in each case. [264896]

Ian Pearson: Estimates of total tax relief on pension contributions from 1998-99 to 2007-08 can be found at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/pensions/table7-9.pdf

Estimates of relief attributable and number of taxpayers receiving relief by marginal rate are only available for employee and individual contributions. These estimates, along with the proportion of taxpayers receiving relief, are given in the following tables.

It is not possible to provide such a breakdown for employer contributions.

Table 1: Total amount of tax relief and higher rate relief

			Higher rate
	Total amount of tax relief (£ million)	Amount of tax relief at HR (£ million)	Number in receipt (thousand)	Number receiving as a proportion of all taxpayers—below SPA only (percentage)
2003-04	5,400	2,700	2,200	9
2004-05	5,700	3,200	2,400	9
2005-06	6,600	3,800	2,500	9
2006-07	7,500	4,700	2,800	11
2007-08	7,800	4,900	2,900	11

Table 2: Total amount of tax relief and non-higher rate relief

			Non-higher rate
	Total amount of tax relief (£ million)	Amount of tax relief at BR (£ million)	Number in receipt (thousand)	Number receiving as a proportion of taxpayers—below SPA only (percentage)
2003-04	5,400	2,600	11,500	48
2004-05	5,700	2,500	10,700	42
2005-06	6,600	2,800	9,800	37
2006-07	7,500	2,800	12,100	46
2007-08	7,800	2,900	12,200	46

Notes:

1. Figures up to 2006-07 are based on the Survey of Personal Incomes in that year.
2. Figures for 2007-08 are based on the Survey of Personal Incomes in 2006-07 projected forward one year in line with pre-Budget 2008 report.
3. Figures for the amount of tax relief have been rounded to the nearest £100 million.
4. Figures for the number in receipt have been rounded to the nearest 100,000.
5. While the total amount of relief and number in receipt includes some individuals over state pension age, these individuals have been excluded from the final column showing the number receiving as a proportion of taxpayers below state pension age.

Valuation Office: Conferences

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Brentwood and Ongar (Mr. Pickles) of 9 February 2009, Official Report, columns 1629-30W, on Valuation Office: overseas visits, if he will place in the Library a copy of the presentation and handouts produced by the representative of the Valuation Office Agency at the (a) Russian Society of Appraisers Conference in Moscow, (b) European Valuers Conference in Warsaw and (c) International Property Tax Institute Conference in Beijing. [272966]

Mr. Timms: A copy of the presentations for (a) and (c) will be placed in the Library.

I would refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Bromley and Chislehurst (Robert Neill) on 12 November 2008, Official Report, column 1262W regarding (b).

Welfare Tax Credits

Mr. Allen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he expects the HM Revenue and Customs investigation into the tax credit case of the constituent of the hon. Member for Nottingham North, Mrs. Carmen Angus, to be concluded. [272796]

Mr. Timms: I am not able to publish details of an individual's dealings with HMRC.

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to publish statistics on the take-up rates for (a) child and (b) working tax credit for (i) 2006-07 and (ii) 2007-08. [273424]

Mr. Timms: The 2006-07 take-up rates for child and working tax credit have been published on the HMRC website at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/personal-tax-credits/cwtc-take-up.htm

The 2007-08 take-up rates are planned to be published in spring 2010.

Welfare Tax Credits: Eligibility

Mr. Allen: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether his Department has measures in place to give financial assistance to vulnerable families on low incomes pending the outcome of investigations into tax credit eligibility. [272795]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs will make manual payments of tax credits in exceptional circumstances to prevent hardship, or where a claimant is temporarily out of payment.

Related guidance is available on the Department's website at:

www.hmrc.gov.uk/manuals/ntcmanual/payment_direct/ntc0403100.htm

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Death: Gamma Butyrolactone

Mr. Evans: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many death certificates issued in each of the last three years ascribed the primary cause of death to the use of gamma butyrolactone. [272886]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the Authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many death certificates issued in each of the last three years ascribed the primary cause of death to the use of gamma butyrolactone. (272886)

Gamma butyrolactone (GBL) is a precursor chemical that is rapidly converted to gamma hydroxybutyrate (GHB) when ingested into the human body. Consequently, it is not possible to provide reliable figures on deaths related to GBL separately from deaths involving GHB, as it is not possible to separately identify these substances at post mortem.

The table attached provides the number of deaths where the underlying cause was drug poisoning and GHB was mentioned anywhere on the death certificate, either alone or together with other substances, in England and Wales, from 2005 to 2007 (the latest year available). GBL was specifically mentioned on the death certificate in one of these deaths.

Where more than one drug is mentioned on the death certificate, it is not always possible to tell which of them was primarily responsible for the death.

Table 1. Number of deaths attributed to drug poisoning[1] where gamma hydroxybutyrate (GHB) was mentioned on the death certificate, England and Wales[2], 2005 to 2007[3]

Deaths

	Gamma hydroxybutyrate only	Gamma hydroxybutyrate and other substances	Total mentions of gamma hydroxybutyrate
2005	2	2	4
2006	4	3	7
2007	3	6	9

[1] Cause of death was defined using the International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10). Deaths were included where the underlying cause was due to drug poisoning (shown in box 1 below) and where gamma hydroxybutyrate was mentioned on the death certificate.

[2] Figures for England and Wales include deaths of non-residents.

[3] Figures are for deaths registered in each calendar year.

Box 1. International Classification of Diseases, Tenth Revision (ICD-10) codes used to define drug-related poisoning deaths by underlying cause

Description	ICD-10
Mental and behavioural disorders due to drug use (excluding alcohol and tobacco)	F11-F16, F18-F19
Accidental poisoning by drugs, medicaments and biological substances	X40-X44
Intentional self-poisoning by drugs, medicaments and biological substances	X60-X64
Assault by drugs, medicaments and biological substances	X85
Poisoning by drugs, medicaments and biological substances, undetermined intent	Y10-Y14

Departmental ICT

Nadine Dorries: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster (1) how much the Cabinet Office has spent on the provision of information communications technology for 10 Downing Street in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement; [271090]

(2) how much the Cabinet Office has spent on information communications technology training for staff based in 10 Downing Street in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [271091]

Mr. Watson: The Prime Minister's Office (PMO) is an integral part of the Cabinet Office, and the spending of the PMO on information communication technology (ICT) would be included in that of the Cabinet Office.

ICT spend and ICT training for the Cabinet Office can be separated into two distinct areas:

(1) Regular spending on ICT and ICT training for staff. This includes such activities as maintaining hardware and training new staff members in the use of the Cabinet Office systems. The overall spending on ICT during 2007-08 is contained in the 'Cabinet Office Annual Report and Accounts 2007-2008'. The annual report is available at http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/about_the_cabinet_office/reports.aspx

and is in the Library. Providing information on regular ICT spend in earlier years can be done only at disproportionate cost.

(2) Project spending on ICT and ICT training for staff. ICT projects that will require trained staff will include the cost of that training within their budgets. For a list of major ICT projects since 2005 I refer the hon. Member for Mid-Bedfordshire to my response given to the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude) on 3 March 2009, Official Report, column 1449W. The costs given include the cost of training where training was necessary. Information on the costs of training alone or on the costs of ICT work between 1997 and 2005 are available only at disproportionate cost.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to the answer of 3 March 2009, Official Report, column 1449W, on Government Departments: ICT, which major IT project initiated by his Department is behind schedule; and for what reason. [271946]

Mr. Watson: The project to upgrade the IT desktop system across the Department is behind schedule. The system is currently in its pilot stage which has been extended until functionality and performance have been proven.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether the Cabinet Office post of head of public engagement is a new post; whether the post will be part of the Government Communications Network; and what the job specification of the post is. [271960]

Mr. Watson: The Cabinet Office does not have a head of public engagement nor does it have plans to recruit one.

Departmental Pay

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether staff in 10 Downing Street are eligible for bonus payments. [272018]

Mr. Watson: The Prime Minister's Office is an integral part of the Cabinet Office.

An element of the Cabinet Office's overall pay award is allocated to non-consolidated variable pay related to performance. These payments are used to drive high performance and form part of the pay award for members of staff who demonstrate exceptional performance, for example, by exceeding targets set or meeting challenging objectives.

Government Departments: Temporary Employment

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster which provisions of the Government's compact with contractors and trade unions have been implemented. [272011]

Mr. Watson: Government have been implementing the joint statement on Access to Skills, Trade Unions and Advice in Government Contracting since its launch in July 2008. The implementation of the joint statement is subject to ongoing review by the Public Services Forum.

Ministers: Aviation

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the tonnage of carbon dioxide emissions from non-scheduled flights undertaken by (a) the Prime Minister and (b) other Ministers in (i) 2006-07 and (ii) 2007-08. [273333]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested by the right hon. and learned Member cannot be separately identified by the Cabinet Office. To seek to identify the information requested would require a detailed analysis of the management information provided by the Department's travel contractors. The Department estimates obtaining this information would exceed the disproportionate cost threshold.

Non-profit Making Associations: Hertfordshire

Mike Penning: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the recession on not-for-profit organisations in (a) Hemel Hempstead and (b) Hertfordshire. [272791]

Kevin Brennan: The Office of the Third Sector (OTS) is working with key partners to understand the impact of the economic downturn on third sector organisations. At present the available evidence is incomplete and somewhat inconsistent, indicating it is too soon since the start of the downturn to fully evaluate the impact on the sector at a national or constituency level.

The Government continue to take the difficulties many third sector organisations face during this recession very seriously, which is why the £42.5 million package announced in "Real help for Communities: Volunteers, Charities and Social Enterprises" provides targeted help for the sector to face these challenges. This package of support was designed together with third sector leaders and took into account submissions from over 80 charities. This action plan builds on the wide range of measures the Government have put in place to support people through the economic downturn, and on the Government's long-term commitment to voluntary organisations and social enterprises.

The OTS will continue to monitor this situation closely and work with its partners to share evidence on this issue and will host a sector-wide summit on the economic downturn in June. In addition, the Third Sector Research Centre will also be factoring the impact of the downturn into its analysis of the sector.

Unemployment

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many people aged between 16 and 24 years old have never been employed. [273314]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many people aged between 16 and 24 years old have never been employed. (273314)

For the three month period October to December 2008, it is estimated that 2.2 million people aged 16 to 24 had never been in employment, apart from casual or holiday work.

The estimate is derived from the Labour Force Survey (LFS) using the latest data available (October-December 2008). As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty. In sampling error terms the above estimate is considered to be precise as the coefficient of variation (CV) lies between 0 and 5 per cent. The CV indicates the quality of the estimate, the smaller the CV value the higher the quality.

The estimate has been derived from the LFS microdata which are weighted using the official population estimates published in autumn 2007. Consequently the estimate is not entirely consistent with the figures published in the monthly Labour Market Statistics First Release, which are weighted using more up-to-date population estimates.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

British Indian Ocean Territory: Environment Protection

Mrs. Moon: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of measures to protect the islands of the British Indian Ocean Territory from the effects of (a) pollution, (b) unsustainable fishing, (c) poaching and (d) habitat degradation; and if he will make a statement. [272040]

Gillian Merron: I have been asked to reply.

The British Indian Ocean Territory (BIOT) is recognised by many scientific authorities as a globally important environmental site where pollutant levels in the waters and marine life are exceptionally low. The BIOT Administration is committed to maintaining and preserving the unique BIOT environment and its environmental adviser pays an annual visit to the Territory to assess the environment and report back to the BIOT Commissioner.

With regards to fishing, BIOT is a member of the Indian Ocean Tuna Commission which works for the conservation and sustainable development of tuna and tuna-like species in the region. Those wishing to fish in BIOT waters are subject to the fisheries (conservation and management) laws of the Territory. Laws are enforced by the Fisheries Protection Officer on board the BIOT patrol vessel, the Pacific Marlin, which regularly patrols BIOT waters.

CDC: Finance

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what funding his Department has allocated to CDC in order to meet the pledge made at the G20 summit to finance the new World Bank Global Trade Liquidity programme; and if he will make a statement. [270064]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Department for International Development (DFID) is not providing CDC with any financial resources for this purpose.

Conflict Prevention: Finance

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 25 March 2009, Official Report, columns 17-19WS, on conflict resources 2009-10, what proportion of the new funding arrangements for conflict prevention is classed as Official Development Assistance (ODA); which programmes are eligible for ODA; and if he will make a statement. [272065]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The amount of Official Development Assistance (ODA) achievable through the Conflict Fund will be determined by the programmes (Africa, South Asia, Middle East, wider Europe, etc.) and the activities they prioritise for funding. Work is still ongoing to finalise the portfolio of projects under each programme and therefore it is not possible at this stage to say how much will be classed as ODA. All five programmes that make up the Conflict Fund will undertake both ODA and non-ODA eligible projects.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force. [272133]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) has not yet incurred any expenditure on an inspection of air conditioning systems in accordance with these regulations. An inspection of the one DFID building affected has been commissioned but has not yet been completed.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the regulations came into force; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272141]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) has one building, our London Headquarters, with an air conditioning system with greater than 250kW of output. We have obtained a Display Energy Certificate for this building as required, but whilst a specific inspection of the air conditioning system has been commissioned, it has not yet been carried out. We will place a copy of the inspection report in the Library of the House as soon as it is available.

Developing Countries: Influenza

Mr. Andrew Mitchell: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what steps his Department is taking to assist developing countries in relation to the global swine influenza outbreak; and if he will make a statement. [273349]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: The Department for International Development (DFID) has provided £20 million to the World Health Organisation (WHO), the United Nations Office for the Co-ordination of Humanitarian Affairs (UN OCHA), the UN Food and Agriculture Organisation (FAO) and the World Bank over the last three years to support influenza pandemic preparedness and response capacity.

As my hon. Friend, (Mr. Michael Foster), announced on 7 May 2009 we have set aside a further £6 million for WHO and UN OCHA in response to the recent outbreak of swine flu.

We have also instructed DFID's network of country offices to discuss the threat with WHO in-country and to consider how we might help to prevent or respond to any outbreak.

We are in close touch with inter-Departmental contingency planning and with WHO and UN OCHA.

Kenya: Administration of Justice

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what assistance his Department provides to support the justice system in Kenya; and whether he plans to increase the level of such assistance to take account of the role of the Kenyan authorities in prosecuting piracy suspects. [272919]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: The Department for International Development (DFID) does not currently provide funding for the Kenyan justice sector, although the UK Government, led by the Ministry of Defence, has provided some bilateral training to Kenyan Government prosecutors in relation to piracy. We are, however, proposing support through the European Commission (EC), using Stability Instrument funds through a large UN Office of Drugs and Crime (UNODC) programme.

The proposed EC assistance would be targeted at the prosecution, police, judicial and prison services, particularly focusing on capacity and logistical shortfalls associated with the trials and detention of piracy suspects. An indicative amount of €1.74 million has been proposed, using the UNODC in Kenya as the implementing partner. We understand that this project is likely to be fully funded by the Commission, which the UK Government very much welcome as appropriate recognition for the efforts being made in Kenya.

Palestinians: Overseas Trade

Mr. McCartney: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what progress has been made on trade and investment in the Palestinian territories since the Palestinian Trade and Investment Forum in December 2008; and if he will make a statement. [273115]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Since the London Business Forum on Trade and Investment in Palestine, there have been a number of positive developments. Palestinian Fairtrade olive oil was launched in February this year and is now on sale in UK supermarkets. This will increase sales of Palestinian olive oil, upon which 100,000 Palestinian families depend for their livelihoods.

The Palestine Britain Business Council has also been established, with the purpose of promoting and facilitating bilateral trade and investment in the Occupied Palestinian Territories. It will hold its next meeting in Ramallah later this month.

UK Trade and Investment (UKTI) is working closely with a range of private sector stakeholders on the follow-up to the London Business Forum and will be supporting both tourism and construction scoping missions to the West Bank over the summer. These will aim to map opportunities in the two sectors and bring them to the attention of British business.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the answer of 12 March 2009, Official Report, column 694W, on trade unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional monetary value of such provision was in 2008-09. [271926]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: An office in each our two main UK buildings is provided for the exclusive use of trades unions. The notional annual value of these rooms, in terms of rent and rates, is £6,600 for 2009-10.

USA

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which meetings he attended on his recent visit to New York; what the subject of each meeting was; and if he will make a statement. [272354]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Details of Ministers' travel are published annually in the Cabinet Office publication "Overseas Travel by Ministers". The most recent version is available in the Library of the House and online at:

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/media/cabinetoffice/propriety_and_ethics/assets/travel_2007_2008.pdf

World Bank

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what funding his Department proposes to allocate to the World Bank as a result of the recent G20 agreement; what proportion of such funding is new money; and from which budgets such allocations will be made. [270399]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Countries represented at the 2 April London Summit agreed that they would make resources available for protecting the poor though the crisis, including through the World Bank's Rapid Social Response Fund. On 15 March I announced that my Department would give £200 million in support of the Fund. Resources to fund this contribution will be managed within agreed Treasury departmental allocations.

Zimbabwe: Asylum

Sammy Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate he has made of the number of Zimbabwean refugees in South Africa (a) in each of the last five years and (b) at the latest date for which figures are available. [272736]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: There are no accurate data on the numbers of Zimbabwean migrants in South Africa. The majority of Zimbabweans have crossed the border into South Africa informally and are thus largely 'invisible' in statistics. Human Rights Watch estimated in 2008 that since 2005 an estimated one to 1.5 million Zimbabweans have fled across the border into South Africa. Of these, the minority have lodged an asylum claim and an even smaller number have received refugee status.

The following table published on 8 March 2009 by the South Africa Department of Home Affairs show the number of Zimbabweans who have applied for political asylum in South Africa since 2000, as well as those granted and refused refugee status.

	New applications (asylum seekers)	Approvals (refugee status approved)	Rejections
2000	8	—	—
2001	31	7	—
2002	225	2	—
2003	3,711	2	18
2004	6,206	22	25
2005	9,419	284	4
2006	18,973	103	1,878
2007	17,667	271	1,623
2008	111,968	Unknown	Unknown
Total	168,208

Sammy Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much humanitarian assistance has been given to support Zimbabwean refugees in South Africa in each of the last five years. [272842]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: In 2008 the Department for International Development (DFID) has provided £690,000 of humanitarian assistance to 10,000 vulnerable migrants and children living in Musina (Limpopo Province) close to the South African and Zimbabwean border; and approximately 40,500 vulnerable migrants who have been displaced due to xenophobic attacks in June 2008 in the Guateng, Kwazulu Natal and Western Cape provinces. While the majority of these vulnerable migrants are Zimbabwean, there are also nationals from other countries (i.e. Angola and Congo) who live in the same areas. Some of these vulnerable migrants may have refugee status, but our humanitarian programmes do not record this data. We are providing a further £738,000 to these groups in the current year. We had no humanitarian spend in South Africa between 2004 and 2007.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Children In Care

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which local authorities have children or young people in their care who are in placements outside the authority area; and how many young people in the case of each authority are so placed. [271340]

Beverley Hughes: Information about the location of placements of looked after children and whether they are placed inside or outside of their local authority area can be found on the DCSF statistics website at the following link:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000810/index.shtml

The required information is set out in Tables LAA18 and LAA19. These are in EXCEL format in the third set of additional tables on the above website.

Departmental Advertising

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much has been spent by his Department on advertising in the last 12 months. [243723]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Promotional campaigns, including those using advertising, are funded from the Department's central Advertising and Publicity Budget and from individual programme budgets held by policy directorates.

Advertising is part of a full integrated promotional campaign. The question refers specifically to advertising and we have been able to separate the Department's spend on advertising, as this is centrally placed through the Central Office of Information.

The cost of recruitment advertising for the department has not been included as it is not possible to establish a definitive figure, except at disproportionate expense.

The Department's advertising spend and that of its predecessor (DFES) since April 2007 is set out as follows, with a breakdown of individual campaigns. All figures exclude VAT.

[1]2008/09 figures refer to costs invoiced to date and not actual DCSF spend.

Departmental Voluntary Work

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his Department's policy is on its staff undertaking voluntary work; and what estimate he has made of the number of such staff who undertook voluntary work in the last 12 months. [272496]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department believes that volunteering is important to enable staff to engage with communities they serve and have a better understanding of local issues to help deliver the Children's Plan.

The Department has a well established policy to encourage all staff to volunteer on a regular and sustained basis. The Department has an annual 10 per cent. target of staff volunteering. The Department's recent Staff Survey showed that up to 317 of staff have volunteered in the last 12 months (13 per cent. of those who responded). The Department encourages staff to volunteer by regularly advertising national and local opportunities on the Department's intranet and local communication channels; there are also local volunteering contacts on all of the Department's sites in Darlington, Sheffield, Runcorn and London.

Food

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families if he will make an estimate of the (a) monetary value and (b) quantity of waste food disposed of from his Department's premises in the last 12 months. [273442]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF) does not currently record the amount of food waste that is generated at each of our buildings. This is included within our overall land fill statistics. Separate records are kept for all other waste streams that are recycled, for example paper, glass, plastics and cans. Discussions are under way with our catering and waste management providers as to how the DSCF can reduce or eliminate the amount of food waste that is sent to landfill.

Grandparents: Parental Responsibility

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent research his Department has (a) undertaken and (b) commissioned on the attitudes of grandparents to providing childcare support for their grandchildren. [273816]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Officials from the Department for Children, Schools and Families reviewed the literature around the attitudes of grandparents providing child care support for their grandchildren, as part of the work to develop the strategy document "Next Steps for Early Learning and Childcare" (published January 2009).

Later this year we will hold a consultation event with grandparents and grandparents' interest groups to update the position on support grandparents need from services.

Primary Education

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of primary school places required in England for children (a) one of whose parents is non-UK born, (b) who were born abroad and (c) whose first language is not English in each year from 2009-31. [273993]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Local authorities are responsible for planning the supply of school places in their area and must ensure provision is responsive to local circumstances and needs. When projecting future demand for places we expect authorities to take account of factors that will have an impact on future pupil numbers, such as changes in the immigrant population—including children born abroad to a non-UK parent and whose first language is not English.

Pupil Exclusions

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many pupils were excluded from school before they were due to sit GCSE examinations in (a) the UK, (b) England, (c) the North East and (d) Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland constituency in each year since 2005. [268361]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Information is not available in the form requested.

The available information on the number of pupils aged 15, in secondary and special schools, who received a permanent exclusion or one or more fixed period exclusions in England, the North East and Middlesbrough local authority area is shown in the table.

Comparable figures for 2005 are not available because in 2005-06 information on fixed period exclusions was collected from secondary schools only.

Information on exclusions in the UK is not collected by the Department. Information relating to Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland are available from the Welsh Assembly Government, Scottish Government and Northern Ireland Department of Education, respectively.

To provide data at constituency level would incur disproportionate cost

Secondary and special schools[1,2]: Number of pupil enrolments aged 15 who received a permanent exclusion or one or more fixed period exclusions[3,4]: England 2006-07

	Number
Middlesbrough LA	170
North East	1,790
England	39,110

[1] Includes maintained secondary schools, city technology colleges and academies (including all-through academies).
[2] Includes maintained and non maintained special schools. Excludes general hospital schools.
[3] Pupils who were aged 15 on 31 August 2006.
[4] Some pupils will have more than one enrolment and will be counted more than once, if they are registered at more than one school or moved schools during the year.
Figures have been rounded to the nearest 10.

The Department's exclusions guidance sets out those governing bodies must review all permanent exclusions from their school, and fixed period exclusions that would result in a pupil missing a public examination. It also states that the governing body should try to meet before the date of the examination, or if exceptionally this is not practical, that the chair of governors—using his or her powers to act in an emergency—may consider the exclusion and decide whether or not to reinstate the pupil. Where a pupil is excluded, depending on the nature and seriousness of the exclusion, the governing body/management committee may exercise its discretion to allow an excluded pupil on the premises for the sole purpose of taking a public examination.

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what powers head teachers in maintained schools have to permanently exclude pupils. [271351]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Section 52 of the Education Act 2002 gives head teachers the power to exclude pupils for a fixed period or permanently, on disciplinary grounds.

Departmental guidance sets out the procedures to be followed, and explains that the decision to exclude a pupil permanently should be taken only in response to serious breaches of the school's behaviour policy, and if allowing the pupil to remain in school would seriously harm the education or welfare of the pupil or others in the school.

Pupils: Absenteeism

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what percentage of gifted and talented pupils were persistent absentees in the latest period for which figures are available. [268485]

Primary, secondary and special schools[1,2]: Persistent absentees within the gifted and talented cohort[3,4] England 2007-08

Number of gifted and talented enrolments[5]	Number of gifted and talented enrolments who are persistent absentees	Percentage of gifted and talented enrolments who are persistent absentees	Percentage of all enrolments who are persistent absentees
704,620	9,320	1.3	3.6

[1] Includes city technology colleges and academies (including all-through academies).
[2] Includes maintained and non-maintained special schools. Excludes general hospital schools.
[3] Persistent Absentees are defined as having more than 63 sessions of absence (authorised and unauthorised) during the year, typically over 20 per cent. overall absence rate.
[4] Pupils who were identified as gifted and talented at the time of the January 2008 census.
[5] Number of pupil enrolments in schools from start of the school year to 23 May 2008. Includes pupils on the school roll for at least one session who are aged between five and 15, excluding boarders. Some pupils may be counted more than once (if they moved schools during the school year or are registered in more than one school).
Figures have been rounded to the nearest 10.

School Census

Schools: Admissions

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many new school places he plans to create in each of the next five years. [272866]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Local authorities are responsible for planning the creation of new school places and are under a duty to ensure sufficient school places are available to meet local needs. The Department allocates Basic Need funding to enable local authorities to provide the additional places needed in response to a growth in pupil numbers. Allocations are based on each authority's own pupil projections which they provide to the Department annually through the Surplus Places Survey. To enable authorities to plan deployment of their resources, these allocations are set for three years at the start of each spending review period. In addition, in 2008 the Department operated a "safety-valve" mechanism for funding new pupil places, to deliver additional funding for authorities facing exceptional circumstances because of the rate of growth of pupil numbers.

During the current spending review period (2008-09 to 2010-11), £1.2 billion of Basic Need funding will be allocated among the 150 local authorities in England. Additionally, four authorities were allocated exceptional Basic Need safety valve funding totalling £83.24 million.

Schools: Construction

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what his most recent estimate is of the budget required for school building provision in the academic year 2009-10. [273991]

Jim Knight: The Department's information on forecast spend is held on a financial year basis. Most capital projects are delivered over more than one financial year, and the Department's financial planning is based on a three yearly spending cycle. For 2009-10 financial year, our current forecast is to support investment in schools of around £7.5 billion. This forecast is under continuous review and will be subject to change. In addition, £1.3 billion of PFI credits are available to be allocated through Building Schools for the Future.

Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of pupils with statements of special educational needs who attended mainstream schools took an unauthorised absence from school in each year since 1997. [271830]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The available information is shown in the table.

Data on pupil characteristics linked to absence was collected in the School Census for the first time in 2005/06, but was collected from secondary schools only, therefore information on absence for pupils with statements of special educational needs prior to 2005/06 cannot be provided. In 2006/07 data was also collected from primary and special schools.

Primary and secondary schools[1,2] number and proportion of pupils with statements of special educational need taking one or more sessions of unauthorised absence[3,4] 2005/06—2007/08 England

	2005/06		2006/07		2007/08
	Primary	Secondary	Primary	Secondary	Primary	Secondary
Number of pupil enrolments with statements taking unauthorised absence[3,4]	n/a	29,200	14,090	27,930	13,970	26,050
Total number of pupil enrolments with statements[3,4]	n/a	72,430	58,810	68,800	56,450	65,090
Proportion of pupil enrolments taking unauthorised absence[4,5]	n/a	40.3	24.0	40.6	24.7	40.0

n/a = Not available.
[1] Includes middle schools as deemed.
[2] Includes city technology colleges and academies.
[3] Pupils with statements of special educational need at the time of the January census.
[4] Includes pupils on the school roll for at least one session who are aged between 5 and 15, excluding boarders. Some pupils may be counted more than once (if they were registered at more than one school or moved schools during the year).
[5] Number of pupils with statements of special educational need who were absent for one or more sessions due to unauthorised absence, as a proportion of the total number of pupils with statements of special educational need, in each phase.
Note:
Figures have been rounded to the nearest 10.

Special Educational Needs: Pupil Exclusions

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many and what proportion of pupils with a statement of special educational need for behavioural, emotional and social difficulties received (a) a fixed-period and (b) permanent exclusion from a mainsteam school in the most recent year for which figures are available; [273642]

(2) how many and what proportion of pupils with a statement of special educational need were given (a) one, (b) two, (c) three, (d) four, (e) five, (f) six, (g) seven, (h) eight, (i) nine and (j) 10 or more fixed-period exclusions in the most recent year for which figures are available. [273644]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The requested information could only be provided at disproportionate cost. This is because the special educational needs status can change between periods of exclusion and the Department is currently working on a methodology for the analysis of this information.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Derelict Land: Gardens

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam of 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1503-5W, on gardens, if she will place in the Library a copy of the letter requesting data on planning provisions sent to local planning authorities. [273366]

Margaret Beckett: A copy of the letter was placed in the Library (reference DEP2009-1135) on 17 April 2009.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam of 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1503-5W, on gardens, what timetable she has set for the report of the garden land review. [273367]

Margaret Beckett: Our aim is to conclude the second stage of the review by the summer.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Sutton and Cheam of 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1503-5W, on gardens, what arrangements she has made for external analysis of the data. [273368]

Margaret Beckett: We will publish further details of the second stage of the review when the results of the first stage are clear.

Eco-Towns: Publicity

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what external (a) companies and (b) consultants her Department has retained for the purpose of promoting eco-towns; and at what cost. [273434]

Margaret Beckett: The Department has retained no public affairs companies and consultants in relation to the promotion of eco-towns.

In order to promote the public consultation on eco-towns, the Department contracted the Central Office of Information to provide a range of marketing and public relations services, elements of which they allocated to agencies on their frameworks.

The Department also contracted the following marketing services agencies in relation to this work:

Redhouse Lane
Skyline Whitespace
Transmedia
Louise Burston

The Department will publish a breakdown of expenditure in relation to promoting the eco-towns public consultation on its website in conjunction with the publication of its next annual report.

Energy Performance Certificates

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the effect on the effectiveness of energy performance certificates of enabling the Act on CO_2 advice line to contact home buyers and sellers to advise on support in improving the energy rating of their homes. [271570]

Margaret Beckett: No such assessment has been made. We are working with the Energy Savings Trust, who operate the Act on CO_2 advice line, to identify homes with poor energy efficiency ratings and to better target their advice.

Home Information Packs

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what external (a) companies and (b) consultants have been contracted by her Department to promote home information packs; and at what cost. [273471]

Margaret Beckett: In the financial year (2008-09) the Department conducted a campaign to meet its duty to inform industry and consumers of changes to HEPs as of 6 April 2009 and also to promote wider Government information for those buying or selling homes. The Department contracted the following activity through the Central Office of Information who engaged appropriate suppliers through their framework.

Advertising/media - Press	728,038
Advertising/media - Digital	485,279
Website	15,824

In addition the Department contracted Blue Rubicon for Public Relations activity.

Public Relations—£232,400

Homes and Communities Agency: Finance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) how much was received by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies in asset sales in each of the last five years; and how much grant-in-aid each such body received in each of those years; [270572]

(2) how much was spent by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies on administration in each of the last five years. [270605]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the investment arm of the Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the Agency from Communities and Local Government.

For the years 2004-05 to 2007-08 inclusive, figures for (i) asset sales receipts, (ii) grant in aid received, and (iii) spend on administration for English Partnerships and the Housing Corporation can be found in their published annual report and accounts each year.

With regard to the Academy for Sustainable Communities (which did not come into being until 2005-06), asset sales receipts were consolidated within the annual report and accounts of its parent organisation, Yorkshire Forward. The Academy was not funded on a grant in aid basis. Spend on administration (including staff costs, rent, rates, travel and marketing) by the Academy was as follows:

	Amount (£ million)
2005-06	0.2
2006-07	1.7
2007-08	1.9

Figures for the HCA will be published in its annual report and accounts 2008-09. Figures for 2008-09 for English Partnerships and the Housing Corporation will appear in what will be their final annual reports and accounts in light of their wind up.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many asset sales by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies involved receipts of (a) between £500,000 and £750,000, (b) between £750,000 and £1 million and (c) over £1 million in each of the last five years; how much was received in each case; and how many such sales involved the disposal of assets (i) purchased, (ii) developed and (iii) improved with public funds. [270574]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies of the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the investment arm of the Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the Agency from Communities and Local Government.

The following table shows the number of development asset sales by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies over the last five years and the total amount received for those receipts in the categories shown.

		(a) Between £0.5 million and £0.75 million	(b) Between £0.75 million and £1 million	(c) Over £1 million
2004-05	Number	20	16	39
	Amount received (£ million)	13.3	13.6	112.3
2005-06	Number	8	11	38
	Amount received (£ million)	4.9	9.0	337.7
2006-07	Number	6	7	42
	Amount received (£ million)	3.8	6.0	313.3
2007-08	Number	6	6	39
	Amount received (£ million)	3.8	5.4	313.8
2008-09	Number	6	9	28

Audited information is not yet available for the amount received in 2008-09.

The answer to the latter part of the question could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what losses attributable to overpayments of (a) grants and (b) subsidies the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies incurred in each of the last five years. [270602]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the investment arm of the Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the agency from Communities and Local Government.

The HCA and its predecessor bodies did not incur any losses through the overpayment of grant over the last five years.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the agreed administration budget for the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies was in each of the last five years. [270606]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the investment arm of the Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the agency from Communities and Local Government.

The agreed administration budget for the Homes and Communities Agency, English Partnerships and the Academy for Sustainable Communities at the start of each financial year from 2005-06 onwards is shown in the table.

£ million

	English Partnerships	Homes and Communities Agency[1]	Academy for Sustainable Communities[2]
2005-06	47	—	—
2006-07	48	—	2
2007-08	51	—	2
2008-09	—	86	—
2009-10	—	86	—

[1] The Homes and Communities Agency was established on 1 December 2008 and the figure for 2008-09 is provided on merger accounting principles, ie as if the HCA existed from the start of the financial year.
[2] The Academy for Sustainable Communities was established during 2005 and figures are not available for this year.
Note:
Figures are rounded to the nearest million

It is not possible to disaggregate the administration budget for the investment arm of the Housing Corporation without incurring disproportionate costs.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much was spent by the (a) Tenant Services Authority and (b) the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies on information technology projects in each of the last five years; and how many such projects cost in excess of £1 million. [270607]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) were English Partnerships, the investment arm of the Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the agency from Communities and Local Government.

A table showing information technology (IT) projects expenditure in each of the last five years for the Tenants Services Authority (TSA), the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies is as follows:

£ million

	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	Total
HCA[1]	–	–	–	–	3.299	3.299
English Partnerships	2.055	2.003	1.667	1.953	–	7.678
Tenant Service Authority[2]	–	–	–	–	1.974	1.974
Housing Corporation	1.567	2.054	1.532	3.336	–	8.489
Academy for Sustainable Communities[3]	–	0.051	0.136	0.167	0.096	0.45

[1] The HCA came into existence on 1 December 2008. The figure for 2008-09 includes that of the former English Partnerships.
[2] The Tenant Services Authority came into existence on 1 December 2008. The figure for 2008-09 includes that of the former Housing Corporation. It is not possible to disaggregate the IT projects of former Housing Corporation for 2008-09 between those that transferred to the HCA and those that transferred to the TSA.
[3] The Academy for Sustainable Communities was set up in 2005, hence figures for 2004-05 are not available.

During the period 2006-07 to 2007-08 a total of £1.170 million (included in the above figures for the Housing Corporation) was spent on a project to deliver a programme management information system for the capital investment programme (grant regime for registered social landlords (RSLs).

During the period 2007-08 and 2008-09 a total of £2.269 million (included in the above figures for the Housing Corporation and Tenant Services Authority) was spent on a project to provide the hosting of the Housing Corporation's IT infrastructure for a contract period of up to five years. This was the set up costs which included servers, PCs, a disaster recovery facility, transition from the old provider and project management. The annual cost of hosting this is £1.9 million per annum from January 2008.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the monetary value of ex-gratia payments made to the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessor bodies was in each of the last five years. [270608]

Margaret Beckett: The predecessor bodies for the Homes and Communities Agency were English Partnerships, the investment arm of the Housing Corporation, and the Academy for Sustainable Communities. A range of departmental programmes also transferred to the agency from Communities and Local Government.

No ex-gratia payments have been made to the HCA and its predecessor bodies in the last five years.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the cost of each (a) study and (b) review commissioned by the Homes and Communities Agency and its predecessors was in each of the last five years. [272508]

Margaret Beckett: The Homes and Communities Agency does not hold information in these distinct categories, nor did its predecessor bodies. The information requested could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Housing: Low Incomes

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield of 3 March 2009, Official Report, column 1540W, on the Homebuy scheme, how many homes have been purchased in each Government Office region under (a) the Social Homebuy scheme and (b) Homebuy schemes other than Social, Open Market or New Build Homebuy in (i) 2006-07, (ii) 2007-08 and (iii) 2009 to date. [269883]

Margaret Beckett: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) on 24 March 2009, Official Report, column 218W.

The following table shows provisional figures for Social HomeBuy completions through the Homes and Communities Agency's Affordable Housing Programme by region for 2008-09.

	2008-09
North East	7
North West	23
Yorkshire & Humberside	1
East Midlands	0
West Midlands	12
Eastern	2
London	[1]44
South East	10
England	99

[1] London figure includes six sales in local authority sector. Sales figures by registered social landlords (RSLs) are from the Homes and Communities Agency.

Although a few HomeBuy Direct sales are known to have been fully completed, official figures are not yet available. However, approximately 18,000 HomeBuy Direct properties were selected by the Homes and Communities Agency and over 32,000 potential buyers have registered their interest in the scheme.

Provisional figures show that there were around 1,100 completions under the Rent to HomeBuy scheme under which homes may be rented at a subsidised rent for a specified period with the opportunity for tenants to buy a share later. This is a new scheme and which began in 2008-09.

Detailed data on scheme completions are compiled and analysed on a monthly basis. Figures for April 2009 will be available later in May.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many Social Homebuy sales there were in each region in 2008-09; and what estimate has been made of the number of sales which will take place in 2009-10. [270690]

Margaret Beckett: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave today to the hon. Member for Meriden to question 269883.

No estimate has been made for number of sales in 2009-10 as Social HomeBuy is a voluntary and demand led programme. Sales depend on the number of landlords who choose to offer their tenants the opportunity of home ownership through the scheme and take up by tenants. Social HomeBuy is one of a number of home ownership options made available to social tenants.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what the average equity stake initially purchased by a homebuyer through the (a) Open Market HomeBuy Scheme, (b) HomeBuy Direct Scheme and (c) MyChoice HomeBuy Scheme has been to date; [272350]

(2) how much initial equity on average homebuyers participating in the (a) Social Homebuy, (b) Own Home, (c) Rent to HomeBuy and (d) First-time Buyers scheme have purchased to date; [272364]

Margaret Beckett: The following table shows the average initial equity purchased by households participating in the Government's low cost home ownership programme by scheme.

Social HomeBuy	138,888
Open Market HomeBuy	125,592
MyChoice HomeBuy	108,410
Own Home	112,025
First Time Buyers' initiative	101,114

There have been no sales yet under the Rent to HomeBuy scheme which enables potential purchasers to rent a home for up to five years before buying a share.

To the end of March 2009 there were no fully completed sales registered under HomeBuy Direct.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many completed transactions there have been under the HomeBuy Direct scheme to date. [272423]

Margaret Beckett: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) on 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1119W.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many applicants have registered with HomeBuy providers in each of the last 12 months. [272579]

Margaret Beckett: This information is not held centrally.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many homes have been purchased under (a) OwnHome, (b) New Build HomeBuy, (c) HomeBuy Direct, (d) Rent to HomeBuy, (e) Social HomeBuy, (f) the First-Time Buyers Initiative, (g) Open Market HomeBuy and (h) MyChoice HomeBuy in each of the last three years; and if she will make a statement. [272758]

Margaret Beckett: The data available on purchases of HomeBuy products in each of the last three years is given in the following table.

	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09
New Build HomeBuy	11,017	14,880	10,647
Social HomeBuy	47	160	99
First Time Buyers Initiative	24	818	1,025
Open Market HomeBuy	2,293	2,749	6,123
Ownhome	—	—	799
MyChoice HomeBuy	—	—	3,123

The 6,123 Open Market HomeBuy purchases in 2008-09 include the 799 through Ownhome and 3,123 through My Choice HomeBuy shown separately in the table.

For New Build HomeBuy the table shows completions.

For HomeBuy Direct I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1119 W.

There have been no purchases under the Rent to HomeBuy scheme, which enables potential purchasers to rent a home for up to five years before buying a share.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much has been spent on the (a) development and (b) maintenance of the homebuy.co.uk website in each of the last three years; and what budget has been assigned to the website for each of the next two years. [272814]

Margaret Beckett: HomeBuy.co.uk is not a Government website.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what expenditure she expects her Department to incur in publicising HomeBuy products in each of the next three years; and what promotional activities have been planned. [272978]

Margaret Beckett: There are no current plans for the Communities and Local Government Department to publicise HomeBuy products directly in future years.

Marketing of HomeBuy products is the responsibility of the HomeBuy Agents.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many right-to-buy sales there were in each local authority area in each year since 1997. [273645]

Mr. Iain Wright: A table showing the number of local authority right to buy sales by local authority for each year from 1997-98 has been deposited in the Library of the House.

The figures only include local authority right to buy sales. They do not include registered social landlord preserved right to buy sales, details of which are not available at local authority level.

The figures are from quarterly P1B returns from local authorities to CLG.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what percentage of housing completions in each region was of affordable homes in each year since 1997. [273647]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows the proportion of affordable housing new build completions as a percentage of total house building completions in each year since 1997-98, by region.

Percentage

	North East	North West	Yorkshire and Humber	East Midlands	West Midlands	Eastern	London	South East	South West	England

Total new build completion figures are from P2 quarterly returns submitted by local authorities and the National House-Building Council (NHBC) to CLG.

Affordable housing new build figures are collated from the Homes and Communities Agency Investment Management System (IMS); and Housing Strategy Statistical Appendix (HSSA) returns and P2 house building returns submitted to CLG by local authorities. Not all affordable housing is provided by new build completions, as some supply can come from acquisitions.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 30 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1397-8W, on housing: low incomes, how many homes were purchased for use as social rented housing stock in each year since 1997. [273648]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows the number of homes purchased for social rent in England, from 1997-98.

	Homes purchased for social rent
1997-98	11,770
1998-99	10,960
1999-2000	9,180
2000-01	8,860

Homes and Communities Agency Investment Management System (IMS), and local authority returns to CLG

Total social rented housing is provided by new build completions, as well as acquisitions. In 2007-08, an additional 25,390 social rented homes were built in England, plus a further 590 homes which cannot be broken down by new build or acquisitions, to give a total of 29,370 additional social rented homes provided in England.

Improvement and Development Agency for Local Government: Finance

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 317W, on the Improvement and Development Agency for Local Government: finance, what the terms of reference were of the good practice on migration project. [272331]

John Healey: The aim of the Migration Excellence Programme was to develop a good practice toolkit for local government that provided local authorities with guidance on how to pool and analyse all relevant national, regional and local data and intelligence in order to build accurate local profiles of Central and Eastern European migration.

The purpose and structure of the project were to provide:

1. Local authorities with an inventory of data sources
2. Information on publicly available on-line information
3. Guidance on how partners should be sharing data
4. Examples of good practice from three case study areas.

Mortgages

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 918W, on mortgages, when she expects (a) Santander, (b) Nationwide, (c) HSBC and (d) Barclays to implement terms for their customers similar to those offered under the Homeowners Mortgage Support scheme. [272108]

Margaret Beckett: Santander (including Abbey and Alliance and Leicester), Nationwide, HSBC and Barclays (including First Plus) have confirmed they will now be offering comparable arrangements to Homeowners Mortgage Support to their customers, while opting not to take up the Government guarantee.

Customers of these institutions experiencing a reduction in income and willing to make regular monthly repayments will receive a similar level of support and be encouraged to seek independent money advice.

Mortgages: Government Assistance

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many households in each local authority area have received assistance under the Mortgage Rescue scheme in each of the last six months. [272111]

Margaret Beckett: The Government Mortgage Rescue scheme has only been operational across the country since 1 January 2009, following successful 'fast tracking' by 80 local authorities in December 2008. The scheme is one part of a comprehensive package of measures to help households at risk of repossession.

Based on the January-March 2009 monitoring returns, 452 households had applied for and were being actively considered for Mortgage Rescue assistance during this period, of which 57 cases were in the final stage of the process (referral to the Registered Social Landlord) as at the end of March. It can take between three and four months for a household to complete the process from the time they approach a local authority because it is similar to that of selling a property, involving procedures such as property valuation and negotiations between the parties involved. As at the end of March, one household in the Government Office East region had completed the process, whereby a housing association had agreed to purchase their property and enable the household to remain in their own home as tenants.

Headline data from the first monitoring returns submitted by local authorities implementing the scheme were published on the CLG website on 30 April 2009:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/housing/housingresearch/housingstatistics/housingstatisticsby/repossessions/

The published tables, broken down by Government Office Region, comprise a consolidated return for January and February 2009, and a separate table for March 2009.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what regional caps will be set on (a) property value and (b) household income in respect of assistance under the Mortgage Rescue Scheme. [272450]

Margaret Beckett: The regional property price caps for the Mortgage Rescue Scheme have been reviewed and amended on the basis of feedback from delivery partners and early monitoring information. The changes, which are effective from 1 May 2009, are as follows:

Region	Original property price cap	Revised property price cap
East	190,000	200,000
East Midlands	145,000	155,000
London	295,000	305,000
North East	115,000	125,000
North West	125,000	135,000
South East	225,000	235,000
South West	195,000	205,000
West Midlands	145,000	155,000
Yorkshire and Humber	130,000	140,000

The household annual income cap is set at £60,000 and applies across all regions in England.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether households which have defaulted on their mortgage payments in the last five months will be eligible for support under the Homeowner Mortgage Support Scheme. [272454]

Margaret Beckett: To be eligible for Homeowners Mortgage Support, households need to have been making regular payments, but not necessarily in full, in agreement with their lender for at least five months. This demonstrates that the borrower is able to continue to make ongoing payments at a reduced level before entering the scheme, and provides an opportunity for other forbearance options to be considered first. If a household has missed a payment or payments without the agreement of their lender, they can still become eligible by making regular payments in agreement with their lender for five months. These arrangements reflect the fact that Homeowners Mortgage Support is designed to help households experiencing a temporary reduction in their income. Other forms of assistance, such as Support for Mortgage Interest or the Mortgage Rescue Scheme, are available for households who have experienced a complete loss of income.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the cost of the Homeowner Mortgage Support Scheme in each of the next three years; and how many households are expected to participate. [272461]

Margaret Beckett: The Impact Assessment for Homeowners Mortgage Support (HMS) was published on Tuesday 21 April and is available at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/housing/mortgagesupportimpactassessment

We estimate that the total cost of HMS over eight years will be £44 million (present value). This is based on a central estimate that around 42,000 households could join HMS (assuming the participation of lenders accounting for 50 per cent. of the number of eligible households in three months and more mortgage arrears). If lenders representing 100 per cent. of eligible households in three months and more mortgage arrears offer the terms of HMS, then we estimate that up to 85,000 households could be helped by the support.

Information on the profile of the costs to Government in each of the eight years was given in response to a question from the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) on 24 April 2009, Official Report, column 919W.

National Housing and Planning Advice Unit

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 2 April 2009, Official Report, column 1508W, on the National Housing and Planning Advice Unit, on what date the unit plans to publish the first summary of board discussions on its website. [273449]

Margaret Beckett: The NHPAU will be publishing summaries of Board discussions and outcomes of meetings on its website on Friday 8 May 2009. The published summaries will be for the period from February 2008 onwards. Summaries of future discussions will appear shortly after each monthly Board meeting and will appear on the NHPAU website.

Non-Domestic Rates: Greater London

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Peterborough of 18 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1180-81W, on non-domestic rates: Greater London, if she will place in the Library a copy of the guidance note on the sub-location concept. [272333]

John Healey: I have placed a copy of the relevant section of the guidance note in the Library of the House.

Regeneration

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the Written Ministerial Statement of 30 March 2009, Official Report, column 37WS, on regeneration, if she will place in the Library a copy of each item of correspondence between her Department and the European Commission on the financial corrections for the 1997 to 1999 programme period. [272336]

John Healey: The information requested is not centrally held and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 30 March 2009, Official Report, column 37WS, on regeneration, what financial irregularities resulted in the financial corrections confirmed by the European Commission. [272337]

John Healey: The irregularities that gave rise to the financial corrections confirmed by the European Commission included some failures to properly apply the relevant procurement directives; insufficient supporting documentation to justify the inclusion of certain project expenditure and examples of insufficient documentation to support the amounts or method of apportionment used in calculating overheads. There was no suggestion of fraud or impropriety.

Regional Planning and Development: South East

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government whether she plans to publish the final version of the South East Plan before the beginning of the restricted period outlined in the Cabinet Office guidance on announcements in an election period. [273990]

Mr. Khan: My right hon. Friend published the South East Plan on 6 May 2008 together with a written ministerial statement, Official Report, column WS58.

Regional Planning and Development: Thames Gateway

John Bercow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what recent progress has been made in the delivery of the Thames Gateway Delivery Plan; and if she will make a statement. [271581]

Margaret Beckett: Progress in the delivery of the Thames Gateway Delivery Plan is set out in the Thames Gateway annual report. The 2007-08 annual report was published in July 2008. The 2008-09 annual report will be published this summer.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Alcoholic Drinks: Licensing

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many personal licences to sell alcohol are held. [273654]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The latest Alcohol, Entertainment and Late Night Refreshment Licensing bulletin shows that for the year ending March 2008 there were 338,900 personal licence holders in England and Wales, based on 97 per cent. returns from licensing authorities. A personal licence authorises an individual to supply or authorise the supply of alcohol in accordance with a premises licence or temporary event notice under the Licensing Act 2003.

Listed Buildings: Malvern St James School

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport when he plans to announce his decision on the listing of the Edinburgh Sports Dome at Malvern St James School. [273658]

Barbara Follett: The Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport will be making a decision shortly. I will write to the hon. Member as soon as one is reached.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan and Iraq: Peacekeeping Operations

Gordon Banks: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what ceremonial formalities are observed on the return from (a) Iraq and (b) Afghanistan of the remains of service personnel killed on active service; and if he will make a statement. [273656]

Mr. Quentin Davies: When the remains of Service personnel who lose their lives as a result of operations are returned to this country a formal repatriation ceremony is held.

These ceremonies are military and not governmental occasions. Such ceremonies are supported by an eight man Bearer party, usually drawn from the deceased's own regiment or service, and two buglers, all of whom are supervised by a senior ceremonial warrant officer. The ceremony, which is a service conducted by a military chaplain, is attended by a senior military representative, of at least two star rank, to convey the nation's respect.

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many troops from the UK Overseas Territories are serving in Afghanistan. [272598]

Mr. Hutton: As at 1 March 2009 there are 10 known British Overseas Territories citizens who can be identified as being deployed to Afghanistan.

It is possible for personnel from British Overseas Territories to record their nationality as "British". As such, the figure stated above may be an under estimate of the total British Overseas Territories citizens deployed to Afghanistan.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his latest estimate is of the cost to the public purse of military operations in Afghanistan in the last two years. [273002]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The MOD identifies the costs of operations in terms of the net additional costs it has incurred. The costs that would have been incurred regardless of the operation taking place, such as wages and salaries, are not included. Savings on activities that have not occurred because of the operation, such as teaming exercises, are taken into account in arriving at the net figures.

The annual audited cost of operations in Afghanistan for the last two years is provided in the following table.

		£ million
	2006-07	2007-08
Resource costs	560	1,071
Capital costs	178	433
Total	738	1,504

The Spring Supplementary Estimates, published in February, set out the 2008-09 unaudited estimates, and these are provided in the following table. The final audited amounts are expected to be published in July 2009.

	£ million
	2008-09
Resource costs	1,710
Capital costs	849
Total	2,559

Mr. Jenkin: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what the chain of command in Helmand province will be between US, UK and International Security Assistance Force forces following the United States' deployment of additional troops to the province; and if he will make a statement. [273714]

Mr. Quentin Davies: In response to a request from Commander ISAF, General David McKiernan, President Obama recently announced the deployment of an additional 17,000 US troops to Afghanistan to support the ISAF mission in Afghanistan, many of which will deploy to Helmand Province.

All ISAF forces, regardless of nationality, operate under the NATO chain of command. Therefore, UK forces in Helmand province will remain under the command of Task Force Helmand (TFH), who in turn are under the command of the International Security and Assistance Force, Regional Command (South).

Armed Forces: Health Services

Mr. Morley: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent representations he has received on psychometric testing of personnel due to be sent to combat zones to identify their vulnerability to combat stress; what response he has made to such representations; and if he will make a statement. [272852]

Mr. Kevan Jones: From time to time, the Department receives representations about the mental health services provided for members of the armed forces. I am not aware of any recent representations specifically on psychometric testing of personnel prior to deployment. The Department's evidence-based view is that such selection processes do not work and would be counter-productive.

Recent research is summarised in the King's Centre for Military Health Research "Ten Year Report" published in 2006 by the University of London and covering a decade's worth of research concerning the health of UK service personnel and veterans. This explains that selecting out individuals who might be at increased risk of developing mental health difficulties prior to recruitment or deployment is a flawed strategy because, whether one uses clinical interviews or questionnaire-based methods, it is impossible to distinguish reliably between those who will go on to experience psychological difficulties and those who will not. An ineffective selection programme would not just be costly and labour intensive but is likely to have adverse consequences both for individuals who would unnecessarily be prevented from deploying when doing so is part of their job, and for the operational efficiency of the armed forces by unnecessarily reducing the numbers of personnel available to carry out operational tasks.

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will take steps to implement the recommendations in the Review of Defence Medical Services undertaken by the Healthcare Commission at the request of the Surgeon General. [273003]

Mr. Kevan Jones: Yes. The MOD is committed to meeting the Commission's recommendations, which recognise where we are already demonstrating best practice in delivering healthcare and will help the Defence Medical Services (DMS) to drive improvements. We are exploring with the Department of Health how best to take forward continuing external and independent examination of our medical services. We have already created our own defence medical inspector general, whose remit includes following the Commission's review with a wider internal review across the whole DMS and other appropriate Defence process owners.

Departmental Contracts

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what assessment he has made of the effect of the award of each of his Department's current contracts on (a) the UK employment market and (b) the number of jobs in businesses which (i) have bid for or secured such contracts and (ii) are in the supply chain for such contracts. [273124]

Mr. Quentin Davies: The Ministry of Defence's primary consideration whilst making procurement decisions is to ensure that we secure the best equipment available for our armed forces, and also to ensure value for money for the taxpayer.

The industrial implications of our procurement decisions are considered strategically within MOD in the context of the Defence Industrial Strategy (DIS), which promotes a sustainable UK defence industrial base.

Gulf War Syndrome

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what research his Department has undertaken into the pathological basis of new iatrogenic diseases caused by chemicals including therapeutic agents recognised to modify the phenotype of human tissues in respect of illnesses identified in those who served in the Gulf War in 1990-91. [272833]

Mr. Kevan Jones: No projects have been undertaken to date. We are unaware of published peer reviewed evidence of new iatrogenic diseases caused by chemicals, including therapeutic agents in ill veterans who served in the Gulf in 1990-91. The Medical Research Council (MRC) provides the MOD with independent expert advice on its Gulf research programme. In 2003 the MRC carried out a review of published research into UK Gulf veterans' illness and the main recommendation was that research aimed at improving the long term health and well-being of Gulf veterans with persistent symptoms should take priority. A copy of the report is published on the MRC web site found at the following link; www.mrc.ac.uk/Utilities/Documentrecord/index.htm?d=MRC002464.

A contract for research into possible ways of rehabilitating ill Gulf veterans has been awarded to a group at Cardiff University. The project involves close working with veterans and ex-service charities and is now in progress.

Nimrod Aircraft

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence by what date he expects Nimrod aircraft to be fully operational. [273310]

Mr. Quentin Davies: I refer the right hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Minister of State for the armed forces to the hon. Member for Moray (Mr Robertson), is the Defence in the UK Debate on 26 March 2009, Official Report, column 478).

Royal Hospital Haslar

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what recent estimate he has made of (a) the book value of the Royal Hospital Haslar site and (b) the anticipated annual maintenance cost of the vacated site. [265525]

Mr. Kevan Jones [holding answer 23 March 2009]: The "existing use" value of the asset for Defence purposes was last estimated as £17 million in 2005. The current market value of the asset is different, but difficult to assess, given current market conditions. However, it is not Ministry of Defence practice to release assessments of market value, as to do so could influence the market and not serve the interests of taxpayers generally.

If the Haslar site were to be "mothballed" the estimated annual maintenance cost would be less than £1 million. However, the Department is planning a marketing campaign for this summer and is committed to finding a purchaser who can deliver a viable and sustainable future for the Haslar site.

To this end Defence Estates is working closely with Gosport borough council. In particular, we are keen to ensure that plans for the re-use of the site have regard to the historical setting of the listed buildings and grounds. An inquiry led by the Prince's Regeneration Trust last November examined the opportunities and potential. All proposals to acquire the site will be carefully evaluated, particularly as regards their approach towards conservation and heritage issues.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Flood Control

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what level of priority his Department gives to the completion of his Department's programme of work on the protection of critical infrastructure from flooding in relation to work on the implementation of the other recommendations of the Pitt Report. [273132]

Huw Irranca-Davies: In undertaking to act on every one of his recommendations, the Government endorsed the importance given to this area of work by Sir Michael Pitt. While the Government will give a fuller progress report in June on all that we have done since we published our action plan on 17 December 2008, I have provided some examples of what has been done to protect critical infrastructure from flooding.

The energy sector began work on improving resilience to flooding in the autumn of 2007, with an initial focus on electricity substations being extended to include both gas and oil installations. The Energy Networks Association, working with the Government and the electricity industry, has produced a report on the steps that can be taken to further safeguard electricity substations. The matter is being given full consideration at present with the industry regulator in the scope of the current distribution companies' price review.

In addition, work has been put in place to take forward lessons from the 2007 floods in relation to water companies. All companies have considered resilience in their draft business plans, which were submitted to Ofwat in August. The plans vary, as expected, reflecting the size of the company and the specific challenges presented by their locations. In total, almost £1 billion of investment has been proposed to increase resilience.

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what progress the Environment Agency has made on establishing the system for opting-out of flood warnings recommended by the Pitt Report. [273134]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Environment Agency systematically registers customers with its free flood warning service using publicly available information (names, addresses and telephone numbers). Customers are given the opportunity to opt out of this service. The Environment Agency pre-registered 55,605 new customers and only 521 customers chose to opt out of this service, giving an overall retention rate of 99 per cent.

For the Environment Agency to provide a full opt out flood warning service it needs access to ex-directory information. Since the publication of the Pitt Review, the Environment Agency has re-instated negotiations with the telecommunications companies holding ex-directory data. The Environment Agency is working hard to move to a fully opt out flood warning service by the end of 2009.

Flooding Lessons Learned Review

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many of the 15 urgent recommendations of the Pitt Review into the summer floods of 2007 have been implemented; and which ones are yet to be implemented. [272890]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Government began to implement Sir Michael's Pitt's urgent interim recommendations in December 2007. In April 2008, Sir Michael noted that strong progress had been made against the majority of these recommendations, and that further work was needed in some areas, which has since been continuing.

The Government's next progress report, which will be published this June, will enable the public and the House to see what stage of implementation all outstanding recommendations have reached.

Inland Waterways

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many miles of British Waterways' canals have (a) leakage and (b) erosion. [273300]

Huw Irranca-Davies: It is impossible to quantify leakage in this way. Where leaks occur, they can be potentially very serious and lead to breaches. British Waterways therefore acts quickly to plug any leaks when they are identified. Some seepage is, however, natural on both canals and rivers. With regard to erosion, canals are by definition man-made, engineered structures which do not suffer from erosion—as opposed to wear and tear—in the same way as rivers. This is in part due to the materials used in their construction, the slower flow of water and the strict speed limit imposed on waterway craft.

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what procedures British Waterways use to record the number of water vehicles using its canals. [273304]

Huw Irranca-Davies: British Waterways (BW) keep a register of licensed boats. All boats on its waterways must have a licence. BW patrols the waterways regularly to check for unlicensed boats. It also publishes an 'online boat checker' where members of the public can check whether a particular boat has a valid licence.

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the number of narrowboats which used British Waterways' canals in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2006-07. [273305]

Huw Irranca-Davies: British Waterways does not separate narrowboats from other types of boats in its regular statistics. The total number of boats licensed in each of these years is as follows:

(a) 32,566

(b) 30,905

Europe: Diplomatic Service

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what posts in each UK mission in Europe have been (a) downgraded and (b) ended in each financial year since 2000. [271450]

David Miliband: For the period 2000-01 to 2002-03 data are not held centrally and it would involve disproportionate cost to obtain it from across the network.

Limited information is available centrally for the period up to 2006-07.

[1] Data not available for locally employed staff.
[2] Cut positions in Vienna and Warsaw include staff who transferred to facilities management provider, Interserve, in the first phase of the North West Europe Facilities Management Project in December 2008. In Vienna the following staff transferred to Interserve: LEII, LEIII (x2), LEIV (x2), LEV (x8). In Warsaw the following staff numbers transferred to Interserve: LEII, LEIII (x4), LEIV (x4) and LEV (x3).

In addition to permanent cuts to expenditure such as the Europe Zero Based Review the Foreign and Commonwealth Office has also downgraded and cut a number of UK based and locally engaged positions in Europe in order to reflect the changing patterns of carrying out business in Europe, and in order to generate resource for redeployment to emerging priorities elsewhere. These data reflect this.

These downgraded and ended posts have contributed to wider efficiency programmes across Europe which will continue during the current CSR period.

The data provided relate to Foreign and Commonwealth Office positions in Europe funded by Europe Directorate. These make up the significant majority of positions that have been downgraded or cut. Information is not held centrally for the small number of non-Europe Directorate-funded positions that have also been downgraded or ended.

Kenya: Piracy

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of the estimated costs to the Kenyan government of arrangements to prosecute piracy suspects; and what proportion of those costs will be met by (a) the UK and (b) other sources outside Kenya. [272918]

David Miliband: We have received no reports on the estimated cost to the Kenyan government of arrangements to prosecute piracy suspects. The UK and its partners are willing to consider support in response to requests from Kenya, such as the package of priority assistance measures identified by the European Commission during their recent scoping mission to Kenya.

The proposed assistance would be targeted at the prosecution, police, judicial and prison services, particularly focusing on capacity and logistical shortfalls associated with the trials and detention of piracy suspects. An indicative amount of €1.74 million has been proposed, using the UN Office on Drugs and Crime in Kenya as the implementing partner. We understand that this project is likely to be fully funded by the Commission.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Answer of 1 April 2009, Official Report, column 1281W, on Somalia: piracy, what the outcome was of the visit by the EU delegation to Kenya to assess the level of support that the Kenyan authorities require in the prosecution of pirates; and what needs were identified. [273088]

David Miliband: A European Commission delegation carried out a scoping mission in Kenya from 29 March 2009 to 3 April 2009. This resulted in a package of priority assistance measures being identified to support the efforts of the Kenyan authorities. The proposed assistance would be targeted at the prosecution, police, judicial and prison services, particularly focusing on capacity and logistical shortfalls associated with the trial and detention of piracy suspects. An indicative amount of €1.74 million has been proposed, using the UN Office on Drugs and Crime in Kenya as the implementing partner. We understand that this project is likely to be fully funded by the Commission, which the Government very much welcome as appropriate recognition for the efforts being made by the Kenyan government.

Kenya: Politics and Government

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what assessment he has made of (a) the political situation in Kenya and (b) progress in implementing the National Accord in that country. [272917]

David Miliband: I am very concerned by the political situation in Kenya, particularly the current disputes between the coalition partners and the detrimental impact this is having on implementation of the National Accord. My right hon. Friend the Prime Minister wrote to President Kibaki and Prime Minister Odinga on 9 April 2009 to relay our concerns and to encourage them to intensify their efforts to deliver reforms. He underlined that unless more rapid progress was made on constitutional and electoral reforms, on improving security and on addressing corruption and impunity, there was a serious risk of a return to violence in Kenya. The Government will continue to work with the Kenyan government and our international partners to promote full delivery of the National Accord, providing practical and financial assistance where we can.

Russia: BBC External Services

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will commission an independent investigation into the administration and operations of the BBC Russia Service. [271604]

Caroline Flint: The BBC World Service is editorially, operationally and managerially independent of the Government, as is stated in the Broadcasting Agreement between the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) and the BBC for the provision of the BBC World Service.

The BBC World's service's operation in Russia provide the Russian audience with trusted, high quality current affairs programmes and new media services. The FCO is satisfied that the recent changes to the service are being properly managed and reviewed in the normal process of evaluation within the BBC World Service.

We will therefore not call for an investigation into the BBC Russia service.

HEALTH

Cross-Government Obesity Unit

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health who the members of the Cross-Government Obesity Unit are. [273006]

Dawn Primarolo: Will Cavendish, (Department of Health) and Anne Jackson (Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF)) are the Joint Directors responsible for the Cross-Government Obesity Unit (CGOU). Clara Swinson (Department of Health) is the deputy director. The CGOU is jointly funded and staffed by the Department and DCSF.

Health Services

Lynne Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what choice is statutorily available to users of (a) mental health services and (b) health services for physical illness on the types of services provided to them; and if he will make a statement. [270571]

Phil Hope: The NHS Constitution includes a right to "make choices about your NHS care. The options available will develop over time and depend on your individual need." The first area where this has become a legal right is elective care where since 1 April 2009 patients have had a legal right to choose the organisation that provides their treatment when they are referred for their first out-patient appointment with a service led by consultants. This applies to the majority of patients including those with mental health problems. Those detained under the Mental Health Act 1983 are excluded. As this right covers only elective care, mental health services are not included.

As stated in the handbook to the NHS Constitution the right to choose will develop as choice is extended into other areas.

Health Services: Non-Profit-Making Associations

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what guidance he has issued to primary care trusts in respect of commissioning (a) dental and (b) other health services from (i) social enterprises, (ii) charities and (iii) voluntary groups; and if he will make a statement. [272791]

Phil Hope: Guidance has been issued to primary care trusts on commissioning dental services and many other health services. Copies of all commissioning guidance issued by the Department are available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/AdvanceSearchResult/index.htm?searchTerms=PCT+guidance

In line with the approach of the world class commissioning programme, guidance focuses on health outcomes, rather than which provider it should be commissioned from. The Department is also working with the NHS Alliance to deliver a series of workshops to general practitioners and practice staff on social enterprise and the benefits that it can bring to patients receiving primary care services. Furthermore, the National Programme for Third Sector Commissioning is a Government-backed training initiative to help develop public sector commissioners' skills, expertise and understanding of the third sector that aims to ensure that both third sector organisations and commissioners get the best results for people using public services.

Learning Disability: Health Services

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent representations he has received on levels of funding for services for people with learning disabilities. [271666]

Phil Hope: The following representations have been received on the levels of funding for services for people with learning disabilities.

A report by the Learning Disability Coalition Future expenditure on social care for people with learning disabilities highlighting issues affecting learning disability services in the next few years.

Between January and March 2009, the Department received five parliamentary questions from the hon. Member for Portsmouth, South (Mr. Hancock) about future funding plans for adults with learning disabilities.

In January 2009, the hon. Member for Leeds, North-West (Greg Mulholland) asked what guidance was given to local authorities to ensure that their resource allocation systems achieve a fair and effective allocation of resources for people with learning disabilities.

In March 2009 the right hon. Member for Oxford, East (Mr. Smith) asked about the basis for calculating the sum to be transferred from his Department to local authorities when they take responsibility for support for learning disabled people.

Departmental officials have a regular discourse with the Learning Disability Coalition. The last meeting took place last week to discuss their concerns about levels of funding for learning disability services and implementation of the cross-Government strategy on learning disabilities, 'Valuing People Now'.

HM Treasury have yet to announce the timing of the next spending review and make available the associated guidance. Within the remit given to us by the guidance, the Department plans to make the best possible case for adequate funding for all adults with social care needs—including those with a learning disability—based on available data and evidence.

Members: Correspondence

Mr. Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall North of 31 March 2009 concerning a constituent. [271803]

Ann Keen: A reply was issued to my hon. Friend on 6 May 2009.

Mental Health Services

Anne Milton: To ask the Secretary of State for Health on how many occasions electro-convulsive therapy was administered to a mental health patient (a) in total and (b) as part of compulsory treatment in each of the last five years. [271724]

Phil Hope: The data requested on occasions when electro-convulsive therapy (ECT) has been administered to a mental health patient in total are in the following table.

Total and average number of procedures for electro-convulsive treatment per patient where the relevant operative procedure code (OPCS-4 code= A83) recorded in either main or in any of the secondary operative procedure fields 2003-04 to 2007-08, England

	Total Procedures	Patient count	Average procedures per patient
2003-04	12,709	1,814	7.0

We do not have the data requested about ECT and compulsory treatment. However, patients who are detained under the Mental Health Act 1983 cannot generally be given ECT without their consent, unless it is authorised by a Second Opinion Appointed Doctor (SOAD). The following table shows the number of second opinion requests in England and Wales for ECT received in each calendar year followed by the percentage of those requests that resulted in the Second Opinion Appointed Doctor issuing a statutory certificate authorising ECT.

We do not know how many of these allocations were acted on.

	2004	2005	2006	2007	2008
Number of requests for ECT second opinions	1,803	1,833	1,871	1,778	1,703

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health with reference to his Department's publication Healthy Weight, Healthy Lives: One Year On, which primary care trusts chose child obesity as a World Class Commissioning target. [273808]

Dawn Primarolo: A third of all primary care trusts (PCTs) chose childhood obesity as one of their health outcomes. The Department does not hold data on the measures selected by each PCT. The information is available on individual PCT websites.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Members: Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she plans to reply to the letter of 2 March 2009 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton, on Mr Hazem Abu Shaban. [271026]

Jacqui Smith: I wrote to the right hon. Member on 27 April 2009.

Vetting

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the UK Central Authority passes on information it holds to the relevant authorities when individuals apply for jobs working in (a) the Passport Service, (b) the UK Border Agency, (c) her Department, (d) the Serious and Organised Crime Agency, (e) the Police Service as (i) civilian support and (ii) warranted constables, (f) the Criminal Records Bureau, (g) the Greater London Authority, (h) local authorities children's departments, (i) local authority finance departments, (j) local authority electoral administration offices, (k) local authority social services departments, (l) the Pension Service, (m) the Criminal Cases Review Commission, (n) the Prison Service, (o) the Court Service and (p) the Crown Prosecution Service are vetted for crimes committed outside the United Kingdom. [243143]

Mr. Malik: The United Kingdom Central Authority for the Exchange of Criminal Records adds conviction information onto the Police National Computer (PNC) in relation to UK citizens where this has been provided by other countries. The PNC will also contain any information about crimes committed in the United Kingdom by foreign nationals.

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether (a) British and (b) foreign nationals working (i) as security guards in government buildings and departments, (ii) as police community support officers, (iii) in the Passport Service, (iv) in the UK Border Agency, (v) in her Department, (vi) in the Serious Organised Crime Agency, (vii) in the Police Service as (A) civilian support and (B) warranted constables, (viii) in the Criminal Records Bureau, (ix) for the Greater London Authority, (x) in local authorities children's departments, (xi) in local authority finance departments, (xii) in local authority electoral administration offices, (xiii) local authority social services departments, (xiv) in the Pension Service, (xv) in the Criminal Cases Review Commission, (xvi) in the Prison Service, (xvii) in the Court Service and (xviii) in the Crown Prosecution Service are vetted for crimes committed outside the United Kingdom. [243144]

Mr. Malik: For reasons of cost, I am only able to answer this question on behalf of the Home Office. It is Home Office policy to ensure that all recruits satisfy identity, background, right to work and unspent criminal conviction record checks including, for UK nationals, details of criminal convictions for recordable offences which have been notified to the UK authorities by either EU member states or through Interpol channels. This fully complies with the Baseline Personnel Security Standard (BPSS) issued by the Cabinet Office. In addition, using Home Office records, details are verified to ensure that any applicant has the right to work and that there are no integrity concerns. In addition, enhanced disclosures provided by the Criminal Records Bureau or Disclosure Scotland are required for those Home Office staff who work with children or vulnerable adults. We require information about both spent and unspent convictions for staff that are employed in a National Security Vetting (NSV) post.

When a foreign national seeks employment with the Home Office we seek to establish whether the individual has a criminal record in the UK as well as in their country of origin. It is not always possible to obtain this information from overseas. As set out in the Government Response to Sir Ian Magee's Review of Criminality Information published on 4 December 2008, we aim to improve the sharing of electronic information and to prioritise agreements on the sharing of criminality information for employment vetting and barring purposes with other EU countries.

Outside the EU we are taking a risk based approach to identify those countries that need to be a priority for information exchange for this purpose. However, in most cases where individuals have lived abroad during the preceding three years, if we cannot obtain a confident assessment about the absence of criminal records, the individual concerned will not be permitted to work in the Home Office and will be rejected on residency grounds.

Vetting: Maladministration

Paul Holmes: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what the ethnicity of those people who have been incorrectly designated as having a criminal conviction by the Criminal Records Bureau since the Bureau's inception is; [262472]

(2) how many of those incorrectly designated as having a criminal conviction by the Criminal Records Bureau since the Bureau's inception have received compensation; and how much has been awarded in compensation. [262473]

Mr. Malik: The Criminal Records Bureau (CRB) does not capture the ethnicity of applicants applying for disclosures. This information is not relevant to any of the searches done against the police national computer (PNC) or other data sources.

The CRB operates a redress scheme in line with Cabinet Office guidelines. Where there is evidence of maladministration on the part of the bureau when processing a disclosure application, a consolatory payment is made to the applicant. Information regarding how many applicants have received a consolatory payment following an incorrect match to a record held on the PNC and how much was awarded is not available.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Adult Education

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many new learning places he estimates will be created by implementation of the proposals in the Learning Revolution White Paper. [272757]

Mr. Simon: We are confident that the range of initiatives announced in The Learning Revolution White Paper will both increase the number of learning opportunities and help people access the many and varied kinds of learning that are already available. Adults want to learn in different ways—through structured classes and through libraries, museums, self-organised groups, membership organisations and on-line.

Our goal is that all adults are able to access a wide range of informal learning opportunities and that learning experiences are better joined-up so that people can pursue their interests. The "Learning Revolution" sets out proposals that will help achieve this goal, including increasing the availability of free and low cost spaces for learning, launching a £20 million transformation fund to reach out to new and different learners through partnership and innovation, setting up a support package for local learning champions and harnessing the potential of broadcasting and technology to support and enhance learning.

Apprentices

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people began apprenticeships under the apprenticeship programme for 16 to 18-year-olds in (a) Cheshire and (b) England in 2008. [272680]

Mr. Simon: 1,400 16 to 18-year-olds started an apprenticeship in Cheshire in the 2007/08 academic year, the latest academic year for which we have full-year information. 107,000 16 to 18-year-olds started an apprenticeship in England in the 2007/08 academic year.

The Government are committed to rebuilding apprenticeships. Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 65,000 to a record 225,000 apprenticeship starts in 2007/08. Completion rates are also at a record high with 64 per cent. successfully completing an apprenticeship—up from 37 per cent. in 2004/05.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many young people aged between 16 and 18 years old have (a) started and (b) completed an apprenticeship under the apprenticeship programme since its inception; and what estimate he has made of the proportion of young people who have completed apprenticeships under the scheme who are in full-time work. [272681]

Mr. Simon: Table 1 shows the number of apprenticeship starts and completions for 16 to 18-year-olds from 2007/08 back to 2003/04, the earliest year for which we have consistent data.

Table 1: Apprenticeship starts and completions for 16 to 18-year-olds

Information on the destination of apprentices upon completion of their apprenticeship is not readily available. This type of information will in future be collected using the Framework for Excellence learner destination survey with the first results for all Further Education Colleges and work based learning providers available later in 2009.

Apprentices: East Midlands

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people commenced level 2 apprenticeships in (a) Lincolnshire and (b) the East Midlands in (i) 2005-06, (ii) 2006-07 and (iii) 2007-08. [274041]

Mr. Simon: The table shows the number of apprenticeship (Level 2) starts in Lincolnshire and the East Midlands, from 2005/06 to 2007/08.

Basic Skills

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which 10 skills courses cost the (a) most and (b) least per trainee. [274064]

Mr. Simon: The majority of the public investment in adult skills continues to be directed towards the priority areas that will lead to sustainable employment. Courses in these areas receive a higher level of public subsidy—some courses, such as all programmes for learners aged under 19 and first full level 2 qualifications (other than apprenticeships) for adults are fully-funded, whereas for others the funding is reduced as the individual learner or employer is expected to make a contribution.

Courses vary considerably, ranging from Apprenticeship programmes which are delivered over several years and incorporate a bundle of qualifications (usually a technical certificate, NVQ, key skills, employment rights and responsibilities and any other mandatory requirements set by the relevant sector body) to individual units of qualifications which can be delivered in a single day.

The most costly courses are advanced apprenticeships which are fully funded for learners aged under 19 and which range in cost from £15,700 to £17,300. The 10 advanced apprenticeships requiring the greatest outlay are:

Farriery
Process Technology
Transport Engineering and Maintenance
Water Industry
Engineering
Engineering Construction
Electricity Industry
Building Services Engineering Technicians
Metals Industry
Polymer Processing and Signmaking.

The least costly courses relate to 15 individual units of qualifications funded through Train to Gain and are:

Building the Team
Business Help and Support
Business Markets and customers
Business Opportunities and Risks
Introduction to Leadership
Leading a Team Effectively
Manage Finance in a Business
Managing Creativity and Innovation in the Workplace
Negotiation in Business
Planning in Business
Resources and infrastructure within a business
Solving Problems and Making Decisions
The skills needed to run a business
What is Enterprise?
Working with costs and budgets

The costs of these courses are around £80.

Birmingham City University: Finance

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much funding Birmingham City university was allocated from the Widening Participation fund in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07 and (c) 2007-08; and for what purpose such funds were allocated in each such year. [274043]

Mr. Lammy: The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) allocated to Birmingham City university £4,534,752 in 2005/06, £5,722,098 in 2006/07 and £5,122,524 in 2007/08 for widening participation. This element of HEFCE's institutional grant is intended to recognise the additional costs of recruiting and supporting students from disadvantaged and non-traditional backgrounds and disabled students. Allocations are based on the profile of the university's student population.

Building Colleges for the Future Programme

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what estimate he has made of the number of Building Colleges for the Future funding applications which (a) involve land sales and (b) are part of local regeneration programmes. [273068]

Mr. Simon: Capital funding for further education colleges is administered by the Learning and Skills Council (LSC). As the information requested is with regard to an operational matter for the council, I have asked Geoffrey Russell, the acting LSC chief executive, to write to the hon. Member with the further information requested. A copy of his letter will be placed in the House Libraries.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many projects that had been approved in principle under the Building Colleges for the Future programme will receive funds from the £300 million allocated to the programme in the 2009 Budget. [274040]

Mr. Simon: Budget 2009 announced that an additional £300 million of capital funding will be made available in the current spending round and will allow a limited number of projects to start within this spending review period. Capital investment between 2007-08 and 2010-11 will total £2.6 billion on top of the £2 billion invested between 1997-98 and 2007-08.

It is not possible to say the exact number of, or the names of the specific projects, that will be funded as the selection of projects will be based on objective criteria that the LSC is developing in consultation with the sector. The LSC plan to confirm which projects will be taken forward during this spending review period at the beginning of the summer.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what his Department's policy is on the practice of holding departmental away days outside the Department's buildings. [268533]

Mr. Simon: The Department believes that away days can be beneficial and necessary for staff development, team building and planning to help deliver the Department's plans and objectives.

The organisation of away days outside the Department's buildings will be based on sound planning and, where accommodation costs and other charges are involved, our policies on appropriateness and value for money.

Education: Finance

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent estimate he has made of his Department's capital expenditure assigned to (a) further and (b) higher education in (i) 2009-10 and (ii) 2010-11. [274054]

Mr. Simon: Budget 2009 announced additional capital funds for further education of more than £300 million for this spending review period (2009-10 and 10-11), with the total FE capital budget for 2009-10 being £827.6 million, and in 2010-11 being £448.1 million. This budget will cover expenditure on projects which have already been approved as well as new projects.

Budgeted capital spend for HE is £1,215.5 million in 2009-10 and £713.5 million in 2010-11.

These figures take into account the planned expenditure brought forward from 2010-11 as part of the fiscal stimulus package announced in the pre-Budget report.

Further Education

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills (1) how many colleges were on the register of education and training providers in each year since 1997; [273069]

(2) how many new colleges registered with his Department and its predecessors as education and training providers in each year since 1997; [273070]

(3) how many further education colleges registered with his Department and its predecessors closed in each year since 1997. [273071]

Mr. Simon: The Register of Education and Training Providers was established in 2005 to support the Home Office in tackling immigration abuse in the education sector. This was absorbed into the new UK Border Agency's (UKBA) Register of Sponsors on 30 March 2009 which will carry out a similar role.

All statutory further education (FE) colleges (including sixth form colleges) were included on the Register during its years of operation. The figures are provided at Annex A.

The Register also held approximately 15,000 other education and training providers at the time it ceased operations. Any education or training provider is free to call itself a college and without disproportionate expense the number using that descriptor for their activities cannot be identified.

The number of new statutory further education (FE) colleges (including sixth form colleges) created by the Department and its predecessors since 1997 is provided at Annex B.

The number of statutory further education (FE) colleges (including sixth form colleges) closed by the Department and its predecessors since 1997 is also provided at Annex C.

Further Education: Assessments

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what proportion of courses leading to (a) a higher national diploma qualification, (b) a higher national certificate qualification and (c) a foundation degree were taught in further education colleges in (i) 2006-07, (ii) 2007-08 and (iii) 2008-09. [274158]

Mr. Lammy: The latest available information regarding students studying for higher national diplomas (HND), higher national certificates (HNC) and foundation degrees in further education colleges and higher education institutions is given in the following table. Figures for the 2008/09 academic year will be available in January 2010.

Enrolments[1] to HND, HNC and foundation degree courses by type of institution—English further education colleges and higher education institutions academic years 2006/07 and 2007/08[2]

Learning and Skills Council: Reorganisation

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what recent progress has been made on the reallocation of responsibilities of the Learning and Skills Council; and if he will make a statement. [273396]

Mr. Simon: We have made good progress with the transfer of functions to local authorities, the Young People's Learning Agency and to the Skills Funding Agency. We are on track to implement shadow arrangements by September 2009 ahead of the formal transfer in April 2010. The new arrangements are designed to deliver better and more focused services for young people, adults and business.

The changes are intended to allow local authorities to take a clear lead on the integrated delivery of all children's services from birth to 19, including supporting the rise of the participation age to 19. Post-19, a new Skills Funding Agency will take up the challenge of delivering on our 2020 skills ambitions (as set out in the Leitch Review) by leading a demand-led system delivering a range of skills training at a time and place that suits both learners and employers.

The staffing structure (including staff numbers and roles) and locations for both the new agencies and local authorities have been confirmed and communicated to LSC staff.

This has allowed the LSC to take forward the appropriate HR processes to establish shadow structures by September 2009. On the same timeline, the recruitment processes for the YPLA chair and chief executive and the chief executive of Skills Funding began in April. We have already established the National Apprenticeships Service that will see a radical change in driving up demand for and delivery of apprenticeships to young people and adults. The "Apprenticeships, Skills, Children and Learning" Bill, which contains the draft clauses that will underpin the Machinery of Government reforms, is progressing through Parliament having already concluded Commons Committee in April.

Qualifications

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills which countries do not reciprocally recognise qualifications in skills training and apprenticeships funded by his Department. [274068]

Mr. Lammy: The Department does not hold this specific information. However from a European perspective, in most member states certain professions are regulated and the EU directive on professional recognition requires authorities which give access to the profession to take account of qualifications gained elsewhere within Europe.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Development Aid

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what proportion of the Government's official development assistance finding was met by each relevant department in each year since 2007; what proportion is expected to be met by each relevant department in (a) 2009 and (b) 2010; and if he will make a statement. [272363]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: A summary of the make-up of UK Official Development Assistance (ODA) in 2007 and 2008 was published in March in the DFID Statistical Release "Provisional UK Official Development Assistance as a proportion of Gross National Income, 2008" available on the DFID website (www.dfid.gov.uk). A summary is provided in the following table.

Figures for 2009 and 2010 are not yet available.

Departmental breakdown of UK official development assistance

	Out-turn 2007	Percentage Provisional 2008
Department for International Development	104	88
Foreign and Commonwealth Office	3	2
Ministry of Defence	0	1
CDC net investment	-10	3
Debt relief	0	4
Other	2	1

JUSTICE

Electoral Register: Public Consultation

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to the Answer to the hon. Member for Stroud of 16 March 2009, Official Report, columns 951-2W, on financial services: electoral register, what the timetable is for the consultation. [273345]

Mr. Wills: As mentioned by my hon. Friend the Minister of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (Mr. Thomas) to the question asked on 16 March 2009, Official Report, columns 951-52W, by my hon. Friend the Member for Stroud (Mr. Drew), the Government are committed to holding a public consultation to establish how removing the provisions that govern the edited register would impact not just on individuals but the economy as a whole.

The exact timing of the consultation has not yet been finalised but it is our intention to launch it shortly. The consultation will enable the Government to build a firmer evidence base about the advantages and disadvantages of the edited register and consider the way forward on the basis of the responses received.

Prisons: Discipline

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prison officers in England and Wales are (a) riot trained and (b) qualified to act as Tornado support; and at which prisons they are located. [272829]

Mr. Hanson: On 1 May a total of 2,964 prison officers were trained to Control and Restraint Advance Level. These prison officers are qualified to act as Tornado support and are located at 108 establishments throughout England and Wales.

Prisons: Smoking

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many prisoners who smoke were sharing cells with non-smokers on 1 January 2009. [272828]

Mr. Hanson: Under the terms of Prison Service Instruction 9/2007, which is available in the Library of the House, prisoners who are non-smokers must not be required to share a cell with smokers who are actively smoking. The status of a prisoner as a smoker or non-smoker should be established as part of reception procedures. Thereafter, arrangements must be made to place non-smokers and smokers in separate accommodation.

Occasionally it may be necessary to locate a smoker and a non-smoker together temporarily when there is no other accommodation available. The smoker should not be actively smoking in the cell and will be offered aids to help them refrain. There are no formal arrangements for recording this centrally, although it would normally be recorded on the individual prisoner's history sheet. Information as to the number of smokers and non-smokers sharing cells on any given date could be obtained only by examining the record of every prisoner in custody at the time, at disproportionate cost.

Reparation by Offenders

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many (a) hits and (b) votes have been recorded on the Community Payback website since its inception. [272824]

Mr. Hanson: The Community Payback campaign aims to raise awareness of Community Payback by inviting members of the public to vote for unpaid work to be completed by offenders in their area.

User information is held by Directgov:

www.direct.gov.uk

The total number of visitors to the site, number of votes received online and via local pioneer areas will be available in June. Once available, I will write to the hon. Member and place in the Library of House.

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how much his Department has spent on (a) advertising in all media and (b) related communications and consultancy services on the promotion of its Community Payback initiative, broken down by category of expenditure. [272825]

Mr. Hanson: The Community Payback campaign aims to raise awareness of Community Payback by inviting members of the public to vote for unpaid work to be completed by offenders in their area.

Since the creation of the Ministry of Justice, £630,000 has been spent on advertising Community Payback across 59 pioneer areas in England and Wales in March/April 2009. Funding was provided by the Home Office and the Ministry of Justice incurred no costs.

In 2007-08 55,771 people successfully completed community payback sentences. This amounts to over 8 million hours of labour, which was used to benefit the community.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Members: Pensions

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Leader of the House if she will request from the trustees of the Parliamentary Contributory Pension Fund a report on the degree to which the pooled fund has participated in stock lending in the last 12 months. [273655]

Chris Bryant: I refer the hon. Member to my answers of 16 March 2009, Official Report, column 966W and 23 March 2009, Official Report, column 43W.

The Trustees are required from time-to-time to consult the Leader of the House on a Statement of Investment Principles (SIP). I expect the Leader to receive a revised SIP from the Trustees later this year.

I also understand that the Trustees will be considering shortly the draft of the 2009 PCPF Annual Review, which is sent to all members of the PCPF. It will be proposed for the Trustees' consideration that the Review should include an article on stock lending with details of the amount of stock being lent.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Buildings

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much was spent by his Department on furniture for departmental buildings in each of the last five years. [265395]

Ann McKechin: The Scotland Office and Office of the Advocate General expenditure on furniture for departmental buildings in the last five years is as follows:

	Cost (£)
2003-04	4,454
2004-05	25,096
2005-06	16,995
2006-07	0
2007-08	2,384

TRANSPORT

Airports: Security

Mr. Tom Clarke: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the introduction of charges for priority security checks on the level of security at UK airports. [273192]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The introduction of charges for priority security checks is a decision for individual airports and airlines to make. Such a decision will not impact on the level of security in place at UK airports. The required security standards set by the Department for Transport apply equally to all passengers.

Aviation: Cyprus

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many (a) scheduled and (b) inclusive tour flights there were from British airports to (i) Cyprus, (ii) Ireland and (iii) Austria in each of the last five years. [272567]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Flights services are defined as scheduled or charter; inclusive tour flights are not separately identified.

The tables show the number of scheduled and charter flights departing from British airports to Cyprus, Ireland and Austria in each of the last five years.

Table 1. Scheduled flights from British airports to Cyprus, Ireland and Austria

Departmental Public Relations

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the remit of his Department's communication directorate is; how many people were employed in this directorate in (a) 2007-08, (b) 2008-09 and (c) 2009-10; and what the budget for the directorate was in each such year. [273986]

Mr. Hoon: The role of the Department's Communication Directorate is set out in chapter 11 (page 177) of the Department's Annual Report 2008, Command Paper 7395, and available from TSO and the Department's website www.dft.gov.uk.

The average number of full time equivalent (FTE) staff employed by the Department in the Communication Directorate and its net administration resource is set out in the following table.

	Communication Directorate
	2007-08[1]	2008-09[1]	2009-10[2]
Staff FTE	69.8	65.5	63.7
Net resource (£000)	5,754	5,490[3]	5,310

[1] Average staff and resource outturn for the year.
[2] Staff employed and resource budget as at 1 April 2009.
[3] 2008-09 is provisional resource outturn and subject to audit.

Driving Under Influence: Drugs

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many fatal road traffic accidents involved a person (a) whose driving ability was impaired by illegal drugs and (b) who tested positive for illegal drugs in each of the last five years. [273811]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of fatal road accidents where the contributory factor 'impaired by drugs' was reported by the police officer at the scene of the accident are given in the table:

	Fatal accidents[1]
2005	50
2006	51
2007	64

[1] Includes only accidents where a police officer attended the scene and in which a contributory factor was reported

Information on contributory factors is only available from 2005. It is not possible to distinguish whether illegal or medicinal drugs were involved.

Information on whether a person involved in a fatal road accident tested positive for illegal drugs is not available.

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what recent assessment he has made of the performance of the Field Impairment Test in determining whether a person is fit to drive after taking illegal drugs; [273812]

(2) whether his Department has commissioned studies of the effectiveness of roadside drug testing in other countries; and if he will make a statement. [273813]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The most recent assessment of Field Impairment Testing is in the Department's Road Safety Research Report No. 63—Monitoring the Effectiveness of UK Field Impairment Tests which was published in April 2006. It is available on-line at:

www.dft.gov.uk/pgr/roadsafety/research.

The Department has not commissioned any studies of roadside drug testing abroad. However, the EU's Rosita-2 project evaluated the usability and analytical reliability of roadside drug testing devices in several European countries and the USA. The project report is available online at www.rosita.org.

It concluded that no device was considered sufficiently reliable in order to be recommended for roadside screening of drivers.

Driving: Licensing

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what criteria are used to establish whether the holder of a full UK driving licence is required to retake a driving test before the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency may accept an application to renew the licence. [273757]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency does not require a full driving licence holder to retake a driving test as a condition of renewing a driving licence unless they have been subject to medical restrictions, revocation of their entitlement under the terms of the 'New Drivers' Act or an order by a court of law to retake a driving test/extended driving test.

Heathrow Airport

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport who decided that his Department's communications directorate would gather information on those opposed to the planned expansion of Heathrow on environmental grounds; who decided that such information would be passed to the police; on what date each decision was made; and if he will make a statement. [273987]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport continually seeks to understand the views of all those with an interest in transport policy. The communications directorate contributes to this process by researching material in the public domain such as websites, press releases and editorial comment and through holding public consultations.

In advance of public events, the Department often liaises with the police to seek advice on how to ensure the safety of everyone attending be it staff or members of the public. The consultation on Adding Capacity at Heathrow Airport involved public events at 12 locations. It is therefore entirely appropriate that the Department discussed safety arrangements with the relevant police forces as part of the planning for those events.

Railways: Franchises

Kate Hoey: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will bring forward legislative proposals to require rail franchises and concessions which are operated in part or in full by non-UK companies to allocate to their UK operations profits which accrue in respect of those operations. [272394]

Mr. Timms: I have been asked to reply.

Activities undertaken in the UK, including the operation of rail franchises and concessions, are subject to UK tax whether undertaken by UK or foreign operators. The UK already has in place legislation to prevent profits from such activities being artificially diverted abroad. This legislation is kept under review.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what his policy is on the replacement of train franchises by fixed fee operating agreements. [273988]

Paul Clark: Operating agreements with train operating companies may be considered when appropriate to discharge the Department for Transport's duty to ensure continuity of rail services.

This duty, under section 30 of the Railways Act 1993, allows action to be taken in a way which is affordable, delivers value for money and fits with the department's wider objectives.

Roads: Accidents

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many cyclist deaths associated with a vehicular accident have occurred in respect of each type of vehicle in the last five years. [273995]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of pedal cyclist fatalities resulting from reported personal injury road accidents in Great Britain with each type of vehicle in the last five years is given in the table:

Number of pedal cyclist fatalities

	2003	2004	2005	2006	2007
Single vehicle accidents
No pedestrian	10	11	17	12	12

TREASURY

Child Care Tax Credit

Mrs. Maria Miller: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what models of child care tax credit are being piloted through HM Revenue and Customs; when he expects the outcomes of such pilots to be available; and if he will publish the outcomes upon availability; [273814]

(2) what models of child care tax credit are being piloted through the Childcare Affordability Programme 2009; when he expects the outcomes of these pilots to be known; and if he will publish such outcomes. [273815]

Mr. Timms: HMRC will be piloting a new payment model for the childcare element of the working tax credit as part of the Childcare Affordability Programme 2009 (CAP09). As announced in PBR 2008, the model is concerned with making child care payments that more closely reflect child care costs at the time they were incurred. The pilot will run until April 2011 and the results will be published in the evaluation of the CAP09.

Crown Estate Commissioners: Pay

Jim Cousins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many and what percentage of full-time staff employed by the Crown Estate in (a) each region of England, (b) Scotland, (c) Wales and (d) Northern Ireland are paid less than £15,944 per annum. [273113]

Angela Eagle: The Crown Estate has 10 such employees, some 2.8 per cent. of the total workforce. All of these work in the South East of England, making up some 3per cent. of the workforce for this region.

Excise Duties: Alcoholic Drinks

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what the change in the rate each duty on alcohol was in each year since 1990; [273264]

(2) how much revenue from duties on alcohol has accrued to the Exchequer in each year since 1990. [273265]

Angela Eagle: HM Revenue and Customs publishes alcohol duty rates and revenues on the UKTradeInfo website:

https://www.uktradeinfo.com/index.cfm?task=bulletins

Members: Correspondence

John Bercow: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter of 27 February 2009 from the hon. Member for Buckingham on Lloyds TSB's sale of Abbey Life Financial Advisers in 2000. [273193]

Angela Eagle: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

Mr. Harper: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter of 12 March 2009 from the hon. Member for the Forest of Dean on the merger between Lloyds TSB and HBOS, reference FD1238. [273657]

Angela Eagle: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the Financial Secretary plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 31 March 2009 on the abolition of IR35 reference: 3/09551/2009. [273822]

Angela Eagle: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the Economic Secretary plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 25 February 2009 on Lloyds TSB Bank staff bonuses. [273823]

Ian Pearson: A reply has been sent to the hon. Member.

Mortgages

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent representations he has received on consumer protection matters relating to the mortgage industry; and if he will make a statement. [273176]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 7 May 2009]: Treasury Ministers and officials receive representations from a wide variety of organisations in the public and private sectors as part of the process of policy development and delivery. As was the case with previous administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such representations.

Overseas Trade

Mr. Brady: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment his Department has made of the effects on variance in top levels of (a) income and (b) social taxes in OECD economies on UK competitiveness in those economies. [273659]

Angela Eagle: The Government are committed to maintaining the competitiveness of the UK. When comparing UK tax rates internationally we consider both the overall level and wider structure of taxation.

Revenue and Customs: Closures

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) for what reasons no equality impact assessment was undertaken in respect of HM Revenue and Customs Workforce Change programme; [273238]

(2) whether an equality impact assessment has been carried out on the proposal to close HM Revenue and Customs' Shrewsbury office. [273327]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs undertook equality screening on all its proposals for rationalising its estate before publishing these for staff consultation.

Further equality screening on the proposals took place both during and following the staff consultation period to identify any additional adverse impacts requiring mitigating action.

The outcome of the further equality screening undertaken was included in the Impact Assessment published for each building scheduled for closure, including New Mayfield House, Shrewsbury. These impact assessments can be found on the HMRC Internet site at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/better-regulation/regional-reviews.htm

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) whether he plans HM Revenue and Customs employees based in offices in Shropshire to be compulsorily relocated on closure of those offices; [273328]

(2) what steps his Department plans to take to assist staff in Shrewsbury's HM Revenue and Customs office who have not secured alternative work by the date the office is due to close. [273331]

Mr. Timms: The expectation is that staff at the HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) office in Shrewsbury will commute to one of the offices HMRC is retaining, if it is within reasonable daily travel for them. For those unable to do so a range of redeployment options will be explored, including other jobs within HMRC or other Government Departments. Staff will be supported through this process by managers and the local implementation team.

HMRC remains committed to avoiding compulsory redundancies where it is practical to do so. Compulsory home moves are one measure HMRC will consider if there are no other alternatives that would avoid compulsory redundancies.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will undertake a review of the financial basis for the proposed closures of HM Revenue and Customs offices in the current economic circumstances. [273332]

Mr. Timms: No. In the current economic climate it is more important than ever for HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) to manage its business and estate as efficiently as possible so as to achieve the best possible value to the taxpayer. That is the rationale behind office closures. HMRC is keeping the offices that best match its future business needs and giving up office space that is no longer needed as a result of its business reorganisation.

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions on the closure of HM Revenue and Customs offices; and if he will make a statement. [274078]

Mr. Timms: Earlier this year officials in HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) signed an agreement with officials in the Department for Work and Pensions (DWP) to help provide opportunities for HMRC staff who may wish to voluntarily transfer to Jobcentre Plus. This agreement provides a framework to identify where there is a good match between DWP Jobcentre Plus recruitment plans and HMRC staff who may be looking for new opportunities. HMRC is supporting staff through the application process, should they decide to move to other Government Departments.

Under this agreement the first group of HMRC staff have moved across to DWP and both departments continue to work together to maximise opportunities for HMRC staff.

Revenue and Customs: Shrewsbury

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what effect the closure of HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC's) Shrewsbury office is expected to have on HMRC's costs, broken down by category of expenditure. [273326]

Mr. Timms: The closure of the HM Revenue and Customs office in Shrewsbury will contribute to improved efficiency through the concentration of function into a smaller number of sites. These efficiencies will be realised at a department-wide level rather than at individual office level. The closure will also contribute to cumulative overall accommodation cost savings of some £230 million by 2011-12.

Reliable figures for the specific costs of closing the Shrewsbury office will only be established once workable options have been found for all staff prior to the accommodation being vacated.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will bring forward proposals to assist school leavers in Shrewsbury and Atcham constituency to apply for jobs in HM Revenue and Customs constitution following the closure of the HMRC office in Shrewsbury. [273329]

Mr. Timms: At a time when HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) is reducing in numbers and closing offices, the opportunities for school leavers will be more limited. HMRC is recruiting to fill only posts with particular requirements which cannot be met internally.

Taxation: Arts

Mr. Fallon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will amend HM Revenue and Customs' guidelines to allow charities with an annual turnover of less than £25,000 to pay honoraria tax-free to organisers of arts and music festivals. [273712]

Angela Eagle: HM Revenue and Customs' published guidance reflects the law and sets out the rules on the tax-treatment of honoraria in the hands of voluntary workers and unpaid office holders. Although such guidance is kept under review we have no plans to introduce a specific exemption on the lines suggested.

Taxation: Bingo

John Hemming: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer for what reason the rates of tax imposed on profits from bingo participation and other gambling activities differ; and if he will make a statement. [273125]

Angela Eagle: The Government consider all relevant factors when establishing and maintaining fair regimes for the gambling taxes, including the state of the gambling industry, wider economic considerations, and the state of the public finances.

For bingo, the overall effective tax rate is 22 per cent. down from 35 per cent. in 2003. This is in line with that on casinos, machines and the national lottery, all of which are taxed within a 20-25 per cent. range.

Taxation: Sports

Mr. Garnier: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what his policy is on the taxation of the testimonial benefits of sportsmen and women; and what assessment he has made of its operation by HM Revenue and Customs in respect of (a) cricketers, (b) rugby union players and (c) rugby league players. [273711]

Mr. Timms: The treatment of the money raised at testimonial and benefit events that is received by sportsmen and women is described in HM Revenue and Customs employment income manual under the heading "Tax treatment of benefit matches and testimonials given to sportsmen and women—in particular rugby, soccer and cricket players" available at:

www.hmrc.gov.uk/manuals/eimanual/EIM64120.htm

WALES

Non-Domestic Rates: Ports

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Wales which ports in Wales have been affected by retrospective levying of business rates on ports. [270267]

Mr. Paul Murphy: Ports affected by retrospective business rates on businesses outside the control of the Ports Authority are:

Barry, Cardiff, Fishguard, Holyhead, Milford Dock Company, Mostyn, Newport, Port Talbot and Swansea.

Work is still ongoing in respect of Milford Haven Port Authority where new facts are being investigated and discussed, which may impact on the number of properties involved.

Written Answers to Questions

Monday 11 May 2009

PRIME MINISTER

Intelligence and Security Committee

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Prime Minister whether the name of the Clerk of the Intelligence and Security Committee will be published in the next edition of the Civil Service Yearbook; and if he will make a statement. [273996]

The Prime Minister: The name will be published in the usual manner.

Intelligence Services: Publications

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Prime Minister (1) what facilities were afforded to Gordon Thomas by or on behalf of (a) the Security Service, (b) the Secret Intelligence Service and (c) others in the security and intelligence services in his research for his book, Inside British Intelligence; and if he will make a statement; [273999]

(2) at what level, and in what circumstances, members of the security and intelligence services were authorised to give interviews or other assistance to Gordon Thomas in the preparation of his book, Inside British Intelligence; and if he will make a statement. [274000]

The Prime Minister: This is not an official publication.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

British Grand Prix

Mr. Baron: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what discussions his Department has had with third parties on the proposed relocation of the British Grand Prix from Silverstone to Donington; what support he plans to offer for such a move; and if he will make a statement. [274606]

Mr. Sutcliffe: On 4 July 2008, Formula One Management signed a 10 year contract with Donington Ventures Leisure Ltd. (DVLL) to host the British Formula One Grand Prix at Donington from 2010. This was a commercial agreement between the parties concerned.

Ministers continue to discuss the hosting of the British Grand Prix with various parties and I recently visited Donington to discuss progress with the owners.

It is the Government's ongoing wish to see a British Grand Prix in this country and we continue to facilitate and support this where we can.

Departmental Pay

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many full-time staff employed by (a) his Department in London, (b) historic royal palaces and (c) the National Gallery earn less than £15,944 per annum. [274167]

Mr. Sutcliffe: There are no full-time staff employed in DCMS who earn less than £15,944 per annum. We do not hold records centrally about pay for staff in the historic royal palaces or the National Gallery.

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many staff employed in London on work contracted out by his Department earn less than £7.45 per hour. [274168]

Mr. Sutcliffe: There are 28 staff employed in London on work contracted out by the Department that earn less than £7.45 per hour.

SCOTLAND

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with output greater than 250kW; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations came into force; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report. [272121]

Ann McKechin: Scotland Office buildings are not equipped with any air conditioning systems with greater than 250kW output.

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Scotland how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. [272124]

Ann McKechin: £3,099 has been spent by the Scotland Office in carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 for Dover House. The regulations do not apply to our Edinburgh office.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Bloody Sunday Tribunal of Inquiry

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland how much has been spent to date on administrative costs associated with the Bloody Sunday Inquiry. [260151]

Mr. Woodward: The Northern Ireland Office budget is split into two cost areas—programme and administration. In relation to the Bloody Sunday inquiry, administration costs are the costs relating to the salaries and other associated costs of the civil servants staffing the inquiry, and various costs associated with the running of the inquiry's offices. I am advised that the Bloody Sunday inquiry has spent £11.5 million on such administration costs since its establishment to the end of March 2009. Programme costs, which relate more directly to the costs of the inquiry itself (e.g. IT infrastructure costs, legal fees, tribunal costs etc.) are not included in this figure.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Disabled Staff

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission if the House of Commons Commission will make an estimate of the effect of the proposed transfer of hon. Members' staff to become direct employees of the House on its targets for the number of disabled people it employs. [274322]

Nick Harvey: The House of Commons Commission has been asked by the House to make recommendations on the implementation of the proposal that staff who work for hon. Members should be employed by the House. In its consideration of this proposal, a number of aspects of employment law, including that relating to disability, will need to be taken into account.

Parliament: Internet

Mr. Amess: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 26W, on audio recordings, what progress has been made in setting up a history area of the Parliament website; whether any decision has been made on sound recordings planned for inclusion in that area; and if he will make a statement. [273897]

Nick Harvey: A new area of the Parliament website is due to be launched this summer which will focus on Parliament's heritage. This will replace and expand on the historical information that is currently available on the site and cover the building and its collections, the evolution of Parliament and key pieces of legislation that have transformed society. This area will also provide the opportunity to embed or link to a variety of different content including relevant audio files. Having run a successful pilot the web centre is planning to release a number of podcasts over the coming financial year. These recordings will cover, among other topics, the history, art and architecture of the Houses of Parliament.

CHURCH COMMISSIONERS

Church of England: Finance

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what the value of (a) securities available for lending, (b) securities lent and (c) securities lent to hedge funds by the Church Commissioners was in each of the last three years. [273444]

Sir Stuart Bell: The Commissioners commenced a securities lending programme for the first time in 2008. At the end of the year, £4.2 million of securities were lent to seven investment banks but none were on loan directly with hedge funds. There is an upper limit amounting to 10 per cent. of total securities that can be lent at any time.

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what proportion of the Church Commissioners' listed securities were invested overseas in each of the last three years. [273445]

Sir Stuart Bell: At the end of 2006 the Commissioners' exposure to overseas equities stood at 36 per cent. of total equities exposure. At the end of 2007 the percentage was 37 per cent. and at the end of 2008 it had grown to about 53 per cent. (fully audited figures will be published later this week).

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners how much of the Church Commissioners' assets were held in real estate in (a) the UK and (b) overseas in each of the last three years. [273446]

Sir Stuart Bell: The figures requested by the hon. Gentleman are as follows:

£ million

	Total real estate	Overseas real estate	UK real estate
2005	1,415.6	10.1	1,405.5
2006	1,692.8	32.8	1,660
2007	1,724.6	110.2	1,614.4

2008 figures will be published later this week.

Church of England: Vehicles

Mr. Gibb: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners how many vehicles the Church Commissioners (a) own and (b) operate. [273313]

Sir Stuart Bell: The Commissioners operate 101 vehicles, one of which they own (the rest being held under a leasing agreement).

TRANSPORT

Aviation

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what the latest unconstrained demand forecast for UK air travel in 2030 is taking account of (a) the errata published on 17 March 2009 to the January 2009 UK Air Passenger Demand and CO_2 Forecasts and (b) the revised gross domestic product forecasts contained in the 2009 Budget Report. [272409]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport's latest forecasts of unconstrained demand in the UK in 2030 are given in table 2.10, page 44 of "UK Air Passenger Demand and CO_2 Forecasts" published in January 2009. The central estimate is 465 million passengers per annum (mppa). Table 2.10 of the report also reports the Department's forecasts of unconstrained demand under a range of sensitivity tests, including one which reflects the GDP forecasts announced at the time of the 2008 pre-Budget report (referred to as 'PBR Nov 2008 GDP forecast').

The Department published the errata on 17 March 2009 following the discovery of an input error to the 'PBR Nov 2008 GDP forecast' sensitivity test. The corrected forecast of UK unconstrained demand in 2030 for this sensitivity test given in the errata is 435 mppa (revised down from 445 mppa, given in the published report). The central case forecast and other sensitivity tests were not affected by the errata.

The Department has not yet updated its forecasts to reflect the 2009 Budget report. It aims to publish updated forecasts when there is a policy need, as it did recently alongside the announcement of policy decisions on the future development of Heathrow airport.

Aviation: Greater London

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many flights there were over London airspace in each year since 1997; and how many there are projected to be in (a) 2010, (b) 2020, (c) 2030 and (d) 2040. [274418]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The Department for Transport does not hold this information.

Airspace management in the UK is an operational matter for the air traffic control provider, NATS. The following link to the NATS website provides an overview of traffic volumes handled by NATS from their various centres and flights handled at major UK airports:

http://www.nats.co.uk/text/47/operational_and_safety.html

Further information may be obtained by contacting NATS directly:

External Communications Department, 4000 Parkway, Whiteley, Fareham, Hants, PO15 7FL.

Driving Offences: Fines

Mr. Vara: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many fines have been issued by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency for failure to comply with the provisions of section 59 of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 in each year since the Act came into force. [274031]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of out of court settlements (OCS) issued by the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency for failure to comply with the provisions of section 59 of the Vehicle Excise and Registration Act 1994 are as follows:

	Number
1999-2000	5,100
2000-01	27,222
2001-02	48,534
2002-03	85,020
2003-04	79,363
2004-05	59,216
2005-06	52,640
2006-07	42,078
2007-08	36,794
2008-09	132,137

Motor Vehicles: Fuels

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many and what percentage of cars in the UK were (a) diesel, (b) unleaded petrol, (c) hybrid, (d) electric and (e) other in each year since 1997. [274417]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The numbers (in thousands) and percentages of cars of different propulsion types licensed in Great Britain in each year since 1997 were as follows:

	Diesel		Petrol		Hybrid electric		Electric		Thousand/percentage Other
	No.	%	No.	%	No.	%	No.	%	No.	%
1997	2,441	11	20,380	89	0	0	—	—	6	—
1998	2,693	12	20,591	88	0	0	—	—	10	—
1999	2,930	12	21,019	88	0	0	—	—	14	—
2000	3,153	13	21,253	87	—	—	—	—	20	—
2001	3,460	14	21,641	86	1	—	—	—	24	—
2002	3,912	15	21,839	85	1	—	—	—	29	—
2003	4,469	17	21,805	83	1	—	—	—	34	—
2004	5,011	19	21,977	81	3	—	—	—	38	—
2005	5,596	20	21,836	79	8	—	—	—	40	—
2006	6,135	22	21,631	78	17	—	—	—	43	—
2007	6,716	24	21,432	76	32	—	1	—	46	—
2008	7,227	25	21,064	74	47	—	1	—	51	—

"—" is given where the value is negligible (less than half the final digit shown).

The data presented above relate to the position at the 31 December each year.

The Department for Transport does not hold statistics regarding vehicle registrations in Northern Ireland.

Motor Vehicles: Lighting

Dr. Iddon: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport (1) what timetable he has set for publication of the responses to his Department's consultation on amendments to the vehicle lighting and construction regulations; [272534]

(2) if he will bring forward proposals to amend road vehicle lighting regulations to require conspicuity markings on all heavy goods vehicles registered from 10 October 2009. [272535]

Jim Fitzpatrick: We plan to publish the results of the consultation by the summer, together with the amendments to the lighting regulations.

These amendments will require new heavy goods vehicles and their trailers first used from 10 October 2009 to be fitted with conspicuity markings.

This date coincides with the international agreements contained in UN-ECE Regulation 48 on vehicle lighting. Bringing forward the implementation date would contravene this regulation.

Ports: EU Action

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent representations he has received on proposals for a common EU maritime policy on port taxes. [272699]

Jim Fitzpatrick: None.

Railways: Fares

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will take steps to prevent train operating companies raising the cost of unregulated fares further during 2009. [272411]

Paul Clark: Unregulated fares are a commercial matter for train operators who are free to set them on a commercial basis. Train operators face strong competition from the private car, coaches and airlines and will set fares to compete: it is not in their interest to price people off the railway as this would reduce their revenue.

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what discussions he has had with (a) National Express East Coast, (b) First Great Western, (c) East Midlands Trains, (d) First Capital Connect and (e) CrossCountry on plans to raise the cost of unregulated fares. [272421]

Paul Clark: Unregulated fares are a commercial matter for train operators who are free to set them on a commercial basis. Department for Transport officials hold regular meetings with train operators, during which a wide range of topics are discussed.

Railways: Franchises

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what criteria are used to determine the minimum service provisions of train operating companies' franchise agreements; and what processes there are for consultation with passengers on any changes in these provisions. [274408]

Paul Clark: The service provisions within franchise agreements are consulted upon by the Department for Transport as part of the franchise reletting process. Such consultations usually involve all relevant local authorities, passenger transport executives (PTE's) and other major stakeholders, user groups and user representatives such as Passenger Focus.

The minimum level of service—as described within the service level commitment detailed within the franchise agreement—is determined by a combination of:

Deliverability (i.e. can it be timetabled alongside all other services);

Cost;

Demand and Revenues;

Overall levels of service.

Train operators are required to consult stakeholders where they propose changes to these minimum service levels, and the Department will consider these responses alongside other evidence from operators in deciding whether such changes are appropriate.

Railways: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will estimate the level of overall demand for direct train services between Torbay and London. [274290]

Paul Clark: Estimates of the overall demand for direct train services are based on data on recent flows between Torbay and London. Both South West Trains and First Great Western operate London-Torbay services from Waterloo and Paddington respectively. This information belongs to the train operating company and queries should be addressed to the companies concerned at:

First Great Western Milford House
Swindon
SN11HL

South West Trains
Customer Service Centre
Overline House
Blechynden Terrace
Southampton
SO15 1GW

Roads: Accidents

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many accidents have occurred in each year involving powered two-wheel vehicles causing (a) death, (b) serious injury and (c) other injury in each (i) county and (ii) unitary council area in each year since 1997. [274419]

Jim Fitzpatrick: Tables showing the number of (a) fatal, (b) serious and (c) slight reported personal injury road accidents involving at least one motorcycle in each county and local authority area in each year since 1997 have been deposited in the Libraries of the House.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Agriculture: Subsidies

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much his Department has paid back to the European Union following rulings in relation to breaches by the UK of requirements under the Common Agricultural Policy in each year since 1997. [273276]

Jane Kennedy [holding answer 7 May 2009]: The Rural Payments Agency has had the following financial corrections applied by the European Commission over the past five financial years:

	£ million
2008-09	140.475
2007-08	22.154
2006-07	3.049
2005-06	22.608
2004-05	12.170

Payments are deducted from subsequent claim reimbursements, two months after the correction decision is formally published, but with the exception of late payment penalties which are deducted at the time of the claim being submitted. In this case the correction decision is retrospective. The high figure in 2008-09 includes such a retrospective decision for failure to meet payment deadlines in regard to the Single Payment Scheme 2005.

Data prior to the implementation of the Single Payment Scheme (e.g. prior to 2004) could be obtained only at disproportionate cost.

Animal Welfare

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the National Farmers Union on action to be taken following the consultation on Responsibility and Cost Sharing. [273344]

Jane Kennedy: The Secretary of State and I meet regularly with representatives of the National Farmers Union to discuss a wide range of agricultural and farming issues including responsibility and cost sharing for animal health.

Bees

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (1) what estimate he has made of the likely change in the number of (a) honey and (b) bumble bees as a percentage of their total population in the next five years; [273301]

(2) what his most recent estimate is of the cost to agriculture in England of the likely change in the numbers of (a) honey bees and (b) bumble bees in the next 10 years. [273302]

Jane Kennedy: No such estimates have been made yet. However, recent evidence considering the decline in species richness of both bumblebees and solitary bees suggests a significant decrease in the number of bee species for which data was available in England. In recognition of this, the Secretary of State recently announced additional funding of £4.3 million for bee health which includes supporting the implementation of the initial phase of a 10 year plan to improve and protect the health of honey bees in England and Wales. This additional funding will allow DEFRA to contribute £0.5 million per annum over five years to a wider research programme on pollinator decline which was announced on 21 April.

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department plans to take in the next two years to protect the bee population in England. [273303]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA has allocated new resources for the bee health programme to fund the implementation of the 'Healthy Bees' plan. On top of its current £1.3 million per annum, an additional £2.3 million will be provided to the National Bee Unit (NBU) (part of the Food and Environment Research Agency (FERA)) over the next two years to implement the first stage of the plan.

This involves producing a more accurate national picture of the numbers and distribution of beekeepers, and the health status of their colonies. Our improved understanding of the national position will allow the development of a new robust disease control and surveillance programme for implementation from 2011 onwards. In addition, FERA is bidding for funding under the EU Framework Programme 7, to establish a consortium of researchers who will investigate the main factors leading to colony losses.

Bluetongue Disease: Disease Control

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what mechanisms are in place to (a) prevent and (b) monitor the import and spread of bluetongue disease in summer 2009. [273342]

Jane Kennedy: The information requested is as follows:

(a) As of 3 November 2008, all of Great Britain became a single confluent protection zone for Bluetongue serotype 8 (BTV-8). Animals can be moved freely within this protection zone, and to and from other BTV-8 protection zones in Europe provided that they meet the generic import/export requirements and are accompanied by an Export Health Certificate which has been signed by an official veterinarian.

Movements of susceptible animals from Protection Zones for different serotypes are subject to the restrictions set out in Annex III of the Commission Regulation (EC) No 1266/2007 (as amended).

(b) DEFRA has a number of scanning and targeted surveillance measures in place to monitor Bluetongue in the UK as detailed in the UK-wide Bluetongue Control Strategy.

With specific regard to imports, DEFRA conducts post-import tests on all susceptible animals imported from continental Europe for all Bluetongue serotypes. From 1 April 2009, this was increased to double testing to ensure that disease is picked up in both its early and late stages. DEFRA also urges industry to consider the risks and check the health and vaccination status of animals when sourcing any animals, from within the UK or abroad.

Spread of BTV-8 is additionally controlled through the use of vaccine. DEFRA underwrote 28 million doses of BTV-8 vaccine in 2008, enough for all susceptible animals in England. 12 million of these doses formed the supply at the start of 2009. This along with free market vaccine supplies from the three manufacturers authorised to market vaccine in the UK, Intervet, Merial and Fort Dodge should meet the demand for BTV-8 vaccine in 2009.

British Overseas Territories: Nature Conservation

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how much has been distributed in grants to the British Overseas Territories from the Darwin Initiative scheme since 2006. [272612]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Since the Darwin Initiative was launched in 1992, a total of just over £2 million of its funding has been awarded to projects in the UK Overseas Territories. £494,124 of this figure has been invested since 2006, which reflects the Darwin Initiative's increasing interest in biodiversity conservation in these important parts of the world.

Dangerous Dogs (Amendment) Act 1997

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many dogs in England and Wales have been placed on the register of exempt dogs under section 4A and section 4B procedures under the Dangerous Dogs (Amendment) Act 1997 in each year since 1997; and if he will make a statement. [272366]

Jane Kennedy: We do not record under which section of the Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 (as amended 1997) prohibited types of dogs are added to the Index of Exempted Dogs.

	Number of dogs added to index	England	Scotland	Wales
1997	9	9	0	0

Departmental Assets

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when his Department last reviewed its assets and land and property holdings with a view to identifying and disposing of surpluses. [269860]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Departmental Asset Management Strategy 2008-09 to 2010-11 published on our website at:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/corporate/finance/ams/asset-management-strategy.pdf sets out the management approach to wider assets, including identification and disposal.

The Department has not commissioned an independent property review in recent years. However, its estates team, working in conjunction with retained property consultants, keeps its land and property assets under constant review, working with business and policy areas, to identify and seek the disposal of surplus property assets.

Departmental ICT

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what steps his Department has taken to address the effect on levels of carbon dioxide emissions from his Department of its ICT purchases since the publication of the Greening Government ICT Strategy; and if he will make a statement. [269561]

Jane Kennedy: Since the publication of the Greening Government Information and Communications Technology (ICT) Strategy, the Department has commissioned a Green ICT Feasibility Study by IBM to establish a Roadmap for the core Department and its Executive Agencies to not only meet the 2012 target for carbon neutrality for ICT in use across its estate, but also to include its out-sourced IT estate; primarily the appropriate portions of two large IBM data centres that support the provision of our IT services.

For core DEFRA and those agencies taking all their IT services from IBM (some 4,500 staff), IBM currently uses a catalogue of assets that conform with the Quick Wins criteria set out in the Government's Green IT strategy for laptops, desktops and monitors. 96 per cent. of the current deployed IBM desktop and laptop assets are compliant with the Quick Wins criteria.

10 months after the launch of the Greening Government ICT Strategy DEFRA has already delivered eight of the original 18 Chief Information Officer top tips set out in the HMG Greening ICT Strategy and submitted an initial draft Roadmap for addressing the remaining 10 tips, based on interim findings from the Feasibility Study. The top tips and Strategy can be viewed at:

http://www.cabinetoffice.gov.uk/cio/greening_government_ict.aspx

Departmental Public Expenditure

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 16 March 2009, Official Report, columns 826-7W, on the economic situation, what expenditure under what budgetary heading his Department incurred in relation to its seminar with delivery bodies held in November 2008. [268171]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The seminar with DEFRA delivery bodies on 10 November 2008 was held at the offices of WRAP in Banbury. The only costs to DEFRA were the time and rail travel of seven departmental representatives. Attendees from the other delivery bodies would have incurred similar costs.

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether his Department held discussions with HM Treasury before the recent decision to make reductions in his Department's budget. [273343]

Huw Irranca-Davies: DEFRA's contribution to the Government's £5 billion value for money savings in 2010-11 was agreed with the Treasury based upon what we believe is deliverable through the Operational Efficiency Programme and other efficiency measures.

Farmers: Income

Mr. Atkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what estimate he has made of the likely effects on the income of hill farmers of European Commission proposals to modify the criteria which define less favoured areas; if he will make it his policy to seek amendment of those proposals to ensure that the income of hill farmers is not reduced by modification of those criteria; and if he will make a statement. [273411]

Jane Kennedy: The European Commission's proposal for new criteria to identify less favoured areas (LFA) will not impact on current upland policies in England. The current English LFA scheme—the hill farm allowance (HFA)—is being replaced with an agri-environment scheme, uplands entry level stewardship (Uplands ELS). Eligibility for Uplands ELS, as well as the make-up of the single payment scheme regions, is determined by domestic classifications, principally severely disadvantaged areas (SDA), rather than the LFA classification, so would not be directly affected by the Commission's proposals, which are unlikely to be implemented in the current rural development programming period.

Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland also have LFA support schemes—the less favoured area support scheme (LFASS), the Tyr Mynydd scheme, and the less favoured areas compensatory allowance scheme (LFACA) respectively. Any redesignation of the LFA would impact on the number of farmers eligible for LFA support therefore, and we are liaising accordingly with the devolved administrations on this.

We are continuing to work with the Commission and other member states on the proposals outlined by the Commission.

Flood Control

Miss McIntosh: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his policy is on the use of kitemarked products for the purposes of (a) flood defences and (b) household (i) repairs after flooding and (ii) flood resilience. [273133]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Environment Agency is the lead delivery body for Government flood risk management policy. It always specifies materials for its flood defences that meet the relevant British and European standards for quality.

The Environment Agency policy on temporary defences states that only suitably accredited temporary defences such as BSI Kitemark or similarly accredited products should be used.

The Environment Agency is developing a policy on property protection products in addition to existing policies on demountable and temporary flood protection products. It encourages the use of quality products for the reduction of flood risk and actively supports the use of the BSI Kitemark scheme through sponsorship of publicly available specification (PAS) 1188.

The Environment Agency is working with representatives of flood product manufacturers, the Flood Protection Association, the Association of British Insurers, insurance companies, DEFRA and HR Wallingford to develop PAS 1188 flood protection products.

For repairs after flooding, the Government encourage the use of materials that meet the appropriate British Standards and codes of practice and recommends that properties are made resilient to future floods. DEFRA is working with the Association of British Insurers to improve the development of flood resilience when making repairs after flooding.

Food: Waste Disposal

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his latest estimate is of the amount of food waste not sent to landfill in the last 12 months. [273241]

Jane Kennedy: DEFRA does not hold the information requested.

Swans: Testing

Mr. Dunne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs which local authority officers have authority to authorise isotope blood tests of swans. [272938]

Jane Kennedy: Local authority officers do not authorise the isotope blood testing of swans.

Mr. Dunne: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many isotope blood tests of swans have been authorised in each of the last 12 years; and where the swans tested were treated. [272939]

Jane Kennedy: We are not aware of any isotope blood tests that have been performed on swans in the last 12 years.

COMMUNITIES AND LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Building Regulations

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of likely levels of compliance with the requirements of (a) part L and (b) part F of the Building Regulations following their revision. [273189]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department is presently engaged in a joint project with the Energy Efficiency Partnership for Homes (EEPfH) looking at levels of compliance for new homes with the requirements of Part L (2006) of the Building Regulations. The first part of this study has been published on the EEPfH website at:

http://www.eeph.org.uk/uploads/documents/partnership/EEPHCLG%20Part%20L1A%20Compliance%20Project%20-%20Pilot%20Study%20Report%20v1.41.pdf

The second part of the study will be published shortly.

The Department is also currently evaluating Part F to help inform its proposed revision alongside Part L in 2010.

Mr. Dai Davies: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of building control officers with the function of overseeing implementation of the Building Regulations. [273191]

Mr. Iain Wright: All local authority building control officers in England and Wales are responsible for the implementation and enforcement of the building regulations in their respective authorities. All approved inspectors are responsible for the implementation of the building regulations in England and Wales, but approved inspectors have no enforcement responsibilities.

A recent independent survey report commissioned by this Department from the Building Control Alliance (BCA) and the Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS), covering building control officers in England and Wales, found that in 2006-07 in the 201 local authorities that sent in a return there was a total of 2,609 employees and in the 22 approved inspector Building Control bodies that sent in a return there was a total of 1,812 employees. A full copy of the survey report can be found at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/planningandbuilding/surveybuildingcontrolrpt

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what assessment she has made of the (a) costs and (b) benefits of changing Building Regulations to introduce photoluminescent markings as a safety precaution in public spaces. [274393]

Mr. Iain Wright: We have made no assessment of the costs or benefits of changing Building Regulations to introduce requirements for photoluminescent markings in public spaces.

Community Relations: Religion

Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what plans her Department has to mark inter faith week; and if she will make a statement. [273196]

Mr. Khan: The Department announced on 24 March that inter faith week will take place from 15 to 21 November across England and possibly Wales. It was proposed to Government by the Inter Faith Network for the UK (the member bodies of which include the Churches and other major faith communities) in 2008 as part of the consultation for the Government's inter faith strategy "Face to Face and Side by Side: A Framework for Partnership in our Multi Faith Society."

We are keen to see local faith groups and communities around the country reaching out to each other to build stronger bonds of understanding and co-operation. Places of worship, inter faith bodies, schools and colleges, local authorities and other public agencies will be holding their own local events. Activities will also aim to increase public awareness of the various faith communities of the UK, focusing on the contribution which their members make to their neighbourhoods and wider society. Local, regional and national inter faith initiatives will be able to raise their profile. We hope the week will also increase understanding between people of religious and non-religious beliefs.

The Department is facilitating the week in partnership with the Inter Faith Network and in consultation with the Department for Children, Schools and Families, the Local Government Association and the Equality and Human Rights Commission. We are liaising with the relevant public agencies, helping facilitate publicity and developing written materials. We will also organise a launch event in the preceding week.

Council Housing: Rents

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Welwyn Hatfield (Grant Shapps) of 25 March 2009, Official Report, column 470W, on council housing: rents, if she will place in the Library a copy of the consultation document. [273687]

Mr. Iain Wright: A copy of the final housing revenue account subsidy Amending Determination for 2009-10 will be placed in the Library of the House when it is issued. We aim to issue this document soon.

Council Tax

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government (1) what recent discussions she has had with leaders of local authorities on levels of council tax; [272891]

(2) what recent discussions she has had with local authority chief executives on levels of council tax. [273067]

John Healey: Ministers from Communities and Local Government regularly meet with representatives from local authorities at which various issues may be raised.

Derelict Land: Gardens

Patrick Mercer: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what research her Department has commissioned on the (a) level of infill development in residential communities and (b) loss of garden space as a result of new residential development. [273216]

Mr. Iain Wright: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 2 April 2009, Official Report, columns 1503-5W.

Empty Property

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what steps her Department is taking to assist local authorities in returning derelict residential properties to occupancy. [274427]

Mr. Iain Wright: We work closely with the independent Empty Homes Agency to encourage local authorities to tackle empty homes in their areas. Through the Housing Act 2004, we have introduced new powers to allow local authorities to take over the management of private sector empty homes (empty dwelling management orders) where a voluntary approach is not successful. We are supporting the Empty Homes Agency's new guidance on EDMOs, which was launched on 10 March. The guidance is internet-based and interactive and takes local authorities through the EDMO process step by step. My right hon. Friend the Minister for Housing provided a foreword for the guidance.

I hosted an Empty Homes seminar for a number of local authorities on 23 April to provide an opportunity to discuss the obstacles facing authorities in dealing with empty homes, share examples of best practice and encourage them to take action to tackle empty homes in their area.

Empty Property: Lancashire

Rosie Cooper: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate her Department has made of the number of residential properties which have become vacant and derelict in West Lancashire constituency in the last (a) six months, (b) 12 months and (c) five years. [274426]

Mr. Iain Wright: Information is not held centrally on when dwellings become vacant, nor on dereliction. However, the following table shows the number of vacant dwellings as at 6 October 2008. Figures are not available at constituency level for West Lancashire. Figures are available at local authority level for Lancashire as a whole.

Local authority	Number of short-term empty dwellings (empty for less than six months)	Number of long-term empty dwellings (empty for more than six months)	Total number of empty dwellings
Burnley	1,782	1,427	3,209
Chorley	845	681	1,526
Fylde	1,098	765	1,863
Hyndburn	1,242	1,246	2,488
Lancaster	1,463	1,030	2,493
Pendle	806	2,196	3,002
Preston	1,418	1,073	2,491
Ribble Valley	473	272	745
Rossendale	841	607	1,448
South Ribble	918	440	1,358
West Lancashire	683	730	1,413
Wyre	1,062	754	1,816
Lancashire	12,631	11,221	23,852

Housing Revenue Accounts

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many applications her Department has received from local authorities for permission to transfer housing revenue account stock into the general fund under section 19(2) of the Housing Act 1985 in each of the last five years. [274826]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information is as follows:

	Number
2004-05	9
2005-06	10
2006-07	3
2007-08	5
2008-09	1
Total	28

Housing: Construction

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of the number of self-build properties constructed in each of the last five years. [274832]

Mr. Iain Wright: This information is not held centrally.

Housing: Floods

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what estimate she has made of her Department's expenditure in the last 12 months on rehousing people who lost their homes as a result of flooding. [273091]

John Healey: The Department has provided, since 1 May 2008, approximately £32.6 million to local authorities affected by the summer 2007 floods and approximately £1.3 million to local authorities affected by subsequent flooding, to support them in helping householders, businesses and communities get back to normal.

This funding is part of approximately of £69.2 million provided by the Department and £136 million by central Government as a whole to support the recovery effort from the summer 2007 floods.

Housing: Merseyside

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many of the new houses completed in (a) Merseyside and (b) Crosby constituency between 2003 and 2009 were vacant at the latest date for which figures are available. [273610]

Mr. Iain Wright: The information requested is not held centrally.

The council tax base and council taxbase supplementary (CTB1 and CTB1S) return, reported by local authorities to CLG, includes the total number of long-term and short-term vacancies in a local authority area.

The table gives the total number of vacant dwellings in Merseyside and its local authorities at 6 October 2008, the latest date for which figures are available. The number of vacant dwellings is not available at constituency level.

County/local authority	Number of long-term empty dwellings (empty for more than six months)	Total number of empty dwellings
Merseyside	16,011	23,811
Knowsley	1,499	2,615
Liverpool	7,571	8,761
Sefton	2,650	3,561
St. Helens	1,079	2,592
Wirral	3,212	6,282

Source:
Council Taxbase and Council Taxbase Supplementary (CTB1 and CTB1S) returns from local authorities.

Those dwellings vacant for less than six months are more likely to be empty for a short period following a sale before the new owner occupies it, where the property needs work to be carried out before it can be occupied, or where the property is in probate and are seen as 'transactional' vacant dwellings and are thus a characteristic of the housing market.

It is therefore sometimes more appropriate to look at long-term vacancies rather than the total number of vacant dwellings.

Housing: Planning Permission

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department has provided to planning authorities on the definition of the term eaves used in the Town and Country Planning (General Permitted) Development Order 1995, as amended. [273547]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government have not provided a definition of eaves in the Town and Country Planning (General Permitted) Development Order, 1995, nor have they issued guidance on a definition to local planning authorities. Interpretation of the order is a matter for local authorities and ultimately a matter for the courts.

Housing: Sales

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many and what proportion of first-time buyers purchased a home at a price under £250,000 in the last year for which figures are available. [273761]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Department holds data on completed mortgages used for house purchase via the Regulated Mortgage Survey (RMS) which are supplied by the Council of Mortgage Lenders. The RMS covers about 60 per cent. of the UK mortgage market and includes details on whether the buyer was a first-time buyer and the purchase price of the property.

Using the RMS we estimate that 89 per cent. of first-time buyers buying with a mortgage purchased their property for under £250,000 in the UK in 2008. Using Council of Mortgage Lenders data on total numbers of first-time buyers buying with a mortgage in the UK for 2008 we estimate that this amounts to around 172,800 first-time buyers.

Housing: Standards

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much of the Decent Homes scheme has been funded through the Private Finance Initiative. [273732]

Mr. Iain Wright: £4.6 billion in PFI credits has been allocated to the Housing PFI Programme. Around £2.2 billion of this total figure has been allocated to schemes that will help local authorities meet the Decent Homes standard. Of this, £1.1 billion accounts for schemes which are now in construction and/or operational.

Housing: Surveys

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what changes have been made in the methodology used to compile the English House Condition Survey in each year since 1997. [273799]

Mr. Iain Wright: The English House Condition Survey (EHCS) was run every five years from 1971 until 2001 but moved to a continuous survey from 2002. From 2008 the survey merged with the Survey of English Housing to form the English Housing Survey (EHS) which is also run on a continuous basis.

The basic EHCS survey methodology remained unchanged from 1997. A smaller 8,000 annual clustered sample was introduced in 2002 (compared to a 17,000 un-clustered sample used for the five yearly survey) to reduce fieldwork costs. Minor changes have been made each year to the survey content and reporting to reflect the changing information needs of government. From 2006 assessments were collected under the Housing Health and Safety Rating system (which replaced the Fitness Standard as the statutory tool for enforcing minimum standards).

Under the EHS interviews are now conducted with 17,000 households a year. A surveyor subsequently conducts an inspection of 8,000 of these homes using a new automated method of data collection to further reduce costs and improve data quality.

The EHCS/EHS continue to provide Government with an essential source of information on the changing condition and energy performance of the housing stock. Further information about the EHCS, including annual methodological reports, can be found at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/ehcs

Local Government Services: Fees and Charges

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what powers local authorities have to charge for building control services in relation to small household extensions. [273689]

Mr. Iain Wright: Local authorities are authorised by 'The Building (Local Authority Charges) Regulations 1998' to fix their own charges in a scheme for carrying out their main building control functions with the aim of fully recovering their costs. The charges for building work related to small household extensions should be fixed with reference to the floor area of the proposed extension.

The Department is currently carrying out a consultation exercise seeking views on a number of proposed changes to the charging regime. The consultation paper can be found on our website at:

http://www.communities.gov.uk/publications/planningandbuilding/lachargingregimeconsult

National Brownfield Forum

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government if she will place in the Library a copy of the minutes of each meeting of the National Brownfield Forum; and what the membership of the forum is. [273220]

Mr. Iain Wright: The role of the forum was set out in the Government's Response to (then) English Partnerships' Recommendations on the National Brownfield Strategy, and referred to the aim of "promoting a more cohesive and inclusive approach to policy development".

The National Brownfield Forum held its first meeting in February 2009, and further meetings will be held quarterly. The meetings are held in confidence, and relate to the formulation and development of Government policy.

Communities and Local Government will be publishing summaries of the forum meetings on its website as a matter of course in the near future.

Membership of the forum is composed, currently, of representatives of the following organisations:

AGS—Association of Geotechnical and Geoenvironmental Specialists

CIEH—Chartered Institute of Environmental Health

CLAIRE—Contaminated Land Applications in Real Environments

DCLG—Department for Communities and Local Government

DEFRA—Department of Environment, Food and Rural Affairs

EA—Environment Agency

EIC—Environmental Industries Commission

EPUK—Environmental Protection UK

FSA—Food Standards Agency

HBF—House Builders Federation

HCA—Homes and Communities Agency

HPA—Health Protection Agency

LACORS—Local Authorities Coordinators of Regulatory Services

LRT—Land Restoration Trust

SAGTA—Soil and Groundwater Technology Association

SILC—Specialist in Land Condition.

Planning: Public Consultation

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many consultations on planning policy her Department has issued since May 2005. [273759]

Mr. Iain Wright: Since 1 May 2005 we have launched 11 consultations on planning policy. This excludes consultation on specific procedural and legislative changes and proposed advice documents.

Property Development

Sir Paul Beresford: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department has provided to local authorities on whether under the terms of the General Permitted Development Order the measurement of the extended part of the dwelling house beyond the original dwelling house is taken from wall to wall or roof to roof. [274166]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Government have not specified in the Town and Country Planning (General Permitted) Development Order, 1995, as amended, whether the measurement of the extended part of the dwelling house beyond the original dwelling house should be taken from wall-to-wall or roof-to-roof. Nor have they issued guidance on this issue to local planning authorities. Interpretation of the order is a matter for local authorities and ultimately for the courts.

Property Development: Floods

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 21 April 2009, Official Report, column 147, if she will place in the Library a copy of the recent reassessment of protection against flood risk. [273256]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Environment Agency's Thames Estuary 2100 Consultation document sets out a tidal flood management plan for the London and the Thames estuary through to the end of the century. The consultation closes at the end of June and the document is available on the Environment Agency website:

http://www.environment-agency.gov.uk/homeandleisure/floods/104695.aspx

Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how much gross revenue the Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre raised from bookings made by Government departments, agencies and non-departmental public bodies in 2008. [272438]

Mr. Iain Wright: The Queen Elizabeth II Conference Centre generated £2,927,941 gross revenue from bookings made by Government departments, agencies and non-departmental public bodies in 2008.

Recreation Spaces

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 4 February 2009, Official Report, column 1279W, on departmental procurement, whether the green spaces database holds information on gardens. [273594]

Mr. Iain Wright: The green spaces database holds information on English gardens for 2005.

Rented Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what the average length of tenure of (a) registered social landlord and (b) local authority tenant was in each of the last five years. [274838]

Mr. Iain Wright: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave him on 7 May 2009, Official Report, column 399W.

Repossession Orders

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government pursuant to the answer of 29 April 2009, Official Report, column 1382W, on repossession orders, when she expects her Department to be in possession of the data for 2008-09. [273407]

Mr. Iain Wright: The continuous recording of lettings (CORE) for 2008-09 is collected on behalf of Communities and Local Government by the Centre for Housing Research at the University of St Andrews. Delivery of final datasets to the Department is expected in August.

Social Rented Housing

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government how many registered social landlord properties were sold to (a) tenants and (b) non-tenants in each of the last five years. [273405]

Mr. Iain Wright: The following table shows the number of registered social landlord properties sold from 2003-04 to 2007-08 in England, according to whether they were sold to tenants or non-tenants.

	2003-04	2004-05	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08
To tenants	14,920	9,210	6,910	5,450	3,850
To non-tenants	6,170	11,000	16,060	13,470	17,760
Total	21,090	20,210	22,970	18,920	21,610

Source:
Homes and Communities Agency investment management system (IMS), and regulatory and statistical returns (RSR) to the Tenant Services Authority (TSA).

Sales to tenants include sales through Right to Buy, Right to Acquire, Voluntary Purchase Grant, and Social HomeBuy. Sales to non-tenants include sales through Open Market HomeBuy and New Build HomeBuy. We have treated sales to tenants as where the tenant is currently occupying the property they are purchasing.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government what guidance her Department and its agencies have provided to local authorities on conditions of tenancy applicable to social tenants running businesses from their homes. [273721]

Mr. Iain Wright: I am not aware that the Department have provided any such guidance.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Alcoholic Drinks: Young People

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many arrests for underage drinking there were in Tamworth constituency in each of the last five years. [274372]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The information requested on arrests is not collected centrally.

The arrests collection held by the Home Office covers arrests for recorded crime (notifiable offences) only, broken down at a main offence group level, covering categories such as violence against the person and robbery. It is not possible to identify the number of arrests made for underage drinking from the data on arrests reported to the Home Office.

Furthermore, the data on arrests held by the Home Office are reported at police force area level only therefore information on arrests in the Tamworth constituency are not available.

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people were prosecuted for supplying alcohol to persons under the age of 18 years in Tamworth constituency in each of the last five years. [274373]

Mr. Alan Campbell: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given on 3 February 2009, Official Report, column 1027W.

Court proceedings data collected centrally are available at police force area level only; therefore data for Tamworth constituency cannot be supplied.

Antisocial Behaviour Orders

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects data collected on the number of anti-social behaviour orders issued and breached after 31 December 2006 to be available. [272698]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The data on antisocial behaviour order (ASBO) is based on information supplied to the Home Office by courts. This information is compiled by the Ministry of Justice (MOJ) for the Home Office.

ASBO data undergo extensive checking and a rigorous quality assurance process to verify the accuracy and completeness of the data they contain. Since December 2006 ASBO data have been published together with data on all the antisocial behaviour tools and powers collected from crime and disorder reduction partnerships (CDRPs) in an annual survey. The Government want to ensure that members of the public can find out easily how their local agencies are tackling antisocial behaviour.

ASBO data for 2007 and the latest information on the use of tools and powers will be published shortly.

Borders: Personal Records

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which passport or passports of persons with dual nationality will be registered on the e-Borders database. [270110]

Jacqui Smith: The capability to identify passengers travelling on different passports is something that will be developed incrementally within e-Borders.

As the system develops, the identification of passengers travelling on different passports will become easier to reconcile. Travel histories stored in the system will be person-centric, rather than travel document-centric and the use of more than one passport by an individual will be identified at the primary arrivals control, and captured within the system.

Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the oral answer of 23 March 2009, Official Report, column 16 and to the answer of 29 April 2009, Official Report, column 1349W, borders: personal records where the information referred to in the answer is located on her Department's website; what categories of information on travellers and passengers will be collected for the purposes of the e-borders programme when the programme is fully operational; and whether the 10-year storing of information applies to all of these categories. [273683]

Mr. Woolas: Information on e-Borders can be found on the UK Border Agency website at the following web address www.ukba.homeoffice.gov.uk/advance-passenger-information

e-Borders will collect Travel Document Information (TDI) on all journeys to and from the United Kingdom. These data consist of the eight sections of biographical data which are contained in the machine readable zone (MRZ) of a passport, being: name, date of birth, nationality, gender, travel document type, state of issue, number and expiry date.

Carriers may be asked to provide reservation data (known as OPI or other passenger information) if this information has been collected in the normal course of their business. This information could include but is not limited to, date and place of reservation and ticket issue, method of payment and baggage details.

Borders: Security

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what investigations she has undertaken in respect of (a) terrorism and (b) organised crime in relation to travel between (i) the South Coast and the Isle of Wight, (ii) mainland Great Britain and British offshore islands other than the Isle of Wight, (iii) Great Britain and Northern Ireland and (iv) Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland in the last 12 months; and whether she plans to initiate a consultation on the use of the information-gathering powers under section 14 of the Police and Justice Act 2006. [268660]

Mr. Coaker: Criminal investigations across the UK are a matter for local chief officers of police, the Serious and Organised Crime Agency and other law enforcement agencies.

Section 14 of the Police and Justice Act 2006 gives the police the power, subject to commencement through secondary legislation, to require a carrier, on request, to capture passenger and crew identity and other service data on domestic routes.

The Government are considering the use of these powers on routes between Great Britain and Northern Ireland only. This is to strengthen counter-terrorism checks on international travellers who attempt to evade checks by travelling through the Republic of Ireland into or out of the UK. There are no plans to introduce these powers on other domestic UK routes, such as crossings to the Isle of Wight nor any other offshore islands.

The Government will consult fully on the detailed terms of any implementation legislation, including the forms of identity that would be needed, before the powers are introduced.

British Nationality

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment has been made of the effect on community cohesion of the Government initiative to require migrants to undertake community work before obtaining British citizenship. [272444]

Mr. Woolas: The Borders, Citizenship and Immigration Bill sets out provision for speeding up the journey to British citizenship and permanent residence for migrants who contribute to the community through active citizenship. It will not be a mandatory requirement for migrants to undertake active citizenship. Those who choose to undertake active citizenship can speed up their journey by two years.

A design group was set up in autumn 2008 including representatives from the voluntary sector and local government to advise on the most effective way to operate active citizenship in practice.

A document was made available to the House in March 2009 to illustrate the Government's emerging thinking on active citizenship. Further details will be provided to the House when available.

Andrew Mackinlay: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what assessment she has made of recent representations made by the Strangers into Citizens campaign in respect of migrant workers and others whose residency status in the UK is undetermined; and if she will make a statement; [273997]

(2) what assessment she has made of recent representations to her Department by the church leaders in respect of migrant workers and others whose residency status in the UK is undetermined; and if she will make a statement. [273998]

Mr. Woolas: Recent high-profile campaigns, such as 'Strangers into Citizens' (supported by the Mayor of London, the former Archbishop of Westminster and others), have brought the debate over a proposed amnesty for illegal immigrants and undocumented migrants into the public arena. However, the Government have ruled out an amnesty and this remains our position.

An amnesty would be unfair to those who are here legally; it would act as a pull factor for even more attempts at illegal immigration; and it would counter the achievements by the UK Border Agency to toughen up our border and immigration system.

Closed Circuit Television

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 5 March 2009, Official Report, column 1773W, on closed circuit television (CCTV), how many of the 44 recommendations in the national CCTV strategy have been implemented. [264898]

Jacqui Smith: Following publication of the long-term National CCTV Strategy in October 2007, good progress has been made in moving towards implementing the 44 recommendations. The recommendations targeted action from the police and local authorities to work together to improve public safety. The National Policing Improvement Agency took over responsibility for the Strategy in spring 2008. A National CCTV Strategy Programme Board has been established and has delivered five of these recommendations. The recommendations that have been implemented as at April 2009 are:

Recommendation 3:The Home Office Scientific Development Branch and the British Security Industry Authority (BSIA) now have a seat on National and International standards bodies.

Recommendation 4: Publication of a revised Operational Requirements Manual on 31 March 2009, along with a new CCTV image quality test target, will help educate and inform purchasers and end users regarding critical issues such as image quality.

Recommendation 16: The BSIA's new "Get Licensed" Booklet (published October 2008) means that all BSIA licensed operators should know how to use CCTV correctly and are vetted to the appropriate level.

Recommendation 24: New protocols mean that all police forces now have the capability of sharing Airwave telecommunications with local CCTV Managers and a significant number of police forces share intelligence with CCTV Control Centres. Such partnership working leads to the operation of public space CCTV providing best value to communities.

Recommendation 29: An evaluation of camera to archive network access and data archiving has led to a recommendation for the police and the wider Criminal Justice System to move towards the use of managed secure servers for the long-term storage and archiving of CCTV and other forms of digital evidence.

Since January 2009 the board has been reviewing the recommendations made in the Strategy. It is clear that, since the Strategy was written and published, some recommendations are either no longer appropriate or need reviewing. Therefore, in addition to the five already implemented, a further 12 will be implemented by the end of 2009 and an additional six by the end of 2010.

The remaining 21 recommendations are currently being reviewed to take account of comments and changes in technology since publication. Once that review is completed, I shall write to the hon. Member and let him know the outcome.

Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department (1) what procedures are in place for the regulation of forensic practitioners after the Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners ceases to operate and before a successor organisation is appointed; and if she will make a statement; [273039]

(2) whether she received representations from the Forensic Science Regulator prior to the decision not to provide transition funding to the Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners; and if she will make a statement; [273040]

(3) what recent estimate she has made of the cost to the public purse of the Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners; and if she will make a statement; [273041]

(4) what mechanisms are in place to ensure the continuity of regulation of individual forensic practitioners following the closure of the Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners; and if she will make a statement; [273042]

(5) on what date it was decided to cease funding the Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners; and if she will make a statement. [273043]

Jacqui Smith: The Independent Forensic Science Regulator was appointed in February 2008 to regulate forensic science quality standards. He has published his "Review of the Options for the Accreditation of Forensic Practitioners" and "Quality Standards for the Providers of Forensic Science Services to the Criminal Justice System" and proposes to move to a more robust model of standards regulation that moves the focus from just forensic practitioners to include standards for organisations, practitioners and the science methods used. The forensic science laboratories are already accredited to testing international standards; accreditation that includes assessment of practitioner competence by the United Kingdom Accreditation Service (UKAS). The accreditation option is available to all practitioners. Registration with the Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners was a voluntary process that left the majority of practitioners either choosing not to register or not able to register (front-line scientists in the laboratories who are covered by the UKAS accreditation could not register with the Council).

The Regulator was consulted prior to the decision not to provide transition funding. The Council for the Registration of Forensic Practitioners received in total some £2.9 million grant in aid with a clear requirement to be self-financing by March 2010. Police withdrawal of support removed up to 70 per cent. of the Council's income.

The chief executive of the National Policing Improvement Agency wrote to the council on 4 February 2009 notifying his intention to cease any further funding. This was confirmed to the Council in a letter from my hon. Friend the Member for Tynemouth (Mr. Campbell) dated 27 February 2009 following a meeting with the chair and the chief executive of the council.

Cybercrime

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many staff were employed by the National High Tech Crime Unit in 2005 before its amalgamation into the Serious and Organised Crime Agency. [272740]

Jacqui Smith: The number of people employed in the NHTCU varied from time to time but in July 2005 there were 54 persons employed in the NHTCU.

Demonstrations: Parliament Square

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the Commissioner of Police for the Metropolis consulted her on the policing of the demonstration in Parliament Square on 20 April 2009; and if she will make a statement. [271270]

Mr. Coaker: Police tactics and decisions on how to police demonstrations are a matter for the independent operational judgment of chief officers of police. The Home Office has received regular updates from the Metropolitan Police about the demonstration in Parliament Square.

Mr. Greg Knight: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the estimated cost of policing the protests by Sri Lankan Tamils has been to date in Westminster Square. [272883]

Mr. Coaker: This is an operational matter for the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police. The Home Office does not hold this information.

Mr. Gerald Howarth: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police days have been spent on policing the demonstration by Tamils in Parliament Square since demonstrators first assembled there; and what the cost has been to date. [272720]

Mr. Coaker: This is an operational matter for the Commissioner of the Metropolitan police.

The Home Office does not hold information about the cost of policing the demonstration.

Departmental Air Travel

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much was spent by her Department on flights (a) within England and (b) outside the UK by (i) Ministers, (ii) special advisers and (iii) civil servants in 2008-09. [269692]

Mr. Woolas: Total expenditure by the Home Department on flights outside the UK by Ministers, special advisers and civil servants in 2008-09 was £1,406,733.

The annual cost of travel reflects both the size of the Home Office, as one of the largest Government Departments, and the scope and changing nature of the Department's business.

Last year, the Home Office grew with the establishment of the UK Border Agency, incorporating UK Visas and Customs, which operates 24 hours a day, every day of the year, at the UK border and in 135 countries around the world. This expansion took the total staff compliment of the Department to c.26,000.

Expenditure by the Home Department on flights within England in 2008-09 could be obtained only at disproportionate cost as the cost of domestic flights is not broken down by nation or region.

Travel by Ministers and civil servants is undertaken in accordance with the ministerial code and the civil service management code respectively.

Departmental Computers

Jenny Willott: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for East Surrey (Mr. Ainsworth) of 3 November 2008, Official Report, column 29W, on departmental computers, whether her Department's system for the automatic switching off of all Departmental desktop devices overnight has been introduced. [272709]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office has a project in progress to implement automatic switching off of computers after hours. This project has not yet reached the stage where the computers power down automatically.

Departmental Data Protection

Damian Green: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, South and East Cleveland (Dr. Kumar) of 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 161W, on data protection, which of her Department's agencies plans to appoint a board level senior information risk owner; whether any salary increase is associated with the position; and what the responsibilities of each post holder will be. [273877]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office and its agencies have appointed at board level senior information risk owners to manage information risk. These roles are part of the remit and responsibilities of existing members of the board and do not attract any additional remuneration.

The responsibilities of senior information risk owners are as follows:

To provide an annual report of the assessment of information risk;

To lead and foster a culture that values, protects and uses information for the public good;

Own the overall information risk policy and risk assessment process, test its outcome, and ensure it is used; and Advise the accounting officer on the information risk aspects of his statement on internal control.

Essex Police Authority: Legislation

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what legislation regulates Essex Police Authority; what amendments have been made to such legislation since its entry into force; what recent representations she has received on the operation of this legislation; which (a) statutory instruments, (b) departmental circulars and (c) other documents she (i) has issued since July 2008 and (ii) plans to issue in the next 12 months consequent on the provisions of this legislation; and if she will make a statement. [273979]

Mr. Coaker: Essex police authority, like all police authorities, is regulated by the Police and Justice Act 1996. There have been no changes to statutory instruments, or new ones issued, under this Act since the former Minister for Policing, Crime and Security, my right hon. Friend the Member for Harrow, East (Mr. McNulty) replied to the hon. Member's question on 22 July 2008, Official Report, column 1348W, and I have not received any recent representations on any legislation. In relation to future changes, Home Office officials are currently reviewing the entire regulatory framework with the Association of Police Authorities. While I expect there will be some changes, the review is at too early a stage to say what those changes would be.

Human Trafficking

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the incidence of repeat trafficking of individuals. [272925]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The nature of human trafficking makes it difficult to provide a precise estimate of the number of victims in the United Kingdom, including those who are repeat victims. Our current estimate of the number of victims is that at any one time in 2003 there were up to 4,000 women in the UK who were victims of trafficking for the purposes of sexual exploitation.

The United Kingdom Human Trafficking Centre continues to work on providing a more up to date estimate of the number of victims. We will be in a position to provide a more up to date estimate of the overall number including repeat victims by the end of the year.

Human Trafficking: Babies

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to (a) identify and (b) prosecute offences related to the trafficking of babies into the UK. [273050]

Mr. Alan Campbell: A number of steps are being taken to identify and prosecute offenders trafficking babies into the UK. This includes the Government amendment to the Borders Citizenship and Immigration Bill which will enable the prosecution under trafficking legislation of those who bring babies and young children into the country for illegal purposes and where because of their age the role of the child is entirely passive.

The Government's Action Plan on Tackling Human Trafficking includes a measure to prevent the trafficking of babies and children into the UK for fraudulently acquiring welfare benefits.

Ongoing police-led operations at Heathrow and Gatwick continue to succeed in identifying trafficked children and ensuring their safety by working effectively with border staff and social workers.

Immigration

Mr. Frank Field: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether her Department uses the category of non-UK born UK nationals in its immigration (a) policy and (b) statistics. [271791]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office publishes data in statistical publications based on the nationality of a migrant rather than their place of birth. Publishing data on non-UK born UK nationals would require a cross tabulation of nationality and country of birth which is not available from the majority of UKBA statistical datasets.

Independent Safeguarding Authority

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many people (a) are employed and (b) she estimates will be employed by the Independent Safeguarding Authority in July 2010. [269251]

Jacqui Smith: The ISA currently employs 184 staff and it is estimated it will employ between 200 and 250 full-time equivalent staff by July 2010.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the budget of the Independent Safeguarding Authority is for (a) 2009-10, (b) 2010-11 and (c) 2011-12. [269252]

Jacqui Smith: The budget for ISA for (a) 2009-10 is £12.9 million. The forecast cost requirement for ISA which will form the basis of a budget for (b) 2010-11 is £40 million and for (c) 2011-12 is £41.7 million.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what her Department's expenditure was on the Independent Safeguarding Authority on the latest date for which figures are available. [269253]

Jacqui Smith: The Independent Safeguarding Authority (ISA) has been established to take barring decisions under the new Vetting and Barring Scheme. This is designed to improve public safeguarding by extending the scope of work with children and vulnerable adults covered by the barring regime, and providing independent decision making. The ISA is sponsored by the Home Office but funding is allocated jointly to the Department for Children, Schools and Families and the Department of Health. Total expenditure on the scheme, including setting up the ISA was:

£ million

	2007-08	2008-09
Capital	17.4	11.9
Resource	20.5	27.7
Total	37.9	39.5

Internet: Children

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the Government plans to implement its commitment to ensure that all internet service providers use filters to block images of child abuse; and if she will make a statement. [272829]

Mr. Alan Campbell: The Government welcome the work done by industry to block images of child sexual abuse, resulting in 95 per cent. of consumer broadband lines being covered by blocking. The UK now hosts less than 1 per cent. of the total number of child abuse image sites on the internet, and when one is identified they are quickly closed down. We are currently looking at options to progress the final 5 per cent. and the Government will be setting out actions and time scales in due course.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the Minister of State for Borders and Immigration plans to reply to the e-mail from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 19 February 2009, on undocumented migrants. [274439]

Mr. Woolas: A reply was sent to the hon. Member on 13 March 2009.

Offences Against Children

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many times the civil powers to protect children from internet grooming under the Sexual Offences Act 2003 have been used in each year since their entry into force in each police force area; and if she will make a statement. [271042]

Mr. Alan Campbell: There are a range of preventative civil orders available under the Sexual Offences Act 2003 to protect children from the risk of sexual harm rather than a specific civil power to protect against internet grooming. The number of times, for example, Sexual Offences Prevention Orders and Foreign Travel Orders have been used in each year and by each police area is reported in the annual MAPPA reports. The MAPPA reports are available at:

http://www.probation.homeoffice.gov.uk/output/page30.asp

Police: Bureaucracy

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which police forms will be (a) removed and (b) reduced in length as part of the Government's commitment to reduce the administrative burden on police forces; and on what date the revised version of each amended form will come into effect. [272992]

Jacqui Smith: The Policing Green Paper, published last year, committed the Government to reduce red tape and improve police processes to free officers up to deal with the issues that matter most to local people.

On 1 January 2009 changes to PACE Code A came in to effect which removed the requirement of police officers to complete the Stop and Account form, while retaining the recording of the ethnicity of those stopped for monitoring reasons.

On 16 February 2009 the Home Office published a review by its permanent secretary, Sir David Normington, which set out detailed proposals for delivering the Green Paper's commitment for the Home Office to reduce by up to 50 per cent. the amount of data it collects from police forces. This included the immediate removal of the requirement for police officers to complete time-sheets for the purposes of Activity Based Costing.

Action on forms is part of a wider approach to bureaucracy reduction, focusing on the simplification of policing processes and more effective management of risk. Jan Berry has been appointed as the independent Reducing Bureaucracy Advocate to challenge Government and the police service to make further progress on these issues, supported by a practitioner group of police officers and staff.

Police: Complaints

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many complaints were made against the police in (a) England, (b) Essex and (c) Southend between 1997 and March 2004. [274016]

Mr. Coaker: The information requested is contained in the following table.

Figures held by the Home Office for complaints made against the police since 1997 to 2004 are for England and Wales.

Figures below force level are not available centrally.

Area	1997-98	1998-99	1999-00	2000-01	2001-02	2002-03	2003-04
England and Wales	35,820	31,653	30,807	31,034	26,710	24,562	25,376
Essex	[1]	[1]	570	549	540	436	500

[1] Not held

Police: Firearms

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what training police officers must undertake before being authorised to carry a gun. [273468]

Mr. Coaker: The training of authorised firearms officers is an operational matter for individual chief officers. There is a very detailed National Police Firearms Training Curriculum that all officers must undertake. Chief officers of police must decide how many trained firearms officers are needed within their force.

Police: G20

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many police officers from forces in England and Wales other than the Metropolitan Police Service took part in policing the G20 summit. [270283]

Jacqui Smith: I refer the hon. Gentleman to my answer of 21 April 2009, Official Report, column 594W.

Police: Injuries

Mr. David Jones: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which police forces in England and Wales (a) have and (b) have not adopted the procedure on reviews of injury awards set out in Annex C to Home Office Circular 46/2004. [273140]

Mr. Coaker: The information is not held centrally. It is for individual police authorities to decide whether to adopt Home Office guidance in relation to carrying out their statutory duties under the Police Injury Benefit Regulations.

Police: Manpower

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what the timetables for the (a) development and (b) implementation of the revised Graduate Fast Track and High Potential Development Schemes for the police service are. [272927]

Jacqui Smith: The High Potential Development Scheme was revised and relaunched in 2008, with the first cohort selected by August 2008 and inducted in October 2008. A selection process for the 2009 cohort is currently under way.

The proposed Graduate Fast Track scheme is to be launched in 2010. Options for the delivery of the scheme are currently being explored by the National Policing Improvement Agency.

Police: Powers

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what timetable she envisages for proposed legislative changes to give officers the power to (a) seize high value goods on arrest and (b) prevent criminals being able to dissipate them before trial. [273028]

Jacqui Smith: These provisions are contained in the Policing and Crime Bill which is currently before Parliament.

Police: Standards

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when the new performance and development review process for police leaders will be (a) finalised and (b) implemented. [272926]

Jacqui Smith: The new Performance and Development Review (PDR) process for chief officers will be finalised by December this year, following discussions with stakeholders including the Association of Chief Police Officers and the Association of Police Authorities. It will be in place for the reporting year 2010-11.

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether the March 2009 target date set for the establishment of efficiency targets for police forces has been met by all police authorities. [273019]

Jacqui Smith: Police authorities are expected to set ambitious local targets for efficiency and productivity gains in the course of preparing their policing plans. Plans for the three years from April 2009 must be published by 30 June 2009.

A new programme of police authority inspections starting later this year will assess how well authorities are delivering their principal duties, including ensuring value for money and productivity. HM Inspectorate of Constabulary and the Audit Commission set out their proposals for joint inspection of police authorities in a consultation document published on 29 April (Police Authority Inspection, available at:

http://inspectorates.homeoffice.gov.uk/hmic/docs/police-authority-inspection

Police: Stun Guns

Mr. Ruffley: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department on how many occasions Taser stun guns have been (a) drawn, (b) arced as a demonstration warning, (c) applied in a drive stun and (d) fired by officers in each police force since 2003. [273533]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Figures on the use of Taser are published on a regular basis and can be found on the Home Office Scientific Development Branch website at http://scienceandresearch.homeoffice.gov.uk/hosdb/about-us/news/632275

Roadside Drug Testing

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent assessment she has made of the effectiveness of roadside drug testing kits as an alternative to current testing methods. [273810]

Mr. Alan Campbell: We are satisfied on the basis of independent advice that existing drug screening devices are not suitable to assist in the enforcement of drug driving offences.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which trade unions are recognised in her Department. [262088]

Mr. Woolas: The Home Office recognises the trade unions FDA, Prospect, the Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS) and the Immigration Service Union (ISU).

UK Border Agency: Correspondence

Mr. Winnick: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects the Chief Executive of the UK Border Agency to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Walsall, North of 17 March 2009 regarding a constituent, reference M6652/9. [270952]

Mr. Woolas: A reply was sent by the UK Border Agency on 30 April 2009.

United Kingdom Human Trafficking Centre

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how her Department (a) monitors and (b) evaluates the work and performance of the UK Human Trafficking Centre (UKHTC); when the UKHTC plans to publish its first annual report; and if she will place a copy of that report in the Library on publication. [272048]

Mr. Alan Campbell: Oversight of all work on human trafficking is carried out by the Inter-Departmental Ministerial Group of which I am Chair.

Monitoring and evaluation of the UK Human Trafficking Centre's work is carried out by the Oversight and Advisory Board, chaired by CC Graeme Maxwell, the ACPO lead on Organised Immigration Crime, and on which the Home Office is represented.

The UKHTC plans to publish its annual report in the near future, a copy of which will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Foreign Workers: Pakistan

Mr. Soames: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many people who were born in Pakistan were in employment in the UK in each year since 1997. [274430]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many people who were born in Pakistan were in employment in the UK in each year since 1997. (274430)

The requested information is shown in the attached table.

The estimates are derived from estimates from the Labour Force Survey. As with any sample survey, estimates from the LFS are subject to a margin of uncertainty. This is assessed in a footnote to the table.

The figures in the table are derived from the LFS microdata which are weighted using the official population estimates published in autumn 2007. Consequently the 2007 and 2008 estimates are not entirely consistent with the figures published in the monthly Labour Market Statistics First Release, or the non-UK born employment figures published every quarter, which are weighted using more up-to-date population estimates.

[1] Coefficients of Variation have been calculated as an indication of the quality of the estimates, as described below:

Guide to Quality:

The Coefficient of Variation (CV) indicates the quality of an estimate, the smaller the CV value the higher the quality. The true value is likely to lie within +/- twice the CV—for example, for an estimate of 200 with a CV of 5 per cent. we would expect the population total to be within the range 180-220

Key Coefficient of Variation (CV) (%) Statistical Robustness

* 0 ≤ CV<5 Estimates are considered precise

 5 ≤ CV <10 Estimates are considered reasonably precise

 10 ≤ CV <20 Estimates are considered acceptable

* CV ≥ 20 Estimates are considered too unreliable for practical purposes

It should be noted that the above estimates exclude people in most types of communal establishment (e.g. hotels, boarding houses, hostels, mobile home sites etc).

Labour Force Survey

Immigration: Commonwealth

Mr. Soames: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what his most recent estimate is of the number of adult Commonwealth citizens resident in the UK. [274431]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to respond to your question concerning the most recent estimate of the number of adult Commonwealth citizens resident in the UK. (274431)

The Office for National Statistics collects data on the Annual Population Survey (APS) which covers residents of the UK. The latest estimates available are for the 12 month period of July 2007 to June 2008. These show that the estimated number of adults resident in the UK who have Commonwealth nationality was 1.15 million. The margin of error around this estimate is +/- 44,000.

Voluntary Organisations

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what his most recent estimate is of the number of third sector organisations; and how much funding from the public purse has been allocated to such organisations in each of the last five years. [271482]

Kevin Brennan: There is no single source for the number of third sector organisations; however latest figures from the NCVO's UK Civil Society Almanac 2009 report that in 2006-07 there were 170,900 general charities and an estimated 600,000 informal community organisations in the UK. Based on figures from the 2005-06 Annual Survey of Small Businesses by the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform we estimate there to be at least 55,000 social enterprises in England.

The amount of public funding received by general charities (from both central and local government sources) is estimated in the NCVO's UK Civil Society Almanac 2009 as follows:

	£ billion
2003-04	9.7
2004-05	9.9
2005-06	11.5
2006-07	12.0
2007-08	[1]

[1] Data not available as yet.

Figures on the allocation of funding to third sector organisations are currently available for central Government expenditure up to 2005-06, and are estimated, as follows:

	£ billion
2003-04	5.0
2004-05	5.0
2005-06	5.4

Estimates of local government expenditure on the third sector are not available for each of the past five years.

OLYMPICS

Olympic Games 2012: Young People

Tom Brake: To ask the Minister for the Olympics pursuant to the answer of 20 April 2009, Official Report, column 20, on Olympic legacy (young people), when the feasibility study into the proposed university on the Olympic site is expected to begin; who is to undertake the study; how much has been budgeted for the study; and when the study is expected to be completed. [273715]

Tessa Jowell: A feasibility study on the potential for a Centre for Research and Learning on the Olympic Park is currently under way. This study is being conducted by consultants overseen by a Steering Group comprised of representatives from Government, the Greater London Authority and the Higher Education Funding Council for England. The study will cost up to £100,000. This work is being carried out in parallel with the public consultation on the proposition launched in April. If the study shows that there is a supportive business case, a prospectus will be developed for publication later in the summer through which formal expressions of interest will be invited. The prospectus will set out a high level business case, and provide an overall summary of likely costs and delivery plan.

Terrorism: Compensation

Mr. McCartney: To ask the Minister for the Olympics pursuant to the contribution of 24 March 2009, Official Report, column 175, on international terrorism, who the lead Minister is for the consideration of a compensation scheme for UK citizens harmed in terrorist attacks overseas; what the terms of reference for that consultation are; and if she will make a statement. [273195]

Mr. Straw: I have been asked to reply.

My right hon. Friend the Minister for the Olympics has responsibility for Humanitarian Assistance, and represents the interests of UK nationals affected by terrorism overseas.

Officials from across Government have recently formed a working group to scope what more can be done in the future to support victims of terrorism abroad. The group will consider a range of detailed options for doing so and report to Ministers.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Departmental ICT

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change with reference to the answer to the hon. member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) of 25 November 2008, Official Report, column 1463W, on departmental ICT, (1) in what format the register which is to be replaced by the North Sea Licensing ICT project is held; [266672]

(2) how many staff in (a) his Department and (b) its agencies work on the (i) North Sea Licensing, (ii) Electricity Portal for electricity consents and (iii) Environmental emissions monitoring database ICT projects; [266673]

(3) on what date the (a) North Sea Licensing, (b) Electricity Portal for electricity consents and (c) Environmental emissions monitoring database ICT projects were commissioned; [266674]

(4) what the total monetary value is of the contracts to deliver the (a) North Sea Licensing, (b) Electricity Portal for electricity consents and (c) Environmental emissions monitoring database ICT projects; [266675]

(5) with which companies the Government has contracts to deliver the (a) North Sea Licensing, (b) Electricity Portal for electricity consents and (c) Environmental emissions monitoring database ICT projects. [266676]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: All of the IT projects and contracts referred to are managed by DECC. The current register is stored in an Oracle database using a bespoke format developed by the Department. The new register will still use an Oracle database but will utilise the emerging internet Extendable Mark Up language XML. The Department has been leading an exercise among regulatory bodies across the world to develop a common format for licensing and concessions data.

IT functions were outsourced some years ago and internal effort is now focused on project management and interface with user groups and industry. This means that the Department uses shared resources to manage these projects. Staff resources used, which are not full-time, are as follows: (a) North Sea Licensing—three staff, (b) Electricity Portal for electricity consents—three staff, (c) Environmental emissions monitoring database—three staff.

The dates the projects were commissioned are as follows: (a) North Sea Licensing—2008, (b) Electricity Portal—2006, (c) Environmental emissions database—2005.

All of these projects are multiple year projects with targets and break points. Updated cost estimates for the systems development are as follows:

North Sea Licensing—£331,000—Costs rose slightly above original estimates to incorporate an extra application (requested by the oil industry) to support electronic licence round applications.

Electricity Portal—£900,000—The first phase of the Electricity Portal was well received by the electricity industry and, in line with the initial vision, three additional applications have been added (the total cost estimate is therefore now higher than that quoted in the answer to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban) of 25 November 2008).

Environmental emissions database—£220,000.

Companies with contracts to deliver these projects are as follows: (a) North Sea Licensing—Fivium, (b) Electricity Portal—Informed Solutions (c) Environmental emissions database—Collabro.

Departmental Pay

Dr. Cable: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many and what proportion of staff in his Department have received bonus payments since it was established; what the total amount of bonuses paid has been; what the largest single payment has been; and if he will make a statement. [258006]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The Department of Energy and Climate Change was established on 3 October 2008, bringing together parts of the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs and the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform. Since its establishment, 159 of the Department's staff have received bonus payments, equating to some 5.8 per cent. of the total number of staff. The total amount paid in bonuses is £75,600 and the largest single bonus payment is £8,000, whereas the average bonus payment is £928.

Members: Correspondence

Mike Penning: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Hemel Hempstead of 23 January 2009 on fuel cells. [269997]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: We responded to the hon. Member on 28 April. I apologise for the delay.

TREASURY

Banks: Finance

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) when state aid approval from the European Commission was (a) sought and (b) granted for his Department's guarantee scheme for asset-backed securities; [264363]

(2) what recent estimate he has made of the value of assets to be guaranteed under the scheme for asset-backed securities. [264364]

Ian Pearson: In the 2009 Budget, the Government announced that the asset-backed securities (ABS) guarantee scheme is available for banks and building societies to use alongside the existing Credit Guarantee Scheme (CGS) scheme, to support their lending to the economy

http://budget.treasury.gov.uk

The scheme received state aid approval on 21 April 2009. The Government will keep the operation of the scheme under review.

Banks: Regulation

Mr. Hands: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what instructions he has issued to the Financial Services Authority on changes in the risk management (a) practices and (b) staffing of banks since September 2007. [265858]

Ian Pearson: The matters covered in this question are the responsibility of the Financial Services Authority, whose day-to-day operations are independent from Government control and influence. I have asked the FSA to write to the hon. Member.

Cost Effectiveness

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what (a) cashable and (b) non-cashable efficiency savings non-ministerial departments will be required to make in (i) 2009-10 and (ii) 2010-11; [272774]

(2) what (a) cashable and (b) non-cashable efficiency savings non-departmental public bodies will be required to make in (i) 2009-10 and (ii) 2010-11. [272775]

Yvette Cooper: A departmental allocation showing how the Government will deliver over the course of the CSR £35 billion of value for money savings by 2010-11 was published at Budget 2009. Departments are responsible for setting budgets and value for money targets for their non-departmental public bodies to ensure that significant efficiency savings are made from NDPBs.

Departmental Energy

Greg Clark: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what steps have been taken by (a) his Department, (b) its agencies and (c) HM Revenue and Customs to improve the thermal efficiency of their buildings in the last 12 months. [266750]

Angela Eagle: The information requested is as follows:

(a) HMT

The Treasury is committed to improving energy efficiency of the Department's estate and reducing emissions year on year.

In March 2009, HM Treasury was awarded the Carbon Trust Standard.

(b) DMO

Measures taken to improve energy efficiency are achieved through general building management and include the suspension of the operation of unnecessary mechanical and electrical plant and switching off lights during non-working hours.

(c) HMRC

Over the last 12 months HM Revenue and Customs has completed a programme to obtain display energy certificates and advisory reports for their estate. HMRC will work to develop a business case to invest in a programme of improvements based on the recommendations in the reports.

Measures taken over the last year that have led to improvements in energy efficiency include:

1 Horse Guards Road, London:

adjustment of lighting system controls;

switch to daytime cleaning thus reducing the need for lighting after hours; adjustment to the temperature at which heating is turned on; and replacement of local radiator controls with more efficient ones.

Rosebery Court, Norwich:

replacement of chillers and associated controls;

adjustment to settings on Building Management System; upgrade to air conditioning to server room; and installation of power factor correction equipment.

Excise Duties: Motor Vehicles

Norman Baker: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) what information his Department holds for benchmarking purposes on the rates of vehicle excise duty for goods vehicles in each other EU member state; what each such rate is; and if he will make a statement; [270874]

(2) what EU regulations govern charges for ownership of goods vehicles in the UK; [270875]

(3) how much revenue was raised in vehicle excise duty from goods vehicles in each year since 1997; [270885]

(4) what the effect would be on the public purse of reducing vehicle excise duty for lorries to the EU minimum level in 2009-10. [270886]

Angela Eagle: Vehicle excise duty (VED) for heavy goods vehicles (HGVs) has been frozen since 2001, to provide support to the road haulage industry. HGVs with a Reduced Pollution Certificate qualify for a reduced rate of VED, for achieving early compliance with mandatory European Union air quality standards. VED rates for each category of HGV are set out in DVLA form V149.

Directive 1999/62/EC on the charging of HGVs for the use of certain infrastructure sets out minimum levels of tax for HGVs in the EU.

The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency has not historically provided disaggregated VED receipts to the Treasury, and so the Treasury does not have historical data on revenue raised from VED on goods vehicles alone. The total revenue raised from VED for all vehicles in each year since 1997 is as follows:

	Revenue (£ million)
1997-98	4,500
1998-99	4,900
1999-2000	4,700
2000-01	4,900
2001-02	4,400
2002-03	4,400
2003-04	4,700
2004-05	4,700
2005-06	5,000
2006-07	5,100
2007-08	5,400
2008-09	5,600

VED for HGVs is set according to the weight, chassis type and number of axles on a vehicle. Minimum levels of tax for HGVs as set out in directive 1999/62/EC are set according to similar variables. However, the weight limits in VED do not correspond to the weight limits as set by the directive. Furthermore, the directive sets different rates for vehicles depending on their suspension type, whereas rates of VED are not dependant on suspension type. In order to set all HGV VED rates at the minimum level permitted by the directive, it would be necessary to reform the entire structure of HGV VED. The Government have therefore not calculated the potential revenue effect of reducing VED rates for HGVs.

Fred Goodwin

Mr. Fallon: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what progress is being made in investigating whether some of Sir Fred Goodwin's pension may be clawed back. [274416]

Ian Pearson: With the agreement of UK Financial Investments Ltd., Sir Philip Hampton, the new chairman of the Royal Bank of Scotland, has appointed a senior independent QC to carry out a full legal investigation of the issues relating to Sir Fred Goodwin's pension. This investigation is ongoing.

Knowledge Network Project

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer to the right hon. Member for Horsham (Mr. Maude) of 26 January 2009, Official Report, column 136W, on the knowledge network project, what procedures exist to enable civil servants to access the manuals and guidance on how to use the Knowledge Network. [273061]

Angela Eagle: There is no single specific guidance document on using the Knowledge Network. Guidance notes and manuals may be produced by individual departments. Buying Solutions is unable to comment on how such manuals and guides are accessed by staff.

Members: Correspondence

Damian Green: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when the Financial Secretary plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for Ashford of 23 October 2008, reference 07649/2008. [266387]

Ian Pearson: A reply has been sent to the hon. Member.

Steve Webb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to respond to the letter from the hon. Member for Northavon of 18 February 2009 on behalf of Mr. Drew of Coalpit Heath, acknowledged by his Department with the reference: 1/67589/2009. [273379]

Ian Pearson: I have replied to the hon. Member.

Mr. Malins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter of 24 March 2009 from the hon. Member for Woking on his constituent Mr. P. Burdett. [274330]

Ian Pearson: A reply has been sent to the hon. Member.

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the letter from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 18 March 2009, on the Lloyds Banking Group (PO Ref: 1/69452/2009). [274437]

Ian Pearson: Due to the large volume of correspondence received on these issues there has been a delay in sending some responses. The Financial Services Secretary hopes to be in a position to reply to the hon. Member shortly.

National Insurance Contributions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what recent assessment he has made of the effect of employer national insurance contributions increases announced in the Pre-Budget Report 2008 on the level of employment. [269936]

Mr. Timms: Changes to tax and national insurance are informed by a wide range of considerations, and are themselves one of many factors that influence the labour market. The UK has an open and flexible labour market with the Government continuing to take steps to support employment.

Previous national insurance changes of a magnitude similar to those proposed for 2011-12 do not appear to have had a significant impact on employment.

Parliamentary Questions: Government Responses

Peter Luff: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to answer Question 259158, tabled by the hon. Member for Mid-Worcestershire on 23 February 2009 on the Enterprise Finance Guarantee Scheme; and what the reasons for the time taken to respond are. [274162]

Ian Pearson: The hon. Member's question (259158) was transferred to the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform on 26 February. I replied in my capacity as Economics and Business Minister on 7 May 2009, Official Report, column 417W.

Public Expenditure

Mr. Philip Hammond: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 12 January 2009, Official Report, column 340W, on the Barnett formula, whether he has set a date for the publication of his Department's factual paper on the Barnett formula. [269709]

Yvette Cooper: No date has yet been set.

Public Expenditure: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what assessment he has made of the effect of the 2009 Budget on (a) young people and (b) families resident in Coventry. [272954]

Mr. Timms: The Government's aim are that no young person should be permanently disadvantaged by the recession and that all young people should be given the support needed to make or maintain a connection to the labour market. Budget 2009 announced that every young person between 18 and 24 will be guaranteed a job, work placement or work-related skill training for at least six months after claiming jobseeker's allowance for 12 months.

Budget 2009 announced an additional investment of £251 million in 2009-10 for the education and training of 16 and 17-year-olds. This will provide an extra 54,500 student places in the next academic year, ensuring that every young person has the opportunity to obtain the skills they will need to succeed.

Young people in work will also receive additional support from an increase in the personal allowance from April 2009, worth £26 to a basic rate taxpayer. The Government are also supporting young people looking to enter the housing market for the first time. Since September 2008, the Government have launched homebuy direct, helping first-time buyers get on the property ladder, committed to bring forward spending to deliver new social housing, and announced an extension of the stamp duty land tax holiday for properties under £175,000 to the end of 2009.

Information on the impact of Budget 2009 on specific regions can be found on the Treasury's website at:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/d/Budget2009/bud09_pn_westmidlands_26.pdf

Regional Planning and Development

Grant Shapps: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer (1) how much was spent on the review of sub-national economic development and regeneration; what the staffing costs of the review were; and which (a) departments and (b) organisations contributed to the review; [265255]

(2) how many of his Department's staff members were involved in supporting the review of sub-national economic development and regeneration. [265383]

Angela Eagle: The review was lead by the Treasury, the then Department for Trade and Industry, and the Department for Communities and Local Government. A full list of the organisations that contributed to the review can be found in Annex B of the published report, a copy of which is in the Library and can be accessed via the Treasury's public website:

www.hm-treasury.gov.uk

As there were fewer than five staff working directly on the review, it would be inappropriate to provide specific details.

The costs of those working full time on the review were £225,431. That figure does reflect support provided by other staff across the Treasury, whose costs are not available separately.

Revenue and Customs: Closures

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what the cost is of information technology infrastructural changes associated with the implementation of HM Revenue and Customs Workforce Change programme. [273231]

Mr. Timms: HM Revenue and Customs' (HMRC) Workforce Change programme will result in accommodation savings of over £230 million by 2011-12 as well as wider business efficiency savings delivered by re-organising staff into larger teams in a fewer offices. In the process of delivering these long-term savings, the Workforce Change programme has involved over 20,000 staff moving location within HMRC in order to release surplus office space, incurring associated one-off IT and telephony costs of approximately £12.7 million to date.

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many people work at (a) Shrewsbury, (b) Ludlow, (c) Oswestry and (d) Welshpool HM Revenue and Customs office; how many jobs are expected to be lost with the closure of each office; and what assessment has been made of the economic effect of each closure on the local area. [273235]

Mr. Timms: On 1 April 2009 there were 26 staff working in the HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC) office in Shrewsbury, 19 in the Ludlow office, 32 in the Oswestry office and 30 in the Welshpool office.

HMRC is committed to working with all staff affected by office closures to find alternative employment arrangements wherever possible, and until this process is concluded it is not possible to say how many staff may leave the civil service.

Impact assessments were prepared for each office prior to the closure decision, to assess the impact of closure on the local economy, as well as on HMRC's staff and customers. Those assessments for the offices concerned concluded that, as in each case HMRC employees comprised less than one per cent. of the total numbers employed in the local authority area, the economic impact would be small.

Revenue and Customs: Crewe

Mr. Timpson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate has been made of the effect on HM Revenue and Customs' expenditure of its vacation of two floors in Crewe House, Crewe in the 12 months following vacation. [273639]

Mr. Timms [holding answer 8 May 2009]: HM Revenue and Customs' (HMRC) vacation of two floors of Crewe House by spring 2010 and the remainder of the building by 2011 will contribute to cumulative estate savings of over £230 million during the period April 2007 to March 2012. Specific estate savings figures for Crewe House cannot be supplied for reasons of commercial sensitivity relating to the accommodation and facility contract between HMRC and its business partner, Mapeley.

Estate savings are only part of the overall savings HMRC expects to achieve as a result of improved efficiencies.

Stamp Duty Land Tax: Tamworth

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how many residents of Tamworth constituency have paid less stamp duty land tax from the stamp duty land tax holiday since it began. [274133]

Ian Pearson: Data on property transactions up to 2007—the most recent year for which figures are published—can be found at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/survey_of_prop/index.htm

These data include property transactions by type of property and price as well as the number and value of property transactions broken down by parliamentary constituency. Information on property transactions in Tamworth parliamentary constituency is included in the published parliamentary constituency tables.

Taxation

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much is owed by businesses in (a) Staffordshire and (b) the UK in respect of schemes to defer payment of liability for (i) pay as you earn, (ii) value added tax and (iii) corporation tax to mitigate the effects of the economic downturn. [270673]

Mr. Timms: On 24 November 2008, the Chancellor of the Exchequer announced that HMRC had launched a new Business Payment Support Service (BPSS) to allow viable businesses in temporary financial difficulty time to pay their tax bills to a timetable they could afford.

In the period up to 3 May 2009, the total value of time to pay agreed under the BPSS scheme for the United Kingdom amounted to over £2.2 billion of which approximately £320 million was for PAYE, £930 million for VAT and £380 million for corporation tax, helping over 100,000 businesses.

The total value of time to pay agreed under the scheme for Staffordshire in the same period was £28 million. HMRC is unable to disaggregate this figure further without incurring disproportionate cost.

Valuation Office: ICT

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what information technology contracts have been entered into by the Valuation Office Agency or its representatives on its behalf in the last 36 months. [272542]

Mr. Timms: The primary ICT contracts for the Valuation Office Agency (VOA) are accessed HM Revenue and Customs' Aspire and Sprint contracts.

Outside of these contracts, the VOA has, in the last 36 months, entered into a small system contract with TMS Data Capture to trail a time recording application—called Screen Time—for three months at a cost of £69,100. This project is designed to add capability to allow more detailed analysis of resource usage and costs within the VOA to improve resource allocation, decision-making and performance management.

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Brazil: Politics and Government

Mr. Hendrick: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has made representations to the Brazilian government on public security in shanty towns in Brazil and the effects of lack of security on (a) children and (b) other residents. [273336]

Gillian Merron: The Government have been funding activities by non-governmental organisations (NGOs) specializing in security sector reform in "favelas" or shanty towns. As part of this, they have worked with police to train them in community policing methods and with educational institutions for children.

My noble Friend the then Leader of the House of Lords, Baroness Amos, and the then Minister for Latin America, my right hon. Friend the Member for Pontypridd (Dr. Howells) visited favelas during their visits to Brazil in 2006 and 2007 respectively. They discussed conditions, including security, with the local government, local communities and NGOs.

We also work with other EU embassies on a regular dialogue with Brazil on the full range of human rights issues and will have the opportunity to feed in views at the 8 June 2009 EU-Brazil Human Rights dialogue.

Entry Clearances: Fees and Charges

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the Written Ministerial Statement of 12 February 2009, Official Report, columns 85-88WS, on departmental expenditure limits, what assessment he has made to the merits of establishing reciprocal arrangements with the country of origin when visas are offered gratis to fans visiting the UK to attend sporting events; and if he will make a statement. [261736]

Mr. Woolas: I have been asked to reply.

Gratis visas may be issued in a range of circumstances, commonly as a matter of international courtesy. This means that the visa applicant does not pay a fee for the application to be considered but another Government Department reimburses the Home Office for the lost fee income.

In May 2008 we accepted 2,169 short-term visit visa applications from fans of F.C. Zenit St Petersburg travelling to Manchester for the UEFA cup final without a fee being paid by the applicant, normally £65. This was in part in recognition of the waiver of visa requirement by the Russian Government for fans of Chelsea F.C. and Manchester United F.C. travelling to the UEFA Champions League final in Moscow later in the same month.

This was an unusual set of circumstances and no further consideration has been given to establishing permanent reciprocal arrangements with other countries.

G20: Greater London

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how much his Department spent on (a) coaches for delegates and the media and (b) other transportation costs for the London Summit on 2 April 2009. [270808]

Gillian Merron: £9,165 was spent on coaches for delegates and £30,310 for the media.

Other transportation costs totalled £81,924.02. This figure covers the provision of cars for delegates, coaches and cars for staff and interpreters' journeys and a ferry service for the media across the dock from ExCeL to their broadcasting positions at Millennium Mills.

Middle East: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what involvement UK officials have in the US strategic review of defence and security policy in the greater Middle East, Afghanistan and Pakistan; and if he will make a statement. [271040]

David Miliband: The UK was asked to contribute to the review of American defence and security policy conducted during 2008. A team with a wide range of thematic and geographic experience drawn from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, the Department for International Development and the Ministry of Defence participated in the review.

As the review has now been completed, the UK personnel have returned to other duties. However, we retain a number of UK personnel seconded to US Government Departments, including on the Middle East, Afghanistan and Pakistan.

USA: Balkans

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs whether he has had discussions with his US counterpart about the merits of a US Special Envoy for the Balkans. [272915]

David Miliband: We remain in close touch with the US Administration on Balkans policy, and have discussed at official level the prospects for the appointment of a US Special Envoy to the Balkans. To date no such appointment has been made.

We will continue to work closely with US representatives, in both Washington and the region, on policy towards the Balkans.

JUSTICE

Court Funds Office

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what the monetary value of cash deposits held by the Court Funds Office was at the latest date for which figures are available. [273673]

Bridget Prentice: As at 1 May 2009 the Court Funds Office held £4.6 billion for 155,183 accounts.

Crown Dependencies: Armed Forces

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many troops from Crown Dependencies are serving in Afghanistan. [272630]

Mr. Hutton: I have been asked to reply.

Data on the number of troops from British Crown Dependencies serving in Afghanistan are not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Debts: Enforcement Restriction Orders

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what assessment he has made of the effects of enforcement restriction orders issued by the judicial system on the payment protection insurance market. [273677]

Bridget Prentice: The statutory provisions creating the Enforcement Restriction Order (ERO) are not yet in force. EROs would be available to support those with short-term financial problems only and only where the court was satisfied that there were realistic prospects of recovery that would allow normal commitments to be met within six months.

In view of these tight qualifying criteria it is unlikely that many people would qualify for such an order. On that basis it would have a negligible impact on the payment protection insurance market.

Departmental Air Travel

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many officials from his Department of each (a) grade and (b) directorate have flown by British Airways on official business in each of the last five years; what the (i) destination and (ii) cost of the ticket was in each case; what his policy is on the use of British Airways by his Department's staff; and if he will make a statement. [270440]

Mr. Straw: The number and cost of flights with British Airways made by officials in the Ministry on official business in the financial years 2007-08 and 2008-09 was as follows:

	Number of flights	Cost (£)
2007-08	790	295,628
2008-09	804	273,064

Details of the destination and costs of individual flights, including refunds, have been placed in the Libraries of the House.

The information provided is taken from the Ministry's procurement system and reflects flights booked through the Ministry's travel management company, the use of which is mandated in all but exceptional circumstances. The figures exclude any flights with British Airways where, exceptionally, members of staff have booked their own flights and been reimbursed via an expense claim. The information provided from procurement records is likely to represent approximately 95 per cent. of all flights.

The information provided also identifies whether flights relate to those parts of the Ministry of Justice that used to be in the Department for Constitutional Affairs (ex-DCA) or to the National Offender Management Service (NOMS). Further breakdown to Directorate level is available only at disproportionate cost. The grade of each official flying with British Airways could also be determined only at disproportionate cost. The Ministry's procurement system has recorded costs incurred with travel carriers on a central basis only since the commencement of the current travel management contract in January 2007. Information prior to that date is held locally and can be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The Ministry's policy is that air travel should only be used where there is a cost advantage from savings of subsistence and official time or if urgency justifies the additional cost. Staff are expected to travel economy class on flights up to 2.5 hours. On flights in excess of 2.5 hours staff at senior civil level (directors) and above may travel business class and other staff economy class. Where it is necessary to fly both outward and inward flights in one day or the flight lasts longer than four hours, budget holders have discretion to authorise a higher class of travel.

The Ministry does not have a specific policy on the use of British Airways. The travel management company engaged by the Ministry is required to identify the most cost effective means of supplying the requested journey, taking account of the timing of flights and the cost of official time. The cost-effectiveness of flights supplied is actively monitored to ensure that value for money is obtained.

Driving Offences

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many individuals were convicted of each driving offence in each year since 1997. [273985]

Mr. Straw: The number of persons found guilty at all courts for offences relating to motor vehicles in England and Wales for the years 1997 to 2007 (latest available) are shown in the following tables.

Data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

[1] It is known that for some police force areas the reporting of court proceedings, in particular those relating to summary motoring offences, may be less than complete.
2 Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Electoral Register: Overseas Residence

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice how many expatriate British electors are registered to vote in general and European elections. [273467]

Mr. Wills: A British citizen who is not resident in the UK is able to vote in UK and European parliamentary elections for up to 15 years after leaving the UK provided that they were included in a register of parliamentary electors where they were last resident. In addition, a British citizen who was resident in the UK within the last 15 years but who was too young to be included in a register of parliamentary electors before they left is also able to vote.

Eligible overseas electors wishing to register for such elections must complete an application and declaration to be included in the category of 'overseas elector' in the electoral register. This category might include, for example, British citizens who may be studying or working abroad and those on working holidays. According to ONS figures, as of 1 December 2008 13,632 electors can register at any time up to 11 days before a poll this figure may increase in the run up to an election.

Electoral Register: Standards

Chris Ruane: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice what discussions he has had with the Electoral Commission on underperforming electoral registration departments, as referred to in the Electoral Commission's recent report, Performance Standards for electoral registration officers in Great Britain; and if he will make it his policy directly to inform each hon. Member representing a constituency in an underperforming local authority area that their local authority is underperforming. [272731]

Mr. Wills: On 22 April 2009 the Electoral Commission published its first set of results in respect of its performance standards regime for Electoral Registration Officers (EROs) in Great Britain.

Each ERO self assessed themselves against the 10 standards grouped into four broad subject areas:

Completeness and accuracy of electoral registration records integrity of the registration process encouraging participation in the registration process and planning and organisation.

The aim of the performance standards is to identify best practice by those EROs meeting or exceeding the standards and to allow steps to be taken to improve the performance of those who have not meet the standards. We want all EROs to perform at the level of the best.

I intend to discuss the result of performance standards for EROs when I next meet with the Commission. I do not intend to make it my policy to inform each hon. Member representing a constituency in an underperforming local authority area that their local authority is underperforming. It is the Electoral Commission's role under the performance standards regime to monitor and analyse the performance of EROs and we do no wish to duplicate that.

I understand that the Electoral Commission has published comprehensive detailed information about the 2008 assessment of performance by each ERO in Great Britain against the performance standards on its website. I would urge all Members to take the time to examine the results for their respective areas.

European Court of Human Rights

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which legal firms have received public money in support of an appeal to the European Court of Human Rights in which the Government is a party since May 1997; and how much each has received. [274033]

Mr. Wills: The Council of Europe has its own legal aid scheme to support applicants at the European Court of Human Rights. The Government do not hold statistics on the specific disbursement of money from this scheme to applicants and their representatives. UK public funding is not available for proceedings before the European Court of Human Rights.

Land Registry

Mr. Todd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice pursuant to box 3.E of the final report of the Operational Efficiency programme, by what means the Land Registry will develop opportunities for the provision of wider commercial services and products. [274199]

Mr. Wills: Land Registry currently provides add value products and services under the following headings; consultancy services, data services, electronic and online services and register services.

Land Registry is embarking upon the implementation of an organisational strategy under the heading of 'Customer Engagement Management'. Central to this strategy will be the implementation of an internal framework to bring together people process and systems capable of identifying, developing and delivery appropriate products and services that meet current and future customer needs through gaining increased customer knowledge.

Land Registry will proactively use this approach to identify opportunities that deliver added value products and services to their customers; this will further harness the power of customer knowledge to align Land Registry's core business around the changing needs of its customers.

Legal Profession: Honours

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice which members of legal firms who have acted for those bringing cases against the Government in the European Court of Human Rights since May 1997 have received an honour. [274284]

Mr. Wills: The Government do not keep a central record of which legal firms have acted for applicants in cases against the United Kingdom at the European Court of Human Rights. Where an application has resulted in an admissibility decision or judgment by the Court—these are available publicly on the Court's website at:

http://www.echr.coe.int—

the applicant's representatives may be named in the decision or judgment. The names of individuals who have received honours are published in the London Gazette.

Probation: Wales

Mr. Llwyd: To ask the Secretary of State for Justice (1) how many trainee probation officers he expects to qualify in the South Wales probation area in 2009; and how many permanent posts for such trainees there will be in that year; [273756]

(2) how many trainee probation officers he expects to qualify in (a) Wales and (b) England in 2009; [273828]

(3) how many trainee probation officers he expects to qualify in Dyfed Powys probation area in 2009; and how many posts there will be for newly-qualified officers in that area of qualification; [273829]

(4) how many trainee probation officers he expects to qualify in Gwent probation area in 2009; and how many posts there will be for newly-qualified officers in that area of qualification; [273830]

(5) how many trainee probation officers he expects to qualify in North Wales probation area in 2009; and how many posts there will be for newly-qualified officers in that area of qualification; [273831]

(6) what estimate he has made of the cost of training a probation officer. [273832]

Mr. Hanson: The number of trainee probation officers (TPOs) due to qualify in each area requested is shown in the table.

Area	Number of TPOs due to qualify in 2009
Dyfed-Powys	7
Gwent	9
North Wales	7
South Wales	21

44 TPOs are due to qualify in Wales in October 2009. A further 469 TPOs are due to qualify in England.

The newly appointed Directors of Offender Management will ensure that Probation Area resourcing and work force plans will include planning for TPO employment.

The current cost of salary and training a probation officer over the two year training programme is approximately £74,000.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Moore: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1015W, on departmental public expenditure, what proportion of the International Inspiration Programme budget his Department's grant represents; and whether this further funding is classified as official development assistance. [272378]

Mr. Thomas: DFID's £7.4 million contribution is equivalent to around 31 per cent. of the £23.79 million in funding committed so far to the International Inspiration Programme.

The programme is considered to be ODA-eligible in line with the relevant directives laid out by the OECD Development Assistance Committee.

Pakistan

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how many (a) locally-engaged and (b) UK-based staff his Department employs in Pakistan; and how many of these (i) are based in and (ii) travel to (A) the North West Frontier Province and (B) Federally Administered Tribal areas in connection with their responsibilities. [272923]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) no longer publicises staff numbers for country offices, following an assessment of DFID's work in insecure environments by the National Audit Office in October 2008, and a range of improvements to our security policies and procedures.

Pakistan: Overseas Aid

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) how many development and education projects funded by his Department are located in Swat; and if he will make a statement; [272729]

(2) whether any (a) schools and (b) educational materials funded by his Department in Swat have been destroyed by the Taliban. [272730]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) do not currently have projects that are specifically focused on Swat or the neighbouring districts that are most affected by conflict. We are providing support across the North West Frontier Province (NWFP) for the delivery of basic services, including education, health, water, sanitation and micro-finance. In some places these services have been significantly disrupted by conflict, although in most of NWFP services are still being provided as normal. We are closely monitoring the situation with the provincial government and other development partners.

None of the schools or education materials funded by DFID have been destroyed by the Taliban.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development which (a) programmes and (b) projects his Department supports in (i) the North West Frontier Province and (ii) the Federally Administered Tribal Areas in Pakistan; and how much his Department gave to each 2008-09. [272921]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) supported the following programmes and projects targeted directly in North West Frontier Province (NWFP) and the Federally Administered Tribal Areas (FATA) in Pakistan during 2008-09:

Programme	Expenditure during 2008-09[1] (£)
NWFP Education Programme	13,600,000
NWFP Rural Water Supply and Sanitation Project	1,069,989
NWFP Provincial Reforms Programme	1,590,058
FATA Secretariat Capacity Building Programme	280,598
Earthquake Rehabilitation Programme[2]	3,584,267
Humanitarian Support Programme[3]	2,000,000
Total	22,134,912

[1] Provisional
[2] Programme shared equally between NWFP and Pakistan-administered Kashmir. Only the NWFP component is shown here.
[3] Covers both NWFP and FATA.

In addition, in 2008-09, DFID supported the following nationwide programmes which helped provide services in NWFP and FATA as well as in other parts of Pakistan:

Programme	Expenditure during 2008-09[1] (£)
Poverty Reduction Budget Support	30,000,000
National Health and Population Facility	15,004,579
Polio Eradication Initiative	5,000,000
Maternal and Newborn Health Programme	10,694,027
Achieving Universal Access to Control HIV/AIDS	3,547,882
Rural Support Programmes Network	1,746,581
Financial Inclusion Programme	10,011,940
Voluntary Repatriation of Afghan Refugees	1,000,000
Total	77,203,309

[1] Estimated.

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what effect recent events in the Swat valley have had on his Department's operations in the North West Frontier Province of Pakistan; and if he will make a statement. [272922]

Mr. Douglas Alexander: Insecurity in the North West Frontier Province (NWFP), including Swat district, has a major effect on both the provincial government's capacity to deliver services and the international community's ability to provide development assistance. We are monitoring the situation closely and are in discussion with the provincial government and other development partners.

The Department for International Development (DFID) do not currently have projects that are specifically focused on Swat or neighbouring districts that are most affected by conflict. We are providing support across the province for the delivery of services, including education, health, water, sanitation and micro-finance. In some places these services have been significantly disrupted, although in most of NWFP services are still being provided as normal. As we design new programmes, we undertake detailed assessments of conflict, security and risk in order to develop effective approaches to the delivery of basic services in conflict affected areas. In direct response to the consequences of conflict in NWFP and the Federally Administered Tribal Areas we have so far provided £12 million of humanitarian assistance to help those who have been displaced from their homes.

Sri Lanka: Overseas Aid

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much humanitarian aid the UK has provided to Sri Lanka in the last 10 years. [273007]

Mr. Michael Foster: This information is available in the Department for International Development's (DFID) Statistics on International Development publication. Copies of this are available in House of Commons Libraries and on the DFID website:

www.dfid.gov.uk.

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development (1) what recent discussions he has had with representatives of international aid agencies on the provision of humanitarian aid to Sri Lanka; [273008]

(2) what recent discussions he has had with the Sri Lankan Government on the provision of humanitarian aid to that country; [273010]

(3) what recent discussions he has had with representatives of non-governmental organisations on the provision of humanitarian aid to Sri Lanka. [273011]

Mr. Michael Foster: I and other UK Ministers have had many such discussions to try to improve the provision of aid to Sri Lanka. These include my visit to Sri Lanka on 27-28 April where I met the Sri Lankan Government, international agencies and non-governmental organisations (NGOs). I pressed on the Government of Sri Lanka the need to: ensure international humanitarian access to those in the conflict zone; protect people from disproportionate use of force; and ensure early return for those who have been displaced. I also pressed the Government of Sri Lanka to improve the conditions for people in displacement camps, especially through allowing international organisations and NGOs better access. I updated the House on my visit and other recent developments in a written statement on 29 April 2009, Official Report, columns 49-50WS.

Zimbabwe: Death

Sammy Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what estimate his Department has made of the number of people who have died of starvation in Zimbabwe in the last 12 months. [273108]

Mr. Ivan Lewis: There are no figures available for the number of people who have died of starvation in Zimbabwe in the last 12 months as public record-keeping systems have, in many cases, broken down. According to the most recent UN nutritional assessments, malnutrition rates have continued to remain below emergency levels. Death from disease (including HIV/AIDS, TB, cholera and other gastro-intestinal conditions) is far more likely than starvation.

The Department for International Development's (DFID) Zimbabwe programme is aimed at tackling the whole range of life-threatening and other urgent challenges facing ordinary Zimbabweans. We provided £49 million in aid to the people of Zimbabwe in 2008-09, none of which passed through government hands.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Aviation: Radio Frequencies

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether he has had recent discussions with representatives of the International Telecommunications Union on the implications for aeronautical radio spectrum in the UK of introducing administered incentive pricing. [272232]

Mr. McFadden: My noble Friend the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform has not had recent discussions with representatives of the International Telecommunication Union, on the implications for aeronautical radio spectrum in the UK of introducing administered incentive pricing. Discussions of this nature are a matter for the regulator, the Office of Communications (Ofcom), which represents the UK Government on matters of international spectrum policy, including in the International Telecommunication Union (ITU).

Bankruptcy: Wales

Mark Williams: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many bankruptcies there have been in each business sector in Wales since 2000. [272772]

Mr. McFadden: Statistics for individual bankruptcies attributable to trading-related debts are not readily available broken down by the industry sector of the business for Wales separately. Corporate insolvency statistics in Wales are similarly not available by industry sector.

Headline insolvency statistics published by the Insolvency Service cover England and Wales as a whole, and these, including the latest industrial breakdowns may be found here:

http://www.insolvency.gov.uk/otherinformation/statistics/200905/index.htm

Business: Voluntary Organisations

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what recent steps his Department has taken to foster links between businesses and the third sector. [272858]

Ian Pearson: Social enterprises have a valuable role to play in our economy and BERR is fully committed to creating an environment in which all enterprise, including social enterprise, can thrive and grow.

Examples of Government support mechanisms to help achieve this include 'Real Help for Businesses' and 'Solutions for Business', which is the Government's streamlined portfolio of business support products, providing tailored advice to help social and other enterprises start and grow.

Cabinet: Glasgow

Mr. MacNeil: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many (a) special advisers and (b) officials of his Department accompanied the Secretary of State to Glasgow for the Cabinet meeting on 16 April 2009. [273069]

Mr. McFadden: One official and no special advisers.

Conditions of Employment: Carers

Mr. Marsden: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what progress has been made on implementing the National Carers Strategy with respect to (a) flexible working practices for carers including the definition of carer in flexible working legislation, (b) awareness among employers and carers of flexible working and (c) the production of a good practice guide for employers on supporting carers; and if he will make a statement. [250812]

Mr. McFadden: I apologise for the delay in responding.

The following details work under way in relation to the progress on the Carers Strategy.

(a) Flexible working practices for carers including the definition of carer in flexible working legislation

The Work and Families Act 2006 extended the right to request flexible working to carers of adults where the person cared for is a relative or lives at the same address. This definition covers approximately 80 per cent. of carers. BERR will review the definition of carer in relation to flexible working once the impact of the current extension has been evaluated. This is part of the short to medium-term commitments in the Carers Strategy to be undertaken by 2011.

(b) Awareness among employers and carers of flexible working

The Government are actively promoting the right to request flexible working, focusing primarily on employers, carers and parents. Activities are being spread over 12 months encompassing media opportunities, ministerial events and using publications to reach the various target audiences. The campaign is both raising awareness of the individuals' right to request flexible working and helping employers understand how to handle such requests through more effective use of tools and advice available on BusinessLink.Gov.

Improved guidance on the Businesslink website aims to help employers implement flexible working and provides all the information they need to comply with the law including free online forms and guidance tools to help deal with requests—helping save time, money and stress.

The Directgov website provides practical information and advice for individuals including their rights under the law and how to make a request.

In the run up to 6 April 2009 the Government contracted 890,000 SMEs to highlight the change in the law and to publicise the guidance available at www.businesslink.gov.uk

This aimed to make sure businesses know where to find the free help available and could avoid having to pay for professional external advice, thereby making the implementation of flexible working in the workplace easier and simpler to manage.

Also in the run-up to 6 April Directgov ran a campaign encompassing magazine advertorials, radio slots and television advertising, and highlighting the guidance and advice available on

www.direct.gov.uk

Flexible working messages were included as part of this campaign. The Government also engaged with key stakeholders including Working Families, CarersUK, the Scouts and the TUC to promote the flexible messages to employers.

(c) The production of a good practice guide for employers on supporting carers

Employers for Carers, facilitated by Carers UK and led by a core group of employers, was formally launched in January 2009. Their work includes identifying and promoting the business benefits of supporting carers in the workplace and offering employers practical support to develop and benchmark good practice. They aim to create a culture that supports carers in and into work. Government are working with groups such as Carers UK and Employers for Carers to assess the best way of disseminating and promoting a good practice guide as agreed in the Carers Strategy.

Contracts

Harry Cohen: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will take steps to ensure that companies which do not complete work which they have contracted to undertake do not receive the full value of payments specified in such (a) public and (b) private sector contracts. [262280]

Ian Pearson: Where there is not full or satisfactory receipt of the required outputs, full payment should not be made and this commercial position is reinforced in Government's recommended model terms and conditions of contract for goods and services. These model terms also include a range of remedies available to the procuring authority in the event of a contractor's failure to meet the required specification.

Departmental Domestic Visits

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many bank branches the Secretary of State has visited on official business in the last 12 months. [261143]

Mr. McFadden: My right hon. and noble Friend the Secretary of State visited a branch of Natwest at 1 Princes Street, London, to mark the start of RBS's regional fund schemes for local entrepreneurs.

Departmental Electronic Equipment

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many laptops were provided to (a) Ministers, (b) special advisers and (c) civil servants in his Department in each year since 2005; and what the cost to the public purse was. [266346]

Mr. McFadden: The Department uses two types of laptop device. One provides secure remote access to the Departments network from the UK and overseas; the other is a standalone model with encryption. The figures in the following table show the number of laptops in use at the end of each financial year.

	Device Type	Ministers	Special Advisers	Civil Servants
2005	Secure	0	8	1,500
2006	Remote	0	8	800

Departmental Public Consultation

David T.C. Davies: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much (a) his Department and (b) its agencies paid Opinion Leader Research in financial year 2007-08. [260972]

Mr. McFadden: Central records indicate that the Department paid Opinion Leader Research Ltd. £108,152.29 in financial year 2007-08.

I have asked chief executives of the Executive agencies to respond directly to the hon. Member.

Letter from Stephen Speed, dated 11 May 2009:

The Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform has asked me to reply to your question how much (a) his Department and (b) its agencies paid Opinion Leader Research in financial year 2007-08.

The Insolvency Service Executive Agency of The Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform made no payments to Opinion Leader Research in the financial year 2007-08.

Letter from Gareth Jones, dated 11 May 2009:

I am responding on behalf of Companies House to your Parliamentary Question tabled on 2 March 2009, UIN 260972, to the Minister of State for Business Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

Companies House did not make any payments to Opinion Leader Research in the financial year 2007-08.

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what payments for (a) polling and (b) other services his Department has made to (i) Deborah Mattinson and (ii) Opinion Leader Research Ltd. since 31 December 2007; and if he will make a statement. [261062]

Mr. McFadden: Central records indicate that the Department has made no payments for (a) polling and (b) other services to Deborah Mattinson and Opinion Leader Research Ltd. since 31 December 2007.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Grant Shapps: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform pursuant to the answer of 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1128W, on the economic situation, what expenditure under what budgetary headings his Department incurred in relation to each of its Department's three summits on the economic situation held at 1 Victoria Street since January 2009. [268173]

Mr. McFadden: The costs of the three summits referred to in my answer to the hon. Member on 17 March 2009, Official Report, column 1128W, were as follows:

Regional Economic Council—5 November 2008: Total cost: £395.25 of which venue hire was £328.00 and hospitality was £67.25.

Credit Card Summit—26 November 2008: Total cost: £1,126.30 of which venue hire was £490.00 and hospitality was £636.30.

Regional Economic Council—5 January 2009: Total cost: £605.70 of which venue hire was £468.00 and hospitality was £137.70.

East Midlands Airport: Radio Frequencies

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (1) what assessment he has made of the cost to East Midlands Airport of the introduction of administered incentive pricing for aeronautical radio spectrum; [272230]

(2) what estimate he has made of the individual cost to passengers using East Midlands Airport of administered incentive pricing for aeronautical radio spectrum if the full cost is passed on by airlines. [272231]

Mr. McFadden: The matter raised is the responsibility of the independent regulator, the Office of Communications (Ofcom), which is accountable to Parliament rather than Ministers. Accordingly, I have asked the chief executive of Ofcom to reply directly to my right hon. Friend. Copies of the chief executive's letter will be placed in the Libraries of both Houses.

Electronic Equipment: Forgery

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what estimate his Department has made of (a) the prevalence of counterfeit electronic components and (b) the extent of their inclusion in assemblies for military and civilian purposes; and what steps are being taken to inform users of the dangers of component failures. [273605]

Ian Pearson: The Department has made no such estimates, but we recognise that counterfeiting of electronic components is a problem in the UK, and we are helping the UK Electronics Alliance (UKEA) to co-ordinate work on ways to share best practice on prevention, detection and intelligence sharing.

Other organisations involved in this work include the MOD, HMRC, the UK Intellectual Property Office, Trading Standards, the Components Obsolescence Group, Intellect, and the Association of Franchised Distributors of Electronic Components (AFDEC).

Minimum Wage: Telephone Services

John McDonnell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what consultation his Department undertook with the Public and Commercial Services Union before the decision was taken to outsource the national minimum wage helpline. [273117]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 7 May 2009]: Several meetings took place with trade union representatives about the Department's plans prior to a decision being taken to outsource the new single enforcement helpline. These representatives included both local and national public and commercial services union officers.

The new helpline will provide a single point of contact for vulnerable workers and employers seeking information and advice about the national minimum wage, the agricultural minimum wage, working time regulation and the special regulations relating to employment agencies and gangmasters. Plans for the helpline have been discussed at meetings of the Fair Employment Enforcement Board which brings together enforcement agencies from across Government, as well as employer and employee representations.

John McDonnell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform which organisations bid for the national minimum wage helpline contract; and what the monetary value of the contract awarded to BSS for the national minimum wage helpline is. [273118]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 7 May 2009]: The contract with BSS will last for three years, with a possibility of extension for a further three years if the service proves to be effective, and represents value for money. The Department regards the anticipated contract value and the names of the unsuccessful bidders as commercially confidential.

John McDonnell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform if he will place in the Library a copy of the business case for the decision to outsource the work of national minimum wage helpline. [273119]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 7 May 2009]: The Department looked very carefully at options for direct Government delivery of the service before turning to an outsourcing solution.

The helpline provider was selected following a competitive tendering process which assessed bids against a number of factors including value for money, evidence of a high level of operator skills, a track record in delivering sensitive services on behalf of the public sector, and flexible IT systems and skills. I expect the successful tenderer to deliver a high quality service for vulnerable workers and for the different workplace enforcement bodies that stand behind the helpline.

John McDonnell: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what training has been provided to BSS staff who will be employed on the national minimum wage helpline contract. [273120]

Mr. McFadden: [holding answer 7 May 2009]: BSS's helpline staff are receiving more than eight weeks' full-time training prior to commencement of the new helpline service. Much of the training has been delivered by the Government's workplace enforcement bodies on whose behalf the helpline will answer straightforward queries from callers, and refer on complex queries and complaints of abuses which require investigation.

Ministers: Members Interests

Norman Baker: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what advice the Secretary of State received from (a) his Permanent Secretary and (b) the independent adviser on Ministers' interests, pursuant to paragraph 7.7 of the Ministerial Code, prior to establishing his blind trust. [272381]

Mr. McFadden [holding answer 5 May 2009]: My right hon. Friend's blind trust was established prior to his becoming Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform.

Mobile Phones: Contracts

Mr. Andrew Turner: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how many complaints Ofcom has received on the handling by each mobile telephone service provider of cancellations of mobile telephone services in each of the last five years. [264097]

Mr. McFadden: Office of Communications (Ofcom) have advised that the information requested could be provided only at a disproportionate cost. While Ofcom does monitor the levels of complaints against service providers' customer services, this information is aggregated and does not go down to the level of detail requested.

Furthermore, Ofcom only publishes complaints data in an aggregated manner and does not release supplier-specific information. The Communications Act 2003 provides clear guidance for how Ofcom should release supplier-specific information. Ofcom must also weigh up the potential risk of civil liability, should it release information that is inaccurate or misleading.

Non-domestic Rates

Peter Luff: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what discussions his Department has had with the Treasury and the Department for Communities and Local Government on the implementation of measures to introduce automatic rate relief for small businesses. [271533]

Ian Pearson: I refer my hon. Friend to the reply that my right hon. Friend the Minister for Local Government gave on 5 May 2009, Official Report, column 141W.

Regional Development Agencies: Empty Property

Mr. Pickles: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what the estimated cost in empty property business rates for the vacant properties recorded on the e-PIMS database owned by each of the regional development agencies is in 2008-09. [258532]

Mr. McFadden: The table illustrates the estimated costs of empty property business rates for RDA properties recorded on the e-PIMS database.

RDAs are required to record operational properties on e-PIMS but do not have to record Regeneration properties where these are intended to be held by the Agency on a temporary basis.

The LDA is not required to use e-PIMS—it provides data to the Greater London Authority.

RDA	£
Advantage West Midlands	35,000
East of England Development Agency	109,000
East Midlands Development Agency	24,000
North West Development Agency (operational properties only)	48,000
One North East (operational properties only)	—
South East England Development Agency (all properties, including regeneration properties)	560,000
South West England Regional Development Agency	146,000
Yorkshire Forward (includes significant city/town centre premises, where the RDA is pursuing a vacant possession strategy in advance of redevelopment)	1.02 million

Regional Planning and Development

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what funding each regional development agency has given to each regional health Brussels office in the most recent 12 month period for which figures are available. [269969]

Mr. McFadden: No RDA has provided funding to a regional health Brussels office.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform how much funding had been allocated to each regional cultural observatory from regional development agencies for 2009-10. [270125]

Mr. McFadden: No RDA has allocated funding to a regional cultural observatory in 2009-10.

Mrs. Spelman: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what plans he has to bring forward legislative proposals for enabling regional development agencies to delegate responsibility for funding decisions to local authorities. [272343]

Mr. McFadden: The Government's response to the consultation on the SNR recognised that much of the original policy intention could be met under existing legislation by encouraging closer working between RDAs and local authorities in planning how the regional strategy would be implemented. By taking a joint approach to planning investment in the region, it will be possible for local authorities to take on a large degree of responsibility for delivering agreed programmes and projects in their area. Revised guidance will be issued shortly to make this clear.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Local Housing Allowance

12. Mr. Hands: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the implementation of local housing allowance. [273496]

Kitty Ussher: I refer the hon. Member to the answer I gave the hon. Member for Dunfermline and West Fife (Willie Rennie) today.

New Claimants

13. Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what support his Department provides for the newly unemployed. [273497]

16. Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what support his Department provides through Jobcentre Plus to assist newly unemployed people. [273500]

Mr. McNulty: The Government are doing everything they can to help people get back into work as quickly as possible. Since last autumn, the Department has put in place a substantial package of support for the newly unemployed, including help with modern job search techniques for professionals and executives, as well as increasing funding for the Rapid Response Service by 400 per cent. and expanding Local Employment Partnerships, the Adviser Discretion Fund and Access to Work.

Mr. Heald: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what further provision he plans to introduce to support newly unemployed people. [273505]

Mr. McNulty: We recognise the importance of providing customers with targeted support early in their claim.

This is why we introduced a substantial package of extra support for newly unemployed people, including help with latest jobsearch techniques for professionals, and the extension of local employment partnerships, the Adviser Discretionary Fund and Access to Work.

Jobcentre Plus is in the process of recruiting additional staff to ensure service levels are maintained through the current downturn.

Winter Fuel Allowance

14. Mr. Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when the criteria for eligibility for winter fuel allowance were last reviewed; and if he will make a statement. [273498]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We keep the eligibility criteria for winter fuel payments under review.

Pensioner Assistance

15. Mr. Grogan: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what assistance his Department provides to people who receive pension credit in relation to payment of council tax. [273499]

Ms Rosie Winterton: The Government are committed to ensuring that pensioners receive the support they are entitled to. We have already simplified the claims process so that pensioners can claim state pension, pension credit, housing benefit and council tax benefit in one phone call and we continue to look at ways of making further improvements.

Jobcentre Plus

17. Phil Wilson: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much additional funding he plans to provide for Jobcentre Plus to meet demand for its services in 2009-10. [273501]

Mr. McNulty: The additional funding for Jobcentre Plus to meet the demand for its services in 2009-10 is expected to be around £700 million.

Flexible New Deal

18. Mr. Ian Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his plans are for the future operation of the flexible new deal; and if he will make a statement. [273502]

Mr. McNulty: Thanks to significant additional funds committed at the pre-Budget report and the Budget, the Department is on track to deliver flexible new deal in phase 1 areas from October 2009.

It is envisaged that jobseekers in phase 2 areas will be referred to flexible new deal from October 2010.

Incapacity Benefit Claimants

19. Mr. Whittingdale: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what plans he has to assist long-term incapacity benefit claimants into work. [273503]

20. Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what plans he has to assist long-term incapacity benefit claimants into work. [273504]

Jonathan Shaw: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State earlier.

Jobseeker's Allowance

22. Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what proportion of the population in the West Midlands is in receipt of jobseeker's allowance. [273506]

Mr. McNulty: In March 2009 the proportion of the working-age population in the West Midlands claiming jobseeker's allowance was 5.3 per cent.

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of jobseeker's allowance claimants undertaking mandatory Jobcentre Plus training courses at six months found sustainable jobs of 26 or more weeks duration on completion of their courses in the latest period for which figures are available. [269088]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 20 April 2009]: The information requested is not collated centrally.

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people aged between 18 and 24 years claimed jobseeker's allowance in each of the last five years; and what proportion of the 18 to 24 years age group in (a) the UK, (b) each of the Scottish regions and (c) North East Fife constituency claimed the allowance in each year. [270856]

Mr. McNulty: The available information is shown in the following table.

Population estimates for parliamentary constituencies in Scotland are published by the General Register Office for Scotland. The age breakdown provided is for five-year age groups. No estimate is available for the age group 18-24, therefore the proportions requested cannot be calculated.

Asbestos

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what research the Government have funded into the consequences of long-term exposure to asbestos. [272572]

Jonathan Shaw: The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) maintains a longstanding and continuing programme of research into the health effects of asbestos exposure.

Since 1968 the HSE has maintained the Great Britain Mesothelioma and Asbestosis Registers which document annual deaths from these conditions giving vital data for research.

Since the early 1970s HSE has maintained a long term research study of more specific groups of workers in the British asbestos manufacturing industry, now including the current asbestos removals industry, to monitor their long term health status, in particular, their cancer and mortality rates, and to evaluate the effectiveness of legislation protecting their health.

Most recently the HSE (with Cancer Research UK) commissioned Professor Julian Peto of the Institute of Cancer Research to measure the lung asbestos content in individuals with the asbestos-related cancer, mesothelioma, and those with and without it, including young men only potentially exposed more recently, to better assess the level of past exposure associated with disease and predict the future impact of current exposures. This follows HSE-funded research by Professor Peto on mesothelioma risk in specific occupations and from other potential sources of exposure.

The programme enables the HSE to document and predict overall trends in the occurrence of key asbestos related diseases; identify changing patterns of occupational risk; monitor the long term health of those working in occupations covered by legislation on asbestos exposure at work; collate scientific information to improve knowledge about risk from different types of asbestos and at different exposures; and improve, and evaluate preventive measures.

Further details of the HSE's research programme are available from the HSE website.

Departmental ICT

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the estimated cost overrun is for each IT project being undertaken by (a) his Department and (b) its agencies which is subject to a cost overrun. [270221]

Jonathan Shaw: Although the Department does not have any discrete IT projects, it has a number of projects and programmes that include changes to, or new, IT to a greater or lesser extent. The following table includes:

the projects and programmes currently on the Department's Portfolio where the IT element of the project or programme results in the development and/or implementation of services that underpin the delivery of departmental business, and for which there is an anticipated cost overrun; the investment costs of the project or programme only. Costs of running the solutions implemented by the project are not included as in the vast majority of cases they are more than compensated for by the financial benefits they generate. The costs reported relate to the total project, not only the IT element, based on the full business case.

Employment and Support Allowance

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what (a) benefits and (b) other concessions are available to those eligible for the income-related employment support allowance; if he will make it his policy to adjust the payment of contributory employment support allowance to allow eligibility for income-related employment support allowance; and if he will make a statement. [262548]

Mr. McNulty: People on income-related employment and support allowance are automatically passported to a range of support, including the maximum levels of housing benefit and council tax benefit, free prescriptions and dental care. In addition they are eligible for a wide range of help from the Social Fund.

Customers in receipt of contributory Employment and Support Allowance only are not automatically entitled to passported benefits, but are able to apply separately, under low income schemes, for most benefits that are passported.

We will continue to keep the policy under review.

Employment and Support Allowance: Telephone Services

Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions for what reasons his Department decided to use an 0845 telephone number for queries from applicants for employment and support allowance; what alternatives there are to the service; and if he will make a statement. [265969]

Jonathan Shaw [holding answer 24 March 2009]: Inquiries about employment and support allowance use the same modem telephony infrastructure as do inquiries to other DWP services. This ensures that we can satisfy our customers' needs in an effective and efficient way.

DWP's executive team agreed last year that initial calls to inquire about and claim benefit should be free, so we should use 0800 numbers to ensure that the most important—and longest—calls are free to the majority of our customers. Subsequent calls for other reasons, such as offering further information or progress on the claim, take less time to resolve and should be charged at a standard rate for the majority of customers, so we should use 0845 numbers.

The telephony market is constantly changing but it would be unreasonable to expect customers to continually keep up with alterations to our telephone numbering in order to allow us to match the latest pricing by different service operators. Costs of calling 0845 numbers remain lower than many alternatives, but we keep the market under review. Using BT landlines to call 0845 numbers is usually the lowest cost option. BT account for two-thirds of landline provision and recent research shows that over 80 per cent. of our customers contact us using landlines. Therefore, we concluded that 0845 numbers offered the best solution for the majority of our customers. The Department receives no revenue from use of any of our numbers, including 0845.

Alternatives to the service are for the customer to use the free phones provided in jobcentres to make inquiries. In the event the jobcentre does not have a free phone available, local arrangements are in place to provide the customer with the opportunity to use a standard Jobcentre Plus phone.

Where a customer is unable to use a landline and asks for us to call them back we will always do so.

Employment Schemes

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what guidance Jobcentre Plus has given to personal advisers on identifying employers eligible for payments under the employers' golden hello scheme announced by his Department on 12 January 2009; and if he will place in the Library a copy of such guidance. [269013]

Mr. McNulty: All employers are eligible to claim the recruitment subsidy element of the six-month offer, announced on 12 January, as long as they agree to the terms and conditions for receiving the payment. A copy of these terms and conditions has been placed in the Library

Employment Services

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent steps his Department has taken to assist skilled long-term unemployed persons to gain access to re-training and new employment opportunities. [270925]

Mr. McNulty: The Budget has made an additional £2.8 billion available to DWP, on top of the £1.3 billion funding announced in the pre-Budget report, which will ensure that over the next two years we can continue to expand our support to jobseekers through the economic downturn. Among other initiatives, this extra funding will enable us to guarantee a job or other meaningful activity to young people and certain disadvantaged groups from the 12-month point of their claim.

The Government are investing £0.5 billion over two years to support people through an expanded range of work and training options to provide jobs through recruitment subsidies, support to start a business, work-related training and volunteering opportunities. This extra help was introduced on 6 April and is available to all those who have been out of work and claiming jobseeker's allowance for six months or more.

Jobseeker's allowance customers can train for up to 16 hours per week alongside active job search. Jobseekers may also undertake up to two weeks of full-time training in any 12-month period, without jeopardising their benefit entitlements. Additionally, from 6 April, anyone who has been unemployed and claiming benefits for more than six months can study full time for up to eight weeks on a job-related training course approved by an employment adviser.

The introduction of the flexible new deal in phase 1 areas from October will establish a new, unified approach for longer-term jobseekers, whatever their age, skills or barriers to work. The flexible new deal will deliver work-focused support, tailored to each individual's needs and local labour market requirements.

Foreign Workers

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many national insurance numbers were issued to adult (a) non-UK EU nationals and (b) non-EU nationals in the latest year for which figures are available. [253988]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 3 February 2009]: The available information is in the following table.

National insurance number registrations to adult overseas nationals entering the UK, by quarter of registration and EU/non-EU status

Thousand

	EU nationals	Non-EU nationals
October 2007 to December 2007	108.29	76.67
January 2008 to March 2008	110.83	80.93
April 2008 to June 2008	100.68	74.65
July 2008 to September 2008	101.93	65.26

Notes:
1. Figures are rounded to the nearest 10 and displayed in thousands.
2. There are a small number of registrations where citizens' nationalities are unknown, these are not included.
3. Registration date is derived from the date at which a national insurance number is entered on the National Insurance Recording System
4. When presenting the EU time series, countries which joined the EU during time series have been included in the EU for the whole of the time series, to facilitate comparisons over time.
5. Bulgaria and Romania are listed as EU accession states for the entire time series. The EU total includes the accession states.
6. The EU time series excludes national insurance numbers registered to UK nationals.

Funeral Payments

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what support his Department provides for payments for the funeral expenses for the late husband of a woman aged under 30 years old in full-time education with no household income; and if he will make a statement. [271675]

Kitty Ussher: In order to be eligible to receive a funeral payment from the social fund in these circumstances, the woman must have an award of one of the qualifying benefits or tax credits in respect of the date of claim. The qualifying benefits and tax credits are:

state pension credit;

income support;

income based jobseeker's allowance;

income related employment and support allowance;

housing benefit;

council tax benefit;

working tax credit that includes a disability or severe disability element; child tax credit at a rate higher than the family element.

A funeral payment can be claimed from the date of death up until three months after the funeral.

In addition, a surviving spouse or civil partner in the circumstances described may be entitled to claim one or more of the following benefits: bereavement payment–a lump sum payment of £2,000 payable immediately to help with costs arising on bereavement; widowed parent's allowance—a weekly benefit payable to widowed parents and surviving civil partners with responsibility for dependant child or children.

Entitlement conditions for these bereavement benefits are based on the national insurance record of the late spouse or deceased civil partner. Bereavement benefits are payable to both men and women who satisfy the qualifying conditions.

Incapacity Benefit: Arthritis

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many incapacity benefit claimants had a recorded diagnosis which was or included rheumatoid arthritis in each of the last five years; and how much was paid in such benefits to such claimants in each of these years. [270500]

Jonathan Shaw: Rheumatoid arthritis does not of itself confer entitlement to incapacity benefits. Until October 2008 the medical assessment of incapacity for work was the personal capability assessment. This assesses the effects of a person's condition on their ability to carry out a number of everyday activities relevant to work.

The information requested is in the following table.

Estimated incapacity benefits expenditure on claimants whose diagnosis includes rheumatoid arthritis (nominal terms)

	£ million
2003-04	128
2004-05	126
2005-06	125
2006-07	123
2007-08	122

Notes:
1. Incapacity benefits includes incapacity benefit and severe disablement allowance payable to working-aged adults.
2. Figures also include incapacity related income support expenditure for incapacity benefit claimants. Expenditure figures are rounded to the nearest £ million.
3. Estimates are based on information from the Work and Pensions Longitudinal Study and published DWP benefit expenditure tables.
4. DWP benefit expenditure tables can be accessed at: http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp

Estimated incapacity benefits caseloads of claimants whose diagnosis includes rheumatoid arthritis (nominal terms)

2004	29,010
2005	28,040
2006	27,100
2007	25,780
2008	24,710

Notes:
1. Caseload figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Causes of incapacity are based on the International Classification of Diseases, 10th revision, published by the World Health Organisation.
3. To qualify for incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance, claimants have to undertake a medical assessment of incapacity for work called the personal capability assessment. Therefore, the medical condition recorded on the claim form does not itself confer entitlement to benefit.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Gerald Kaufman: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions when he plans to reply to the letter of 19 March 2009 from the right hon. Member for Manchester, Gorton on Mr J. Harris. [273754]

Jonathan Shaw: My right hon. Friend's letter of 19 March 2009 in respect of Mr. J. Harris was passed to the Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills on 27 March 2009 as it concerned an area for which ministerial colleagues in that Department have responsibility. I apologise to my right hon. Friend for failing to keep him informed of this.

Pensioners: Social Security Benefits

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Northavon of 17 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1038-39W, on pensioners: social security benefits, what estimate he has made of the number of people who would receive more in benefits payments if tariff income rules were abolished and upper capital limits were retained. [265946]

Ms Rosie Winterton: With the abolition of tariff income rules for pension credit and housing benefit and council tax benefit (for those who have attained the qualifying age for pension credit) while keeping the current upper capital limits in housing benefit and council tax benefit, approximately 710,000 pensioner households would receive higher income-related benefits at a cost of approximately £560 million (2009-10 prices) per year.

The tariff income rules are not intended to represent a rate of return that could be obtained from investing an individual's capital. They are a simple method of calculating the weekly contribution that customers with capital in excess of £6,000 are expected to make to their normal living costs.

The Government believe it is right that people with capital should contribute towards their own living costs, and right that support is targeted on those that need it most. That is why the current rules ignore the first £6,000 of savings (£10,000 for those in care homes) and why those with savings above this are expected to contribute a small amount to their weekly expenses.

In the 2009 Budget, the Chancellor announced that the capital threshold for pension credit (and housing benefit and council tax benefit for those who have attained the qualifying age for pension credit) will be increased from £6,000 to £10,000, bringing it into line with the threshold for those living permanently in care homes. This change will take effect from November 2009 and will allow these customers to retain up to £10,000 of capital before it affects their benefit. This change represents a generous increase in the capital thresholds for pension credit recipients and a significant simplification to the benefit. Half a million pensioners stand to gain from this change, with an average weekly gain across all benefits of £4.

With these new capital rules, around 480,000 pensioner households would receive higher income-related benefits at a cost of approximately £440 million (2009-10 prices) per year from the abolition of tariff income rules referred to in the question.

Note:

These estimates have been calculated using the Policy Simulation Model (PSM) which uses data from the Family Resources Survey (FRS). Estimates are subject to sampling and modelling uncertainty.

Redundancy: Woolworths

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many and what proportion of staff made redundant by Woolworth (a) accessed services and (b) have found new work through the Jobcentre Plus rapid response service. [266123]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the right hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Mel Groves:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking, how many and what proportion of staff made redundant by Woolworth (a) accessed services and (b) found new work through the Jobcentre Plus rapid response service. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Staff in almost all of Woolworths' 800 or so stores were offered support through the Rapid Response Service (RRS) before store closure. We do not record specific numbers of employees who are given advice and support through RRS.

We issued over 8,000 packs to enable people to make claims for benefit, and in many instances provided on-site advice on benefits. Our advice and support on jobsearch has also been available to Woolworths' employees, not just in the run up to store closure but afterwards.

We do not attempt systematically to record job outcomes achieved for former employees of particular employers: to do so would be prohibitively expensive. Comprehensive information on the numbers of people made redundant from Woolworths who have found work through Jobcentre Plus is therefore unavailable. We have however noted many examples, throughout Britain of former Woolworths employees finding new jobs with Jobcentre Plus's help.

Social Security Benefits

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how much and what proportion of the (a) number and (b) monetary value each type of benefit payments made in each year since 1997 was (i) overpaid and (ii) underpaid due to (A) customer error, (B) official error, (C) fraud and (D) other reasons. [266184]

Mr. McNulty: The Department's strategy for measuring fraud and error focuses on providing estimates of the Monetary Value of Fraud and Error and does not provide estimates of the number of payments over or underpaid over a particular time period so this is not available. Estimates of the value and the percentage of expenditure for benefits that have been measured since 1997 have been placed in the Library.

Social Security Benefits: Fraud

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many people (a) received a caution and (b) were convicted in respect of an offence of benefit fraud in each quarter of the last five years for which figures are available; and how many of those convicted were dealt with by way of (i) a discharge, (ii) a fine, (iii) a community sentence, (iv) a suspended sentence, (v) a custodial sentence, (vi) a custodial sentence of more than six months and (vii) a custodial sentence of more than 12 months. [244732]

Mr. McNulty: Information broken down by the length of the custodial sentence is not available.

Notes:
1. In April 2006 Jobcentre Plus reorganised its counter fraud resources into two new services. The Fraud Investigation Service was established, focussing on high value cases with a view to securing criminal sanctions including prosecutions. At the same time a customer compliance approach was deployed to deal with less serious cases more speedily with an emphasis on benefit correction, recovery of overpayments and warning customers on their future conduct.
2. The figures for 2006-07 reflect this with the number of investigations shown relating to criminal investigations only from this point. The number of customer compliance activities completed in 2006-07 and 2007-08 were 290,476 and 371,592 respectively.

State Retirement Pensions

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what percentage of adults are in receipt of a state retirement pension. [272474]

Ms Rosie Winterton: We estimate that 23 per cent. of all adults in Great Britain in 2008 are in receipt of a state pension.

Of those who are at state pension age or above, 95 per cent. are estimated to be in receipt of a state pension.

Notes:
Definitions: an adult is someone aged 18 or over.

Unemployed: Social Security Benefits

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions with reference to page 92 of the Pre-Budget Report 2008, to what areas the £1.3 billion funding to deliver support for the unemployed has been allocated; and if he will make a statement. [260899]

Mr. McNulty: The pre-Budget report allocated an additional £1.3 billion over CSR07 to help to deliver effective support to unemployed people. This provides additional money to Jobcentre Plus, contracted employment providers and local authorities.

This money is providing 6,000 additional staff in Jobcentre Plus in 2009-10, and is also being used to implement the additional measures that were announced in the pre-Budget report, the expansion of Local Employer Partnerships and the further expansion of Jobcentre Plus' Rapid Response Service, and to provide a new package of support aimed at jobseekers that have recently become unemployed and have no recent experience of current job search channels.

Unemployment Benefits

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether he plans to use the broad definition of work-related activity contained in the Gregg review in regulations to be made under the Welfare Reform Bill if enacted. [260766]

Mr. McNulty: We are not planning to define the term 'work-related activity' in regulations under the Welfare Reform Bill. We are keen to ensure that the term work-related activity can be interpreted flexibly so it can be tailored to an individual's needs. This will allow the customer in conjunction with their personal adviser to agree activities that are tailored to their individual circumstances and will best help them move closer to work. As Professor Gregg suggested, work-related activity could include training, skills and job-related support as well as wider measures such as volunteering, undertaking parenting programmes or visiting a debt adviser.

We will be using this wide concept of work-related activity as a basis for producing guidance for personal advisers to help them decide which activities will best assist their customers to move closer to the labour market. We will continue to involve stakeholders in the design of the Progression to Work Pathfinders.

Vacancies

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of vacancies of positions offering 30 hours or more employment a week notified to jobcentres in each of the last 12 months. [269469]

Mr. McNulty: Information is not held on the number of vacancies offering 30 hours or more a week, notified to Jobcentre Plus offices in the last 12 months.

Information is available on the number of vacancies offering 16 hours or more a week, notified to Jobcentre Plus offices in the last 12 months and is shown in the following table.

Vacancies, 16 hours or more a week, in Great Britain, notified to Jobcentre Plus offices, April 2008 to March 2009

	Notified vacancies
April 2008	269,080
May 2008	261,390
June 2008	315,535
July 2008	239,930
August 2008	307,295
September 2008	264,671
October 2008	265,085
November 2008	260,955
December 2008	170,535
January 2009	85,486
February 2009	219,302
March 2009	170,403

Notes:
1. Data are unrounded.
2. These are not whole economy figures. Coverage relates just to vacancies notified to Jobcentre Plus and as such the figures represent a market share of vacancies throughout the whole economy. This proportion varies over time, according to the occupation of the vacancy and industry of the employer, and by local area. Comprehensive estimates of all job vacancies (not just those notified to Jobcentre Plus) are available from the monthly ONS Vacancy Survey since April 2001, based on a sample of some 6,000 enterprises. However, the ONS survey is currently designed to provide national estimates only.

Wedgwood: Pensions

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what recent discussions he has had on the pensions of the Waterford Wedgwood workers. [272470]

Ms Rosie Winterton: There have been no specific discussions relating to Waterford Wedgwood workers pensions.

The Pension Protection Fund has received formal notifications from insolvency practitioners in respect of various companies in the Waterford Wedgwood group. It is currently working with the Trustees to determine if the associated pension schemes qualify for entry into a PPF assessment period.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Children: Protection

Mr. Bellingham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what assessment he has made of the effect of reductions in the family legal aid budget on the Government's ability to safeguard and promote the welfare of children and young people. [271458]

Mr. Malik: I have been asked to reply.

The consultation, 'Family Legal Aid Funding from 2010', was published by my Department and the Legal Services Commission on 17 December 2008. The consultation paper was accompanied by a detailed impact assessment which considered the impact of the changes on lawyers and the public.

The consultation proposed that in future the provision of guardians ad litem for children separately represented in family proceedings would be solely the responsibility of the Children and Family Court Advisory Support Service (CAFCASS), and could no longer be considered a legal aid disbursement. This is because these are not legal expenses. The proposal was put forward following discussions with CAFCASS, who confirmed that subject to suitable resources being available they agreed with the point in principle. The consultation responses are now being analysed since the close of the consultation on 3 April. We will have further discussions with the Legal Services Commission, the Department for Children, Schools and Families, and CAFCASS, in the light of the evaluation, to agree a response to the consultation.

Education Maintenance Allowance

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many students in post-16 education in (a) the London Borough of Bexley and (b) England are in receipt of education maintenance allowance. [272750]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) who operate the education maintenance allowance (EMA) for the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF). Geoffrey Russell the LSC's Acting Chief Executive, will write to the hon. Member with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in the House Libraries.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the (a) level of take up and (b) cost of the education maintenance allowance in each of the next five years. [272970]

Jim Knight: We estimate that nearly half of 16, 17 and 18-year-olds in full-time education will take up EMA, and all of those on the Entry to Employment programme.

The budget allocations for the education maintenance allowance (EMA) for the current comprehensive spending review (CSR) period are: 2009/10 £529 million and 2010/11 £529 million. Forecasts of expenditure and take-up beyond the current CSR period are not currently available.

Budget 2009 provided funding for an additional 54,500 learners over and above the numbers to be funded from the CSR budget, a high proportion of these are expected to be eligible for EMA. These learners will be funded in the academic years 2009/10 and 2010/11.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many people are in receipt of education maintenance allowance; and what estimate he has made of the expenditure incurred by his Department on the provision of such allowances in the last 12 months. [273095]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) who operate the education maintenance allowance (EMA) for the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF). Geoffrey Russell the LSC's acting chief executive, will write to the hon. Member with the information requested and a copy of his reply will be placed in the House Libraries.

Education: Standards

Mr. Laws: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many qualifications have been considered for approval by the Joint Advisory Council for Qualifications in each month for which data are available; how many of these qualifications were (a) rejected and (b) accepted; and if he will make a statement. [272754]

Jim Knight: The Joint Advisory Committee for Qualifications Approval (JACQA) has met twice: on 3 December 2008 and 19 March 2009.

Two newly-accredited "standalone" qualifications were considered at the December meeting. The committee recommended that both should be approved as eligible for public funding, on the basis that they satisfied the Section 96 criteria.

44 standalone qualifications were reviewed at the second meeting of JACQA in March. Recommendations were made in favour of funding nine qualifications, and against approval in the case of one qualification, which the committee did not feel had satisfied the Section 96 criteria. 34 qualifications were referred back to awarding organisations where there was insufficient evidence to judge if the criteria had been met.

The Secretary of State has accepted all of JACQA's recommendations to date.

GCSE

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) how many pupils achieved grade C or higher in GCSE physics, chemistry, biology and mathematics in (a) 1997, (b) 2003 and (c) 2008; [274318]

(2) how many pupils achieved grade C or higher in GCSE English Literature, English and mathematics in (a) 1997, (b) 2003 and (c) 2008; [274319]

(3) how many pupils achieved six or more GCSEs including grade C or higher in mathematics, English, English Literature, double award science or all three separate sciences and history in 2008. [274320]

Jim Knight: The answers to these questions are given in the following table:

Question	1997[1]	2003[1]	2008[1]
274318
Number of pupils attaining A*-C in four or more GCSEs including physics, chemistry, biology and mathematics	26,594	31,670	53,625
274319
Number of pupils attaining A*-C in three or more GCSEs including English, English literature and mathematics	196,263	248,632	276,681
274320
Number of pupils attaining A*-C in six or more GCSEs including English, English literature, mathematics, history and either physics, chemistry and biology or double award science	—	—	24,597

[1] Prior to 2005, figures are based on 15-year-old pupils whereas in subsequent years figures are based on pupils at the end of Key Stage 4.

Havering Sixth Form College

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what funding his Department has allocated to Havering Sixth Form College for (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009-10. [272899]

Jim Knight: The Learning and Skills Council (LSC) hold the information you have requested. Geoffrey Russell, the LSC's acting chief executive, will write to the hon. Member. A copy of his reply will be placed in the House Libraries.

Schools: Complaints

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what mechanisms exist for parents to complain about the standard of teaching in a school; and if he will make a statement. [273398]

Jim Knight: Since 1 September 2003, governing bodies of all maintained schools and maintained nursery schools in England have been required, under section 29 of the Education Act 2002, to have in place a procedure to deal with complaints relating to the school and any community facilities or services that the school provides. The law also requires the procedure to be publicised. Parents may also approach Ofsted, which has powers to investigate and if necessary conduct an inspection of the school. In addition, parents' views are sought and considered as part of all school inspections.

Schools: Information and Communications Technology

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of computers in primary schools in (a) the London Borough of Bexley and (b) Greater London. [273201]

Jim Knight: The Department does not collect the information requested.

Schools: Standards

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which schools have been taken into special measures more than once since 1997. [269877]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for Ofsted. HMCI Christine Gilbert will be replying and a copy will be placed in the House Libraries.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 24 April 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for a response.

Between 1 September 1997 and 31 December 2008, 1,940 maintained schools were placed in special measures once, and 67 schools were placed in special measures more than once, including one school that had been placed in special measures three times. This school has now closed.

Of the 67 schools that required special measures a second time, five remained in special measures at their re-inspection without ever being removed from this category. They are included at the foot of the list. Data for the spring term 2009 have not yet been published and are not included in these figures.

A copy of this reply has been sent to the right hon. Jim Knight MP, Minister of State for Schools and Learners, and will be placed in the Library of both Houses.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many pupils attended schools which were taken into special measures for the first time in each year since 1997. [269878]

Jim Knight: This is a matter for Ofsted. HMCI Christine Gilbert will be replying and a copy will be placed in the House Libraries.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 28 April 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for reply.

Table A shows the number of schools placed in special measures for the first time in each academic year since 1997/98, and the number of pupils attending these schools in that year, according to the Department for Children, Schools and Families' School Census, taken in January of each year. Schools for which Schools Census data are not available have been excluded from the analysis.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) which 15 local authorities have the (a) most and (b) highest proportion of schools assessed as inadequate by Ofsted; [271827]

(2) which 15 local authorities have the (a) most and (b) highest proportion of special schools assessed as inadequate by Ofsted. [271828]

Jim Knight: The following tables (1-4) provide the information requested. Figures are based on the most recent data published by Ofsted (31 December 2008) and relate to the inadequate categories of special measures and significant improvement.

Table 3 lists all of the local authorities that had any special schools in one of the categories of special measures or significant improvement at 31 December 2008. Figures for the number of pupil referral units in Ofsted categories are provided separately in Table 4.

Science: General Certificate of Secondary Education

Michael Gove: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in (a) independent schools, (b) comprehensive schools, (c) special schools, (d) pupil referral units and (e) other schools took GCSEs in (i) science, (ii) science and additional science and (iii) separate science subjects in 2008. [262485]

Jim Knight: The requested information is given in the following table:

Number of GCSE entries by pupils at the end of KS4 in science subjects, by school-type in 2008

	Subject	(a) Independent[1]	(b) Comprehensive	(c) Special schools[2]	(d) Pupil referral Units[3]	(e) Other schools[4]	All schools

[1] Independent mainstream schools only.
[2] Special schools include independent special schools.
[3] Pupil referral units excluding hospital schools.
[4] Other schools include selective, modern and other maintained schools.
Note:
Vocational GCSE entries in Applied Science are not included in this answer.

Secondary Education: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent steps the Government has taken to support pupils taking (a) A-level and (b) GCSE examinations in Coventry. [271651]

Jim Knight: Recent improvements in A-level achievement in Coventry are particularly encouraging. The following figures[1] show that Coventry pupils' achievements have improved between 2006[2] and 2008 compared with the average improvement for England, both in terms of the average point score per student at A-level and in the average point score achieved per A-level exam.

[1] Source:

The published Achievement and Attainment Tables 2008.

[2] Comparisons with earlier years are not possible because of changes in the points awarded for particular examinations and grades in 2005/06.

We have put in place a programme of work force support in 2009-10 delivered by the Learning and Skills Improvement Service for managers and practitioners in all areas of the country, including Coventry. This includes support aimed at developing examination centres' understanding of changes to A-levels, and promoting and sharing effective practice between centres.

[2] End of key stage 4 pupils.

As the table above shows, we have made substantial progress in raising GCSE attainment in secondary schools over the last 10 years. Although the rate of progress in the number of pupils achieving five or more good GCSEs in Coventry has exceeded national rates over the same period, more is needed to reduce the gap in attainment still further. Under the National Challenge, the Department is providing wide-ranging support to eight of the authority's schools this year. The National Challenge supports schools with the lowest GCSE results, so that by 2011 in every secondary school at least 30 per cent. of students will achieve at least five GCSEs at A*-C including English and maths.

The National Strategies also provides support to schools in Coventry and this includes support and challenge in relation to school improvement, English, maths, science, behaviour and attendance, SEN and ethnic minority achievement. The strategies have also supported the provision and delivery of city-side GCSE English and maths revision courses (held at the Ricoh stadium) for year 11 pupils (April 2009).

Sixth Form Education: Finance

Mr. Gibb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which official in his Department was first informed of the contents of the letter of 2 March 2009 from the Learning and Skills Council to school sixth forms and sixth form colleges regarding funding. [274159]

Jim Knight: It is not customary to identify a civil servant by name.

Social Services: Children

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much each unitary local authority allocated per head of population for children's services in (a) 2008-09 and (b) 2009-10. [272531]

Jim Knight: The available information on how much was allocated by each unitary local authority for children's services per head of population in 2008-09 is shown in the table. Information for 2009-10 is currently being collated and validated. It will not be available until later in 2009.

Special Educational Needs

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many and what proportion of pupils with special educational needs attended mainstream schools assessed by Ofsted as inadequate in each year since 1997. [269876]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: This is a matter for Ofsted. HM Chief Inspector, Christine Gilbert, has written to the hon. Member and a copy of her reply has been placed in the House Libraries.

Letter from Christine Gilbert, dated 30 April 2009:

Your recent parliamentary question has been passed to me, as Her Majesty's Chief Inspector, for reply.

Table A shows how many pupils with and without special educational needs attended mainstream schools (including nursery, primary and secondary schools and excluding special schools and pupil referral units) that were in special measures at the end of each academic year since 1997/98. Table B shows these figures as percentages.

Special measures is an Ofsted category, defined in the Education Act 2005, meaning that a school is failing to give its pupils an acceptable standard of education and the persons responsible for leading, managing or governing the school are not demonstrating the capacity to secure the necessary improvement. Please be aware that the framework for inspecting maintained schools changed in September 2005. As a result, there has been no consistent 'inadequate' category over this period. These tables are, therefore, limited to those maintained schools placed in special measures, as this category has been in place throughout the period in question.

Pupil numbers have been calculated using information from the Department for Children, Schools and Families' School Census (pupil-level) on pupils registered at one school only, and on pupils registered at two schools, but using their main school as recorded on the census, taken in January of each year.

A copy of this reply has been sent to Rt Hon Jim Knight MP, Minister of State for Schools and Learners, and will be placed in the library of both Houses.

Teachers

Mr. Graham Stuart: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many (a) primary and (b) secondary school teachers have worked in (i) one, (ii) two and (iii) three or more schools in the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [273399]

Jim Knight: The information is not collected centrally.

Teachers: Pensions

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the administration costs of the Teachers' Pension Scheme were in each of the last 10 years. [272651]

Jim Knight: Following a competitive tendering exercise, a seven year contract for the administration of the Teachers' Pension Scheme was awarded to Capita in 1996 . The contract value was £70 million. The contract was re-tendered at the end of the first contract period and Capita was awarded a new seven year contract in October 2003. The value of this contract is £62 million. In both contracts, payments were spread evenly across the contract period.

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what guidance the Teachers' Pension Scheme issues on enhancements under the scheme for teaching staff who are members of the scheme and (a) are made redundant, (b) take early retirement other than on grounds of ill health and (c) take early retirement on grounds of ill health; [272654]

(2) what his policy is on the size of redundancy payments for teaching staff; and if he will make a statement. [272655]

Jim Knight: The Teachers' Pension Scheme (England and Wales) is governed by the Teachers' Pensions Regulations 1997 (as amended) which provide for payment of enhanced benefits in circumstances where a person is entitled to ill-health retirement benefits and their ability to undertake any form of gainful employment is severely impaired. These regulations also enable an employer to award premature retirement benefits to teachers whose employment has been terminated on grounds of redundancy or in the interests of the efficient discharge of the employer's functions. The regulations contain no provision for employers to award enhanced premature retirement benefits from the Teachers' Pension Scheme.

Provision for employers to enhance premature retirement benefits up to prescribed maxima is contained in the Teachers (Compensation for Redundancy and Premature Retirement) Regulations 1997 (as amended).

These regulations also enable employers to award redundancy payments that exceed the minimum payable under employment law. All payments made under these regulations are met in full by the employer and it is for each employer to determine the circumstances when payments are made to individuals and to be satisfied that the payments do not exceed the prescribed limits.

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what the cost of pension payments to teaching staff who have taken early retirement between the date of their retirement and the date they reached the Teachers' Pension Scheme normal retirement age was in each of the last five years. [272656]

Jim Knight: The Teachers' Pension Scheme (England and Wales) is a statutory scheme and pension payments are determined in line with regulations. Under those regulations, there are no additional scheme costs resulting from cases where teachers retire early other than where retirement is on the grounds of ill health where unreduced, and sometimes enhanced, benefits are put into payment.

In all other cases of early retirement, benefits payable from the Teachers' Pension Scheme are automatically reduced to take account of the fact that they are put into payment before the scheme's normal pension age and therefore have the same actuarial value as if they had been paid at normal pension age.

The Department has been working alongside employers and the teacher representative groups to seek to improve the care and support afforded to ill teachers, and thereby reduce rates of ill health retirement.

Young People: Nutrition

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what steps he is taking to help young people understand the nutritional content of packaged foods; and if he will make a statement. [272848]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: All secondary school students have an entitlement to undertake the 'Licence to Cook' programme. Included in the programme is a module 'Wise food shopping' where young people gain an understanding of food labelling and nutritional content of food they might buy (including packaged foods) within the context of making informed choices.

Such knowledge is also applied through the practical work that the students undertake, for example comparing a homemade lasagne with a purchased product.

The new food technology examination specifications, at Key Stage 4 also require students to know about and understand food labelling and nutritional content and are frequently tested in the GCSE examination.

Young People: Voluntary Work

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what plans the Government has to promote a requirement for young people to undertake community service. [272006]

Jim Knight: It is the Government's ambition that, in time, all young people will contribute at least 50 hours of community service by the age of 19. On 24 April 2009, the Government announced a £146 million funding package to help get every young person in the country contributing to their communities. The package is made up of the following three elements:

A new programme, beginning this September, offering 20,000 16 to 18-year-olds the opportunity to undertake full time community service, alongside achieving relevant qualifications, as part of the Entry to Employment programme;

A set of intensive pilots designed to test ways of significantly increasing the proportions of young people within a given area participating in community service. These pilots will begin during the forthcoming school year and will work with schools and youth and community organisations in a number of areas, to involve some 14,000 school pupils aged 14-16;

Building on the foundations created by citizenship education, a new package of support to enable all schools to provide opportunities for their pupils aged 14-16 to participate in community service. This will include enabling relevant agencies including V (the national youth volunteering organisation) to support all schools in identifying and arranging suitable service opportunities; new guidance and support for schools on how to facilitate effective service learning; and work to develop an effective accreditation approach.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Apprentices: Local Government

Mr. Willetts: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) apprenticeships and (b) advanced apprenticeships each local authority is providing. [274420]

Mr. Simon: I have placed a copy of a table, showing apprenticeship and advanced apprenticeship starts in each local authority in 2007/08, in the House Libraries.

Bologna Process

Mr. Boswell: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what matters were discussed at the recent Ministerial meeting on the Bologna Process; who attended the meeting; and if he will make a statement. [273606]

Mr. Lammy: I led the UK delegation at the meeting of higher education Ministers from the 46 countries participating in the Bologna process, held in Leuven/Louvain-la-Neuve, Belgium on 28-29 April. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss progress in implementing the Bologna reforms to date and priorities for the coming decade. We welcomed the fact that there continued to be good progress overall in implementing the reforms, and agreed that we needed to redouble our efforts at European, national and institutional level to ensure full implementation across the European higher education area. The Communiqué issued at the conclusion of our discussions sets out clear priorities for the future, including the importance of widening participation, making lifelong learning an integral part of our education systems, employability and increasing the mobility of students and staff.

The summit also included the first Bologna Policy Forum, where the Ministers from the Bologna process countries had the opportunity to discuss worldwide co-operation and partnership in higher education with Ministers from 15 non-European countries.

The statement jointly issued by participants at the conclusion of out discussions reaffirmed our desire to work closely together.

Higher Education: Admissions

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills if he will make an estimate of the number of undergraduate places additional to those available in 2008-09 which would be required to increase the rate of participation in higher education to 50 per cent. of people between 18 and 30 years old. [274357]

Mr. Lammy: It is not possible to estimate the Higher Education Initial Participation Rate (HEIPR) in this way.

The HEIPR is not based simply on the total number of students (or 'places') in the system in any given year, but on the number of new entrants in each year. The specification of the HEIPR means that it depends on the characteristics of those entrants (for example age, domicile, length of participation and any prior higher education participation of more than six months) which depend on decisions made by higher education institutions and further education colleges, and cannot be reliably estimated.

The HEIPR is also impacted by changes in the total England population of 17 to 30-year-olds; so a theoretical figure that might have a given impact in HEIPR in one year would not have the same impact in another year when the demography of this population will be different.

Higher Education: Finance

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much funding was allocated under the Widening Participation programme to universities in (a) 2005-06, (b) 2006-07 and (c) 2007-08. [274044]

Mr. Lammy: This Government are fully committed to ensuring every young person has a fair chance of attending university. And we are making progress with the proportion of young entrants from lower socio-economic groups going to university increasing steadily, reaching almost 30 per cent. in 2007.

The amount spent on all programmes to encourage and widen participation in higher education in the years 2005-06 to 2007-08 was as follows. Figures are £ million to nearest whole number.

			£ million
	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08
Aimhigher[1]	102	87	80
Student support[2]	1,411	1,634	1,962
Widening participation allocation[3]	284	345	356
University bursaries and outreach[4]	0	116	192

	2005-06	2006-07	£ million 2007-08
Total	1,797	2,182	2,590

[1] This is the total Aimhigher budget. The amounts allocated specifically to universities are not available at national level.

[2] The student support figures are for all English domiciled students and not just those from disadvantaged backgrounds. Includes student loans Resource Account Budget (RAB) charge, fee loans, student support grants, Maintenance Grant, HE Grant, grants for vulnerable students, tuition fee grants, grants for part-time students and access funds and bursaries. The student loans RAB charge estimates the future cost to Government of subsidising and writing off the student loans issued in that year; it does not represent the amount of cash lent to students, which has risen each year since the introduction of student loans. Figures for 1997-2007 are outturn; that for 2007-08 is estimated outturn; those for 2008-11 are plans.

[3] These figures also include the allocations for improving the retention of non traditional students, and to widen access and improve provision for disabled students.

[4] University bursaries and outreach are funded by universities from their tuition fee income under the terms of their access agreements with the Office for Fair Access.

Stephen Williams: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills when he plans to announce the outcome of the bidding process for funding under the new university challenge scheme. [274581]

Mr. Lammy: Decisions about the funding of universities are for the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE), not Ministers, and this applies to New University Challenge. HEFCE published guidance that outlines application procedures and their decision making process on 9 March 2009.

Innovation: Coventry

Mr. Jim Cunningham: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what steps his Department is taking to develop innovation in Coventry. [272030]

Mr. Lammy: The Technology Strategy Board (TSB), an executive non-departmental public body sponsored by DIUS, is the main national provider of innovation support in the UK. Through the TSB, 25 companies and three higher education establishments in the Coventry area are currently involved in 34 Collaborative R&D projects and five Knowledge Transfer Partnerships.

The Collaborative R&D projects and Knowledge Transfer Partnerships, which enable companies to work with the UK knowledge base to develop new products, processes and services, are jointly funded by business and have a total value of nearly £100 million. Of this, £41 million is grant funding from the TSB.

Advantage West Midlands (AWM) also funds the Innovation Network project, which is managed by Coventry University. The network provides businesses with the desire to innovate the opportunity to collaborate with other businesses and access funding of between £10,000 to £15,000.

AWM has also invested £1.4 million in the first phase of the transformation of the Gosford Gate area into a vibrant trading gateway and centre for creative enterprises. The area will focus on arts, IT and design companies, which will feed off and support each other as well existing businesses. It is expected to become the cauldron of creative talent in the city and beyond. The scheme is a partnership between AWM, Coventry city council, Coventry Warwickshire and Solihull Partnership, Far Gosford Street businesses and residents, Heritage Lottery Fund, and local developers Complex Development Projects Ltd. It is one element in the radical £2.2 billion transformation of Coventry into a 21st century city.

Coventry is also able to benefit from regional innovation projects including the INDEX innovation voucher scheme and the Innovation Advisory Service available through Business Link West Midlands, and from national programmes such as the Higher Education Innovation Fund (HEIF), which supports universities to work with business and public services and drive innovation. For example, HEIF funding has been used to support Coventry University's Institute of Creative Enterprise and Serious Games Institute.

Research: Standards

Mr. Kidney: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what assessment he has made of the effectiveness of the latest research assessment exercise in assisting universities to develop centres of internationally excellent research. [274172]

Mr. Lammy: The aim of the research assessment exercise (RAE) is to assess the quality of research in higher education institutions. The RAE informs the allocation of the quality related block grant research funding, which is awarded on the basis of excellence. Funding on the basis of excellence gives institutions an incentive to drive up the quality of research. The 2008 RAE identified that 55 per cent. of research in England was either "World Leading" or "Internationally Excellent". The latest report on the UK's comparative international research performance shows the UK as second in the world, only to the USA, with 12 per cent. of total world citations.

Students: Disability Living Allowance

Charlotte Atkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what information his Department holds on the percentage of students at (a) the London School of Economics, (b) Birmingham University, (c) Oxford University, (d) Cambridge University, (e) University College London, (f) Bristol University and (g) Durham University who are claiming disability living allowance. [274428]

Mr. Lammy: The Department does not hold information on students who claim disability living allowance. The latest available information on students who claim disabled students' allowance (DSA) is shown in the table. Information on postgraduate students who claim DSA is not available. Figures are from the "Performance Indicators in Higher Education", published by Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA). Figures for the 2007/08 academic year will be available in June 2009.

Percentage of full-time first degree, all undergraduate and part-time undergraduate students in receipt of disabled students' allowance (DSA), academic year 2006/07

Performance Indicators in Higher Education, published by HESA.

For each institution, the performance indicator is shown against a benchmark. This is a sector average which is adjusted for each institution to take into account the following factors: subject of study, qualifications on entry and age on entry. The benchmarks can be used to show how a university is performing compared to the sector as a whole, and also help to determine whether a meaningful comparison can be drawn between two or more universities. The benchmarks are not targets.

Students: Disabled

Charlotte Atkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what guidance his Department provides to universities on (a) the provision of help and support to students with disabilities and (b) compliance with the Disability Discrimination Act 1995 (DDA); what assessment his Department has made of the levels of (i) provision for students with disabilities and (ii) compliance with the DDA of (A) all universities and (B) members of the Russell Group; and if he will make a statement. [274429]

Mr. Lammy: Higher education institutions (HEIs) are classed as public authorities in the Disability Discrimination Act 2005 (DDA). As such they are legally required to meet both the general duty and specific duties to promote equality of opportunity for disabled people in higher education (HE). Compliance with the law is the responsibility of institutions themselves and enforcement the responsibility of the Equality and Human Rights Commission.

The Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) has provided guidance to HEIs on supporting disabled students. In 1999, jointly with the Higher Education Funding Council for Wales it published "Guidance on base-level provision for disabled students in higher education institutions". The base level provision document contains information that is still useful and relevant today.

HEFCE is reviewing its policy as it relates to disabled students. This review includes an appraisal of its support to the sector in meeting the needs of disabled students and research commissioned jointly with the Higher Education Funding Council for Wales. The research will look at the sector's support to disabled students and the progress that has been made since the publication of the guidance. HEFCE will be publishing an outcomes document in the summer outlining the results of the review and HEFCE's future policy and strategy for supporting the sector in this area.

The Department has published its progress report on disability equality in December 2008. The report's focus was on looking across the Department's policy areas to provide an assessment of progress towards disability equality. It did not focus on the compliance of our partners or stakeholders. The full report can be accessed here:

http://dius.ecgroup.net/Publications/DIUS-Corporate/EqualityandDiversity.aspx

The report reflects that there has been significant advancement in the support provided to disabled students in HE, and in their ability to access HE, through the funding provided to HEIs to support such students and via the direct provision of disabled students' allowances.

DEFENCE

Afghanistan: Peacekeeping Operations

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the armed forces are learning each language indigenous to Afghanistan with support from his Department. [272934]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The MOD considers the principal languages of Afghanistan to be Balochi, Pashtu, Dari and Farsi, and conducts training accordingly.

In order to meet requirements for current operations, all military personnel deploying to Afghanistan receive a basic level of Pashtu training under Operational Training Advisory Group remit, and are equipped with a Pashtu language card.

In addition to this, Defence is delivering the language training provided in the following table.

Those who received training in financial year 2008-09 have not necessarily completed their training, while the figures for 2009-10 may be subject to in-year changes.

	Financial year

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many non-fatal UK military casualties there have been in Helmand province since 2006. [273308]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Between 1 January 2006 and 15 April 2009, the latest date for which casualty information is available, there were 744 non-fatal UK military casualties in Afghanistan, of these 77 have been very seriously injured and 101 have been seriously injured. These figures include injuries as a result of hostile action and non battle injuries, and exclude all casualties with natural causes. The location information available does not provide enough detail to give figures for Helmand province.

Casualty statistics for UK military and civilian personnel in Afghanistan are routinely updated each fortnight on the MOD website, which can be found at the following link:

http://www.mod.uk/DefenceInternet/FactSheets/OperationsFactsheets/OperationsInAfghanistanBritishCasualties.htm

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what estimate his Department has made of the number of shots fired by UK armed forces in Helmand province since 2006. [273309]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: Officials are collating and validating the data needed and this is taking longer than anticipated. I will write to the right hon. and learned Member when this work is complete and place a copy of my letter in the Library of the House.

Aircraft Carriers

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what his latest estimate is of the cost of the two aircraft carriers on order; and what the total estimated cost was in 2006-07. [273311]

Mr. Quentin Davies: Following the equipment examination we have estimated the costs of the two Queen Elizabeth (QE) Class aircraft carriers in conjunction with the Aircraft Carrier Alliance and other stakeholders. Further negotiations with industry are proceeding and it would not be appropriate to release any estimates until these negotiations conclude and agreement has been reached. This is currently expected to be later this year.

The Secretary of State for Defence during the CSR and Aircraft Carriers debate on 25 July 2007, Official Report, column 865, announced that the approved QE Class project cost at the time was £3.9 billion.

Armed Forces: Foreigners

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many foreign nationals from each country of origin (a) serving and (b) who formerly served in the UK armed forces are estimated would become eligible for residency in the UK if there were an automatic right to residency as a current or former service person. [273352]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 7 May 2009]: Foreign and Commonwealth personnel are able to apply for Indefinite Leave to Remain (ILR) in the UK or Indefinite Leave to Enter (ILE) the UK, or Settlement as they are more commonly known, upon discharge from the Services so long as they have completed a minimum of 4 years Service at the point of discharge. It is for the Home Office to decide whether or not an individual meets all the requirements to be granted ILR or ILE.

Country of Origin data are not currently available due to an ongoing data validation of the Ministry of Defence Joint Personnel Administrative system (JPA).

(a) The number of foreign nationals serving in the trained regular UK armed forces as at 1 January 2009 by nationality is shown in the following table.

(b) It is not possible to provide numbers of foreign nationals who served in the UK armed forces but had left by the end of 2008.

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the written ministerial statement of 2 February 2009, Official Report, columns 33-34WS, on Army nationality policy, whether he has received representations from other governments on the employment of their citizens in the UK armed forces. [273588]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Department has not received any representation from other governments on the employment of their citizens in the UK armed forces since this statement was made.

Armed Forces: Labour Turnover

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for Coventry South of 9 February 2009,

Official Report, column 1531W, on service personnel: retention, which pinch point trades his Department is monitoring; what the exit rates of such trades are; what steps his Department is taking to improve retention and recruitment in these areas; and if he will make a statement. [273589]

Mr. Kevan Jones: All pinch point trades are monitored closely by the single services and considerable effort is expended in reducing the impact on these groups of people through careful management and financial incentives to encourage them to stay in the armed forces.

Recruitment in to all three services has improved over the past few months, primarily as a result of targeted national, regional and local level recruiting campaigns. There has also been a significant increase in expressions of interest through the Armed Forces Recruitment Offices and through on-line applications, which is attributed in part to the current economic circumstances and rising unemployment. Taking the armed forces as a whole, retention rates are stable and we have seen no sudden outflow of personnel. There is real concern, however, that in some important areas exit rates are too high. These areas are continuously reviewed and the Department has put in place a wide range of measures to improve recruitment and retention in the armed forces including: career management, improvement to conditions of service and work/life balance, extensions to normal engagement lengths, commitment bonuses and targeted Financial Retention Initiatives. Examples of schemes and incentives in place are: Golden Hellos, Commitment Bonuses, Recruit Bounty Schemes and targeted Recruitment and Retention Incentives. Each incentive is tailored to meet specific Service requirements.

The following tables show the pinch point trades liability, shortfalls, outflow and voluntary outflow (VO) in real numbers and percentage figures for quarter 3 of the Operational and Manning Pinch Point statistics. These are the latest available figures.

Armed Forces: Languages

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many members of the armed forces are learning the German language with support from his Department. [272935]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: In financial year 2008-09, 51 members of the armed forces were being taught German. In financial year 2009-10, 30 members are projected to be receiving this training and in 2010-11 this number is expected to be 52.

Armed Forces: Pay

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what (a) golden hello, (b) commitment bonus, (c) recruit an oppo bounty and (d) retention financial packages are available to members of the armed forces. [273583]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: There is a wide range of recruitment and retention incentives available to members of the armed forces and these include golden hellos, commitment bonuses, recruit bounty schemes and targeted recruitment and retention incentives. Each incentive is tailored to meet specific service requirements.

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much Army rejoin bounty has been paid in respect of each (a) unit and (b) trade in each year since its inception. [273586]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The Army Rejoin Bounty was introduced in November 2002 to offer a partial solution to critical manning shortfalls in certain Career Employment Groups. The scheme was then expanded in November 2003 as part of the wider Pinch Point Financial Incentive Scheme. It has been agreed to further expand the scheme under the Exceptional Action Measures to increase the amounts payable and widen the eligibility of those who qualify.

The extensions to the range, value and eligibility of these bounty payments, as well as data coding problems in the Joint Personnel Administration (JPA) tool, have resulted in both the historic and current information not being held in the format requested and it could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Armed Forces: Recruitment

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many residents of (a) Northern Ireland and (b) the Republic of Ireland enrolled in the UK armed forces in the last six months. [272894]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: It is not possible to answer the question as asked without incurring disproportionate cost. Between 1 October 2008 and 31 March 2009, the Armed Forces Career Office in Belfast recruited five officers and 100 other ranks. However these figures could include non-residents, and Northern Ireland or Republic of Ireland residents could well have enlisted elsewhere in the UK. In addition some specialists, such as medical personnel and chaplains, are recruited through other establishments.

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) men and (b) women were recruited into the armed forces in 2007-08. [273312]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The intake to the untrained strength of UK Regular Forces, excluding Gurkhas, full time Reserve personnel, and mobilised reservists, in financial year 2007-08 by gender is provided as follows.

Females – 2,090[1]

Males – 19,230[1]

[1] Provisional.

Statistics on personnel recruited into the UK Regular Armed Forces by gender in 2007-08 is available from the UK Defence Statistics (UKDS) 2008 Publication table 2.21, "Intake to untrained strength of UK Regular Forces by Service and sex", which can be found at the following link:

http://www.dasa.mod.uk/modintranet/UKDS2008/c2/table221.html

Bomb Disposal: Northern Ireland

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) on how many occasions an Army bomb disposal squad has been called out (a) to deal with devices and (b) to respond to hoax calls in each district of Northern Ireland in each of the last 24 months; [272859]

(2) how many injuries members of Army bomb disposal squads have sustained in Northern Ireland in the last 18 months; [272860]

(3) how many military personnel are deployed on bomb disposal duties in Northern Ireland. [272898]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: As at 1 May 2009, 44 members of 11 Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) Regiment were stationed in Northern Ireland. No EOD personnel have sustained injuries on duty in Northern Ireland in the last 18 months. The following table shows the number of times Army EOD personnel have been called out in Northern Ireland in the last 24 months.

[1] IED—The report of EOD action which results in the total neutralisation, disruption or dismantling of an Improvised Explosive Device.
[2] Incendiary—The report of the functioning of an IED which is primarily designed to cause damage by burning.
[3] Find—The report of explosives or bomb-making components, weapons, ammunition or tools found by the police or security forces and confirmed by the EOD Operator after full investigation.
[4] Hoax—The report of an incident where, after full investigation, an object is discovered to be a simulated IED.
[5] False—A report made in good faith of an object believed to be an IED which, upon full investigation, proves to be innocuous.

The number of each call out type by district is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Departmental Furniture

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much (a) his Department spent on furniture in 2008-09 and (b) his Department's agencies spent on furniture in each of the last five years. [273747]

Mr. Kevan Jones: In 2008-09 the Department spent £18.1 million on furniture. This includes not only office furniture but furniture for messes, barracks, service family accommodation and ships. Information specifically relating to MOD Agency spend in each of the last five years is not available and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

The £18.1 million figure excludes expenditure relating to PFI/PPP projects where the furniture is supplied by the industry partner and forms part of the overall project costs.

Departmental Stationery

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how much his Department has spent on branded stationery and gifts for (a) internal and (b) external promotional use in each of the last five years. [273779]

Mr. Kevan Jones: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost. Expenditure on branded goods must be necessary, appropriate, cost-effective and an admissible charge to public funds.

East Midlands University Officer Training Corps

Mrs. Humble: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what conclusions his Department has reached following its investigation of alleged inappropriate and far-right extremist costumes worn by members of the East Midlands University Officer Training Corps. [272845]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: An investigation was undertaken into the allegations of inappropriate costumes worn by members of the East Midlands University Officer Training Corps at a Unit Halloween party in October last year, to identify the facts of the incident and make recommendations to prevent similar occurrences.

The Ministry of Defence is satisfied that the individuals concerned have shown remorse and appropriate measures have been undertaken to ensure that all Officer Cadets at the establishment are made aware of standards regarding acceptable dress and behaviour at Unit functions.

Food

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will make an estimate of the (a) monetary value and (b) quantity of waste food disposed of from his Department's premises in the last 12 months. [273440]

Mr. Quentin Davies: This information is not held centrally and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Military Bases: Northern Ireland

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) what recent discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on the security of UK army bases in Northern Ireland; [272957]

(2) what recent discussions he has had with the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland on the future of UK military personnel based in Northern Ireland. [272967]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: There are regular Security Policy Meetings (SPM), chaired by Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, which discuss security arrangements in Northern Ireland, and the MOD are always represented. I recently visited Northern Ireland, where I had meetings with relevant security officials, and discussed the general security situation and more specifically the measures taken to protect the MOD bases and our people who will remain garrisoned there. I also met the Chief Constable.

We will continue the work to ensure that security of military bases and our people is as strong as possible while allowing our people to lead a normal life.

There have been no formal discussions between the Secretary of State for Defence and Secretary of State for Northern Ireland, but they are regularly in touch and have many informal discussions.

RAF Cosford

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will put in place contingency plans for the use of RAF Cosford in the event that Operation Borona does not coincide with the vacating of RAF Cosford as part of the Defence Training Review Programme. [273412]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: RAF Cosford is currently the Ministry of Defence's preferred location for 1 Signal Brigade and 102 Logistics Brigade returning from Germany under Programme Borona. There are currently no detailed contingency plans for the use of RAF Cosford, should our requirements under Borona no longer match the availability of the site. However, as RAF Cosford is a well found site that has enduring military utility, it has been designated a 'Core Site' and the alternative opportunities it offers would be considered should the need arise.

Rescue Services: Procurement

Sir Menzies Campbell: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence pursuant to the answer of 27 April 2009, Official Report, column 1024W, on rescue services, when he expects to announce the result of the competition for the provision of the harmonised UK search and rescue capability. [273587]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth: The PFI competition is being conducted in accordance with European Union procurement regulations using the Competitive Dialogue process to progressively refine the search and rescue helicopter (SAR-H) requirement and develop industry solutions. The result of the competition will be announced when an appropriately mature solution has been established.

Saudi Arabia: Arms Trade

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence if he will hold discussions with the Comptroller and Auditor General to seek to ensure public access to the National Audit Office's 1992 report on the Al Yamamah arms deal. [273106]

Mr. Hutton [holding answer 7 May 2009]: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given by the then Secretary of State for Defence on 8 December 2005, Official Report, column 1495W, to the hon. Member for Hornsey and Wood Green (Lynne Featherstone).

Swine Flu

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence (1) how many courses of influenza chemoprophylaxis (a) are held and (b) have been ordered by the Defence Medical Services; [273427]

(2) which (a) members and (b) units of the armed forces would be provided with influenza chemoprophylaxis under the contingency plans of that service in relation to swine influenza; and in what circumstances such treatment would be given. [273429]

Mr. Bob Ainsworth [holding answer 7 May 2009]: Influenza chemoprophylaxis, in the form of antiviral drugs, would be provided to any service personnel who met the case definition of possible or probable cases of influenza A/H1N1 (swine variant), as defined by the Health Protection Agency (HPA), and close contacts of these cases.

All entitled patients in the UK will obtain antiviral treatment in accordance with Department of Health policy through local arrangements with primary care organisations. For entitled patients outside the UK for whom the DMS have responsibility, such as deployed personnel, overseas bases and RN ships afloat, around 22,000 courses of influenza antivirals (Oseltamivir) have been forward positioned, with a further 10,700 courses held by the Defence Storage and Distribution Agency (DSDA) for operational use as required including further supplies for Iraq, Afghanistan and Kosovo. These stocks provide sufficient for each of the overseas bases to be allocated stock to cover 25 per cent. of the entitled population at risk (PAR). The Department of Health is being approached with an order for uplift to 50 per cent. PAR.

We are also currently replacing our existing stocks of Oseltamivir paediatric suspension, for the use of children under 13, to reflect new dosage recommendations. Around 1,100 new courses have been issued to overseas bases already, and the Department of Health is being approached to uplift to 50 per cent. PAR.

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence how many (a) masks and (b) pairs of gloves (i) are held and (ii) have been ordered by the Defence Medical Services for the purposes of preventing the spread of swine influenza. [273428]

Mr. Quentin Davies [holding answer 7 May 2009]: The MOD follows Health Protection Agency (HPA) guidance in planning for an outbreak of pandemic influenza. In 2007, defence medical centres assessed their emergency requirements for infection control consumables, and around 275,000 masks and 150,000 pairs of gloves were distributed to centres in the UK and overseas bases. An additional three months' stock, calculated at three months' regular usage and amounting to around 8,000 masks and 48,000 pairs of gloves, is held by the Defence Storage and Distribution Agency (DSDA), to provide stock for operations overseas and ships afloat. This stock is replenished as items are consumed. Overall, these remain sufficient for our predicted emergency requirements, calculated on the basis of HPA advice.

Dr. Murrison: To ask the Secretary of State for Defence what role the reserve forces have in the contingency plans of the armed forces in relation to a swine influenza pandemic; and what mechanisms are in place to protect members of the reserve forces against infection with swine influenza. [273430]

Mr. Kevan Jones [holding answer 7 May 2009]: The reserve forces contribute to overall military capability. They have been engaged in business continuity planning, but there is no specific task placed on the reserve forces in the MOD Pandemic Influenza Framework.

The mechanisms to protect members of the reserve forces are the same as for the general public—hygiene advice for all and antiviral drugs for possible cases and close contacts. Hygiene advice has been issued by the Department of Health but has also been promulgated through service communications. Unless members of the reserve forces are mobilised, they will be supplied with antiviral drugs, in accordance with Health Protection Agency and Department of Health guidance, through the primary care trust/organisation supply services in their home area. Their NHS GP will be responsible for providing primary care services.

The Defence Medical Services are responsible for primary care services for mobilised members of the reserve forces. For those serving in the UK, antiviral drugs will be obtained from primary care trust/organisation stocks in accordance with local arrangements set up for military patients. Those deployed overseas will be provided with antiviral drugs from military stocks. Those mobilised reservists requiring personal protective equipment, such as medical personnel, will be supplied with the requisite items through service supply.

HEALTH

Anabolic Steroids: Health Education

James Duddridge: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent steps his Department has taken to inform the public of the health risks of anabolic steroids; how much has been spent to that end in the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [274327]

Dawn Primarolo: The FRANK campaign, jointly funded by the Department and the Home Office, has a website and helpline advisers to provide information on the risks associated with drug misuse. FRANK makes it clear that the misuse of steroids is dangerous and can lead to some potentially fatal medical problems. The harmful short and long-term effects of anabolic steroid use are also described in the Department's publication "Dangerousness of drugs" (2003).

It is not possible to provide spending figures on the cost of providing information on anabolic steroids specifically, because FRANK provides information on a wide range of drugs.

Asthma and Depression

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what proportion of the population in England were diagnosed with (a) asthma and (b) clinical depression in (i) 1997 and (ii) the latest 12 month period for which figures are available. [273306]

Ann Keen: Information relating to 1997 is not available. Health Service England (1996) reported the prevalence of doctor-diagnosed asthma as 21 per cent. of children and 12 per cent. of adults, or 14 per cent. overall. These figures indicated those who had been diagnosed with asthma at any time in their life, and do not necessarily indicate those with a current condition in 1996.

The latest national diagnosed prevalence of asthma relates to 2007-08 and is reported through the Quality and Outcomes Framework. These records show that approximately 5.7 per cent. of the population of England were reported as suffering from asthma.

Information on the incidence of clinical depression in England is not available in the requested format. There is no information available for 1997, only for 1993, 2000 and 2007, through the Adult Psychiatric Morbidity Surveys. Information relating to those aged 65-74 only became available in 2000 and has therefore been excluded from the reply. In 1993, 2.2 per cent. of all adults in England aged 16-64 experienced a depressive episode, in 2000 2.8 per cent. and in 2007 2.6 per cent.

Care Homes

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether local authorities are required to consult the residents of a local authority care home prior to sale of the home. [273696]

Phil Hope: We are informed by the Care Quality Commission that the statement of purpose for each provider, including local authority-run care homes, requires the provider to consult with all service users about any change in service provision.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average cost of a care home resident to a local authority in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [273697]

Phil Hope: Information on personal social services expenditure weekly unit costs to councils with adult social services responsibilities for residential and nursing care by primary client group is collected and published by the NHS Information Centre for health and social care.

The following table shows the average cost per person per week to councils with adult social services responsibilities of a care home resident in England and Leicester by primary client group in 2007-08.

Primary client group	England	£ Leicester
Adults aged 65 and over	466	404
Adults aged 18 to 64 with learning disabilities	1,047	848
Adults aged 18 to 64 with mental health needs	613	581
Adults aged 18 to 64 with physical disabilities	750	880

PSS EX1 return, NHS Information Centre for health and social care.

Keith Vaz: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the average residence charge to a care home resident in the last 12 months for which figures are available. [273698]

Phil Hope: The information requested is not collected by the Department. However, according to the "Care of Elderly People, UK Market Survey 2008" published by the independent health care analysts, Laing & Buisson, the average weekly fees in for-profit care homes in England, as at 31 March 2008, were:

Type of care	Single room	Shared room
Care with nursing	691	584
Residential care only	474	416

Care Homes: Infectious Diseases

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will place in the Library a copy of the most recent guidance issued by his Department on infection control in care homes; [271809]

(2) what guidance his Department has issued to care homes on recording cases of (a) MRSA and (b) clostridium difficile occurring amongst their patients; and to whom care homes are expected to make notification of such occurrences. [271811]

Phil Hope: The guidance, "Infection Control Guidance for Care Homes", issued in June 2006, is available on the Department's website at:

www.dh.gov.uk/en/Publicationsandstatistics/Publications/PublicationsPolicyAndGuidance/DH_4136381

A copy has been placed in the Library.

The Care Homes Regulations 2001—Regulation 37 (1b)—require homes to notify the regulator, the Care Quality Commission, without delay of the outbreak of any infectious disease which in the opinion of any registered medical practitioner attending persons in the care home is sufficiently serious to be so notified. Notification must be confirmed in writing.

Schedule 4(10)—Regulation 17(2)—requires homes to record any incident which is detrimental to the health or welfare of a service user, including the outbreak of infectious disease in the care home and any injury or illness.

Care Homes: Manpower

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 31 March 2009, Official Report, columns 1093-4W, on care homes: manpower, when he expects the review of evidence to be completed; and if he will make a statement. [269049]

Phil Hope: The Department has been working closely with the Migration Advisory Committee to provide evidence on manpower in the adult social care sector.

The committee has now made its recommendations to the Government in its report 'Skilled, Shortage, Sensible: First review of the recommended shortage occupation lists for the UK and Scotland: Spring 2009', published on 29 April 2009. The Government's response will be published soon.

Chiropody: Elderly

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department is taking to improve foot care for the elderly. [273629]

Phil Hope: The forthcoming prevention package for older people will include a renewed focus on best practice for foot care services.

Cholesterol: Drugs

Ms Hewitt: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment his Department has made of the clinical effectiveness of polypills combining statins for cholesterol reduction with low doses of other safe and effective medicines that reduce blood pressure. [R] [273359]

Ann Keen: The Department has met the original Polypill authors on a number of occasions. The initial conclusions were that this type of approach would be more suitable in developing countries rather than in more sophisticated health care systems such as ours where tailored therapy is more the norm.

The Department is currently exploring how to reassess this issue in the light of fresh interest in the topic.

Departmental ICT

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he has taken to reduce the level of carbon dioxide emissions arising from the operation of ICT systems in his Department under the Greening Government ICT Strategy. [273556]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Greening Government Information and Communications Technology (ICT) Strategy sets a target for central Government Departments to become carbon neutral in ICT operations by 2012. In response to this target, the Department produced an action plan in December 2008 that details a series of projects and initiatives aimed at reducing carbon emissions by 40 per cent. against the 2008 baseline. The targets to reduce carbon emissions by 40 per cent. and to achieve carbon neutrality in ICT operations by 2012 are included within the Department's Sustainable Development Action Plan (SDAP) for the period 2009-11. Progress against the targets will be monitored as part of governance of the Greening ICT Action Plan and the SDAP.

The Greening Government ICT Strategy recommends completion of 18 Quick Win initiatives for CO_2 emission reduction. Nine of the Quick Win initiatives have been completed with progress at various stages against the remainder within the 2009-11 Action Plan.

Departmental Public Expenditure

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to Table C11 of the Budget Report 2009, for what reason his Department (a) spent £1.5 billion less on its resource budget for 2008-09 and (b) spent £0.1 billion less on its capital budget than the planned expenditure set out in the 2008 pre-Budget report; and whether these sums will be available for spending in future years. [273624]

Mr. Bradshaw: The difference is due to the different presentation of the numbers. The pre-Budget report published expenditure figures on the basis of funding available to the national health service. Budget 2009 published forecast outturn expenditure for 2008-09. Therefore, the difference in figures is the estimated NHS underspend.

The Department's end year flexibility stock is published each year in July in the Public Expenditure Outturn White Paper. The Department's access to this stock is subject to normal Treasury scrutiny on the basis of need and realism, and the wider fiscal position.

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what financial assumptions NHS organisations are using to plan spending in years after 2010-11. [273633]

Mr. Bradshaw: Revenue allocations to primary care trusts (PCTs) for 2009-10 and 2010-11, the remaining years of Comprehensive Spending Review 2007, were announced in December 2008. The allocations represent a £164 billion investment in the national health service, £80 billion in 2009-10 and £84 billion in 2010-11. PCTs will receive an average increase in funding of 11.3 per cent. over the two years, a total increase of £8.6 billion. The announcement gives the NHS planning certainty over the next two years.

The Department does not publish financial planning assumptions outside the current spending review period.

Departmental Stationery

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how much his Department has spent on branded stationery and gifts for (a) internal and (b) external promotional use in each of the last five years. [273783]

Mr. Bradshaw: The required information is not held centrally and can be supplied only at disproportionate cost.

Food

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will make an estimate of the (a) monetary value and (b) quantity of waste food disposed of from his Department's premises in the last 12 months. [273439]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Department does not collect data on food waste.

Fractures: Elderly

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) if he will bring forward proposals to ensure that mechanisms for primary care trust commissioning provide co-ordinated strategies for the treatment of older people who have fallen and fractures in each local area in England; [273667]

(2) what steps he is taking to ensure that clinical services in England adhere to treatments to prevent falls and fractures incurred by older people recommended by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence. [273668]

Phil Hope: The forthcoming prevention package for older people will include a focus on best practice for commissioning falls prevention and care for people with fractures and will highlight the importance of existing guidance set out by National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence (NICE). However, it is for local organisations to demonstrate to the appropriate independent inspectorate that they are meeting their responsibilities with regard to the guidance from NICE.

Fractures: Health Services

John Austin: To ask the Secretary of State for Health which NHS trusts in England ensure that the further assessment and management of fracture patients is co-ordinated by a fracture liaison nurse or a similar designated person. [273123]

Ann Keen: Information on how national health service primary care trusts organise and deliver services to meet the needs of those with fractures is not collected centrally.

Health Services: Bank Services

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what measures his Department has taken to support charities providing NHS services who had deposited funds in Kaupthing Singer and Friedlander bank; and if he will make a statement. [272543]

Mr. Bradshaw: The investment of funds by charities providing national health service services are regulated by the Charities Commission and as such follow the governance framework as set out by the Commission. Therefore, charities providing NHS services are outside the scope of the financial regime that is performance managed by the Department.

The Government have taken action to work with the Icelandic authorities and through the International Monetary Fund to ensure fair treatment for all United Kingdom creditors. We have been clear that we will fully support charities in pursuit of any claims through administration.

Health Visitors: Children

Mr. Burrowes: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent estimate he has made of the ratio of children to health visitors in each primary care trust in England. [271747]

Ann Keen: This information is in the following table.

Notes:

1. Full-time equivalent figures are rounded to the nearest whole number.
2. Strategic health authority area totals include a small number of staff employed by NHS trusts including, for example, health visitors employed by Great Ormond Street and working in Haringey.
3. The low figure for County Durham and extremely high figure for Darlington are an anomaly caused by the fact that County Durham commissions services for both County Durham and Darlington and in the case of community health services, these are provided for both PCTs by Darlington.

Maternity Services

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 23 February 2009, Official Report, column 234W, on maternity services, which of the maternity units listed on the NHS Choices website are (a) consultant-led and (b) midwife-led. [273048]

Alan Keen: We do not routinely collect details of maternity services led by consultants or midwives. However, the Dr. Foster website has a tool where it is possible to search for details of maternity services that are either consultant or midwife led. The search can be further defined by birth unit or by postcode. The web address for this tool is:

www.drfosterhealth.co.uk

Medical Records: Databases

David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what mechanisms are in place to guarantee access to general practice services for patients who wish to opt out of having their clinical information uploaded to the national database under the National Programme for IT. [274604]

Mr. Bradshaw: The right of access to general practitioner services is not conditional on patients agreeing to have their clinical information uploaded to the national database. Patients who opt out by choosing not to have a summary care record are advised to make their wishes known to their general practice. Guidance has been issued to all general practices on how they should respond to patients' enquiries about their options in relation to summary care records, including ensuring that patients fully understand the implications of their decision.

Members: Correspondence

Sir Michael Spicer: To ask the Secretary of State for Health when the Minister of State for Public Health plans to reply to the email from the hon. Member for West Worcestershire of 13 February 2009, on measles and mumps infections in the UK. [274435]

Dawn Primarolo: A reply was issued to the hon. Member on 3 March 2009.

NHS: Death Rate

Mr. Lansley: To ask the Secretary of State for Health pursuant to the answer of 30 March 2009, Official Report, column 900W, on NHS: death rate, which NHS organisations were the subject of alerts in the first year; what the reason for each alert was; what steps were taken in response to the alert; and what the reasons for the alert were determined to be. [269080]

Mr. Bradshaw: The Care Quality Commission (CQC), which took over from the Healthcare Commission (HCC) on 1 April 2009, has informed us that the reasons for the 85 alerts were because data received by HCC suggested that the rates of mortality in relation to a number of specific clinical areas were statistically higher than otherwise would have been expected. Statistical alerts relating to mortality rates do not necessarily equate to problems with clinical care. The alerts could be caused as a result of poor data quality, chance events, differences in the complexity of conditions treated or there could be evidence of poor quality care.

The HCC's report 'Following up mortality "outliers"' summarised the reasons for the alerts and the steps taken in response to the alerts. The report is published at:

www.cqc.org.uk/_db/_documents/Following_up_mortality_outliers_200903244704.pdf

Details regarding the reasons for the first 85 alerts by patient group and outcome are contained in the following table.

Number of alerts by patient group and outcome (first 85 cases up to July 2008)

Patient group	Resolved by Healthcare Commission	Followed up	Total
Acute myocardial infarction	0	1	1
Aortic, peripheral, and visceral artery aneurysms	1	2	3
Asthma	1	0	1
CABG (complex, combined and repeat)	2	0	2
CABG (isolated, first time)	1	0	1
Cardiac arrest and ventricular fibrillation	0	2	2
Cardiac pacemaker system introduced through vein	2	1	3
Chronic ulcer of skin	1	2	3
Complication of device, implant or graft	3	1	4
Complications of surgical procedures or medical care	3	0	3
Coronary atherosclerosis and other heart disease	1	3	4
Diabetes	0	1	1
Diabetes mellitus with complications	1	0	1
Elective cases (various groups)	0	1	1
Epilepsy, convulsions	1	1	2
Excision of lung	1	0	1
Fracture of neck of femur (hip)	0	2	2
Heart valve disorders	1	2	3
Intestinal obstruction without hernia	3	1	4
Intracranial injury	0	1	1
Intracranial procedures except trauma—category 3	2	0	2
Non-transient stroke or cerebrovascular accident, aged over 69 years or with complications or co-morbidities	1	1	2
Operations on jejunum	0	1	1
Other circulatory disease	0	1	1
Other fractures	2	0	2
Other liver diseases	0	1	1
Other psychoses	1	0	1
Other upper respiratory disease	1	0	1

Peritonitis and intestinal abscess	0	1	1
Pleurisy, pneumothorax, pulmonary collapse	0	2	2
Repair of abdominal aortic aneurysm	2	1	3
Septicaemia (except in labour)	3	6	9
Soft tissue disorders, aged over 69 years or with complications or co-morbidities	1	1	2
Spondylosis, intervertebral disc disorders, other back problems	1	0	1
Therapeutic endoscopic procedures on biliary tract	2	0	2
Therapeutic endoscopic procedures on lower GI tract	1	0	1
Urinary tract infections	3	3	6
All patient groups	43	42	85

As regards the steps taken, for each alert further statistical analysis was undertaken, which was considered with any other relevant information that was known (such as local intelligence from local field staff in the Commission and clinical advice where necessary). The results of this work are in the published report.

One of CQC's first pieces of work is to review the alerts programme. As part of this review, CQC will decide whether it can release the names of the organisations that were subject to these alerts. A decision on this matter is imminent.

NHS: ICT

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made on the deployment of Lorenzo and Cerner Millennium in each early adopter site for the National Programme for IT. [272544]

Mr. Bradshaw: Lorenzo release 1.0 provides functionality for clinical documentation, and requests and results. Of the three Lorenzo release 1.0 early adopter sites, the University Hospitals of Morecambe Bay NHS trust is currently using the radiology requests and results functionality in its general surgery and urology wards, and has begun making plans for its use for inpatient, outpatient, and accident and emergency discharge summaries. South Birmingham Primary Care Trust (PCT) has a number of podiatrists using the system, working in eight different physical locations in the PCT. Bradford Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust went live for radiology results and requests in a nurse-led orthopaedic clinic at the end of March 2009.

In London, three acute trusts, Barnet and Chase Farm Hospitals, Queen Mary's Sidcup and Barts and The London NHS Trusts, are live with the first phase of the Cerner Millennium system. In June 2008 the Royal Free Hampstead NHS Trust went live with the next phase Cerner Millennium which features a link to the NHS spine. The trust uses the system to manage patient admission, transfer and discharge details and is linked to accident and emergency, theatre scheduling, maternity, therapies, as well as electronic radiology and pathology test ordering and reporting.

In October 2008, following a review of the progress of the deployment of the Cerner Millennium system, an improvement programme was set up to concentrate on resolving the issues that were being experienced by the live trusts. At the Barts and The London NHS Trust some unresolved issues are being tackled as part of a wider comprehensive improvement programme that is addressing identified weaknesses in the trust's information management and administration systems. At the other three trusts improvement programmes have been substantially delivered.

Due to the good progress made with the improvement programmes and greater confidence in the functionality and stability of the system, the London Acute Programme Board recommended in January 2009 that the implementation of Cerner Millennium should continue in London.

In the south, eight health communities have to date gone live with the Cerner Millennium system. Each health community typically comprises an acute trust and the associated primary care trust sites in its area. The acute trusts are Winchester and Eastleigh Healthcare NHS trust; Surrey and Sussex Healthcare NHS trust; Weston Area Health NHS trust; Taunton and Somerset NHS Foundation trust; Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre

NHS trust; Milton Keynes General Hospital NHS trust; Buckinghamshire Hospitals NHS trust; and Worthing and Southlands Hospitals NHS trust.

Since the local service provider contract with Fujitsu was terminated in May 2008, new arrangements to support and develop the services in the eight live sites in the south, together with agreement to deploy the Cerner product to a further four acute organisations have been agreed with BT. Under these arrangements, the eight live sites in the south will first be transferred to a BT data centre and then upgraded to the post-improvement programme configuration of the electronic patient record software that has been developed for London Cerner trusts. The transfer to the BT data centres and the subsequent upgrade of software are expected to be completed for the live sites by the end of 2010.

Further planned Cerner Millennium implementations at trusts in both London and the south are being informed by the lessons learnt from the improvement programmes at the live sites, and will enable more localisation and tailoring of the system, as well as close working between clinicians and solution experts as the system is being built for each trust.

NHS: Information and Communications Technology

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will estimate his Department's expenditure on its toolkit for the National Programme for IT; and whether capital for this expenditure will be allocated from the original budget for the programme. [272801]

Mr. Bradshaw: It is not yet possible to make a meaningful estimate of all the costs involved. However, we anticipate that they will be met from within existing budgetary provision for the national programme.

Mr. Stephen O'Brien: To ask the Secretary of State for Health (1) how many sites in the Southern cluster of the National Programme for IT are (a) due to deploy and (b) in the process of deploying (i) the RiO information system and (ii) Cerner Millennium under the management of BT; [272806]

(2) for how many (a) trusts and (b) sites in the Southern cluster of the National Programme for IT BT has now assumed responsibility. [272807]

Mr. Bradshaw: In the southern programme for information technology, previously the southern cluster, the eight acute trusts that had previously installed Cerner Millennium under Fujitsu as local service provider are transferring to BT. In addition, four more acute trusts are planning to deploy the system, three of which are in the early stages of deployment. In all, these deployments will cover 26 sites.

Under the same arrangement, 22 community and mental health trusts are due to deploy the RiO system at 25 sites, including one trust which has already started work on deployment.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for Health whether provision of the regional distribution centre to provide a loan equipment delivery service for complex equipment as part of the transforming community equipment programme will be subject to a competitive tender should the centre be established. [274165]

Phil Hope: Local authorities and their health partners who may consider commissioning a regional solution for complex equipment are required to comply with all relevant European Union procurement legislation.

Physiology

Mr. Hoyle: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans he has to consult on proposals for the regulation of clinical physiologists. [273274]

Mr. Bradshaw: We intend to develop proposals for the regulation of the health care scientist work force, including clinical physiologists, this year.

Written Answers to Questions

CHURCH COMMISSIONERS

Churches: Repairs and Maintenance

Miss McIntosh: To ask the hon. Member for Middlesbrough, representing the Church Commissioners what recent discussions the Church Commissioners have had with the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport on heritage grant funding for church repairs. [274612]

Sir Stuart Bell: Representatives of the Church of England have regularly met with a number of Government Departments, namely HM Treasury, DCLG, DEFRA, Office of the Third Sector in the Cabinet Office and DCMS.

These discussions have culminated in the joint publication of guidance entitled 'Churches and Faith Buildings: Realising the Potential'. The guidance seeks to help faith groups access existing resources and help funders understand the important role of faith groups in delivering public services. Specifically, it identifies funding for the physical alteration and modification of churches and other faith buildings to ensure they are fit for community use.

HOUSE OF COMMONS COMMISSION

Hamas

Mr. Ames: To ask the hon. Member for North Devon, representing the House of Commons Commission whether the organisers of the meeting held on the Parliamentary estate on 22 April 2009 involving a video link with a senior leader of Hamas sought the approval of the House of Commons Commission beforehand; what representations the Commission received from hon. Members opposing the video link from taking place; what response the Commission gave; and if he will make a statement. [274025]

Nick Harvey: The House of Commons Commission has no role in approving Members' choice of participants in video-linked meetings.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Departmental ICT

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Northern Ireland what steps he has taken to reduce the level of carbon dioxide emissions arising from the operation of ICT systems in his Department under the Greening Government ICT Strategy. [273563]

Paul Goggins: The Northern Ireland Office has a Green ICT strategy in place, derived from the Cabinet Office "Greening Government ICT" strategy. The Northern Ireland Office Board is committed to implementing the strategy's 51 recommendations, where practicable. To date, 29 recommendations have already been addressed or are under active consideration, including a commitment that new ICT equipment will comply with at least one of the green energy standards. This is now incorporated into all centralised procurement framework agreements.

CULTURE, MEDIA AND SPORT

Arts Council England: Grants

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much Arts Council England awarded in grants in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09. [273983]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 8 May 2009]: Arts Council England has advised that the following has been awarded in grants in 2007-08. Figures for 2008-09 are currently being prepared and are not yet available.

Total grant in aid funding grants	373,710,000
Lottery funding 2007-08
Grant commitments made in the year	99,551,000
Lapsed and revoked commitments	-8,655,000
Total lottery funding	90,896,000
Total grant funding	464,606,000

Casinos

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many licensed casinos were in operation in each local authority area under the provisions of (a) the Gambling Act 1968 and (b) the Gambling Act 2005 in each year since 1997. [274083]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Gambling Commission have advised that to date there have been no premises licences issued under the provisions of the Gambling Act 2005 in relation to casinos.

The Gambling Act1968 has seen casinos located in 53 distinct 'permitted areas' in which the licensing of clubs for gaming other than bingo is permitted.

Details of the number of casinos operating in each permitted area for each year can be found in the annual reports of the Gambling Commission and its predecessor, the Gaming Board. Copies of these reports are laid in the Library and are also available on the Gambling Commission's website at:

www.gamblingcommission.gov.uk

Departmental Contracts

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport which services his Department has outsourced in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [274451]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department has not outsourced any new services within the last five years. A number of services have been outsourced prior to this period such as:

Facilities Management,
Information Technology,
Catering Services,
Records Management, and Mailroom Services.

Departmental Dismissal

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many members of staff in his Department and its agency were dismissed (a) for under-performance and (b) in total in each of the last 10 years. [274301]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The information is as follows.

	Underperformance		Total dismissals
	DCMS	Royal Parks Agency	DCMS	Royal Parks Agency

Departmental ICT

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what steps he has taken to reduce the level of carbon dioxide emissions arising from the operation of ICT systems in his Department under the Greening Government ICT Strategy. [273561]

Mr. Sutcliffe: My Department, in line with all other Chief Information Officers (CIOs) on the CIO Council, has produced a "CIO Green ICT Roadmap" which we will be following to deliver against the 18 target improvement areas outlined in the Greening Government ICT Strategy.

My Department has identified Green ICT as one of our key priorities for the coming year. As part of this, we have led a cross-Government exercise to procure a standard tool to allow departments to safely shut down desktop PCs overnight and out of hours. This software has now been installed on all machines in my Department to ensure that all unused machines are shut down outside working hours.

Departmental Work Experience

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many work placements his Department offered to (a) school pupils, (b) university students and (c) graduates in each of the last five years. [274489]

Mr. Sutcliffe: DCMS do not offer work placements to school pupils. However, DCMS has taken part in the Cabinet Office Summer Work Placement scheme for university students and graduates from under-represented groups. In the last five years we have taken five placements per year.

English Heritage: Educational Visits

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much has been spent on the (a) administration, (b) staffing and (c) advertisement and promotion of the English Heritage free educational visits scheme in each year since the introduction of the scheme. [272321]

Barbara Follett [holding answer 5 May 2009]: English Heritage introduced free entry for educational groups to its sites as one of its first acts after its creation in 1984. However, the figures requested are only available for the years from 1996-97 and these represent the total spend on education in each year. It is not possible to separate out how much is spent on free educational visits alone, or to break down the total as requested. The available figures are set out in the following table:

		Of which:
	Total expenditure on education	Payroll	Marketing and promotion
1996-97	1,083,870	342,575	265,802
1997-98	961,479	265,498	491,661
1998-99	814,314	274,472	422,639
1999-2000	972,013	361,021	580,461
2000-01	1,059,290	408,818	509,290
2001-02	1,101,696	436,462	659,799
2002-03	1,182,071	556,628	597,433
2003-04	1,416,248	659,582	546,356
2004-05	1,335,050	695,672	487,447
2005-06	1,445,448	630,006	213,539
2006-07	1,503,366	649,604	390,713
2007-08	1,429,012	698,122	475,614
2008-09	1,466,873	727,583	335,125

Funding

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport (1) how much funding the Community Fund has (a) committed and (b) distributed since its creation; [273982]

(2) how much funding the Big Lottery Fund has (a) committed and (b) distributed since its creation. [273984]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 8 May 2009]: The Big Lottery Fund has advised that from 1 December 2006, when it was legally created from the merger of the Community Fund, New Opportunities Fund and Millennium Commission it has awarded £1,898 million and distributed £1,433 million to grant recipients.

The distribution includes outstanding payments to Community Fund, New Opportunities Fund and Millennium Commission grant holders.

In the period from the Community Fund's inception in 1993 until 30 November 2006, it awarded £3,863 million and distributed £2,926 million to grant recipients.

The Community Fund's first grants were awarded in October 1995, following their legal creation in 1993. Many Community Fund projects are still in management and delivering benefits to communities. They therefore are still drawing money down from their grant allocation.

Gambling

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what information his Department holds on the number of people being treated for gambling addiction. [273288]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department does not centrally collate statistics on the number of people being treated for gambling addiction at any one time.

In 2008 the Responsibility in Gambling Trust (RIGT) estimated that of the 0.6 per cent. of the adult population categorised as problem gamblers, 0.5 per cent. were accessing treatment from RIGT funded treatment providers, on an annual basis.

The Gambling Commission is currently considering whether to include specific questions on the awareness of treatment services in the next British Gambling Prevalence Survey which will be published in 2010.

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what estimate he has made of the number of online gambling companies based overseas which operate in the UK which (a) contribute and (b) do not contribute to funding of problem gambling services; and if he will make a statement. [273653]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 8 May 2009]: My Department does not collect statistics on the number of overseas based operators contributing to the funding of problem gambling services in the UK.

However, we are aware that some operators based in Alderney, Gibraltar and Malta contributed on a voluntary basis to the Responsibility in Gambling Trust last year.

Additionally, a number of companies licensed for premises-based operations in the UK contribute significantly towards research, education and treatment of problem gambling in the UK and have remote gambling operations that are based in European Union or white listed jurisdictions.

Heritage and Culture Sector Club: VisitBritain

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what functions the Heritage and Culture Sector Club has in relation to VisitBritain. [270815]

Barbara Follett: The Heritage and Culture Sector Club provides VisitBritain with a forum to disseminate important consumer and market intelligence in order to encourage appropriate product development in heritage and culture specific areas.

This work informs VisitBritain's marketing campaigns and encourages the spread of best practice within the tourism industry.

Internet: English Language

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent progress has been made on the proposal to establish international rules for the operation of English language websites; and what recent discussions he has had with the US administration on the matter. [273291]

Barbara Follett: I remain keen to discuss an international approach to areas of public concern about certain internet content and look forward to engaging with the appropriate member of the US Administration once the relevant appointment has been made.

Licensing

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport what recent research his Department has commissioned to assess the effectiveness of the operation of premises licences. [273652]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 8 May 2009]: While specific research has not been commissioned on this matter, the Government continue to monitor the effect of the Licensing Act 2003. On 4 March 2008, my right hon. Friend the Secretary of State made a written ministerial statement on the evaluation of the impact of the 2003 Act, which can be read at http://www.culture.gov.uk/reference_library/minister_speeches/1997.aspx

Copies of the written ministerial statement are also available in the House Library.

Local Press

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will commission research into the (a) financial viability of local newspapers and (b) number of journalists employed by local newspapers in each of the last five years. [274238]

Andy Burnham: There are no plans by Government to commission this research. However, on 28 April I hosted a local media summit involving key figures from across the media industry to discuss the challenges facing local newspapers and explore how we can support the local media industry in meeting these challenges so that it can continue to thrive in the future. These discussions will feed into the final Digital Britain report to be published by the Government in the summer.

Sports Equity Alliance

Mr. Don Foster: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how much funding (a) his Department, (b) Sport England and (c) UK Sport has provided to each member of Sport England's Sports Equity Alliance in each of the last five years; and how much each has allocated to each member of the Alliance in the next expenditure round. [272942]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department for Culture, Media and Sport does not fund Sport England's Sports Equity Alliance directly. Funding is channelled through Sport England and UK Sport.

Sport England has advised that its core revenue funding to Equity Partners over the last five years is as follows:

	English Federation of Disability Sport	Sporting Equals	Women's Sport and Fitness Foundation
2004-05	1,050,000	140,000	200,000
2005-06	1,050,000	140,000	200,000
2006-07	1,010,333	319,334	462,333
2007-08	951,066	317,066	419,898
2008-09	1,100,000	376,419	541,250
2009-10 (first quarter)[1]	275,000	81,604	135,125

[1] Funding has been awarded for the first quarter only of 2009-10 pending consideration by Sport England of applications from the equity partners that detail how they propose working to support National Governing Bodies and other sport deliverers in the period 2009-11.

UK Sport has advised that it has provided the following funding to each member of Sport England's Sports Equity Alliance over the past five years:

Women's Sport and Fitness Foundation (formerly the Women's Sports Foundation)

	Funding from UK Sport (£)
2004-05	8,659.50
2005-06	8,641.35
2006-07	8,800.25

Sports: Training

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many voluntary community sports coaches have been recruited under the Recruit into Coaching scheme since its inception. [273802]

Mr. Sutcliffe [holding answer 8 May 2009]: Sport England have advised that 2,389 voluntary community sports coaches have been recruited under the Recruit into Coaching scheme since its inception.

Swimming Pools

Mr. Hunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport how many public swimming pools (a) closed and (b) opened in England in 2008. [274730]

Mr. Sutcliffe: Sport England advise that the figures for 2008 have not yet been collated, but should be available in the summer.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 22W, on trade unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional annual value of such provision is. [271937]

Mr. Sutcliffe: The Department have one full-time trade union representative. The Department provide a desk, computer and telephone in the open plan office area. The trade union representative also has access to other shared office facilities such as meeting rooms, photocopying, scanning and faxing.

The cost per annum of providing accommodation and office facilities per full time equivalent is £11,939.

VisitBritain: Finance

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport if he will make an estimate of the effect on (a) the British economy and (b) Exchequer revenues which would arise from an increase in (i) £10 million, (ii) £20 million and (iii) £50 million to the planned VisitBritain budget in each of the next five years. [272532]

Barbara Follett: VisitBritain's grant in aid for the period 2011 to 2014 will be considered in due course. An increase of £10 million or £20 million over and above their current baseline funding would be deployed on above the line marketing activity. VisitBritain and Visit England would also seek to achieve 50 per cent. match funding from industry partners in line with such increases.

The additional visitor spend and tax revenue generated by such investment would significantly depend on the economic situation during the next five years and its impact on global airline traffic. VisitBritain and Visit England would currently expect to spend an increase of £50 million in each of the next five years not only on above the line marketing activity, but also on brand building and the development of new markets.

Again, the benefits would be influenced by economic developments in the wider economy. More detailed analysis and a larger planning exercise would be required to calculate the benefits over this period. In preparing for the next Spending Round, the Department will consider with VisitBritain a range of scenarios examining the economic impact of each.

ENVIRONMENT, FOOD AND RURAL AFFAIRS

Air Pollution: Torbay

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what his most recent assessment is of air quality in the Torbay local authority area; and what steps the Government are taking to improve air quality in the area. [272529]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Local authorities have a duty under Part IV of the Environment Act 1995 to review and assess the current, and likely future, air quality in their areas, and to submit reports on local air quality to DEFRA.

Where local authorities consider that one or more nationally prescribed air quality objectives is unlikely to be met by the relevant deadline, they must declare an air quality management area (AQMA) covering the area affected. These local authorities must then take action, along with other agencies and organisations, to work towards meeting the air quality objectives. Torbay council declared AQMAs in respect of nitrogen dioxide objectives in April 2005 and May 2006. The council has produced an action plan setting out the measures it is implementing in order to improve air quality in the area. Since local road transport is the primary cause of local air pollution in these AQMAs, Torbay council has integrated its air quality action plan into the Torbay Local Transport Plan 2006-2011, a copy of which is available at:

www.torbay.gov.uk

DEFRA has assessed, and is satisfied with Torbay council's 2008 progress report, and we await the council's air quality report for 2009.

The Government provide guidance and practical support to assist local authorities with their duties on review and assessment of air quality, and to ensure consistency and best practice. Revised and updated guidance was published in February on the DEFRA website at:

www.defra.gov.uk

The Government also fund several helplines which local authorities can contact for practical and technical advice on monitoring, modelling, emission inventories and air quality action plan measures. All local authorities are invited each year to bid for air quality grant aid, and applications are considered and awards made towards the cost of air quality projects in local areas.

Bovine Tuberculosis: Disease Control

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs when he expects to announce which areas have been chosen for the bovine tuberculosis wildlife vaccination pilot. [273462]

Jane Kennedy: We have been working in liaison with the Bovine TB Eradication Group for England, epidemiologists and other key industry and stakeholder groups to identify criteria for selecting the areas where the bovine TB badger vaccine deployment project will take place. We anticipate the areas will be announced shortly.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what recent discussions he has had with the veterinary profession and its representatives on (a) the Government's strategy for dealing with bovine tuberculosis and (b) means of communicating that strategy through the work of veterinary surgeons. [273463]

Jane Kennedy: The Bovine TB Eradication Group includes representatives from DEFRA's Food and Farming Group, Animal Health, the farming industry and the veterinary profession.

In addition, the TB Advisory Group, which played a key role in obtaining stakeholder buy-in to TB control policies, also included representatives from the veterinary profession. The group disbanded on 8 April after publishing its final report to Ministers.

As part of planning for the badger vaccine deployment project, we have recently met with representatives of key veterinary organisations to discuss both their input into the project and the best ways of communicating to and through local vets.

Also on a recent visit to the south-west I met local animal health vets and affected farmers to learn of the growing TB problem and the challenge of tackling the disease.

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs what plans he has to tackle testing fatigue among (a) farmers and (b) veterinary surgeons in relation to testing for bovine tuberculosis. [273464]

Jane Kennedy: I am aware from discussions with representatives from the farming industry and veterinary profession, and the recent report from our TB Advisory Group, that testing fatigue can become an issue in areas with high numbers of TB breakdowns. We are considering the report in detail.

The TB Eradication Group for England (TBEG) was set up last year to consider, and advise on, the TB control framework, including the cattle testing programme. Part of their remit is to look at options for helping farmers in high incidence areas maintain viable businesses, which may include options for managing the impact of TB controls on the farming industry and the veterinary profession.

Regular skin testing of cattle herds is an important part of our TB programme, both for tackling disease in cattle and ensuring the risk to public health remains low. Regular TB testing is also legally required if herd owners wish to retain their officially tuberculosis free (OTF) status and their ability to trade.

Dangerous Dogs Act 1991

Bill Wiggin: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs how many people have been prosecuted under sections 1(3), 3(1) and 3(3) of the Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 in each year since 2006; and if he will make a statement. [272367]

Jane Kennedy: The number of persons proceeded against at magistrates courts for offences under sections 1(3), 3(1) and 3(3) of the Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 in England and Wales for the years 2006-07 (latest available) can be viewed in the following table.

These data are on the principal offence basis. Court proceedings data for 2008 will be available in the autumn of 2009.

Statute	Offence description	2006	2007
Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 Sec 1(3)	Possession, without exemption, of a Pit Bull Terrier, Japanese Tosa or other designated fighting dog.	8	87
Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 Sec 3(1)	Owner or person in charge allowing dog to be dangerously out of control in a public place injuring any person.	703	667
Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 Sec 3(1)	Owner or person in charge allowing dog to be dangerously out of control in a public place, no injury being caused.	278	341
Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 Sec 3(3)	Owner or person in charge allowing dog to enter a non-public place and injure any person.	54	50
Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 Sec 3(3)	Owner or person in charge allowing dog to enter a non- public place causing reasonable apprehension of injury to a person.	19	22
Total		1,062	1,167

1. These data are on the principal offence basis.
2. Every effort is made to ensure that the figures presented are accurate and complete. However, it is important to note that these data have been extracted from large administrative data systems generated by the courts, and police forces. As a consequence, care should be taken to ensure data collection processes and their inevitable limitations are taken into account when those data are used.

Tourism: Rural Areas

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 25 March 2009, Official Report, column 381W, on tourism: rural areas, how much of the £35 million was devolved to each of the regional development agencies. [274944]

Huw Irranca-Davies: Each regional development agency (RDA) has been provided with an indicative budget for the entire programming period (2007-13) to enable them to deliver the full range of regional priorities. The figure of £35 million is an indicative allocation to the programme measure that provides for support for rural tourism. It is for each RDA to determine the actual level of spend and this will be influenced by a range of factors, including the number and quality of projects coming forward and changes to regional priorities agreed during the programming period.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs pursuant to the answer of 11 March 2009, Official Report, column 439W, on trade unions, which trade unions his Department's agencies recognise. [271930]

Huw Irranca-Davies: The Department's agencies recognise PCS, Prospect and FDA trade unions, all of which are members of the Council of Civil Service Unions (CCSU).

Water Charges

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs whether Ofwat undertook an impact assessment of the implementation of its proposals for water rate structures on community groups and churches. [271952]

Huw Irranca-Davies: In 2003 Ofwat reported the outcome of its review of company charging polices for surface water drainage. It concluded that site area charging was the fairest method of charging non-households for surface water drainage.

Ofwat said at the time that companies which are thinking about implementing site area charging would need to consider the impact on individual customers' bills and the potential negative effects associated with charging for sensitive properties. Ofwat also highlighted that companies would need to take into account the scale and speed of any bill changes to see if they were reasonable and acceptable to customers.

It is for the companies to undertake the appropriate impact assessments of any changes in their charging policies on their customers.

TRANSPORT

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much his Department has spent on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007 since the Regulations entered into force. [272134]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport has spent a total of £32,925.20 on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings Regulations (2007/991).

Departmental Air Travel

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Rochford and Southend, East of 6 October 2008, Official Report, column 477W, on departmental carbon emissions, what the figures for (a) domestic, (b) short-haul and (c) long-haul air travel for 2007-08 are. [271934]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport's contribution to the Government Carbon Offsetting Fund for 2007-08 was based on the following mileage: (a) domestic 694,279 miles, (b) short-haul 821,645 miles, and (c) long-haul 1,940,261 miles.

Departmental Capital Expenditure

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 2 April 2009, Official Report, column 1413W, on departmental capital expenditure, what progress his Department has made in allocating the £700 million capital spending advanced to 2009-10. [274185]

Mr. Hoon: Pursuant to the answer of 2 April 2009, Official Report, column 1413W, on capital expenditure, the £700 million advanced to 2009-10 has been allocated as follows: £400 million to the Highways Agency for strategic network road improvements, including dualling the A46 Newark to Widmerpool and £300 million to the Rail group for train procurement.

Departmental Consultants

Mr. Redwood: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much (a) his Department and (b) its executive agencies spent on consultancy contracts in 2008-09. [272586]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport spent £57.3 million on consultancy in 2008-09 and its Executive Agencies spent £20.9 million on consultancy in 2008-09.

Departmental ICT

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what steps he has taken to reduce the level of carbon dioxide emissions arising from the operation of ICT systems in his Department under the Greening Government ICT Strategy. [273562]

Mr. Hoon: I refer the hon. Member to my answer of 23 April 2009, Official Report, columns 797-98W.

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Godsiff: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many people work in his Department's Communications Directorate. [274719]

Mr. Hoon: I refer my hon. Friend to my answer of 8 May 2009, Official Report, column 486W.

Departmental Rail Travel

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what guidance his Department issues on whether members of staff may claim for travel in first class carriages on trains if there are no seats in standard class. [268543]

Mr. Hoon: Rules relating to travel claims are set out in the Civil Service Management Code.

Departmental Training

Mr. Hurd: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what his Department's policy is on the practice of holding departmental away days outside the Department's buildings. [268535]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport and its agencies hold staff away days as part of its commitment to staff and team development. The Head of the business area arranging the event will determine whether to hold the away day outside the Department's buildings. The underlying assumption is that the Department's own building will be used where appropriate.

Driving: Licensing

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many (a) provisional and (b) full driving licences were issued in each year since 1998. [273836]

Jim Fitzpatrick: The number of provisional licences issued in each financial year since 1998-99 are:

Financial year	Provisional licences issued
1998-99	760,049
1999-2000	616,720
2000-01	685,921
2001-02	792,603
2002-03	867,626
2003-04	915,232
2004-05	906,523
2005-06	958,698
2006-07	1,002,386
2007-08	1,045,498
2008-09	954,204

The Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency does not record the volumes of how many drivers exchanged their provisional licence for a full licence. However, we do record the number of drivers who have passed their test, as follows:

Financial year	Number
1998-99	580,880
1999-2000	580,223
2000-01	605,661
2001-02	614,608
2002-03	651,566
2003-04	673,129
2004-05	779,440
2005-06	837,472
2006-07	831,545
2007-08	856,523
2008-09	873,539

Government Car and Despatch Agency: Pay

Mr. Leech: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how many full-time staff employed at the Government Car and Despatch Agency in London earn less than £15,944 per annum. [274699]

Mr. Hoon: The Government Car and Despatch Agency has no full-time employees earning £15,944 per annum or less.

Motor Vehicles: Insurance

Mr. Goodwill: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport with reference to the answer to the hon. Member for Windsor of 3 November 2008, Official Report, columns 49-50W, what progress has been made on the introduction of electronic motor insurance certificates; and if he will make a statement. [274957]

Jim Fitzpatrick: A first draft of regulations has been prepared and is being discussed internally and with the motor insurance industry.

We aim to lay regulations before the end of the year, if the proposed approach proves to be practicable.

Railways: Franchises

Norman Baker: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what recent discussions he has had with National Express on its East Coast Main Line franchise; and if he will make a statement. [273989]

Paul Clark [holding answer 8 May 2009]: Under the Franchise Agreement, a Franchise Performance Meeting between Department for Transport officials and National Express East Coast is held every four weeks to discuss the delivery of its franchise agreement and obligations. The last such meeting took place on 23 April 2009.

Railways: Tickets

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport which train operating companies are required under the terms of their franchise agreements to introduce smart ticketing. [273833]

Paul Clark: The following franchises have a requirement within the terms of their franchise to introduce or accept ITSO based smartcard ticketing:

South West Trains

London Midland

East Midlands Trains

National Express East Coast

Cross Country

The new South Central franchise will also include similar provisions.

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what requirements regarding smart ticketing he will place on the operating company awarded the South Central franchise currently under tender. [273834]

Paul Clark: In line with all recent franchise competitions, the operator of the new South Central Franchise will be required to introduce an ITSO based smartcard ticketing system across the franchise, with the scheme introduced by January 2012.

With regard to the introduction of Oyster Pay As You Go within the London area the operator will be required to work with Transport for London and the Department for Transport to secure its implementation.

Stephen Hammond: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport what progress his Department has made on delivering the commitments made in the 2007 White Paper, Delivering a Sustainable Railway on smart ticketing; and if he will make a statement. [273835]

Paul Clark: The introduction of ITSO smartcards has been mandated in all recently let rail franchises and will be included in the South Central franchise.

The Department for Transport, Transport for London and train operators are working together on the acceptance of Oyster Pay As You Go at London train stations and the acceptance of ITSO Smartcards on Oyster equipment.

Rushenden Link Road

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport how much funding stakeholders have committed to the Rushenden Link Road project. [274799]

Paul Clark: The Homes and Communities Agency (HCA) and South East England Development Agency (SEEDA) jointly committed a total of £12 million for the Rushenden Link Road scheme in June 2006. The HCA (formerly Communities and Local Government) made £9 million available through their Thames Gateway programme fund, with the remaining £3 million coming from SEEDA.

Derek Wyatt: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport who the funding stakeholders for the Rushenden Link Road project are. [274800]

Paul Clark: The South East England Development Agency and the Homes and Communities Agency (formerly with the Communities and Local Government) are the key funding stakeholders for the Rushenden Link Road project and jointly committed £12 million to fund the scheme in June 2006.

Shipping: Pollution

Mr. Sanders: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport if he will hold discussions at EU level to seek to establish a low emission shipping zone in European coastal waters. [272522]

Jim Fitzpatrick: A Sulphur Oxides (SO_x) Emission Control Area has been in force in the North Sea area (including the English Channel) since 2007. Since then, the UK has played a significant role in the development of the revised MARPOL Annex VI which the International Maritime Organization (IMO) adopted last year and which will result in a further significant reduction of emissions from ships of sulphur oxides and nitrogen oxides, and improved air quality in our coastal regions. We consistently seek to develop measures to reduce ship emissions in forums such as the IMO and the European Union.

Trade Unions

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 366W, on trade unions, which trade unions his Department's agencies recognise. [271924]

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport's agencies recognise the following trade unions:

Driver Vehicle and Licensing Agency—Public and Commercial Services Union (PCS), Maritime and Coastguard Agency—PCS, Prospect and Association of First Division Civil Servants (FDA), Highways Agency—PCS, Prospect and FDA,

Driving Standards Agency—PCS,

Vehicle and Operator Services Agency—PCS, Prospect and Unite/Amicus

Vehicle Certification Agency—PCS and Prospect

Government Car and Despatch Agency—PCS, Prospect and Unite.

Mr. Maude: To ask the Secretary of State for Transport pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 366W, on trades unions, what office facilities his Department provides for the exclusive use of each recognised trade union; and what the notional annual value of such provision is. [271925]

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Mr. Hoon: The Department for Transport, the Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency, the Vehicle and Operator Services Agency, the Driving Standards Agency and the Maritime and Coastguard Agency provide trade unions with office facilities for exclusive use.

The notional annual value of such provision is £81,231.

ENERGY AND CLIMATE CHANGE

Carbon Emissions: Housing

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what funding is in place to encourage the construction of zero-carbon homes. [249774]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 20 January 2009]: The following initiatives currently provide financial support to encourage the construction of zero carbon homes:

Stamp Duty Land Tax Exemption—Stamp Duty relief for zero carbon homes was announced in Budget 2007 to act as an incentive to developers of new zero carbon homes. The exemption covers the first acquisition of a zero carbon home costing up to £500,000. For homes costing in excess of £500,000 there will be a reduction of £15,000. The exemption is in place for all new homes for a period of five years ending on 30 September 2012.

Zero Carbon Hub—The Zero Carbon Hub, a not-for-profit company limited by guarantee, was launched in June 2008 to guide, monitor and coordinate the zero carbon home programme. In 2008-09, the Department for Communities and Local Government provided approximately £250,000 of grant funding to the Hub to help with set up costs.

Departmental Air Conditioning

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change (1) how many of his Department's buildings are equipped with air conditioning systems with greater than 250kW of output; how many of these systems have been inspected under the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007; and if he will place in the Library a copy of each inspection report; [272145]

(2) how much has been spent by his Department on carrying out inspections of air conditioning systems within departmental buildings in accordance with the Energy Performance of Buildings (Certificates and Inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. [272146]

Joan Ruddock: The Department occupies one building which falls within the requirements of the Energy Performance of Buildings (certificates and inspections) (England and Wales) Regulations 2007. The cost of carrying out the inspection of the air-conditioning system was £1,437.50. A copy of the inspection report will be placed in the Libraries of the House.

Fuel Poverty

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many (a) people and (b) households were in fuel poverty in each local authority area in each year since 2000; and what the Government's target for fuel poverty reduction was in each such year. [274049]

Joan Ruddock: Since 2000, fuel poverty data at a sub-regional level are only available for 2003, for England. The data for fuel poverty levels for 2003 come from the Fuel Poverty Indicator dataset available online at:

http://www.fuelpovertyindicator.co.uk/

Fuel poverty is not measured in terms of number of people who are fuel poor. The Government's long-term objective, as prefigured by s.1 of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000 is that, as far as reasonably practicable, by 22 November 2016, persons in England should not live in fuel poverty. The interim objective of the Fuel Poverty Strategy in England is that, so far as reasonably practicable, the Government would seek an end to fuel poverty for vulnerable households by 2010. The Government set no annual targets in respect of the 2016 and 2010 targets.

Greenhouse Gas Emissions

Greg Clark: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what estimate he has made of the proportion of UK (a) carbon dioxide and (b) other greenhouse gas emissions arising from (i) cars, (ii) buses, (iii) all road vehicles, (iv) trains, (v) aviation and (vi) shipping in each of the last 10 years. [266631]

Joan Ruddock: The latest 2008 provisional estimates of greenhouse gas emissions were published on 26 March 2009. DEFRA is currently publishing the DECC climate change statistics; the 2008 Final UK Greenhouse Gas Emissions National Statistics may be found at the following web address:

http://www.defra.gov.uk/environment/statistics/globatmos/index.htm

The proportion of UK (a) carbon dioxide and (b) other greenhouse gas emissions arising from (i) cars, (ii) buses, (iii) all road vehicles, (iv) trains, (v) domestic aviation and (vi) domestic shipping in each of the last 10 years, are shown in the following table. These figures have been compiled from the DECC Provisional UK Greenhouse Gas Emissions National Statistics. These percentages are calculated on an 'End User' basis, i.e. the emissions are reallocated from the production and distribution of energy to the users of that energy.

Housing: Standards

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many buildings in each of the last five years have been constructed to PassivHaus standards. [249776]

Joan Ruddock [holding answer 20 January 2009]: There is currently only one building completed to the PassivHaus Standard as certified by the Building Research Establishment (BRE) in the UK—Canolfan Hyddgen in Machynlleth, Wales. This was designed and constructed by JPW Construction.

Low Carbon Buildings Programme

Gregory Barker: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what the budget of the Low Carbon Buildings Programme Phase 1 is; and how much has been spent on Phase 1 to date. [271991]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: The budget for the Low Carbon Buildings Programme Phase 1 is £36 million. Currently the total grant spend is £12,895,587.50. In addition £3.4 million has been spent on administration and certification in relation to the programme.

Peers' Interests

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change pursuant to the answer of 10 March 2009, Official Report, column 409W, on Peers' interests, on what date the proposed meeting was cancelled. [266356]

Mr. Mike O'Brien: We were informed of the cancellation on 31 January 2009.

Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what progress the Government (a) made during 2008 and (b) has made to date in 2009 towards meeting the targets in the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000; and if he will make a statement. [274029]

Joan Ruddock: The Government's UK Sixth Annual Progress Report on Fuel Poverty was published on 2 October 2008. It shows that, in 2006, the latest period for which figures are available, there were around 3.5 million households in fuel poverty across the UK, an increase of one million households since 2005. Around 2.75 million of these were vulnerable households (containing children, the elderly, or a person who is disabled or long-term sick).

In England, there were around 2.4 million fuel poor households, of which around 1.9 million were vulnerable. This represents a rise of 900,000 households from 2005 to 2006 and a rise of 700,000 vulnerable households over the same period.

As fuel prices continue to rise faster than incomes, the proportion of households in fuel poverty continued to increase. Projections indicate that for 2008, a further 1.2 million households in England might be in fuel poverty.

More recent progress will be reported in the Seventh Annual Progress Report on Fuel Poverty to be published later this year.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change what research his Department has (a) commissioned and (b) evaluated on the effect of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000 on fuel poverty since July 2008; and if he will make a statement. [274030]

Joan Ruddock: DECC has not commissioned research on the effect of the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000. However, I announced a review of fuel poverty during evidence to the EFRA Select Committee on 14 January 2009.

The Review is examining whether existing measures to tackle fuel poverty could be made more effective. It is also considering whether new policies should be introduced to help us make further progress towards our goals, particularly in light of market conditions and our aims to reduce carbon emissions.

The initial findings of the Fuel Poverty Review are expected in the summer of 2009.

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Energy and Climate Change how many officials in his Department at each pay band have responsibility for the (a) formulation and (b) implementation of policy on the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000; what other posts in his Department and its predecessors each such official has held; and if he will make a statement. [274051]

Joan Ruddock: DECC has the following officials by pay band with responsibility for fuel poverty and the Warm Homes and Energy Conservation Act 2000.

	Number
SCS Pay Band 1	2
Grade 6	1
Grade 7	5
SEO	1
HEO	6
EO	3
AO	1

DECC is planning to supplement the team with two additional Grade 7 posts. In addition support is provided when required from other parts of DECC.

WOMEN AND EQUALITY

Departmental Computers

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality how many laptop computers have been provided to (a) Ministers, (b) special advisers and (c) civil servants in the Government Equalities Office since its creation; and at what cost. [268262]

Maria Eagle: The Government Equalities Office was established on 12 October 2007. Since then a total of 21 laptops have been purchased for use by civil servants only. The total cost of providing these laptops was £39,032.

Equality: Regulation

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what (a) primary and (b) secondary legislation has imposed new burdens on local authorities in relation to equality and diversity since 1997. [273392]

John Healey: I have been asked to reply.

This information could be provided only at disproportionate cost. However, the Government are committed to ensuring that all new burdens falling on local authorities are fully and properly funded. Any policy which increases the cost of providing local authority services is subject to the new burdens doctrine and, where appropriate, funding is provided through the formula grant system or through specific grants.

Rape: Victim Support Schemes

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Minister for Women and Equality what recent assessment she has made of the adequacy of funding arrangements for rape crisis centres. [273395]

Maria Eagle: In March 2008, the Minister for Women and Equality announced a £1.1 million Special Fund to Rape Crisis Centres (members of Rape Crisis England and Wales). This was a targeted response to specific evidence from Rape Crisis England and Wales that their members faced financial difficulties. Following evidence from The Survivors' Trust, the terms of this year's £1.6million Special Fund have been expanded to ensure that members of both Rape Crisis (England and Wales) and The Survivors' Trust can apply.

The Special Fund and other central Government funds are provided in addition to local funding, for example from local authorities, health bodies and charitable trusts. The Government believe that local decision makers are best placed to assess local needs, and Government expect the majority of funding to the sexual violence voluntary sector to come from local sources.

Nevertheless, the Government recognise the ongoing problems experienced by the sexual violence sector, particularly in respect of accessing local funding. Officials across Government are working to consider what more we can do, based on the recommendations made by the Home Office's Stakeholder Advisory Group on Sexual Violence and Abuse Funding Sub-group.

My Department has commissioned a research project to help improve our understanding of the stability and sustainability of the violence against women voluntary sector, which includes Rape Crisis Centres (members of Rape Crisis England and Wales). We are keen to develop a robust evidence base to help Government better support this sector.

INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Developing Countries: Loans

John Battle: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development how much the Government has received in interest on loans to developing countries in each year since 2004. [269056]

Mr. Thomas: The Government, through the Department for International Development, has received the following amounts of loan interest from developing countries in the financial years 2004-05 to 2007-08:

	Low income countries[1]	Middle income countries[1]	Total
2004-05	508,180	2,263,040	2,771,220
2005-06	28,821	1,724,631	1,753,452
2006-07	11,401	1,694,981	1,706,382
2007-08	11,102	1,396,409	1,407,511
Total	559,504	7,079,061	7,638,565

[1] 'Developing countries' has been interpreted to mean low income and middle income countries as currently defined by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development's Development Assistance Committee.

The majority of these amounts (92.7 per cent.) refer to middle income countries; the remainder is for low income countries (7.3 per cent.). A substantial proportion of these interest payments refer to a reducing debt portfolio of old investments by CDC.

These figures do not include interest payments to the Export Credit Guarantee Department on rescheduled defaulted commercial credits that were guaranteed by them.

Developing Countries: Water

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what plans he has to facilitate international support for the Global Framework for Action for water and sanitation in the next 12 months. [274939]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Global Framework for Action was announced by my hon. Friend the Minister of State on behalf of the UK and the Netherlands, at the partnership event on water and sanitation, during the United Nations High-Level Event on the millennium development goals in September 2008. Since then, a number of steps have been taken to promote the Global Framework for Action.

DFID is now working closely with UNICEF, WHO, the World Bank, the African Ministers' Council on Water (AMCOW), the Netherlands and others to refine the operational aspects of the Global Framework for Action. To this end, DFID is hosting a working meeting in May 2009 to address these issues in more detail and to help define a more detailed process for promoting and implementing the Global Framework for Action over the coming 12 months.

Natural Disasters: Monitoring

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will assess the merits of increased use of satellite imagery to monitor the humanitarian conditions of those affected by natural disasters. [273837]

Mr. Michael Foster: The Department for International Development (DFID) makes full use of UNOSAT, the UN programme which provides the international community with access to satellite imagery for use both in humanitarian relief and disaster prevention, on a day-to-day basis and in particular during humanitarian emergencies. For example, DFID used it to monitor the effects of Hurricane Ike and Cyclone Nargis.

Mr. Steen: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development if he will raise at the United Nations the potential for increased use of satellite imagery better to monitor the humanitarian situation of those affected by natural disasters. [273838]

Mr. Michael Foster: The UN is already making increased use of satellite imagery to monitor humanitarian situations. The UN has developed the UNOSAT programme which provides the international community with access to satellite imagery for use both in humanitarian relief and disaster prevention.

Overseas Aid

Malcolm Bruce: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what priority is accorded to the provision of (a) water and sanitation and (b) health and education in his Department's decision-making processes on aid distribution. [274941]

Mr. Michael Foster: The provision of water and sanitation and health and education are millennium development goals (MDGs). The UK Government are committed to achieving the MDGs and the Department for International Development's (DFID) Third White Paper stated that water and sanitation and health, education and social protection are essential services. The importance of improving these services is reflected in DFID's commitment to spend at least half its bilateral financial support on them.

Sri Lanka: Overseas Aid

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for International Development what aid he has made available to Sri Lanka for 2009-10; and to which projects such aid (a) has been and (b) is to be allocated. [275080]

Mr. Michael Foster: Since September 2008, the Department for International Development (DFID) has allocated £7.5 million of humanitarian assistance to Sri Lanka. Of this, £1.96 million remains on hand to respond rapidly to needs on the ground.

In the 2009-10 financial year DFID has made available: £500,000 to the United Nations Children's Fund for water and sanitation provision and child protection activities; £500,000 to the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees for the emergency airlift of 5,000 tents for internally displaced persons; £550,000 to the United Nations Operations to provide 1,400 emergency shelters together with water and sanitation provision for at least 11,500 IDPs; and £650,000 to the International Organisation for Migration to establish, equip and staff 10 emergency mobile health clinics in IDP camps and provide emergency transport and logistics services.

BUSINESS, ENTERPRISE AND REGULATORY REFORM

Fireworks: Noise

Paul Rowen: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform whether he has had recent discussions with the Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government on the reduction of the decibel level of fireworks permitted under regulation 8 of the Fireworks Regulations 2004; and if he will make a statement. [274422]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 11 May 2009]: I have had no such discussions recently.

Israel: EU External Trade

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Minister of State, Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform what steps his Department has taken to ensure that individuals or companies which market or sell within the UK properties in Israeli settlements in East Jerusalem, the West Bank or the Golan inform potential purchasers of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's recently issued advice on the risks of such purchases; what steps the Government is taking to publicise that advice; and what steps the Government is taking to enforce the legal responsibilities of those who sell or market the properties. [271618]

Mr. Thomas [holding answer 30 April 2009]: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office advises UK citizens that there are risks involved in purchasing property in Israeli settlements on land considered to be occupied under international law in East Jerusalem, the West Bank or the Golan. Prospective purchasers should be aware that future peace deals could have consequences for properties purchased in these settlements. The advice is available on the FCO website.

Legislation specifically regulating the conduct of estate agents in the UK is not considered to apply to overseas property transactions. However, estate agents marketing overseas properties do have legal obligations to prospective purchasers under the Consumer Protection from Unfair Trading Regulations 2008. The Regulations oblige businesses not to mislead consumers through acts or omissions in their commercial practices. Failure to inform prospective purchasers of the risks involved in purchasing properties in the settlements could potentially amount to a misleading omission under the Regulations where this was likely to cause the average consumer to make a different choice. The Regulations are primarily enforced by local trading standards departments.

LEADER OF THE HOUSE

Departmental Furniture

Grant Shapps: To ask the Leader of the House how much her Office spent on furniture in each of the last five years. [273707]

Chris Bryant: Because the Office of the Leader of the House of Commons joined the Cabinet Office in June 2007 separate figures are not available for expenditure on furniture in the Leader of the House's Office.

Information prior to 2007 is available only at disproportionate cost.

HOME DEPARTMENT

Animal Experiments

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department which departments participate in the inter-departmental group on the replacement, refinement and reduction of animals in research established by her Department; and if she will make a statement. [272901]

Mr. Malik: The Group is led by Home Office officials and has members from the Department of Health, the Department for the Environment, Food and Rural Affairs, the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, the Food Standards Agency, the Health and Safety Executive, the Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency, the National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research, the Health Protection Agency, the Defence Science and Technology Laboratory, the Veterinary Medicines Directorate and the Pesticides Safety Directorate.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what mechanisms the inter-departmental group on the replacement, refinement and reduction of animals in research (3Rs) uses to ensure that other UK regulatory bodies take account of progress made in relation to the 3Rs. [272902]

Mr. Malik: The Inter Departmental Group on the 3Rs (IDG3Rs) was originally established by the Home Office to improve the application of the 3Rs and promote research into alternatives, reduce the need for toxicity testing through better sharing of data, and encourage the validation and acceptance of alternatives.

The group is one of the key mechanisms by which government policy and practice with respect to the scientific validation of alternative methods is co-ordinated by officials. The group also provides a means for Government Departments and Agencies to work with the National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research (NC3Rs).

As part of its work, the group ensures that the United Kingdom representative to the European Centre for the Validation of Alternative Methods (ECVAM) Scientific Advisory Committee (ESAC) is briefed in advance of meetings and that developments at ESAC and ECVAM are given due weight by Government Departments and regulatory agencies. Information on the validation of alternative methods within Europe is provided through the United Kingdom representative to ESAC. Relevant papers are distributed to members of the group as soon as they become available.

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what proportion of Government funding for the National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research was provided by her Department in the last 12 months. [272903]

Mr. Malik: In 2007-08, the latest year for which accounts are available, the Home Office provided £250,000 towards the funding of the National Centre for the Replacement, Refinement and Reduction of Animals in Research (NC3RS). This represented 9.5 per cent. of total Government funding for the centre. The Home Office has also provided £250,000 funding in 2008-09 and 2009-10.

Asylum

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many asylum seekers have been waiting 12 months or more for a decision on their case; and how many of these (a) have sought permission to work and (b) have been granted permission to work under the provisions of the 2003 EU Reception Directive. [273980]

Mr. Woolas: The requested information is not collated and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost through examination of individual case records.

The United Kingdom Border Agency's asylum targets are based on case conclusion times and the agency is committed to fully concluding 90 per cent. of new asylum applications within six months by the end of 2011.

Asylum: Females

Fiona Mactaggart: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many female asylum seekers were interviewed with their children present during the first or subsequent substantive interview in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09. [272601]

Mr. Woolas: The UK Border Agency does not record statistics in relation to the attendance of mothers with their children during the substantive interview on any of our internal databases. The information could be obtained only at disproportionate cost through the examination of individual case files.

Departmental Buildings

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department spent on building maintenance in each of the last five years; and if she will make a statement. [274560]

Mr. Woolas: I refer the hon. Member to my answer given to the hon. Member for Ilford, North (Mr. Scott) on 27 January 2009, Official Report, column 282W.

Departmental Furniture

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department's agencies spent on furniture in each of the last five years. [273767]

Mr. Woolas: The Department's expenditure on furniture and fittings can be found in Note 14 (Tangible Fixed Assets) to the Home Office Resource Accounts which are published annually. The latest published figures are for the year 2007-08 which can be found at the Department's website:

http://www.homeoffice.gov.uk/documents/resource-accounts-07-08

The Stationery Office publication references for the Resource Accounts for previous years are:

Home Office Resource Accounts 2006/07 (HC 1006);

Home Office Resource Accounts 2005/06 (HC 124);

Home Office Resource Accounts 2004/05 (HC 826).

The Home Office 2008-09 Resource Accounts will be available in July.

The expenditure incurred by Criminal Records Bureau and Identity and Passport Service can be found in their published annual reports and accounts which can be obtained from the Stationery Office.

Departmental Stationery

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how much her Department has spent on branded stationery and gifts for (a) internal and (b) external promotional use in each of the last five years. [273787]

Mr. Woolas: The requested information is not held centrally in the Home Office and cannot be provided without incurring disproportionate cost.

Detainees: Children

Sir Peter Soulsby: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many children of asylum seekers (a) had and (b) had not begun to receive a standard programme of child immunisation before entering immigration removal centres in the last 12 months; and how many of those who had not begun to receive immunisations have subsequently started a programme of immunisations at an immigration removal centre. [272840]

Mr. Woolas: Health care at all three immigration removal centres where children can be detained includes an undertaking to continue with childhood vaccination programmes already commenced in the UK until they leave the centre. The specific information is not readily available and could be provided only at disproportionate cost by examining each individual record.

Entry Clearances

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent reports her Department has received on allegations that persons have been obliged to sign applications for leave to remain under duress by their spouses; and if she will make a statement. [273047]

Mr. Woolas: The information requested could be obtained only by the detailed examination of individual case records at disproportionate cost, all relevant information, including an allegation of duress if made would be considered prior to any decision being taken on an application.

Food

Tim Farron: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make an estimate of the (a) monetary value and (b) quantity of waste food disposed of from her Department's premises in the last 12 months. [273436]

Mr. Woolas: This specific information is not held centrally and could be obtained only at disproportionate cost. Nevertheless my Department records its total waste arisings as required for the annual Sustainable Development in Government Report, and is working to reduce total waste from its premises.

Fuels: Transport

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department how many foreign-registered heavy goods vehicles carrying (a) gas, (b) oil, (c) liquified petroleum gas and (d) petroleum have entered the UK in each of the last 12 months; and what checks the UK Border Agency carries out on the drivers of these vehicles. [273271]

Jacqui Smith: The Department for Transport are responsible for monitoring the movement of goods across the UK border. This information is not centrally available.

UKBA conducts freight searching operations at each of the Juxtaposed locations in Northern France, as well as ports of entry around the country. Drivers and their passengers are required to present documentation in the form of either a passport, or an ID card to an immigration officer to verify their identity and this applies to everyone seeking entry to the UK without exception.

Once the immigration officer is satisfied with the passenger they are allowed to proceed to the freight search area where their vehicle may be subject to further checks relating to their load as well as a physical search of the vehicle by trained search teams.

Gateway Group

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when she expects the Gateway Group established to oversee all requests from her

Department and its agencies for the collection of data outside its annual data requirement processes to begin its work. [273017]

Jacqui Smith: The Gateway Group met for the first time on 28 April. It is chaired by the Home Office's permanent secretary and includes representatives from ACPO, APA, HMIC and NPIA and the independent reducing bureaucracy advocate Jan Berry.

The Gateway Group will meet quarterly.

Identity Cards: Finance

John Mann: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what estimate she has made of the sums to be allocated to the introduction of identity cards in each of the next six financial years. [271774]

Mr. Malik: The latest projected estimates for the cost of issuing identity cards are published in the sixth National Identity Service cost report presented to Parliament on 6 May 2009. A copy of the report may also be found at:

http://www.ips.gov.uk/identity/download/docA_IPS_cost_reportpercent202009_v11_BM.pdf

I would refer the hon. Member to that report.

Immigration

Mr. Dhanda: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department when a decision will be made in the case with Home Office reference G1082747; and if she will make a statement. [274727]

Mr. Woolas: I wrote to the hon. Member on 27 April with the latest position on the case of G1082747 and this remains the position.

Immigration Controls

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what recent proposals on improving existing collaborative arrangements between (a) forces at the UK border and (b) police forces and the UK Border Agency have been (i) made and (ii) agreed to; and what timetable has been established for implementation of the proposals agreed to. [273027]

Jacqui Smith: The creation of the UK Border Agency allows us to establish a single and strong border force bringing together immigration and customs controls at our ports.

The role of the police and of other agencies in contributing to border security continues to be a high priority for us.

This year we will build on the high level Memorandum of Understanding between the UK Border Agency and the police published in 2008, in order to improve, strengthen and better coordinate border security arrangements. This will include increased opportunities for joint working including joint threat assessments and operations as well as secondments of UK Border Agency and police staff.

The National Coordinator (Protect), on behalf of the Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO), is closely involved in the planning for the border and setting consistent practices across port-based staff in forces across England and Wales.

Mr. Oaten: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department pursuant to the answer of 28 April 2009, Official Report, column 1187W, on immigration controls, when she expects the information on the resources required by the UK Border Agency to be finalised. [274170]

Mr. Woolas: The resource required to deliver the points based system which has five tiers, four of which are currently in operation includes both internal and commercial costs. It is not possible to disaggregate the resources required to operate individual tiers. The commercial costs of implementing PBS costs as a whole will not be known until spring 2010.

International Police Assistance Board

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what timetable has been set for the establishment of the International Police Assistance Board; and what goals she plans to set for the board. [273029]

Jacqui Smith: The International Police Assistance Board was established in July 2008. It is a senior cross-departmental and senior police service advisory body, chaired by the Association of Chief Police Officers. Its aims are to better co-ordinate delivery of HMG cross-departmental initiatives and police service professional interest overseas and to develop a strategic overview of UK aims in international police assistance.

Metropolitan Police: Information and Communications Technology

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department if she will make an assessment of the adequacy of the IT resources provided to Metropolitan Police officers in policing fraud. [273253]

Jacqui Smith: The Government allocate funding to police authorities as a whole. The allocation of resources is a matter for the Metropolitan Commissioner and the Metropolitan Police Authority, who are responsible for assessing local needs.

The Government have also specifically allocated £3.5 million to the Police Central e-crime Unit (PCeU) over three years from 2008-09, with the Metropolitan Police Service contributing £3.9 million over the same three year period. One of the main areas of work for the PCeU will be to support the National Fraud Reporting Centre in tackling electronic fraud.

Police: Disclosure of Information

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what reports she has received of allegations of information about environmental campaign organisations being passed by the police to energy companies. [273278]

Jacqui Smith: The Home Office has received no such reports.

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department whether any members of the police have met (a) representatives of EDF Energy, (b) representatives of other energy companies, (c) Thierry Lorho and (d) representatives of Kargus to discuss (i) Greenpeace and (ii) other environmental campaign organisations. [273279]

Jacqui Smith: The Home Office do not hold this information. Meetings held by the police with organisations are operational matters for the police force concerned. The police may provide protective security advice to any organisation where necessary.

Police: Procurement

Chris Grayling: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what steps her Department is taking to ensure that police force procurement processes are coordinated nationally; and what timetable has been set for achieving such coordination. [273022]

Jacqui Smith: The Association of Chief Police Officers (ACPO), with support from the National Policing Improvement Agency (NPIA), has recently completed a detailed analysis of the police service's spending on goods and services across all 43 forces in England and Wales and the British Transport Police. This is the first review of its kind in the public sector.

As a result of the review, ACPO and the NPIA are taking forward two areas of improvement:

Working with suppliers to increase standardisation of policy, processes and cost drivers (such as the removal of onerous terms and conditions).

Identifying areas of spend that are interchangeable with other providers/suppliers that show the greatest potential benefit from further collaboration and standardisation.

The NPIA and ACPO are finalising the plan for implementation of these improvement areas to capture the most significant efficiency improvements at both a national and regional level.

Vetting: Scotland

Chris Huhne: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department in respect of how many people each police force in England and Wales has provided information to assist with basic disclosure checks being undertaken by Disclosure Scotland. [273255]

Jacqui Smith: This information is not held centrally.

Vetting: Voluntary Work

Mr. Andy Reed: To ask the Secretary of State for the Home Department what assessment she has made of the effect of the introduction of the Independent Safeguarding Authority on trends in the levels of volunteering in sport; and if she will make a statement. [272405]

Mr. Malik: There is no reason to believe that the work of the ISA will have an adverse impact on volunteering. A single form will be available for applications to the new Vetting and Barring Scheme and for Criminal Records Bureau disclosures, and a single fee charged where applications are made at the same time. Applications will be free of charge to unpaid volunteers.

The regulatory impact assessment for the Scheme indicated that there would be some additional cost to volunteer organisers arising from the processing of applications by CRB-registered or umbrella bodies, some of whom charge a fee, but this is mitigated by the availability of a free on-line check to employers and users of volunteers once an individual is registered with the scheme.

Government recognise the vital role volunteers have in delivering sports activities. The Home Office, Department for Children, Schools and Families and Department of Health have been working with stakeholders, including sports and voluntary sector bodies and the Department for Culture, Media and Sport to ensure that their interests and concerns are reflected within the new scheme.

Part of this work will include issuing sector specific guidance.

INNOVATION, UNIVERSITIES AND SKILLS

Apprentices

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many persons who completed apprenticeships were unemployed one year after the end of the apprenticeship in each of the last three years. [274058]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 8 May 2009]: An apprenticeship is a work-based programme and apprentices must have a job or a work placement as a condition of completing their apprenticeship framework. Many will already be in permanent employment prior to the end of their apprenticeship.

Information on the immediate destinations of apprenticeships upon completion of their apprenticeship is not readily available. This type of information will in future be collected using the framework for excellence learner destination survey with the first results for all FE colleges and work based learning providers available in spring 2009. The survey will be conducted nine months after the end of the academic year and so will not relate exactly to 12 months after the completion of the apprenticeship.

The Government are committed to rebuilding apprenticeships. Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 65,000 to a record 225,000 apprenticeship starts in 2007/08. Completion rates are also at a record high with 64 per cent. successfully completing an apprenticeship—up from 37 per cent. in 2004/05.

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many apprenticeships were terminated by an employer on economic grounds in each of the last 12 months. [274059]

Mr. Simon [holding answer 8 May 2009]: We do not currently hold data centrally about the total number of apprentices made redundant. Working with the Learning and Skills Council (LSC) we have established a matching service to help apprentices at risk of redundancy to find alternative employment and to complete their apprenticeship. More generally, providers and the LSC have procedures to advise and relocate apprentices, in cases where providers or employers fail, to help ensure that they are able to continue in work and complete their apprenticeship. The £140 million package announced by my right hon. Friend the Prime Minister for an additional 35,000 apprenticeship places will help fund new provision in both the public sector and private sector, and will extend the opportunities available to people facing redundancy.

The Government are committed to rebuilding apprenticeships. Since 1997 we have witnessed a renaissance in apprenticeships from a low point of 65,000 to a record 225,000 apprenticeship starts in 2007/08. Completion rates are also at a record high with 64 per cent. successfully completing an apprenticeship—up from 37 per cent. in 2004/05.

Departmental Buildings

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what facilities there are in his Department's buildings for staff to stay overnight. [274063]

Mr. Simon: The Department's building services are provided through the Department for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform (BERR) and the Department for Children, Schools and Families (DCSF), which manage the buildings that DIUS occupies.

The National Measurement Office (NMO) occupies space in Teddington that is owned by DIUS but managed by the NMO.

Beyond being open for normal use in some cases, there are no overnight facilities in any of these buildings.

Departmental Furniture

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much each of his Department's agencies spent on furniture in each of the last five years. [273793]

Mr. Simon: The National Measurement Office (NMO) and Intellectual Property Office (IPO) have spent on furniture over the last five years as follows.

March to April financial years	National Measurement Office (NMO) (£)	Intellectual Property Office (IPO) (£)
2004-05	0	51,143
2005-06	0	52,961
2006-07	1,044	239,748
2007-08	1,801	200,800
2008-09	17,084	220,235
Total	19,929	764,887

Departmental Manpower

Mr. Hayes: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many of his Department's staff work overseas; and in which countries such staff are located. [274067]

Mr. Simon: Two members of DIUS staff are on loan to the Foreign and Commonwealth Office working as part of the Science and Innovation Network and based in posts overseas.

Departmental Mobile Phones

Mr. Hoban: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many (a) BlackBerry devices and (b) mobile telephones have been lost by (i) Ministers, (ii) special advisers and (iii) civil servants in his Department in each year since its creation. [274468]

Mr. Simon: According to our records, there have been no recorded instances of mobile phones (which were provided by the Department) being lost.

Our records show a total of six BlackBerry devices have been lost and not recovered. Two were lost in 2007 and four in 2008. There have been no reports of any BlackBerry devices being lost in 2009. All these devices were lost by civil servants. There were no losses by either Ministers or special advisers.

Departmental Stationery

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how much his Department spent on the purchase of (a) recycled office supplies in the last 12 months and (b) printer ink cartridges in each year since its creation. [274576]

Mr. Simon: The Department has spent as follows:

(a) Office paper and envelopes are the main recycled office supplies in the Department. Approximately £7,200 per year is spent on these items in London. A significant amount of paper is also used at the DIUS office in Sheffield, but the cost is not separately identifiable because office paper was provided by the Department for Children, Schools and Families as building manager until recently.

(b) Printer ink cartridges:

2007/08: £39,586

2008/09: £106,915.

Learning and Skills Council

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills what offices are (a) owned and (b) leased by (i) the Learning and Skills Council, (ii) his Department and (iii) the Higher Education Funding Council for England. [274233]

Train to Gain Programme

Alan Keen: To ask the Secretary of State for Innovation, Universities and Skills how many people in each constituency participated in training under the Train to Gain programme since the programme's inception. [274938]

Mr. Simon: I have placed a copy of a table, showing Train to Gain starts in each parliamentary constituency since the inception of Train to Gain, in the House Libraries.

TREASURY

Banks: Finance

Ms Keeble: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what (1) recent discussions he has had with representatives of UK Financial Investments Ltd. on the policy of (a) RBS and (b) HBOS on maintaining credit lines to existing commercial customers; [264831]

(2) what recent discussions he has had with representatives of UK Financial Investments Ltd. on the approach of (a) RBS and (b) HBOS in maintaining their existing loan portfolios. [264832]

Ian Pearson: The Government have regular discussions with UK Financial Investments Ltd. (UKFI). The framework agreement sets out the relationship between HM Treasury and UKFI, and is available at:

http://www.ukfi.gov.uk/

Gordon Banks: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer pursuant to the answer of 9 March 2009, Official Report, column 100W, on banks, if he will take steps to require information relating to pension arrangements of directors in banks supported through UK Financial Investments to be published more often than in annual reports and accounts. [265728]

Ian Pearson [holding answer 23 March 2009]: Government policy in relation to the disclosure of commercial information by state-controlled companies that are PLCs is that their approach to disclosure should follow the requirements for companies listed on the Stock Exchange, including the Combined Code on Corporate Governance and Directors' Remuneration Report Regulations. Government are following this same approach in relation to the disclosure of commercial information by banks commercially managed by UK Financial Investments (UKFI).

The Directors' Remuneration Report Regulations 2002 require all quoted companies to prepare an annual directors' remuneration report. The remuneration report must contain certain information in respect of each person who has served as a director of the company at any time during the relevant financial year. The details are available at:

http://www.opsi.gov.uk/SI/si2002/20021986.htm

Banks: Ireland

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will insure monies invested by British nationals in (a) the Bank of Ireland and (b) Anglo-Irish Bank. [270351]

Ian Pearson: Deposits with Bank of Ireland and Anglo Irish Bank are subject to the Irish Deposit Guarantee scheme.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether arrangements for the protection of deposits made in UK banks apply to UK holders of deposits in banks in the Republic of Ireland; and if he will make a statement. [270940]

Ian Pearson: The EC Deposit-guarantee Schemes Directive (94/19/EC) sets the minimum terms on which depositors are protected throughout the European Union and European economic area. Some member states have introduced higher limits.

Arrangements for depositors in Irish banks are a matter for the Irish Government.

Deposits in Irish banks are covered up to a level of €100,000 by the Irish deposit guarantee scheme, under the terms of the Deposit Guarantee Schemes Directive. In addition to the protection of the Irish Deposit Guarantee Scheme, the Irish Government announced on 30 September 2008 that it would guarantee certain deposits with Irish banks, including all retail deposits, until 29 September 2010.

James Brokenshire: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether his Department has had discussions with representatives of the Government of the Republic of Ireland on arrangements to protect deposits made by UK citizens with banks in the Republic of Ireland; and if he will make a statement. [271418]

Ian Pearson: Treasury Ministers and officials have discussions with a wide variety of organisations and international partners. As was the case with previous Administrations, it is not the Government's practice to provide details of all such discussions.

Departmental Correspondence

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what procedure his Department follows for dealing with complaints received (a) by e-mail, (b) by post, (c) by telephone and (d) via his Department's website. [274516]

Angela Eagle: HM Treasury's complaints procedure is set out on the HMT website under:

http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk/about_complaints.htm

Departmental Stationery

Sarah Teather: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department has spent on branded stationery and gifts for (a) internal and (b) external promotional use in each of the last five years. [273773]

Angela Eagle: I refer the hon. Member to the [illegible] I gave on 4 February 2008, Official Report, co[illegible] 828W, to the hon. Member for Fareham (Mr. Hoban).

Fiscal Policy

Dr. Kumar: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the Government plan to bring forward proposals for a second package of fiscal stimulus measures for the UK economy. [274089]

Ian Pearson: The Government have taken decisive action in response to the global economic crisis. The Budget in April announced targeted fiscal support for those most affected by the downturn and to ensure a sustained and sustainable recovery. These measures build on the fiscal stimulus announced in the PBR, along with the support provided by allowing the UK's relatively powerful automatic fiscal stabilisers to operate in full.

Furnished Holiday Lettings Scheme

Mr. Ellwood: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what discussions he has had with (a) the Secretary of State for Culture, Media and Sport and (b) representatives of the tourism industry before reaching decisions on the changes to the Furnished Holiday Lettings scheme announced in Budget 2009. [274682]

Ian Pearson: The changes to the Furnished Holiday Lettings rules were made following advice that the different treatments of furnished holiday accommodation in the UK and in the rest of the EEA may not be compliant with European Law. The decision to repeal the rules was taken in order to remove the unfair advantage that landlords of furnished holiday accommodation have over other landlords.

Industrial Health and Safety

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much his Department spent on compliance with requirements of health and safety at work legislation in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [274534]

Angela Eagle: This information is not available in the format requested, and could be provided only at disproportionate cost.

Interpal

Dr. Starkey: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what requests he has made to the US administration for details of the evidence on the basis of which the US authorities designated Interpal as a global terrorist organisation in 2003. [273733]

Ian Pearson: The US Department of Treasury issued a press notice on 22 August 2003, explaining the reasons why the US authorities designated Interpal.

HM Treasury officials are in ongoing discussions with their US counterparts about how best we can work together to facilitate legitimate charitable work, while protecting against the abuse of charities by those involved in terrorist finance. As part of this dialogue, the Treasury has asked the US authorities to consider if any further information can be made available about the basis for Interpal's designation.

Landfill Tax

Mr. Roger Williams: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer how much revenue accrued to the Exchequer from landfill tax in each of the last three years; and if he will make a statement. [274924]

Angela Eagle: Total tax receipts for 2006-07 to 2008-09 are published by HM Revenue and Customs at:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/stats/tax_receipts/table1-3a.pdf

Members: Correspondence

John Penrose: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer when he plans to reply to the hon. Member for Weston-super-Mare's letters of 2 December 2008 and 27 February 2009 sent on behalf of his constituent, Mr. Adrian Pritchard. [270093]

Ian Pearson: A reply has been sent to the hon. Member.

Natural Gas: Finance

Mr. Crabb: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether the cost of cushion gas used in gas storage infrastructure is considered to be capital expenditure for taxation purposes; and if he will make a statement. [267119]

Angela Eagle [holding answer 26 March 2009]: Cushion gas may be described as the volume of gas intended for long-term use in a gas storage facility, necessary to maintain pressure and to enable redelivery of the stored gas. As such, it is not acquired with a view to being re-sold as an incident of the storage trade, but with a view to being retained long-term as a fixed asset of the business. In those circumstances, the cost of acquiring it is normally capital expenditure for taxation purposes. However, the answer can depend on the particular facts of the case so if, for example, there is systematic evidence of the buying and selling of recoverable cushion gas (perhaps allied to an accounting treatment of the gas as trading stock) this may point to the expenditure being revenue expenditure for tax purposes.

State Retirement Pensions

Tom Brake: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer if he will make it his policy to freeze the rate at which pension years can be bought back at the rate applicable before 6 April 2009 in respect of persons who have attempted to buy back one or more years and have not had their application processed by the deadline. [273716]

Ian Pearson: HM Revenue and Customs have agreed that if a customer has requested a pension forecast before 6 April 2009 but receives the forecast after that date, it will accept payment of class 3 contributions at the pre 6 April 2009 rates, provided the payment is made within one calendar month of the customer receiving the forecast.

Tax Evasion

Dr. Evan Harris: To ask the Chancellor of the Exchequer what estimate he has made of revenue lost to the Exchequer as a result of tax evasion in 2008-09. [273635]

Mr. Timms: There are no estimates of the revenue lost specifically to tax evasion. HMRC published the latest available estimates of tax losses in the Autumn Performance Report 2008:

http://www.hmrc.gov.uk/about/autumn-report-2008.pdf

The estimates given in this report include evasion with other causes of losses.

WORK AND PENSIONS

Departmental ICT

John Thurso: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what steps he has taken to reduce the level of carbon dioxide emissions arising from the operation of ICT systems in his Department under the Greening Government ICT Strategy. [273567]

Jonathan Shaw: The Department does not own the equipment used to provide its ICT systems. The equipment is provided as part of a managed service by the Department's IT suppliers.

The Department has made great inroads in reducing its carbon footprint through active management of its IT services, since the end of 2005 when it re-aligned its contracts with BT and EDS. This work is continuing.

In the summer of 2008 the Department announced its strategy to re-compete its existing contracts over a five year period. A key element of this future contracting strategy is to contractually commit the IT providers to reduce the carbon footprint of the services they deliver to the Department.

The Department, along with others represented on the Chief Information Officers Council (CIO), have produced a "CIO Green ICT Roadmap" to deliver against the 18 target improvement areas outlined in the Greening Government ICT Strategy. A full report of the CIO Council Green ICT Roadmaps will be made available later in June featuring the action plans of all Departments involved in the council against the 18 steps.

Incapacity Benefit

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what the 10 most common medical conditions in respect of which incapacity benefit claimants received the benefit were in each of the last five years. [270499]

Jonathan Shaw: The classification identifies some conditions separately while others are grouped together in 'other' or 'miscellaneous' categories. Some of these grouped categories are among those with the highest caseload numbers. The level of detail of the supporting documentation may determine whether a case is allocated to a more specific category, or has to be put in a grouped category. Because of these grouped categories, we cannot be certain what the 10 most common medical conditions among incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance claimants are, only the most common conditions are separately identified.

Incapacity Benefit: Heart Diseases

Ann Winterton: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many incapacity benefit claimants had a recorded diagnosis which was or included a heart condition in each of the last five years; and how much was paid in such benefits to such claimants in each of these years. [270501]

Jonathan Shaw: Having a heart condition does not of itself confer entitlement to incapacity benefits. Until October 2008 the medical assessment of incapacity for work was the personal capability assessment. This assesses the effects of a person's condition on their ability to carry out a number of everyday activities relevant to work.

The information requested is in the following table.

Estimated incapacity benefits expenditure on claimants whose diagnosis includes heart condition (nominal terms)

	£ million
2003-04	363
2004-05	338
2005-06	317
2006-07	296
2007-08	279

Notes:
1. Incapacity benefits includes incapacity benefit and severe disablement allowance payable to working-aged adults.
2. Figures include incapacity related income support expenditure for incapacity benefit claimants.
3. Expenditure figures are rounded to the nearest £ million. Estimates are based on information from the Work and Pensions Longitudinal Study land published DWP benefit expenditure tables.
4. DWP benefit expenditure tables can be accessed at: http://www.dwp.gov.uk/asd/asd4/expenditure.asp

Estimated incapacity benefits case loads of claimants whose diagnosis includes heart condition (nominal terms)

	All
August 2004	76,130
August 2005	70,130
August 2006	64,730
August 2007	59,120
August 2008	53,550

Notes:
1. Case load figures are rounded to the nearest 10.
2. Causes of incapacity are based on the International Classification of Diseases, 10th Revision, published by the World Health Organisation.
3. To qualify for incapacity benefit/severe disablement allowance, claimants have to undertake a medical assessment of incapacity for work called the personal capability assessment. Therefore, the medical condition recorded on the claim form does not itself confer entitlement to benefit.

Jobcentre Plus: Standards

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what guidance his Department has issued to Jobcentre Plus on the priorities for processing different benefit claims within target timeframes. [271690]

Mr. McNulty: No guidance has been issued to Jobcentre Plus as there are no set priorities between different benefits. In 2008-09 Jobcentre Plus exceeded all of its targets for clearing claims for incapacity benefit, income support and jobseeker's allowance, despite a large increase in the numbers of people claiming jobseeker's allowance, implementing the new employment and support allowance, and maintaining historically low levels of fraud and error.

Jobcentre Plus: Vacancies

Mr. Clappison: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what his most recent estimate is of the ratio of jobseekers to vacancies in each (a) region, (b) local authority area, (c) Jobcentre Plus area and (d) parliamentary constituency. [262243]

Mr. McNulty: The information has been placed in the Library, and provides separate data for unfilled and notified vacancies to give the fullest picture of the number of Jobcentre Plus vacancies. The labour market is dynamic and many new vacancies are filled so quickly they do not appear in the statistics for live unfilled vacancies, which are based on a snapshot of the vacancies available on a particular day.

The coverage of these figures relates only to Jobcentre Plus notified and unfilled vacancies. Many vacancies come up through other recruitment channels and the proportion accounted for by Jobcentre Plus is likely to vary over time, according to the occupation of the vacancy and industry of the employer, and by local area. Estimates of the number of unfilled job vacancies across the economy as a whole are available from the monthly ONS Vacancy Survey, based on a sample of some 6,000 enterprises. However, the ONS survey is currently designed to provide national estimates only.

It should be noted that a simple comparison of Jobcentre Plus advertised vacancies to local areas is not the best measure of the work opportunities available to jobseekers. People will tend to look for work in a wider geographical area than a parliamentary constituency.

New Deal Schemes

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what contingency plans his Department has put in place to be invoked should delivery of flexible New Deal phase 1 not take place on the expected timetable. [271717]

Mr. McNulty: The Government remain committed to bringing in the Flexible New Deal (FND) phase 1 from October 2009. None of the bids received from shortlisted suppliers in the FND competition have indicated they could not start up by the expected date.

If a provider were to be unable to start delivery in October 2009, suitable contingency arrangements would be agreed for each Jobcentre Plus District involved. Customers would continue to receive support from Jobcentre Plus and have access to the additional support at six months, until the provider was ready to accept referrals.

Pathways to Work

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions (1) what estimate he has made of the average cost (a) per start and (b) per job of the Pathways to Work programme after its national roll-out; [266112]

(2) what estimate he has made of the cost per head of the Pathways to Work programme after its national roll-out. [266113]

Mr. McNulty: Figures are not yet available for the average costs of Pathways to Work since national rollout in April 2008. An independent report by the Institute for Fiscal Studies (Department for Work and Pensions Research Report 498) looked at the costs and benefits of Pathways in Jobcentre Plus pilot areas:

> they estimated the cost per Pathways participant (i.e. start) was £402; and > the Institute for Fiscal Studies study did not estimate costs per job entry, but did make an estimate of the total costs and benefits, from job entries. They concluded that for every £1 spent on Pathways, the Government gains £1.51 back in terms of saved benefit bills and increased tax income. This is based on a conservative assumption that Pathways impact on employment and off-flows lasts for only 70 weeks.

Statistics for Provider-led districts will be published in summer 2009.

Pension Credit

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions whether he plans to change the upper capital limit for pension credit for those who qualify for only the savings credit element; and if he will make a statement. [272002]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 30 April 2009]: There is no upper capital limit in pension credit. Those customers in receipt of the guarantee element of pension credit have linked entitlement to full eligible housing benefit and council tax benefit. However customers who are only in receipt of the savings credit element of pension credit are still subject to the upper capital limit of £16,000 in housing benefit and council tax benefit.

In the 2009 Budget the Chancellor announced that the capital threshold for pension credit (and housing benefit and council tax benefit for those who have attained the qualifying age for pension credit) will be increased from £6,000 to £10,000, bringing it into line with the threshold for those living permanently in care homes. This will allow these customers to retain up to £10,000 of capital before it affects their benefit.

The change will take effect from November 2009 and will apply to all pension credit customers, that is, to people in receipt of guarantee credit only, savings credit only or both guarantee and savings credit, as well as all pension age housing benefit and council tax benefit customers.

The Government recognise the importance of supporting pensioners appropriately through the economic downturn. Increasing the capital threshold from £6,000 to £10,000 represents a generous increase in the thresholds and means that the proportion of pension credit recipients who will see their capital fully disregarded rises to 88 per cent. Half a million pensioners stand to gain from this change, with an average weekly gain across all benefits of £4.

Social Security Benefits

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of claims for (a) jobseeker's allowance, (b) income support, (c) employment and support allowance, (d) pension credit and (e) carer's allowance delayed as a result of the misplacing of paperwork by his Department and its agencies in each of the last three years. [271687]

Mr. McNulty: The information requested is not collected centrally.

Social Security Benefits: Disqualification

Paul Rowen: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what mechanism there is for liaison between staff in Jobcentre Plus offices and local general practitioners on provisions in the Welfare Reform Bill relating to drug users. [272084]

Mr. McNulty [holding answer 30 April 2009]: Under the provisions, problem drug users will be required to agree a rehabilitation plan with a specialist contracted programme provider. Any need to liaise with medical practitioners as a result of this will only be done with the consent of the individual concerned.

Television: Licensing

Mr. Dismore: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions how many pensioners in Hendon constituency received free television licences in (a) 2007-08 and (b) 2008-09. [272301]

Andy Burnham: I have been asked to reply.

TV Licensing, which administers free television licences for people aged 75 or over as agents for the BBC, can provide breakdown only by postcode. However, according to the records of the Department for Work and Pensions the number of households with at least one person aged 75 or over claiming the winter fuel payment in the Hendon constituency in 2007-08 was 5,830. Figures for 2008-09 are still being compiled.

Vocational Training

Mrs. May: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what information his Department provides on (a) training courses and (b) funding for such courses to (i) Jobcentre Plus and (ii) careers advisers. [266121]

Mr. McNulty: The administration of Jobcentre Plus is a matter for the acting chief executive of Jobcentre Plus, Mel Groves. I have asked him to provide the right hon. Member with the information requested.

Letter from Mel Groves:

The Secretary of State has asked me to reply to your question asking what information his Department provides on training courses and funding both to Jobcentre Plus advisers and careers advisers. This is something that falls within the responsibilities delegated to me as Acting Chief Executive of Jobcentre Plus.

Jobcentre Plus Personal Advisers have access to a range of information on the training provision available locally and the eligibility conditions that apply. There are local partnerships agreements in place between each Jobcentre Plus District and the careers advisory services for young people to facilitate discussions on how best to support young people into appropriate employment, education and training.

Jobcentre Plus is working with the Learning and Skills Councils in England and trialling an integrated employment and skills system which improves the availability of information on learning opportunities to its advisers and those in other organisations. Early policy development discussions are being held with the devolved administrations with a view to trialling similar arrangements.

Welfare Tax Credits: Grandparents

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions if he will estimate the cost of introducing a national insurance credit for grandparents of working age who provide 20 hours or more childcare per week. [251938]

Ms Rosie Winterton [holding answer 27 January 2009]: Reforms to make the state pension fairer and more widely available will be implemented in April 2010 including a reduction to 30 qualifying years required for entitlement to the full basic state pension and reforms to the system for crediting those with caring responsibilities to reflect the different ways in which people contribute to society. As a result of these changes around 75 per cent. of women reaching state pension age from April 2010 will be entitled to a full basic state pension compared to 50 per cent. without reform. By 2025 over 90 per cent. of both men and women reaching state pension age will be entitled to a full basic state pension.

Building on these reforms, the Government announced in the Budget 2009 that working age grandparents and other adult family members, who care for their grandchildren or other members of their family aged 12 or younger for 20 hours or more a week, will be able to gain national insurance credits toward the basic state pension from April 2011 at an estimated total cost of £35 million to 2050 (Net Present Value, 2009-10 price terms).

Notes:

1. The estimate is consistent with Treasury Economic assumptions from the Budget Report 2009, are in 2009-10 prices, have been rounded to the nearest £5 million.

2. Estimates of the cost of particular elements of coverage reform, such as the "grandparent's credit", depend on the order in which they are modelled. Following the approach used in the Regulatory Impact Assessment accompanying the Pensions Bill, costs presented in this answer refer to the estimated expenditure on a "grandparent's credit" on top of the reforms to coverage set out in the Pensions Acts 2007 and 2008.

3. Figures quoted relate only to benefit expenditure and do not take account of administration costs.

Winter Fuel Payments

Steve Webb: To ask the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions what estimate he has made of the number of people in each (a) constituency and (b) weather station area who would be eligible for cold weather payments should temperatures fall below the trigger point. [249424]

Kitty Ussher: Estimates of the number of benefit units eligible for cold weather payments are not available by parliamentary constituency or local authority, but only by weather station. The available information is given in the following table:

FOREIGN AND COMMONWEALTH OFFICE

Afghanistan

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what funding his Department has allocated for operations in Afghanistan in each year since 2001; and what estimate he has made of his Department's expenditure on such operations in the next three years. [269921]

Bill Rammell: The information on the Foreign and Commonwealth Office's (FCO) funding for operations in Afghanistan, prior to 2006, is not held centrally and could only be obtained at disproportionate cost. However, we can provide the following data of FCO spend in Afghanistan for financial years 2006 to 2009 to show our major areas of spending up to the end of the current Comprehensive Spending Review period:

	2006-07	2007-08	2008-09	£ million 2009-10

British Overseas Territories

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many officials in his Department are engaged in work relating to overseas territories. [273194]

Gillian Merron [holding answer 7 May 2009]: There are 89 Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) officials employed directly on UK Overseas Territories' issues. In addition, other staff with wider FCO responsibilities are called upon as necessary when specific issues arise in the Territories requiring specialist knowledge and expertise.

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many of his Department's staff work on issues related to the UK Overseas Territories; and if he will make a statement. [273267]

Gillian Merron: There are 89 Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) staff employed directly on UK Overseas Territories' issues. In addition, other staff with wider FCO responsibilities are called upon as necessary when specific issues arise in the territories requiring specialist knowledge and expertise.

Departmental Rail Travel

Daniel Kawczynski: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what guidelines his Department has in place on train travel by its officials (a) in the UK, (b) between the UK and other countries and (c) overseas. [273679]

Gillian Merron: The Foreign and Commonwealth Office (FCO) guidelines for staff travelling by train are as follows:

Within the UK, all staff are entitled to First class rail travel where the one way rail journey time by the quickest and shortest route is two hours or longer according to the published arrival and departure times in the timetable. Standard class rail travel is used by all staff where the one way rail journey time is less than two hours unless there are exceptional circumstances (eg illness, disability) subject to approval by a manager.

Between the UK and other countries, and overseas, officers in band b (executive officer) and above may travel first class. All other staff travel second or standard class.

EU Institutions: Manpower

Mr. Davey: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs (1) what percentage of the staff of (a) European Union agencies, (b) the Council of the European Union, (c) the European Parliament and (d) the European Commission were UK nationals in each year since 1997; [270837]

(2) what percentage of new recruits to the staff of (a) European Union agencies, (b) the Council of the European Union, (c) the European Parliament and (d) the European Commission were UK nationals in each year since 1997; [270838]

(3) what percentage of the staff of (a) the European Parliament, (b) the Council of the European Union, (c) European Union agencies and (d) the European Commission (i) in total and (ii) above grade 14 are UK nationals. [270839]

David Miliband: The information required to respond to the first three parts of these parliamentary questions is owned by each EU institution, and it is more appropriate for the institution in question to be approached with any questions on the make-up of their own staff. The European Commission publish their staffing figures annually on the Europa Website:

http://ec.europa.eu/civil_service/about/figures/index_en.htm

The Government are clear that it is in the EU and UK's interests to have successful UK candidates working at the heart of the EU's institutions.

European Union

Mr. Evans: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on what dates he had (a) discussions and (b) meetings with the European Union Special Representative for Central Asia on the situation in the region in the last 12 months. [274805]

Caroline Flint: There has been no ministerial contact with the EU Special Representative (EUSR) for Central Asia in the last 12 months. However, senior officials have continued to meet the EUSR on a regular basis.

Hamas

Mr. Amess: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what discussions his Department had with the House of Commons authorities on the meeting held on the Parliamentary estate on 22 April 2009 involving a video link with a senior leader of Hamas; and if he will make a statement. [274027]

Bill Rammell: This Department made no representations to the House of Commons authorities regarding a video link meeting with a senior leader of Hamas on 22 April 2009. We are not aware of any representations received from right hon. Members, hon. Members or members of the public regarding this meeting. However, we have consistently called for Hamas to renounce violence, recognise Israel, and adhere to previous Palestinian agreements.

Hostages: British Nationality

Mr. Ancram: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many British citizens his Department has been informed are being held hostage abroad; in which countries they are being held; and for how long they have been held in each case. [273130]

Gillian Merron: As of 5 May 2009 the Foreign and Commonwealth Office is providing consular assistance to the families of eight British citizens being held hostage abroad. Five British citizens have been held in Iraq since May 2007, one in Somalia since April 2008, one in Nigeria since September 2008 and one in Mali since January 2009.

India: Religious Freedom

Mark Pritchard: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs if he will encourage the Indian government to implement the recommendations of the UN Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief arising from the report of her 2008 mission to India. [273271]

Bill Rammell: The UK continues to work through the European Union on a number of human rights issues as part of a continuing EU-India Human Rights Dialogue. The recommendations of the UN Special Rapporteur on freedom of religion or belief were identified by EU colleagues as a subject for discussion at the EU-India Human Rights Dialogue meeting in February 2009. It was agreed by both sides that there would be continued exchanges about discrimination, including on religious grounds. The recommendations will be a useful point of reference for future engagement with India on human rights issues.

Iran: Baha'i Faith

Harry Cohen: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what reports he has received of attacks on Baha'is in the Iranian town of Semnan on 25 February 2009; and if he will make a statement. [272573]

Bill Rammell: We have received a series of worrying reports regarding anti-Baha'i activities in Semnan, including looting, arbitrary arrests and the desecration of a Baha'i cemetery. In December 2008 agents of the Ministry of Intelligence raided 20 Baha'i homes in the town, and on 25 February 2009 at least two of these homes were subsequently attacked with petrol bombs.

We have expressed our concerns to the Iranian Government and called on Iran to put an end to the persecution of religious minorities and to respect and protect the right to freedom of religion and belief, as described in Article 18 of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, to which Iran is a State Party.

Iran: Nuclear Power

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs pursuant to the answer to the hon. Member for East Londonderry of 23 March 2009, Official Report, column 29W, on Iran, what his policy is on revisions to June 2008 E3+3 offer to Iran; and what recent discussions he has had with his US counterpart on this matter. [272914]

David Miliband: The E3+3 offer of June 2008 remains on the table and would provide Iran with everything it needs for a modern civil nuclear power programme as well as a range of economic and political benefits.

The fundamental approach of the E3+3 has not changed. The E3+3 made clear on 8 April 2009 that it is fully committed to the dual-track strategy of pressure and engagement. Our objective remains the suspension of the Iranian nuclear programme as a prerequisite before full negotiations can take place.

The decision of the US Administration to play a full part in future E3+3 negotiations with Iran presents Iran with a window of opportunity. If Iran suspends its nuclear enrichment programme and enters into talks, we can discuss the details of the offer in more detail. Iran has not yet taken any such steps. Iran should not expect the offer to be open-ended.

I have met Secretary of State Clinton on a number of occasions to discuss the US review of its Iran policy. Our most recent meeting was on 2 April 2009. Our officials are also in regular contact.

Iran: Sanctions

Mr. Hague: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs on how many occasions since 27 December 2006 the UN Sanctions Committee established pursuant to UN Security Council Resolution 1737 has exercised its mandate to designate additional (a) individuals, (b) equipment, (c) goods and (d) technology in relation to Iran's nuclear or ballistic missile programme; and if he will make a statement. [270975]

David Miliband: The UN Sanctions Committee established pursuant to UN Security Council Resolution 1737 has not added new designations under the original Resolution. However, the measures imposed by UN Security Council Resolution 1737 have since been strengthened by UN Security Council Resolutions 1747 (2007) and 1803 (2008), which expanded the lists of individuals, equipment, goods and technology subject to sanctions.

Pakistan: Politics and Government

Mr. Gordon Prentice: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs what recent representations he has made to his Pakistani counterpart on the political situation in Swat; and if he will make a statement. [271525]

Bill Rammell: My right hon. Friend the Foreign Secretary last discussed the situation in North West Frontier Province with Foreign Minister Qureshi on 25 April 2009. Officials based at our high commission in Islamabad also continue to hold frequent discussions about the political situation in Pakistan with a wide range of Pakistani Ministers, politicians and officials. The situation in Swat has been a regular theme of discussions. We have concerns about the recent peace agreement—an effective and sustainable peace deal is one which can end violence, not create space for further violence.

Turks and Caicos Islands

Mr. Keith Simpson: To ask the Secretary of State for Foreign and Commonwealth Affairs how many (a) officials and (b) experts have been sent to the Turks and Caicos Islands as part of his Department's Emergency State Building Team; what the duration of their stay is; and what remit the team has. [273270]

Gillian Merron: Two officials have been sent in succession, on a short-term basis, to the Turks and Caicos Islands to work at the Governor's Office.

Two technical experts have been sent to the Turks and Caicos Islands for a period of 12 months. One is to oversee the disbursement of funds from the UK's £5 million contribution to the Turks and Caicos Islands' Disaster Recovery Plan. The other is to work with the Ministry of Finance in support of the Turks and Caicos Islands' Fiscal Stabilisation Plan.

In light of the Commission of Inquiry's Final Report, which is due by 31 May 2009, the Government will need to give consideration to the provision of further experts.

DUCHY OF LANCASTER

Charities: Insolvency

Jenny Willott: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many registered charities declared themselves insolvent in each of (a) the last five years and (b) the last 12 months; and if he will make a statement. [272401]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the Charity Commission. I have asked the Commission to reply.

Letter from Andrew Hind, dated May 2009:

As the Chief Executive of the Charity Commission, I have been asked to respond to your written parliamentary question on how many registered charities declared themselves insolvent in each of (a) the last five years and (b) the last 12 months.

With regard to how many registered charities declared themselves insolvent in each of the last five years, the Charity Commission do not currently record this information centrally. However, the following tables which set out the number of charities who were removed from the register, in each year, since 2005 and each month since April 2008 and the reasons recorded for their removal. Our data on reasons for removal from the Register only goes back, in a comparable form, to 2005-06.

The following tables refer to those charities which are required to register with the Commission by law. Smaller charities are not required to register with us; the threshold for registration was an annual income of £1,000 until April 2007 when this threshold was increased to £5,000.

Charities removed from the Register due to insolvency are likely to have fallen under the category 'Ceased to exist or operate for other reasons'. However, it is unlikely that insolvency accounts for more than a small minority.

Reason for removal	2005-06	2006-07	2007-08	Total
Ceased to exist or operate due to merger, incorporation or transfer of funds	1,592	1,725	1,436	4,753
Ceased to exist or operate for other reasons	3,344	2,691	3,270	9,305
Voluntary removal of charities below the minimum registration threshold	28	8	245	281

The figures for 2008-09 show an increase over previous years as a result of our work to improve the accuracy of the Register of Charities. A key aspect of our strategy is the prompt removal of charities that are inactive and with which we can no longer establish contact. The marked peak in November 2008 is a direct consequence of this strategy.

I hope this is helpful.

Death: Alcoholic Drinks and Drugs

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many (a) alcohol and (b) illegal drug-related deaths there were in (i) Crosby constituency and (ii) Merseyside in the last 12 months. [273608]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many (a) alcohol and (b) illegal drug-related deaths there were in (i) Crosby constituency and (ii) Merseyside in the last 12 months. (273608)

The tables attached provide the number of deaths where (a) the underlying cause was alcohol related (Table 1) and (b) the underlying cause was drug poisoning, where any drug controlled under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971 was mentioned on the death certificate (Table 2), in Crosby constituency and Merseyside metropolitan county in 2007 (the latest year available).

Table 1: Number of alcohol-related deaths,[1] Crosby constituency and Merseyside metropolitan county[2], 2007[3]

Death: Nutrition

Mr. Burstow: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many deaths from malnutrition and the effects of hunger there have been in settings other than hospitals and private and public care homes in each Government Office region since 1997. [273544]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking how many deaths from malnutrition and the effects of hunger there have been in settings other than hospitals and private and public care homes in each Government Office region since 1997. (273544)

Malnutrition may be recorded as the underlying cause of death, but this is a rare occurrence. The 'effects of hunger', as the effects of malnutrition may be reported on a death certificate, is never recorded as the underlying cause of death, because it is defined by the International Classification of Diseases as a 'secondary cause' only. Consequently, deaths with any mention of either of these causes on the death certificate are reported together.

The attached tables provide the numbers of deaths in settings other than hospitals and private and public care homes where (a) malnutrition was the underlying cause of death (Table 1), and (b) malnutrition or 'effects of hunger' was mentioned anywhere on the death certificate (Table 2), for persons resident in each government office region in England, for the years 1998 to 2007 (the latest year available). Table 2 includes deaths where malnutrition was a complication of the underlying cause (for example cancer of the stomach) in addition to deaths where it was reported as the underlying cause.

Departmental Buildings

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how much his Department spent on building maintenance in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [274552]

Kevin Brennan: I refer the hon. Member to the answer given to the hon. Member for Ilford, North (Mr. Scott) on 28 January 2009, Official Report, column 676W.

Departmental Stationery

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how much his Department spent on the purchase of (a) recycled office supplies in the last 12 months and (b) printer ink cartridges in each of the last five years. [274206]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested for the Cabinet Office is not readily available and may not be obtained without incurring disproportionate costs.

Non-profit Making Associations: Bexley

Mr. Evennett: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what recent assessment he has made of the effect of the recession on not-for-profit organisations in the London Borough of Bexley. [273206]

Kevin Brennan: The Office of the Third Sector (OTS) is working with key partners to understand the impact of the economic downturn on third sector organisations. At present the available evidence is incomplete and it is too soon to fully evaluate the impact of the downturn on the sector at a constituency level.

The Government continue to take the difficulties many third sector organisations face during this recession very seriously, which is why the £42.5 million package announced in "Real help for Communities: Volunteers, Charities and Social Enterprises" provides targeted help for the sector to face these challenges. This package of support was designed together with third sector leaders and took into account submissions from over 80 charities. This action plan builds on the wide range of measures the Government have put in place to support people through the economic downturn, and on the Government's long-term commitment to voluntary organisations and social enterprises.

The OTS will continue to monitor this situation closely and work with its partners to share evidence on this issue and will host a sector-wide summit on the economic downturn in June. In addition, the Third Sector Research Centre will also be factoring the impact of the downturn into its analysis of the sector.

Pensioners: Merseyside

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what estimate he has made of the number of pensioners in households with a net income of less than £130 a week in (a) Crosby constituency and (b) Merseyside in each of the last five years. [273614]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent question asking what estimate he has made of the number of pensioners with a net household income of less than £130 a week in (a) Crosby constituency and (b) Merseyside in each of the last five years. (273614)

The information requested is not available.

Sexuality: Statistics

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster whether the Office for National Statistics' Sexual Identity Project has concluded; and if he will place in the Library a copy of the project's most recent report. [274079]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question on whether the Office for National Statistics' Sexual Identity Project has concluded; and if the most recent report will be placed in the Library (274079).

The ONS Sexual Identity Project formally concluded on 8 May 2009 with the publication of guidance on measuring sexual identity in social surveys and a report on a pilot survey which was used to inform the addition of the sexual identity question on all ONS social surveys in January 2009.

These reports are available on the National Statistics website at the following addresses:

Measuring Sexual Identity: A guide for researchers:

http://www.ons.gov.uk/aboutstatistics/measuringequality/sexualidentityproject/guidance/measuring-sexual-identity--a-guide-for-researchers.pdf

Developing survey questions on sexual identity: Report on the General Lifestyle (GLF) split-sample pilot:

http://www.ons.gov.uk/aboutstatistics/measuringequality/sexualidentityproject/questtestand-implem/index.html

Copies of these reports will be placed in the House of Commons Library.

In addition, ONS is planning to publish experimental statistics on sexual identity in Autumn 2009 with the aim of first national statistics estimates being available in 2010.

Skin Cancer

Sandra Gidley: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many (a) men and (b) women in each age group have been diagnosed with skin cancer in each of the last 10 years. [269789]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated April 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your recent Parliamentary Question asking how many (a) men and (b) women in each age group have been diagnosed with skin cancer in each of the last 10 years. [269789]

The latest figures for newly diagnosed cases (incidence) of malignant melanoma of skin registered in England are for the year 2006. Figures from 1997 to 2006 for (a) men and (b) women by age group are given in Tables 1 and 2.

Trading Funds: Accountancy

Mr. Todd: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster pursuant to box 3.A of the final report of the Operational Efficiency programme, what additional resources are to be made available to the Office of Public Sector Information to enable enhanced oversight of trading funds. [274198]

Mr. Wills: I have been asked to reply.

The Office of Public Sector Information (OPSI) will deliver enhanced oversight and governance from within existing resources. Balancing impact, priorities and resourcing continues to be a priority and OPSI will continue to focus on ensuring fair and transparent access to public sector information through the range of initiatives and responsibilities within OPSI's remit.

Unemployment

Bob Spink: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many (a) men and (b) women over the age of 50 years became unemployed in (i) England, (ii) Essex and (iii) Castle Point constituency in each of the last five years; and if he will make a statement. [273372]

Kevin Brennan: The information requested falls within the responsibility of the UK Statistics Authority. I have asked the authority to reply.

Letter from Karen Dunnell, dated May 2009:

As National Statistician, I have been asked to reply to your Parliamentary Question asking how many (a) men and (b) women became unemployed at an age of over 50 years in (i) England, (ii) Essex and (iii) Castle Point constituency in each of the last five years. (273372)

Estimates of the number of people aged 50 and over who are unemployed are routinely published, for example in the monthly Labour Market Statistics First Release, available on:

http://www.statistics.gov.uk

These include estimates of the duration of unemployment. However, there are no estimates available for the numbers becoming unemployed at an age of over 50 years in each year.

Mrs. Curtis-Thomas: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster how many (a) men and (b) women over 50 years old became unemployed in (i) Crosby constituency, (ii) Merseyside and (iii) England in each of the last five years. [273615]

Voluntary Organisations: Finance

Keith Vaz: To ask the Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster what proportion of funding from his Department for third sector organisations is allocated to organisations which operate only in the United Kingdom. [271487]

Kevin Brennan: The Office of the Third Sector does not fund programmes outside the United Kingdom. Records of which organisations it funds which also operate in other countries are not held centrally.

CHILDREN, SCHOOLS AND FAMILIES

Children In Care: Young Offenders

Andrew Rosindell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in care have a criminal record. [272868]

Beverley Hughes: The information asked for is not collected centrally by the Department.

Children: Care Homes

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what recent representations he has received on making information on the location of children's homes available to police forces; and if he will make a statement. [274180]

Beverley Hughes: The Secretary of State has not received any representations on making information on the location of children's homes available to the police.

Children's homes are required to notify the police where a child from the home has been involved in a serious incident. The home is also required to have effective protocols in place that involve the police for instances where children go missing from care.

Children: Databases

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families (1) what matters remain to be resolved regarding unshielded duplicate records of shielded children on ContactPoint; who is responsible for resolving them; and what steps he is taking to achieve a resolution; [271498]

(2) how many and which local authorities did not meet the 13 March shielding policies deadline for ContactPoint. [271499]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 27 April 2009]: The information needed for ContactPoint comes from existing systems, national and local. These data will be refreshed and updated automatically from these systems on a regular basis. We have received core information from four national data sources and this is the data set that all LAs have been working on to shield records. Work has also begun on the first updated data load from these sources, to ensure records held on ContactPoint are as accurate and up-to-date as possible.

We received a few reports of cases where updates from these sources may not be matching as expected. We took immediate action to investigate and initial indications are that matching is working correctly.

However, as a transitional precautionary measure, we have paused the ongoing data update feed while we investigate the instances reported to us.

This will minimise any risk to records that have been shielded.

Data feed from national systems will re-commence once all local authority ContactPoint management teams have been given access to ContactPoint.

DCSF continue to investigate the reports of duplicate records and will make changes as necessary.

We are taking a prudent and incremental approach to ContactPoint delivery. Local authorities provided a progress update on their shielding activity 13 March, which included whether they had robust arrangements in place to deal with shielding requests on an ongoing basis. Two thirds of local authorities confirmed that they had completed the required shielding actions. These responses were sent in confidence and as part of the normal, ongoing discussion between the Departments and local authorities and as part of the implementation process.

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of registered IP addresses from which ContactPoint will be accessible. [274724]

Beverley Hughes: There has been no estimate of the likely maximum number of registered IP addresses from which ContactPoint will be accessible. We expect that the majority of users will access ContactPoint via secure Government networks. The remainder will only be able to access ContactPoint from known, accredited computer systems.

Organisations that access ContactPoint via accredited computer systems will be asked to register IP address(es) for any computer that will be used to gain access. The number of IP addresses each organisation supplies will depend on many factors, including their network architecture. Some organisations will supply one IP address, others will supply a range.

Children: Human Trafficking

Margaret Moran: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what estimate he has made of the number of children recovered from trafficking activities who have subsequently gone missing from local authority care in the last 12 months. [273058]

Beverley Hughes: Although information is collected centrally about the number of children who go missing from their care placement, it is not possible to derive data from these statistics about the number who may have been trafficked before coming into care.

The information collected for 2007-08 can be found in Table LAB5 on the weblink as follows:

http://www.dcsf.gov.uk/rsgateway/DB/SFR/s000810/FinalDecemberTables.xls

Local authorities have a range of duties to support looked after children to ensure that their needs are met including that they are effectively safeguarded. The care plan of looked after children known to have been previously trafficked should include how to minimise the risk of traffickers being able to re-involve a child in exploitative activities and contingency procedures to be followed if the young person goes missing from care.

Children: Protection

Tim Loughton: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families pursuant to the answer of 14 January 2009, Official Report, column 548W, on children: protection, what legal qualifications the senior officials who supplied the professional advice on the publication of the serious case review have. [264255]

Beverley Hughes [holding answer 17 March 2009]: Ministers receive advice from officials with a range of relevant professional qualifications, including legal qualifications.

Coln House Special School

Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families whether he has received a proposal from Gloucestershire County Council to change the status of Coln House Special School. [274946]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: I can confirm that the Secretary of State has not, to date, received a copy of a statutory proposal notice relating to Coln House Special School.

The responsibility for considering formal proposals about school organisation is a local decision making process and is the responsibility of the LA. The independent schools adjudicator considers any appeals against proposals being made by a LA.

The Department has introduced guidance for LAs and other proposers on "Planning and Developing Special Educational Needs Provision". The guidance requires that when considering any reorganisation of special educational needs (SEN) provision proposers will need to demonstrate to parents, the local community and decision makers how the proposed alternative arrangements are likely to lead to improvements in the standard, quality and/or range of educational provision for children with SEN.

Departmental Complaints

Bob Spink: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families what procedure his Department follows for dealing with complaints received (a) by e-mail, (b) by post, (c) by telephone and (d) via his Department's website. [274530]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: Upon receipt of a complaint, no matter how it is received, the Department will respond within 15 working days. If it is not possible to give a full reply within this time, for example, if a complaint requires more detailed investigation, we will provide an interim response outlining what is being done to deal with the complaint, when a full reply can be expected and from whom.

Departmental Official Hospitality

Grant Shapps: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department and its predecessor spent on event management services in each of the last three years; and whether such services were supplied by external providers. [274961]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department's spend on event management services in each of the last three years cannot be collated without incurring disproportionate cost.

Departmental Pay

John McDonnell: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many staff employed in London on work contracted out by his Department earn less than £7.45 per hour. [274950]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: The Department currently pays all directly and indirectly employed staff working on its London site at least £7.45 per hour.

Departmental Stationery

Sarah Teather: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how much his Department and its predecessors have spent on branded stationery and gifts for (a) internal and (b) external promotional use in each of the last five years. [273776]

Sarah McCarthy-Fry: To provide a comprehensive answer would incur disproportionate costs.

Pre-school Education: Tamworth

Mr. Jenkins: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families how many children in Tamworth constituency took up free nursery places in each of the last 10 years. [274374]

Beverley Hughes: The Department publishes information on the part-time equivalent number of free early education places filled by three and four year-olds. This is derived by counting children taking up 12 and a half hours per week as one place, 10 hours per week as 0.8 places, seven and a half hours per week as 0.6 places, five hours per week as 0.4 places and two and a half hours per week as 0.2 places.

Table 1 provides this information for Tamworth parliamentary constituency area from 2004 to 2008. Data at parliamentary constituency level are not available prior to 2004.

Table 1: Part-time equivalent number of free early education places[1, 2, 3] filled by 3 and 4-year-olds: Parliamentary constituency, Tamworth—Position in January each year

	3-year-olds			4-year-olds
	Maintained nursery and primary schools[4]	Other maintained and private, voluntary and independent providers[5]	Total 3 year olds	Maintained nursery and primary schools[6]	Other maintained and private, voluntary and independent providers[7]	Total 4 year olds
2004	260	610	870	900	120	1,000
2005	310	590	910	900	140	1,000
2006	260	560	830	850	190	1,000
2007	310	650	950	760	190	950
2008	310	690	1,000	820	230	1,100

[1] A place is equal to 12.5 hours (five sessions) and can be filled by more than one child.
[2] Figures are rounded to the nearest 100 if they exceed 1000 and to the nearest 10 otherwise.
[3] Prior to 2004, information on early education places was derived from returns made by local authorities as part of the nursery education grant (NEG) data collection exercise. These data were collected at local authority level, therefore, data for this parliamentary constituency prior to 2004 is not available.
[4] Headcount of children aged three at 31 December in the previous calendar year. Data taken from the School Census.
[5] Part-time equivalent number of children aged three at 31st December in the previous calendar year. Data taken from the Early Years Census and the School Census.
[6] Headcount of children aged four at 31st December in the previous calendar year. Data taken from the School Census.
[7] Part-time equivalent number of children aged four at 31 December in the previous calendar year. Data taken from the Early Years Census and the School Census.

The latest figures on early education places for three and four year olds in England were published in Statistical First Release (SFR) 12/2008 "Provision for children under five years of age in England: January 2008", available on the Department's website

Runaway Children

Ann Coffey: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families which local authorities will be assessed under national indicator 71 on young people who run away from home or care. [274179]

Beverley Hughes: As part of the monitoring of performance under national indicator 71, all local authorities must provide quarterly self-assessments on the extent to which their Children's Trust, local Safeguarding Children's Board, or other delegated body has a picture of patterns of running away in their area; of how this information informs local service provision; and of what procedures are in place to respond to the needs of young runaways.

One local authority—Warwickshire—has selected national indicator 71 as one of indicators for which a specified target for improvement is attached, as part of their local area agreement.

Supporting People Programme

Helen Southworth: To ask the Secretary of State for Children, Schools and Families in which local authority areas children's services work directly with the Supporting People programme to commission accommodation support services for (a) young people at risk and (b) care leavers. [271342]

Beverley Hughes: In May 2008, DCLG and DCSF jointly issued guidance "Joint working between Housing and Children's Services—Preventing homelessness and tackling its effects on children and young people". This asks LA children's services and housing services, including services funded by Supporting People, to establish a joint approach to prevent young people with housing needs being passed between services unnecessarily and to maximise positive accommodation outcomes for them. Specific guidance was given on supporting care leavers.

Information about the how such partnerships operate locally is not collected centrally.

SOLICITOR-GENERAL

Council Tax: Second Homes

Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Solicitor-General how many people have been prosecuted for a false claim for a council tax discount on a second home in the last year for which figures are available. [274084]

John Healey: I have been asked to reply.

The administration of council tax is a matter for individual local authorities and data on prosecutions are not collected centrally.

HEALTH

Out-of-hours GP Care

8. David Taylor: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent representations he has received on the performance of private healthcare companies contracted to provide out-of-hours GP care. [274105]

Mr. Bradshaw: We have had no recent correspondence on the general issue of private healthcare companies contracted to provide out of hours general practitioner care. However, we have had correspondence on the Dr. Daniel Ubani case.

Neither the National Audit Office report on out of hours services from May 2006 nor the Healthcare Commission review of Urgent and Emergency care from September 2008 reported any evidence that independent sector providers delivered a lower quality of out of hours care.

GP Access

12. Mr. Harper: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps he is taking to ensure that patients resident in border areas of England have access to a GP registered in England. [274109]

Mr. Bradshaw: We are aware of a small number of cases where patients resident in England, registered with a general practitioner (GP) in Wales, have had difficulty switching to an English GP because they do not live within any English GP practice's boundaries.

This was discussed with Gloucestershire NHS during a visit to the Forest of Dean last week and they will seek to resolve the case of the particular couple the hon. Gentleman has raised. They also intend surveying all Gloucestershire residents registered with GPs in Wales to measure how many might wish to change and will consider providing new GP services in the area covered.

Specialist Hospitals

13. Andrew Selous: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his policy is on the future of specialist hospitals within the NHS. [274110]

Mr. Bradshaw: The organisation of services to deliver high quality care is the responsibility of the local and regional NHS. There can be a strong future for specialist hospitals but this will depend on their providing services that the NHS wishes to commission and which are sustainable.

Maternity Services

14. Angela Watkinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of the adequacy of the level of provision of maternity services in (a) Upminster and (b) England. [274111]

Phil Hope: In 2008, the Healthcare Commission published 'Towards better births, a review of maternity services in England' which assessed the quality, capability and efficiency of maternity services in England.

There has been no local assessment of maternity services in Upminster specifically, but a general assessment of midwifery services in the area highlighted the need for more resources in midwifery and support services. Investment and recruitment plans are already in place to address this issue.

22. Mr. Stewart Jackson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his latest assessment is of the adequacy of maternity services in (a) Peterborough constituency and (b) England. [274120]

Phil Hope: In 2008, the Healthcare Commission published "Towards better births, a review of maternity services in England" which assessed the quality, capability and efficiency of maternity services in England.

Peterborough Primary Care Trust commissions most of its maternity services from Peterborough and Stamford Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust. This includes the births at home, within the midwifery led unit and in the obstetric unit. The caesarean section rate is one of the lowest in the country.

Mr. Holloway: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his latest assessment is of the adequacy of maternity services in (a) Gravesham and (b) England. [274113]

Phil Hope: In 2008, the Healthcare Commission published 'Towards better births, a review of maternity services in England' which assessed the quality, capability and efficiency of maternity services in England.

The South East Coast Strategic Health Authority undertook a needs-assessment of maternity services across west Kent in 2008.

Cervarix Vaccine

15. Mr. Blunt: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what steps his Department has taken to investigate recent reports of partial paralysis and severe chronic fatigue syndrome experienced by a number of girls shortly after receiving the Cervarix vaccine. [274112]

Dawn Primarolo: The Medicines and Healthcare products Regulatory Agency (MHRA) considers the safety of vaccines to be of paramount importance and has in place a proactive strategy to monitor the safety of Cervarix vaccine as girls are immunised in the United Kingdom.

To date almost one million doses of Cervarix have been given in the UK and there is no evidence to suggest that Cervarix vaccine has caused chronic fatigue syndrome, paralytic disorders or any other serious or long-term side effects.

NHS Dentistry

16. Mr. Swayne: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what estimate he has made of the number of people not registered with an NHS dentist. [274114]

Dawn Primarolo: 52.9 per cent. of the population of England saw a national health service dentist in the 24 months ending September 2008.

We have increased dental funding to over £2 billion and made it a national priority in the NHS operating framework that primary care trusts commission services to ensure access to anyone who seeks help in finding an NHS dentist. The NHS is planning that all PCTs will deliver this by March 2011.

19. Mr. Hollobone: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his estimate is of the ratio of NHS dentists to residents in (a) Kettering, (b) Northamptonshire and (c) England; and if he will make a statement. [274117]

Dawn Primarolo: The information is only available to primary care trust (PCT) level. As of 31 March 2008 there were 41 national health service dentists per 100,000 patients in England. In Northamptonshire PCT there were 38.

The dental work force is growing. The same data show that there were 655 more dentists working in the NHS in 2007-08 than there were in the previous year.

Allergy Services

17. Jo Swinson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the outcome of the specialist allergy services hub pilot in the north-west; and if he will make a statement. [274115]

Mr. Bradshaw: NHS North West have spent the last nine months developing a model for networked allergy services, to be launched in October 2009.

Means of assessing the effectiveness of this model are being integrated into service planning. The strategic health authority (SHA) will liaise regularly with fellow SHAs to share early learning.

Thalidomide

18. Natascha Engel: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what funding his Department provides specifically to support those people affected by thalidomide. [274116]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer my hon. Friend to the oral answer I gave earlier today.

Hospital Acquired Infection

20. Mr. Robathan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what his latest estimate is of the number of people who (a) acquired infections and (b) died from infections acquired in hospital in the last 12 months. [274118]

Mr. Bradshaw: Best available surveillance data show 3,208 methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus (MRSA) and 40,704 Clostridium difficile (C. difficile) reports in 2008 and 910 Glycopeptide resistant Enterococci reports in October 2006 to September 2007 and 418 surgical site infections in orthopaedic surgery in April 2007 to March 2008.

In 2007, the Office for National Statistics recorded 460 deaths where MRSA and 4,056 deaths where Clostridium difficile was mentioned on the death certificate as the underlying cause.

Latest figures show MRSA infections are down 38 per cent. on the same quarter in 2007, and C. difficile infections in patients over two years old are down 35 per cent. on the same quarter in 2007.

NHS Hospitals: Bexley

21. Mr. Evennett: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what recent assessment he has made of the performance of NHS hospital services in Bexley. [274119]

Mr. Bradshaw: Annual assessment of performance is undertaken by the Care Quality Commission, formerly Healthcare Commission. Their last report was published in October 2008.

The details for the hon. Gentleman's local hospital and primary care trust are available on the new regulator the CQC's website www.cqc.org.uk

and on NHS Choices

www.nhs.uk.

Social Enterprises

23. Mr. Drew: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what progress has been made in developing the role of social enterprises in the provision of NHS healthcare. [274121]

Phil Hope: In support of the "Right to Request" commitment, we have produced guidance and templates and we are working with NHS Pensions, commissioners and our pathfinders to further increase understanding and capacity.

Through the Social Enterprise Investment Fund, the Department has so far invested £20 million in 200 start-up and existing social enterprises.

Prescription Costs

24. Mr. Graham Brady: To ask the Secretary of State for Health if he will review the pricing of pharmaceutical specials on NHS prescriptions for the purpose of identifying savings in prescription costs. [274122]

Dawn Primarolo: I refer the hon. Member to the oral answer given to him earlier today.

Tuberculosis

Julie Morgan: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what assessment he has made of the merits of introducing a national target for reducing the incidence of tuberculosis. [274104]

Dawn Primarolo: The national health service next stage review considered all aspects of healthcare including tuberculosis and the need to set new targets. It introduced no new national targets, to ensure that the NHS continues to focus on the small number of targets in the NHS operating framework. Where the incidence of tuberculosis is a local issue, primary care trusts are empowered to deal with it.

Alcoholic Drinks: Children

James Brokenshire: To ask the Secretary of State for Health how many children aged under 10 years attended hospital accident and emergency departments where the primary or secondary diagnosis was alcohol-related in each health trust area in each of the last three years. [273862]

Dawn Primarolo: The information requested on alcohol-related attendances in accident and emergency departments is not collected centrally.

Cancer: Health Services

Dr. Gibson: To ask the Secretary of State for Health what plans (a) his Department and (b) the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence has to provide (i) cancer and (ii) cancer-related lymphoedema patients equal access to specialist NHS treatment in each region. [273671]

Dawn Primarolo: It is the responsibility of primary care trusts to make decisions on the commissioning of lymphoedema services based on guidance already issued by the National Institute for Health and Clinical Excellence
